Krupp Works Paris Plant Targets Again

R.A.F. Back On 24-Hour Bombing Raids, Crippling Hun Supply

LONDON, March 9 —(CP)—The Royal Air Force hammered at Essen, the home of Germany's great Krupp Munitions Works, last night, keeping up a 'round-the-clock schedule of air blows at industrial centres behind the German lines, the air ministry announced today.

Essen, to which the R.A.F. was returning for the first time since last Nov. 8 and 9 when the Krupp Works also were heavily bombed, was the chief target of night raiders which spread over the industrial Ruhr district. Nazi airfields in occupied Holland and France and docks at Ostend and Le Havre also were bombed.

Eight British bombers were lost.

British bombers continued their daylight offensive over northern France today. Heavy anti-aircraft fire was heard from across the Channel at a southeastern coastal town in England.

Soon after the gunfire, R.A.F. planes came speeding back from the direction of Boulogne-Sur-Mer.

The assault followed a daylight raid on the Matford plant at Poissy yesterday—the second R.A.F. assault in six days on factories in the Paris area supplying the Nazi war machine—and was described as "on much the same scale" as the heavy pounding of the Renault works near Paris last Tuesday night.

Flames spurting up so high that low-flying British fliers could look up at them were left by the R.A.F. at the Matford plant.

The Motor Truck factory, eight miles west of the German-occupied French capital, reputed to produce 20 trucks a day for Germany, was hit directly by bombs and others burst in an adjacent truck yard, the air ministry announced.

Peterborough Passes Three Million Mark In Canada's Second Victory Loan

Peterborough City and County smacked the Hitler-Mussolini-Hirochito trio a stinging uppercut over the week-end with the announcement that the Second Victory Loan had gone over the top in a dazzling manner, reflecting credit on every man, woman and child in the district, and maintaining this part of Eastern Ontario as one that is pulling its weight one hundred per cent. in the war effort.

Up to midnight on Saturday when the Loan officially closed, the returns had sent the total skyrocketing up to $3,002,500, and by noon today a new total of $3,027,900, due almost entirely from late returns from the district, had been chalked up. G. N. Brown, local organizer, said that this represented practically the entire returns as only a few minor subscriptions were still to come in.

It was a heart-warming expression of confidence by the people of Peterborough in the men who are directing the war, and proves beyond doubt that the majority of the people are keenly aware of the great and growing danger that threatens Canada.

From a population of 44,383 people there were 10,534

McNaughton, FDR Talk War

(By J. F. SANDERSON.)

WASHINGTON, March 9—(CP). —Lt.-Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton, Commander of the Canadian Corps, said today that he will return to Britain within "a matter of days."

Gen. McNaughton made this announcement on leaving the White House where he conferred for 45 minutes with President Roosevelt.

He said he would have returned to British by this time but for the opportunity to discuss the progress of the war with the President and high British and American military leaders in Washington.

What passed between the Canadian Commander and the President could not be disclosed, Gen. McNaughton declared when he emerged from Mr. Roosevelt's study accompanied by the Canadian Minister, Hon. Leighton McCarthy.

Earlier in the day he had a long conference with Gen. George Marshall, United States Chief of Staff, and also held discussions with British officers including Field Marshal Sir John Dill, Britain's representative in the Chiefs of Staff Committee; Lt.-Gen. Sir Colville Wemyss, head of the British military mission here, and Air-Marshal Douglas Evill.

Gen. McNaughton said he was particularly happy to renew acquaintance with Sir John Dill who was one of the original staff officers when the Canadian Corps was formed in 1916.

"He has been one of my closest friends since then," he said.

The Canad'an commander announced he will hold a general press conference here tomorrow at 3:30 p.m.

MOSCOW, March 9—(AP).—Russian soldiers fighting unceasingly in the snow to weaken the expected German spring offensive here captured the city of Sychevka, driving a wedge midway between the Nazi strongholds of Rzhev and Vyazma on the central front.

Dispatches from the wintry battleline yesterday told of the sweep of the Red army into the city 125 miles due west of Moscow after a two-day battle in which it was stated virtually all of the 15,000 men of the German 48th Division were wiped out.

The Russians are said to be meeting more and more German reserves on the central front, with Hitler drawing heavily on his strength in the "deep rear."

On the Leningrad front where the Russians have been battering at the Nazi siege ring, the Soviet information bureau said 2,500 enemy soldiers and officers had been wiped out in three days of fighting.

(The staggering cost Germany is paying in Russia was told in a Berlin dispatch to the Berne newspaper Der Bund. It reported official Berlin circles acknowledged total German losses of 1,500,000 soldiers since the invasion began last June 22 but said the Germans insisted these losses were "absolutely bearable."

(Before that the last German word on losses in Russia was a statement by Hitler, December 11, when he

War In Pacific At New Stage

(By DEWITT MACKENZIE.)

With the Japanese defeat of Java an accomplished fact for all practical purposes, the Battle of the Pacific enters a second phase—the effort of the Mikado's forces to consolidate their great gains before retribution overtakes them, and the development of an Allied initiative which will operate from Australia and in due course will grow into a counter-offensive.

Unless the signs are all set wrong, the foundations of a powerful base already have been laid in Australia, and further United States reinforcements may be expected in the immediate future.

This vast continent will provide the headquarters from which Allied warships and warplanes will harass the Nipponese in their recent conquests, and raid the attenuated lines of communication between Indonesia and Japan.

One of Japan's great weaknesses will lie in those sea-lanes, more than 3,000 miles in length. Unless she can keep them open, and provide ships from her already severely hit fleet to carry supplies, her conquests instead of providing vast resources will be a millstone about her neck. Australia is the storm centre which the Nipponese must now watch.

Spread Very Thin.

Because the Japs already have spread themselves over the southwest Pacific as thin as butter on a circus sandwich, one would think

Bitter Struggle On To Save Troops In Rangoon Section

NEW DELHI, India, March 9—(CP) — British headquarters announced today that British forces were withdrawn from Rangoon, Burma, after carrying out essential demolitions.

LONDON, Mar. 9 — (CP). — The War Office said at 5:30 p.m. to-day (12:30 p.m. EDT) that it was still in communication with Rangood, Burma, which the Japanese say they have captured.

Reports reaching here said the centre of fighting on the Burma Front still is in the Pegu district, 40 miles north of Rangoon, where the British tanks are bearing the brunt of a defensive stand directed by Lt.-Gen. Sir Harold Alexander, the newly-appointed Commander in Burma.

Japanese patrols are reported to have cut the Rangoon-Mandalay railroad at two places. The commentator said the invaders probably are attempting to infiltrate through the heavily-wooded hills north of Pegu in an effort to cut another road which angles northwest from Rangoon to Prome on the way toward India.

The commentator declared that the defenders of Burma "have been fighting very hard, and will continue to fight very hard."

Hold Jap Pincer Off.

WITH THE BRITISH FORCES IN BURMA, Mar. 8 — (Delayed) — (AP). — British tank units battled savagely to-day to stave of fa Japanese pincer movement directed at cutting off the defenders of Rangoon from the British army in Central Burma.

(Imperial Japanese headquarters claimed the fall of Rangoon at 10 a.m. yesterday, the day this dispatch was filed.)

The struggle for Rangoon's back door—the flat dry rice lands extending 50-odd miles from Pegu to the city limits—entered its eighth day with British tanks and infantry still reported holding the Japanese in check.

British sweeps once hurled the numerically superior enemy back to the Sittang River.

A Japanese patrol of perhaps 100 riflemen was reported unofficially to have slipped across the main road north of Rangoon and Pegu, apparently in an attempt to join forces with native bands operating in the marshes near the Irrawaddy River

WASHINGTON, March 9—(AP).—The United States War Department announced to day that the Japanese conqueror of Malaya, Gen. Tomoyuki Yamashita, had been transferred to command of the invaders in the Philippines.

Gen. Yamashita succeeds Lt.-Gen. Masaharu Homma, who is reported to have committed suicide because of chagrin over his failure to destroy Gen. Douglas MacArthur's outnumbered defending force.

New Jobs Sought For Rubber Footwear Trade

OTTAWA, March 9.—(CP).—Munitions Minister Howe announced to-day that steps are being taken to provide work for the rubber footwear industry and its employees, both of whom are affected by shortages in supplies of rubber.

"A variety of steps now are in progress to provide work for the rubber footwear industry and its workers, some of whom may have to be placed elsewhere," Mr. Howe said.

Neither the minister nor department officials would elaborate on this statement.

The minister's message was transmitted earlier to-day to Kitchener, Ont., where rubber footwear workers have indicated their concern over prospective loss of employment.

In Other Positions

KITCHENER, Ont., March 9 (CP) —Hon. C. D. Howe, Minister of Munitions and Supply, in a telephone statement to the Kitchener Record, said today "a variety of steps are now in progress to provide work for the rubber footwear industry and its workers, some of whom may have to be placed elsewhere."

F. L. Jeckell, Director General of Industry and sub-contract co-ordination branch of Mr. Howe's department, presided at a meeting here last Thursday to discuss the problems caused by the rubber shortage with managements of the Kitchener Footwear Industries and representatives of Labor.

Mr. Howe said Mr. Jeckell had stated that "present plans indicate that a technical committee representing the rubber footwear industry would be set up, which in turn would appoint a technical co-ordinator to act jointly with the Department of Munitions and Supply in an attempt to convert existing faci-

General Surrender Is Denied As Dutch Governor Escapes By Air To Australia

Claims Java Remnants Will Fight To Death Reveals Bitterness Over Delay Smallness Of Reinforcements Sent Isle

LONDON, March 9—(CP).—Japanese invaders overrunning the final citadel of Java have captured the war capital of Bandung and their imperial headquarters claimed today they had forced the unconditional surrender of 93,000 Indies and 5,000 United States, British and Australian troops.

Netherlands authorities stoutly denied there had been any general surrender, but in Adelaide, Australia, Lieut.-Governor-General Hubertus van Mook told of the fall of Bandung.

"But our people are battling on with the resources they have left," he added.

The Tokyo announcement heard here said the defending troops capitulated near Bandung and near the naval base of Surabaya at 3 p.m. (presumably Tokyo time, or 2 a.m., EDT).

Bandung was headquarters of the Indies army and also the arsenal of the rich island populated by 48,000,000.

Van Mook, who arrived in Adelaide Australia, in an airplane with 14 other Netherlands officials, said a fair number of naval personnel has escaped from Java.

'We are here to carry on the fight and not to sit and mope." he said.

Escaped by Last Airfield.

Van Mook said his plane took off from "the last strip of runway available." His Chief of Air Staff was among those acompanying him.

"We are here to collect all the forces we can get together to continue the struggle," he declared.

"A fair number of naval personnel have escaped. They want someone to rally them. I am sure we can carry on the fight.

"There are about eight Japanese divisions (from 120,000 to 160,000 men) in Java—many more than we had."

He added that the Australians "must try to get what we did not have—materials and fresh support."

"The best plan seems to be to try and cripple the enemy's sea forces and transport if it comes a long way from its bases," Van Mook said. "There should be an end to the retreating."

"There is no use hiding the fact that there is bitterness in some places in Java, but our people understand the difficulties of getting things moving," Van Mook added. "The Allies, however, must understand there was an expectation of more help than arrived.

Quality Good But Too Few

"American ships and Australian troops did their best and there is no doubt about their quality, but it was a cose of too little and too late. I am not a soldier, but I think Japan's allies would rather had her move northward and westward than southward.

"A large-scale attack on Australia, however, would be very difficut from Japan's point of view as she would be further from her base. It is more likely that she will try to be a nuisance to the cities and supply centres."

Jap Specialists Nab Booty Lull Conquered

(By FRANK L. MARTIN.)

NEW YORK, March 9—(AP). — Only a few hours behind rolling Japanese assault forces moves another service under the Emperor—the "Special Service" Corps.

Not a branch of the army or navy, but a separate well-trained, highly-specialized unit, this corps is assigned the job of quickly bringing order to a war-ravaged city, establishing a temporary administratisve system, seeking out and seizing any booty and seeing that it systematically moves to hundreds of points in the fast growing Japanese empire where the demand for finished and raw materials is the greatest.

This wartime government service is composed of politicians, bankers, merchants, transportation experts, promotion men and language students who, before being drafted by their government, held high positions in well-known business houses in Japan.

Plenty of Training

Like the army it has had more than 10 years of training in Mukden, Peiping, Tientsin, Hankow, Greater Shanghai, Canton and many smaller cities captured by Japan.

It is certain that today the corps is at work in Manila, Singapore and

Near-Hurricane Whips Toronto

TORONTO, March 9—(CP). —A southwest wind which at times reached near-hurricane proportions, lashed Toronto's lakefront to-day and swept across the city.

Electric signs crashed to the pavement in many sections of the city, trees were uprooted and bricks were blown off the tops of some older buildings. One woman was slightly injured when she fell on the sidewalk as she successfully got out of the way of a falling sign.

Huge waves broke against the waterfront breakwater and at suburban Etobicoke waves, pounding in from the lake, met ice coming out of a creek. This set up a rumbling and grinding noise which disturbed many residents in the vicinity most of the night. The ice in the creek had been dynamited last week to relieve flood conditions which existed in its vicinity.

Potato Prices Set By Board

OTTAWA, March 9.—(CP.)—The price ceiling on potatoes has been reestablished, the Wartime Prices and Trade Board announced Sunday.

Fresh fruits and vegetables in general were removed from the price ceiling list Dec. 11. Since then potato prices have risen substantially and, the Board said, recently there has been come evidence of speculative buying with resultant higher prices to consumers.

"Consequently action has been taken to stabilize potato prices at levels not higher than the highest prices prevailing during the week ending Feb. 7, 1942, the Board said. On the Peterborough market that week potatoes were quoted at 1.65 to $1.75

Aussies Down 9 In Libya Scrap

CAIRO, Egypt, March 9.—(AP).—British patrols and columns forced several enemy units supported by artillery to withdraw, along the Libyan front, a Middle East Headquarters communique reported today.

No further word has been heard from a Free French raiding party which smashed three fortified positions in the great Fezzan oasis 500 miles south of Tripoli, after a 1,200 mile march from Lake Chad in French equatorial Africa.

All Aussies Become Pawns for Victory

SYDNEY, Mar. 9 — (CP). — Australia, threatened with imminent Japanese invasion, is prepared to require any citizen to do any job for which the Government considers him—or her—suitable in a total mobilization of her greatly-increased economic power but comparatively meagre manpower.

Already every man and woman up to the age of 65 has been ordered to register and any attempt to bargain for workers' services has been blocked effectively by pegging wages.

In addition, all men between the ages of 18 to 60 are subject to call for service in labor battalions. Here they will be under military control, will receive military pay, and will be sent wherever they are needed for work on strategic projects.

The national manpower register will be the only channel through which either private industry or Government agencies will be able to engage workers. The Government will have the final word on whether a man should go into the home army, into Government work or private industry.

Some 200,000 Australians — of a total population of 7,000,000— now are estimated to be engaged directly or indirectly in war production.

Minimum base pay in the major industries in Australia's metropolitan areas—where many non-essential industries already have been closed to make the workers available for munitions and other vital plants—is $17.40 a week.

The average soldier's pay, which will be the standard for the labor battalions, is $1.60 a day, of which 20 cents is deferred for payment after the war.

Service abroad in the armed forces remains voluntary. But men liable to Militia duty probably will be given their choice of going into the Army or joining the Labor Corps.

In the face of a constant and increasing call for sacrifices, the Australian people are responding readily. Prime Minister John Curtin's War Cabinet already has approved in principle the ban of all public holidays until June 30, with the exception of Good Friday and Easter Sunday.

This move first was introduced last Christmas, and it is felt it must be continued while the need for munitions and other war materials continues to be so urgent. Under the ban the workers will lose five holidays — Labor Day, also called "Eight-Hour" Day; Easter Monday, Easter Tuesday, Anzac Day, and the King's Birthday.

Taxation already is heavy, yet there is general belief it has by no means reached its peak.

So far there has been no actual rationing of foodstuffs, but there has been enforced reduction in consumption of such items as tea, tinned foods and imported condiments.

Paper is becoming scarcer every day with the result that customers now must carry home all but perishable goods without wrapping.

Newspapers, which depend chiefly on Canada for their supplies of newsprint, have been reduced in size and face further reductions. This has brought with it an enforced rationing of advertising space.

Gasoline has been rationed for some time on a sliding scale based on horse power. Although private motorists still get a small allowance, even this may be cut off soon.

In the vast, thinly-populated regions of Northern Australia—where the Japanese would be most likely to launch their invasion thrust

125,000 Publicity Agents

Canucks In U.K. To Start Flood Of Immigrants

WINNIPEG, March 9.—(CP). — Canada's overseas troops are 125,000 high-powered publicity agents for the Dominion, Capt. Gillis Purcell told the Canadian Club to-day. Capt. Purcell spent 1941 as press relations officer at Canadian Corps Headquarters in England.

"There is no question that the Canadians peaceful invasion has impressed on the British people that Canada is a land of wide opportunity and of a high living standard. Thousands of Englishmen, Welshmen and Scots will stream to Canada when peace comes again, convinced they can find a brighter, freer life in the new country.

"Among the flood of immigrants will be many hundreds of wives of Canadian soldiers, a large number of whom have been overseas for two and a quarter years, and their children.

"The cheering change that Canada's men have wrought in war-shadowed southern England will be nothing compared to the influence of this Anglo-Canadian injection into the post-war population of this country."

"Little Alex" In Charge

Tough Dunkirk Veteran Takes Over In Burma

NEW DELHI, India, March 9. —(CP).—Lt.-Gen. Sir Harold Alexander has been appointed general officer commanding in Burma in place of Lt.-Gen. T. J. Hutton, it was announced to-day.

The appointment is effective March 5, the announcement said.

The appointment of Alexander to succeed Gen. Hutton was interpreted in London as a sign that the Imperial General Staff is determined to hold on in Burma whatever the fate of Rangoon.

The new commander, a slim, 50-year-old campaign-toughened Ulsterman, is reputed to be one of Britain's best fighting generals, a long-time adherent of Marshal Foch's policy of "attack, attack and attack," and a firm believer in taking full advantage of air support for his troops.

Gen. Alexander, then a major-general, was the commander who personally directed the removal of the last 2,000 men of the British expeditionary force from the bullet-spattered beach of Dunkirk.

"Little Alex," the men who have followed him have saiad, "knows his business."

SECOND VICTORY LOAN WILL TOP THE BILLION DOLLAR MARK

1,200,000 Across Dominion Buy Bonds In Great Drive

Expect Billion To Be Passed In Final Figures
One In Eight Of Population Takes a Share

OTTAWA, March 9—(CP).—National headquarters for Canada's Second Victory Loan stood pat today in their total of $959,900,000 for subscriptions during the loan campaign which ended Saturday night.

This figure included conversions of Dominion of Canada bonds amounting to $151,963,000, leaving cash subscriptions at $807,937,000 with late returns still to be compiled.

Incomplete returns given The Canadian Press at nine provincial offices late last night gave a grand total of $834,000,000 for the three-weeks' campaign but some conversions were included in this total, loan headquarters here said today.

Thus, it was said, the actual cash subscription figure now known is the latest official tally at loan headquarters of $807,937,000.

Even that total was sufficient to make the loan "definitely the greatest of all Canadian war loans," national headquarters said. Up to close of business Saturday there were almost 1,200,000 subscribers.

Last night's headquarters statement said there was last-minute congestion of small subscriptions and returns from employee canvasses, and these would take some time to be put through the accounting machinery.

It was anticipated a further and more complete announcement would be made Wednesday or Thursday, the statement said, "after the returns which are still in the hands of the unit organizations come through by wire or mail."

Reports from the various provincial headquarters gave this picture of subscriptions:

Province.	Subscriptions.	Nominal Quota.
Nova Scotia.	$23,889,750	$17,000,000
New. Bruns..	15,023,500	10,000,000
P. E. Island .	1,815,150	1,500,000
Quebec	164,981,050	128,000,000
Ontario	444,006,000	(not given)
Manitoba, above	67,500,000	46,000,000
Saskatchewan	14,692,300	8,000,000
Alberta	20,449,000	16,500,000
Total	$833,864,000

While Ontario's nominal objective never was made public it was presumably $292,000,000 since that is the amount required to bring the total of provincial objectives to $600,000,000—first aim of the National War Finance Committee, under chairmanship of G. W. Spinney.

The initial $600,000,000 figure was passed early last week and the objective was raised to $900,000,000.

"It is indicated that when the final returns are in, one out of every eight of the population will be shown to have subscribed as compared with one in every 12 in the last loan," National Headquarters said last night.

Informed by Loan officials that subscriptions totalled $959,900,000, Finance Minister Ilsley issued this statement:—

"I am deeply gratified at the response made by the Canadian people.

"In a speech in Montreal recently, I expressed the hope that Can-seller has held for longer periods.

An existing agreement that all companies set aside enough to pay in taxation all profits above four per cent remains, but does not become operative until July 1 or a later date which may be set by parliament. The effect of this will be to enable companies to pay full dividends for the fiscal year ending June 30.

The four per cent limitation is incorporated with other tax legislation now being framed to which a Senate majority is opposed. But since it cannot amend the taxation measure, this group could not eliminated the limitation on profits without throwing out the whole bill and thus challenging the entire financial policy of the government.

Committee representatives are of the belief the Senate opposition would not risk an election at this time by throwing out an important financial measure.

they would hesitate to undertake a full-dress invasion of Australia, although they long have coveted it. However, they are flushed with victory and it may be they will keep on rolling the dice while they are hot.

In any event, it will be strategically logical for them to try to take over some of the northern ports, as a matter of self-protection. Their occupation yesterday of Australian-mandated territory on New Guinea, just north of Australia, probably presages further action against the continent.

It is likely Japan's decision as to how extensive her assault on Australia will depend on the amount of resistance she encounters. There is another field of conquest calling her loudly, and that is the Indian Empire. The urge to conquer Hindustan must be pressing hard now, since Tokyo claims the capture of the great Burmese port of Rangoon—a mighty stride towards the subjection of all Burma.

Then too there is no doubt that Hitler is urging his Allies to strike westward into the Indian ocean with the idea the Japs and the Germans may join hands in India and the Middle East.

The question of whether Japan can be held in the main to her present conquests will depend largely on how much initiative the Allies can develop quickly in the Orient. The appearance of real striking power in Australia might mark the turning point in the Japanese campaign and the beginning of her downfall.

Many evacuees from these areas have arrived in Sydney, Melbourne and other principal cities. However, still others have settled at least temporarily in inland towns and country districts.

In Canberra, seat of the government, an all-party parliamentary committee appointed to examine the government's national economic policy has reached agreement on all but one point—a four-per-cent limitation of profits which, the committee decided, should not become operative until July 1, and must be submitted for the approval of both Houses.

The reservation was made by former Army Minister Percy Spender of the United Australia party, who said the Opposition must not be regarded as committing itself to approval of the limitation principal.

The prohibition would apply to any property not held by the would-be vendor for 12 months, while permitting the continued sales and transfers of real estate which the subscriptions which indicates that one person out of every 4.2 purchased a bond. This is considerably different from the First Victory Loan last June, when $3,085,000 was subscribed by 5,273 people, or one in every 8.4. Of course other factors enter the picture, for instance during the last campaign there was almost one-third of a million dollars subscribed for bonds, by means of conversion of other maturing bond issues, and the special names committee brought in an additional $200,000. The summary means that more people in the working class bracket put their money into bonds, which is the very thing that the Government wants, as this money will not be used now to purchase luxury commodities, but will be used to stave off inflation, and provide a nest egg for the lean period that inevitably follows every war.

All in all it was an excellent showing, and the hard-working canvassers throughout the county who worked under adverse conditions throughout the three weeks deserves bouquets. At ten o'clock today, James Healey of Douro township, makes his debut as a canvasser in a Victory Loan campaign, telephoned in to advise Victory Loan officials that Douro had met its objective of $20,000. This man is wearing a broad smile, which is amply justified by his fine work of the past few days.

What County Did

Norwood village, which as a municipality has perhaps done more per capita than any other community in the entire county will come close to reaching its objective of $35,000, having reached almost $30,000 already. At the outset it was thought that the $35,000 objective was too steep, but the people nevertheless tried to meet it, and it is not reflection on them that they didn't quite do it. Norwood's record of war service is an enviable one, as enlistments have been particularly heavy, purchase of war savings stamps are high, and they went over the top in the last Loan, and the soldiers' wives in the village did all they could to meet the objective. W. H. Giffen, canvasser for Norwood, sent in almost $6,000 in the mail today which pushed the total up near the $30,000 mark.

Asphodel also met its objective with returns reaching the city headquarters this morning. Colonel Neilson, a veteran of the last war, who is official salesman for the township, has been confined to bed through illness for the past week, but his many friends came to the rescue and finished the canvass for him. Cecil Hayes of Peterborough, one of the many who aided, worked under directions from Colonel Neilson, and the lieutenants did a fine job, putting the total over the objective of $25,000.

Special Names for the City of Peterborough took an upward trend on Saturday when the total of $1,026,000 was boosted to $1,052,000 or 105.2 per cent of the total. The City of Peterborough had an objective of $1,350,000 and the total now stands at $1,557,500 or 115.3 per cent of the original figure. Lakefield is well up with the leaders as is the northern township, Dummer, Douro, Otonabee and Asphodel.

Reports are now in from all the industries, the city canvassers are practically all cleaned up. The mail today sould bring in the balance of subscriptions from the outlying sections, and it is hoped that a final total may be available for Tuesday's paper.

A Bright Spot

Vincent Eastwood, county chairman who has had a grim tilt to his jaw all week, because the catalogue of world events were decidedly unfavorable to the United Nations, regarded the Victory Loan results as the only bright spot in the entire world picture. He expressed the hope that Canadians would pour every dollar they could scrape together into Canada's war chest, so that the well-equipped barbarians may be stopped before they reach Canada's shore.

"With the war in its present critical state, no prizes or eulogies for patriotism should be necessary, but the splendid response from all classes of citizens deserves special mention. We are learning to know and understand each other better. The response to the call of Mr. Ilsley is final proof of Canadian determination. Therefore on behalf of the county organization, my sincere thanks and let us prepare ourselves for a greater effort in the next loan."

The second road follows the east bank of the Irrawaddy from Rangood to Prome roughly 50 to 70 miles west of the Pegu-Mandalay route.

The Japanese are known to have appealed to discontented native elements, jobless minor politicians, and petty criminals in attempt to form a fifth column and stir up continual trouble behind the British lines.

With the removal of civil administration personnel from some areas close to the Japanese advance forces the invaders are trying to organize pseudo-rebellions.

Hong Kong following the same pattern which proved so successful in French Indo-China.

Although the French and Japanese exchanged only a few shots during the Japanese military entry and the cities were undamaged, all the basic conquest problems were present, and Britons and Americans on the scene watched the corps take over with both speed and efficiency.

For example, while Japanese planes zig-zagged into the bay, the last boat in the Japanese invasion fleet was laying a cable under direction of the communication division of the corps.

Five hours after troops were landed messages were racing over the cable from a temporary headquarters in Haiphong to Japanese-held Hainan Island.

When the Japanese entered Saigon in southern Indo-China the special corps moved even more smoothly. Troops were landed in the country in the morning and at noon a French businessman was notified that his office building had been commandeered by the Japanese as a corps headquarters. By the middle of the afternoon the rooms were stripped of all movable furnishings.

Some Quick Shuffling

That night desks contributed by the French government were moved in. The next morning hundreds of clerks were at work. On the wall was a huge map (Japanese made) of the city which French army officers said was better than they themselves had. It was marked in zones.

Already 200 spotters were taking inventory of material in these zones.

Already 200 spotters were taking inventory of material in these zones. An automobile service was established with the spotters and reports of goods found were arriving at headquarters hourly.

For consumption in Japan, promotion men mounted cameras on cars and took pictures of the "beautiful and prosperous city now in the hands of the Japanese." While cameras ground away, Japanese flags were thrust in the hands of natives who were instructed to wave them. In Tokyo the caption read: "Indo-China Annamites greet Japanese troops."

In an effort to keep the population calm to aid Japanese movements, good-will squads were dispatched throughout the city, bowing to all on the streets and stopping to chat with the natives. Candy was given the children.

A comfort unit of the corps arranged housing for the army officers. French families were ordered out of their homes in 24 hours. A house was found for the 300 Japanese girls who accompanied the troops.

Coming Back Again

The raid, carried out in bright daylight unopposed by the German Air Force, was the capping blow of a busy week-end for the R.A.F., illustrating the advance of "Colonel Britton," the radio voice of the "V-For-Victory Campaign," to "Keep away from any work that is helping the Germans. The Royal Air Force is coming again more and more often."

Canadian airmen began the series Saturday night with a smash which scattered great fires in the dock area of St. Nazaire, the German-held French submarine base.

While a compact bombing force was making the main raid yesterday, other R.A.F. units bombed a power station at Comines, near Lille; railroad yards at Abbeville; and destroyed two German fighters.

Fliers in yesterday's raid in the Paris region said they flew to Poissy so low they could see Frenchmen waving them on from many villages, yet they encountered only three Messerschmitts—and these only after the British had picked out their target in bright sunlight and unloaded their explosives.

One rear gunner in the attack—a sequel to the destructive, two-hour raid last Tuesday night on factories along the Seine near Paris—related that flames and dust from explosions at Poissy sprang higher than his plane.

One bomber and two fighters were lost in the Sunday daylight operations.

It was also planned at the meeting, Mr. Howe said, that both management and labor would jointly make representations to the Department of Labor "to arrange training and employment for displaced workers."

"The companies themselves, for some time now, have been expending considerable sums in an endeavor to develop new products and, in conjunction with the Department of Munitions and Supply, they have been successful in obtaining some contracts," Mr. Howe said.

Contingent From Britain Arrives To Push Training

OTTAWA, March 9 (CP)—Royal Air Force personnel, army men, a few nursing sisters, some hospital cases and some civilians, numbering several hundreds, have arrived in Canada from Britain. While practically all were connected with the fighting service, most of those arriving were members of the R.A.F. who will train on this side of the Atlantic.

Maj.-Gen. Frederick F. Worthington, whose appointment was announced at Ottawa Feb. 3, to command an armored division, was among the arrivals. While it has been taken for granted here that he would command the 4th Division, he was "just as much in the dark as anybody" about his duties in Canada, he said.

Credited with the major part in designing the Canadian-built "ram" tanks, he has yet to see one "in the flesh," but believed they would be "about the best over there in their class." Canadians make excellent tank men, he said.

Headed by their fiery commanding officer, Col. Dragutin Savitch, a group of Yugoslav fighting airmen were among the arrivals. Col. Savitch was chief of the general air staff when Germany invaded his

Mary MacSwiney Dies In Dublin

DUBLIN, Mar. 9 — (CP).—Mary MacSwiney, sister of Terence MacSwiney, the Mayor of Cork who died in Brixton Jail in 1920 while on a hunger strike for Irish freedom and a stormy figure in her own right, died on Saturday.

Miss MacSwiney, who gained much publicity for the cause of Irish freedom by her numerous hunger strikes in the '20's, was president of the Sinn Fein Executive Council in 1926 but was defeated in the Irish elections in 1927.

She dropped out of the news after that.

During the Civil War Miss MacSwiney, with the late Countess Markievicz and Mme. Maud Gonne MacBride, was leader of the Cumann-Namban, Irish women soldiers. She was credited with an ambition to be Ireland's Joan of Arc.

MOUNT JULIAN

Parcels For Soldiers Arrive In Britain

MOUNT JULIAN, Mar. 9—(ENS) —Mrs. Carroll Cooper entertained the ladies of the War Workers' Club on Thursday afternoon. Twelve ladies were present and with the assistance of the Junior Red Cross, under the supervision of their teacher Mrs. Arthur Earnshaw, 17 pair of socks was given out for each and two helmets were turned in. A pair of socks was igven out for each of eight men from this district who are now on active service. All the Christmas parcels sent to England arrived there safely. The secretary read a letter of appreciation from Gunner Edward Bronson, who, on account of spending Christmas in quarantine, was last to receive his Christmas parcel. Another letter of appreciation was read from the Navy League of Canada acknowledging receiving fifteen ditty bags from this district. Two knitted comforts were put in each of these bags, including either socks, mitts, helmets, or turtle-neck, long-sleeved sweaters, besides other articles on the Navy League list. A message has also been received from each of two sergeant-pilots who are stationed on the Eastern coast of Canada, expressing their thanks for knitted comforts from this branch of War Workers. The contact was made through the Red Cross Headquarters at Toronto. Both these men reported severe cold weather conditions in their flights out to sea.

Left over balls of yarn were gathered together matched and redistributed for knitting more socks and mitts. Plans were also made for quilt making for the British War Victims.

At the close of the meeting the hostess served delicious lunch. Mrs. William Church invited the club to meet at her home next month, on April 2.

Java's Dutch Governor Flees By Plane To Adelaide; London Denies Rangoon Lost

Still In Contact With Great Burmese City British Officials Report This Morning; Aussies Lash At Enemy On Guinea Coast

LONDON, March 9—(CP).—Reuters reported from Adelaide, Australia, today that Lieutenant-Governor General Hubertus J. Van Mook of the Netherlands East Indies and 14 members of the island's governing council had arrived there by airplane from Bandung.

"There is no question of the Netherlands East Indies government abandoning Java. Governor-General Tjarda van Starkenborgh Stachouwer will remain behind."

Closing In On Australia.

MELBOURNE, March 9.—(CP).—Strong Japanese landing forces were engaged to-day in consolidating two footholds which they won on southern coast of New Guinea yesterday in lightning thrusts covered by the big guns of warships.

The landings—at Salamaua and Lae, the capital of New Guinea—forged another link in the chain of potential invasion bases threatening Australia, and the Commonwealth cabinet was summoned hastily to an emergency session to decide upon measures to meet the new danger.

New defence regulations gave the Commonwealth military authorities power to carry out complete destruction of roads, railroads, canals, waterworks, airdromes, docks and wharves wherever necessary for Australia's defence.

Salamaua is of great strategic importance to the Japanese, for they now have command of the narrow strait between New Guinea and New Britain—the natural gateway for a sea-borne assault on the Australian east coast.

In Touch With Rangoon

LONDON, March 9 —(AP)—The war office still was in contact with Rangoon this morning and although the situation in the city was described as critical a military commentator said there was no confirmation of Japanese claims it had been captured.

The commentator said the garrison at Rangoon began the demolition of the last usable military installation in the city yesterday.

Some destruction of military supplies had been carried out more than a week ago when the Japanese massed in force along the Sittang River at the northeast approaches to Rangoon.

TOKYO, (From Japanese Broadcasts), March 9 —(AP)—Imperial headquarters claimed today the fall of Rangoon, capital of Burma, to the Japanese. (This claim lacks confirmation.)

A communique claimed Japanese army forces competed occupation of the important port at 10 a.m. yesterday after destroying the main defence forces in the neighborhood of the capital.

The announcement also claimed that Pegu, 40 miles north of Rangoon, was captured Saturday afternoon.

"With the fall of Rangoon," Imperial headquarters said, "the main objective of Japanese operations on the Burma front has been attained."

Prisoner Leaps Off Train, Free 48 Hours

BARRIE, Ont., March 93—(CP). —Joseph Watson, 24, was captured south of Camp Borden early today, some 48 hours after he escaped a police guard by leaping through the washroom window of a speeding train.

Watson was caught in a lookout tower near the intersections of the Canadian National Railways and Canadian Pacific Railway at Utopia, Ont. Provincial police constables surrounded the tower while others with guns drawn climbed the tower, where Watson surrendered without resistance.

He was brought to Barrie jail to await a police escort from Toronto, where he is wanted as a shop-breaking suspect. Watson was en route to Toronto from Saulte Ste. Marie at the time of his escape. Police said he was permitted to enter the washroom momentarily, while a police officer waited outside the door, and he leaped from the window of the small room while the train was said to have been travelling 50 miles an hour.

Transient Is Given Six Weeks In Jail

Six weeks imprisonment in the county jail was the sentence imposed by Magistrate Langley, K.C., in police court this morning on John Jasper, transient, who pleaded guilty a few days ago to a charge of vagrancy.

Constable C. J. McGillen, who with Constable Harold Mesley, had arrested the accused testified that he had seen Jasper apparently following bank messengers around in the downtown area and when questioned the accused had produced a registration card issued in April of last year.

Jasper said that he did not know he had been following anybody. "I was just walking around the street," he told the court.

"It is some time since this man has been in trouble," commented Magistrate Langley, scanning the prisoner's record. Jasper admitted that he had been deported from the United States after having been in trouble there.

Woman Is Injured By Lindsay Store Sign

LINDSAY, March 9 (CP)—A terrific gust of wind dislodged a metal sign 50 feet long and three feet wide from the front of a chain store today. It crashed to the walk. Mrs. Minnie Packer of West Guildford was caught a glancing blow on the head and rendered unconscious. Her condition is not serious.

Three Soldiers Are Held For Car Theft

COBOURG, March 9 (ENS) — Efficient police work in which the entire police department participated, resulted in the arrest of three men over the week-end and linked them with a stolen car abandoned in Cobourg. Saturday night constables E. Houghton and J. Elliston arrested three soldiers in a local hotel and placed them in custody. They gave their names as Driver G. Tracey, Pte. W. Smith and Driver H. Peterson of Toronto. They admitted they were A.W.O.L. Not long after their arrest, a car was reported as having been standing on College street most of the day, apparently abandoned. The fact that the three soldiers had car keys in their possession, but no car, and also the presence of a length of rubber hose, led police to suspect that they were linked with the abandoned car. The car, it was later learned, had been stolen from Whitby and when it ran out of gas, was left up on College street in Cobourg.

Chief of Police W. J. Carey of Cobourg questioned the three men this morning after their arrest and it is said that the trio admitted taking a car in Toronto, driving it to Whitby where they picked up another car which brought them as far as Cobourg. Police believe the three were looking around for a tank full of gas via the rubber hose route. On Sunday the men were taken back to Whitby.

Cobourg is a nemesis for car thieves. A large number of stolen cars have been picked up through alertness of local police who have a penchant for remembering stolen car license numbers.

Three Northumberland Areas Go Over Top

COBOURG, Mar. 9 — (ENS). — Three districts in Northumberland County had made their quotas by the end of the campaign on Saturday. The town of Cobourg subscribed 105.5 per cent, Hastings 112 per cent, Brighton 102 per cent. As there are some rural sections whose returns have not been completed, the county total is not known yet.

Vladivostok May Play Important Part In War

This is Vladivostok, the great Russian citadel long regarded as the most ideal spot for the jumping off place of an attack on the Japanese islands. Hidden gun emplacements, air fields and a great bay make Vladivostok an ideal place to defend. Vladivostok is truly a "pistol aimed at Japan's head" and ready to fire when Moscow gives the word.

Pupils' Colorful Operetta Delights Two Large Audiences

CAMPBELLFORD, Mar. 9 (ENS) —Public school pupils of this town scored another triumph with their musical program, featuring a colorful 3-act operetta and song parade by a mixed chorus of fifty voices. The concert, which was designed to raise money for war activities, will augment by approximately $160.00 the three hundred raised by the children through their efforts during the past three years. For all three performances, concluding with a matinee Saturday afternoon, the auditorium was fille∫ to capacity by appreciative audiences.

It was indeed a tribute to those who had so carefully rehearsed them during the past two months. From the musical standpoint, the performance lent emphasis to the roll it is playing in the school of today, and reflected great credit on the school's music supervisor, Miss Dorothy Henson, B.A., as well as every other member of Principal C. S. Haig's staff. It was a task that required the combined efforts of every teacher in arranging costumes, and properties for the large cast, but credit should be given to School Trustee W. Henson for his contribution of stage properties.

Opening scene of the operetta finds Mother Rabbit (Barbara Greig) and her four children, Peter (Kenny McFarlan); Flopsy (Carole McArthur); Mopsy (Marilyn Hopping) and Cottontail (Percy Bartley), in their woodland home where she suggests that they should go picking berries, but by all means stay away from Mr. McGregor's garden. All wore costumes that covered them from head to foot and complete with everything from small bobbing tail to large floppy ears and either a pink or blue jacket on the rabbit children, while mother rabbit who had the heaviest speaking role and did it exceptionally well, could have stepped from the frontispiece of a child's fairy story. In Scene II vivacious Peter has given the slip to his brothers and sisters and crawls under the gate to enter MacGregor's (Don Rogers) garden where he finds all the vegetables waiting as if for him. Each classification closely resembled the particular type—the carrots in orange colored armless costumes that were topped by green plumed hats, and each group did a dance or drill. Marion Maxwell, one of the girls in the lettuce group came out to welcome Peter to the garden and she asked him which of the vegetables he liked best. It was this which provided the cue for the different varieties to march to the front of the stage and put on their act. The yellow beans were little girls in yellow Swiss dotted muslin with bands of mauve and they did a Maypole dance. Next came the lettuce leaves, which were of course in green, and they executed a fairly difficult dance routine; the green peas, the corn and sunflowers all providing a beautiful background of color. Both the acting and singing in this part was all by children up to Grade VI and they included the following —Carrots: Bobby Bennett, Tommy Fox, Billy Fraser, Billy Morgan, Jack Gummo, Benny Kerr, Dick Nesbitt, Billy Scott; Beans—Margaret Carlaw, Jean Carruthers, Donna Chapman, Valerie DeCarrol, Joyce Dunk, Donna Grills, Margaret Gummo, Ann Hay, Gael Meyers, Della West; Lettuce — Margaret Flint, Doris Hendricks, Betty Johnston, Barbara Lankin, Barbara Loucks, Marioon Maxwell, Ruth Reynolds, Helen Weston; Green Peas —Eddie Begg, Bobby Bleeker, G. B. LaBrash, Kenny Ferguson, Ernie Flint, Billy Hay, Jack MacDonald, Bobby Vesey; Corn—Barbara Beatty, Shirley Burgis, Lois Carruthers, Betty Dunk, Nancy Hollings, Shirley Kerr, Ellen Messenger, Marion Seymour; Sunflowers—Evelyn Bowen, Marjorie McComb, Alice Peake, Joan Seaborne.

The Song Parade which made up the last half of the program comprised a three part chorus of fifty voices and they opened with the entire auditorium darkened, the curtains parting to reveal a large red V formed by eight Majorettes in smart costumes, their faces lighted with flashlights. Their numbers ranged all the way from the popular "Look for the Silver Lining" to "Old Folks at Home," "Dinah," Rule Britannia and O Canada, and the entire repertoire gave evidence of the careful training they had received. Their voices were clear and they sang sincerely, lacking only the finish of the trained adult chorus, the performance was exceptional for children of public school age. In the chorus were Olive Bebee, Joy Burgiss, Trillene Barrie, Betty Dunk, Dorothy Greig, Gerane Loucks, Bernice McComb, Joyce Moore, Collen Rowe, Betty Sutton, Joan Wood, Shirley Yearwood, Jack Bartley, J. M. Benor, Austen Bennett, Bruce Connor, Teddy Dunk, Arthur Labrash, Bobby MacDonald, David McEachern, Laurie Nesbitt, John Pierce, Teddy Smith, Alan Taylor; Altos: Jimmy Bell, Lois Carruthers, Jack Ellis, Ronny Hay, Glenn Nelson, Muriel Osborne, Gaynol Petherick, Margaret Rutledge, Art Saunders, Fay Thomlison; Flag Bearers: Girl Guide, Nancy McColl; Boy Scout, Norman Lafohy; Sailor, Keith Gummo; Soldier, Murray Locke; Airman, Kenneth Campbell; Majorettes: Yvonne Beatty, Katherine Fox, Joan Haig, Ellen Lambert, Geraldine Peake, Gaynol Petherick, Barbara Rowe, Beryl Spencer; Dancers, Rhea and Rheta Patrick.

Another Raider

New York, March 9 (CP).

THE New York Times, in a dispatch from Berne quoting a Stockholm report, says today that the German battleship Graf Zeppelin, the fourth 35,000-ton ship constructed under the 1936 naval program, has been commissioned and has arrived at Jordfjord, Norway.

The dispatch said the battleships Scharnhorst and Gneisenau and the heavy cruiser Prinz Eugen also are reported to be in Norwegian waters, "at Trondheim undergoing repairs necessitated by the severe beating they absorbed from British and sea and air forces after their escape from Brest."

Port Hope IODE Plans Minesweeper Tea

PORT HOPE, March 9.—(ENS).— The I.O.D.E. held its monthly meeting on Friday at 8 o'clock in the room at the library hall with a goodly number present.

Plans were then made for a minesweeper tea to be held on Tuesday, March 10 at the I.O.D.E. rooms in the town hall, where tea will be served from 4 to 6 and a display of mine-sweeper equipment shown, including a ditty bag and its contents.

The Wednesday afternoon ladies' bowling league donated $25.00 and a bridge group $20.00 to the I.O.D.E.

A donation of $5.00 was given the Music Club by the Colonel Williams Chapter.

This year the chapter has been divided into four groups. These groups are Bedford street group, under Mrs. Hawkins; King street group under the leadership of Mrs. Halford, Walton street south supervised by Mrs. Hill, and Walton street group north being led by Mrs. Warner. Each of these groups will do some individual work.

A number of soldiers' letters of thanks for Christmas parcels were read.

The committees formed were as follows: Sewing, Mrs. Fisher and Mrs. Dunn; wool convener, Mrs. Bruce. The quilts committee, Mrs. Barber and Mrs. Stephenson.

Durham County Goes Over Top

PORT HOPE, March 9 (CP) — Durham County was about $70,000 over its Victory Loan objective on Saturday but the books are being left open until Tuesday as there are some rural sections whose returns will not be in before that date. The county objective was $1,100,000. Port Hope went over its objective on Thursday.

Bowmanville and Hope township also reached their objectives before Saturday evening. Other districts were running very close according to the last figures totalled on Saturday.

YORK, England—(CP).—A telephone engineer, alleged to have left a "most secret" plan giving details of a gasoline dump and bomb stores in a car without locking the door, was fined the equivalent of $450 and costs.

Victory Night Program Delights Crowd

CAMPBELLFORD, March 9 — (ENS).—An audience that filled the Orange Hall at Petherick's to capacity and a program of wide variety which culminated with refreshments and dancing to music by a six-piece orchestra from Trenton all contributed to the success of the second annual Victory Night sponsored by the Rylstone branch of the Women's Institute The proceeds, including $31.05 from the sale of tickets on a quilt, plus the money taken in at the door amounted to $161.85, which will be used by the Institute to buy wool and other material that will be made into war supplies.

The principal feature of the evening was sleight of hand and white magic of Campbellford's versatile Mayor, F. F. Long, who produced handkerchiefs from empty boxes and made them disappear again; joined pieces of rope with invisible knots; joined together hoops of what appeared solid metal. He not only did these tricks and many more but kept on a running commentary of wit and stories which held the audience for close to an hour. Wilfred Spencer, chairman, who at the opening read a letter from A. Rappaport containing a donation of $5 for the Women's Institute, said, "This performance is something different from what we have ever had in the past and we are all very grateful to Mr. Long for his contribution to our program."

Next came a talk by Jack Lisle on "Japan," in which he traced the rise of Japanese militarism pointing out how the government had encouraged the youth to follow this career. "The Japanese is glad to fight and willing to die for the Mikado," he said, adding that although his "short, stocky appearance made him appear clumsy, he is one of the world's finest soldiers." Following the Japanese rupture with the League of Nations in 1933 and her subsequent attack on China the speaker briefly reviewed the steps which led up to the attack on Pearl Harbor. "Like an infectious disease, the Japs have overrun the Eastern war scene...We have lost the first round but given another chance on equal terms the noose will be made to tighten around the Japanese necks."

Six girls, Isobel Irwin, Jean Arnold, Helen Arnold, Muriel Barnum, Esther Meiklejohn, Marie Meiklejohn, formed a pretty chorus which offered several numbers, including 'I am a Canadian' and 'Rose O'Day,' which brought spontaneous applause. They were accompanied at the piano by Mrs. F. M. Rutherford and assisted in the singing by Messrs. Francis DeCarrol and Gordon Meiklejohn. Following a piano solo by Esther Meiklejohn and a violin solo by Raymond Tinney, Fred M. Rutherford sponsored an amusing and unrehearsed skit in which he had for his assistants, Murray Meiklejohn, E. Lindsay Anderson, Bob Lisle, Ray Archer and John Coggins. Talented vocalist, Francis DeCarrol gave two selections, "Remember Pearl Harbor" and "They Started Something," then Misses Isobel Irwin and Muriel Barnum joined in a vocal duet and John Coggins offered a vocal solo. Before the dance got under way orchestra leader and violinist, Jimmy Jones, stood aside so that winners of the draw could be announced. Mr. Long drew the tickets and the Institute made quilt went to Jack Watson, while tickets No. 39 won $5 in War Savings Stamps for Albert Petherick. Mr. Petherick re-donated these to the Institute, and when they were auctioned by F. Linton the Institute got its $4 back.

Blacked Out Room Displayed

Symbolic of the uncertainty of peace in Canada during this era of total war and total destruction, a modern kitchen has been fitted up on the second floor of the C.D.S. store to represent a room in a house blacked out during an air raid.

Not only are the windows shrouded in a sturdy blackout material, but all the tools of the A.R.P. worker are assembled in the cosy kitchen to drive home to Canadians the seriousness of the days that lie ahead. The blackout kitchen will be formally opened to the public on Tuesday morning at ten o'clock, and this specially equipped emergency refuge room will be highly educational not only to every air raid precaution worker but to every housewife in the city as well. Citizens are invited to attend the opening.

J. H. Jamison, manager of the C. D.S. has invited Mayor Hamilton to officiate at the official opening of this war exhibit, and the Canadian Women's Voluntary services of this city are co-operating in giving a blackout demonstration. Mrs. Gordon Conant, and Mrs. Alexander Graham-Bryce, Dominion Director of the Organization will attend the event, and will speak briefly to the gathering of local men and women, Lt.-Col. Max Sloan, chief air raid warden for the city of Peterborough, will also be on hand.

The second floor of the building has been cleared for some distance so that a large number of people may be accommodated, and the demonstration should prove timely and valuable to the many Peterborough people who are aware that we must prepare now for any eventuality and not until it is too late.

Box Factory Is Seeking Site

COBOURG, March 9 (ENS) — Rumors that a factory for manufacturing boxes had been considering Cobourg as a site but had gone elsewhere, are discounted by Major Jack Burnet, who stated on Saturday that the report about the factory was news to him. There had been no hint in previous council meetings that a factory had been considering Cobourg. The rumors which have been circulating around in connection with the subject were to the effect that a factory interested in making boxes for shipment of ammunition for war purposes had been making enquiries of the town council but that for some reason, possibly lack of a suitable building, the site had been chosen elsewhere.

"I know nothing of it. It is news to me," was Mayor Burnet's comment.

Port Hope Team Beaten 57-24

PORT HOPE, March 9 (CP) — "College United" Basketball team defeated Port Hope "Rascals" at the Port Hope High School gym here Saturday night in the start of the Intermediate "B" playoffs for provincial honors. The visitors took the game with the score of 57-24. The date of the return game has not been set, but it will be played in Toronto.

Jarvis of Port Hope twisted his ankle in the first half and had to retire. It is believed that a small bone was broken.

'Where The Sugar Maple Grows'

Now is the time to go out and demand of your maple tree that it "come across" and with real money, too, but in the form of that delicious extract known as syrup and sugar. March is here, and though it was in bad humor when it arrived, it has permitted the sun to shine frequently since—shine part of the day at least, which means that the noble tree, which is a symbol of Canadian nationality, should be in the mood to deliver some of its sweets.

The fact is, in printed truth, that the Ontario Department of Agriculture has asked that every available tree be tapped, and there are times when it is healthy to do what the Government suggests (in addition to getting your automobile licence on time). This is one of those occasions, the reason being that the common brand of sugar has gone somewhat into retreat. It's likely to stay in retreat, too, for quite a while to come. Therefore, the sugar beet and the maple tree have suddenly become as popular as beautiful girls in June. They are being wooed by markets and merchants and housewives.

Just so that the sweet tooth of anybody to the south of the border may not be impoverished under this war-time situation, buyers from the States are said to be visiting Ontario and Quebec, seeing what the maples here will do for them since the beet-planting season is yet afar off. They are offering a tempting advance in price over what a less hungry public paid last year and it is believed that the extra money, along with the smiles of old Sol, will make the trees of these two provinces give liberal sap transfusions to help keep countless thousands of persons in health.

We don't want to mix memories, wet feet, markets and buckets and all that sort of thing together, but it's pretty hard for anybody brought up on the farm to stay too long on the "demand and supply" phase of economics when there's a chance to get out to the bush and drive a little tin spigot into the trunk of a maple. Poets may write National Anthems and sing about the glorious colors of leaves after an autumn frost, but oh, boy! good as those may be, there're not in it with a cupful of that sap from the maple, or much better still, of course, a helping of the rich, brown syrup, after the sap has been boiled down until it looks like burnt gold and amber in liquid form.

Did you ever try it on beautifully browned biscuits, just out of the oven—the "kind mother used to make?" Or did you ever convert some of the syrup into a soft, pliable taffy and feed it to the dog? A mean trick, even though collie likes sweets, but a bit of laughter is wholesome in a gloomy world!

Of course the present generation may be much too civilized for homely humor, but how is any person going to "sugar-off" in a really proper way without having a roaring fire surrounded by melting snow in the woods, a dog coming around after having tried to chase rabbits, a dish with ice water into which one can drop the hot taffy, and several young people laughing and joking while the kettle sends fumes off the boiling syrup? No, if you want to get the real flavor of what those tall, straight, sap-yielders in the back woodlot give to the world, there should be even an ember from the blazing logs fly up once in a while and drop down into the cauldron. All those things are a part of the rare ceremony.

Anyway, there is nothing known that has quite the same luscious, exotic yu-yum taste that belongs to pure Canadian syrup, sugar and taffy. And you can't fool an old-timer either, on all the pail-carrying, and pail-emptying and fire-stocking and all the rest that goes into their making. So no wonder we write with spontaneity on the subject when we see winter clouds drifting away to the north and dark patches of ground poking up among the half-melted snows. Frankly, we want ever so much to get some of that precious palate delighter as soon as it is made!

Helps To Pay The Taxes

The tremendous wealth, dug from the earth, of Canada's mines can be realized now that the news is being given out that dividend payments by mining companies of this country — for the first three months of the present year alone—are to be, it is expected, no less than $20,984,494. For the same period a year ago they were over $22,000,000.

A New York geologist and well known authority on mining subjects, speaking to a group in Toronto recently, said he had made an exhaustive study of the gold output of the Dominion, and of the formations from which gold may be expected, and that in his estimate not more than five per cent. of the potential production of this precious metal has as yet been mined. And it is, of course, only one mineral.

It is evident from these figures that Nature did a great job billions of years ago when it buried so much treasure in the northern area of Canada. It may have anticipated that somebody would have to pay a lot of taxes around the period 1942 A.D.

Continental Invasion

The success of the British raid on Bruneval and the subsequent bombing of the Renault, Salmson and Farman plants in Paris has had an effect of raising British spirits entirely out of proportion to the importance of those operations. They have been taken as tokens of a rise of offensive spirit on the part of the armed forces, and the British want nothing more than to see their troops acting offensively—very offensively—toward the enemy.

The political significance of these moves is far more important than their military import. The Riom trials are not going according to schedule, and the German correspondents who hurried to France to see that country badgered into an admission of war-guilt have seen worms turn and biters bit. The farce of French collaboration may come to an abrupt end, and Britain is anxious that the French people should not feel that their former ally has deserted them. The French populace was warned to keep out of the way when the Paris factories were bombed; the B.B.C. took care of that. The raid at Bruneval and the destruction at Paris should prove to the French that Britain is still very much to be reckoned with, and that if they can endure a few more months of misery their deliverance will be assured.

But to the British people these operations show that, whatever may be happening in the Pacific, they can still pull a rabbit out of a hat at home. The clamor in the popular press for more raids, or even for a full-scale invasion of the continent, has become a roar. Churchill has said that victory may come unexpectedly, and the British people feel that a continental invasion might be one way to joggle the elbow of Fate.

Germany's Black Crimes

It is almost inconceivable that any person with red blood in his veins should not arouse himself to anger and vengeance against the inhuman acts of the German hordes who kill and starve and drive insane all kinds of defenceless people in countries they have over-run. The news which comes through of atrocities and brutalities are so revolting as to make one hesitate to publish it and yet only through the reading or hearing of these barbarous acts can our Canadian population know of what is going on.

Here are two different dateline dispatches that appeared in The Examiner last week. One is from Vichy, France, and states that the German military authorities announced in Paris that twenty hostages will be shot in reprisal for the killing of a Nazi sentry, and that twenty more will also be sent before the firing squad later if the persons who killed the Hun are not caught before March 16. A day of mourning was set aside in the great French city that the loss of the sentry might be suitably observed by the public. All theatres and other amusement places were closed all day and restaurants were closed at 10 o'clock at night.

Twenty—perhaps forty—civilians, not one of whom may be guilty, are to be shot down in cold blood because a German, armed with gun and bayonet to enforce the ruthless tyranny of his masters, was put away by those who hate the despots!

The second dispatch is from Ottawa, reporting what was given out before a press conference by Edward Raczynski, foreign minister there of the Polish Government. He told of a German concentration camp in western Poland where the policy is carried on of deliberately exterminating Poles by torture and refined cruelty.

"This camp," he said, "has accommodation for 15,000 and it is refilled very often. The guards are of the lowest criminal class. For a long time our information was that none left the camp alive. Recently we heard that a few had been replaced but they died soon afterwards." He spoke of another camp, which he termed the most barbaric of all, where the Germans destroyed villages around it so that no person would ever come near it. There every known method was employed to "break and kill." Prisoners in an outer enclosure are harried by the screams of those behind the wall of an inner closure who are being tortured. It is a horrible place of terror!

War Clouds Draw Nearer

For at least ten years the democracies have been guilty of a self-centred, over-confident—yes, an indifferent attitude with respect to potential dangers that were growing up everywhere around them, like a crop of foul weeds. Being too smug and entirely optimistic, they found themselves in 1939 hit with paralysing blows by the Germans. The story of what happened, all within a few months, in Europe, should be common knowledge to everybody. Nevertheless, it didn't seem to make much of an impression on millions of people in Britain, North America, Australasia and those lands in the Far East that have fallen to the Japanese.

Meanwhile the Axis powers went on organizing their program and strategic attacks. Crete was taken. Greece was crushed, after several other countries had been overrun. Then December 7th came and the bombardment of the Philippines, the loss of several of the great battleships of Britain and the United States. The public consciousness became stirred a little and yet, while part of the population in each democracy aroused itself and tried to quicken the other part to the pressing need for quick action, men and equipment of the most powerful sort, a happy-go-lucky mood persisted amongst those who couldn't, or wouldn't, realize the gravity of what was happening.

At length came the loss of the Malaya peninsula and of Singapore after as gallant a stand as a defending force could make and the surrender of Hong Kong in which a large number of Canadians lost their lives or were made prisoners. Since then point after point among the islands in the North Pacific have been taken by the Nipponese. It now seems likely that Java will not be able to hold out.

Along the Atlantic seaboard and in southern waters, vessel after vessel is being sunk or crippled. The loss of fighting ships and merchant marine has to date been heavy. Big headlines day after day report disasters. Prime Minister Churchill has candidly told the public of the hard things that are ahead.

No person wants to be pessimistic. Few are pessimistic, because that feeling is like a virus when it gets into the blood. It breaks down morale. At the same time, no Canadian with the faintest sense of what is going on can close his mind to the seriousness of the situation as it is at this hour. But, just the same, in Montreal a young lady was arrested and fined because she spoke in Phillips Square in an effort to get citizens there out of their lethargy. Last week she was ushered out of a meeting by the police because she made another attempt to make people aware of what is in front of them.

The success throughout Canada of the Victory Loan is evidence that Canadians at heart have a vital interest in their cause but as the old saying goes: "Eternal vigilance is the price of liberty" and the events in the war theatre the past eight or nine weeks, with the exception of those in Russia, make clear that we cannot afford to have a light indifference toward the dangers that are coming closer and closer to us.

THE POET

While all around us on the waves of storm
We see confusion and a world distraught,
Someone, perchance, has caught a vagrant thought
And made it eloquent in cadenced form.
Although the thought itself seemed little worth
Till he had searched and found a pattern meet;
And so sent forth a message that was sweet,
Some word of comfort for a troubled earth.
Then as his patience lovingly applied
Brought forth the rhythm and the poetry,
So consolation came to those distressed;
Glimpsing the order they were satisfied,
Knowing that somewhere there was harmony,
Finding the message that his work had blessed.

House Divided Against Itself

(Contributed)

IT WAS the feuds and divisions among the tribes of Israel that led to their ultimate destruction as a nation and scattered them a homeless people on the face of the whole earth. They were a house divided against itself. "If a kingdom," said Jesus to the Pharisees, "is divided against itself, that kingdom cannot stand. And if a house be divided against itself, that house cannot stand." (Mark 3-24.) If the British Empire shall go down to defeat, which all God-trusting people believe to be impossible, her disintegration will come from one source only, not from the combined armies of the Axis Powers, but from the sowers of discord within her own ranks.

"A house divided against itself cannot stand." This is the significance of the subdued and timely warning of Britain's honored Prime Minister in his recent broadcast. From sea to sea our greatest editors have reiterated his words. Here again let them be quoted: "One fault, one crime and one crime only can rob the United Nations and the British people, upon whose constancy this great alliance came into being, of the victory upon which their lives and honor depend. A weakening of our purpose and in unity—that is the mortal crime. Whosoever is guilty of that crime or bringing it about in others, of him let it be said that it were better that a millstone were hanged about his neck and that he were cast into the sea."

A loyal soldier does not undermine his own camp and blow it up as a means of increasing the strength of the camp. A captain who is zealous for the safety of his ship will not draw the sea plugs from the ship's bottom and let it sink. A sane man does not set fire to his house as a means of providing safety and comfort for his family. Even Satan will not join in destroying his own kingdom. "If Satan cast out Satan he is divided against himself; how then shall his kingdom stand?" This question was asked by Him who came and destroyed the works of the devil and declared Himself as the enemy and conqueror of the Evil One.

It has to be admitted that as long as men live they will take different political views. It always has been and ever will be natural to men to group themselves into parties; but herein is the peril of politics, what ought to be one of the highest most far-reaching influences, becomes contemptible. Men will suppress their own convictions and sometimes their conscience to help their party to succeed. All manner of things are done in political warfare that men would never say nor do in private life. That ought not to be.

In times of crisis there is one great political spirit which has been known to dominate a nation and bind the people together as with bands of steel. It is called patriotism. Patriotism is deeper than politics. A patroit believes that there is something that matters more than life, or position, or safety first. Differing in their modes and methods, men are one in their aims. None is for the party and all are for the State. All bitterness and animosity are swept away, and while men may honestly differ, yet they unite on the high ground of patriotism, inspired by the desire to achieve that which is best for the welfare of the country.

There are unhappily constituted persons who, wherever they go, are causes of friction in their environment, creating an atmosphere of antagonism, disintegrating trust and concord. It comes natural to them to fan discontent, to foster a spirit of faction and to cause an outbreak of ill-feeling. They became habitual wreckers, and any house they inhabit is sure to be divided: with all earnestness they contend they are making a stand for principle. To allow this species of malice to go unchecked either in the community or the nations is misplaced charity. Every public man has suffered from mythical accounts of his doings, glibly circulated by people who are constitutionally inexact, not so much actuated by ill-will as by limited intelligence.

We cannot too deeply ponder this subject as it relates to national unity in what is universally acknowledged to be the most threatening crisis in human history. National unity cannot be secured except by making it the interest of each section of this vast Dominion to remain in unity. National unity can only be maintained by common consent founded upon common interest. No one who is "in the know" will deny that there has developed in Canada an unrest that verges on discord.

In the eighteenth century, so real was the threat that the United States of America would become a house divided against itself and rear up four great republics instead of one, that it took a bloody civil war to cement that great country into one solid lasting Union. It remains the duty of every Christian patriot, be he French or English, to cherish with intense patriotism the unity of this nation and to maintain it, remembering there is no band of iron strong enough, no political force so potent, no sword so keen and no army so multitudinous as to have power to hold in unity an unwilling people.

The choice with which Canada is confronted is not whether we shall justify the arbitraments of war, but whether we shall uphold our country in a course already determined, or incur the bitter penalty of defeat. Neither by voice nor vote were Canadian citizens asked on the third day of September, 1939, to contribute to the momentous decision of entering a world war. We stood committed, as did the vast silent masses of the British Empire, to a situation which we were powerless to prevent. It was war! Total war. The only way to meet total war is by total preparation. Herein lies our national and individual refuge.

• Pacific Retreat Still On

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON

WASHINGTON, March 9 (AP)—The fourth month of war in the Pacific opens with the United Nations still in retreat before the ever-extending Japanese attack everywhere except for the American-Filipino stand on Bataan Peninsula.

Java, the last bastion in the Netherlands Indies, seems destined to go the way of Hong Kong, of Manila, of Singapore, of hopelessly imperilled Rangoon. For four months the enemy has managed to retain sea and air mastery in all the waters essential to his march of conquest and there is only faint hope of an early turn in the war tide in Allied favor.

Within that period Japanese losses in planes and shipping as well as men have undoubtedly been heavy, but not sufficient to halt or greatly slow the Japanese advance.

The bitterest pill was the premature loss of Singapore. If Winston Churchill falls as Britain's war captain, it will be because of that.

JAPS STILL LACK OIL

Singapore itself ceased to be of great potential value as an operating base for Allied sea fleets early in the campaign. With the sinking by Japanese torpedo planes of the battleship Prince of Wales and the battle cruiser Repulse the great British outpost in the China Sea lost its offensive value. It retained, however, tremendous defensive importance to bolster the whole United Nations front from Australia to Burma up to the hour the foe crossed Johore Strait months before Allied strategists had thought that grim development reasonably possible.

The collapse of the Singapore bastion had two immediate effects of prime consequence. It threw the burden of defense upon Java and Burma before either front could be fully manned and equipped. It also brought about immediate rupture of the Burma Road to supply China and deprived Allied forces of an adequate oil supply in the Southwestern Pacific.

The result seems still to be negative so far as easing Japan's own lack of oil for battle operations on the vast scale she is waging war is concerned. Destruction by the Netherlanders of wells and refinery installations has strictly limited Japan in that respect, probably for many months. That she has attained some additional oil is certain, however.

LIMITS ALLIES, TOO

Yet by the same token that destruction policy means that Allied fleets and aircraft will be unable to get Netherlands oil for many months, even if they can regain possession of the islands. It means that the oil for Allied offensive operations across the Pacific, when that time comes, must be tankered from western hemisphere sources.

That is the greatest oil pool on the globe, but it is far from the fighting fronts in both the Pacific and the Eastern Atlantic. The other two great known oil deposits are in the Russian field in the Caucasus and in Persian sources, both still in the hands of the Allies.

The Allies have the oil and the Axis have not. The Axis problem is to fight its way to assured possession of that life blood of modern war and industry. The Allied prime task is to move oil by long and dangerous sea routes to the fronts where it must arrive in time and in quantity if victory is to perch on Allied banners.

To get it there, tankers, tankers and more tankers are needed in both oceans. And the tanker fleets are dwindling dangerously under massed submarine attack in the Atlantic that appears to bypass other shipping, including eastbound troop-laden transports, to strike at oil and gasoline carrying bottoms, full or empty.

The havoc already wrought among tankers unquestionably affects Allied strategy in both oceans to an extent known only to the High Commands.

• Knoty Problem of India

REPORTS from London that the British Government is contemplating an offer of an increased measure of self-government to India will come as a surprise to nobody, particularly after Chiang Kai-shek's appeal to the British Government to grant the people of India free political power as speedily as possible, in order to ensure that India's millions will unite with those of China in the fight for freedom.

What form the British proposals will take is unknown, and the rumors cabled distinctly suggest that somebody at the other end of the cable is doing some very heady speculation, for the reports very carefully ignore altogether the numericaly inferior but tremendously powerful Moslem group. Yet it is the hitherto irreconcilable differences between the Moslems on the one hand, and the India Congress representing the Hindus on the other hand, that has been the main stumbling-block to the granting of home rule to India. Up to last Saturday the two parties were as far from any basis of agreement as ever. And it is not to be expected that they will arrive at one by mutual concessions overnight.

All that can be hoped is that the British proposals will be such as to give some promise of approval by both Mohammedans and Hindus, and that they will, moreover, bring the two dominant political parties to a recognition of India's position in the conflict, and the vital necessity for India to join the United Nations wholeheartedly and to the limit of her resources if she wishes to retain any measure of freedom, the British connection apart; because, unless the Indian people are brought to such a realization, the prospects of their subjugation by Japan's hordes are very real, indeed.

India has done a good deal in the production of vast quantities of war material and supplies, in addition to sending considerable numbers of troops to the fighting fronts. But she is capable of doing vastly more, and Premier Churchill is as well aware of that fact as General Chiang Kai-shek. In the final analysis, however, the decision and the responsibility must lie with the leaders of the All-India Congress party and the All-India Congress party and the All-India Moslem League. So long as they remain at daggers drawn, it is manifestly suicidal to talk of home rule for India. If they could arrive at a compromise, or the basis of a compromise, home rule could be assured them tomorrow.

The Indian problem is not and never has been correctly understood in the United States, save by a very limited body of informed observers. It is misunderstood in Great Britain by a considerable body of ill-informed public opinion. Its solution can only be brought about from within. —Montreal Star.

Road Fatalities Lead Ontario Toll Of Thirteen

(By The Canadian Press)

Six traffic fatalities were reported in Ontario during the week-end to bring the province's total reported accidental deaths to 13. Three persons died of asphyxiation, two of burns, one from injuries suffered in a fall from construction scaffolding and one in a plane crash.

Royal Canadian Air Force officials yesterday released the name of LAC. Harry W. Parslow of Westborough, Ont., as that of the pilot killed Saturday in the crash and explosion of a training plane near Simcoe, Ont. The young flier had been stationed at Hagersville, Ont.

Mrs. Emmett T. Welsh of Ottawa died Saturday a few hours after she was found in the kitchen of her home suffering from illuminating gas poisoning. Coroner E. P. Byrne said death was "suicide while of unsound mind."

Coal gas fumes took the lives of Joseph Bice, 74, and his wife Margaret, 66, of Lakeview, Ont. They were found unconscious by their son Saturday and failed to revive.

Mrs. Deliah James, 72, of London, Ont., died Saturday of injuries suffered a few hours earlier when the car in which she was a passenger collided with a car police said was driven by Herbert Sharpe of Verdun, Que., near Toronto.

Police said the car, driven by Miss Kathleen James of Port Credit who was seriously injured, swerved on the wet pavement and ran into the opposite lane colliding with the Sharpe car.

Loses Control of Truck

Clifford Durk, 27, also of London, Ont., was killed Saturday night when his truck crashed into a tree on a highway near Eastwood, Ont. Police said no other vehicle was involved in the accident and Durk apparently lost control of the truck and skidded into the dividing boulevard, hitting the tree.

Another car which went out of control near Morrisburg, Ont., took the life of Basil Werely, 19, of Chesterville, Ont. Werely's car went out of control on a hill and crashed into a heavy gasoline truck. Three others suffered minor injuries in the crash. Police said Stanley Black of Winchester, Ont., was the truck-driver.

Seventy-six-year-old Emily Allard of St. Joachim, Ont., was killed Sunday night when she walked into the path of a car near her home and was struck and thrown in the path of another automobile. Police said the first car was driven by Albert Konowski of Detroit and the second car by Clarence Anderson of Riverside, Ont.

Struck by an automobile as he stepped from a friend's car near his home, Louis Corey, 59, of Hamilton, Ont., was killed Saturday night. John A. Dobson of Fort Erie, Ont., was driving the car which struck Corey, police said.

Andrew G. Montgomery, 70, of Burgessville, Ont., was killed Saturday night on a highway near his home when struck by a car police said was driven by George Elliott of Hamilton, Ont. Police said Montgomery was crossing the road when the accident occurred.

Dashes Back Into Fire

Terribly burned when his cigarette set fire to his bed, Edmund A. Moon, 63, of Shelburne, Ont., ran back into the flaming room he had escaped from and burned to death. Another roomer in the same house found Moon badly burned and ran for help, but when he returned he found that Moon had gone into the room and it was impossible to rescue him.

Mrs. Mary Ann Cornwith, 87, of Toronto, died Sunday of burns suffered last Tuesday when papers she was putting into the stove in her home set her dress afire.

Back injuries suffered last September were said to have caused the death Saturday of Walter Gleanson, 53, of London, Ont. Gleason, a carpenter, fell from the scaffolding of a church being built here and suffered a fractured back and partial paralysis.

METROPOLITAN LIFE REPORT STRESSES WAR

Policyholders' Premium Dollars Aiding Purchase of Tools of War.

Ottawa, March 9th. — The vitally important contribution to war effort which the individual policyholder is making through his life insurance premium payments is revealed in the seventy-fifth annual report of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company just released. The report stresses the fact that in time of war the security underlying life insurance takes on a new meaning. More than ever before security for the family is paramount. But, while supporting that security life insurance dollars, invested in Government Bonds, are helping to buy planes, tanks, ships, guns and all the other implements of war. In both Canada and the United States life insurance dollars are helping to finance the industries which are pouring out the steel, chemicals, oil, food, munitions and other materials needed for the war and to finance power production and transportation facilities.

Illustrating the extent of such war effort by life insurance dollars, Metropolitan reports investment of $1,319,913,987 in Canadian and United States Government Bonds.

EDWIN C. McDONALD
Vice-President in Charge of Canadian Head Office of Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, which has to date invested $48,000,000 in Dominion Government War Loans.

For the year ending December 31, 1941 Metropolitan reports a total of $25,433,226,148 of life insurance in force, and Accident and Health insurance providing $1,634,617,475 principal sum benefits and $25,997,024 weekly benefits, which gave protection to the more than 29,400,000 of the company's policyholders in Canada and the United States. Both the amount of insurance and the number of policyholders represent new high marks in the company's history. For the tenth successive year payments to policyholders and their beneficiaries exceeded a half billion dollars, the figure for 1941 being $567,941,290 and payments were made at an average rate of $4,701.50 a minute each business day of the year. More than $383,700,000 or over 67% of this total was paid or credited to living policyholders.

An increase of $290,255,559 in assets brought the company's assets to $5,648,047,196 at the end of 1941. This amount, all of which is held for the benefit of policyholders, covers liabilities, including statutory policy reserves, of $5,189,988,752; special surplus funds of $7,190,000, unassigned funds (surplus) of $340,894,142, and reserve for dividends payable to policyholders in 1942 amounting to $109,974,302. Including the 1942 declaration, the total amount paid or credited to date by the company to its policyholders for dividends (and bonuses prior to its mutualization in 1915) has been in excess of 1¾ billion dollars.

Mr. Edwin C. McDonald, Vice-President in Charge of Canadian Head Office, commented on the fact that there are approximately two million Metropolitan policyholders in Canada, representing one out of every six persons living in the Dominion. They are insured by Metropolitan for $1,294,023,576.

Mr. McDonald further pointed out the increase in Metropolitan investments in Canada, which now amount to $315,369,648. Of this total $104,982,562 is in Dominion Government Bonds, $102,808,620 in Provincial and Municipal Bonds and $107,578,466 in all other investments. These figures include $28,000,000 invested in Canadian Government War and Victory Loans up to December 31, 1941. Since that time Metropolitan has invested another $20,000,000 in the Second Victory Loan in February 1942. Investments at the end of the year plus what Metropolitan has paid to Canadians since it entered Canada exceed total premiums received from Canadians by more than $191,250,000.

Payments by Metropolitan to Canadian policyholders and their beneficiaries in 1941 amounted to $28,977,869. New life insurance issued in Canada totalled $134,794,051.

Havelock Girl Is Widely Entertained

HAVELOCK, March 9 (ENS) — Miss Edna Haig returned home after spending a week in Toronto, visiting her sister, Mrs. Lynn Anderson, and her brother, Mr. Blake Haig. While in Toronto, Miss Haig was widely entertained by her many friends, previous to her marriage. On Monday evening Mrs. Ted Larmer (nee Miss Olive Haig) entertained for her about 30 guests at a bathroom shower. On Wednesday afternoon Mrs. Wilfred Norval was the hostess at the Georgian Room for a cup and saucer shower, and delicious afternoon tea was served. On Friday evening Mrs. Luke Swenor and Mrs. Frank Breckenridge were hostesses at a kitchen shower, when 25 friends were entertained at their home. On each occasion, although taken completely by surprise, Miss Haig thanked her many friends for their lovely gifts and good wishes.

If Agriculture Fails War Is Lost R. J. Scott Tells Farm Organization

Charging that if agriculture fails, the Anglo-Saxon people will lose this war, R. J. Scott, president of the United Farmers Co-operative, told farmers at the annual meeting of the Federation of Agriculture on Saturday afternoon, that it is far cheaper to finance the Federation of Agriculture and reap the benefits, than it would be to fail in supporting it, and reap disaster.

Introduced by Reeve Melville Johnston of North Monaghan, president of the Federation, Mr. Scott brought a message packed with meat and logic to the farmers of the district.

In giving a brief history of the Federation he said that on previous occasions there had been three separate attempts to organize the farmers, and all took the form of direct political action. "All during those 40 or 50 years men were trying to do something for agriculture, and at the same time mortgage debt grew steadily, chattel mortgages became more common and bankruptcy casualties among farmers were numerous"

"We were creating an antagonism among other groups, faster than we were organizing the farmers. In recent years capital turned its back on agriculture, and mortgages on farm property which used to be highly desirable became a drug on the market. At the same time the potential farmers, that is the young men also turned their backs on farming because there was no capital available. The fertility of the land dropped steadily and to all it was apparent that a new agricultural policy must be adopted to meet the farm problems.

The farmer has done all he can as an individual, but he failed to realize that other things were making prosperity in other sections and he wasn't in on it. Organization was doing more for farmers in some areas than he could ever do for himself.

"The secret is that the farmers as an organization must work in close collaboration with the State, and farmers must take a different view of the different State departments, as each has a job to do. In brief it means a state of collaboration between powerful farm groups and the Government

"Protest, direct conference and collaboration are the steps to be followed if results are to be obtained."

Mr. Scott went on to enumerate several instances when delegations of farmers by intelligently directed efforts had obtained good results on their problems, and he pointed out the great benefits reaped by the Western delegation of 450 farmers from Saskatchewan.

"At one meeting a committee of dairy farmers was organized and this committee has been invited to act in an advisory capacity to the government. This is a significant development. Every week in the year there are executive meetings between Federation members and the various government departments. This all takes money, and in my opinion it would be infinitely cheaper to finance the Federation than not to finance it.

In a municipal government everyone pays taxes to build roads and bridges because the latter benefits everyone, therefore there should be a levy against the community to pay for control and protection of a vital commodity, so that the commodity will not become a millstone around the necks of those who produce it.

However, the surest way to getting automatic financing is by doing it now ourselves. In so doing you will have more support from the County Council and the Council will take up the slack of the farmer who wishes to ride free.

There is an intangible tide sweeping the world today which says we must get down to a new basis of living, which will result in a better show for the common man, and this coupled with solid organization should swing the balance at long last in favor of the man engaged in agriculture."

Developments On The Pacific Battlefronts

This map shows the latest developments on the Pacific fronts. Tokyo announced 30 planes bombed Minamitori Shima (1), Jap island in the Bonin group. It didn't identify nationality of attacking planes. Nipponese troops forced a crossing of the Sittang river (2) in Burma, last natural barrier between the Japs and Rangoon. A prolonged raid by Jap planes was staged at the vital north Australian port of Darwin (3). Japanese planes repeatedly raided Bandung (4) as the battle of Java approached a climax. Gen. MacArthur's tiny air fleet sank several large Jap ships in a surprise raid on Subic Bay (5), apparently drowning thousands of enemy soldiers.

Potatoes Firm At $2.00 A Bag Saturday Market

Potatoes were fairly plentiful and held firm at $2.25 for White Stars and $2.00 for Katadins on the farmers' market on Saturday. One man was selling his off at $1.90 a bag.

Vegetables in general enjoyed a heavy demand and the upward trend of prices for most of the root vegetables seemed to have stabilized at prices quite a bit beyond last year's top prices. Onions were $2.50 a bushel or five cents a pound Carrots were $1.50 a bushel, and parsnips were the same price.

Turnips sold at 75 cents a bushel.

Apples were not so plentiful but were of fine quality. Starks went at $1.75 a bushel, Mackintosh Reds at 65 cents a peck and Spies at 75 cents a peck.

Pork in quarters sold at 18c for fronts and 20 cents a pound for hind quarters. Beef sold at 16c and 18c. Turkeys could be had at 34 cents a pound, and gobblers ranged from 28c to 34c. Chickens were 25c a pound.

Butter sold at 36 and 37 cents a pound while eggs sold at 32c top price down to 28 cents and they were plentiful.

Your Life Insurance in Wartime

IN TIME OF WAR, the security underlying your life insurance takes on a new meaning. More than ever before, security for the family is paramount.

While supporting that security, your life insurance dollars, invested in Government Bonds, are helping to buy planes, tanks, ships, guns, and all the other implements of war. Thus your life insurance dollars are helping to safeguard your life and to protect your liberties.

At the end of 1941, Metropolitan had a total of $1,319,913,986.74 invested in Canadian and United States Government Bonds... over 23% of the Company's assets.

In both Canada and the United States, life insurance dollars are helping to finance the industries which are pouring out the steel, chemicals, oil, food, munitions, and other materials needed for the war and to finance power production and transportation facilities. Each month more and more of your life insurance dollars are flowing from the channels of peace into investments that serve war uses and war industries.

Because of public appreciation of life insurance, increased efficiency of our agents, and the better national income during 1941, lapses and surrenders were at the lowest rate recorded in the Company's history.

In fulfilling its obligations to policyholders during 1941, Metropolitan paid or credited to policyholders and their beneficiaries more than $567,900,000. Of this amount, more than $383,700,000 was paid or credited to living policyholders.

Metropolitan is a mutual company. Its assets are held for the benefit of its policyholders and their beneficiaries. In the meantime, these assets are, as always in the past, being used to help meet national needs.

Badminton Titles Go To Stratford

STRATFORD, March 9.—Stratford players with but one exception accounted for all the silverware in the Ontario Junior badminton tournament which concluded here Saturday night.

Dick Sebben, Stratford's Junior ace, pulled the hat trick in winning three events. He retained the singles trophy which he won in Toronto last year when he defeated Ed Pecora, of the Toronto Granite Club, in three closely contested games.

Jack Barber and Sebben battled their way to the finals in the boys' doubles event, and then defeated E. Pecora and McPherson of Toronto in fairly easy fashion by scores of 15-7, 15-6.

Toronto Pairs Beaten

Sebben and Nora Harris teamed in the mixed doubles and won the new trophy which the Stratford City Council donated. They had as their opponents in the finals E. Pecora and M. Stowe of Toronto, whom they defeated 15-14, 15-3.

Ed Pecora, the youthful and clever Toronto Granite Club player, was the hard luck guy of the tournament. He reached the finals in all three events, but just could not get by Dick Sebben of the Stratford Club.

Miss Doris Clark of the Toronto Carlton Club was the only outside entrant to win a major event. She defeated Miss M. Mapp of Toronto to win the girls' singles trophy by scores of 14-10, 2-11, 11-2.

Lorna Cook and Nora Harris of the Stratford Club combined in the girls' doubles event to walk off with the championship. They defeated Doris Clark of Toronto and Nancy Crane of Stratford in the finals, 15-7, 15-8.

Stratford players made a clean sweep in the consolation events. Carol Trow won the girls' singles, while Howard Markle accounted for the boys' singles. Ken McNaught and Dolores McAtee won the mixed doubles, and Howard Markle and Bill Harwood accounted for the boys' doubles. The girls' doubles was won by Dolores McAtee and Zeeta Walsh.

Churchills Win From Stirling

Flashing an abundance of speed and scoring punch, Churchills, Peterborough's entry in the Ontario Juvenile series swept through to a convincing 9 to 1 win over Stirling juveniles on soft ice at Brock St. rink Saturday night. As Manager Harris's team had won the first game at Stirling 6 to 2, Saturday's win means that they took the round by 15 to 3 and will move into the next round of the provincial competition against he winner of the Port Hope-Markham series.

Churchills were much too good for the kids from Hastings county. Even on the heavy ice, they had plenty of foot and showed good passing while defensively they had oomph galore. In fact the heavy body checking barrage laid down by the Peterborough rear guards was a feature of the engagement. It is a long time since so many attackers were bounced around as were the Stirling kids when they crossed the Peterborough blue line in Saturday night's game. And most of the bodying was clean, too.

Stirling tried hard and battled until the final whistle but they hadn't much chance against the speedy thrusts of the Churchills who swept in at high speed and were decidedly effective in front of the nets. D. Bastedo, the diminutive Stirling goalie, who said he was fifteen but looked a couple of years younger, was about the busiest individual on the ice.

A big contingent of Stirling folk accompanied their team to Peterborough and some of them even got on the ice. In fact the game was featured by on of the liveliest free-for-alls in recent years in the second period when a mixup between two of the players was the signal for some of the Stirling fans to climb over the boards. Peterborough rooters were not long in getting out either and for a few minutes there was a donnybrook with everybody swinging. There was lots of action but the casualties were not heavy and peace was finally restored.

Leether played headups hockey in the net for the Churchills and looked to have a shutout until Stirling finally sored near the close of the game on a play that did not give him much chance. Ainslie and Lawson played effective hockey on the defence and up in front Ed Close, right-winger was the pick of a classy pack of young forwards. Close registered four goals on nice efforts and his last dash through the whole Stirling team for a counter was one of the nicest of the season in any company here. Close finished the play perfectly by pulling the goalie out and going around him to slide the disc into the vacant cage.

Vanderwoort, Stirling winger, got their only goal in the last period after Churchills had run in eight in a row.

Other scorers for Churchills, besides Close's four, were Millen with two and Lawson, Jack Harris and Fred Garvey with singles.

The teams:

Peterborough: Goal, Leether; defence, Ainslie, Lawson; centre, Anderson; wings, Close, Carpenter; subs, Garvey, Harris, Millen, Dorrell White.

Referee—Red Townsend, Belleville.

Visitors Stage Power Rally In Last Minutes

Outboard Marines have a 13-point lead to carry into the second game of their Intermediate "A" O.A.B.A. first round play-off with Kingston Combines, by virtue of their 47-34 victory over the Limestone City quintet at the Y.M.C.A. Saturday night.

Marines led at the end of the first half by a pair of field goals, 23-19. They opened the last period with an all-out offence that ran their lead to 21 points with 10 minutes to go, but Kingston fought back and rapidly reduced their margin to the final 13-point mark.

It was late in the first half before Marines started to move out in front at all. Kingston stayed on even terms through most of the period with Marines never more than a couple of points up until they scored a pair of baskets near the end to make it 23-19 at the half.

The winners turned on the heat through the first ten minutes of the last half and dominated the play, running the score to 44-23 mid-way in the period. They looked to be away to a comfortable lead, but the Combines came back strongly, outscored the Marines in the dying moments, and cut eight points off their margin.

Both teams passed up a pile of scoring chances with poor shooting, Kingston particularly spoiling a lot of nice passing plays with ineffective sniping. Kingston could have cut down Marines' margin by bettering their poor four in 14 free throw average, while the winners were a little better wtih three for eight tries.

The winners' scoring was split up through the lineup, with Thorburn and Stewart leading with 14 and 11 respectively, while McPherson was a standout at guard, both on the attack and defensively. McDonell led the Combines with 15 points and Newman and McLellan were a couple of tough obstacles at guard. The teams:—

Kingston (34).—Centre, McDonell 15; forwards: Hitsman 6, Coburn 4; guards: Newman 5, McLellan 4; sub., Edwards.

Outboard Marines (47).—Centre, Stewart 11; forwards: Thorburn 14, McArthur 4; guards: McPherson 8, McIntyre. Subs., Rogow, Craig 4, Jakafby 5.

Referee—Nels Stanger.

Generals Defeat Sister Team

C.G.E. Generals continued their winning streak that has carried them to the top rung of the Ladies' Basketball League ladder by winning a slam-bang, hard fought decision over C.G.E. Electrics by a 32-26 count at the Y.M.C.A. Saturday night.

The sister teams from the big Electrical plant put on a bitterly fought struggle through the entire 40 minutes of playing time before the Generals finally won out. They led by a slim two points at the half, being out in front 18-16 at that point, and then added another four points to their margin in the hectic last period. Checking by both teams was close and a total of 18 fouls called in the rugged contest and any kind of organized passing play was impossible. Electrics made a real effort to win the contest on the free throws awarded them by Generals 8 fouls, scoring 8 out of 11 tries for a good average. The winners counted two in 10 chances. M. Wood led the winners with 18 points, and A. Craig also played well, while M. Hodson and E. Craig led the Electrics. The teams:

Electrics (26).—E. Craig 7, M. Hodson 8, F. Merritt 6, M. McCarthy 4, D. Shultz, B. Staltter 1, B. Dobbin.

Generals (32).—M. Woods 18, M. Snowden 4, A. DeCarlo, C. Stalter 1, A. Craig 8, E. Harte-Maxwell 1.

Referee—L. Grose.

SPORTS – DAY BY DAY

By FRED D. CRAIG

This balmy spring weather that most folk have been applauding has knocked the hockey setup for a loop. Merritton Hayes Wire team, were to have played Peterborough's Soldiers at Brock St. Rink tonight in the first game of a three-of-five series for the Ontario Senior B championship but that is all off. With the thermometer at 45 above zero yesterday and no signs of cold weather in sight the Peterborough Club had to admit that it was no soap so far as a game tonight was concerned and it has been decided to open the series on Wednesday night at St. Catharines where the Merritton crew play their home games. The second game in the series has been set for Friday night at Brock St. Rink if there is ice, or otherwise it will be played at the Oshawa Arena. The cancellation of tonight's game will be a disappointment to Peterborough fans but under the conditions it was inevitable. The sheet at Brock St. Rink is inches deep with water and a game on such a cushion would have been a farce.

* * * * * *

And so the Petes who have played three games away from home since last they appeared before the local customers—and incidentally won them all—will take to the road again Wednesday to begin the series that will decide the Ontario championship. As this column has said before the Soldiers are a good road team, one of the best that has represented Peterborough in the O.H.A. and they always seem to have the faculty of turning it on before a hostile crowd. They showed that clearly in Collingwood last week when they stood up under a battering on soft ice and went on to win. Merritton undoubtedly have a classy hockey machine, as their record shows, but the Petes are a strong club, full of fight and should make Wednesday night's game in St. Catharines decidedly interesting. The Soldiers are right at home on a big ice surface as the big-score wins over Whitby and Collingwood on the Oshawa cushion demonstrates and conditions in the fine St. Catharines Arena should be right up their alley. They came through the Collingwood series without injuries and should be fit and ready when the whistle sounds Wednesday night.

* * * * * *

Declaring that last Friday night's game was the roughest seen in Oshawa in years—he should have been in Collingwood—the Star's Oshawa correspondent comments on the battles as follows: "A Collingwood defence that made every other rearguard to appear here in the past five years look like juveniles when it came to handing out the hickory, gave the Petes a going over every time they stepped inside the blue line. The Shipbuilders were very thorough in this art and it was a brave puck-carrier that would venture through the centre of the Collingwood rearguard. In all Houston meted out 11 penalties in an effort to make the gladiators play hockey, but it was no go. The boys just went merrily on their way with their policy of boarding, high-sticking and butt ends. Two free-for-alls broke out in the second and another in the third and on the first occasions fans came over the boards to join in the festivities. There was little doubt as to which was the better club on the night's play. The Soldiers skated faster and played a more consistent style of game to gradually wear down their slower skating rivals."

Outboard Marines picked up a lead of 13 points in their Saturday night game with Kingston Combines in the first of home-and-home games in the O.A.B.A. intermediate A playdowns. The final score was 47 to 34, with the second game coming up next Saturday night in Kingston. The Easterners, mostly Queen's University players, put up a stubborn battle, and were helped somewhat by the fact that Outboards did not come up with their best exhibition of the season by any means. If the local hoop artists play back to the form they showed against the Air Force teams and the Navy team that 13-point margin should be enough to carry them through into the next round although it will be a merry tussle at Kingston. The Combines handled the ball smartly and passed well but fell down in their marksmanship. They had more scoring opportunities than the Outboards over most of the route, especially against the zone defence that the winners relied on in the first half. When they switched to a man-to-man policy in the last twenty minutes Outboards got much better results.

Fears that there are no young hockey players coming along in Peterborough to replace the present crop were tossed for a loss Saturday night in the smart performance given by the youngsters in the lineup of the Churchills, Peterborough's juvenile representatives. It was the first time in two seasons that the juvenile entry had a chance to play at home. The 1940-41 edition played their games at Lakefield. And so many of the fans saw the youngsters in action for the first time Saturday night and they liked what they saw. Fast, big and clever, there is a lot of potential junior and eventually senior material on the Churchill squad. The goal-keeping of Leether, the sturdy defence work of Ainslie, Lawson and White, and above all the skating and stick-handling of young Ed Close attracted a lot of attention. The team as a whole is playing smart hockey and should travel quite a distance in the Ontario competition. They deserve support for they are taking the place of the junior club that should have been in operation this season.

Toronto Maple Leafs about blew their chances for the N.H.L. championship last night when they were beaten 2 to 0 by New York Rangers at New York, after downing the Patrick club 4 to 2 in Toronto Saturday night. The even split over the week-end left the Rangers still three points ahead of Toronto and the leaders have only two games to play as against three for the Leafs. The latter still have a mathematical chance but the odds are against them. Had they come through with a win last night Hap Day's men would have taken the lead but Rangers, registering their first shutout of the season never gave them a chance. Goals by Patrick and Watson settled the argument. Incidentally the Watson-Hextall-Patrick line scored all the Rangers' goals in the two week-end games and is undoubtedly the strongest scoring combination in hockey today. In fact many experts say that they could pick the whole line for the All Star team and not go far wrong. They are running one, two, three in the scoring records.

* * * * * *

Canadiens about grabbed off a playoff berth Saturday night by coming from behind to nose out Boston Bruins at Montreal in overtime by 4 goals to 3 and as the Broooklyn Amerks were trimmed 6 to 1 at Chicago Sunday the Montrealers have a two-point lead over Red Red Dutton's men and also a game in hand. Meanwhile the Detroit Red Wings who are hitting on all eight now took a 3 to 1 win over the Boston Bruins Sunday and assured themselves of fifth place in the league race. They will have to meet Canadiens in the playoffs and that looks like one of the feature series of the final show because both teams have been playing hot hockey in recent weeks. Boston and Chicago will meet in another bracket and Leafs and Rangers, at the top of the heap will have their own private duel.

Rhymer's Spurt Cops Rich Widener Stake

MIAMI, March 9.—(AP).—Alsab was beaten again in the $50,000 Widener handicap, but racing men agreed today his creditable fifth place showing added tremendously to his stature as a Kentucky Derby hope.

Alsab's fifth and Woodvale's Farm's Our Boots fourth place were all the big name horses could salvage in one of the most surprising Widener races in Hialeah Park history.

Mrs. Harry Payne Whitney's The Rhymer, an outsider that paid $32.50 even though grouped with two other horses in the field, surprised even his own jockey and trainer by coming up from nowhere to win.

E. R. Bradley's Best Seller, a 58 to one shot, was a head back in second place and another of the lowly "field" trio, Thomas Howell's Olympus, was third.

The Florida racing scene shifted to-day to Tropical Park for opening of a 29-day program highlighted by the $10,000 Tropical Handicap, April 10.

The Hialeah meeting was adjudged a success by track officials even though attendance was 481,248, a figure 49,337 under the 1940-41 season. The season's betting was $1,-528,721 under the $25,487,259 wagered last year.

The Rhymer, which was whipped in a Grade B handicap here last week, seemed badly beaten in the early going. He was ninth at the three-quarter mile mark and had managed to pull up only as far as sixth when the field began a wild scramble down the stretch.

Then little Eddie Arcaro, the same jockey who won the $25,000 Flamingo a week before with Zen F. Whittaker's Requested, made a masterful bid for victory. He brought The Rhymer up with a tremendous surge of speed and took over the lead just at the wire.

Indians Win 5-3 In Grapefruit Circuit Opener

NEW YORK, March 9—(AP). — The Cleveland Indians, starting life anew with Lou Boudreau filling the shoes vacated by Roger Peckinpaugh and half a dozen pitchers trying to fill those left by Bobby Feller, are off on the right foot in baseball's Grapefruit Circuit, preview of the 1942 campaign.

The Indians opened their Spring training series yesterday by downing the Cincinnati Reds, 5-3, at Tampa, Fla., although they were outhit 9-6 by the National League club which also was making its exhibition debut.

That victory, coupled with the New York Yankees' first Spring loss, put the Tribe at the top of the Grapefruit standings, the only team in action that hasn't suffered defeat.

Half of the teams in each major league haven't worked enough kinks out of their muscles yet to take on serious opposition.

Eighteen games have been played in the past nine days, with the Brooklyn Dodgers and the Philadelphia Athletics, the only teams that have gone outside the major leagues.

Dodgers Start Well

At Havana, the Dodgers opened the Grapefruit season by taking a two-game series with the New York Giants. Then the National League champions got mixed up with a team of Cuban All-Stars and wound up on the short end of a five-game series.

The All-Stars won the rubber games yesterday, with a 3-0 shutout in the nightcap of a double-header after the Dodgers had squared the series by winning the opener, 6-3.

The Athletics, training in California, have faced Pacific Coast League teams in a half dozen games and boast nothing better than a .500 percentage.

New York's world champion Yankees, with six regulars still listed as holdouts, won two in a row from the St. Louis Cardinals, but the Cards turned the tables at St. Petersburg yesterday, 4-2, as three St. Louis pitchers gave up just that many hits.

After losing to the Boston Red Sox Saturday for their third setback in as many starts, the New York Giants got over the hump yesterday with a 15-hit assault that swamped the American leaguers, 13-5, at Miami.

Billy Myers, Chicago Cubs shortstop, who recently rejected the club's request he sign a contract for less than the $12,000 he received last year as a member of the Milwaukee American Association team, is now working as a fireman in railroad yards near Harrisburg, Pa. As fireman Myers ears from $6.88 to $8.34 each working day compared to the approximately $33 a day he received as a ball player last summer.

Atlas Steels Wins Bowling Match

The Atlas Steels bowlers who came here from Toronto on Saturday to meet Jay's City League team in a challenge match lived up to all advance notices as to being a real band of maple maulers. After losing the first game and tieing Jay's in the second the Toronto outfit got rolling properly in the last game to chalk up a 1312 team count and win out on pinnage.

A large crowd of spectators saw a great exhibition of bowling put up by both teams.

(By SCOTT YOUNG.)

The shadow of things to come may have fallen across the National League during the week-end from the impressive showings of Detroit Red Wings and Chicago Black Hawks.

While the leading clubs, Toronto and Rangers, split two games Wings outclassed Boston Bruins 3-1 and Chicago swamped Brooklyn Americans 6-1. Almost any hockey manager would rather take a hot fifth-place club into the Stanley Cup playoffs than a staggering first-place club and for that reason any tendencies toward unusual power by Detroit or Chicago may be significant.

Toronto stopped Rangers 4-2 in Toronto Saturday night and was beaten 2-0 in New York Sunday night as Rangers' rookie goalie, Jim Henry, scored his first professional hockey shutout. In the week-end's other game, Montreal Canadiens defeated Boston 4-3 in overtime to move in front of Americans in the battle for the league's sixth and last playoff spot.

Lynn Patrick scored both New York goals against Leafs Saturday night, while Hank Goldup, Billy Taylor, Johnny McCreedy and Bob Goldham tallied for Leafs Sunday night Patrick got another to give him 30 for the 46 games Rangers have played so far this season. It was the first season of the last six a National Hockey League player had scored 30 goals. In 1934-35 Charlie Conacher, then with Toronto, scored 36. Phil Watson scored Rangers' other goal Sunday night.

Wings' 5th Victory.

Detroit's victory over Bruins in Detroit on Sunday night was the fifth straight home-ice victory for the Wings who have been beaten only once in their last eight starts. Syd Howe, Carl Liscombe, and Eddie Bush were Detroit scorers, with Herbie Cain scoring the Boston goal.

A reflection of how hot the Wings were is contained in the record of shots on goal: Boston 9, Detroit 52.

Brooklyn looked bad against Chicago, scoring its only goal after the Hawks counted six in a Sunday night game at Chicago. Johnny Mariucci, Red Hamill, Alex Kaleta, George Allen and Bill Carse were Chicago scorers, with Mel Hill counting for the Brooks. Tommy Anderson set a new record for scoring by an N.H.L. defenceman when he assisted in Hill's goal, boosting his points for the season to 36. Eddie Shore was the former record-holder, with 35. Bill Thoms' two assists set a record for Chicago scoring in one season at 45 points, cracking Paul Thompson's mark of 44.

With three games to play during the balance of the season while Brooklyn has only two Canadiens took a firm grip on the sixth playoff spot with their overtime victory over Boston in Montreal on Saturday night. Joe Benoit scored the winner in the sixth minute of overtime on a play with his linemates, Toe Blake and Terry Reardon. Roy Conacher bagged two for Boston, Cain one. Benoit also had a first-period goal and Terry Reardon and Ray Getliffe were other Montreal scorers.

Rangers almost cinched first place by winning on Sunday to restore their three-point margin over Toronto. Leafs still have a chance, however, with three games remaining while Rangers have two.

Ranger Trio Lead National League Scoring Race

BRYAN HEXTALL PHIL WATSON LYNN PATRICK

One of the highest-scoring forward line combinations in hockey in the last decade, the New York Ranger trio of Bryan Hextall, LEFT; Phil Watson, CENTRE, and Lynn Patrick, now stands one-two-three in the National Hockey League scoring race. The three have piled up 50 goals and 74 assists for a total of 134 points.

Ottawa Fliers Whip Borden For Puck Crown

TORONTO, March 9. — Nobody should feel disappointed over the outcome of Saturday's military hockey championship show, for it all turned out just as had been figured.

With the famed Krauts monopolizing the scoring honors, Ottawa's vaunted Fliers soared to the expected heights to bowl over the Camp Borden Soldiers—a real gang of game cocks—11 to 2, and thereby carry off the S.S.L. Challenge Trophy, emblematic of the Provincial military hockey crown.

A gathering of 5,651 paid customers (mostly airmen and soldiers) saw the plucky Bordenites match the Airmen in every department for half of the argument, then fall by the wayside as hockey class asserted itself and the Fliers (most of whom used to make hockey playing their business) piled in goal after goal to make a rout of the affair.

The concensus among shrewd hockey observers was that the formidable Fliers had one weakness—the defence. Borden players managed to get in for several close shots on Goalie Len Pinke. It is stated that Fliers plan to use Johnny Acheson, ex-Marlboro star, back of the blue line. Acheson was not with the team here Saturday.

Schmidt Shows Way

Big Milt Schmidt, crafty pivot ace for the Kraut trio, put on something of a one-man show as he rattled the twine back of clever Les Colvin three times, and assisted in two other goals, one each by his Kraut mates — Bobby Bauer and Porky Dumart. All told, the threesome chalked up ten scoring points.

But the Fliers, who convinced most of the gathering they will be tough customers to knock off in their trip down the Allan Cup trail, showed several other high-class performers including Elwood Campbell, who hit the jackpot for two goals and assisted in another and Mike Miller, the South Porcupine boy, who was a standout performer in every respect. He netter one goal, but was value for two or three more on his efforts.

Buddy Hellyer, the ex-Oshawa Junior star, and Roy Hawkey, a protege of Ed Wildey's, got one each, while Art Kunkel completed the R.C.A.F. total with only 14 seconds remaining to end the game.

Never Gave Up.

The Soldiers, who had the crowd solidly behind them, did not suffer one bit in comparison when it came to battling. Although hopelessly beaten during the R.C.A.F. third-period splurge, the Borden boys battled it out right down to the final bell. Mike "Mickey" McGuire, an Ottawa boy playing up front, was a star as he scored one and assisted in the other Camp Borden goal. Tommy Dunn of Trail topped a fine performance by netting the other Soldier tally.

Several Camp Borden players came up with excellent efforts against superior opposition. Gar Peters, Chick Webster and Benny Harris caught the eye with their tireless playing, while Colvin in goal, kicked out numerous shots that seemed ticketed.

Miller carried off the speed-skating honors and the Bulova watch which went as a reward for this title. He tied with Milt Schmidt at 14 4-5 seconds in the regular test and in a skate-off, Schmidt lost possession of th puck and Miller merely circled the rink to take the award. The watch was presented to Miller by Lester Patrick, New York Rangers' manager.

The game "cleared" over $2,400, of which $1,200 goes to the Sports Service League and $600 each to the Air Force Benevolent Fund and the Camp Borden Fund.

The only casualty came near the close of the second period when Gerry Philbin aggravated a hip injury when he crashed against the end boards. Philbin had previously hurt his hip during the tourney here the week previous.

Les Canadiens Trounce Leafs 5-2

Montreal Canadiens handed Toronto Maple Leafs an unexpected surprise, when they met in Toronto, in the form of a 5-2 defeat for the Leafs. Carrying a 2-1 lead into the third period, Les Canadiens unleashed an attack against the Leafs that netted them three more goals to put the game on ice. Benoit is shown scoring in the third while Goalie Turk Broda does a hop, skip and jump in an effort to block the puck.

The Sports Round-Up

CHARLOTTESVILLE, Va., Mar. 9 — (AP). — Hottest subject for sports discussion in this sector seems to be whether freshmen should be allowed to play varsity football.... Most of the coaches apparently favor using frosh but they're all waiting for someone else to make the first move.

Names you should know.

Paul Moss, manager of Billy Soose, wants to follow Billy into the Navy He'll take his examination for the aviation branch this week.

Down their alley.

Steve Filipowicz, who visited the Sugar Bowl with Fordham last January and the Cotton Bowl in '40, still is bowling. He took up the game this winter and rolls with a team that includes his gridiron sidekicks, Joe Ososki and Joe Malley...In the fall the boys try to pin them down and in the winter they try to down them pins.

Al Roth, former lightweight title contender, writes Bronx pals that he is stationed at Fort Randolph, Panama Canal zone, and the censor won't let him say anything else except that it's very interesting down there....At Fort Shelby, Mi[illegible] Pte. Senecas Retain International Snowsnake Title

CALEDONIA, Ont., March 9 — (CP)—Tribesmen from the United States retained the international 'Snow-Snake" title which they have held for the last two years, in keen contests with the Six Nations sharp shooters on the reserve at nearby Oshweken, Ont., yesterday.

With little snow and lots of mud and despite unfavorable weather conditions, competition was close as 500 spectators lined the muddy side road where the contestants hurled the long, slim javelin-like arrows along a snow trench sheltered by trees from the Spring sun.

Overcoming a three-point lead piled up against them in the early stages, Allan Mohawk and Deforest Young, a picked team from the Seneca reservation near Lawtons, N.Y., won out by one point in the final round with Hiram Johnston and Stanley Johns, Six Nations champions.

News From Training Camps

TAMPA, Fla., March 9.—(AP.)—Cincinnati Reds lost their first game of the spring training camp yesterday, but what hurt Manager Bill McKechnie most was that his prize rookie, Hank Sauer, didn't get a hit off the Cleveland pitchers. Sauer, expected to add punch to the weak-hitting line-up, struck out twice.

LAKELAND, Fla.—Detroit Tigers abandoned intra-squad competition to-day for a rehearsal of signals and relays from the outfield before playing their last camp game on Wednesday. All outfielders now are in the fold, with Rip Radcliff and Barney McCosky the latest to accept terms.

MIAMI BEACH, Fla.—Coach Bill Killefer watched the Phils sweat through a nine-inning intra-club game yesterday and muttered "we have our work cut out for us." The contest ended in a 3-3 tie. Outfielder Danny Litwhiler got four hits in five trips to the plate.

HAVANA — Brooklyn Dodgers leave for the mainland to-day, after breaking even in their Sunday double-header with the Cuban All-Stars. Their next contest isn't until Saturday when they meet New York Giants.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla.—Cleveland wonders whether the ninth-inning incident in the Indians' 5-3 verdict over Cincinnati Reds yesterday was some kind of an omen. Pinch-Hitter Eddie Lukon hit a foul into the stands where Kenesaw Mountain Landis, baseball commissioner, took it in his bare hands for "the catch of the day."

SAN BERNARDINO, Calif.—Lee Handley, Pittsburg Pirate third baseman, has deveoped lame shoulder and has been taken to Los Angeles for examination and treatment. Handley said the ailment was an after effect of his automobile accident three months ago.

Parachute-Ski Troops At Rest—In Beds Of Snow

Tired from ski-hiking over the rugged snow-covered Rocky Mountain terrain in Utah, soldiers of the 503rd Parachute-Ski Battalion of the U.S. army take their well-earned rest in sleeping bags on the snow. Men and equipment, including skis, are dropped to the snow from planes—and then they are on their own. The picture, from the U.S. Army Signal Corps, was made near Alta, Utah.

don. England, who 'picked up" the A.F.M. for "this and that," is here to instruct some of "your damned fine pilots." Flt.-Lt. R. E. Lewis, of Wellington, N.Z. won the D.F.C. during "a couple of scraps over Germany." He qualified as an air gunner after his career as a pilot was finished by a crack-up.

Other decorated R.A.F. fliers in the same party, who wore ribbons on their tunics, were reticent about their air deeds. Requests for information about how they won their decorations were met with a shrug and the remark, "Nobody would be interested anyway."

Cpl. Jack Girling of Saskatoon, one of the first Canadians to experience German air attacks— he was stationed on the Shetland Islands when the initial attacks were made—said that after two years of bombing he "never wants to hear another air raid alarm."

"I am sure that the record of subscriptions of this Second Victory Loan will attract that kind of notice.

All Provinces Over Top.

"It is evident that all of the provinces have exceeded their objectives and have worked with great ingenuity, ability, skill and enthusiasm."

Up to Saturday the number of subscribers to the Second Victory Loan was 1,197,305, National Headquarters said, adding:

"Estimates were made that when the final returns are all available, the total will be considerably increased. By way of comparison, in the Victory Loan 1941 there were 986,259 subscribers.

"The totals of both subscribers and the amount raised in Canada's Second Victory Loan are far greater than for even the biggest loan of the last war, namely, the 1918 Victory Loan, when 1,140,057 subscribers furnished the government with a total of $682,302,950."

Last June's Victory Loan 1941, like the loan which closed Saturday, had a $600,000,000 objective. It was subscribed to the extent of $710,958,950 cash. There were two other loans since the war began, one in January, 1940, which had a $200,000,000 objective and was subscribed to the extent of $321,276,850 cash; and one in September, 1940, a $300,000,000 loan subscribed to the extent of $324,248,300 cash.

MacArthur Boys Miss Games With Photo Joe

(By FRANK HEWLETT.)

WITH GEN. MacARTHUR'S ARMY IN THE PHILIPPINES, Mar. 9. — This is the story of Charlie, a Japanese reconnaissance plane pilot who wasn't exactly a nice chap, although he did have a sense of humor and our soldiers used to wave at him every time he came over.

He hasn't been around for two weeks now, and rumor has it that he wandered too near a United States anti-aircraft outfit that is very proud of its score. Anyhow, everyone on Bataan Peninsula misses him.

We don't know his name, of course, but he is usually referred to as Charlie, or sometimes Photo Joe.

He first appeared soon after General MacArthur's troops occupied Bataan. You could always spot him. He flew a slow, antiquated little monoplane which some of our boys swore was powered with a washing machine motor. He made it sound like wash day at home, at any rate.

His plane had no guns, but Charlie could get rough. His job was to hang practically suspended in the air search out United States artillery and then adjust his own artillery's fire. Our troops soon improved their camouflage, however, and they learned to keep the guns silent when Charlie was overhead.

That puzzled him a while. Then he hit upon the idea of drifting lazily behind a cloud. As soon as his back was turned all hell would break loose among the American guns. Charlie would pop out of the cloud and every gun would go silent. That game of peek-a-boo went on a while so Charlie came down and dropped a grenade over the side of his plane.

He wasn't mean about it — he didn't throw the grenade, just dropped it. He circles awhile, dropped a few more grenades, then was gone for three days.

When he returned our troops were almost glad to see him. Then we learned the reason for his absence. He had run out of grenades. This time he was dropping rocks.

Not long after that Charlie had the fright of his life. He got in the path of some American P-40 fighter planes which were closing in on some Jap dive bombers. Although the American pilots paid no attention to him, they reported later that his washing machine got caught in the middle of the fighting and that he literally jumped up and down in his seat trying to get more speed out of his two-lunger.

He hasn't been seen since and we all miss him.

declared war against the United States, that all German losses for the Russian war were 162,314 dead, 571,767 wounded, 33,324 missing.

(December 9, the Communist party organ, Pravda, said in Moscow the German had lost approximately 6,000,000 men killed, wounded and captured during the first five months of the war.

Figures Steadily Mounting

(These figures were given when the great Russian winter offensive was just beginning to get under way. Since then there have been regular Russian reports of heavy German losses.)

Big steps appeared in the making. Premier Joseph Stalin who has been devoting considerable attention to the Central front, was reported personally planning counter measures along the entire line to meet the expected German drive.

(Stockholm dispatches to London newspapers said Hitler had arrived in Kiev, capital of the Ukraine, to supervise preparations for a Spring drive against the Caucasus.

(A London Sunday Express story from Stockholm said Hitler would have 250 divisions totalling nearly 5,000,000 men for the Spring offensive, but that the Russians had 500 divisions amounting to 10,000,000 men "waiting to be attacked and then themselves to attack."

(A special correspondent of the Stockholm Dagens Nyheter reported from Berlin the German move was not calculated there to begin earlier than the end of April or May or the beginning of June.)

From Leningrad southward to the Novgorod area and to Lake Ilmen, thence around Staraya Russa south almost to Velikie Luki.

Then the red line takes a big eastward swing back to Rzhev, then assumes the form of a finger extending to Sychevka between Rzhev and Vyazma. South of Yyazma it approaches Smolensk, then curves southward to the east of Orel, Kursk and Kharkov. Here it takes a swoop toward Dnieperopetrovsk, then swings back eastward and reaches the Sea of Azov east of Taganrog.

Soviet girl parachute troops are killing Germans far behind the line with the same accuracy as their companion men fighters. This was made known yesterday as Russia celebrated the 32nd International Women's Day and praised the work of the women soldiers, and the war contributions of wives, mothers, sisters and sweethearts.

Java's Governor

Still Fighting In Java

LONDON, March 9 (CP)—Netherlands officials are confident today that the defenders of Java still are fighting, resisting the Japanese to the bitter end with whatever strength they still possess, notwithstanding an ominous two-day silence from the East Indies island and an enemy claim that an armistice had been asked.

The Netherlands Government in London was emphatic in its denial of Axis reports—none of them official—that the East Indies' last citadel had fallen.

It called these reports, bouncing from one Axis radio broadcast to another, an effort to cause confusion since the enemy controls all communications channels from the N.E.I., and declared that "no credence should be attached to them."

The last direct word from Java's own radio at Bandung was the defiant farewell at 12.55 p.m. (7.55 a.m. EDT) Saturday: "Goodbye 'til better times. Long live the Queen!"

Netherlands commanders, however, had been given orders beforehand for "no surrender" and their proud countrymen here are sure none has laid down his arms except, perhaps, in isolated cases where "a local commander may have been obliged to yield in order to avoid outright slaughter."

No Bataan Here

"But in the main," said one informant, "we are hanging on."

Unhappily, he said that "hanging on" may prove an accurate description for the fighting Indies defenders who have been bucking overwhelming enemy power for more than a week, fighting against an enemy stronger ashore, aloft and afloat.

Some Netherlands sources are pessimistic, too, of the possibility of a stand on Java paralleling that of Gen. Douglas MacArthur on Bataan.

They expected guerilla fighting in the fastnesses of Java's mountains to the end, slowing up the Japanese timetable of aggression and making them pay dearly in time, men and material. But, they said, Java affords its beleaguered defenders no Bataan with a Corregidor at its back.

1 You MASH it— drop a cake of Fleischmann's fresh Yeast in a dry glass. Mash with fork.

2 You STIR it— add a little tomato juice (or milk or water if you like) stir well. Fill glass, stir again.

3 You DRINK it— a quick delicious Vitamin B cocktail to your health. Tastes good. Is good for you.

If you've not been feeling tops—it may be you need more of these B Vitamins. Start today with this new way to take your Yeast—as a drink in cool tomato juice! Try 2 cakes a day—every day.

AND, IF YOU BAKE AT HOME, don't forget the same Fleischmann's fresh Yeast has been Canada's favorite for 4 generations.

We can't win the war without money, but money can't win the war!

Not unless we put it to work! Not unless we turn dollars into planes and tanks and guns and munitions — by the skill of our hands and the sweat of our brow.

So, now let's put the dollars to work! Let's make the enemy feel the sting of good Canadian coin, backed by Canadian zeal and Canadian workmanship.

So far, the war hasn't brought us hardship or even discomfort. We haven't seen our cities blasted, our homes wrecked, our children machine-gunned in the streets.

Surely we can give our work, our concentrated effort, without thought of personal gain or profit. So long as we get three meals a day and a place to sleep, we are in luxury, compared to the condition of thousands in war-torn lands.

Let's make every day's work an all-out drive towards victory. Let's work to win—to stave off bitter defeat.

BRAVE MEN SHALL NOT DIE BECAUSE I FALTERED

MAIN STREET TOPICS

A SIGN OF SPRING

Another certain sign of spring is reported by the police department. The 1942 supply of dog tags has been received and will go on sale immediately.

SPRAINED HIS ANKLE.

Owen Cauley, 16-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Art Cauley, sprained his ankle while skiing at Bethany some days ago, and is now reported to be well on the road to complete recovery. He has the ankle in a cast.

CHARGED WITH ASSAULT

David Peters pleaded not guilty in police court this morning to a charge of assault occasioning actual bodily harm and was remanded on bail of $250. It was stated that the case arose out of an argument over a taxi fare.

NOW IN HOSPITAL

Lt. Donald Weese, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bryden Weese of this city who was formerly employed in the advertising department of The Examiner, is now at home. He had an operation for appendicitis last week at Camp Borden.

CROWS ARE HERE

William Gill, butcher from up near Lakefield, reported on Saturday that he had noticed several crows flying out across the cedar swamps. A few Douro township farmers have also reported crows are quite plentiful in some sections.

CHARGED WITH VAGRANCY

Arrested in a local restaurant, Oddur Olafson, who gave his address as Winnipeg and Mrs. Stasia Darrow, Toronto, were charged in police court this morning with vagrancy. Olafson pleaded guilty and Mrs. Darrow not guilty to the charge and both were remanded until Thursday.

FIRE STILL A MYSTERY

Claude Anderson, an investigator from the Fire Marshal's department in Toronto, has been in the city since Saturday. Investigation into the $8,000 fire here Thursday evening at the shops of Miller and Powell and Archie Campbell had up until last night failed to reveal any trace of the cause, Mr. Anderson said. If and when the cause is found, it will be made public.

A LOVELY BIT OF WORK.

Miss Mary Hall, of the Sixth Line, who a few years ago was one of the topnotch pitchers in the Ladies' City and District Softball League, made a nice contribution to the Otonabee Branch of the Red Cross this week. She made a beautiful rag wool mat, oval shaped with a particularly pleasing pattern, and while selling her butter and eggs on the market Saturday sold raffle tickets on the mat as well. Tickets went rapidly, and some market patrons even tried to purchase the rug.

SOLDIER'S CAR STOLEN

An automobile belonging to Gunner B. Cole, who is in training at the local Military Training Centre, was stolen sometime during Saturday night from a parking lot at the corner of Lansdowne and Lock streets.

A MINOR TRAGEDY.

The annoying tenacles of the war has reached the grand spring game of marbles. On Saturday a parent searched every department store in the city seeking to purchase smoked alleys, but none were available. These beautiful alleys were made in Japan and Czecho-Slovakia and the supply is exhausted locally.

TRUE CHIVALRY

A soldier wearing an artillery cap badge exemplified the fine qualities that are apparent in members of the Active Service Forces, when he rose and permitted a young lady to have a seat in one of the city buses on Saturday night. Several gentlemanly acts have been noted along the main street and the present crop of khaki clad boys have early the respect of the people.

STOLEN CAR RECOVERED

A car owned by Lawrence King, 61 Robinson street, was stolen Saturday afternoon from the Y.M.C.A. parking lot and the city police were notified. A warning was sent out to other departmnts and Saturday night word was received from Trenton that the stolen car had been abadoned there and that an airman and two soldiers had been seen leaving the vehicle.

$100 DAMAGE DONE

Damage estimated at around $100 was done to two cars in a traffic accident at Reid and Charlotte streets Saturday. I. H. Keefer, 611 Walkerfield avenue, driving west on Charlotte street, was crossing Reid street when his car was hit by another car driven south on Reid street by Leonard Porter, Pontypool. Damage to fenders and running board of Keefer's car was estimated at $65 while the front of the Pontypool car was damaged to the extent of $35.

ORCHIDS FOR I.O.D.E.

Women of the Peter Robinson Chapter I.O.D.E. have decided to send a substantial ditty bag to Miss Fern Blodgett of this city, girl telegrapher who has manned the wireless set on at least twenty trips across the Atlantic. Miss Blodgett's parents own and operate the American Hotel, and it is fitting that an organization show recognition of her effort. She is the first woman to act as wireless operator on merchant ships from this country, and she had several narrow escapes since the war started.

RIVER IS DANGEROUS.

The mild weather of the past few days has opened channels around the islands just north of the C.P.R. bridge behind Engleburn Avenue, and ice on the lake and river is in a dangerous condition. Pedestrians are warned again to keep off the river, as almost without fail, at least one person, usually a child, meets death by drowning in either the treacherous Otonabee River or Jackson Park creek. Parents living on Burnham's Point who are not familiar with the great danger that exists should issue stern warnings to their children, and see to it that the warnings are observed.

BIRDS DOING WELL.

Charley Kingan reports that the Chukar partridge which were released a year ago in the Crown Game Preserve are doing well, despite the inroads of a poacher who knocked off several of the birds. The original ten have now increased until there are 40. Employees of the Nepheline Mine are responsible to a large extent for the protection given these birds, and it is common knowledge in the north country, that poachers will have to reckon with these mine workers if they come gunning for the birds. This is a commendable bit of work on the part of the miners, who appreciate the value of conservation.

THEY WANT NAMES

The Catholic Women's League, Immaculate Conception branch is anxious to obtain names of all boys from the parish now serving outside of Canada in any branch of the armed forces. Names with regimental number, unit, and other information should be mailed or brought to Mrs. Alf. Armstrong, 623 Armour Road. In this parish alone, there are two families who have seven sons on active service, four boys from the family of Mr. and Mrs. M. O'Toole, and three sons of Mrs. Catherine O'Leary, and the late John O'Leary.

Take Rationing Quit Grumbling Farmers Urged

"If agriculture was put on the same basis as other war industries, the farmer would come through with a united performance that would shade any effort so far in Canada," Vivian S. Milburn told a meeting of the Peterborough County Federation of Agriculture at the annual meeting in the Co-op Hall on Saturday afternoon.

Mr. Milburn was called on by the chairman, Reeve Melville Johnston to speak a few words, and in mentioning the highlights of the year, he voiced his agreement of a statement made by James Gifford of Ennismore that the cream market was in a sorry position, and added the encouraging news that recently a committee had been named to meet the food controller and Price Boards, and try to work out a program which would be fair to all dairy producers, and try to arrive at a fair price for milk this year, which would result in more production.

Stabilizing Price

This committee meets this week in Montreal, and it may be the means of stabilizing the cream market on a wartime basis.

He told of the young farmers who had met at Guelph recently to study problems and bring back a report. "These young people did something that the older men did not have the courage to do. They studied the problem and then brought in their conclusions, which were not pleasant. It was a direct challenge and it did perk up the federation. Now the federation has planned to have the young people take a definite part in the program, and the constitution is being amended to permit young people sitting on the directorate.

"We must lose our selfish individuality if we are to win this war. An organized unified effort can be more effective than anything else. There is now federation activities in 39 of the 42 counties.

Mr. Milburn spoke of the annual convention which would be held in Toronto on March 17 and 18 and he stated the Hon. J. L. Ilsley, Minister of Finance would be the speaker.

President Speaks

Reeve Melville Johnston as president of the local federation reviewed the year's work, and reiterated his statement of a year ago, that the farmers owe their first allegiance to winning the war, and the second to the interests of the federation. In speaking of the rapid progress made, he said the federation now had a first class man, Walter Haskins, as secretary down at Ottawa, and a strong executive in Toronto. He explained that a grant of $300 had been made to the parent organization and that the secretary would be in Peterborough to address a meeting soon. He paid tribute to the county council for the consistent support which had been given since the birth of the federation. He also told of the good work being done by the local Hog committee.

"We should be thankful we don't have to go through the air raids that they have in England, and my advice to the farmers is to take this rationing in their stride and quit the grumbling."

Two men spoke briefly to the meeting but each of them gave important information.

George Elliott, president of the Peterborough County Cheese Board when asked for a few remarks on the cheese situation summed up the story in this sentence. "Whatever the war quota on cheese is, if the price is right, the cheesemakers will meet the quota."

He said that last year from May 26 on, Canada was asked to provide Britain with 112,000,000 pounds of cheese and before October the quota was filled, then the cheese was put on the domestic market. "A year ago with more feed and a low price we made 700 boxes of cheese, but this year in February with much less feed, a good price and a patriotic appeal, the total exceeded 9,000 boxes."

Three factories he said got a 100 cent rating, and he said the premium for quality cheese was highly beneficial.

"There is no word on the price for cheese so far this year, but I can say this if the price is right, the quota can be filled."

Butter Producers

Reeve Gifford of Ennismore made a plea for better treatment of the butter and bacon producers, particularly the butter producers who are working without a bonus while milk and cheese enjoy marked advantages.

"It is too bad that it takes a war to bring decent prices," he said.

Reeve Gifford warned the farmers to build a closely knit organization now because when the war is over, Russia must be given consideration on the world market for products of agriculture, and Canadian farmers will probably all produce on a quota basis.

"The time has come when representatives of agriculture must sit in with the representatives of labor and industry to protect the interests of the man on the farm."

Frank Paterson, secretary-treasurer of the federation read the financial report which revealed that 11 county organizations were affiliated with the federation, and the association finished the year with a balance of $382.

On motion it was decided to turn a report from the young farmers over to the executive for consideration.

New Diet Makes Them Happy

After months of effort to line up a steady supply of imported bamboo for its two baby giant pandas, the New York Zoological Park found a large supply of it in the front yard garden of a Long Island, N.Y., resident. In their native China, pandas feed almost exclusivelly on leaves and twigs of certain types of bamboo. TOP, the pandas give visible evidence of their joy at getting the food to which they were accustomed. BOTTOM, they munch contentedly, at peace with the world.

Mrs. A. McKenzie Is Laid To Rest

A well-known resident of this city, Mrs. Andrew McKenzie, the former Jessie Turner, died Saturday noon in her 74th year. She was born at Carlton Place, Ont., a daughter of the late John Turner and Jessie Crammer. Prior to coming to Peterborough 52 years ago, she lived in Montreal. Her husband, Andrew McKenzie, survives her.

Funeral service was largely attended this afternoon at Knox United Church, with the Rev. H. J. Mahoney officiating, assisted by the Rev. William MacDonald. Interment was made in Little Lake Cemetery.

The late Mrs. McKenzie had been an active worker of Knox Church. She was a teacher of the Volunteer Bible class for 25 years, and for 18 years was vice-president of Peterborough Presbytery of the Women's Missionary Society.

Besides her sorrowing husband, she leaves one son, Flight-Sergt. R. Ian McKenzie of the R.C.A.F., Brantford, and five grandchildren: Maurice McKenzie of Toronto, Helen, Jean, Billy and James McKenie of Peterborough.

Pape Divides Skiing Honors

HUNTSVILLE, Ont., March 9 — (CP)—Wind and rain interfered with the two-day Ontario interscholastic ski championship program at nearby Limberlost during the week-end but more than 100 contestants from 26 schools raced and jumped through a heavy schedule despite difficult conditions.

D. Penna of Sudbury and K. Pape of Lakefield divided two major class A open events, Penna winning the three-mile open cross-country run for entrants 18 to 20 years while Pape was first in the class A open slalom. Both winners repeated in the closed divisions of the same events.

E. Kallio and B. Stella, both from Sudbury, were second and third, respectively, in the open cross-country while D. Dunsmore of Toronto North Vocational and B. Sauder were second and third, respectively, to Penna in the closed event.

Following Pape to the tape in the class A open slalom were F. Snibely of Ridley College, St. Catharines, and D. Penna, Sudbury. The three finished in the same order in the closed event.

The Class B cross-country event for boys 16 and 17 years old was won by C. Edgar of North Bay, with J. Durrell, North Bay, and H. Kallio, Sudbury, third.

The Class B slalom was won by M. Guppy of North Bay with B. Taylor of Lakefield second. R. MacIntosh of Bobcaygeon and Gordon Matthews, Jr., of Peterborough, were third and fourth, respectively.

C. Hanamen of North Bay won the Class C slalom with B. Armstrong of North Bay and J. Beaton of Peterborough second and third.

The Class C three-mile cross-country was won by B. Wilson, with H. Middleton and H. Woodcock second and third. Class C consisted of boys 12 to 15 years.

Mission Circle Resumes Meetings

ROSENEATH, Mar. 9—(ENS).—The March meeting of the Mission Circle held on Sunday morning following the Sunday School hour, was largely attended. The president, Miss Ruby Blodgett, was in charge. As no meeting was held in February owing to adverse weather, the president in this the first meeting following the annual meeting in January, delivered her first message to her group. There was never a time, she said, when God needed His people to work and pray as He does at this time. She likened the ability and talents of the members to a cake of yeast. Left lying in its package it is useless, but mixed with the proper ingredients its power of production is great. God gave His workers hands and lips to do His work. Left idle they accomplish nothing, but when rightly used can accomplish great things for the Kingdom. Shirley Brisbin told a story "There is a Man on the Cross."

The story for the month was told by Mrs. J. C. Arber. It was a story of "Heroic Virtue," a Chinese boy who served in the last war and is now serving in various departments in the Red Cross. Dr. Robert McClure was the author of the story.

During a brief business period it was decided to use birthday money donations for an expense fund. Alma Thackeray was named on the Sunshine Committee with Catherine Hugh to replace Tern Blodgett, who is absent from the community. The president's request for volunteers to do Red Cross sewing met with a ready response.

Police Raid Cottage On Sunday Morning

As the result of a police raid on a cottage on the River Road, two miles north of Nassau, early Sunday morning James P. Collins, Douro street, was confronted with two charges in police court this morning.

Collins, who said he was unemployed, was charged with keeping liquor for sale and also with operating a common gaming house.

The police party consisted of Provincial Constable Price Morris, Provincial Traffic Officer L. A. McClure and Officers Leo Murphy and Gordon Trennum of the city police.

Several cases of beer and a set of dice were seized by the officers and Collins and eight or nine other persons in the premises were brought to the police station. Only Collins was held however.

The accused pleaded not guilty to both charges this morning. Neither he nor the crown was ready to proceed today and there was a remand until March 17.

Spring Floods Come Early; Blasting Jams

Board of Works employees were out at four o'clock this morning to blast ice jams from sections of Jackson Park creek that had started to flood the area near the old William Hamilton Foundry and at the junction of Jackson Park and Downey street creeks.

"We were as ready as we could have been for the expected floods," said City Engineer Roy Parsons this morning. "We had all channels open and it was just a case of waiting until something happened. The flood came about two weeks earlier this year than it ever has," he added.

Men blasted two or three times at the Hamilton foundry and again at Bethune street bridge. "There is a lot of water going through but I think we have checked the flooding for a time," Mr. Parsons said.

Ice has jammed at Spalding's Bay at Townsend street, but city officials are not worried over that aspect because it never seems to result in anything serious. However, men were working at that spot also to relieve the jam.

"The ice breaks easily this year," said the city engineer. "We had no trouble in that way." Some damage was caused at the Hamilton Foundry where the Quaker Oats Company has some stock stored. Being in the flood area, water came in and wet some of the feed. Cellars were flooded at Edinburgh street but since the ice was blasted, this trouble has been alleviated. Men working at the new sewer on McDonnel street were forced to suspend operations today when that area flooded.

Wind Flattens High Brick Wall

Summer-like weather over the week-end started the water coursing down street gutters and snow disappeared from hill tops and lawns as if by magic. A strong wind developed during the night, and was so strong this morning, that garage doors were torn off, shingles ripped from roofs, and strips of tar paper and metal from buildings were strewn along the streets.

The wind flattened a thick brick wall behind the King George Hotel on Simcoe street, toppling the wall on some farm machinery that was stored behind the property formerly occupied by the Oilateria.

Several pedestrians narrowly missed injury from flying bits of material, and a piece of sheet metal, about six inches square whizzed past Constable John Moyes' head as he stood at the Hunter-George street intersection alongside Elliott's drugstore.

Only 750 Applied For Ration Books

Unless there is quicker action on the part of car owners in applying for their gasoline ration books, there is liable to be considerable congestion before the end of this month.

"There are some 9,000 car and truck owners in this district," Secretary J. J. Dorris of the Chamber of Commerce reported this morning, "and so far only 750 have applied for ration books. There are only three weeks left and those who have not received thir books, especially those in A Category, had better get busy or there will be a rush at the end of the month with which it will be impossible to cope."

Taxi Driver Is Injured In Crash

John Drummond, Water street taxi man was hurt and two vehicles badly damaged in a traffic accident at 8 o'clock Sunday morning.

Drummond, driving north, had made a left turn to go into his garage at 421 Water street, when a car driven south by William Hutchinson, 813 Water street, ploughed into the side of the tax cab driving the machine twelve feet to the southwest.

Both front fenders, headlights and grill of the Hutchinson car were damaged.

O.H.A. Has Suspended Oshawa Coach

TORONTO, March 9.—(CP). — Secretary W. A. Hewitt of the Ontario Hockey Association has notified Oshawa Generals that their coach, Tracy Shaw, is automatically suspended for striking Referee Beef McKay during a play-off game against Brantford Lions in Oshawa Saturday night

The suspension will stand until the case is reviewed by the O.H.A. sub-committee, probably in a week.

School Children From Smith Aid War Victims

Just recently, the school children of school sections numbers 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 7 and 11, Smith township held a concert in the Normal school of this city, and as a result of this, part of the proceeds from a silver collection taken at that time, are credited in this day's receipts for the local and district British War Victims' Fund, as coming from them. Arranged primarily in the interests of the Second Victory Loan campaign which has just concluded, by the collaboration of the teachers of the schools and Inspector R. F. Downey, the event proved quite a success, with the parents giving good support by their attendance and interest. The speaker for the occasion was Walter Howell, in the interests of the campaign, and thanks are extended to all for the nice contribution to the fund, made possible through the success this event attained.

Fairmount Young People.

From Fairmount, where the fund has already benfitted many times, comes a donation of $15 from the Young People's Society of that district per Miss Bessie Post, which really makes the day's list entirely one from the district surrounding the city, and also all from the younger generation, so hats off to them for the help thus given.

St. Patrick's Dance.

The day when all Irishmen make merry is drawing close at hand, and one event to celebrate the occasion is a dance sponsored by the employees of the Peterborough branch of the Canadian Department Stores, which will take place at the Kawartha Golf and Country Club that evening.

Music for the occasion will be supplied by Jimmy Duffus and his eight piece orchestra, and admission will be $1.50 per couple. tickets for which may be procured from any member of the staff at the store. In conjunction with this, they have been selling tickets at 10 cents each or three for 25 cents for a draw on a 1942 model five tube Viking mantel set radio which is displayed in the store windows, the net proceeds of both dance and draw will all come to the fund, with the draw being made before the close of the dance that evening. This is the fourth effort on behalf of the fund by the employees, their previous ones also helping by substantial amounts.

Previously acknowledged	$37,859.10
Fairmount Young People's Society per Miss Bessie Post	15.00
Pupils of School Sections No. 1, 2, 3, 4, 5, 7 and 11, Smith township, per R. F. Downey	10.00
Total to date	$37,884.10

Chimney Fires Keep Firemen On The Jump

High March winds caused the fire department no little concern today when they had several calls to chimney fires in rapid succession and the tempo kept up unabated. At 6.12 this morning, the entire department was sent to the Canadian General Electric Company where a small fire had broken out in the wire department. It was extinguished with a hand pumper and there was no damage.

The chimney fire calls started coming at 6.55 a.m. with a call to 529 Albert street. At 8.28 they went to 434 Driscoll Terrace, 8.31 to 477 Parnell street, 9.09 to 403 Parkhill Road, 9.49 to 213 London street, 9.57 to 398 Aylmer street, ten a.m. to 500 Aylmer street and at 10.11 a call from 123 Monaghan Road was not answered because it was out of the city.

On Saturday afternoon at 4.56 p.m., firemen answered a call to 179 Aylmer street. At 7.56 p.m. Saturday night, the entire department was called out to a fire at 612 Armour Road where they found a pipe fire. The error occurred, Chief George Gimblett said, when a boy was sent to a neighbor's house to send in the alarm. When it was phoned to the fire hall, a box alarm was sent out to all firemen on the off-shift and the fire fighters on hand rushed off to the fire. It seems the boy had exaggerated extent of the blaze.

"We had no fires yesterday," said Capt. Bill Jones today. "At one time this morning the department was attending so many fires at one time, I was the only man left in the fire hall."

"Pin Ball" Ban Is Considered

A growing feeling that the nickels being slipped into pin ball games all across Ontario are badly needed for the war effort and should go into purchase of War Savings Stamps is believed to be the accelerator behind a move to amend the Criminal Code.

A report from Ottawa intimates that an amendment may be made to the Code so worded as to make the use of all pin ball games definitely illegal.

Efforts have been made for some time to define in the Criminal Code certain games as gambling. The pin ball games are among the ones in question. One of the provincial courts in a test case held that it was gambling, while another construed it as a game of skill. Recently the Supreme Court of Canada decided in support of the latter construction. This caused many of the machines which had been seized to be returned to the operators.

At the present time there are upwards of 50 pin games operating in the city, and are legalized to some extent by the fact that the city has licensed them. However, they are licensed as games of amusement only, and city or provincial police are within their rights to prosecute and confiscate machines at any time, that operators pay out wins in cash or trade. Whether wins are paid or not, a steady stream of nickels pour into the machines all across Ontario.

Cocoa Is Rich In Iron, Nourishing Food

There are many different advantages to be derived from the consumption of various types of food, but in general all food is intended to perform two principal functions:

(1) The replacement of lost energy.

(2) The providing of resources which will help build up the body and fend off illness or disease. Foods in this group are usually known as "protective" foods, of which the most obvious examples are milk, fresh fruits and vegetables.

The tremendous advances made in the past few years in research into vitamins, and the importance of vitamins as a protection against different types of illness, has tended to put somewhat in the background the value of those foods of which the main feature is the providing of energy.

The energy value of food is commonly and conveniently expressed in terms of heat units, or calories, and therefore when referring to the energy value of different foods, this is commonly expressed as "calorific value." Everybody burns up energy or uses calories to a certain extent each day, and to maintain the balance, it is necessary to replace these calories through food.

If even a day goes by in which one fails to replace the number of calories which have been lost through the ordinary exertions of the day, the average man, woman or child at once feels the loss of these calories in a sense of tiredness, even to the point of exhaustion. Calories, therefore, are the first essential of food.

The main sources of energy are from foods containing fats, carbohydrates and proteins. The approximate average energy values in a mixed diet are given by Sherman (Chemistry of Foods and Nutrition) as: Carbohydrates, 4 calories per gramme; Fats, 9 calories per gramme; Protein, 4 calories per gramme.

Cocoa is a product which is unusually rich in energy. The average composition of a high class cocoa will show: Butter fat, 22 per cent protein, 17.6 per cent; carbohydates, 44.3 per cent.

This means that more than 80 per cent of good quality cocoa is available as calories for replacing energy. Using the table indicated above, as given by Sherman, there are 2,022 calories per pound of breakfast cocoa.

Cocoa is also a valuable source of mineral salts, of which the high IRON content is worthy of special comment. Cocoa not only contains more iron than almost any other foodstuff, but it is in a readily available form.

The consumption of cocoa involves at the same time, the consumption of milk. This gives a special significance to milk because anybody who is a regular drinker of cocoa must also inevitably be a regular drinker of milk, and the combination of these two products provides a food of quite exceptional value to the body.

Pope—Alexander

The marriage of Miss Margaret Louise Alexander, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Perry Alexander, Oak Orchard, to Francis Robert Pope, son of Mrs. Pope, and the late Harry Bonfield Pope, Montreal, took place in the presence of the two families and a few close friends Saturday afternoon, March 7, at the Church of the Ascension, Hamilton. The Rev. D. G. Heuther performed the ceremony.

In the absence of her father, the bride was given in marriage by her uncle, William Henry Jones. She wore a travelling costume of aquamarine wool with brown accessories and a corsage of Sweetheart roses. The bride was attended by Mrs. Wm. Parker. Mr. Bennett Pope was groomsman for his brother. Following the ceremony a small reception was given at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Jones. On their return the bride and groom will live in Peterborough.

Masters—Dwyer

A quiet wedding took place at St. James' United Church parsonage on Friday, March 6, at 1.30 p.m., when Ruth Violet Dwyer of Peterborough was united in marriage to William K. J. Masters of Crawford's Grove. The bride was attended by Miss Geraldine D. Masters and Norman D. Dwyer was best man. The Rev. Fred W. Craik of St. James' United Church officiated.

Mrs. M. Elliott Honored By Community

ORANGE CORNERS, Feb. 24. — (ENS). — Members of St. John's church and other members of the community spent a pleasant evening on Tuesday when they gathered to do honor to Mrs. Melville Elliott, who is leaving the community.

The guests spent the evening playing cards and Chinese checkers. Mrs. Stanley McCall read an appropriate address and Mrs. Elliott was presented with an umbrella by Master Earle McCall and a Mirapack by Mrs. Harry Jackson. Mr. Audon Bailey replied for his aunt, Mrs. Elliott, in a suitable speech, thanking the people for their kindness, after which all the guests sang "For She's a Jolly Good Fellow."

Rev. Mr. Pooley and Mr. Walter Magee spoke of Mrs. Elliott's wonderful work in the church and of the great loss which her departure would be to the community. Refreshments were served by the ladies.

Miss Irene Kidd and Mr. Walter Howell won the spot dance prize and Miss Lillian Windsor won the draw at the Saturday Night Club dance. The Kingston basketball team were guests of the club during the early part, but were forced to leave and begin their trip home. Lloyd Budge as usual supplied the music and the program was distinguished by a riotous rendition of "Deep in the Heart of Texas," the orchestra being aided and abetted by the dancers.

White is becoming more fashionable for dancing, but still does not crowd the pastel shades. A gentleman was heard to admire a smart tailored suit of soft blue wool worn with a rose tailored blouse. Another young lady looked smart in a blue silk jersey dress with a long torso and full skirt. A tall girl was rather striking in a frock in redingote style with a dull green crepe jacket over a green and white spotted dress, the whole set off with gold and jewelled clips at the neckline.

Mark Street Baby Band

The Mark Street mothers of the Baby Band members met at the home of Mrs. C. Logan with a good attendance. Several new members were present. The president, Mrs. H. Alton was in the chair. Mrs. J. Brown read the scripture and Mrs. Hill led in prayer. Mrs. H. Conroy and Mrs. Johnston read clippings. Mrs. Alton gave a short reading on hospital work in China. The visiting committee reported five calls made during the month. A letter of appreciation from Miss R. Young for sewing done was read. A donation of $10 from the W.M.S. was gratefully received. Plans were made to make Easter baskets.

Popular Young Couple To Wed

WOMEN NO LONGER MARRY ON MEAL-TICKET IDEA.
They Are Now So Independent That They Look Solely For Love.

A bachelor writes me that the reason he has never married is because women are nothing but golddiggers, that they only marry for money, and that he doesn't propose to spend his life being a meal ticket for a wife whose affections will be concentrated on his pocketbook instead of on him. No sir. He is too smart to be taken in by the matrimonial racket. So he is staying single. If my correspondent really believes that women must marry for money, and money alone, he must rate them as singularly lacking in financial sagacity, for there is not one man in a hundred who has enough money to make him a gilt-edged investment, if a woman regarded him solely as a financial proposition. Women are congenital bargain hunters, born with an instinct for getting their money's worth. If they married for lucre instead of love they would shop around until they found sure things to put their time and efforts on, instead of risking alluring prospects, as they do. They wouldn't listen to their hearts. They would get a report from Bradstreet. But do they do this? Far from it. Look how they marry. Boys out of college who have still to make good in their professions. Clerks on shoestring salaries. Youths without even a job. Everyday we see girls who have been reared in luxurious homes marrying poor young men and going to live in two-by-four flats and doing their own housework. Everyday we see girls giving up fat pay envelopes and mahogany desks in offices to go and work for their board and clothes in poor men's kitchens. Every day we see girls marrying men who do not make enough to support two, and keeping on with their jobs, thereby adding domestic service to their labor outside of the home.

Little Chance for Luxury.

If any of these women are influenced by any sordid mercenary motives in picking out the men they did for husbands, they are certainly candidates for the Home for the Incurably Feeble-minded. For only an idiot expects to get blood out of a turnip or luxury out of a poor man's pocket.

Perhaps in the past, when matrimony was about the only respectable gainful occupation open to women, many girls did marry for a home and to get somebody to support them. But not now, when virtually every young woman goes into business and when she can support herself better than the average husband can do it.

Nor do the girls who marry poor men befool themselves into thinking that they are going to lead lives of sybaritic ease and have matched pearls and limousines on their husbands' thin pay envelopes. They have been money-earners themselves and they know just exactly how short a distance a dollar will go.

They know that they are going to have to work harder than they ever did before, and that they are going to have fewer clothes and personal indulgences. They know just what sacrifices they are going to have to pay on the altar of love. But they do it gladly.

Citing Some Examples.

To appreciate how ridiculous is this charge that women marry solely for money you have only to run over the list of your acquaintances. There is Mrs. A. who married her husband when he didn't have two dimes to rub together in his pocket, who cooked and washed and scrubbed and pinched pennies, and who literally shoved him into success. He has money now, but he didn't have it when she married him.

Think of Mrs. B. who married a frail, delicate boy, whom she knew she would always have to support, and who has kept him alive by her nursing and care. Think of Mrs. C. who married a charming ne'er-do-well; and Mrs. D. who married a drunkard and whose devotion has stood the strain of toiling to feed and clothe a lazy loafer and fishing a weakling out of the gutter. You can't buy love like that. Even a millionaire hasn't the price.

Instead of women being mercenary in marriage they are not mercenary enough. They don't give sufficient attention to the money factor because, after all, we have to eat and be clothed and have a roof over our heads after marriage as before marriage. It would do a lot to insure domestic felicity if girls would ask their suitors: How much do you make? as well as asking them: How much do you love me?

Of course, there are some golddiggers who marry for money but they don't waste themselves on the chaps who have still their fortunes to make. They pick out the elderly Sugar Papas who have already made theirs and who can give them cabochon emeralds and matched pearls, and so the poor lad is in no danger from them. The girl who marries him is not marrying him for money. She is marrying him for love alone.

Advice to 'Teen Age.

Dear Dorothy Dix—Do you think a couple should get married at 19? I have a good job now, but I don't know how long I will be able to keep it. May have nothing to do when the manoeuvres are over. Do you advise getting married by running away? Is that fair to the parents?—Just Thinking.

ANSWER—Well, son, think a long time and then don't do it. Wait until you are a grown man and know what you want in a life mate, and have some settled way of supporting a family. Don't elope. It is giving your family a raw deal that they don't deserve.

For Tuesday, March 10

WHILE THERE are auguries for a very lively and enterprising state of affairs yet there are also possibilities of peculiar, intriguing, subtle and dangerous circumstances likely to arise from unsuspected, secret or sinister sources which may undermine the best endeavors. The promising vibrations should favor travel, writing, publicity, promotion, agencies and communications.

Those whose birthday it is may expect a lively and progressive year with much activity in all directions — probably travel, correspondence, literary pursuits, promotional enterprises, publicity, as well as dealings through agencies and communications.

A child born on this day should be versatile and resourceful, quick in thought and action, ready and fluent with tongue and pen.

Lily Lake W.A. Buys $100 Victory Bond

The March meeting of Lily Lake W.A. was held on Thursday at the home of Mrs. W. C. Steinkrauss with the president, Mrs. Clarence Hancock in the chair. Mrs. R. Falls and Mrs. D. Wilson had charge of the devotional part of the program.

The guest speaker, Mrs. C. J. Ray, gave a most interesting talk on the work of the Red Cross, both local and international. Plans were made for a community auction sale to be held in the near future. It was also decided to purchase at $100 Victory Bond. Two layettes were completed and donated to the I.O.D.E. and several quilts to be finished and given to the Red Cross.

A reading entitled "The Ladies' Aid Helps the War Effort" was given by Mrs. F. W. Steinkrauss and a quartette by Mildred, Violet and Ruth Steinkrauss and Doreen Turcotte, "The White Cliffs of Dover" was much enjoyed.

The meeting closed with the Mizpah Benediction after which lunch was served by the hostess and a social hour enjoyed.

Mary I. Hope Is Wed To William C. Woods

The wedding of Mary Isabelle Hope, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roy L. Hope, Lang, Ontario, and William Clinton Woods, elder son of Mrs. W. Healey and the late Mr. S. C. Woods of East Liverpool, Ohio, was solemnized on Saturday, March 7, by Rev. James D. Smart, at St. Paul's church manse.

The bride was becomingly attired in a street-length ensemble of glory blue crepe with a matching felt hat and black accessories. She wore a corsage of Talisman roses. Miss Jean Clarkson attended the bride. She wore dusty rose crepe with matching felt hat and black accessories and wore a corsage of sweet peas and orchids. Mr. Jack Hope, brother of the bride, attended the groom.

After the ceremony the young couple left on a wedding trip, the bride wearing a rose wool dress and beige polo coat with brown accessories. Mr. and Mrs. Woods will live in East Liverpool, Ohio, U.S.A.

Miss B. McWilliams Weds Louis Fry

A quiet but pretty wedding took place at St. James' United Church manse, Peterborough, on Saturday at four-thirty, when Blanche McWilliams, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. M. A. McWilliams of Bridgenorth, became the bride of Lewis Samuel Fry, youngest son of Mrs. Margaret Fry, and the late Mr. Samuel D. Fry of Peterborough, formerly of Lindsay. The Rev. F. W. Craik officiated.

The bride was becomingly attired in a street-length frock of dusty rose crepe with blue accessories and a corsage of Talisman roses. She was attended by Mrs. Ralph Parnell, who wore a frock of blue wool trimmed with silver fox and black accessories and a corsage of pink roses.

Mr. George Rennie of Peterborough was groomsman.

DRAKE—AT WORK

CHAPTER XXIII

"Look at me, Mr. Monaghan, I look like a tramp. I'll be a bum if somebody doesn't give me a job."

"Turner'll give you a job, if you'll take it."

"I'll take it."

"What are all your tony friends up on Union street going to say?"

Drake laughed. Mr. Monaghan was unable to sense the bitterness and humiliation and scorn in the sound.

"I'll get you a job, Drake. You can depend on me."

"Thank you—sir."

Drake arose. "I'm going home." He turned at the door. "If I get a job down here, I'm going to sell the place uptown. It's already mortgaged. Then I'll have a little bit of money anyhow. I'm going to come down here somewhere to live."

"And say—"

"Yes, sir?"

"You'll have to cut out likker."

"I won't drink any more. I promise."

"All right, son. We'll see how you do."

"Why, Drake! What are you doing here?" Randy came cheerfully into the room.

Drake flushed darkly. "Yes, I know how I look, Randy. I was in the calaboose last night."

"Drake! What did you do?"

"Drunk. I wasn't arrested. Sam Winters just—just locked me up so I wouldn't freeze."

"Oh, Drake!"

"It won't happen again, Randy. Your pa's going to get me a job of some kind."

Randy's glance veiled a little. It was a strange look—Drake didn't understand it. It was a faraway look, almost impersonal, but steady as a lamp set on stone.

"Go up stairs. I'll bring you some hot water. You wash and shave, and I'll fix you something to eat. Then you're going to bed and get some sleep."

"Aw—"

"Do as I say! I've got to talk to you."

Drake went heavily up the stairs. Mr. Monaghan knocked the ashes from his pipe. He had never quite known what to make of his tomboy daughter, but at this moment he felt that he understood her better. She looked exactly like her mother as she stood watching Drake.

Mr. Monaghan kept his word, and Drake kept his. Mat Turner, an old acquaintance of Drake's Uncle Rhodes, was reluctant at first. He didn't believe too much in the earnestness and sincerity of Drake's resolution, but Monaghan persuaded him. Drake was given a nondescript job as switchman, and general helper around the freight office. He never set foot in Fritz Bachman's lunchroom again, or took another drink.

The bank sold the Livingstone house, and Drake paid his debts. There wasn't much left but Drake put it in the bank and managed to live on his wages. He had a room at Mrs. Blake's railroad boardinghouse, and spent as much time with Randy as possible.

Drake lost his casual, laughing manner, and a part of his good looks was lost with it. He wasn't happy, and showed it. But he was healthier-looking. He had browned and reddened quickly into that lean, leathery, weathered appearance that railroad men always have, and which is peculiar to them.

He had never seen Louise Gordon again. The thought of her crossed his mind once in a while—a tingling anger mixed with a faint desire.

Drake was not ashamed of his job, or of the necessity that drove him to it, but he hated the thought of the talk which he was sure went on about him. He hated traintime because he hated to see anyone out of his former existence. Several time he had decided to write and tell Parris the whole story, now that the worst of it was over, but he put it off each time. He wasn't sure that the worst of it was really over. As soon as he arranged something else, and felt that he was on his feet a bit more securely—then he would write. It would amuse Parris, he was sure, to think of him really going to work. It would be a happy day when Parris returned. He wondered, the least bit uneasily, if Parris would want to come down here and talk to him and Randy. He wasn't sure how Parris might feel about Randy now that they were all grown up, but he put that doubt quickly aside. It was a disloyal thought. Parris wasn't made out of the shoddy stuff of Kings Row.

He smiled happily to himself, slapped himself lightly on the thigh, and gave his head a sideways jerk. Just a little more than a year now and old Parris would be back!

"The twentieth century" was beginning to be a familiar phrase. At first it had a fabulous sound, like a connotation of some fantastic futurity. But one became a little accustomed to it as one learned to write 1900 and 1901 without too much hesitation. Now while it was pleasantly familiar to the ear, it still suggested a happy sense of progress and advancement.

The outward changes in Kings Row, taking place gradually as they did, were not too violent to disturb even conservative people much. Of course, if one stopped to think about it, a lot of things had happened. Trees gone from the courthouse square, and from Union street as far as the Methodist church. Lots of bright new paint and plate-glass store windows. Surprising, too, how many of the old houses had come down to be replaced with one-story "bungalcws."

"A smart little city," Hart Sansome said. "As neat and bright as a pin."

"Looks like every town its size from Ohio to Kansas," Miles Jackson said. "You can't tell by looking around if you're in Indiana or Iowa. Looks like any town — and just as ugly."

But everyone noticed that since the death of his old crony, Colonel Skeffington, Miles Jackson was less acid, less violent. He had less to say about the "vanishing qualities of our pioneer forefathers."

Drake McHugh developed a bad cold and laid off from work for nearly a week. He spent most of the time with Randy.

One evening after supper he was on his way back to his boardinghouse. He took the short cut through the freight yards as usual. Bill Hockinson was running the switch engine, shifting boxcars for the early freight train the next day. Drake stepped off the track as Bill passed with a dozen empty flats. He waved and Bill shouted something that could not be heard above the rattle and clash of wheels rolling over the switches, and grinned. Some rowdy joke that wouldn't wait. . . .

Harley Davis, brakeman on the regular freight run to Camperville, slammed the door of the freight office open. Arnold Schultz, the freight agent, grabbed his blowing papers. "Say! What in the hell—"

"Quick, Schultz, get a doctor down here! There's been an accident out there. Get Dr. Gordon, quick as you can!"

"What happened, Harley?"

"Drake McHugh's been run over."

"Sure, sure. Right away." He rang the telephone and asked the central office to locate Dr. Gordon and send him right away to the freight depot.

"Is he cut up much, Harley?"

"Terrible. We got him out but he's unconscious, or dead—I don't know which."

"How about this old door? Think we could carry him on this?"

"The very thing. Come on."

"How in the world did such a thing happen, Harley?"

"A funny accident, Schultz. You know that wagon load of tile that's been standing up there on the edge of the cut for a week?"

"Sure, yes, belongs to the tile works. They're waiting for orders to ship it."

"Well, the bank thawed and the whole wagon fell down—"

"On Drake?"

"It hit him and pushed him under them cars Bill Hockinson's been shunting around."

"Run right over him, eh?

"No. It was just lucky Bill saw what happened. He was going slow. It just caught Drake as he came to a stop. Mashed him. Otherwise it would have cut him right in two."

"My God, that's awful!"

Dr. Gordon looked up from the table where Drake lay in the freight office.

"I'll have to have some help."

"What you going to do, Doc?"

Dr. Gordon didn't answer. "Someone—you, Davis, get me some blankets and a half-dozen sheets—anywhere here in the neighborhood, and be quick."

"I'll help, Doc. Tell me what you want." Sam Winters stepped into the cone of light that fell from the tin-shaded lamp hanging over the table.

"All right, Sam. I'll need somebody steady. Everybody else get out now. Quick."

"What you want me to do first?" Sam took off his coat and turned up his sleeves.

"Cut these clothes off of him."

Dr. Gordon turned toward the door. "Will somebody stand at this door and keep everybody out?"

"I'll do that, sir." Monaghan moved toward the door. "I'll keep 'em out, and when you've finished we'll take him over to my house. Just a few steps."

"Good. Now, Sam, let me see." Dr. Gordon proceeded with his examination.

"What'll have to be done, Doc?"

"Amputation."

"His leg? Which one?"

"Both. Close to the hips. There's a chance."

For nearly three hours both men worked under the crude light of the oil lamps. Then Dr. Gordon folded the blankets about Drake and stepped to the door.

Burnbrae Ladies Finish Four Quilts

CAMPBELLFORD, Mar. 9. — (ENS). — Members of Burnbrae Ladies' Aid met for their third pot-luck supper of the season on Thursday afternoon when 24 ladies assisted by representatives of the W.M.S. completed four quilts. It was the regular meeting and with the work completed, they ran to twelve the total of quilts made by the branch since the first of the year. All will be sold to raise money that will find its way into the coffers of the church. The treasurer reported upwards of $25.00 turned in at the meeting as a result of the supper which husbands of members attended and the sale of quilts together with money turned in from the cent-a-meal boxes during the afternoon. Following the supper those present enjoyed a brief sing-song for which Mrs. Donald McKay provided the piano accompaniment.

The next meeting will be on April 2.

OBITUARIES

GEORGE WALLACE.

CAMPBELLFORD, Mar. 9. — (ENS). — George Wallace, 97, one of the pioneers of Seymour Township, was buried here on Friday afternoon. He came to Canada to settle in the Burnbrae district with his parents as a boy eight years old and after attending rural school for several years served his apprenticeship as a blacksmith at Menie, later operating his own business on the Burnbrae Road. In 1879 he married Rosana Gardiner, and five years later gave up his trade to return to the farm. Mr. and Mrs. Wallace farmed in the Township of Seymour for 35 years before they retired to Campbellford in 1919. Since that time and up to a year ago he occupied himself with a small garden and other activities which his age and good health permitted.

Mr. Wallace died at his home on First Street following an illness of a month's duration. Predeceased by his wife seven years ago he is survived by three sons George, of Seymour Township and William of Toronto, and four daughters, Mrs. Ellen Whitton, of Seymour, Mrs. Charles Dunham, Wellman's Corners, Mrs Neil Third, Seymour and Mrs. David Meiklejohn, Seymour.

The funeral service was conducted by Rev. Donald McKay of Burnbrae Presbyterian Church, and interment was at Burnbrae Cemetery.

The pall-bearers were six nephews John H. Wallace and John S. Wallace of Campbellford, David Wallace of Menie, Sam Wallace and Robert Wallace Wellman's Corners, and Earl Wallace of Stirling. Two grandsons, Thomas and Bert Wallace, were the flower-bearers.

MRS. W. J. SANDERCOCK

ROSENEATH, March 9—(ENS). —Mrs. Herman Blodgett has received word of the death of her sister-in-law, Mrs. W. J. Sandercock, at Indian Head, Manitoba, in her 75th year. Mrs. Sandercock, formerly Annie E. Bradley, was born at Precious Corners, near Cobourg, and later moved to Manitoba. Her husband is a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Sandercock of Roseneath.

Mr. and Mrs. Sandercock lived in the Abernethy district until 1902, when they moved to Indian Head. She was an active member of the United Church and the L.O.B.A.

Surviving are her husband and four sons, Harold and Roy of Moosejaw; LAC. Charles Sandercock of the R.C.A.F., Saskatchewan, and Archie of Vancouver.

The funeral service was held in St. Andrew's United Church, Indian Head, on February 19, with interment at Indian Head Cemetery. Rev. J. McKnight was the officiating clergyman.

WHAT YOU SHOULD KNOW AND DO ABOUT SUGAR RATIONING

HERE ARE THE SIMPLE FACTS:

With the opening of war in the Pacific, important supplies of sugar for the North American Continent were shut off—and may be shut off for a long while.

As good partners fighting a common foe, we have to share the available supply of sugar from the Caribbean and American sources with the United Kingdom, Russia and other allied countries.

Stocks of sugar in Canada are actually sufficient to meet normal needs. Precautionary measures had to be taken, however, to reduce the consumption of sugar in this country, in order to maintain ample reserves against all emergencies, and in case the restricted sources of sugar should still further dry up. The United States was also compelled to put similar regulations into force at the same time as Canada.

YOU NEED NOT HOARD—YOU MUST NOT HOARD

The retail price of sugar is controlled under the Price Ceiling regulations—and will not be increased. There's absolutely no need for hoarding, but extravagant use of sugar is inexcusable and Canadians must make some reduction in the consumption of it. We're lucky it's not more.

SUMMARY OF THE SUGAR RATION LAW

1. The ration is ¾ pound per person per week, including adults, children and infants, members of the family, boarders, servants, and guests who remain for four days or more.
2. Purchase your sugar in the ordinary way, but not more than two weeks' supply at a time. No coupons, stamps or tickets are required.
3. Do not purchase any sugar if you have two weeks' supply or more on hand.
4. Persons in remote areas who are not able to buy frequently may continue to buy more than two weeks' supply at a time, but must measure their consumption at the ration rate, namely ¾ pound per person per week. Grocers must keep a record of purchases in excess of two weeks' supply.
5. Economize on sugar in every way you can; many people can get along on less than the ration.
6. Additional supplies of sugar will be made available for home preserving and canning.
7. The restriction applies to cane and beet sugar of all kinds—granulated sugar, icing sugar, fruit sugar, brown sugar, raw sugar, etc.
8. Retailers are entitled to refuse to sell or to limit sales to any person they have reason to believe is attempting to disregard the law.
9. Penalties provided for wilful infractions of these regulations are imprisonment for as long as two years and a fine up to $5,000.00.

IN MEMORIAM

McCALL—In loving memory of Clifford McCall, who passed away a year ago today.

A beautiful memory of one so dear
We cherish still with love sincere.

HALL.—In loving memory of our dear mother, Mrs. Warren Hall, who passed away March 9, 1940.

God knew that she was suffering,
That the hills were hard to climb,
So he closed her weary eyelids
And whispered, "Peace be thine."
Away in the beautiful hills of God,
By the valley of rest so fair,
Some time, some day, we know not when,
We will meet our loved one there.

—Ever fondly remembered by her Family.

CARD OF THANKS

Mrs. William Collins and family extend their sincere thanks to the attending doctor, sisters and nurses of St. Joseph's Hospital and to all kind friends and neighbors for many acts of kindness and expressions of sympathy received during their most recent sad bereavement.

Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Earle have moved to the village, taking the house at the extreme end of King Street. Mr. Earle's many friends will be sorry to learn that his health is far from good. George Bonner has bought the Earle farm on the Fourth Line, Cavan. Miss Martha Earle, V.O.N., is home for a week's holidays with her parents, going to her next position at Gananoque.

Mrs. O. Mellon B.A., who came here as the third teacher on the Continuation School staff last September, has sent in her resignation to take effect at Easter. Mr. and Mrs. Mellon have been occupying Mrs. George Hetherington's house on Tupper Street, the later spending the winter with her brother and his wife, Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Armstrong, Bank Street.

LAC Jack Stinson, who has been at the R.C.A.F. Training School, Brantford, is home on leave, going next week to Debert, N.S. Percy Stinson's many friends are glad to know he is now able to be about again after his recent serious operation at Nicholls Hospital, Peterborough.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Might and Miss E. L. Hetherington were in Toronto on Thursday attending the funeral of their cousin, the late George Might, who was killed in a motor accident with four cars involved, at Birch Cliffe last Tuesday.

Earning at Home in Spare Hours

Typing Makes Extra Dollars

Are you in a financial "tight spot"? If you can earn at home in your spare time—perhaps typing or knitting or baking — you can get that spring suit, those new shoes for Billy, even that wanted piano!

Would you like to try it? Our booklet on earning at home tells you lots about it.

To make money at typing, you might advertise in the newspapers and tell everyone you know that you'll type (1) anything, (2) any time, (3) beautifully, (4) promptly.

That's how Mrs. P. did it and she gets many typing jobs, some from doctors. Another got her old employer as her first customer and types special rush work.

Or perhaps you're famous among your friends for your delicious cookies. You may do like Mrs. C, get high prices by knowing how to cater to cookie buyers.

No matter what your talent is (and even if you haven't one!) you can earn at home. Our 32-page booklet gives the five rules of home-business success, tells how to earn by sewing, knitting, crocheting, typing, baking—other ways, old and new.

Send 15 cents [illegible] stamps to the Examiner [illegible] Service, Peterborough, for your copy of "21 Ways To Earn Money At Home."

Be sure to write plainly your name, address, and the name of booklet.

"The Authority on Authorities"

SOMETIMES IT HELPS

GAINING a reputation for favoring some particular kink or quirk in bidding is bound to bring you some unusual results. On one occasion, the reputation will harm you because your partner will fear you are indulging in your specialty when you are not, and hence will mistrust you. At another time it will help, as an opponent will refuse to believe what your bidding has shown and consequently may count you as weak right where your hand is strong. You will get tricks thrown at you because of that once in a while.

West studied long and carefully before he chose a card for his opening lead. South had so often buffaloed him and his partners by using an original club bid to prevent lead of the suit and then finishing with No Trumps, that West was duly suspicious. If South was truly weak in clubs, then the suit was bunched with East, and a club opening would slaughter the contract.

So West led the club 7. After East won this with the A, he repeated the suit, with his fourth-best 2, the 10 winning. Then South finessed the diamond J, came back with the spade A, ran the remaining three clubs, finessed the diamond Q, dropped the diamond K with the A, took two more diamonds and the spade K, then gave up the last trick in hearts, taking 11 all told.

If anything else had been led, especially the natural lead of a spade, even though that would build an extra spade trick, nothing could have kept the defenders from cashing their two high hearts before setting up clubs, so that they would have held it to 10 tricks. Incidentally, if East had studied a bit, he would have realized that, in case the club 7 was a fourth best, his partner would have held the K, Q and 10 above it, and so should have led the K. Hence East should have read the lead as what it was, and should have switched to a heart anyway.

Great Alaska Rd. Dream True, U.S. To Build It

OTTAWA, March 9 — (CP).—A dream of years' standing is to come true in Western Canada—construction of a highway connecting the United States and Alaska.

The multi-million dollar project will be started at once to meet military needs, Prime Minister Mackenzi King told the House of Commons yesterday.

The United States will foot the bill and pay maintenance costs of road during wartime. After that it will become an integral part of the Canadian highway system.

"The road, as approved, will start at Fort St. John in northern British Columbia and follow the general line of the airports which Canada has constructed through Fort Nelson, Watson Lake, Whitehorse, Boundary and Big Delta to Fairbanks, Alaska," the prime minister said.

Canada's expenditures in construction of the northern chain of air bases leading to Alaska figured in the United States decision to pay for the construction job.

1,200 Miles For 18 Million

No exact estimate of the cost is possible at this stage but on the basis of a recent report submitted to the government by the British Columbia - Yukon - Alaska highway commission it appeared likely the Fort St. John-Fairbanks section, roughly 1,200 miles long, will cost about $18,000,000.

In addition to this cost, improvement of existing road links will probably raise the full cost to something like $25,000,000 or $30,000,000.

Under the proposed highway plan the most direct land route to Alaska would be to cross the international boundary at some prairie points, perhaps Coutts, Alta., and use existing Alberta roads through Edmonton to Grande Prairie, Alta., and into British Columbia where roads are available as far as Pouce Coupe.

There are trails from there to Fort St. John but past Fort St. John the highway will run through almost unsettled territory.

Famous Creator Of Marionettes Tony Sarg Passes

Sarg underwent an emergency appendectomy Feb. 17.

Born in Guatemala of English parentage, he learned the art of wood-carving from his German grandfather at an early age. The latter's influence was felt along other lines, too, for young Sarg was packed off to a German military academy to learn how to be a German officer.

Sarg's love for illustration took him from the German army to London in 1905, where he worked in an attic and submitted illustrations to London magazines and newspapers. He carved marionettes, and when his chance came he made good manipulating them for the benefit of American tourists drawn to his shows in Dickens' Old Curiosity Shop.

He reached New York in 1915 and made steady progress as a marionette man. Meantime he dabbled in other artistic fields, illustrating books of his own and others, designing textiles, pottery, rugs and furniture for children.

The achievement he considered his best—and one that proved for him the best type of publicity—was the creation of the grotesque balloon caricatures that blew up and down Broadway Thanksgiving Day in Macy's annual parade.

He was married to the former Mary Eleanor Norcliffe of Cincinnati, Ohio. Their daughter, Mary, is an artist living in Philadelphia.

Obituary

JOHN LOUGH.

MARMORA, March 9—(ENS). — Another link with the early pioneer days of Marmora township is removed with the passing of John Lough, in the early hour of Saturday. Mr. Lough, who had been confined to his bed for a little over five years, became worse about a week ago, so that his end was not unexpected.

The late Mr. Lough spent the whole of his long life of eighty-three years in Marmora township. He was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Matthew Lough, who came to this country from Ireland to be numbered among the earliest settlers in Marmora township. As a farmer, he took a great pride in his stock, and always kept good horses. He was of a quiet and friendly nature, and was ever ready to play the part of a good neighbor. He was married to Isabelle Ann Bailey, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. James Bailey, who were also pioneer settlers in the same section of the township.

An Anglican in religion, he attended St. Paul's Church, Marmora, until the erection of Holy Trinity Church. He was a staunch Conservative. Fraternally he was a member of Nickle L.O.L. 285. Besides his widow, he is survived by five children: Charles of Springbrook, Allan of Winnipeg, Thomas of Marmora township, Mrs. Thomas Moffatt (Margaret) of Marmora township, and Mrs. Lewis Phillips (Mary) of Marmora.

The funeral took place on Sunday afternoon under auspices of Nickle L.O.L. 285. A large congregation of relatives and sympathizing friends assembled at St. Paul's for service at 2.45 p.m., which was conducted by the rector, Rural Dean A. B. Caldwell. Interment took place in Marmora Protestant Cemetery.

Christ Church WA Aids China Relief Fund

CAMPBELLFORD, March 9. — (ENS).—A donation of five dollars to the China Relief Fund by members of Christ church W.A. at their regular meeting held Thursday evening. This action came following receipt of a letter outlining the urgent and growing need for assistance. Motion to make the contribution was made by Mrs. F. D. Free and Miss A. Bedford. The president, Mrs. Marshall West, presided for the meeting and another interesting item discussed was a tea which they plan to hold some time after the Lenten season. The secretary handed out some pamphlets from the Wartime Prices and Trade Board governing price ceilings and urging co-operation in the matter. At the close the hostess of the evening, Mrs. Frank Chapman, served refreshments. Next month's meeting will be on April 2nd, but no announcement as to where it will be held was made.

TWO persons were killed and 10 wounded in street fighting marked by the use of knives, pistols, rifle-butts and tear gas bombs as police and 5,000 striking college students clashed here last night.

The fighting developed when police sought to halt students marching upon President Avila Camacho's palace to demand dismissal of Education Minister Octavio Vejar Vazquez. They declared his administration was too conservative.

Later the students were permitted to gather in front of the presidential palace for addresses by their leaders. The demonstration was a phase of a student strike which has tied up six colleges.

Guild Entertained By Mrs. L. Winslow

MILLBROOK, March 9—(ENS).— Mrs. L. H. Winslow entertained the Women's Guild of St. Thomas' Anglican church at her home, "Shenley," on Wednesday, the president, Mrs. William Simpson, occupying the chair and leading in the opening devotions.

Discussion centred around raising funds, the givings so far this winter having been voluntary, and the members being assisted by other members of the church in this direct giving enterprise.

It was finally decided to postpone any public venture to increase the funds until the end of May, or early in June, the hostess serving afternoon tea following the closing prayer. Officers for the Guild for 1942 are: president, Mrs. W. Simpson; vice-president, Mrs. G. F. Harrington; secretary-treasurer, Miss Anna Fair.

50 BRITISH OFFICERS, MEN TIED, BAYONETED BY JAPS

LONDON, March 10 (CP)—Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden charged in the House of Commons today that the Japanese Army in Hong Kong had been guilty of wholesale atrocities in the occupied Crown Colony and declared that the Japanese emperor and government and "the whole Japanese people" were to blame.

Fifty British officers and men were bound hand and foot and then bayoneted to death following the capture of Hong Kong; women both European and Asiatic, were raped and murdered, and one whole Chinese district was declared a brothel without exception for the status of any of the inhabitants, Mr. Eden declared.

These happenings, previously reported to the government, were not made public until it had confirmation from reliable eyewitnesses recently escaped from the colony, Mr. Eden said.

"Their testimony established the fact that the Japanese army at Hong Konk perpetrated against the helpless military prisoners and civil population without distinction of race or color the same kind of barbarities which aroused the horror of the civilized world at the time of the Nanking massacre of 1937," Mr. Eden continued.

He referred to the Japanese capture of the former Chinese capital on Dec. 13, 1937.

Thousands Murdered

Substantiated accounts at that time said that a reign of terror existed for days, with thousands of women raped and murdered and other thousands of the inhabitants killed during the burning, looting and pillage of Nanking.

Japanese statements at the time described the disorders as a "mopping up" operation.

Sir Percy Harris, Liberal member for Southwest Bethnal Green, asked Mr. Eden to "Make it clear that the Emperor, government and whole Japanese people were responsible for these atrocities."

"That is certainly so," Mr. Eden replied.

All survivors of the Hong Kong garrison were herded into a camp of wrecked huts without doors, windows, light or sanitation, he said.

The dead had to be buried in a corner of the camp.

No drugs or medical facilities were supplied, he declared.

Draw Line On None.

He said eye-witnesses had confirmed the reports of Japanese atrocities in Hong Kong; that the atrocities were committeed without race or color distinctions and were of the same kind which aroused the

Rumor Allies To Jump Madagascar

Action Looms To Foil Vichy Giving Isle To Nipponese

LONDON, March 10 (CP)—Unofficial quarters discussed the possibility today that Allied troops might soon move to occupy the Vichy-controlled island of Madagascar in the western part of the Indian Ocean, close to Africa's east coast and in a strategic position to control Allied supply lines.

They pointed out that since the fall of Singapore the importance of Madagascar has been doubled, and that such an Allied move might have to be made to forestall Japanese occupation of the island.

They emphasized, too, the fact that a Japanese mission is reported to have been in Madagascar for the last six weeks, negotiating for naval and air bases.

One informed but unofficial source said occupation of the island was imperative because the Axis already is in possession of one naval base in the South Indian Ocean, on Vichy-owned Kerguelen Island (Desolation Island) southeast of Capetown.

"I am positive the Japanese were refueling German raiders there early in 1941," he declared. "I know Kerguelen well and any other mariner who has been there will verify that it has a series of well-sheltered harbors.

OTTAWA, March 10 (CP).—Conservative House Leader Hanson said in a statemen today the facts on Japanese atrocities given the British House of Commons by Foreign Secretary Eden would "shock the world," but would "renew our determination to end forever those systems of government under which such atrocities and barbarities are permitted to happen."

"Reprisals are unthinkable to those of us who believe in the Christian way of life," said Mr. Hanson. "I would sound a note of warning that reprisals against Japanese nationals in Canada must not be contemplated. Let it never be forgotten that there are still Canadians and British in the hands of the Japanese."

Japanese Make 3rd Landing On New Guinea

CANBERRA, Australia, March 10—(CP). — The Japanese made a third landing in New Guinea today, enlarging the forces they are marshalling there for what Australians are convinced is an imminent attempt to invade this continent.

The landing was at Finschhafen, where there is a small airfield and a harbor which can accommodate moderate-sized vessels. The strength of the new landing force was not stated.

It is 60 miles east of Lae where, with Salamaua, the Japanese had previously landed.

These and repeated Japanese bombings of Port Moresby—another air raid there today was the 10th—have banished any doubt among officials that Australia may be overlooked by the Japanese temporarily in favor of a drive into India.

In heavy counter-blows the Australian Air Force attacked Japanese concentrations over a wide range in the New Guinea area, scoring hits and near misses on enemy transport units and also machine-gunning and setting fire to a Japanese flying boat.

45 Minutes Flying Away.

Air Minister Arthur Drakeford said some of these were commanding the R.A.A.F., which he added is using every resource at its command to strike at the springboards of invasion on New Guinea, some of them but 45 minutes by fighter plane from these shores.

All this was regarded only as a delaying action, however, as the new enemy landings and renewed air operations underlined the conviction of Australian authorities that invasion attempt has become imminent and inevitable with fall of Java.

They were said to regard the invasion of New Guinea as the forerunner of swift blows against the Australian mainland itself—a full-scale assault probably aimed against Darwin Broome, Wyndham and

(By ROBERT E. BUNNELLE.)

LONDON, March 10 (AP)—Hitler was reported digging deep into his reserves of manpower today and moving up his forces for a gigantic Spring offensive from Leningrad to Rostov to smash Russia and end a growing threat to Germany proper.

The Germans were said to fear that if anything went wrong around Leningrad the Russians might smash right through the Baltic states into Germany.

Reliable sources said confidential advices coming from so many quarters that they are "almost certainly accurate" indicate the Germans had abandoned earlier plans for a defence war in the north and a sharp offensive in the south.

Instead, these sources said, Hitler appears to be planning a general attack because of the Red Army's unexpected successes in the Staraya Russa area and a weakening of the Finns.

The steel ring the Russians had thrown around the 16th German army at Staraya Russa is contracting, Moscow dispatches said. A German prisoner was quoted as saying only 60,000 to 70,000 Germans remained in the trap of the original number estimated at 96,000. The Germans were said to be abandoning settlements within the encirclement, leaving only suicide squods.

London sources said Hitler was pouring all reserves into the Eastern front, even stripping factories of 18-year-old youths and older men.

Thaw May Upset It All

Contradicting the London reports of an accelerated Spring offensive, there were reports from Berlin that conditions caused by early thaws made it doubtful whether the German armies could launch their drive before the end of April or May.

A Swedish correspondent wrote from Berlin that the thaws were giving the "Germans a foretaste of what it will be like when all the great snows which have massed during the severest winter in nearly 100 years begin to melt."

"The German spring offensive will not be able to be launched before the end of April or May or perhaps the beginning of June, but isolated attacks where the ground has dried may occur earlier," the Swedish reporter said.

CAIRO, March 10—(AP).—British torpedo bombers set fire to an Italian cruiser, a merchant vessel and a destroyer in the central Mediterranean yesterday, an announcement said today.

Attacks on the islands of Rhodes and Leros and on Piraeus, the seaport for Athens, also were reported, but no details were given. These took place on Sunday night.

New Contingent Of Canucks Crosses Safely

(By ALLAN NICKLESON.)

A BRITISH PORT, March 10 —(CP Cable)—A convoy carrying a large contingent of Canadian soldiers and airmen has reached port after a safe passage through submarine-infested waters during which depth charges were dropped at least once when U-Boats were reported.

Besides many hundreds of airmen and reinforcements for the Canadian army, the contingent included Canadian Nursing Sisters and Dominion Volunteers for the Mechanized Transport Corps.

There was also a group of Poles, Norwegians, and Belgians who have come to join the armed forces of their countries in Britain.

I was aboard the convoy as it crossed the Atlantic under almost perfect weather conditions. As the big transports moved into port the air was filled with cheers from land and from the ships.

A CHINESE government spokesman announced today the appointment of Lt.-Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell, former United States military attache at Peiping, as chief of staff in the China theatre under Gen. Chiang Kai-Shek.

He said China was sending a military mission to Washington and also announced that China and India would exchange diplomatic representatives. They will be commissioners with ministerial rank.

Whole South Burma Tip Is Lost

Begin Scorched Earth In Bassien 90 Mi. W. Of Rangoon

(By DANIEL DE LUCE.)

MANDALAY, Burma, March 10—(AP).—Japanese legions which have conquered Rangoon and closed the Burma supply line to China in two months surged westward today toward the oil fields of Irrawaddy and the fabulous riches of India.

British authorities indicated they were conceding the loss of the entire southern tip of Burma from Rangoon to the Bay of Bengal by destroying public utilities at Bassein, an important port about 90 miles west of the Burmese capital and key city of the Irrawaddy river delta.

To carry the scorched-earth policy still further, American drillers and engineers working for British oil interests in the Irrawaddy fields 300 miles from Rangoon are ready to smash them so thoroughly that they said the Japanese could not repair them for five years.

A dispatch from a Reuters correspondent with the British forces in Burma said the great oil refineries at Syriam just below Rangoon were demolished and the pipeline from the oil fields 300 miles north of the city was cut before the evacuation.

"Great warehouses, docks, quays, jetties—everything of any possible value to the Japanese—were blown up or set on fire," he added. "The Japanese will find Rangoon wrecked and useless."

Japs Skirt Pegu

The Japanese swept around Pegu, Allied strong point 40 miles north of Rangoon, in their haste to reach the capital, and today the movements of the invaders indicated heavy fighting was shaping up in that sector.

Light Japanese patrols were reported active in the region of Taukkyan, a village 21 miles from Rangoon on a point where the Buma Road branched into two routes toward Mandalay—one via Pegu, the other through Prome.

The Japanese were drawing closer to Prome. Reports said their patrols had been encountered near Tharrawaddy, about 70 miles north of Rangoon on the Prime Road—the only main highway left to the United Nations in Burma.

The defenders said they mopped up this patrol—but others were expected.

Thus the fighting area centred within the triangle formed by Pegu, Taukkyan and Tharrawaddy. The latter city is about 50 miles northwest of Pegu.

Mining In Danger

TORONTO, March 10 —(CP).—Canada's mining industry is in "grave danger of exhaustion" of its ore resources unless a survey of its operations is made to avert further waste, W. G. McBride, president of the Canadian Institute of Mining and Metallurgy, said today in an address to the Institute's annual convention.

Commending the industry for its efforts to meet the demand of wartime, Mr. McBride said that this same increased wartime demand might, if unchecked, be the downfall of the industry. Production speed-up coupled with a decrease in prospecting is resulting in ore bodies being mined out at a much greater rate than replacement by prospecting and discovery is taking place, he said.

No Canadians Mentioned In Tortures

Captors However Show No Distinction Between Race, Creed

OTTAWA, March 10 — (CP). — While no specific reports of Japanese atrocities against Canadian have been received, there is no information to show any Japanese differentiation between Canadian troops and British, who are known to have been maltreated, the External Affairs Department said today.

"Disturbing reports of Japanese treatment of prisoners of war and civilians in Hong Kong have been confirmed," said the External Affairs Department in a statement.

It was issued only a few hours before Foreign Secretary Eden told the British House of Commons of atrocities known to have been committed against British officers and men.

Canadian troops taken prisoner at Hong Kong, the British island outpost off the China shore which surrendered Christmas Day, are believed to number 1,689.

The Canadian force which landed in Hong Kong in mid-November numbered 1,985 officers and men, and of those taken prisoner the External Affairs Department said:

"Of all the reports of specific atrocities received up to the present, none are alleged to have been committed against Canadians but no reports show, however, that insofar as the general treatment of prisoners of war is concerned the Japanese have made any differention between Canadian and other British troops."

10,947 Prisoners On List

The British Foreign Secretary's statement said all survivors of the garrison—the Japanese reported a total of 10,947 prisoners including 5,072 British, 1,689 Canadian, 3,829 Indian and 357 others—had been herded into a camp "consisting of wrecked huts without doors, windows, light or sanitation.'

US Freezes 90 pc. Of Pork Prices

WASHINGTON, March 10 (AP)—The government temporarily froze wholesale prices of 90 per cent of the United States' pork products, including ham and bacon, today at the highest levels prevailing between March 3 and March 7.

The ceiling, effective March 23, applies to dressed hogs and wholesale pork cuts, and Price Administrator Leon Henderson declared it was expected "to help importantly in holding down the cost of living."

Last year, American consumers spent more thon $2,000,000,000 for pork and other hog products.

Neither farmers nor retail outlets are covered directly by the emergency price schedule but Henderson said both would feel its effects. When prices are fixed on dressed hogs or pork cuts, prices which the packer may pay for farmers' hogs automatically are limited.

GrandRampages Into Caledonia

CALEDONIA, Ont., March 10. —(CP).— Most severe flooding in years occurred in the Caledonia region this morning when the Grand river spread far beyond its banks. In the village itself, the water rose to the residential level and began to enter houses along the river banks.

The crest was reached about seven a.m., when the water started to recede and in three hours went down a foot.

A large body of ice, 14 inches or more thick for miles above the Caledonia dam, suddenly broke away in the night and jammed the river east of Caledonia, backing up the water.

Harry Draper and family, also his father, William Draper and son, John, were forced out at five a.m. as three feet of water covered the floors of their home along the river bank.

Water also backed up in cellars of stores on the west side of Argyle street. The Grand river highway also was flooded between Caledonia and York, a dozen or more farmers were hemmed in and could only get out by walking miles over back fields.

Epic Rescue Off Sable Shoals Saves 38

OTTAWA, March 10.—(CP). — Naval headquarters reported to-day that ships and men of the Royal Navy and Royal Canadian Navy had effected the rescue of 38 survivors from the broken after section of an Allied freighter and brought them safely to an eastern Canadian port.

The freighter, the Navy announcement said, was "storm-tossed in the icy waters on the shoals off Sable Island, the graveyard of the North Atlantic."

Ten of the freighter's crew, incuding several officers, were lost, most of them when the forward section of the broken freighter drifted away to founder and sink on the shoals.

One petty officer of the Royal Navy died in the course of rescue operations. He lost his life through exposure caused by clinging to the hull of an overturned whaleboat for 25 minutes in the icy water.

"But," said the statement from Naval Headquarters, "from the time the navy took over the job every survivor alive on the wreck was brought safely into port.

For the survivors, death appeared only a matter of hours away when the navy men rescued them.

The storm-battered freighter was swinging around to resume her course after a vain search for a man washed overboard by mountainous seas when she was lifted high amidships by a giant wave, the navy said.

Bow and stern were out of the water and heavy cargo fore and aft caused the ship to buckle and break in two. An S.O.S. call was sent immediately from the wireless room in the after section of the ship while the helpless crew saw the fore section with several officers and men aboard drift off through the storm spray of the sea.

The S.O.S., received in the operations room of the naval control division on the Atlantic coast, brought lean grey warships on patrol in the area to the scene of the wreck.

Gathered in the after section of the broken freighter, the bulk of her crew made rapid preparations to abandon the wreck in one of their few remaining lifeboats. It was discovered, however, that the engines were still capable of being operated and slow speed astern was made to hold the after end into the wild seas.

New preparations were being made to abandon ship when she grounded on the shoals and sank. She pounded heavily throughout the night. Dawn broke over wild waters as the courageous survivors rigged a makeshift antenna on top of the wireless room and sent weak distress signals.

Shortly afterwards a Catalina flying boat of the R.C.A.F. eastern air command appeared and signalled help was on the way.

"Within an hour the survivors made out the outline of warships to windward," said the navy. "Despite the heavy seas running, the Canadian warships ordered seaboats away immediately and two whaleboats were manned and sent down on the wreck.

"Both whaleboats were swept past and carried over the shoals to the deep water on the leeward side beyond." Next rescue effort was made from a warship of the Royal Navy when a sailing whaler with a picked crew under the command of her first lieutenant was sent away. A scant 50 yards from the wreck a giant comber capsized her.

Month Recess For House

Will Give M.P.'s Time To Speak On Plebiscite

OTTAWA, March 10 —(CP)—The House of Commons Easter recess will be from March 27 to April 20, it was revealed today in the Commons' order paper.

Notice of a motion to this effect was given on the order paper by Prime Minister Mackenzie King.

His motion reads: "That when the House adjourns on Friday the 27th of March instant, it stands adjourned until Monday, the 20th of April next."

The prime minister a few days ago forecast an Easter adjournment of about two weeks. Easter this year falls on April 5.

With the manpower plebiscite to be held April 27, the long Easter adjournment will give all members an opportunity to speak to their constituents on the plebiscite.

The prime minister previously said he hoped the adjournment would provide this opportunity. He said the government hopes to obtain release in the plebiscite from previous commitments regarding the methods of raising men from the forces.

French Industry Aiding Hun 100 P.C. Over Year

NEW YORK, March 10—(CP).—The British Press Service, in a survey of French heavy industry, said that it is bound 100 per cent "directly or indirectly" to the German war machine.

It said reliable information reaching London shows that as far back as March, 1941, an agreement between German and French automibile industries forbade French factories to make private autos without German permission.

In August, 1941, the Peugot firm bombed last week undertook a manufacturing program for two-ton and four-ton trucks.

Other automobile firms working for the Nazis are Citroen and Delahaye, mainly making tanks and trucks. By the end of 1941 they ewre producing "thousands per month" the press service said.

Renault also bombed last week, made tanks. Airplane engines were made by the Hispano Works and aviation precision instruments at Neuilly.

50 BRITISH OFFICERS, MEN TIED, BAYONETED BY JAPS

LONDON, March 10 (CP)—Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden charged in the House of Commons today that the Japanese Army in Hong Kong had been guilty of wholesale atrocities in the occupied Crown Colony and declared that the Japanese emperor and government and "the whole Japanese people" were to blame.

Fifty British officers and men were bound hand and foot and then bayoneted to death following the capture of Hong Kong: women both European and Asiatic, were raped and murdered, and one whole Chinese district was declared a brothel without exception for the status of any of the inhabitants, Mr. Eden declared.

These happenings, previously reported to the government, were not made public until it had confirmation from reliable eyewitnesses recently escaped from the colony, Mr. Eden said.

"Their testimony established the fact that the Japanese army at Hong Konk perpetrated against the helpless military prisoners and civil population without distinction of race or color the same kind of barbarities which aroused "the horror of the civilized world at the time of the Nanking massacre of 1937," Mr. Eden continued.

He referred to the Japanese capture of the former Chinese capital on Dec. 13, 1937.

Thousands Murdered

Substantiated accounts at that time said that a reign of terror existed for days, with thousands of women raped and murdered and other thousands of the inhabitants killed during the burning, looting and pillage of Nanking.

Japanese statements at the time described the disorders as a "mopping up" operation.

Sir Percy Harris, Liberal member for Southwest Bethnal Green, asked Mr. Eden to "Make it clear that the Emperor, government and whole Japanese people were responsible for these atrocities."

"That is certainly so," Mr. Eden replied.

All survivors of the Hong Kong garrison were herded into a camp of wrecked huts without doors, windows, light or sanitation, he said.

The dead had to be buried in a corner of the camp.

No drugs or medical facilities were supplied, he declared.

Action Looms To Foil Vichy Giving Islé To Nipponese

LONDON, March 10 (CP)—Unofficial quarters discussed the possibility today that Allied troops might soon move to occupy the Vichy-controlled island of Madagascar in the western part of the Indian Ocean, close to Africa's east coast and in a strategic position to control Allied supply lines.

They pointed out that since the fall of Singapore the importance of Madagascar has been doubled, and that such an Allied move might have to be made to forestall Japanese occupation of the island.

They emphasized, too, the fact that a Japanese mission is reported to have been in Madagascar for the last six weeks, negotiating for naval and air bases.

One informed but unofficial source said occupation of the island was imperative because the Axis already is in possession of one naval base in the South Indian Ocean, on Vichy-owned Kerguelen Island (Desolation Island) southeast of Capetown.

"I am positive the Japanese were refueling German raiders there early in 1941," he declared. "I know Kerguelen well and any other mariner who has been there will verify that it has a series of well-sheltered harbors.

"Disturbing reports of Japanese treatment of prisoners of war and civilians in Hong Kong have been confirmed," said the External Affairs Department in a statement.

It was issued only a few hours before Foreign Secretary Eden told the British House of Commons of atrocities known to have been committed against British officers and men.

Canadian troops taken prisoner at Hong Kong, the British island outpost off the China shore which surrendered Christmas Day, are believed to number 1,689.

The Canadian force which landed in Hong Kong in mid-November numbered 1,985 officers and men, and of those taken prisoner the External Affairs Department said:

"Of all the reports of specific atrocities received up to the present, none are alleged to have been committed against Canadians but no reports show, however, that insofar as the general treatment of prisoners of war is concerned the Japanese have made any differention between Canadian and other British troops."

10,947 Prisoners On List

The British Foreign Secretary's statement said all survivors of the garrison—the Japanese reported a total of 10,947 prisoners including 5,072 British, 1,689 Canadian, 3,829 Indian and 357 others—had been herded into a camp "consisting of wrecked huts without doors, windows, light or sanitation.'

"By the end of January 150 cases of dysentery had occurred, but no drugs or medical facilities were supplied," he said. "The dead had to be buried in a corner of the camp."

Most European residents of Hong Kong, including some seriously ill, have been interned "and like the military prisoners are being given

US Freezes 90 pc. Of Pork Prices

WASHINGTON, March 10 (AP)—The government temporarily froze wholesale prices of 90 per cent of the United States' pork products, including ham and bacon, today at the highest levels prevailing between March 3 and March 7.

The ceiling, effective March 23, applies to dressed hogs and wholesale pork cuts, and Price Administrator Leon Henderson declared it was expected "to help importantly in holding down the cost of living."

Last year, American consumers spent more thon $2,000,000,000 for pork and other hog products.

Neither farmers nor retail outlets are covered directly by the emergency price schedule but Henderson said both would feel its effects. When prices are fixed on dressed hogs or pork cuts, prices which the packer may pay for farmers' hogs automatically are limited.

GrandRampages Into Caledonia

CALEDONIA, Ont., March 10.—(CP).—Most severe flooding in years occurred in the Caledonia region this morning when the Grand river spread far beyond its banks. In the village itself, the water rose to the residential level and began to enter houses along the river banks.

The crest was reached about seven a.m., when the water started to recede and in three hours went down a foot.

A large body of ice, 14 inches or more thick for miles above the Caledonia dam, suddenly broke away in the night and jammed the river east of Caledonia, backing up the water.

Harry Draper and family, also his father, William Draper and son, John, were forced out at five a.m. as three feet of water covered the floors of their home along the river bank.

Water also backed up in cellars of stores on the west side of Argyle street. The Grand river highway also was flooded between Caledonia and York, a dozen or more farmers were hemmed in and could only get out by walking miles over back fields.

Epic Rescue Off Sable Shoals Saves 38

OTTAWA, March 10.—(CP). — Naval headquarters reported to-day that ships and men of the Royal Navy and Royal Canadian Navy had effected the rescue of 38 survivors from the broken after section of an Allied freighter and brought them safely to an eastern Canadian port.

The freighter, the Navy announcement said, was "storm-tossed in the icy waters on the shoals off Sable Island, the graveyard of the North Atlantic."

Ten of the freighter's crew, incuding several officers, were lost, most of them when the forward section of the broken freighter drifted away to founder and sink on the shoals.

One petty officer of the Royal Navy died in the course of rescue operations. He lost his life through exposure caused by clinging to the hull of an overturned whaleboat for 25 minutes in the icy water.

"But," said the statement from Naval Headquarters, "from the time the navy took over the job every survivor alive on the wreck was brought safely into port.

For the survivors, death appeared only a matter of hours away when the navy men rescued them.

The storm-battered freighter was swinging around to resume her course after a vain search for a man washed overboard by mountainous seas when she was lifted high amidships by a giant wave, the navy said.

Bow and stern were out of the water and heavy cargo fore and aft caused the ship to buckle and break in two. An S.O.S. call was sent immediately from the wireless room in the after section of the ship while the helpless crew saw the fore section with several officers and men aboard drift off through the storm spray of the sea.

The S.O.S., received in the operations room of the naval control division on the Atlantic coast, brought lean grey warships on patrol in the area to the scene of the wreck.

Gathered in the after section of the broken freighter, the bulk of her crew made rapid preparations to abandon the wreck in one of their few remaining lifeboats. It was discovered, however, that the engines were still capable of being operated and slow speed astern was made to hold the after end into the wild seas.

New preparations were being made to abandon ship when she grounded on the shoals and sank. She pounded heavily throughout the night. Dawn broke over wild waters as the courageous survivors rigged a makeshift antenna on top of the wireless room and sent weak distress signals.

Shortly afterwards a Catalina flying boat of the R.C.A.F. eastern air command appeared and signalled help was on the way.

"Within an hour the survivors made out the outline of warships to windward," said the navy. "Despite the heavy seas running, the Canadian warships ordered seaboats away immediately and two whaleboats were manned and sent down on the wreck.

"Both whaleboats were swept past and carried over the shoals to the deep water on the leeward side beyond." Next rescue effort was made from a warship of the Royal Navy when a sailing whaler with a picked crew under the command of her first lieutenant was sent away. A scant 50 yards from the wreck a giant comber capsized her.

EXTRA!

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Acting Secretary of State, Sumner Welles, said today he had received no information tending to confirm reports that the Vichy government has turned over 40 French warships to Germany, as represented in Tass, Soviet News Agency. He reminded a press conference that the United States Ambassador at Vichy, William D. Leahy, had reported no such transfer of French ships. Vichy denied the transfer.

Month Recess For House

Will Give M.P.'s Time To Speak On Plebiscite

OTTAWA, March 10—(CP)—The House of Commons Easter recess will be from March 27 to April 20, it was revealed today in the Commons' order paper.

Notice of a motion to this effect was given on the order paper by Prime Minister Mackenzie King.

His motion reads: "That when the House adjourns on Friday the 27th of March instant, it stands adjourned until Monday, the 20th of April next."

The prime minister a few days ago forecast an Easter adjournment of about two weeks. Easter this year falls on April 5.

With the manpower plebiscite to be held April 27, the long Easter adjournment will give all members an opportunity to speak to their constituents on the plebiscite.

The prime minister previously said he hoped the adjournment would provide this opportunity. He said the government hopes to obtain release in the plebiscite from previous commitments regarding the methods of raising men from the forces.

Tied To Nazi War Machine

French Industry Aiding Hun 100 P.C. Over Year

NEW YORK, March 10—(CP).—The British Press Service, in a survey of French heavy industry, said that it is bound 100 per cent "directly or indirectly" to the German war machine.

It said reliable information reaching London shows that as far back as March, 1941, an agreement between German and French automibile industries forbade French factories to make private autos without German permission.

In August, 1941, the Feugot firm bombed last week undertook a manufacturing program for two-ton and four-ton trucks.

Other automobile firms working for the Nazis are Citroen and Delahaye, mainly making tanks and trucks. By the end of 1941 they ewre producing "thousands per month" the press service said.

Renault also bombed last week, made tanks. Airplane engines were made by the Hispano Works and aviation precision instruments at Neuilly.

TORONTO COUNCIL ASKS ABOLITION WOMEN'S BEVERAGE ROOMS

PremierHepburn Promises Action On Move

TORONTO, March 10 — (CP). — Premier Mitchell Hepburn today declined comment on a resolution passed last night by the Toronto City Council urging abolition of women's beverage-rooms in the city, removal of tables and chairs from men's beverage-rooms and a shortening of hours of sale.

The council moved that the resolution, passed by a vote of 18 to 2, be forwarded to the Premier.

"When the action is presented to the cabinet, we'll deal with it," said Premier Hepburn.

Liquor Board officials declined to comment on the move, but said the board has power to rule in all matters referred to in the resolution. The Ontario Liquor Act provides for Municipal votes only on entire abolition of liquor sale, not on restrictions, they said.

Alderman Leslie Saunders, who introduced the resolution to the city council, said he had received anonymous letters threatening him and Mayor Fred Conboy if they continued their opposition to ladies' beverage rooms.

Horse Racing

Premier Hepburn said that no agitation has yet arisen for abolition of horse-racing on Ontario tracks this summer, adding that "there are a lot of foolish things going on in face of the present war crisis."

"There has been no agitation to abolish racing," Mr. Hepburn said, "and consequently there is no use of trying to get ahead of public sentiment. Let public sentiment catch up with it."

The Premier's statement was made in connection with a Manitoba report that a bill is to be introduced in the legislature of that province to abolish racing there.

Epic Rescue

The men clung to the hull and a volunteer crew of Canadian seamen with a Royal Navy petty officer immediately put off in one of the Canadian whalers and rescued the British whaler's crew.

All of them recovered from their immersion with the exception of one R.N. petty officer.

"The other Canadian whaler then put off from the warship with an R.N. sub lieutenant at the tiller and a mixed crew from the Canadian boats' crews and the British warship drawing alongside in the heavy seas," said the navy.

"They were able to reach the wreck and take off 12 of the survivors. With the same sub lieutenant at the tiller and a fresh mixed crew the whaler put off again and brought off 12 more survivors."

Then, with darkness falling the Canadian whaleboat, this time in command of an R.C.N.R. lieutenant and a mixed crew made the third trip in the light of the warship's searchlight. This time nine survivors were taken off before the heavy seas made it expedient to cast off and return to the ship.

"The crews were worn out, but four survivors still remained aboard, and so they ran through the breakers once more and successfully rescued the last four survivors."

A lanky redhead emerged as the hero of the disaster, according to his shipmates. A radio operator, he stuck to his key even ater his ship cracked in two repeatedly flashing word of the mishap.

Shack Saves Them.

The youth explained his part by saying: "It was just part of my job to stay at my post. And anyway, I didn't save the boys, my radio shack did."

"You see," he continued, "shortly after the ship busted up, our half was driven way down in the water. In fact, it was impossible to live on the decks. So we climbed up to the shack and managed to stay there until we were rescued."

Th captain and the officers, he said, were lost when the forward part of th ship floated away.

"It was just a coincidence I was able to send the messages anyway," he said. "If I had gone forward to eat, as I was supposed to do, I would never have been able to reach the radio. It just happened that I was working a bit overtime."

The youth admited it was "a bit tough" clinging to the precarious perch for so many hours. "We were in water up to our waists most of the time and though salt water won't freeze it gets awfully cold," he said, rubbing his feet which "still won't navigate as they should."

One Rescuer Swept Away.

John Marriner, a stocky seadog with several wrecks chalked up in his personal log, had only praise for the British sailors who rescued them. "The first boat they put out upset," he said, "and one chap was lost. But they made it finally and took us off. If they had been an hour or so later very few of us would have been left."

He said the waves made "matchwood" out of the ship. "I never knew how hard water could hit until I watched our boat disappear before my eyes," he added. "It was frightening."

Another chap, Paul Vroman, was proud of the way crew members kept their heads. "They never once became panicky," he said, "and everybody tried to keep everyone else's spirits up."

He told how the men were reduced to drinking distilled water after their fresh supply was cut off. "We took the stuff that we had put in the ship's batteries and drank it but it tasted funny. And it didn't quench our thirst very much."

world's horror at the time of the Nanking massacre in 1937.

The Japanese actions, he said, apparently would not bear independent investigation as permission was refused for a representative of the Red Cross to go there.

"Two things are clear—to the House, the country and the world —First that the Japanese claim that they are animated by lofty chivalry is nauseating hypocrisy," he said.

"Secondly, the enemy must be utterly defeated and we can best express our sympathy with the victims of these appalling outrages by redoubling our efforts to ensure his utter and overwhelming defeat."

Sir John Wardlaw-Milne, Conservative, Kiddermaster asked if Mr. Eden would do everything possible to make the facts public so the people of this country "will at last know what they are up against and put their backs for once into the war."

"Naturally we have to be most careful of the facts before we make a statement," Mr. Eden replied. "That is the only reason why we have not made one sooner. The government felt it would be quite wrong to make any statement unless absolutely convinced of the facts and, bearing that in mind, that being so, in spite of the sufferings of relatives, it was our duty to make it known."

Whole World to Know It.

Mr. Eden assured J. J. Lawson, labor member for the Chester-Le-Street division of Durham, who wanted to know if the German and Italian people would be advised over the radio of "how the new order is working under their new ally," that the "widest publicity in all languages will be given these atrocities."

In the House of Lords Colonial Secretary Viscount Cranborne made a statement similar to Mr. Eden's and assured Lord Strabolgi, labor peer, that the whole world would hear "this appalling story."

Replying to questions, Lord Cranborne said the Japanese government is not an actual party to the Prisoners of War Convention, although it had stated its willingness to observe the spirit of the convention.

"We have been in touch with the International Red Cross to try to get some contact with our people in Hong Kong but up to now the Japanese have rejected any approach," Lord Cranborne said.

When Lord Strabolgi suggested that Britain should invite the Russian government to use its good offices in Tokyo to have something done "for these helpless people," Lord Cranborne said: "That is a new point to me, but I will pass it on the proper quarters."

"Our aerial was shot away and we got a few holes," Flt.-Sgt. W. B. Blizzard, St. Lambert, Que., second pilot, reported. "When the searchlights got us, the flak came. There must have been hundreds of searchlights there."

Flt.-Sgt. E. T. McGill, Winnipeg, wireless operator and air gunner in the same aircraft, said there was "a terrific amount" of black smoke coming up after they had dropped their bombs. He saw two large fires and number of smaller ones break out.

"It make the 24th of May look very ordinary," was the description stocky Sgt.-Gunner E. N. Jefferies, Montreal, gave the show. Sgt. F. Y. Craig, Vulcan, Alta., and PO. F. A. G. Gerty, Abbotsford, B.C., agreed it was "a honey."

"We could see factory chimneys standing up amidst the fires," declared Flt.-Sgt. Graves, Fort William, N.S. "Great columns of smoke were billowing upwards but not enough completely to obliterate the target."

"We had no difficulty finding the target," PO. F. V. Taylor, Gull Lake, Sask., told newspapermen. "We could see it a long way off. Unfortunately we didn't see the results of our own bombing as we were taking violent evasive action after we had done our job and we were busy getting out of the way of the flak."

R.A.F. Pastes Essen 2 Nights In Row Big Dover Guns Rake French Coast

LONDON, March 10—(CP).—The German industrial city of Essen, site of the great Krupp works, was pounded last night for the second straight night by Royal Air Force bombers.

It was stated authoritatively that Essen was the main objective of air offensive operations which also included a "subsidiary attack" on the French Channel coast.

British heavy guns along the Dover Strait blasted at enemy targets intermittently during the night and early today and the sounds of heavy explosions across the Channel could be heard by coastal observers.

The crash of the big guns awakened residents of the southeast coast shortly after midnight. The firing continued at intervals for 45 minutes.

The warfare flared up again at 3 a.m., and an hour later heavy explosions could be heard up the French coast between Boulogne and Calais.

The latest rumble of explosions was heard at 9 a.m.

sectors, and fresh snow storms were reported to have brought a virtual standstill to fighting in the Kerch Peninsula and Donets Basin, where previously the ice had started to crack.

Hitler launched his initial attack on Russia last June 22, and the German juggernaut rolled relentlessly onward until the mud which preceded the frosts halted it. Then with the full onslaught of winter, the Red Army's unchecked counter-offensive began.

Russians Hitting Hard

New blows by the Russians against the northern and southern extremities of the eastern front continued the Red effort to cripple the Nazi war machine before it could snap out of its winter lethargy for its spring offensive.

The Calais radio said Marshal Semon Timoshenko was thrusting four to six divisions against Nazi positions in the direction of Taganrog on the salt marshes of the Sea of Azov and against Stalino, an industrial centre in the Ukraine. The Germans acknowledged that the Russians succeeded in temporarily penetrating their positions" under cover of powerful artillery fire" but said they were driven back in counter-attacks.

Soviet reports said the Red Army based on Leningrad was extending its operations toward Schluesselburg, key point at the eastern end of the German line. The Russians also claimed the ocupation of an important point on the Orel front in spite of "stiff German resistance."

Kharkov, the great steel capital in the Donets basin, was reported in a Moscow dispatch to be surrounded by Russian troops on three sides.

MOSCOW, March 10 (AP)—Red Army troops smashed German resistance to continue their ground advances yesterday and the Red Air Force held a marked edge in expanding aerial warfare, the Soviet Information Bureau said today.

The Germans were declared to have lost 358 planes in the week of March 1-7, against Soviet losses of 65.

Indicating continued German thrusts against the capital's defences, the information bureau said "We shot down four German planes near Moscow on March 9."

Without details, the communique reported the reoccupation of a number of additional villages and towns yesterday in the Red Army struggle to push back Hitler's lines and wipe out pockets of German resistance from Lake Ilmen to the Sea of Azov.

The mid-day communique reported continuation of offensive operations against the invaders and said that one Red Army unit on the western front in one day's fighting occupied several populated places.

The Germans suffered heavily in equipment and manpower in this fight and the communique said the enemy lost more than 2,000 dead and wounded.

Four populated places were retaken in the Kalinin area.

For Wednesday, March 11.

Although this may be a particularly active day with many things of importance moving at high tempo, yet there are all sorts of difficulties, delays, obstructions, disturbances or distresses to cope with. The impulses and energies may be ready to attack such problems, but the mind may be confused or perplexed or depressed.

Those whose birthday it is may prepare for an active and seemingly productive year, with the energies, impulses and creative abilities ready to inaugurate new or important projects of promising scope. But there may arise obstructions delays, fears and many difficulties which depress and lower the intiative and purpose.

A child born on this day should have much constructive ability, energy and ambition, but may be subject to depressions, obstacles and mental gloom which may undermine their purpose and incite enmity from elders.

very large Japanese whaling-fleet tanker which put in at Batavia in June, 1941, and asked for 5,200 tons of crude oil to go home to Japan.

"The Dutch discovered the tanker had come from Kerguelen, and that she supposedly had been whaling in southern waters. But there wasn't a drop of whale oil in her tanks.

"The Dutch pumped 250 tons of crude into her and told her indignant captain to shove off. There was no doubt in their minds, I suppose, that this whaler had been servicing German raiders.

"There is no doubt in my mind, either. My guess is that the Germans and Japs have been using Kerguelen as a trading post since the Japs got Indo-China. When the Axis isn't there, the island is inhabited only by rabbits."

Kerguelen, named for the French navigator who discovered the island in 1772 and called it "Desolation Land," lies south of the "Roaring Forties" some 2,300 miles southeast of Cape Town.

World's 4th Largest Isle

Madagascar is the fourth largest island in the world and France's insular possession. It came under French rule in 1896.

Its extreme length is 980 miles. Its area of 228,500 square miles is exceeded by only three other islands, Greenland, New Guinea and Borneo.

Tananarive, its capital, is connected by rail with the east coast port of Tamative, 230 miles away.

The population is mostly native, with only approximately 40,000 foreigners of 4,000,000. French nationals, including colonial administration officials, army garrisons and import and export business representatives, account for about 25,000 of the foreign population.

Strong economic ties formerly bound Madagascar to France, with four-fifths of the island's exports going to the mother country and three-fourths of its imports originating in France and her other colonies.

The colonial administration, directly supervised from Vichy, is headed by Governor-General Armand Annet, appointed by Marshal Petain in December, 1940.

FDR Slashes Out At Inflation

WASHINGTON, March 10 (AP)—Leaders in the House of Representatives pointed today to a sober warning by President Roosevelt against inflation and profiteering as one good reason why the farm bloc should agree to abandon farm-price restrictions in an agricultural appropriation bill.

The president, in broadcasting a message last night on the ninth anniversary of the National Farm Program, emphasized that "if all prices keep on going up we shall have inflation of a very dangerous kind—we shall have such a steep rise in prices and the cost of living that the entire nation will be hurt."

Mr. Roosevelt, outspoken in his objections to the surplus-at-parity restriction demanded by the farm bloc, declared recently that such a concession would raise the United States eating bill by $1,000,000,000 a year. Representative John McCormack of Massachusetts, House leader, announced he would try to eliminate the restriction tomorrow, when debate on the bill will be resumed.

(Parity is the United States agriculture department's determination of the fair price relationships between what the farmer sells and what he buys. For most commodities, it is based on relationships which existed during the pre-war period 1909-14.)

He said 90 per cent of the population was co-operating and remarked that "if less than 10 per cent of the population is chiselling we still have a pretty good national record."

Early in the address he declared the American people are not complacent or apathetic.

On the contrary, he said, they are "wholeheartedly and entirely committed to action."

Vice-President Henry Wallace and Agriculture Secretary Claude Wickard lauded the ever-normal granary plan, undertaken early in the Roosevelt administration.

Start Saving Tin

WASHINGTON, March 10 (AP)—The United States war production board announced today it planned wherever possible to require substitution of tin-coated lead and tin-lead alloys for collapsible metal tubes heretofore made of tin, and to eliminate tube packing of non-essentials. Manufacturers also will be required to use salvaged tin wherever they can.

As Tokyo Tells It

Tokyo, (From Japanese Broadcasts), March 10 (AP)

IMPERIAL headquarters claimed today that Japanese forces had sunk or damaged 767 enemy vessels, had captured another 134 and had destroyed 1,161 airplanes since start of the war in the Pacific.

The communique, recounting military results" for Japan's armed forces, claimed enemy losses in dead alone amuonted to 79,999 up to the time Japanese forces penetrated Johore in the Malayan campaign.

It also claimed 119,028 prisoners of war.

Aussies Scout New Guinea Area

CANBERRA, March 10.—(CP)—Australian planes reconnoitred concentrations of Japanese shipping in the New Guinea area, where the Japanese have established two landing bases on Australian-mandated territory, it was announced today.

The Royal Australian Air Force said one of its reconnoitering planes was attacked by two enemy fighters but both were driven off.

The R.A.A.F. also said no casualties were caused by the Japanese raid on Port Moresby, New Guinea, which was announced yesterday.

At Adelaide, Lt.-Gen. Sir Iven MacGay, commander of the Home Forces told the Australians that a large-scale Japanese invasion of Australia "would be difficult but not beyond their capacity."

He warned his countrymen not to sit back and wait for others to defend the continent.

Drover Drowns

BARRIT, Ont., March 10—(CP)—Davis Bishop, middle-aged Barrie cattle drover was drowned to-day when his truck left the road and turned over in the flooded waters of Willow Creek on the farm of Morris Jones, from where Bishop was taking a load of cattle.

Jones escaped from the cab of the truck but was unable to reach Bishop, trapped on the right side of the cab.

Seven Districts Out Of 12 Go Over Top

Seven of the twelve districts in Peterborough County exceeded their Victory Loan objectives, according to final figures on the campaign released this afternoon from Victory Loan Headquarters. The total is impressive having climbed to $3,034,250 or $284,250 more than the original objective of $2,750,000.

In comparison with the result last June, when $3,084,000 was subscribed, it would appear that the subscribers had slumped, but the direct opposite is the case as more than twice as many people subscribed in the present loan, as did last midsummer. In the other loan there were other bond conversions that added one-third of a million dollars to the total and upwards of $200,000 more from the special names, or the big industrial corporations.

The figures reveal that the city of Peterborough took up the slack but it must be remembered that many county residents now working in wartime city industries purchased bonds and their purchases show in the industrial total. In all 22 industries in this city gave excellent co-operation with the majority of them oversubscribing the plant objectives. This has reference to bonds purchased by employees only. The amount set for the city of Peterborough was $1,350,000, and the total subscribed is $1,560,050. In special names there is $52,000 more than was sought.

The sections of the county which went over the top are Lakefield, Asphodel, South Burleigh-Harvey-Cavendish, North Burleigh-Chandos, Anstruther, Douro, Dummer, and Otonabee.

Fine Work at Omemee.

One of the finest bits of work by any district throughout the whole of Ontario was turned in by the Omemee-Emily district in the drive which ended on Saturday. The objective set for this district was $65,000, and this was oversubscribed three hours after the books were opened. Now the final total is $124,850, a magnificent showing for a section that is almost entirely rural.

The final summary is as follows:

	Objective	Secured to Date	% of Objective Obtained
City of Peterboro	$1,350,000	$1,560,050	115.5
City Special Names....	1,000,000	1,052,000	105.2

Germans Losing Cocksureness Under Red Drive

(By ILYA CHRENBOURG.)

With the Red Army, March 8 (Delayed)—Three Germans staggered from a captured dugout today with upraised hands and one of them kept muttering "nichts, nichts," (nothing, nothing).

The repeated word describes how the enemy has lost his cocksureness and poise on the front where our forces are battering the last German line before the Dneiper.

These Germans, many of whom have been rushed from Poland ahead of the "spring offensive," are extremely nervous. Two days ago they opened fire on a wood five miles from where I am not writing this despatch. They shot 15,000 shells and the casualties were a telephonist killed and four men wounded.

General Vlasov would be one of the last of our officers to underestimate the enemy but after talking with German prisoners he agreed that the invaders aren't the men they used to be.

"I saw them shortly after the outbreak of the war," General Vlasov told me. "Then they advanced with gusto. Why are they holding fast now? Only out of fear. All their courage comes from fear."

The troops to which I am attached have undertaken to liberate a large piece of Soviet territory and on many parts of the front the German lines have already been pierced.

Our troops are fighting hard; the individual engagements may seem incomprehensible in themselves but they are all part of the grand plan.

I watched one tiny phase of this giant battle, an attack by our forces on a village and a hill, although to call the places by those names is an exaggeration — they had ceased to be.

Action With the Tanks

From a command post I saw our tanks approach the enemy dugouts. Grey clouds flew upward and tiny figures came running from the dugouts and fell prone.

Our men crept along the snow; when they approached the area covered by our artillery the range of the big guns was lengthened.

From my high vantage point, the dashes of our men, the bursting of the shells and the trundling of the wounded off the field all seemed like a strange game.

A tank commander came into the post to report that thirty Germans had been wiped out in the dugouts, "but how many are left I don't know."

He was trying to hide a bleeding finger; our men ignore such trifling wounds in this campaign for liberty.

The peasants long ago left this village occupied by the Germans and artillery fire has reduced its houses to rubble. Shells have torn huge chunks out of the hill behind.

It was comfortably furnished with rugs and nickel-plated beds which had been taken from the peasant houses for the officers; the soldiers slept on bunks.

Stoves and kitchen utensils had also been requisitioned from the peasant dwellings.

German prisoners say that they have been told they must hold this sector at all costs. In a little wood I counted the bodies of 400 of their comrades who had died trying.

Car Slides Into Freight Train

Allan Brown, 108 Lansdowne avenue, escaped with a scratch on his forehead at noon today when the car he was driving slid into the side of a C.N.R. freight car at George and Romaine streets.

Brown driving northward, tried to stop his machine as the freight train, travelling in a south-easterly direction reached the crossing but the machine slid on the slippery road, the front colliding with one considerable damage to the front.

Brown had his spectacles broken but fortunately none of the broken glass went into his eyes.

Clothes For Men And Boys To Lose Frills

OTTAWA, March 10 (CP)—Sharp restrictions which will eliminate frills in men's and boys' clothing, are contained in orders made public tonight by the Wartime Prices and Trade Board.

In general, specifications restrict the amount of cloth which may be used by eliminating fancy designs, patch pockets, trouser cuffs, pleats and double-breasted coats. Only one pair of trousers is allowed with each suit. The orders are explained in the preambles as "necessary to conserve materials and labor."

The orders follow similar steps announced in the United States.

First of the four Canadian orders to take effect is that containing specifications which must be followed by manufacturers of sportswear after April 10.

Restrictions on men's and boys' clothing, other than made-to-measure, and waterproof clothing, are effective May 1, while specifications for made-to-measure men's and boys' clothing take effect Aug. 1.

Designs for men's sack coats must eliminate belted, bi-swings or pleated backs, patch pockets and inside bellows, vents in either the side or back, cash pockets, arm shields, real or imitation buttonholes and chain stitching on the sleeves, cuffs on sleeves, double-breasted sack coats or tuxedo coats and buttons on the sleeves.

The coat length for size 38 is limited to 29½ inches and other sizes will conform.

For vests the ban included back straps, inside breast pockets, pencil pockets, double-breasted vests and collars.

Restrictions are applied to the length and width of trouser legs with trousers for size 32 waist not to exceed 19½ inches in width at the bottom.

Watch pockets will be missing in the cuffless trousers and with them will go such things as extension waistbands, flaps on back pockets, back or side straps, high English type backs and raised seams.

On sport packets and tropical suits two patch pockets will be permissible.

Restrictions for boys suits follow those governing men's designs. For some types of suits, such as high school cadet or prep suits and junior or juvenile suits two pairs of trousers may be supplied, in long, breeches or short type, but for these suits the specifications prohibit vests, golf bloomers, sport suits and sport jackets.

Men's overcoats, taking size 38 a standard, must not exceed 46 inches in length, with a sweep of 56 inches for single-breasted coats and 60 inches for double-breasted types.

On the banned list for overcoats are: All-round belts, cuffs and tabs on the sleeves, buttons on the sleeves, throat or collar tabs and billows pockets and facing.

Similar restrictions are applied to spring and fall topcoats. Variations in length and sizing of all specifications are permissible only when they are necessitated by actual physical requirements of individuals.

On men's windbreakers pleats are prohibited, but piece backs are allowed providing yardage is not in excess of that required for one-piece back.

Other Eliminations.

Military and bellow patch pockets will disappear as well as collar tabs, zipper pockets, and double yokes or backs. Mens bush coats and mackinaw coats are allowed a maximum of four pockets. Norfolk style mackinaw coats are banned.

Four pockets are allowed for work breeches and five for sport breeches with zippers and tunnel loops banned on both types.

Restrictions on men's and women's ski slacks call for only two pockets and prohibit side straps, tunnel loops and pleats.

The order covering waterproof or rubberized clothing restricts coat lengths and eliminates real or imitation leather buttons, double-breasted tweed models, belts, back vents and slits on tweed models and gun patches and epaulets on trench models.

Wild Geese Return

Gore's Landing, March 10 (ENS)

TWO flocks of wild geese flew across Rice Lake towards the north on Sunday morning. Older residents say this is rather early for the appearance of these birds, but clearly presages spring.

The ice on the lake is becoming very dark and heavy looking from the warm sun and mild weather of the past week. Crows are flying and the hills around the lake are completely bare of snow.

Heavy Docket Looms In Supreme Court

COBOURG, March 10.—(ENS)—Two criminal cases and two civil actions are on the docket for the sittings of Supreme Court, spring assizes, which open on Monday next with Mr. Justice Plaxton presiding. The civil cases are both the result of motor accidents. Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hosburgh, young couple of Murray Township, are charged with manslaughter in connecton with the death early this year of their two-month-old daughter. It is alleged that the baby died from lack of proper nourishment. The two were arrested by provincial police after Coroner Dr. H. C. Rundle of Brighton had been summoned to the Horsburgh home in connection with the death of the baby. At the preliminary hearing, medical evidence placed the cause of the death as malnutrition.

The second criminal case on the list is a charge of assault and robbery against Elmer Lee, aged 21, of Toronto. On the same charge, tried in the magistrate's court in Bowmanville last month, Lloyd McAnerin, age 22, formerly of Cobourg, was sentenced to three years in Kingston. The police allege that on December 21, last year, Lee and McAnerin called at the farmhouse of Mr. and Mrs. R. Mountjoy in Cartwright Township on the pretext that their car was stuck in the ditch. When Mrs. Mountjoy, who is elderly, said that her husband was away, she was slugged over the head with a blunt instrument and carried to a rear shed, after which the two are said to have robbed her of a $100 gold watch.

Damages totalling $50,000 are involved in connection with a motor fatality in which the widows of the three men killed in the accident are suing both under the Fatal Accidents Act and for general damages. The case had its origin in an accident which took place on March 30th of last year. At that time, towards midnight, a large transport driven by Durwood Dafoe of Toronto, was proceeding south on William street, Highway No. 2, when it met in collision with a northbound car at a point south of the House of Refuge curve. The truck continued on its way for some distance and went over a culvert, the trailer bouncing on the top of the tractor cab, smashing it like an egg shell and killing the driver. The car, which police said, was driven by Archie Patterson of Peterborough was flung to the east ditch and was a total wreck. Patterson died instantly. John Jewell, who was with him, died a few hours later. Mrs. John Jewell, the other passenger in the car, sustained cuts and bruises.

Mrs. Dafoe is suing Alfred James Chapman, administrator of the estate of the late Archie Patterson, under the Fatal Accidents Act, for the sum of $30,000 and costs, alleging that the Patterson car was travelling on the wrong side of the road at the time of the accident. Mrs. Vera Jewell and Mrs. Etta Patterson, widows of the other deceased men are suing the Smith Transport Co., whose truck Dafoe was said to have been operating at the time of the accident, alleging that it was on the wrong side of the highway when the accident occurred. Mrs. Patterson asks $5,000 damages and costs under the Fatal Accidents Act. Mrs. Jewell, who sues on behalf of herself and two children asks $5,000 damages under the Fatal Accidents Act and in addition the sum of $10,000 general damages for personal injuries, plus costs.

The other civil case is a claim for damages brought by Jack Marsh Transport of Toronto against Cunning Wells Ltd., Toronto, H. Macdonald and Eldon Flegg, drivers, for $2,504.74. In connection with the same accident P. Blondin Transport, Trenton and Auburn Robertson, driver, are suing the Marsh Transport in a counterclaim for $455 damages. At the time of the accident, which occurred early in the morning of July 10, last year, the Marsh transport was heading east near Smithfield. The Cunningham Wells transport was parked on the north side of the highway. The Blondin truck was proceeding west and it alleged in the statement of claim of the Marsh transport, that the Cunningham Wells truck was parked in a dangerous spot, while the Blondin transport failed to exercise care with the result that Marsh transport went into the ditch.

Super Strategy Board

WASHINGTON, Mar. 10—(AP)—A proposal that President Roosevelt set up a Super War Strategy Board, headed by a single commander-in-chief for both the United States Army and Navy was made to-day by Senator Lister Hill of Alabama, the Democratic whip. Speaking as a veteran member of the Senate Military Affairs Committee, Hill told reporters he is convinced that immediate unification of command here over land, sea and air forces is necessary if the United States is to develop its maximum military striking power.

Box Factory Rumour Fizzles Council Believes Story A Fake

COBOURG, Mar. 10 — (ENS) — Members of the town council and the mayor emphatically denied at council meeting last night, that there was any truth in the rumors that a box factory had been trying to locate in Cobourg and that it had been turned down.

"I know of nothing at all to support the report" said Mayor Burnet. "Do you know anything of it, Mr. Clerk?" asked the Mayor.

"I have received no communications or had any interviews in connection with it. I would have if there anything to it," stated the clerk.

The mayor asked the councillors in turn if they had any knowledge of a box factory wanting to come to Cobourg. Each councillor said that he knew nothing about it.

"Well, gentlemen, that is the situation. It is too bad that such rumors get around. If a factory wanted to come here we would be right after it. We don't want to drive factories away. It is to the interests of the town and our own individual interests to have more factories here. I was approached during the week-end by several who had heard that a box factory was going to come here. It was news to me, and it is news to you gentlemen," said Mayor Burnet.

Mayor Hamilton Writes

Communication from Mayor Hamilton of Peterborough, expressed concern over the fact that the town, according to a rumor, was not going to join the Canadian Federation of Mayors and Municipalities. He felt that such an organization was particularly valuable at this time when the Dominion government and Provincial were apparently beset with the idea of encroaching on the preserves of municipal funds. Council decided to join.

The auditor's report was produced and referred to the finance committee. The clerk pointed out that the harbor front leases were soon to come up and council accordingly decided to set aside a special meeting to consider them.

The following committee accounts were passed: Highways and streets, $293.12; public buildings and printing, $499.67; police, $9.70; fire, water and light, $15.25; market, $221.39; health and sanitation, $23.71; finance and harbor, $523.12; and direct relief, $263.93.

In connection with trucks parking on the north side of James street between John and Division streets, Mayor Burnet reported that Chief W. J. Carey was looking into it. Council also decided to consult the town solicitor in connection with putting "No Parking Signs" in that section.

Reeve Roy Dodge informed the council that Miss J. Perrie and Miss M. Dowling of the local Girl Guides had performed valuable service assisting the tenants of the terrace which was destroyed by fire a week ago. Council agreed with his suggestion that the clerk send a letter of appreciation to the Girl Guide Company.

Telephone Men Are Kept Busy

CAMPBELLFORD, Mar. 10 (ENS)—A high wind which whipped this district during the early hours of Monday morning kept telephone linemen busy most of the day repairing breaks which occurred in various parts of the town and nearby rural area. Limbs torn from trees put three rural lines out of commission during the day while inside the town a 25-pair cable on Grand Road "went wet" putting phones in that part of town out of order till late in the afternoon. According to the local telephone manager, W. D. Wood, the damage as a whole was comparatively slight and all lines were back in operation by the end of the day.

The gale will also cost the Seymour Agriculture Society some time and effort, as it ripped out a large section of the fence surrounding the grounds, which the society has for some time been considering repairing anyway. John Morgan had the roof of his barn, located in Seymour township, blown off during the morning.

Workers Stranded

PICKERING, Ont., Mar. 10—(CP)—Hundreds of war workers, coming off shift from a nearby plant, were stranded today, miles from their homes, when Duffin's Creek overflowed Highway No. 2 to a depth of approximately three feet for more than a quarter of a mile.

Huge cakes of ice litter the roadway, and Department of Highways trucks are standing by to pull marooned transports through the inundated region.

Pickering is 20 miles east of Toronto.

Obituary

JOHN TICE CLARE

TWEED, March 10 (ENS)—John Tice Clare, residence, Tweed, died in hospital in Kingston, on Sunday. He was in failing health for some time.

The late Mr. Clare, who had reached the age of eighty-two years, was born in the Township of Huntingdon and was a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Clare. For some years he engaged in farming in his native township and eventually went to southern Manitoba, where he farmed on a large scale near the town of Napinka. About twenty years ago he returned to Ontario and resided in Belleville for a time before going to make his home in Tweed.

In the communities where he lived at various times of his life, Mr. Clare held a high place in the regard of many friends. He never married. In religion he was an adherent of the United church.

Surviving him are one sister, Mrs. Emma Ketcheson of Tweed; three brothers, Mr. George Clare of Moira; Dr. Charles Clare of Winnipeg and Mr. W. H. Clare of Saskatoon, Sask.

Trent River Is Choked With Blocks Of Ice

HASTINGS, March 10—(ENS).—For more than a mile above the bridge here the Trent River is choked with huge blocks of grinding ice. Old timers say it is the most ice seen in the river here in more than 25 years.

Chief cause of the ice barrage is said to be the recent mild weather, which caused a premature break-up in Rice Lake and Monday's driving wind. If the wind should change the ice constitutes a potential hazard to the water power wheels at the local tannery.

Several times during past years the plant has been forced to shut down because the water wheels have been rendered useless by the ice.

Probe Under Way

WINDSOR, Ont., March 10—(CP)—A Board of Conciliation under Mr. Justice J. G. Gillanders of the Ontario Supreme Court, appointed by the Department of Labor to investigate a dispute between the Chrysler Corporation of Canada and its employees, began its hearings today.

The employees are represented by Local 195 of the United Automobile Workers of America (C.I.O.).

Wheezing in the Chest Points to Bronchitis

The principal symptom of bronchitis is a dry, harsh, hacking cough accompanied by a rapid wheezing and tightness across the chest.

There is a raising of phlegm, especially in the morning. This phlegm is at first of a light colour, but as the trouble progresses becomes yellowish or greenish.

You may find in Dr. Wood's Norway Pine Syrup a remedy to help stimulate the weakened bronchial organs, relieve the inflammation, soothe the irritated parts, loosen the phlegm and mucous, and aid nature to easily dislodge the morbid accumulation.

Havelock Schools Buy Victory Bond

HAVELOCK, March 10—(ENS)—The High School Literary Society could not decide in what way to invest its surplus savings after Commencement, but when the Victory Loan canvasser, T. P. Lancaster, called at the school, the pupils promptly decided to buy a $50 Victory Bond to help swell Havelock's donation to the 2nd Victory Loan campaign.

At the beginning of the campaign all the public school teachers decided they would each conduct a War Savings stamp campaign in their own room, each room to try and sell $30 worth, or a total of $150. Although none of the rooms met their objective, the results were most gratifying and were as follows: Miss Wing's room, $9; Miss Buchanan's, $6; Miss McNeely's, $12; Miss Watson's $28.50, and Mr. Sutherland's room, $16.50. The pupils all entered whole-heartedly into the campaign, and the teachers are quite proud of their efforts.

Easter Story Told

The March meeting of the Mission Band was held in the United Church basement on Monday afternoon, with only a fair attendance. Meeting was presided over by the president, Stella Wilkinson. The Band leader, Miss Laurabelle Wing read the story, "How Easter Came to Old Quebec." The program convener for next meeting is Joan Page. A poem, "How They Know," was read by Helen Revoy.

Ganaraska River Overflows Banks

PORT HOPE, March 10 (ENS)—The Ganaraska River is again on the rampage and the citizens and merchants of the town watched it closely on Monday. Residents on Cavan street, which is completely under water, have been warned to move their household belongings to a higher level. The water is very high and although hitting the bridge at times, has not yet gone over.

Owing to the very mild weather of the past few days the river is free of ice blocks and the merchants, although they have cleared their cellars on Ontario street, think that the menace of a flood may yet be averted if the rain does not start again.

Tremendous Amount Of Work Finished By Women War Workers

PORT HOPE, March 10—(ENS).—The Women's War Workers' Committee meeting was held in the Red Cross Committee Rooms, Post Office Building, on Monday night with the president, Mrs. J. W. Foote in the chair.

The meeting opened with a report on the election of the heads of the different committes by the secretary Mrs. M. H. Ryan, which was adopted.

Mrs. Wotherspoon reported the moneys brought in from the marathon bridge groups up till March 1, naming the groups by the conveners of each: Mrs. Wotherspoon, $91.00; Mrs. English, $37.00; Mrs. E. B. Hyne and Mrs. Reynolds $107.25; Mrs J. A. Morris, $91.75; Mr. Shay, $136.50; Miss Marjorie Keeler, $36.00; Miss Beryl Austin, $8.00; Miss P. Hutchings, $66.00; Miss Hagerman and Mrs. J. L. Sheehan, $119.50; Mrs. F. Sculthorpe $106.00; Miss Edith Corbett, $28.00; Miss D. Watson and Miss Mary Farrow, $25.00; L. Boney, $39.00; Miss Marie Barnard, $12.00; total, $903.00.

A call was sent out for 67 pairs of small size 10 socks for the sailors on the H.M.C.S. Port Hope, minesweeper. There sailors are all small men as their quarters are very small.

The treasurer's report was read by Mrs. C. M. Thompson: Tearoom receipts $40.20; donations, $124.90; expenses, $22.83; balance, $142.27; Welcome Red Cross donation, $10.00; Mrs. Vandervoort, $2.00; Mrs. James from sale of pussywillows, $1.50; extra from Victory Loan banquet, $15.90; Victory Loan supper, $45.50; Rotary Club donated through tearoom, $50.00.

Woollen Materials.

Commitee reports were then read by the wool convener, Mrs. Freeman: 4 pairs R.A.F. socks were given local boys, 25 turtle-neck sweaters, 30 pairs 26-inch stockings, 30 pairs 18-inch socks, 35 pairs Navy mitts, 5 Navy scarfs, 35 aero navy helmets, 10 khaki scarfs, 5 turtleneck sweaters, 25 aero caps, 5 khaki gloves, 105 army socks. It was asked that teh committees giving out wool watch notices and give out for most needed articles.

Mrs. Perkins reported from the cutting committee that 831¼ yards of material was cut into 584 articles such as coats, shirts blouses, boleros, bed jackets, surgical dressings, and gowns.

Mrs. Bryant reported the sewing committee had been very busy and that the full quota was ready and would be packed in two weeks' time.

The tea room committee reported a successful month with total proceeds of $40.20 and Mrs. Diamond moved that a note of appreciaiton be sent to Mrs. Thurber, the previous convener of the tea room, which was seconded by Mrs. M. G. Hancock.

Mrs. J. L. Sheehan gave a most successful report on the refuge committee: 86 quilts, 2 crib quilts, 3 afghans, while the articles donated were: 17 blouses, 9 cotton knit suits, 2 winter coats, 1 tweed suit, 8 house dresses, 4 pairs slacks, 1 pair men's socks, 1 pair men's mitts, 5 two-piece knitted boys' suits, 1 three-piece knitted suit, boys', 14 pairs boys' socks 3 pairs boys' pants, 3 shirts, braces, belt, 6 sweaters, 2 skirts 4 play suits, 1 jacket, 13 sweaters, 17 girls' dresses, 2 blouses, nightgowns, slips, 9 pairs mitts, 3 pairs bloomers, 3 pairs socks 3 scarfs, 2 shawls, making a total of 163 articles. A number of these articles were donated by I. Margles, and it was moved that a letter of thanks be sent Mr. Margles.

A discussion on the salvage collection of white bottles and white bottle glass scrap took place, and a committee was formed to look into this matter. Moved by Mrs. Thompson and seconded by Mrs. George, that Mrs. H. Mitchell, Mrs. Wotherspoon, and Mrs. Foote be this committee.

It was announced that Mrs. Britton was having emergency classes for anyone interested.

Well Done Peterborough

The most encouraging single aspect of the extremely successful Victory Loan drive in Peterborough County and City was the increase in the number of subscribers; in the first loan roughly one person in every eight bought a bond of some denomination, but in the loan just completed one person in every four bought one. The immediate purpose of the Victory Loan is to raise money for the conduct of the war but its secondary purpose—to prevent inflation and to provide money which can come into circulation in the lean early days of peace—can only be accomplished if the money is forthcoming from small subscribers.

Citizens of this district may permit themselves a small glow of satisfaction at the thought of a task well and generously done, but anything in the nature of noisy self-congratulation is out of place. It is not for us to preen ourselves on having done our patriotic duty. But it would be ungracious to leave unacknowledged the time and patience expended by the canvassers during the past three weeks, and especial credit must be given to those who did such an excellent job in organizing industries for the purpose of the loan. Much of the credit for the increased number of subscribers must go to them. Nor must we forget the very substantial effort put forward by the press in this district, an effort which was a part of the fine campaign for the success of the loan on the part of Canada's press all across the Dominion.

The immediate excitement of the Victory Loan drive is over, but this is no time for complacent relaxation. There will be other loans in the future, and the time to make ready for them is now. Canada's sacrifice in the present war is just beginning.

Industry Of Scientists

While the war is going on and most of the efforts of the National Council of Research at Ottawa must necessarily be directed to problems arising out of the conflict, nevertheless men and women trained in research are devoting their abilities and experience also to what may prove to be important developments for peacetime, when it comes. What is going on in a big modern laboratory building in the Capital, where scientists are busily engaged, is said to be of significance to all of Canada, though not a great deal can be given out owing to the possible military value of the information.

It can be said, however, that a committee comprising some of the best minds available is working on a post-war program. The purpose of this endeavor is to see in what way discoveries, made in connection with munitions, supplies and equipment for the world-struggle, may be applied to make better living conditions after the fight is over. Some of the most important results of the Council's research have been in the field of foods and grains, in finding substitutes for materials that have been acutely diminished of late, such as rubber. Experiments, for example, have brought forth a synthetic rubber, made chiefly from petroleum.

Many changes have come into ordinary life since September of 1939 and more may be expected, but it is gratifying to know that staffs under such able heads as C. J. Mackenzie, acting president of the Council; Dr. R. C. Wallace, Principal of Queen's University; Dr. F. Cyril James, Principal of McGill University; Monsignor Alexandre Vachon, Archbishop of Ottawa; Dr. O. Maas and others are diligently probing, experimenting, testing and studying with a view to finding new ways in which industry and business can function, both now and when the trying period of readjustment comes.

What May Be Expected

Much is heard from time to time about "a spring offensive" in Russia when, according to observers, the Germans and their allies are expected to make another attempt on a large scale to defeat the Soviet. The events of the past few weeks would indicate that the invaders are losing ground so fast they may not be in a position to undertake any conquering pusch, but nevertheless Berlin professes to be planning to deliver some knock-out blows when the winter is over.

Since the weather has played such a significant part in what has happened in northern Europe from November last forward, it is of interest to learn what nature probably will bring along between the present date and the middle of next May. Sir Stafford Cripps, now in the British Cabinet and formerly British Ambassador to Russia, presents information, in a special article written for the Associated Press, which is illuminating.

Sir Stafford states that spring in Central Russia begins between the middle and the end of this month, and that when the snows are very heavy, as they have been this winter, the thaw will last perhaps two months before the land gets dry and hard once more. This latter period, he explains is the most difficult time of the year for military operations or any movements of transport. Rivers are full of blocks of ice racing down with destructive force. The low-lying ground and marsbes, of which there are plenty on the western borders of Russia, become impassable.

Consequently the time for renewed acticities under normal conditions will not likely come before the beginning of May, and perhaps not until toward the end. Both Russians and Germans are being held up and will be held up therefore for seven or eight weeks. Meanwhile each country is preparing for a desperate summer campaign and what happens in those sectors may have a large bearing on the outcome of the war.

Entertainment In Wartime

Two interesting pieces of information reach us about the state of entertainment in Britain at present. The first, which is well authenticated, says that 30,000,000 people in that country go to the movies in a week. Of course, some of them are the same people, who go to the films twice or more in a single week, but the figure is still an astounding one. The second piece of information, also from a reliable source, tells us that Britons are eager to buy shares in film companies and in companies which control movie theatres, but that shares in retail firms are considerably depressed. There is a boom in entertainment in Britain.

Why this apparent access of frivolity on the part of a nation which is supposedly struggling for its very existence? The answer is clear. We can manage very well without the necessities of life, as Oscar Wilde wisely pointed out, so long as we are spared the luxuries. Britain can endure bombing and blackout, but it cannot stand up to boredom. The variety and quality of a nation's entertainments is a fair index to the extent of its civilization, and Britain, however staid it may seem to visitors, has always had an unusual number of ways of passing the time.

In view of this, it is interesting to consider Sir Stafford Cripps' recent statement that 'entertainment as usual' must be abandoned during wartime. Of course, Sir Stafford, like many men of advanced political views, is something of a puritan, and puritans have often been glad of an excuse to curtail what they regard as the unworthy enjoyments of others. But what is to be done? It is only possible for men to work for a certain amount of time each day, if their work is not to decline in quality and their health be disastrously impaired. When Britain's workers are not in the factory are they to be asleep? Somehow or other, we think that Sir Stafford is due for a nasty shock if he attempts to cut down Britain's allowance of movies in any drastic manner. The British are gluttons for entertainment, and if they are denied it, the effect may be to decrease their efficiency rather than to increase it. It will be interesting to see what happens.

The Health Of Young Canada

The decision of the government to give Canadian youths under eighteen a taste of camp life is one which should meet with the approval of all who are interested in national health. If this camping scheme is taken seriously and worked out in proper detail it should, in a short time, do much for the health of young Canada.

The plan brings to mind the program of training now in preparation in the United States, called "Hale America." It will provide a course of conditioning and rehabilitation for prospective selectees for national service. It is based upon a five-point system: it provides, first of all, for frequent medical examinations to find defects which need treatment by remedial exercises. This is highly necessary, for many boys who are in the later stages of adolescence and who appear to be in good health are quite likely to have potentially dangerous weak points which demand special attention. Next it provides for proper nutrition, and the necessity for this does not need to be labored: many youths, and not always those from modest homes, need scientific feeding to build them up. The third point is physical conditioning through organized games and exercises, which should be popular with most boys; a certain amount of military drill will doubtless be included in this plan. The fourth point is recreation, and it must be stressed that this does not mean further organized games; it means time for reading, music and hobbies generally. Recreation which does nothing for the mind is not recreative in the true sense. The fifth point is proper relaxation and rest, and a very important one it is. Youths are naturally restless, and unless they are in excellent health, this restlessness may turn to nervous exhaustion, a complaint from which our modern world suffers to an altogether excessive degree. Many a boy who works hard at school and at social activities during the school year needs to be taught how to unstring the bow in the summer; the lesson is harder to learn later in life.

The American scheme sounds like a very good one, and we hope that something similar will underly the government training of boys in this country. Nothing could be more undesirable than to herd boys together in camps without a clear idea of what is to happen to them there. The government has made a great opportunity, and we are sure that it will not be wasted.

NOTE AND COMMENT

A newspaper columnist says that it is time to dig up the garden again. We'll turn it ovei in our mind.

A friend of ours complains that he cannot get a really close shave. He should stand nearer the razor.

Berlin radio says that Hitler has given his pet cheetah to the zoo. But he still keeps his pet white elephant in Rome.

Last week a large V was daubed in soot on a wall in Paris. Now the Nazis are on the lookout for an offensive sweep.

A famous conductor complains that swing bands modernize the classics out of all recognition. Unfortunately not quite.

Dr. Goebbels says that the recent R.A.F. raids on France are very irritating to German public opinion. We didn't know that the German public had an opinion.

ODE TO DUTY

Let's say goodbye to civil life and ease,
To join the ranks of those who freedom love,
And our untiring efforts without cease
Shall from our path all obstacles remove.

For we were born with souls to call our own,
And speech which we could utter without fear,
Inherent rights our fathers, too, had known,
Fought for in prizing, cherished, and held dear.

Then, if we be the free sons of free men,
Shall we like spineless creatures stand and see
Our birthrights banished, while we be hidden
Behind the folds of fair democracy?

Enough of cant, hypocrisy and talk.
Let each man to his conscience list awhile,
Then he'll need not that Governments should chalk
A well-marked path to serve as duty's aisle

The Hun, the Wop and yellow Jap have shown
Examples terrible in conquered lands,
Which though far off, not touching us, make known
Just what we, too, would suffer at their hands.

And let's not think that other men will do
The patriotic tasks that to us fall;
The enemy is ruthless, strong, and so
Supremest effort's needed of us all.

Awake, therefore, awake! and so espy
That danger's at our gates: have we no sight?
To arms, to arms! should be our present cry,
And not mere mumbled talks of plebiscite.

And if we all be men instead of mice,
Join in the ranks of those who freely fight,
Willing to make supremest sacrifice
For liberty and freedom, their birthright.

No Philosophy For the War

By SAMUEL MARCHBANKS

EVERYBODY has something to say about this war, and it is impossible to listen to all that is said, and to read all that is written, without suffering the most distressing confusion of mind. Following the news from day to day we are baffled by its complexity and apparent meaninglessness; listening to the news commentators and reading the new digests, we suffer from amazement that they are able to produce so much elaborate conjecture from so small a foundation of fact. We find ourselves wishing that there were some thread of meaning, some coherence in all the confusion. We long for something which we may accept as the fixed aim of the United Nations, apart from their obvious and primary necessity for victory. We know what we are fighting about; we want to know what we are fighting for.

Once again, professional writers and commentators are only too eager to help us. Sometimes it is a good plan to lay their books and pamphlets on one side, and to defer reading them for a few months. It happens that I did this, quite by accident, a few months ago, with a book called "The Last Best Hope of Earth," written by Harry Scherman, an American publicist who has gained a reputation for a somewhat original economic outlook. Mr. Scherman's book attracted considerable attention when it appeared during the last months of 1941. Reviewers announced that it was what we were all looking for—a philosophy of war. America was, at that time, on the brink of war, and Mr. Scherman began his book with these provocative words: "About 83 per cent of the American public, according to Dr. George Gallup, expect us to be in this war before it is over. What shall we be fighting for? On this question the investigators find—as he puts it—fog, and a craving to be out of it. There is a deeply-felt need among most people for a philosophy concerning the war more satisfying than inclusive words like "freedom" and "democracy" and "security" and "defense" provide. There is need for a philosophy so basic that no wedging doubts can shake it."

True, and it is unfortunate that Mr. Scherman, despite his honest attempt, cannot provide us with such a philosophy. But he has much to say that is interesting and illuminating, and it must be said to his credit that he never thumps the tub or beats the drum. His primary contention is that the whole earth is now involved in an economic union, all the stronger for being of an amorphous nature. The welfare of all nations depends upon a reasonably free exchange of goods, with mutual benefit. The maintenance of this system is a matter of enlightened self-interest. Germany, however, has expressed her intention of so re-arranging the world order that she herself will be the chief beneficiary from world trade, other nations being either subjected or bought off in order to achieve this end.

Germany's plan for the future involves three economic domains, determined by her own special science of 'geo-politics.' The chief domain, naturally, will be her own, which will include all of Europe, Asia and Africa. Within this pretty slice of the earth's surface Italy will be permitted to have a sort of sub-empire. The Japanese are to have all East Asia, and the Mongolian and Malayan peoples, and presumably Australia. The third domain is to be the Americas, controlled by the United States.

Considered coldly, this seems to be a workable plan, though a very uncomfortable one for most of the peoples of the world. But Mr. Scherman says that it is not workable at all, except on paper. Any scheme, he maintains, which inhibits the reasonable exchange of goods among all the countries of the world must shortly result in destitution and misery for hundreds of millions of people. Why? Because, in the past two hundred years, the population of this planet has more than tripled itself. In 1750 there were about 660,000,000 people on earth; now there are many more than 2,100 000,000. The Germans have shown themselves callous to the sufferings of the conquered in Poland and Greece, but it is doubtful if even they could cope with deaths by the hundred million. They might think that they could do so, but they are people of strong, though coarse, imagination.

The fact of the matter, according to Mr. Scherman, is that production and employment have now become planetary, rather than national matters, and that international trade, a formidable term, is actually carried on by a system of promise and performance, or the debt-and-credit system, if you prefer that term. For good or ill, and it is clearly for good, we are all dependent one upon the other, and any attempt upon our part to get on without Germany, or Italy, or Japan after the war is as fated to disaster as is their plan to make voiceless serfs of us now.

But how to restrain aggressors with fantastic ideas? Mr. Scherman has nothing better to offer us than a limitation of national sovereignty and the establishment of a system of world police. It is one of those plans which would be excellent if they could be made to work, but 'limitation of sovereignty' is a phrase with terrible echoes. Mr. Scherman's book is somewhat less exciting now than it was when first published, before the U.S. entered the war. It must be regretfully stated that it provides no philosophical background for the present conflict, but it does contain some interesting and seemingly sensible ideas.

Japs Shift to Defensive?

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON

WASHINGTON, March 10.—Despite fresh victories claimed by Tokyo at Rangoon and in Java, there are strong indications that Japan is shifting, at least temporarily, to a defensive role in the Pacific.

The battle of communication lines is already on, with American forces apparently moving to the attack. How, when and where that attack will come must be of greater concern to Tokyo at this critical moment than planning new major aggressions against India or Australia.

That an American attack is brewing cannot be doubted in the light of recent operations of United States naval forces among Japanese island outposts far west of Hawaii. It was somewhere west of the Gilbert Islands that an American task force engaged a force of Japanese bombers and practically annihilated it.

While Nipponese seizure of new bases on the east coast of New Guinea, within close bombing range of the Australian mainland, hints at an attempted full-scale invasion, it also suggests a defensive purpose.

NEW GUINEA FLANKS JAPS

New Guinea is the southern flank of the Japanese eastern chain of island bases, developed in depth, to guard her 4,000-mile-long supply routes down the China Sea. American forces must travel twice that far from west coast ports either to reinforce and supply defenders or to slash at Japanese communications in the China Sea.

The fall of Rangoon and Java was clearly foreshadowed. Both have been written off as lost in revised Allied war plans since the premature fall of Singapore undermined them.

What is important is whether Japan now turns to an attempt to consolidate her victories by defensive measures, or toward expansion of her attack against either Australia or India, or both simultaneously. The first impression is that she is endeavoring to stiffen the defenses of her eastern sea flank against expected American attacks on her communication lines, deferring further advances, at least temporarily.

A curious note in the Tokyo claim of the capture of Rangoon bears out that conclusion. It said the "main objective" of Japanese operations in Burma had been achieved. The Burma Road has been cut.

MAKES FORCES AVAILABLE

If that means a Japanese halt in Burma, forces released with the final mopping-up in Java will be available for use against Australia or to man island bases in the Philippines, the Netherlands Indies, New Guinea and far out eastward into the Pacific to foil American stabs.

New bases seized in the Philippines reflect considerations for defense. At Zamboanga on Southwestern Mindanao a new outpost to guard the southabout route to the China Sea from the Pacific has been set up. On Cebu and Negros, a watch over the lower inside passage through the Philippine Archipelago, north of Mindanao, is being maintained. On the wild island of Mindoro, just south of Manila, a similar watch on the upper inside passage between Luzon and Samar has been prepared.

A new Japanese general, the conqueror of Singapore, has been sent to Luzon to replace the man reported to have taken his own life in chagrin at his failure to defeat General MacArthur and his men. That has been the only Japanese setback to date. The probabilities are that Tokyo has ordered a fresh assault on the Bataan defenses to be driven home at all cost. MacArthur's elimination would be essential if, fearing over-extension, Japan has halted to consolidate her eastern flank against expected American sea-air attack.

ON CAPTURED LEATHER

GREAT BRITAIN has sent on to Russia cargoes of South American hides captured by the British Navy from German and Italian blockade runners.

In the five months before Japan went to war more than 2,000 tons of these hides were seized on the high seas.

The Axis can ill afford to go without them. In 1939 Germany bought from the Argentine 13,000 metric tons of wet-salted types alone, and it was these that the British Navy captured—best wet-salted frigorifico with a few dry Americanos. Deprived of these imports, Germany is believed to be finding difficulty in maintaining the boot and equipment leather made from them.—British Industries Bulletin.

THE FOLLY OF WASTE

Perhaps when the war is over we shall have learned something. Learned not merely the folly of waste, but the folly as well of too many gadgets and too many luxuries—learned that our needs can be standardized and simplified under a saner economy. The learning may be good for us. The sheen on a new motor car each year may cause a momentary thrill; but there are other things in life which bring more enduring happiness.—Ottawa Journal.

"The times demand from those who have any responsibilities of leadership, ardor, vigor and decisiveness of mind and spirit," declared the retiring Archbishop of Canterbury. This applies not only to leaders but to the masses as well.—Chatham News.

BOOKS IN WARTIME

THE war has cured the public of a good many prejudices. It has been claimed by publishers that the public often judge a book by its bulk, and it is the case that some publishers used to make a practice of issuing books printed on paper as thick as a blanket.

Now that paper is scarce it must be used more sparingly, and publishers have agreed to follow the lead of newspapers, and by the use of smaller type, narrower margins, and other technical devices for compression give their readers more words to the page .... So long as the confirmed reader can get his books he will not complain greatly if, like most other commodities, they wear a wartime air, and there should be no complaint because books are thinner. Nor should there be any complaint if there should be less variety of new books.

No harm has been done by the restriction of paper suplies to publishers. They issued too much before the war. They are now, however, in peril of publishing too little. A two-thirds reduction in their consumption of paper is drastic, and they are allowed only a little more than one per cent of the total consumption at a time when books have never before been so popular.—Glasgow Herald.

MAN WHO CAN'T COOK

LORD WOOLTON tells me that people are always asking him if he can cook. His answer is that he cannot.

He adds: "There was once a sausage shop at the back of the Bank of England. A man asked the owner to lend him £5. 'I'm sorry,' answered the sausage-maker. 'The Bank of England and I have an understanding. I agree not to lend money and the bank agrees not to make sausages.'"

"That," says Lord Woolton, "is my position. I leave the cooking to the experts—the British housewives."—London Daily Sketch.

Lewis—Menzies

A quiet wedding took place on Saturday at the home of Adj. Norman Buckley of Peterborough when Anna Madalene, eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel R. Menzies of Havelock became the bride of Pte. Keith David Lewis, R.C.O.C., Kingston, third son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter F. Lewis of Trent River.

The bride wore heaven blue triple sheer dress with matching accessories. She was attended by Mrs. Percy Lewis who wore a flowered sheer dress with matching accessories. Pte. Charles Menzies of Quebec City, brother of the bride, attended the groom.

Following the ceremony the happy couple left for a short motor trip. On their return they will live in Kingston.

Martha B. Bragg Is Wed To Ralph I. Campbell

WARKWORTH, March 10 (ENS)—A quiet wedding was solemnized on Saturday at Madoc United Church Parsonage when Martha Beatrice, second daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. W. D. Bragg of Newcastle, was united in marriage to Ralph Irvin, youngest son of Mrs. Ella Campbell of Norham. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Alfred Poulter.

The bride wore a street-length dress of dusty rose crepe with matching hat and accessories with a corsage of American beauty roses.

Following the ceremony a wedding dinner was served by Mrs. A. Poulter, friend of the bride, after which the happy couple left on a honeymoon trip to points west.

Mrs. Gordon Conant Speaks To Peterborough Women of Womens Voluntary Services

Mrs. Gordon Conant was guest speaker at the meeting of the Women's Voluntary Services held in the Collegiate Auditorium last night. Mrs. W. R. Morris was chairman of the meeting, and Mayor Hamilton spoke a few words of praise and encouragement to the W.V.S. A film "Britannia is a Woman" depicting the work and organization of the English W.V.S. was shown.

Mrs. R. J. Marshall explained the organization and purpose of the W.V.S. "Courage is not enough," said Mrs. Marshall, and went on to say that in order to face the present crisis without panic and win through to victory we must have knowledge and training in order to do our specified tasks with the utmost efficiency and we must have the breadth of vision to see the full meaning of our job and its relation to others.

She said that in Canada there were too many women who were so far doing nothing to help the war effort; who seem scarcely aware that there is a war on. They carry on their lives just as they did in peace-time and seem completely indifferent to what is going on about them. The object of the W.V.S. is to enroll these women, find out their abilities and give them training in the tasks they are best fitted to do.

In Canada the C.W.V.S. will be set up as a provincial organization in order that each one may be adapted to suit the varying needs of the different provinces. The Ontario division, with headquarters in Toronto, is the first to be formed and it is expected that the others will follow suit shortly.

The organization is simple, consisting of a small full-time executive composed of women chosen for their ability and experience and a larger advisory body which meets once a month.

Mrs. Marshall stressed the point that this is not another organization; it is a kind of central supply and control office for co-relating the work of various organizations and creating a central supply depot for workers. After organization in Toronto, units are now being set up in various cities throughout the province.

Mrs. Gordon Conant is vice-chairman of the Extension Executive. She gave a brief outline of the history of the W.V.S., telling how it was organized in England in 1938, a year before war broke out and how that one year of training saved the British Women from panic during 1939 and 40. The United States started their W.V.S. in 1939, concentrating chiefly on women's part in civil defense. The other Dominions, Australia, South Africa and New Zealand, already have a W.V.S. and Mrs. Conant said that it was time Canadian women followed suit.

She told of the starting of the Toronto unit; of how, realizing that they had something very big to deal with, the organizers tried to go very slowly and surely. They planned the courses of training in order that they might be able to meet any demand upon them, and so that might be able to meet any emergency.

It was found that many women wanted refresher courses in work for which they had once been trained but had not done for some time, particularly in typing and shorthand. These courses were provided and many of the women who took them now have positions in war industries; others are doing valuable voluntary work.

The Bell Telephone Company trained two girls to be instructors in telephone and switchboard operation and they have instructed classes in this work.

One class of which the Toronto unit is proud is the course in child management, reche and nursery work, to provide women to look after the children of mothers who are working in war industries. More and more women will be needed in the munitions factories of Canada and this will probably mean that young married women will have to take jobs in order to supply the demand.

There are different courses in home management and home economics; one of which is designed to show a woman how she can run her home and at the same time give two or three days a week to voluntary war work. Another teaches the housewife who is tied to her home and small children how she can help in an air raid. There are classes in physical fitness, intended to improve and maintain the health of Canadian women.

There is a course in public speaking which has proved both popular and successful in training women to address meetings. Another course in democratic leadership provides lessons designed to heighten the understanding of democracy. Yet another course organizes older women to look after children in homes, thus releasing younger women for more strenuous voluntary war work.

During the month of February the Toronto unit placed 213 girls and women in many various kinds of war work. If this number seems small it must be remembered that the unit was organized only last fall and places only those girls who have passed its strict requirements. The Unit held a blackout display in a Toronto store and 55,000 interested citizens came to see it.

After her speech Mrs. Conant announced that Mrs. J. G. Wharry had consented to be chairman of the Peterborough unit and Mrs. Wharry expressed her appreciation of the honor and named her executive: Mrs. H. Toole, in charge of training; Mrs. H. Dowler, secretary-treasurer; Mrs. William Breyfogle, assisted by Mrs. Ralph Honey, enrolment.

Stretch Rubber To Make It Cover War Needs

Canada's rubber situation is bad. Our supplies from the East have been cut off, and 98 per cent of our rubber came from there. True, the government had laid in large supplies before this source was cut off, but now those supplies are just about all the crude rubber we can get. It must be conserved, and in order to do this all the used rubber in the country must be collected and used over again. Our rubber supplies must be stretched to their uttermost. All disused worn out rubber articles must be gathered up and the rubber in them reclaimed.

It is now against the law to destroy rubber and heavy fines and terms of imprisonment are imposed on those who break this law. All scrap rubber is valuable; old automobile tires, jar rings, sick room and hospital equipment and bicycle tires. The collection of rubber cannot be considered complete until every scrap of rubber, every non-essential rubber article, has been reclaimed and put to some useful war purpose. Rubber in all its forms can be reclaimed.

It is now unpatriotic, and therefore should be unfashionable, to use old tires for bumpers on the dock at your summer cottage; for an edging around your prize geraniums; or as a swing for your children. You must learn not to make mistakes, for there will be no rubber eraser on the end of your pencil.

Collect all the old rubber around your house. All the old running shoes, goloshes, rubbers, rubber heels, old jar rings, that worn-out piece of garden hose, that leaky hot water bottle, the bathing cap that Susie split up the back last summer. They're all valuable now; they can all play their part in winning the war.

YOUNG COUPLES SHOULD LIVE IN OWN HOMES

No Two Generations Are Alike and Parents Should Realize This Fact.

Dear Dorothy Dix.—My husband and I live with his mother who is a well-to-do widow. She is only 51 years old and is in perfect health, and there is no reason why she couldn't have her independent life and also be happy. But she insists on us living with her, although she knows that both my husband and I are crazy to have our own home. Every time the subject is brought up she is SO ALONE, and she begins to weep and says that it makes her cry when she thinks of how happy she used to be when her boys were little children. And that now we want to leave her so that she will be so lonesome that she will die and we can get her house and car and property. Then she has to be comforted, and by the time the scene is over we are right back to where we started. If Mother-in-Law were old or ill or in financial need, I could see why it would be our duty to stay with her. After all, we wouldn't be more than a few blocks away, and we have as much right to our lives as she has to hers.—Daughter-in-Law.

Answer.—Parents who insist upon their children living with them instead of setting up their own homes are not only very selfish, but they are very foolish, because nothing would add more to their own peace and happiness than to be relieved of the constant strain on their patience and temper of trying to get along with John's wife or Mary's husband

Mrs. A. B. Colerick To Visit Y.W.C.A.

Plans for the visit of Mrs. A. B. Colerick, Toronto liaison officer of the National Council of the Y.W.C.A., was a main item on the agenda for the Y.W.C.A. Board meeting Monday.

Mrs. H. C. Sootheran presided. Mrs. A. A. Moir outlined the plans for the annual membership tea Tuesday, March 24 when Mrs. Colerick will speak on the War Work of the association. Each Board and committee member is invited to bring two friends to this tea.

In the evening Mrs. Colerick will speak to the girl members and their friends. The evening's program is being planned by the Girl's Council and will also include moving pictures of local 'Y' activities, taken by Mr. Downer, showing gymnasium classes, archery, basketball, badminton, evening club activities and residence scenes. At this evening 'Y' groups will present their donations to the Mrs. Winston Churchill Fund for British Women in Uniform.

A few items from reports of committee conveners included 21 city organizations using building for 36 meeting and socials, 4 wartime organizations meeting regularly. Residence filled to capacity with an average of 15 newcomers each month. Rooms registry helping over fifty girls per month to get rooms.

Monday evening recreational parties sponsored by Junior I.O.D.E. Chapters and Y.W.C.A. Girl's Council for soldiers of training centre. The Girls' Council also entertain each month girls of the different industries.

The Gymnasium Review will be held this spring Thursday, April 30 and Friday, May 1. Basketball final games will be played March 20 and 27 and the closing banquet Monday, March 30.

The 38 Club Dance, The 41 Club Valentine Tea, Old Country Club Valentine Beano and Junior Supper Club sleigh drive were all highlights in club programs with all clubs busy raising funds for the Mrs. Winston Churchill Fund.

Mrs. T. J. Carley of the Educational Committee outlined ways of conserving sugar, and providing nourishing meals. Government pamphlets issued by Wartime Prices and Trade Board were distributed and members asked to assist in every way.

Mrs. H. Wightman took charge of the devotional period. Correspondence read by the secretary included a review of organization methods taken from reports of associations on Miss Capen's visit to the Y.W.C.A.'s across Canada. Mrs. R. Turner presented the financial reports. Committees for the year were read with the following conveners: Finance, Mrs. R. H. Turner; physical, Mrs. R. Cutting; social, Mrs. J. H. Vernor; educational, Mrs. T. J. Carley; swimming, Mrs. G. E. Porter; membership, Mrs. A. A. Moir; program, Mrs. C. Collins; national interpretation and support, Mrs. H. Paige Rowell; camp, Mrs. H. M. St. John's W.A.

The monthly business meeting of the Evening Branch of the Women's Auxiliary, St. John's Church, was held Monday evening. Mrs. M. Montgomery, vice-president was in the chair. Canon W. P. Robertson took the prayers, and gave an interesting talk, continuation of a series on the Lord's Prayer—the petition, "Lead us not into temptation, but deliver us from evil." Mrs. F. Marshall read the scripture, and Miss L. Lancaster gave a splendid paper on a chapter of the Study Book, "The Environment of Medical Missions."

Regular routine of business was carried on.

The meeting closed with prayers. No refreshments served during the Lenten season.

Pete Kelly Has Ten-Point Lead In American Loop

NEW HAVEN, Conn., March 10—(AP).—With four games left to play, one more than any of his nearest rivals, Pete Kelly, sandy-haired Springfield ace, appeared today to have clinched the American Hockey League's scoring honors.

Kelly, recovering from a brief lapse in form, scored four goals and an assist last week to bring his total to 71 points, ten more than Les Cunningham of Cleveland, and Norm Schultz of Pittsburg, his chief opposition.

It was fortunate for Peter, however, that he found his scoring eye again so quickly because Cunningham, who recorded eight points, and Schultz, who registered one less, were in brilliant form.

Pete Bessone of Pittsburg, who several weeks ago left hardly any doubt that he was headed for the circuit's "bad man" title, spent two minutes in the penalty box to bring his total to 92 minutes and a misconduct. Lofvendahl of Philadelphia trails with 67 minutes. Leading scorers:

PARRIS OUGHT TO KNOW

CHAPTER XXIV

DR. GORDON sat in his living room with a tray before him. He ate slowly, almost absently.

The door opened so slowly and so silently that he did not notice Louise's entrance.

"Father!" Louise spoke in a curious flat, colorless voice.

"What's the matter?"

"I—I heard about Drake McHugh."

"Um." The doctor turned his attention to his food.

"I stood it as long as I could, then I went down to the—railroad."

"You had no business there."

"You had just left. They had carried Drake away somewhere. A terrible old man was—was cleaning up the depot room where—"

"That will do Louise. It was most unbecoming of you to go about parading your feelings—whatever they happen to be."

"Father!" Louise stared stony-faced at Dr. Gordon.

"What do you want to say, Louise?"

The girl shook now so violently she could scarcely stand.

"You monster."

"Louise!"

"You fiend!"

Dr. Gordon arose, laid his napkin on the table, and with the utmost deliberation struck her. She staggered and slumped to the floor. Very slowly she laid hold of a chair and struggled to her feet.

"I'll let the world know what you are, if it's the only thing I ever do in this world. Tomorrow—tomorrow—I'll tell everyone. I know what you are. I know all about you—and your operations."

Dr. Gordon took her by both arms. "You are going to bed—at once."

"I will not—I—I'm going to tell—"

"Louise."

"I will tell. I will tell. will tell—" Louise began a sort of singsong chant that rose suddenly to a shriek.

Dr. Gordon struck her again, a sharp, stinging slap that cut her screams short.

She shook her head slowly like a dazed animal. "I'll tell them—"

"Louise—this is enough of your willful tantrum now. If you persist, there is one thing I shall have to do—"

He waited. She stared at him, half listening, then suddenly alert.

"What?" she whispered.

"If you utter one more word of the kind of nonsense I've heard from you I shall—commit you to the insane asylum."

Louise backed away. "You wouldn't dare!"

"I have only to call Dr. Nolan on that telephone there in the hall, and have you in a cell—behind bars—in one hour. Now, can you get that through your head?"

"I'm not crazy, and you know it."

"I could think nothing else when you make these insane accusations.

Louise swallowed hard.

"I—I'll go," she said.

"That's better. And stay in your room until I say you can come out."

Louise nodded her head like a small child who only half understands what is being said. She backed toward the door.

FOR three days Randy scarcely slept. She felt that she dared not leave Drake. She knew that she had to be with him when he found out what had happened.

Her face was thin and white and harsh with the effort she made for control. She felt that she must not let herself go for an instant. She must not even look in the direction of any release of her own grief. She was fearful that she might never gain control of herself again.

Randy set her foot on the first step and paused. She stood for several minutes leaning her head against the door frame. It was then that the dreadful sound came from that upper room. Randy knew even in that terrifying instant that she would never forget the sound of Drake's voice. It was a hoarse scream—almost a yell in which there was horror, and pain, and something worse—sheer animal terror.

She tore up the narrow staircase and flung the door open.

"Drake!"

Drake's eyes were rolling and his face worked violently as if the very bone structure had been shattered. Randy saw with a sick horror that his hands were groping frantically under the blankets.

She almost leapt across the room and seized his hands. "Drake! Drake!"

"Randy — where — where's the rest of me " His voice rose to a sharp wail.

He held hard to her shoulders. Little by little he quieted.

"It was that accident?"

"Yes, Drake. But don't try to talk about it yet. You'll get well now."

His grasp loosened. She looked fearfully at him. He was quieter now. Very slowly he turned his face to the wall.

RANDY turned away from the window where she had been standing. The frost-rimmed squares of glass gave a distorted vision of the still cold day. She felt that her mind was like that wavy glass. She had no true picture of anything.

Yes: Drake would live. It was just here that all of the savage questions arose against her—arose and stood like an impassible barrier across her way.

She went into the kitchen. Her father had come in and had taken off his shoes to warm his feet at the oven door.

"Going somewhere, Randy?"

"Yes, I've got to get out for a while."

"Is Drake asleep?"

"I don't know. The nurse is up there."

"How long is she going to stay?"

"Dr. Gordon said Drake wouldn't have to have her after next Monday."

"How's he going to make out then?"

The sound of her father's words cleared something in Randy's brain. Her face cleared, too. The quivering uncertainty disappeared. A simple resolution replaced it.

"What's the matter, Randy? Change your mind?"

"Yes. I don't need to go out now."

"What's that? What did you say?"

"I said I don't need to go now. I know now." She spoke the last phrase half to herself.

"What is it, daughter? What's on your mind?"

"I didn't know what to do. I know now what I'm going to do."

Mr. Monaghan kept his eyes down. He didn't want her to see how much he pitied her.

"Listen, honey. I want you to hear what I got to say."

"I'm listening. Go ahead."

Mr. Monaghan stood up. His gaunt, bony figure towered above her. His shaggy white hair almost touched the low kitchen ceiling.

"Randy, you want to keep Drake here, don't you?"

Randy lifted her hand to her throat and held it as though to stop whatever was struggling for utterance.

"That's what you want, ain't it, Randy?"

Very slowly her eyes filled with tears. Very slowly her hand relaxed. She did not make a sound but let herself sway and lean against her father's breast as he reached out and put his arms around her.

"Come on, now, and set down. How we going to fix it up, you reckon?"

She shook her head. She was not able to speak.

Suddenly blind with tears, she rushed to the front room. She closed the door behind her and leaned against it. She did not know what to do. She wanted to do something or say something. For a moment she had a recollection of her old grandmother, her father's mother, sitting by the fire with the beads of the rosary moving one by one between her fingers.

But Randy could not pray. If there had been a power for good, for benevolence in the universe, it would have saved Drake from a senseless accident. No: she could not pray. Drake's world had turned its back on him. She used to look a little wistfully, a little yearningly at that world and wish she were in it, and of it. She recalled Drake's aunt, Mrs. Livingstone. She had

Senators' Camp Hot Centre Of Swap Rumors

(By DOUG. BAILEY.)

ORLANDO, Fla., March 10—(AP)—Trade winds fanned hot and cold around the camp of the Washington Senators to-day with the Detroit Tigers still hoping to promote a deal that would get some of their problem children off their hands.

President Clark Griffith of the Senators said emphatically that he would not agree to give up his promising young first baseman, Jim (Micky) Vernon, and veteran pitcher Emil (Dutch) Leonard for Detroit's Louis (Buck) Newsom and Rudy York. It was announced here last night that Leonard had ended his holdout by signing a 1942 Senator contract.

But the "Old Fox" never has been hesitant about changing his mind and a little shuffling of some other aspects of the deal like throwing in an extra player or a considerable cash consideration might easily sway the transaction.

There also was talk to-day that the Senators might have something in common with the Yankees, who would find either Vernon or Leonard useful, and besides they have become impatient with their holdout third baseman, Red Rolfe.

Washington would like to have Rolfe and also definitely is interester in Mike Chartak, the rookie outfielder of the Yanks.

A Shining Light.

He has come along fast and the Senators believe he has a lustrous career ahead of him. But the Washington bosses are resigned to having a second division, probably a cellar ball club and might be persuaded to part with Vernon in spite of their protests.

York would give the Senators much-needed right-handed batting power and Newsom might conceivably win as many games next season as Leonard. They are a couple of temperamental headaches for any manager and because of their prolonged resistance to salary clashes, the Tigers are making no secret of their efforts to put through a trade. Detroit also has placed Catcher Billy Sullivan, another one of five holdouts, on the block.

General Manager Jack Zeller of the Tigers conferred with Griffith here yesterday and there were indications that they would continue their negotiations.

Zeller said he was offered the waiver price of $7,500 for Newsom, but added that the Senators "didn't seem to want Newson in a trade."

Detroit's general manager indicated that if the holdout hurler doesn't show up in camp soon and come to terms, his name probably will go on the next waiver list.

Victory For Cupid

In this photo made from the observation tower of the R.C.A. building in New York, a girl's dream is coming true. It seems that Shirley Steffrey, 24, of Chicago, Ill., had been corresponding with a British navy radioman by the name of Dan Stucney. This correspondence had been going on for five years, during which time they had never seen one another. Finally Dan arrived in New York, and Shirley came on to meet him. Here you see the happy couple seeing the sights of the big city.

SPORTS – DAY BY DAY

By FRED D. CRAIG

Peterborough Soldiers will leave early tomorrow afternoon for St. Catharines where in the Garden City Arena tomorrow night they will clash with Merritton Hayes Steel team in the first of a best three-of-five-game series for the O.H.A. Senior B championship. The team will travel to St. Catharines by automobile, the wartime restrictions on chartering buses preventing them from using that form of transportation. The team will finish its training for the big series with a light workout at Brock St. Rink tonight. The players are all in good shape in spite of the rough treatment they received from some of the Collingwood players and they hope to get away on the right foot in the final round by grabbing off the first game. Bun Kingdon was the only casualty in the Collingwood melee and his "charlie horse" has yielded to treatment and should not bother the centre ice man very much in tomorrow's battle.

According to reports a couple of Merritton envoys scouted the Petes in their game with Collingwood at Oshawa the other night. If that is the case the team from the Niagara peninsula has a better line on the local club than the Petes have on them for the Merritton team is an unknown quantity so far as the homesters are concerned. However Manager Ellis and his players realize that a club strong enough to win the good group in which Merritton played this season and then to go on and overcome a five goal lead held by a well-balanced combination like the Windsor Spitfires, must have strength all along the line. The Petes in short expect tough opposition but they feel that they will be right at home on the St. Catharines cushion and that they will be able to skate with the Merritton crew and uncork scoring punch enough to give them a flying start in the final dash for the championship. The second game of the series is scheduled for Brock St. Rink Friday night and fans and players are hoping that the present cool dip will continue until then and make a home game possible. The Petes have not performed on their own ice for nearly two weeks.

Two popular members of the Peterborough hockey team were honored by their teammates and members of the executive at the last practice of the squad when Don Crowe and Drake Jopling were called to the front and each presented with a fine pair of woollen blankets. The presentation was made by Frank Buckland who explained that the hockey squad had arranged the gifts to mark the fact that the two players had last fall entered into the state of matrimony. The blankets were in the nature of wedding gifts. The two defence men managed to acknowledge their thanks but intimated that they would rather bump into the Collingwood rearguards than have to make a speech. The affair was a complete surprise to the recipients.

A Really Great Line

Latest figures of the National Hockey League scoring race indicate that the whole first string line of the New York Rangers are making a bid for all-star rating. It is a long time since three linemates have made such a complete job of dominating the scoring race. In the first place Bryan Hextall is the leading scorer with 53 points; in the second left-winger Lynn Patrick tops the whole loop with goals scored, having potted 30 and in the third centre player Phil Watson leads the procession in the matter of total assists with 36. That is a rare record and when you add to it the fact that the rough-neck line has rattled home no fewer than 67 goals the claim of the Watson-Hextall-Patrick trio becomes stronger than ever. And on top of that is the fact that the line is generally recognized as one of the best defensively. They not only leading in scoring themselves but they are about the toughest combination in the outfit to score upon.

Heaping coals of fire or something of the kind Bre'er Ken Colling of the Belleville sheet is pulling strongly for the Petes to come through the Merritton series and take the Senior B title. Writes the Belleville scribe in his sport column: "For the second year in succession group No. 1, in the Senior B series has sent a representative to the provincial O.H.A. finals. Jim Ellis' Peterborough seniors soundly trounced Collingwood 10 to 2 last night, winning the round in two straight games. Last year Kingston held our district torch high and Skipper Ellis' six have what it takes to bring a second Senior B championship to Eastern Ontario. Peterborough now meets Merritton in the Senior B finals but the only unfortunate element in the whole picture is the fact that the Petes will be deprived of a limbering-up practice, due to the lack of artificial ice (and who are we to cast the first stone?). The Petes are equally as good representatives of our district as were Wally Elmer's Combines last year, so without fanfare we are dusting off the loud cymbals awaiting for the opportunity to sound them in favor of another Eastern Ontario championship team—Peterborough."

Oshawa Pull Upset

Oshawa Generals pulled one of the biggest surprises of the year last night when they invaded Brantford and defeated the Lions 3 to 2 in the final game of their Junior A semi-final series. There were few folk even in Oshawa who thought the Generals could turn the trick. They had been beaten every other time they played on the small Brantford rink all season and in the playoffs had absorbed two one-sided trimmings there. And then when Brantford went to Oshawa on Saturday night and were nosed out only 4 to 3, it looked as if the Shawmen were on their way out. They arose to the occasion last night, however, and playing close-to-the-vest hockey, checked the Brantford team into the ground and finally won out in overtime. It was a sweet victory for the Generals and a bitter pill for the Lions. The Oshawa team will now meet Guelph for the O.H.A. Junior A championship and should have no difficulty in coming through that series.

Hamilton Majors finished like champions at St. Catharines last night to take the O.H.A. Senior A title. St. Kitts had the game in the bag with a one-goal lead until the last 30 seconds but when the whole forward line was caught deep in Hamilton territory the Majors got a breakaway and Dinning shot the goal that tied up the game. Just what the Saints were trying to add to their lead in the last minute when all they had to do was to hang on to their one-point margin is something we imagine Coach Jimmy Fowler wanted some information on too when it was all over. At all events the St. Kitts gang played take-a-chance hockey and it blew up in their face. Hamilton tied it up at 5-5 with 30 seconds to go and in the overtime Runions potted the bootheel to give Majors the championship.

Says the Belleville Ontario-Intelligencer: "Art Duncan, champion of minor sports in Stirling, dropped in to inform us he had spoken a little too prematurely when he predicted an Eastern Ontario juvenile hockey title for his Stirling kids recently. Confession being good for the soul, Art was prompted to make his admissions after Peterborough beat his pets. 'The Petes are too big for our kids, but we'll be back in there punching next year with the same team and then watch our smoke," snapped back Duncan, who is still proud of his kids. And rightly so, Arthur!"

With The Boy Scouts

ATTENTION, ALL SCOUTERS

The Scouter Club will hold its monthly meeting on Wednesday, March 11, at 8 p.m. sharp. It is essential that all leaders attend this meeting if at all possible.

THIS MONTH'S SCOUT LEADER

It would be well for every scouter to read thoroughly and act on the many items to be found in this month's issue of the Scout Leader. I think it is one of the best for some time. The story of "He Filled Up His Troop" should be acted on as it is the real secret of planning a good troop. Let's get going.

Also the item "And We Want Leaders" should be read and understood by us all. Read "Mark, Learn and Act."

MAGAZINE COLLECTION

After a little delay we have been able to check up some of the magazines left at headquarters recently. There, is however, one suggestion. That the magazines are tied in bundles or put in cartons, and each bundle or carton marked with the name of the pack. The bundles sometimes get a little mixed and credit may go to the wrong pack. The standings: George Street, 3,273; St. Luke's, 2,039; St. John's, 1,673; Murray Street, 1,432; All Saints', 712; Sacred Heart, 510; St. Andrew's 481; St. James, 459; Mark Street, 166. Total to date from packs, 10,745. We have also received a large batch from friends at Lakefield, brought down by a friend at the Review. Owing to the rationing of gas the packs would do well to make arrangements to cart the magazines to headquarters by hand cart or wagon, and o your part toward help win the war. We could arrange to have headquarters open if the Akelas let us know.

ST. ANDREW'S TROOP

All members possible are requested to be on hand next Thursday evening. Plans are to be drawn up for a parents' night. Also it is expected to form an A.R.P. patrol under the leadership of Bill Crowe. So let us get out and support these matters.

ENGLISH SCOUT WANTS LETTERS

An English boy scout of 14 years wants to correspond with a Peterborough boy scout. Any scout wanting to accept this please phone 3067 and name will be considered.

SCOUT LEADERS ARE ESSENTIAL

In a recent address to scouts, Hon. Wm. J. T. Thorsen said:

As Minister of National War Services, I should like to say to every scout and cub leader in Canada, that I look upon his work as a matter of great national importance. His status is similar to that of an officer in charge of a training unit or organization. He is doing national service of a high order.

"I have been told," Mr. Thorsen added, that if the boys and girls who are or have been scouts and guides were to form a line, it would reach completely around the earth at its greatest circumference.

ST. JOHN'S CREW

Members of the crew are reminded to bring along any maps they have this Thursday evening, at the den, 8.15.

SACRED HEART ACTIVITIES

After the heavy activities of boy scout week and a week of recuperation, the group is back into activities. We regret that from our last report, we have omitted a few important items.

During the cub program of boy scout week, Michael Crowley, a former two star cub, and now a scout, was presented with his Leaping Wolf badge, awarded to those scouts who have been two star cubs, by his former Akela, Miss D. Grady, who helped out at that meeting.

We also missed reporting the appointments of new sixers, to replace those who have gone up into the troop. They are on probation of a month, after which their promotion will be confirmed with investitures. Those appointed are: Bernard Monaghan, Bobby Woodhouse, Don Moher, as sixers, and Gerald and Harold O'Rourke, Jack Kennely as seconds. Carol Heath was invested as a sixer.

During the past week, besides the three new boys who came up from the pack to the troops, three other boys have joined the troop. They are Clare Dionne, Eldon Paquette, and Ray Farleigh. This brings up our membership to 19 boys.

On Friday night, a meeting of all the parents was held. Matters pertaining to the running of the group were discussed and a better support and co-operation with the leaders was sought. It was also pointed out that unless we receive extra help with the leaders during the coming week, the activities of the cub pack will be suspended.

An attempt to form a parents' association that would include the fathers as well as the mothers, failed, as there were only three fathers present, and it was felt that it will be difficult to have the fathers out to meetings due to war work. Instead, the ladies' auxiliary was reorganized and officers elected. President, Mrs. H. Lucano; Vice-president, Mrs. Keneally; Secretary, Mrs. Woodhouse, and Treasurer, Mrs. Goselin.

Speakers of the evening, besides the leaders were Mr. E. J. Wolfe, A.D.C.; Mr. O'Rurke of the group committee, and Mr. E. T. Jones, field secretary from Toronto provincial headquarters. Chairman for the evening was Mr. W. J. Grady of the group committee. Mr. Jones, while in Peterborough, was the guest of the Scout Master.

We would again make an appeal through these columns to those from the Sacred Heart Church, who read it, to give us a hand in helping the work with the cubs and scouts. Next week one of our units will be suspended (the cub pack) unless we receive the help of someone who would be willing to take the leadership of the pack over. Only by such action of some man will we be able to save our pack from suspension of activities.

Prizes for the recently held craft show were given winners in the scout section, while those in the cub section will receive theirs at next week's meeting. Recently, Gerald O'Dette was appointed as patrol leader to the Eagles, on probation. The winner of the Scouter's Cup, given for patrol competition, was again won by the Beaver patrol for the second time. This week due to the increase of scouts a new patrol will be formed, thus making four patrols of five in each.

Joins Habitants

Former Port Arthur puck-chaser Jimmy Haggarty playing this year with Montreal Royals in the Quebec senior loop, has been signed to a professional contract by Montreal Canadiens to bolster the Habitants in their final drive for an N.H.L. playoff berth. Injuries have thinned out the Canucks' playing strength. Haggarty is a left-winger.

Gambles $90,000 Ball To Pay During The War

MILWAUKEE, March 10.—(AP)—While many baseball men are seeking ways of cutting expenses, 27-year-old Bill Veeck, new owner and president of Milwaukee Brewers, is gambling $90,000 that the war will not affect baseball attendance.

"We don't believe this is the time to retrench," says Veeck. "Fans want some relaxation from the grim business of war so we're going along with Mr. Roosevelt, who wants baseball to continue as usual.

"We are convinced that our club, which hasn't made money for two years, can become a profitable venture even in times like these, so we are spending $80,000 for ball players and another $10,000 to remodel our park."

Veeck and Charley Grimm, the former Chicago Cub manager, took over the Brewers last year. The team was in last place in the American Association and finished there. Before the season ended, however, Veeck and Grimm started laying elaborate plans for 1942.

They bought big league veterans who were nearing the end of their major life; they picked up three of the best men in the Texas League, including that circuit's batting champion. They scoured the bush leagues and sandlots—and came up with what appear to be the best prospects the team has had in years.

Grey Clarke, an infielder, is the Texas League champion they picked up. He batted .364 with Dallas last year. Also obtained from Dallas was Heinz Becker, who plays both first base and the outfield. He hit .320 in 1941. Bill Norman of Houston, who led the league in runs batted in, also was purchased.

From the Cubs they bought Johnny Hudson, an infielder who had five years of major league experience; Vance Page, a veteran hurler, and Charley George, a big catcher. Odell (Bad News) Hale, who played for Cleveland over an eight-year stretch, also was bought by the Brewers, as was Woody Jensen, who spent seven years with Pittsburg; Murray Howell, a Baltimore slugger, and Harvey Storey, a west coast star, to mention only a few of the thirty-one men obtained.

Grimm starts work with his squad at Ocala, Fla., tomorrow. They will be back home to see what they can do to justify Veeck's faith April 16.

HAMILTON, TIMMINS QUALIFY TO MEET FOR SENIOR O.H.A. HONORS

Generals Shade Lions On Round, Protest Pends

By The Canadian Press

Hamilton Majors and Buffalo-Ankerite Bisons of Timmins will meet for the right to represent Ontario in the Allan Cup playdowns. Both clubs won their respective league titles by scraping out victories last night.

Majors beat St. Catharines 6-5 in overtime at St. Catharines to win the best-of-five Ontario Hockey Association Senior 'A" finals, three games to one. Buffalo-Ankerite shutout Hollinger Greenshirts 1-0 at Timmins to take the Northern Ontario honors for th second year in succession. The victory was the Bison's third in four games.

Another series was decided, tentatively at least, when Oshawa Generals beat Brantford 3-2 in overtime at Brantford to end the best-of-seven semi-finals in the Junior O.H.A. division. It was Generals' fourth triumph against three losses.

Oshawa will face Guelph Biltmores in the finals, unless the O.H.A. executive gives favorable consideration to a Brantford protest on Oshawa's victory in the sixth game of the series. Brantford claimed the game because Coach Tracy Shaw of Oshawa refused to leave the players' bench after being told to do so by Referee Beef McKay.

Runions the Hero

At St. Catharines it took an overtime goal by Doug Runions to swing the decision for the Majors. Prior to that the winners came from behind with only 30 seconds of regular time left to tie the score on Bill Dinning's tally. The score was tied five times during the first three periods.

Conick and Runion netted twice while Hugh Barlow scored for the Majors. For St. Catharines Jerry Davey scord two goals and Goble, Adamson and Forgie each counted one.

At Timmins Bob Young's breakaway play after five minutes of the second period proved to be the only tally of a close checking fixture which was somewhat of an anti-climax to the excitement dished out in the previous game.

In the game at Brantford Ken McNaught's overtime goal was the clincher for the Generals. Gilson and Wilson counted for Oshawa during the regular playing periods while Hewson and Campbell were the Brantford scorers. Charlie Conacher, former Natoinal Hockey League player, directed the Oshawa team from the bench in the absence of Shaw. It was the first home defeat of the season for the Lions and the Generals had to come from behind twice to do it.

News From Training Camps

SAN BERNARDINO, Calif., Mar. 10 — (AP). — Possibility that Lee Handley's major league baseball career may be over is a break for Pittsburg rookie Eddie Leip, second baseman last year with Albany. Leip was slated for return to the minors until it developed Handley was unable to throw a ball across the diamond following an automobile accident last winter. He has been sent to Los Angeles for an examination.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla.—New York Yankees broke a tradition of 20 years' standing in meeting a member of the American League in a Spring exhibition contest yesterday. Now they wish they hadn't. Washington won, 9-2.

MIAMI, Fla.—Brooklyn Dodgers headed for their mainland training camp at Daytona Beach today, but before leaving Coach Red Corriden said Arky Vaughan's new nickname was "Octopus." "He's been getting them all over the field," said Corriden, 'so we gave him a new name."

MIAMI, Fla.—Fears that the purchase of Johnny Mize from St. Louis Cardinals last December might prove a dud for New York Giants because of the recent recurrence of his shoulder ailment have lessened considerably. Mize again is participating in both the batting and fielding drills.

Timber—And How Those Americans Can Swing It

"Murph" Chamberlain of the Brooklyn Americans is about to bring his stick down on the head of Ray Getliffe (near the boards) of the Canadiens in the first period. Both boys received a two-minute penalty for "high sticking." This little "swing session" took place during the Brooklyn Americans versus Montreal Canadiens hockey game at Madison Square Garden. The teams pushed each other into an overtime period, but nevertheless, the game ended at 1 all.

Vezina Trophy Going Second Time To Brimsek

(By SCOTT YOUNG.)

The great rookie Boston Bruins brought up four seasons ago to replace Tiny Thompson in goal has worn well. Only the formality of playing out Boston's four remaining National Hockey League games this season stands between Frankie Brimsek and his second Georges Vezina trophy award.

Brimsek won the Vezina trophy that first year, too, and also took the Calder trophy as the outstanding rookie, while the league still rang with jeers at the sagacity of the Boston management in releasing Tiny Thompson, one of the greatest goalkeepers of all time. But Brimsek clicked from the start and has improved with age and experience.

The trophy goes to the goalkeeper allowing the least number of goals during each N.H.L. season and Brimsek's rival is too far away to be considered properly a rival. Brimsek has had 107 goals scored on im in 44 games, while Toronto's Turk Broda has allowed 119 in 45.

Like all excellent products (and some otherwise) in this period, Brimsek's brilliance occasionally draws testimonials. One came from the taciturn Mud Bruneteau, Detroit winger, after Detroit had beaten Boston 3-1 Sunday night. Bruneteau said:

"On any other goalie we would have scored at least 10 times. You just have to hand it to that guy. He made more spectacular saves in one game than any goalie I have ever seen."

To-night Boston will be at home to Chicago Black Hawks and the result will bring Brimsek one game closer to his second Vezina. The way the square-faced and stock native of Eveleth Minn., is going there will be many more Vezina seasons left before he moves out of the big time.

Joe Tuning Up For A Fight

Two Unknowns Whip Golf Aces At Miami

MIAMI, Fla., March 10—(AP)—A couple of players who almost were left out of the invitation list knocked the favorites out of the Miami Biltmore's international four-ball golf tournament yesterday with a sterling exhibition of teamwork.

Chandler Harper of Portsmouth, Va., and Herman Keiser of Akron, Ohia, both of whom have been rapping at the door but still have to win their first major event, conquered Byron Nelson and Henry Picard — two of the slickest match play specialists in the business.

Picard's Great Rally

The score was one up in a match decided on the 36th hole after Picard got his third birdie in four holes. Keiser watched Picard sink a 12-footer for a four, then stepped up to drap a tricky 2½-footer.

Picard's great streak started with his team three down and four to go. He dropped a 15-footer for a four on the 553-yard 33rd and then canned a 12-footer on the 34th.

Picard, lanky Oklahoma City pro and a former P.G.A. champion, almost made it three straight when his 9-footer for a birdie on the 35th slid just past the hole.

Harper, who wielded a red-hot putter, and Keiser, who always came through just when he was needed, scored 66's on both rounds for a 10-under-par 132. Picard and Nelson had 66-67—133, with the help of Picard's eagle two on the 10th hole where he sank a 100-yard approach.

Last Pair Invited

Harper and Keiser were among the last players invited, and then were given bids because they both have finished in the money in every tournament played this year.

Groutt was paired with Ben Loving, Biltmore pro. They were behind almost all day, pulling even only twice in the afternoon before Groutt prolonged the match on the 36th. Each side had a 36-hole 137.

In the final nip-and-tuck encounter of the day, Willie Goggin hit the bottom of the cup on the 36th with his six-foot putt for a birdie, a shot which enabled him and Jimmy Hines to edge out E. J. (Dutch) Harrison and Denny Shute, one up.

Ahead most of the way, Hines and Goggin lost step on the final nine, but quickly recovered to score 68-69—137 against 69-69—138.

To-day's semi-finals will match Hogan and Sarazen against Keiser and Harper and Hines and Goggin against Loving and Groutt.

2 Western Teams Abandon Series

EDMONTON, March 10—(CP).—Dr. W. G. Hardy, past president of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association and now in charge of the A.B.C. Senior hockey league playoffs, announced late last night that "on account of poor attendance at Lethbridge and with the consent of both clubs, the Lethbridge Maple Leafs and Kimberley Dynamiters, the C.A.H.A. has allowed their series to be terminated."

(Lethbridge and Kimberley last night played the third game of the best-of-five semi-final series with Leafs winning 4-1 to give them a 2-0 edge in games with one game tied. After the game the Kimberley management announced they were defaulting the remaining games.)

Patrick, Watson Still Tied In Scoring List

MONTREAL, March 10— (CP).—With the National Hockey League 1941-42 schedule on the last lap, it looks as if New York Rangers will have an N.H.L. scoring champion on their lineup for the first time since Bill Cook took the title back in the 1932-33 season.

Adding three assists during the last week to raise his total to 53 points, Bryan Hextall looked to be practically a sure bet to cop the league honors in the individual scoring list.

League statistics issued to-day showed Lynn Patrick and Phil Watson, Hextall's linemates, tied in second place with 51 points. Patrick's total was made up of 30 goals, the highest in the circuit, and 21 assists, and Watson had 15 goals and 36 assists to his credit.

In fourth place with 46 points was Detroit's Don Grosso, followed by Bill Thoms of Chicago who moved up from sixth place by adding three assists during the week to increase his point-total to 45. Detroit's Svd Abel moved down to sixth place one point behind Thoms, while Montreal's Toe Blake moved up from ninth place to seventh by obtaining four assists for a total of 42 points.

Pat Egan, Brooklyn American defenceman still was undisputed "bad man" of the league with 104 minutes, having added two minutes during the week. He also had two misconduct penalties against him.

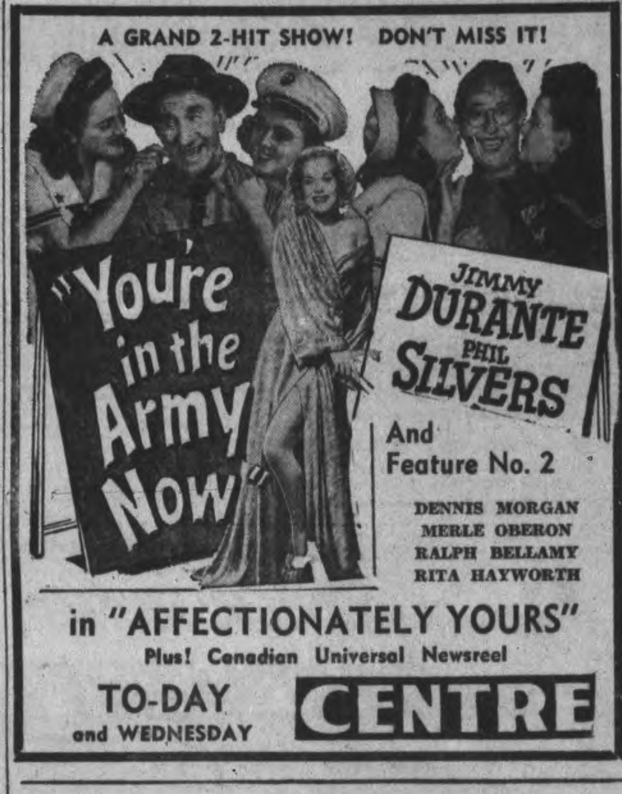
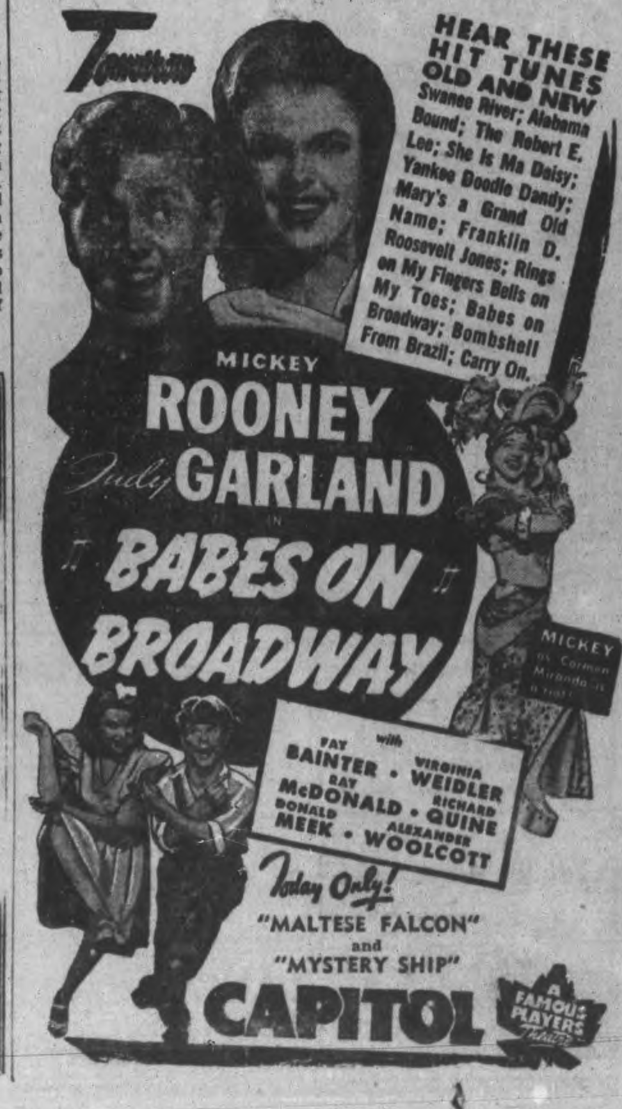
HOW TO RELIEVE PILE TORTURE QUICKLY AND EASILY

If you are troubled with itching piles or rectal soreness, do not delay treatment and run the risk of letting this condition become chronic. Any itching or soreness or painful passage of stool is nature's warning and proper treatment should be secured at once.

For this purpose get a package of Hem-Roid from McDermid & Jury or any druggist and use as directed. This formula which is used internally is a small, easy to take tablet, will quickly relieve the itching and soreness and aid in healing the sore tender spots. Hem-Roid is pleasant to use, is highly recommended, and it seems the height of folly for any one to risk a painful and chronic pile condition when such a fine remedy may be had at such a small cost.

If you try Hem-Roid and are not entirely pleased with the results, your druggist will gladly return your money —(Advt.)





Pirates "Adopt" Canadian Fleeing Japs

LONDON, March 10 (CP Cable)—The Daily Mail said Sunday in a dispatch from Chungking that Arthur J. Duff, whom it described as a Chinese speaking Canadian, had arrived at the provisional Chinese capital two months after escaping from fallen Hong Kong. Duff was born in China. His parents came from Hamilton, Ont.

Duff, the Mail said, arrived in Chungking Saturday and told the newspaper's correspondent he took refuge in a Chinese house the day before Hong Kong fell and that although the Japanese searched the premises four times they failed to find him.

Then, his story continued, on Jan. 10 Chinese friends helped him aboard a fishing boat which crept past six Japanese sentries to a Chinese village where he took refuge in a battlefield littered with British tanks and Bren gun carriers. He made his way to a boat but remained at a temple for two days and was "adopted" by Bias Bay Pirates whose treatment was kind but whose food was rough."

"Then while the pirates were ashore smoking opium my junk was attacked by other armed men who bound me and took me aboard another junk with all the guns and ammunition in the pirate junk."

The Mail said Duff's captors turned him over to Chinese guerillas who escorted him inland beyond the reach of pirates and Japanese troops. Later, it said, he joined up with other refugees and completed the journey to Chungking by air.

80 Million More For '42 Wheat Under New Price

(By C. R. BLACKBURN.)

OTTAWA, March 10 (CP)—Western wheat growers will receive for their 1942 crop an estimated $80,000,000 more than their returns will be on the 1941 crop, Trade Minister MacKinnon told the House of Commons when presenting the new wheat marketing program.

Mr. MacKinnon and Agriculture Minister Gardiner laid the program before parliament yesterday, elaborating on the legislation which has already indicated that the minimum wheat price will be 90 cents a bushel, basis No. 1 Northern at Fort William, instead of 70 cents and that the wheat acreage reduction bonus will be continued.

In addition Mr. MacKinnon announced fixed minimum prices on oats, barley and flax-seed as a measure to increase their production, particularly the production of flaxseed which is needed to make up for the shortage of vegetable oils.

In the short debate which followed the wheat program announcements two Western Liberals urged that the price of wheat should be fixed at $1.20 a bushel basis No. 1 Northern at Fort William, if the farmers were to have parity prices in respect to the cost of things they have to buy.

Gordon Ross (Lib. Moose Jaw) said that if there were a wheat scarcity instead of a surplus the government would be offering $2.50 to $3.00 a bushel.

An increase to $1.20 a bushel need not increase the price of bread to the consumer, Mr. Ross said, because only 10 to 15 per cent of the crop was used domestically and only 1¼ cents of the price of a loaf of bread represented its flour content.

Walter Tucker (Lib. Rosthern) said a price of $1.20 a bushel, basis Fort William, would no more than put the farmer into the position he was in during 1913 and 1914 with regard to the value of his crop.

45 Per Cent Below Parity.

The farmer's return on his wheat now fell 45 per cent below that parity while the wages of industrial workers were about 45 per cent better in value as compared with 1913-14. he said.

Mr. Tucker urged the Government and Easterners who oppose aid to Western farmers to consider the plight of Western farmers who, because of low prices and heavy debt burdens were forced to become "second class" in comparison with the people of Eastern Canada, yet were making the same war sacrifices.

Debate on the wheat program was suspended last evening while the House went into committee again on Labor Minister Mitchell's Bill embodying in statute form an Order-in-Council passed last June providing for reinstatement in civilian employment after discharge of those who enlist in the forces.

No progress was made on this legislation and it will be again put aside when the House this afternoon resumes debate on the wheat program with P. E. Wright (C.C.F. Melfort) the first speaker.

During the discussion on Mr. Mitchell's Bill the minister, chiding Jean Francois Pouliot (Lib. Temiscouaota) for introducing racial animosities, said that "if we win this war it will be a miracle."

Mr. Pouliot was objecting to extension of the reinstatement privileges to those from otehr countries on the same basis as those long resident in or natives of the Dominion.

"A Dumping Ground."

Mr. Pouliot said Canada was becoming "the dumping ground for all nations," and he objected to the newcomers getting good positions, particularly in the Civil Service.

"The Minister of Labor is one who was dumped." said Mr. Mitchell, "and he is proud of it." Mr. Mitcehll is a native of Great Britain.

At a time when British institutions were in the gravest possible peril. Mr. Mitchell said, it was bad policy to raise any issues tending to disunite Canadians.

"If we win this war it will be a miracle," he said. "But miracles have been performed by our people before and they will be undertaken by them again."

The wheat discussion was based upon two Bills, one increasing the minimum wheat price to 90 cents, introduced by Mr. MacKinnon and the other extending the wheat acreage reduction bonus for another year, introduced by Mr. Gardiner.

Mr. Gardiner yesterday introduced a third wheat measure, the amendments to the Prairie Farm Assistance Act providing that any year may be declared an "emergency" year, regardless of the price at which wheat is selling. Under the measure at present this declaration may be made only when wheat is selling for less than 80 cents a bushel.

Mr. MacKinnon announced that where the Wheat Board took only 230,000,000 bushels of the 1941 crop at the guaranteed price, it would take 280,000,000 bushels of the 1942 crop at the new minimum.

But no new acreage is necessary to meet this increase, both ministers said, and hence the acreage reduction bonus will be continued.

Big Enough Reserve

A carry-over of 400,000,000 bushels at the end of the current crop year was estimated and this was stated to be the Government's idea of an adequate reserve under the circumstances.

To encourage production of coarse grains the Wheat Board will administer minimum prices, basis in store at Fort William, as follows: Barley 60 cents, oats 45 cents, and flaxseed $2.25 a bushel, with the Wheat Board taking all the flax-seed offered.

Mr. Gardiner said the Western farmers, as a contribution to the war cause, had voluntarily reduced acreage which took $10,000,000 out of their pockets, and we have not by any means put it all back."

The increased price would help to make up that loss, he said.

No price ceiling had been placed upon wheat and the return to the farmer was still far below what it was in the four years 1926-29, the mark that should be the objective, said Mr. Gardiner.

As yet the Japanese Government has refused permission for a visit to Hong Kong by a representative of the protecting power, Argentina, or a visit by a Red Cross representative.

The department released the text of Mr. Eden's statement in the British House of Commons, in which he told of 50 British officers and men being bound hand and foot by the Japanese at Hong Kong and then bayonetted to death.

His information was based on the reports of reliable eye-witnesses who escaped from Hong Kong during February and January.

"It is known that 10 days after capitulation (of Hong Kong) wounded were still being collected from the hills and the Japanese were refusing permission to bury the dead. It is known that women, both Asiatic and European, were raped and murdered and that one entire Chinese district was declared a brothel regardless of status of inhabitants."

Mr. Eden said there was some reason to believe that conditions had been slightly improved since the date on which the eye-witnesses had escaped from Hong Kong.

Mr. Eden's statement, relayed to the Canadian Government before he delivered it, was the first official word received of maltreatment of prisoners at Hong Kong though there have been various reports to this effect.

The Government was hesitant to give out any such information until it had been thoroughly checked and on several occasions the External Affairs Department announced it was doing all possible to get accurate information regarding conditions at Hong Kong.

Two On Death List.

Two members of the Canadian garrison at Hong Kong have been listed by the Defence Department as having died since being taken prisoners.

They were Lieut. Orville Watson McKillop of Portage La Prairie, Man., and Pte. John James Gunn of Winnipeg.

Almost the complete Canadian contingent which sailed to Hong Kong under Brig. J. K. Lawson of Ottawa, since listed as killed in action, was composed of members of the Winnipeg Grenadiers and the Quebec Royal Rifles of Canada.

At present a Royal Commission is inquiring into the sending of the men to Hong Kong, the probe having been asked for in the House of Commons after Defence Minister Ralston revealed that 138 to 148 of the men had less than the minimum prescribed training of 16 weeks and that a shipload of equipment for the Canadians never reached Hong Kong.

General Is Snubbed

The Japanese guards are utterly callous and the repeated requests of General Maltby, the general officer commanding, for an interview with the Japanese commander have been curtly refused.

This presumably means that the Japanese high command have connived at the conduct of their forces.

Most of the European residents, including some who are seriously ill, have been interned, and like the military prisoners are being given only a little rice and water and occasionally scraps of other food.

There is some reason to believe that conditions have been slightly improved since the date on which the eye-witnesses whom I have quoted escaped, but Japanese government have refused their consent to a visit to Hong Kong of a representative of the protecting power and no permission has yet been granted for such a visit by a representative of the International Red Cross committee. They have in fact announced that they require all foreign consuls to withdraw from all territories they have invaded since the outbreak of the war. It is clear that their treatment of prisoners and civilians will not bear independent investigation.

Mr. Eden's statement in the British House backed up the first report—unofficial — of Japanese ill-treatment of prisoners which was received from Arnold Vaught of the International Friends' Mission at Chungking. On Feb. 15 he reported 5,000 Hong Kong prisoners were living in an internment camp at Kowloon, on the China mainland, without proper food and without sanitary facilities.

He told how the Empire troops "begged for water" as they marched past the Kowloon Y.M.C.A.

Disruption of the water supply on Hong Kong island was one of the factors leading to the Allied surrender to the Japanese on Christmas Day.

Vaught said people who ran to give the prisoners water were driven away and threatened with bayonets by the Japanese. Once in the internment camp the men only had two bowls of poorly-cooked rice a day "with nothing else," Vaught reported.

Only last night Defence Minister Ralston told the House of Commons the Canadian Government with other Allied government was "taking every possible step" to send food supplies for the use of Canadian soldiers held prisoners by the Japanese.

Chief Trails Two Car Thieves Down In Bush

TWEED, March 10 — (ENS). — Brandishing his revolver and threatening to shoot unless they surrendered, Chief J. C. Hayes of Tweed apprehended two men in the woods north of Kaladar. The pair, police state, were wanted for the theft of an automobile in Belleville, and also atempting to steal gasoline at Kaladar.

The apprehension of the pair came following a hectic 50-mile police chase, during which Chief Hayes ultimately tracked the pair down in the freshly fallen snow early on Sunday morning.

The men who police say are 20-year-old Carl Covert of Trenton and 21-year-old Marcel Daniel Shea of Hearst, Ontario, were later turned over to the custody of Belleville police, and on Monday charges of stealing an automobile, the property of Thomas Hutchinson, 35 Boswell Street, Belleville,

Although Provincial and city police were racing northerly chasing the car thieves, Chief Hayes knew nothing of the car stealing episode until he received a complaint from Mr. Woodcock, Kaladar farmer, from whose car two men tried to steal gasoline on Sunday morning. Mr. Woodcock and his hired man frightened the would-be gas thieves who ran into the bush. Chief Hayes was notified and tracked the men in the snow and later captured them at the point of his revolver. Mr. Hutchinsons car was found abandoned near Woodcock's farm after the car thieves made their initial escape on foot.

Covert and Shea are being held without bail in the county jail.

Only the front bumper of Mr. Hutchinson's car was damaged when the vehicle was recovered.

Provincial Police under Sergeant Bush and Chief Kidd and Detective Fred Isard composed the police posse that gave chase from Belleville. Chief Hayes turned the pair over to Chief Kidd after a long trek through the brush and woods north and east of Kaladar.

Glass Fibres New Basis Of Insulation

Discovery of a process by which refined molten glass can be drawn into fibres fifteen times finer than a human hair, with all the pliability of silk, and with infinitely greater resilience and tensile strength, has presented the insulation engineer with something that had long been regarded as an impossible figment of the scientific imagination. This discovery has greatly aided in the insulation of CHEX studios.

The apparently simple process of drawing molten glass into gossamer filaments begins with the formation of highly refined glass marbles about-⅝ inch in diameter. Having been inspected and found flawless, the marbles are run into an electric furnace developing intense heat. Through 204 tiny openings in a metal plate, the molten glass then emerges as filaments so fine as to be almost invisible. These are gathered together and conducted to a pool-winder which draws the combined filament out into a continuous fibre, which may be as much as 5,000 miles long, at the rate of a mile a minute.

At least two of these filments must be twisted together to form the finest workable yarn or thread. This is done on standard textile machines. The glass yarn is then woven into tapes, braids, cords or wider fabric on ordinary textile looms. The whole process, from glass to fibre and from fibre to fabric or to padded insulating material, is now being performed in Canada, at Oshawa, Ontario. In fabric form, this fibroud glass material is used for insulating electric motors, wiring and other electric equipment. In padded form, it is used for insulating buildings, stoves, refrigerators, motor cars, railway cars, boats, airplanes, etc. This glass material possesses certain valuable characteristics, such as imperviousness to moisture, acids, decay; non-inflammability, resiliency and compactness; electrical non-conductivity, etc., highly desirable in an insulating material.

$150 FROM VICTORY TEA.

Net proceeds of a recent Victory Tea, held by Trinity United Church Women's Association for contribution to war relief, amounted to $150. The money was distributed as follows: For bombed churches of England $75, Mrs. Winston Churchill's Fund $40, British Bomb Victims' Fund $35.

HE HAD ENOUGH.

A rural resident who obtained work and 80 cents an hour on a local construction job has headed back to the farm. The work was not steady, in fact he was often idle for three weeks at a time, he and his wife were forced to live in cramped quarters, where they even shared the clothes line, so the farmer has decided that financially and from the standpoint of comfort he is much farther ahead living back on the farm as hired man, where living quarters and many other essentials of life are part of his wages.

MEET WEDNESDAY.

Another meeting of the County Agriculture War committee is scheduled for Wednesday in the Department of Agriculture. This seven man committee will consider the general farm survey which is being carried through to completion at the present time.

CHIMNEY FIRES

Firemen attended a chimney fire last evening at six o'clock at 105 Sophia street and another this morning at 462 Parnell street. At 10:40 this morning, overheated pipes sent firemen to 269 Perry street. No damage resulted.

FOUR PLEAD GUILTY

As an aftermath of the police raid on a cotttage on the River Road early Sunday morning, written pleas of guilty to charges of being found in a common gaming house were entered by four men this morning. Charges against other men found by the police when they raided the police will be heard later.

COLLIDE IN BLIZZARD

As Mrs. Mildred Corneil, 214 Geraldine avenue, was driving north on George street Monday night, her car collided with a southbound automobile driven by Arthur Thompson, Jr., 183 Aylmer street. The bumper of the Corneil car went up over that of the other machine, with the result that Thompson's car had fenders, radiator, foglights and bumper damaged. The other vehicle escaped without injury and no one was hurt. The accident happened in the midst of the blizzard.

COBOURG BOYS ON AIR

Lance Sergeant M. R. Mallory and Gunner J. F. Smith, both of Cobourg, will be heard Sunday from 12.30 to 1 p.m. on the program, "Greetings From The Beaver Club" in London, England. The program will come over the Canadian Broadcasting Company's network which includes Radio Station CBL in Toronto.

OFFICERS RE-ELECTED.

Officers of the Peterborough County Federation of Agriculture were re-elected at the annual meeting held over the week-end. Reeve Melville Johnston is president, George Mullen is vice-president; W. A. Anderson is second vice-president and Frank C. Paterson is secretary-treasurer. There are some changes made in the directory, along the lines of securing farmers who would take a more active part in the affairs of the Federation.

GETS COMMISSIONS.

Two Peterborough boys serving with the Glengarry Highlanders overseas are listed in the number of successful cadets who were granted commissions at the close of a three months' officers' training course. The two are Walter J. Curtis, former salesman for the Canada Packers, and son of Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Curtis, 50 River Road. His wife lives at 705 Water Street. The other officer is Gordon Clarke, former goal tender for Peterborough hockey teams. His mother is now living out West.

NAMED DELEGATES.

Five members of the Peterborough County Federation of Agriculture have been named delegates to the annual convention which takes place in the King Edward Hotel, Toronto on March 17 and 18. The two voting delegates are Melville Johnston and George Mullen, and they will be accompanied by Reeve James Gifford, a member of the provincial directorate, Gordon Stalker and John Kitney. The latter are both members of the Young Farmers' group.

BARN BEING TORN DOWN.

An old barn located at the east end of the Hunter Street bridge behind Edward's garage is being torn down. Many people believed that this barn had been ripped to bits by the storm, but investigation indicates the wreckers are responsible for its demolition.

ROOF RIPPED OFF.

Large strips of heavy sheet metal which had been used as roofing on the building formerly occupied by the late John Butcher on Brock Street have been torn off by the wind. One strip was hanging over the eaves today and was lodged in a position where it constituted a danger to passersby.

SOMEBODY SLIPPING.

A huge pile of packaged garbage presented an unsightly spectacle on Hunter Street near George this morning, and some of the garbage was visible through the containers. The big pile of boxes and cans occupied a space about six feet by four feet on the sidewalk.

Friends Honor Dartford Couple

WARKWORTH, March 10 (ENS)—Mr. and Mrs. Elmer Oliver, Dartford, were happily surprised on Saturday evening when about fifty friends, relatives and neighbors gathered at their home to congratulate them on the occasion of their twenty-fifth anniversary of their marriage.

During the evening games of euchre, Chinese checkers and dancing were enjoyed.

Among the beautiful gifts which Mr. and Mrs. Oliver received was a dozen silver knives and forks, three tablespoons.

Personals

Mrs. George Blakely, Castleton, spent the week-end with Mr. and Mrs. D. O. Grieve.

Mr. and Mrs. O. E. Kelly and Patricia and Mrs. J. E. Thompson of Brighton spent the week-end with relatives in town.

Mrs. Tom Somers is spending a few days with her daughter, Miss Mary Somers, R.N., Toronto.

Mr. Harold Grant, Toronto, spent the week-end with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John Grant.

Mr. Everett Maycock of Oshawa spent the week-end with his parents.

Mrs. J. M. Stewart, Mrs. Lloyd Seward, Mrs. H. E. Allen, Mrs. D. S. Thompson and Mrs. M. E. Smith spent Saturday in Belleville.

Harry and Eldon Ewing of Manning Pool Depot, Toronto, spent the week-end with their parents, Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Ewing.

Mr. Charles Mallory of Rockcliffe is home on seven days' leave.

Load Of Chickens High Wind Upsets

COBOURG, Ont., March 10 (CP)—Several hundred chickens were given unexpected liberty when a large truck loaded with crates of poultry upset on a curve just north of Cobourg last night. The driver, Rene Lahaie of Montreal, escaped injury when the truck upset. Chickens, squawking loudly, ran around in hopeless confusion.

Several dozen chickens were killed.

The driver said that the high winds caught the truck as it went around the bend and turned it over.

OBITUARY

MRS. MARGARET ALLEN

Mrs. Margaret Allen, widow of the late Edmond J. Allen, lifelong resident of Douro township passed away in the hospital in this city on Monday evening following an extended illness.

She was born in Douro, a daughter of the late John Whibbs and Ellen Torpey, and her home in recent years was on Lot 6, Concession 4, Douro. She was a devout member of St. Joseph's Church, Douro, and a member of the Altar Society.

Sashes Ripped From Hot Beds In Wind Storm

Wind that reached near-gale proportions lashed this district since early Sunday night and early this afternoon, the storm was still swooping down spasmodically bringing gusts of snow that made pedestrians cuddle their faces deep in coat collars.

The wind ripped everything that was loose and sent it whirling out of position. Down at the farm of Charles Kitney and Son, River Road, more than $250 worth of glass was destroyed when the wind attacked a row of about 40 hot beds and tore the sashes free. Practically every pane of glass in the frames were smashed as the wind flipped them one after another into the air. One frame was hurled on top of the greenhouse and this smashed several panes of glass in the roof. A wooden roof over a pile of bricks was sent hurtling against a truck, on the Kitney farm, and a headlight was smashed. Many bricks were toppled off the pile.

Large Pine Falls

A large pine tree that has stood like a sentinel alongside St. John's Anglican Church was toppled by the force of the wind, and several motorists who neglected to lock garage doors found them torn off. At the home of W. A. Brown on Benson Avenue, a storm window on the second storey of the house worked loose, and was blown down, but strange to say, the glass remained intact.

Flood conditions added to the headache of city dwellers, and between Roger and Douro streets a huge lake formed. Art Chartren on Roger street had more than a foot of water in a small building where he kept pheasants and he had to feed the birds while they were roosting. The garage of Cecil Mounce, next door to Chartren's formed a nice little island.

M. Riddell, manager of the Bell Telephone Company said the damage was minor, and he added that all rural lines, and long distance lines in the Peterborough district Bell system were in working order. The high wind of some months ago removed most of the dangerous trees and limbs and there has been little trouble since that time.

Outside of current fluctuations which caused lights to flicker once in a while, there was no trouble in the electrical system.

Today the Jackson Park creek has started to behave and the water level has dropped somewhat owing to the cold spell that was ushered in with driving snow on Monday evening.

Transient Is Arrested On Begging Charge

After complaints had been received Monday night from a number of west-end residents, a transient, Michael O'Brien, was arrested by Constables Leo Murphy and Harold Mesley and this morning pleaded guilty in police court to a charge of begging.

Murphy told the magistrate that he was just passing through Peterborough en route to Lindsay where he hoped to get work at the Dominion Arsenal. He said that his home was in Kingston but he had been born in Montreal and had come to Peterborough from Perth.

At the request of the crown, Magistrate O. A. Langley remanded the accused for a week in order to give the police a chance to check upon his record.

Examiner Gold Trophy Presented To George Clark

$246.50 Stamp Sale For Month Wins Examiner Cup

The Regent Theatre provided the stage for the formal presentation of the Examiner Gold Cup for monthly sales volume of War Savings Stamps, when the winner, George Clark of 331 Sherbrooke street, became the proud possessor of the large trophy for his grand efforts in selling the total of $246.50 during the month of February. R. E. Layfield, of the local War Savings Committee, presented the cup and its replica which becomes the property of the winner for all time. Mr. Layfield also gave to George the splendid pair of ski boots donated by the Robert Neill Company each month. The smiling winner expressed to Mr. Layfield his appreciation for the support he had been given by his many customers and to the Examiner for the chance he had been given to make this possible.

The runner up, Keith Orde, who is making strenuous efforts to be star salesman, was presented with a large studio portrait of himself, given by Fred Cripps as a prize for second place winner each month. This day of the presentation happened to be Keith's fourteenth birthday and marked two milestones in his young life. His sales for February were the fine total of $162.50. He made a short speech of thanks to Mr. Cripps and Paige Rowell who presented the portrait on behalf of the donor. All subscribers who are buying these War Savings Stamps from their Examiner carriers will be interested in these presentations each month which show the appreciation of the voluntary efforts of the young people who are certainly doing their bit to carry Canada's financial burden. Order blanks can be had on application to your carrier on which you may state your wishes regarding the number of War Savings Stamps you would like to have delivered weekly to your home.

Average Maintained

The high average sales of War Savings Stamps was maintained last week by the boys and girls who carry Examiners in the city. The total sales for the week ending March 7th were $445.25. The average weekly sales have gone up during the last two months from $420.00 to about $440.00. The past week produced some large individual sales among the carriers, the leader being a boy from East City, Bill Dundas of 360 Mark street, whose sales were $50.75. Congratulations are extended to him for coming through as top salesman after several weeks of just fair luck. In second place by a very small margin with $49.00 is Jack Harris of 239 Princess street, south end of city. Jack is a consistent winner of weekly prizes and deserves to become winner of the Gold Trophy within a short time. We are confident he will show up there some day soon. In a close third position is Carlotta Laing, 272 Armour road, who also is a very regular weekly winner, whose sales were $45.00, and fourth place is taken by January's trophy winner, Donald Pagett of 614 Chamberlain street with $40.00. Two other familiar names to readers of this column are next in order, Victor Doughty and Keith Orde, runner-up for the Gold Cup for February, presented Monday night, tied with $33.00 each.

A youngster who is right in there trying each week is Walter Noble, whose sales for last week amounted to a respectable $28.00, followed by George Clark, last month's Gold Cup winner, with $23.25, a good start for the month of March. A newcomer, Ted Payne, deserves commendation for his last week's sales of $20.00 as does Wilbert Edgar with $18.00 and Bill Leahy, a recent weekly winner, with $15.00. Alan Sage again comes through with sales of $13.25 and Clifford Pirie right behind with $13.00. Douglas Burrows again appears with a total of $11.50 and James McDonald with $10.00, Grant Finnie $9.25, Adrian Langhorne $8.00 and Dick Fulford with $7.75, Eleanor Whittaker of East City is here again with $7.50 and Cyril Robinson with $7.00. Others with good sales were: Gerald Field and Bertha Bradley, both $6.25; Ray Douglas, Henry McIsaac and Lewes Gaslell, all with $6.00; Bob Outram $5.75; Stewart Brown $5.00. Many other boys and girls have made substantial additions to the campaign during the last week.

A blackout demonstration room was officially opened by Mayor James Hamilton to-day in the presence of about 100 women and a sprinkling of men, and Mrs. Gordon D. Conant, vice-chairman and extension executive of the Canadian Women's Volunteer Services. Following Mayor Hamilton's opening, Col. Max Sloan, chief A.R.P. officer for Peterborough, told the gathering the display brings home forcibly the urgent need of being prepared for air raids. He said there is complacency everywhere and that people should "get into the idea of the critical times through which we are passing."

Mr. G. J. Wharry, Peterborough, head of the Peterborough branch of the Canadian Women's Volunteer Services, introduced Mrs. Conant. "We have followed this plan both in Toronto and Hamilton of preparing blackout rooms such as is here in this C.D.S. store that people may see for themselves what is needed," said Mrs. Conant. "People were anxious to know what they could do and how to keep from getting into a panic. That is the education policy. Each of us must make up our minds to be self reliant."

Mrs. Conant expressed surprise in the fact that the St. John's Ambulance corps in Peterborough is not stronger than it is. "I hope you people and the people of Peterborough will boost the St. John's nursing division. These are the women who would man the first aid posts along with the nurse in charge. You could have a St. John's Ambulance corps of women here," she declared.

"Peterborough is vulnerable and there is a different situation here than anywhere in the district. I would recommend that you women take the A.R.P. course and if you find you can't do that you can take the preparedness course given by the Canadian Women's Volunteer Services. In England, this unit is highly organized. Proof of this is exemplified by the fact that they have listeners—not the kind that listen for planes—but the kind who will sit down and hear an old lady's tale of hard luck—of how she was bombed out and lost most of her possessions. I would call that the height of organization."

The victory loan was a success but we must not stop at that. The enemy is at the gates and at our very throats. Here in Peterborough you have many girls working in a munitions plant from out of town. These are the girls in your city who are right in the front line and how many of you have thought of opening your homes to them that their way of life might be a little more home-like.

Electrics Defeat St. John's 29-11

C.G.E. Electrics, running wild in the first half, ran up a 22-5 margin in that period, trounced St. John's 29-11, in a Ladies' City Basketball League game at the Y.W.C.A. last night. The winners' razzle-dazzle passing and high calibre shooting in the initial frame gave them a big edge and they had hung up a commanding 17-point lead at half time. St. John's played much closer defensively in the final 20 minutes, and if anything held a slight edge in that period, although C.G.E. outscored them by one point, seven to six. The Electrics couldn't seem to miss when it came to shooting, in the first half, and throwing baskets from all angles took complete command of the situation in that period. The shooting of both teams in the last half was away off and both passed up numerous scoring chances with poor marksmanship from in close. E. Craig was C.G.E.'s big scorer, with 15 points, and M. Hodson also played well. A Bowler and M. Mason stood out for the losers. The teams:

St. John's (11).—D. Groombridge, M. Mason, T. Laws 2, A. Bowler 7, F. Gynane, E. Hewitt 2, E. Foster.

Electrics (29).—M. Hodson 6, B. Stalter, F. Merritt 4, E. Craig 15, M. McCarthy, D. Shultz, B. Dobbin 4.

Referee—H. Smith.

Ontario Farm Service Force Planned To Aid The Farmer

Last year 23,000 men, women, boys and girls volunteered and served on the farms of Canada taking up the slack in the labor market, caused by enlistments and the influx of young people to wartime industries.

It is obvious now that food production must be stepped up to meet increased home consumption, the enormous committments to Britain, and to build up food reserves as outlined by Winston Churchill. An attempt to alleviate the serious shortage of farm labor is being made by the Departments of Labor, Education and Agriculture, operating the Ontario Farm Service Force. This unit is attempting to recruit, train and place in farm work, all available male and female. Every person who is physically fit is urged to serve this summer.

Co-operation of All Needed

The active co-operation of all leaders in social fraternal, sporting, church and other activities is being sought to educate the people on the various avenues that exist leading to farm jobs. The Farmerette Brigade and Farm Cadet Brigade, consist of students 16 years of age and over and their teachers. The Women's Land Brigade is made up of men and women over 16 years of age and out of school to serve the year round or by the week, day or month. The Older Men's Brigade is in the same category. The School Children's Brigade is made up of children between the ages of 12 and 16, and their placement in farm work must be obtained and supervised by their parents. Holiday Brigade.—Any person who wishes to use holidays to work on the farm. Home and Garden Brigade.—Registration is arranged by Women's Institutes for girls living and working on farms and beyond school age.

Farm Service Corps

In the Niagara Peninsula and elsewhere are Farm Service Force Camps which accommodate about 60 persons to a camp. They are supervised and staffed by the National Y.W.C.A. and Y.M.C.A. Individual farmers and growers have camps of their own which are supervised by this department, and parents' consent is required. One of the most common plans is known as private placement in which one or more workers live in the farmer's home and assist with his farm work. Living and working conditions will be supervised by the placement officer of the district. Parent's written consent is required for all persons placed under 21 years of age.

Canneries, packers, creameries and cheese factories—Entrance and Secondary School students who obtain 50 per cent in their Easter examinations are permitted to leave school after April 1 or 17 and work for a period of not less than 13 weeks and until voluntarily released by their employers. They must serve on a farm, or in a creamery, cheese factory, cannery or plant engaged in grading, packing, preserving or processing food grown or produced on the farm.

Farmers and growers hesitate to plan increased production this year because of labor shortage. It is vital to our war effort that food production be maintained and increased.

Soldier Given 15 Months On Bigamy Count

Declaring the crime to which the accused had pleaded guilty struck at the very roots of society, Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., in police court this morning sentenced Corp. Joseph B. McKee of the local Military Training Centre to 15 months definite and nine months indefinite in the Ontario Reformatory on a charge of bigamy.

McKee had pleaded guilty last week and sentence was deferred until this morning.

"It is not one of those cases in which suspended sentence would be justified," Magistrate Langley commented. "Your conduct as a soldier has been most exemplary and I do not know what came over you to get yourself into this situation."

"If there was any extenuating circumstance, His Worship added, it lay in the fact that he gathered from what he had learned that the first marriage had taken place under some pressure. But the accused, he said, had been living with the woman without being married to her.

Wartime Garden Project Planned

A meeting to educate people on the art of planning a war time garden will be held in the Department of Agriculture office, Hunter street, on Thursday at 8 o'clock.

F. C. Kitney, well known vegetable gardener, has consented to attend the meeting, which is being arranged by the Peterborough Horticultural Society, and he will answer any questions arising out of the instructions which will be given. The general public desiring a successful garden should know how to dig the soil in order that it will be fit to sow the seed for proper germination. They should know the proper kinds of plants to use so that the results of heavy digging and outlay of cash may not result in a poor growth of plants.

It is recognized that each locality has its own problems and it is only through advice, guidance and experience that the failure of crops can be avoided. Fertilizers cost money and may cause the loss of an entire's season's labor through burning of tender plants.

Mr. Kitney will address the gathering on "The Success of a Wartime Garden." The meeting is arranged purely as a wartime measure, and citizens are invited to attend. The meeting is not restricted to members of the society.

Woman Found Guilty Of Common Assault

A fight between schoolboys was responsible for the appearance in police court this morning of the mother of one of the boys who was accused of assaulting the other lad.

Evidence of the crown witnesses showed that the accused had kicked the other boy while he and her son were entagled on the ground, and the woman herself admitted that she had kicked the boy twice, but not with any great force.

Magistrate Langley found the accused guilty of common assault, but said that the injury to the boy was not as serious as had been represented.

He allowed the woman to go on suspended sentence to keep the peace for one year, warning her to leave other boys alone henceforth.

The woman told the court that other boys had attacked her lad repeatedly and had made insulting remarks to her one a number of occasions.

C.G.E. Workers Give $20.31 To War Victims

From many of the various departments in the largest of the city's industries, the Peterborough and District British War Victims' Fund has from time to time received very substantial support in its work on behalf of those people in Britain who have been left destitute or stricken through enemy air raids over the British Isles, and amongst these the Punch Press department has been represented on more than one occasion, which is very much to their credit. With today's receipts for the fund, the spotlight is once again turned on this group of loyal workers in their sympathy to those less fortunately situated than themselves, by the fine donation of $20.31 which comes to the fund per A. Griffen as the result of a straight collection from the employees in this department, and when one figures that this total amount comprised no less than 656 coins ranging from one cent to a quarter, it can be seen how widespread this collection was, and what a fine opportunity might be offered to run a contest for budding mathematicians to figure out just how many coins of each of the four represented actually comprised the sum total.

One Anonymous donation of $15 is listed, and two personal gifts are noted, both of them repeats, with Mrs. Wm. Shannon who has a son in service in Britain for over a year now, bringing in her usual monthly donation.

Peterborough Branch No. 52 of the Canadian Legion is represented with additional receipts for the month of February from their Wednesday night bingo games, which brings the total it has now given to the fund up to $605.13, a first class contribution from this group who served so well in the country's need, twenty-five years ago.

The Show Goes On.

Through the kindness of Canadian General Electric friends, the show on behalf of the fund to be held in the Collegiate auditorium on Wednesday and Thursday of this week will proceed on schedule, with Charles Colville, professional entertainer from the Garden Brothers' Entertainment Bureau of Toronto taking the place of Joseph Dean, who unfortunately is unable to perform through illness. All being well, Mr. Dean, who has already done much to promote this effort for the fund by putting in considerable work and expense and selling tickets will be heard from on return to normal health which his friends all wish him speedily. Charles Colville is a versatile professional entertainer, more than well worth the price of admission and should be greeted with full houses on both nights, specially when one considers that their money does double duty and gets double value, by reason of its being sent to Britain to rehabilitate those who are in need. A list of places where tickets may be obtained is to be found in the advertisement which appears elsewhere on this page.

RADIONICS

The most priceless thing on earth is good health. Are you endangering your health by not paying sufficient attention to the danger signals that nature is giving you? Headaches, sore throat, bronchial cough, pain over sinus and antrum, constipation, kidney and liver conditions, pain over the appendix area and urinary bladder. These are all warning signals, if you will only heed them.

RADIONIC EXAMINATION will determine the cause of any of these symptoms. If you have infection of the sinus, teeth, tonsils, kidneys, appendix bowel, etc., the Radioclast will find it and trace it to the part affected. Don't neglect your health by not knowing what the cause is.

seemed to Randy the very peak of elegance and charm. But what of all those people who should have helped Drake when he needed it? And now: her father, hard and knotty from years of hard work. . . .

Randy returned to the kitchen. They sat in silence for a time. Then Mr. Monaghan stood up.

"Now you listen to me, daughter."

"All right."

"I never said anything to you about Drake when he began coming around here. I—I just didn't know what to think. I feel awful bad that everything's turned out this way, but we got to take everything as it comes. Now, like I asked you a while ago, how we going to fix this up?"

"I guess I know what you mean. I'm going to marry Drake."

The old man looked searchingly at her. The underlid of his eyes sagged a little.

"Is that the way you want to do it?"

"I've got to convince him, some way. I'll think it out."

"Randy, you're a good girl."

"I'm just doing what I want to."

"Now look here. There's one thing. There's just me. So this house is yours, anyhow. I saved a little money. Ain't any of us going to starve."

"I'll think of something. First of all, I'm going to send a cable to Parris Mitchell. There's been enough of this foolishness."

"You ought to let Mitchell know, I think."

"I'm going to—right today."

Randy dressed again and went out. It was horribly cold, but she scarcely noticed it. She was excited, and terrified, too. How Drake could be managed was the real question. He'd be mad, no doubt, about letting Parris know, but she was certain that she should.

She wrote carefully, crossing out words, and finally rewrote the whole message. It was a succinct but full account of the loss of Drake's money, and the accident. She bit the eraser in the pencil for a moment or two, and added. "I must keep him with me somehow."

Remember When—

(By the Canadian Press.)

The body of Howie Morenz lay in state in Montreal Forum, scene of his greatest triumphs, five years ago to-day and thousands of sport fans filed past the bier in tribute. Making a comeback at the age of 35, the star centre of Montreal Canadiens was playing some of the best hockey of his 14-year career when he broke a leg in a game against Chicago Black Hawks and later died of a heart attack. More than 25,000 persons attended his funeral.

that is bound to occur when they live in the same house.

Even one's own children are not easy to live with because each generation has its own ideas, tastes, habits, inclinations and desires that often clash with Father's and Mother's ideas, tastes, habits, inclinations and desires. And this difference is accentuated in our in-laws.

John's wife and Mary's husband may be the finest sort of young people, but they are not of the same generation as his or her parents. They have been brought up in a different environment, a different background, with different traditions. Ofter they have a different religion and come of a different nationality. So there are plenty of reasons why they would not fit smoothly into their husbands' and wives' families, and why if they lived in peace and harmony it would take "a bit of doing" as the English say, on both sides.

My suggestion to you is to get your mother-in-law to try living alone with a companion as an experiment. If she does, she will find herself so free and unhampered that she will feel like a bird out of a cage and she will wonder why she didn't do it long ago. There are plenty of middle-aged women who would be glad of such a home as she would offer and whom she would find far more congenial than she does a young daughter-in-law who doesn't know any of the things that make up her memories.

$1,000 For Twins

ST. PAUL, Minn., March 10. — (AP).—Having twins was a double thrill of another variety for the John T. Barons. Baron works in a defence plant and his boss has offered $1,000 in cash to the first family of the plant having twins. The Barons won the race.

Vivid Indian Rug You Weave Easily

Warp Is Candlewick or String

A bold, bright Navaho rug to give Son's room a Wild West flavor! You'll have fun making it—and he'll be thrilled.

In black and white, or dark green and vermilion, it could also be a striking living-room rug. And the whole thing, 21½ by 33 inches, is made simply and quickly of candlewick and muslin, on a home-made wooden frame. Our rug booklet gives directions.

To warp the frame—that is, prepare it for weaving—drive 87 small nails, ¼ inch apart, into each of the short sides.

Tie black or green candlewick yarn (or dyed string) to lower right corner of loom and wind it up and down around the nails, as shown in our sketch. First and last nails have a double warp for selvage.

For the Navaho pattern just follow the diagram in our 32-page booklet. Has complete directions for making Navaho rug and frame; also shows, with diagrams, how to make many beautiful hooked, crocheted, pile, braided and other popular rugs.

For your copy of "How To Make Your Own Rugs," send 15 cents in coins or stamps to the Examiner, Home Service, Peterborough. Be sure to write plainly your name, address, and the name of booklet.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

WRITTEN FOR THE EXAMINER

By SHEPARD BARCLAY

"The Authority on Authorities"

FORESIGHT PAYS BETTER

ALONG LATE in the play of a hand, you see that you could pick up another trick or so if you only had another re-entry to your own hand or the dummy. The difference, if you could have the lead placed right might mean the making of an otherwise defeated contract. Doesn't it burn you up, then, if you are able to look back and recall some stage at which you could have manufactured an entry by merely playing an unnecessarily high card from the hand which has wound up with the lead?

After West led the spade 3, East putting on the J, South had trouble to count up nine probable winners. If he took that trick with the K, he might also get three diamond tricks if the suit broke 3-2 with the defenders, plus three hearts if West had the Q, plus one club. But he could not build the needed additional trick in clubs before the opponents had him set with three spades, a diamond and a club. He did not see the other one possibility of a ninth trick, in a fourth heart, so carelessly spilled his apple cart.

After the spade K won, he took the diamond tops and led a third one, playing low from dummy on all three tricks. Right there he beat himself. East followed up the diamond Q with a lead of the spade 7, and three tricks went there to the defense. West then led his club K to the A. With no entry to his own hand, all that South could do was collect the diamond 9 and the heart A and K, then give up the last two tricks to West, being down two.

If on the diamond tricks he had played the 9, 8 and 5 from the dummy, the 2 would have remained there as an exit to his hand. After winning the club A later, he could have used the diamond 6 as a re-entry to try the heart finesse. When it worked, he could have dropped the Q, and the 7 would have been high enough to beat East's best card for the game trick.

Guerilla Girls Reap Costly Toll Among Hun

(By EDDY GILMORE.)

MOSCOW, March 10 — (AP). — Liola and Katia are pretty Russian guerilla girls who have ambushed a German supply train, destroyed three tanks and 11 automobiles but they look like schoolgirls—that is until you notice the heavy artillery swinging from their waists.

"We live behind the German lines," said 21-year-old Liola who is blonde and blue-eyed, "but we live well."

They were in Moscow this week-end to receive the coveted Order of the Red Banner for destruction behind the German lines and other heroic work. The bright medals were on their khaki coats they had donned for the occasion.

Both are excellent types of patriots who contribute so much to the huge effort behind the Nazi lines to make the lives of the invaders—already harassed by Winter—more terrible.

Katia, who is 23, has a husband in the Red Army. She commands a group of about 30 guerillas.

She related how recently she and others ambushed a German supply train. First they mined the roads and then attacked with sub-machine guns.

"Yes," she said, casting her blue eyes downward, "we lose same loves. We've lost some of our girls, too."

Liola commanded a group which recently destroyed tanks and automobiles in a surprise night attack.

Night, Harvest Time

"The Germans like to sleep at night," she said. "We don't." Her tenseness told lots.

Both volunteered for guerilla duty when the war started and after Stalin made his appeal. Before the war, they had general military training. When they volunteered, they were instructed in the use of grenades, mines, pistols and sub-machine guns.

"We learned since we have been behind the German lines how to use the German sub-machine guns," Liota told me. "We have obtained them in the course of our work."

Before the war Katia was an assistant in the Marx Institute. Liola was a geography teacher.

"We would like to know your last names," an interpreter told them.

"So would the Germans," Liolo laughed.

They'll be off for the spaces behind the German lines, they said, as soon as they said goodbye.

Safeguárding Supplies

OTTAWA, March 10 (CP).—The Wartime Prices and Trade Board said in an explanatory statement today that some government purchasing of imports will be necessary to safeguard civilian supply.

"The commodity prices stabilization corporation has the power to buy and sell imported commodities, the statement said "and this power will be exercised from time to time as conditions may require."

PROVED BY ELECTRIC EYE

The whiteness of clothes washed by different soaps is now measured by Electric Eye. And Oxydol wins for whiteness! Clearly out-washes other Canadian soaps—including soaps in wide use, priced the same as Oxydol.

The busier, livelier suds of New Oxydol do more—wash clothes white without bleaching, even in hard water—except stains, of course, or unusual pieces. Yet New Oxydol is milder! Safe for washable colours and rayons, too!

If you don't agree it's the whitest wash ever, simply return unused portion of package with name and address to Oxydol, Montreal, and twice the purchase price will be refunded. This offer expires December 31, 1942.

Wouldn't Take Anything For Good Results Syntona Gave

Adding to the many hundreds of persons who have obtained excellent results by using SYNTONA here is the recent fine experience of Mrs. Thomas R. Fox, 9 Head Street, Hamilton, who started taking this Herb and Root medicine after seeing for herself how it had helped her husband.

"I wouldn't take anything for the good results Syntona has given me," said Mrs. Fox, in a recent statement. "I was suffering terribly from awful gassy pains and bloated feeling after eating even the lightest food. Often I had heartburn and felt nauseated. Acid risings and sour taste in my mouth added to the upset and miserable condition of my stomach. Then, too, I was troubled daily with constipation and suffered from rheumatic pains in my arms, back and limbs

"My husband had taken Syntona with such good results that he finally persuaded me to take it, too, and I cannot begin to tell you how good it has been for me. It cleared away all that awful gas, bloat, and sourness, and as a result I eat better and have no pains afterward. Constipation, from which I suffered for so many years, has been relieved and, whereas I used to feel so dizzy at times, this doesn't trouble me now. The aches and pains do not bother me as they used to, and although I am 76 years of age, this fine medicine has helped me so much I feel that every sufferer should know about it, and I can honestly recommend it to others."

If you suffer from stomach disorders, sluggish kidneys, nervousness, sleeplessness, gas, indigestion, backache or any of the many distressing symptoms of faulty assimilation or elimination, give Syntona a chance to help you, too.

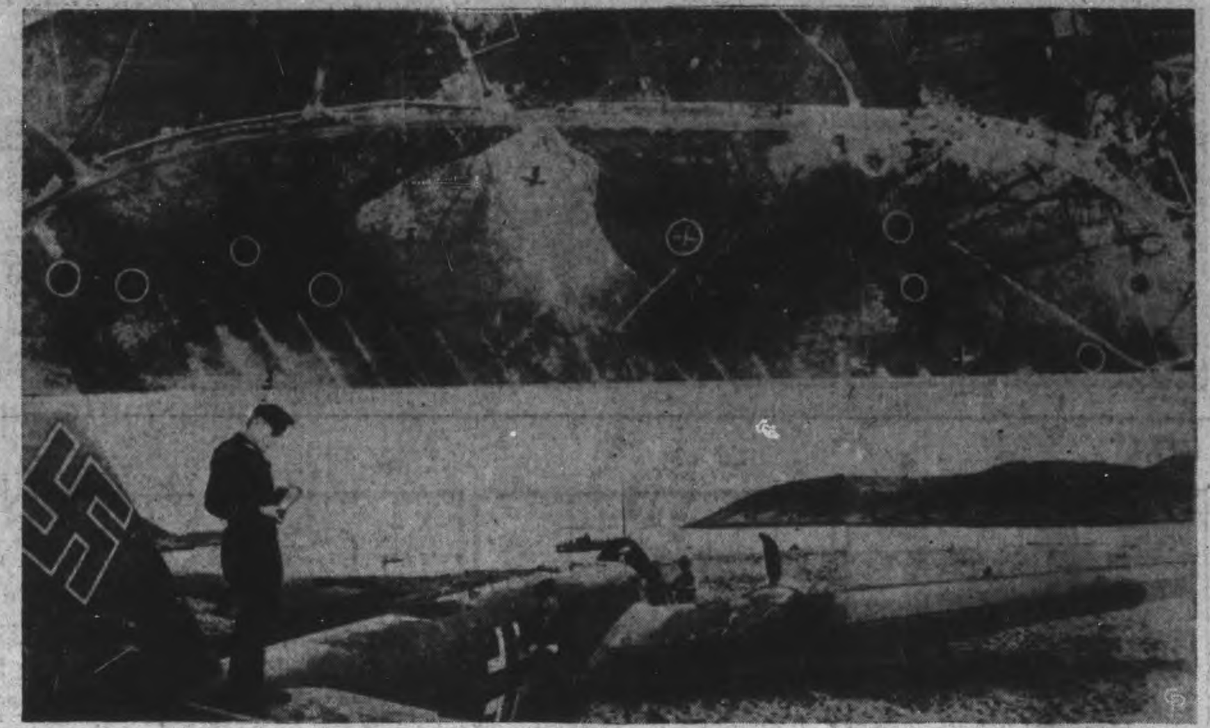
Axis Aerial Losses In North and South



From up near the Arctic Circle and down in "sunny" Sicily come these photographs telling of Axis aerial losses. The UPPER photograph is an official British R.A.F. reconnaissance picture of wreckage and damage done by low-level day attack of R.A.F. Blenheims and night bombing by R.A.F. Wellingtons on the Castel Vetrano airdrome in Sicily. Forty-four enemy aircraft were destroyed. The photograph shows completely destroyed planes on the ground, and three partially damaged ships. Only 11 total wrecks are shown—but this photograph was not made until three days after the raids because of bad weather. Dump of wreckage marked by white triangles on RIGHT would indicate larger toll. The LOWER photograph shows men of the Soviet navy examining a German J-88 bomber shot down by anti-aircraft gunners of the Soviet fleet. The barren Barents seashore furnishes final roosting place for this battered bomber.

Rev. R. W. Young Is Guest Speaker

BONARLAW, March 10—(ENS). —The Springbrook W.I. held their meeting on Wednesday at the home of Mrs. Fred McKeown. Ther was an attendance of 20 ladies. Owing to the bad roads and illness several of the members were not present.

Mrs. J. F. Baker, president, being quite ill, was not present so Mrs. George Eastwood, vice-president, took the chair.

Several letters were read from boys overseas who received Christmas boxes.

Owing to illness of Mrs. Mel. Neal. the next meeting will be held in St. Mark's parish hall.

Mrs. John McKeown, convener for reconstruction, took charge of the following program: Rev. R. W. Young, pastor of Springbrook United church, gave one of the best addresses that the W.I. has ever heard on 'Peace Begins At Home.' Mrs. Geo. Thompson gave a well prepared paper on the motto, 'Let our watchword be co-operation'

Hitler Tyranny Told By Pastor

Hitler has achieved such a hynotic hold on the German people, that only a disastrous military defeat can end the Nazi dictatorship, Rev. Bertil Forsgren, Swedish pastor who was banished from Hamburg as 'Public Enemy No. 1" by the Gestapo in 1935, said in an interview last night.

Mr. Forsgren related how he left Stockholm in 1930 and established a branch of the Pentecostal Assemblies in Hamburg. His congregation grew from 22 to 2,500 in five years. He was in difficulties with the Nazis from the outset of Hitler's advent to power in 1933, because he would not comply with the decree that two-thirds of the membership of the church's board should be Nazis.

As a consequence Gestapo agents checked all his meetings. His home was searched and he was taken to Gestapo headquarters and questioned repeatedly. Finally, he was arrest, told to "keep his mouth shut" when he asked for an explanation and before being ordered banished under police guard was told by the Gestapo leader, "You can thank your God that you are a Swede. If you were a German we would have known how to deal with you."

Mr. Forsgren said that his own and the Assembly's property were confiscated by the Nazis. After his departure, leaders of the Assembly got into even greater difficulties with the Nazis. One of the deacons was arrested one night and that was the last time that his wife and children saw him alive. One day a police officer brought them a box which he said contained the deacon's ashes. There was no explanation. Others suffered longer or shorter periods of detention in prison or concentration camps.

"All Hitler ever did of good in Germany," he added, "has been over-shadowed and nullified by the cruelty of his suppression of all religious and other liberites which free people cherish."

Mr. Forsgren will be in Peterborough, at the Full Gospel Pentecostal Tabernacle on Water street, for the next two weeks and will speak on his experiences at the hands of the Nazis and the significance of the present world war from the Christian religion viewpoint, every night except Monday and Saturday.

Repelling An "Invader" In California

In a particularly realistic manoeuvre the U.S. army went into battle along a northern California shoreline. On TOP we see the men loading an anti-tank gun that had been moved into position by a jeep. BELOW we see the skirmishers taking advantage of every bit of cover along the barren sweep of land. A combination of mechanized forces and cavalry was used. The horses, for instance, were brought to the scene on trucks.

Newlyweds Honored By Bonarlaw Folk

BONARLAW, March 10—(ENS). —A pleasant event took place at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John McKeown Thursday evening when a large number of friends and neighbors gathered to spend the evening with them, having learned of their recent marriage. Mr. and Mrs. McKeown were seated in the spacious parlor and community singing took place. with Mrs. Ralph Wellman as pianist.

A short program of songs, readings, etc. An appropriate address was read by Mrs. C. L. McKeown. Then the happy couple was presented with two beautiful occasional chairs and end table Mr. and Mrs. McKeown then thanked their friends for the lovely gifts. Mr. W. Stiles made an ideal chairman and called on several for speeches.

They all joined in singing 'For They Are Jolly Good Fellows.' Lunch was served and the gathering departed at 12 o'clock.

Russia To Play Big Part In Post-War Work

Soviet Russia will form one of the great company of nations that will give effect to the Atlantic Charter after the war, D. B. Lawley, Ontario superviser for the Canadian Institute for the Blind, predicted in a thoughtful and eloquent address on "The Changing Social Order" at the regular luncheon of the Rotary Club on Monday.

"She is coming our way as much as we are going her way" declared Mr. Lawley, pointing out that in the last ten years Russian leaders had begun to realize the need of political and religious freedom.

Present at the luncheon were two members of the local committee of the Canadian Institute for the Blind, J. A. McKone the secretary, and T. T. Rodger, treasurer. Mrs. Lawley, wife of the speaker, was also a guest.

Mr. McKone introduced Mr. Lawley, emphasizing the work that the guest speaker was doing in behalf of the blind.

At the outset of his address Mr. Lawley said that there were 54 blinded persons listed from Peterborough city and county and that everything possible was being done to help them.

Forged in Atlantic Charter

The instrument for the great changes that were coming as a result of the war, the speaker said was already partly forged in the Atlantic Charter, with its eight points.

"The most constant thing in life is change and that often varies" he said quoting a British friend of his.

The beginning of the industrial revolution was described by Mr. Lawley, who pointed out that as late as 1750 the tools of production in England had not been greatly changed from those used in the Roman Empire. Iron was forged in the woods where large supplies of charcoal were available and it was not until it was discovered that there were large deposits of coal that could be converted into coke and used in the manufacture of iron that the iron industry moved from the forest country to the mining region. Followed after the discovery of the steam engine, the loom, the steam boat, the electric battery and other inventions that revolutions industry. The industrial revolution spread to other countries with the result that there was a vast production of material wealth and at the same time a huge production of intellectual wealth. "That was the triumph of capitalism" said the speaker, "it explored every avenue of production and released those stores of wealth."

The speaker told of the political revolutions that had taken place in France and elsewhere and of the manner in which political changes had been adopted in England, quietly and without bloodshed.

Tried Social Revolution

Russia, Mr. Lawley stated, had been denied the fruits of the industrial revolution and had tried instead social revolution. Its slogan was economic freedom, but in the opinion of the speaker there was no such thing.

The lesson of the depression, which he said had been caused by a stock crash and gambling in speculative values, was that any system that could produce so much in the way of material wealth was utterly futile unless it developed a similar mastery over distribution.

Mr. Lawley said he was not a pessimist about the war. He was confident that the Japs would be stopped and in time, and he had no doubt of the ultimate outcome.

"I hope we are not going to allow peace to be made by men who know only war" he said. "The peace should be equitable and not seek motives and then it will be a lasting peace."

Rotarian James Dutton moved a vote of thanks to the speaker. President Rev. Geogce C. Easton, who was in the chair, read cards received from two members of Rotary, Ross Hood and Roy Thompson, who are on active service in England.

A.R.P. Lighting Orders Issued

TORONTO, March 10 — (CP).— Regulations governing exemptions for lighting under A.R.P. have been adopted, Judge Ian MacDonnel, vice-chairman of Ontario's A. R.P. Commitee, said on Monday.

These exemptions set out services in which lighting must be attended and blacked out during air raid alarms. and are applicable to all parts of the province excepting what is termed the "Ottawa Federal District."

Following classes of lighting are included: Protective floodlighting fence light and exterior lighting in essential services, war industries, oil refiners, gasoline storage plants, providing this lighting is centrally controlled and attended; anti-burglary lights directed on vaults. safes, cash registers in banks and businesses providing such lights have protective hoods preventing light being visible from any window; exterior safety lights of hospitals, police and fire stations, theatres, halls and other public buildings occupied by a large number of persons providing the lights have protective hoods or shades preventing it being visible from the sky, and providing such lights are displayed while the staffs or persons responsible are present and charged with blackening out in air-raid alarms.

Traffic lights for highway and street traffic providing such lights are under central control and attended or have effective hoods preventing lights being visible above the horizontal; indirect lighting for outer lobbies and marquees of theatres or business premises providing they are not visible from the sky, and are attended so they may be blacked out in event of an air-raid alarm; exposed lighting signs, including neon signs for shops, stores and business premises and display advertising signs providing staff or responsible persons are present on the premises charged with the duty of blackening out should an air alarm occur or connected with the municipal street lighting or the system of central control.

—SAYS MRS. W. G. WALTON

"And I firmly believe in full mustard baths as a treatment for colds"

When Mrs. W. G. Walton made these statements, she spoke with conviction. "Since my childhood in England I have been using mustard as a home remedy", she declared. "I know many uses for it and the mustard foot bath is one treatment that always helps relieve my headaches." Congestion in certain organs of the body frequently causes headaches. It is wise to relieve the congestion—as Mrs. Walton does—by placing the feet in a hot mustard bath! This tends to relieve the pain by helping to draw the blood away from the congested area. In the Walton home at 434—17th Ave. East, Calgary, Alberta, mustard is used as a safeguard against many common aches and pains. "When aches and congestion occur in any part of the body through cold infection, the full mustard bath is a dependable remedy", says this Western woman.

Mustard Baths Help Relieve Tiredness

At the close of a hard day — when your nerves feel as taut as fiddle-strings, seek relaxation in a mustard bath. "Edginess" and weariness should slip off — your good nature should bob up again as your nerves feel calmed down. You should sleep better after it too! And those days when your spirits sink down to your shoes; when you feel chilly—depressed—wonder if you are "taking something", play safe. Let a hot mustard bath thoroughly warm and refresh you. Others get a lot of good from this old remedy "mustard" — why not try it yourself? Anyone who is seriously sick requires a doctor's services, of course, but when contagious colds, grippe and minor Winter ailments threaten you, mustard will help give relief. It will also help relieve the pains and aches of neuritis, neuralgia, lumbago, rheumatism and over-tired muscles. A mustard bath covering the hips is helpful when periodic pains bother. So keep mustard handy and get the booklet which describes the standard methods of applying it.

AUSSIES BLAST ARMADA TOKYO THREATENS DOOM

CANBERRA, Australia, March 11 —(CP)—Beating violently at Japanese invasion flotillas which nevertheless apparently still were being marshalled above the mainland, the Royal Australian Air Force reported tonight that seven enemy ships were known to have been sunk or damaged and two others probably damaged in the waters of New Guinea.

Of this number two ships definitely were sunk, four were set aflame and one was beached, said an official announcement listing results of a series of smashing assaults yesterday on Japanese ship concentrations in the harbor of Salamaua, on New Guinea's east coast.

But even as the air arm continued its running counter-offensive action a large new Japanese convoy was reported heading for Port Moresby on the southern New Guinea coast, in an area 300 miles from Cape York on the mainland.

The Australian Associated Press observed that the Government had no denial to offer of these reports.

Port Moresby likewise was under new enemy aerial assault, 12 bombers participating in this thrust, although there was no immediate announcements of damage there.

Bait From Tokyo.

TOKYO (From Japanese broadcasts), March 11—(AP).—An assertion that Australia will suffer the fate of the Netherlands East Indies if she "continues her present attitude toward Japan" was sounded today by a spokesman for the Japanese information board.

Domei quoted the spokesman as saying that "continued resistance will result in nothing but disaster and suffering for the Australian people such as has just been experienced by the Netherlands East Indies."

"The best and only way for Australia to take," the spokesman said, "was shown by Premier Tojo January 21 at a meeting of the Diet when he declared 'if the Australian people continued their present attitude of resisting Japan we will show no mercy in crushing them but if they come to understand Japan's real intentions and press willingness to co-operate with Japan we will not hesitate to extend our help with real understanding for their welfare and progress'."

Should the Australians ignore this advice, the spokesman added, "the same fate that has befallen Singapore and Java awaits them. They should beware the handwriting on the wall."

Prince Of Wales Rangers Regiment To Mobilize For Active Service

Regiment Is Ordered To Recruit 800 Men

A roar of approval from more than 300 khaki-clad members of the Prince of Wales' Rangers Tuesday night greeted the announcement from Col. John A. Dewart, M.C., E.D., officer commanding the unit, that authorization had come through from the Department of National Defence to mobilize the unit for active service. For months rumors of mobilization have been current and they reached a near crystalization point during the week-end, when somehow word seeped out that the announcement was about to be made.

Wanted Regiment Called.

Since the war started back in September, 1939, officers and men of the regiment have been hoping that the call would come for the regiment to take the field as a unit, and it was not until late Tuesday that the written authority came through.

"I am happy to announce that the day we have been looking forward to, since re-organization has arrived and authorization has been given to mobilize the regiment for overseas service," Col. Dewart said, and at this point the men roared their approval, and then gave three cheers and a tiger to relieve their enthusiasm. Continuing, Col. Dewart said: "The only justification for a regiment either past or present is to fight in a national emergency, and that national emergency has arisen. The prestige of the regiment is high and we were mobilized because we are capable of producing a good regiment.

"This regiment will carry the name of Peterborough wherever the fortunes of war takes it, and I'm sure it will be a credit to the city and district. We are authorized to recruit up to 800 men, and if we are not able to secure them others will

14-Year Cure

LONDON, March 11 (CP).—Herbert Morrison, Minister of Home Security, said today the maximum term of imprisonment for black market operations had been raised to 14 years.

Increased penalties resulted from an extensive campaign in press and parliament for more severe punishment of racketeers. The spokesman said the situation would be studied further with a view to "strengthening further the machinery."

Irrawaddy Delta Gone, British Bar Mandalay Rd

(By DANIEL DE LUCE.)

MANDALAY, Burma, March 11—(AP). — The withdrawal of British and Indian troops from the Southern Burma trap left the Japanese in possession to-day of the great Irrawaddy Delta which bulges 100 miles into the Anadaman Sea and extends 160 miles from the Gulf of Martaban to the Bay of Bengal.

Its ports, Rangoon and Bassein, now are open to the Japanese Navy, and it seemed likely that Japan's next sea move might be directed against the harbor of Akyab, close to the frontier of Bengal Province, and the Chittagong coast.

Japanese submarines as early as January cruised off the Irrawaddy Delta in wait for shipments of supplies sent via Rangoon and the Burma Road to China.

Depending upon motor couriers for reports from the land war front, military circles said the exact situation in the south was uncertain, and was changing hourly.

It can be said now that Rangoon, always regarded as a probable loss because of its exposed position, might have held out longer if some of the best British and Indian battalions had not been depleted seriously in the disastrous struggle between the Bilin and Sittang Rivers in mid-February.

Chinese sources said the repeated defeats in Burma could have been stopped earlier if Chinese forces had been sent into action on the actual Burma front sooner.

Instead, these sources said, thousands of Chinese veterans were immobilized on the Thailand and Indo-China frontiers by Japanese who were just active enough to keep the Chinese from being moved south to the defence of Rangoon.

Cripps Taking Plans For Approval

Post-War Proposals Aimed To Stir All-Out War Rally

LONDON, March 11 (CP)—Prime Minister Churchill repeated today Britain's promise of dominion status for imperilled India after the war and announced that Sir Stafford Cripps would go to India to seek assurance that a precise plan already drafted by London would gain general Indian acceptance.

The promise of Indian self-government within the British Commonwealth of Nations after the war, first made in August, 1940, so far has failed to mollify Indian nationalists.

But Mr. Churchill, in a long-awaited statement to the House of Commons, disclosed that the government, in order to "clothe the general declarations with precision and to convince all classes, races and creeds in India of our sincere resolve," had gone a step forward and agreed to a detailed plan.

He did not disclose the exact nature of the concessions by which the government hopes to win the loyalty of India's 350,000,000 peoples for the defence of the rich sub-continent now threatened by the Japanese advance in Burma and to the Indian Ocean.

"We should ill serve the common cause if we made a declaration which would be rejected by essential elements in the Indian world and which would provoke fierce communal disputes at the moment when the enemy is at the gates of India," he said.

Much Up To Cripps

Sir Stafford who has returned from the Ambassadorship to Russia to become Lord Privy Seal and who is known as a proponent of Indian self-government, has the task to procure in India "the necessary measure of assent, not only from the Hindu majority, but also from those great minorities amongst which the Moslems are the most numerous and on many grounds pre-eminent," Mr. Churchill announced.

"We must remember that India has a great part to play in the world struggle for freedom, and that her help must be extended in loyal comradeship to follow the Chinese people who have fought alone," he declared.

Accordingly, Sir Stafford will also confer with Gen. Sir Archibald Wavell, the commander in India, on the military situation.

LONDON, March 11—(CP). — The 35,000-ton German battleship Tirpitz was attacked by Fleet Air Arm torpedo planes on Monday off the coast of Norway, the Admiralty stated.

The Tirpitz, thus reported in action for the first time, is a sister ship of the Bismark, sunk in the North Atlantic last May by British warships anu planes.

The Tirpitz last was seen retiring under the cover of a heavy smoke screen toward the Norwegian coast. The warship put out of Trondheim and took a northward course, but was sighted by reconnaissance planes and then attacked by the torpedo planes.

"Our surface forces did not succeed in making contact with the enemy, but any attempt to attack our convoy was frustrated. Two of our aircraft did not return."

Press Thunders For Revenge On Brutal Japs

(By FOSTER BARCLAY.)

LONDON, March 11— (CP Cable) — London's morning newspapers, echoing the bitterness and resentment of a public aroused by Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden's disclosure of Japanese atrocities at Hong Kong to-day called unanimously for revenge and appealed for redoubled efforts to ensure victory.

Mr. Eden's statement that soldiers had been bound and bayoneted and women raped after the fall of the colony was carried on front pages under headlines such as that of the Express. "Remember Hong Kong," the Daily Mail's "Hong Kong's Horror Arouses Allies," and the Herald's "This Is a Message of Hong Kong."

The Daily Mail cartoon captioned "Bushido—Way of a Warrior"—showed an apelike Japanese soldier clutching a handful of women in a hairy right paw, crushing others under a dangling left hand, and trampling the dead and wounded scattered on the ground or tied to the stake.

In a bitter editorial the newspaper said: "The people must get their blood up," and suggested that when all the details are known the Government should issue a White Paper.

"The Japanese have performed prodigies because we were unprepared," the Mail concluded. "Give our forces a fighting chance and they can smash this menace. We

Hitler Asking Allies For 2,600,000; To Bolster Lines

LONDON, March 11—(CP).—Germany was reported today to have called upon Hungary, Slovakia and Italy, for as many as 2,600,000 fresh troops to bolster Hitler's army for spring offensive operations after its hard winter in Russia.

Factory production was adjusted to fit the pattern. A Berlin dispatch to the Stockholm newspaper Dagens Nyheter said more than two-thirds of Germany's industries are producing war materials; that the state spent more than two-thirds of the national income to cover the expenses.

Fresh manpower is needed for replacement of the dead, wounded and missing. Soviet authorities declared February 22 that Germany had lost 6,000,000 men on the Russian front. Compilations a month earlier indicated 1,700,000 had been killed and 2,000,000 seriously wounded, Russia reported.

Advices received by way of Berne from various parts of Europe on the call for fresh troops indicated Hungary is to provide 1,500,000 soldiers, Slovakia 100,000 and Italy many more than she has yet sent to the eastern front, with some unverified reports mentioning 1,000,000.

Axis staff officers have conferred also with Bulgarian leaders in recent weeks and diplomatic circles believe the question of a Bulgarian declaration of war on Russia was discussed, it was asserted.

Call More Germans

In addition, all Germans fit for military service who live within the occupied province of French Lorraine and Yugoslavia have been ordered to register.

Rumania's contribution of 1,000,000 troops was regarded as exempting her from further levies, immediately at least, and growth of a Finnish peace party was reported to have led Germany to discount Finland as an ally.

Hungary, Solvakia and Italy, however, have supplied little more than token divisions for the war against Russia.

With 500,000 trained men and 1,000,000 others mobilizing, Hungary switched premiers this week. Budapest dispatches said Nicholas Kallay, former Minister of Agriculture had formed a new government to succeed that of Premier Count Laszlo De Bardossy, who resigned ostensibly because of poor health.

3,000 Aussies Fight On In Java

MELBOURNE, Australia, March 11.—(AAP)— Hubertus Van Mook, Lieutenant-Governor-General of the Netherlands East Indies, declared to-day that about 3,000 Australian troops probably still are fighting in the mountain country East and West of Bandung, Japanese-occupied military capital of Java.

(The BBC, in a broadcast heard in New York by CBS, reported that Van Mook "told newspapermen in Melbourne the Dutch Fleet was at sea.")

Van Mook said Australian, British and United States troops in Java, which numbered about 5,000 in all, were grouped together at first for convenince but that the forces carrying on the fight in the unoccupied portions of the island now are functioning independently, under orders not to obey any com-

New Wave Of Anxiety

London, March 11 (CP Cable)

TORN with anxiety by news of the Japanese atrocities at Hong Kong, relatives of Britons left in that British Pacific bastion besieged the colonial office today in a vain attempt to seek information about the fate of their husbands, wives, sons and daughters.

Requests for information poured in by telephone and there were many personal calls by worried relatives who were told there was no news.

"Unfortunately," an official said, "there is not a great deal of information available."

Most of the 5,000 women in Hong Kong were evacuated before the Japanese entered but several hundred, including nurses and women civil servants engaged in important work, remained behind.

Factories Idling At 50 p.c. Capacity

WASHINGTON, March 11—(AP).—War industries of the United States were told today they are operating at only 50 per cent. of capacity, although "face to face with an enemy determined to destroy us."

Bespeaking a determined public demand for faster "production, and no fooling," Donald M. Nelson, war production chief, blamed the current output lag on these main causes:

Reluctance to increase the number of shifts;

Lack of imagination in meeting production problems;

The issue of extra pay for holidays and Sundays;

Faulty flow of materials;

Time required to train new men;

Shortages of certain specialized facilities.

Nelson, in a radio address to the country last night, voiced his belief these difficulties could be overcome by Government, Labor and management working together in concerted effort.

"If all our equipment now involved in war production were used 24 hours a day, seven days a week, we would practically double the man-hours being put into military production."

In his survey of the production situation, Nelson said no single group was responsible.

Nevertheless, he told Labor and

'Lease-Lend Spur of Allied Might'—F D R

WASHINGTON, March 11 (AP)—President Roosevelt informed the United States Congress today in a message analyzing the first year's operations of the lend-lease program that the offensive the United Nations "must and will drive into the heart of the Axis" would take "the entire strength that we possess."

"The war can only be won by contact with the enemies, and by attack upon them," he said in a letter transmitting the lend-lease report. "That takes time, for the United Nations need more and still more equipment and transportation. Success will come dearly, at the price of defeats and losses."

Mr. Roosevelt said lend-lease was a prime mechanism through which the United Nations were pooling their entire resources.

The report, covering operations since the original lend-lease law was signed a year ago today, showed that the total value of aid was $2,570,452,441.

This aid includes not only military items such as guns, tanks and planes, but also raw materials, machinery, food, ships, expansion of production facilities and services.

Defence articles actually transferred to nations among the United Nations aggregated $1,411,000,000 and articles awaiting transfer or use totalled $448,000,000.

The rest of the $2,570,000,000 was made up of $128,000,000 of articles in process of manufacture, $126,000,000 in servicing and repair of ships, $243,000,000 in rental and charter of ships, $170,000,000 in production facilities in the United States and $4,000,000 in miscellaneous expenses.

"Had not the nations fighting aggression been strengthened and sustained — their armed forces with weapons, their factories with materials, their people with food—our presently grave position might indeed be desperate," the president told Congress. "But for the continued resistance of these steadfast peoples, the full force of the enemy might now be battering at our own ports and gateways."

He said that lend-lease had provided experience to fight, expanded productive capacity for turning out weapons and articles of war, and had provided lessons of untold value through tests of the weapons in combat.

Lend-lease, Mr. Roosevelt said may be thanked for the combined strength of the United Nations.

The British Commonwealth of Nations and 33 other countries are eligible for lend-lease assistance, which now covers two thirds of the earth's surface and aids nearly two thirds of its population.

Congress has authorized a total of $48,006,750,000 in lend-lease aid, the report noted, of which $18,410,000,000 was appropriated directly to the President. Much of this $48,000,000,000 total is represented by war supplies which could be transferred after their acquisition by the war and navy departments and the Maritime Commission, if the President and heads of the armed forces thought it advisable.

By the end of February, the report disclosed, most of the $12,958,000,000 of actual appropriations in the first two lend-lease funds had been allocated, and $8,459,000,000 had been obligated or placed under contract. In addition, Congress has appropriated $5,425,000,000 as of March 5, 1942, to cover commitments to be made before the end of this year.

Far Short of Need.

Subscriber Total Reaches 1,506,401—Not Final

OTTAWA, March 11 — (CP). — Latest tally in Canada's Second Victory Loan shows a national total of $979,217,100, the National War Finance Commitee said to-day. The figures compiled to 11 a.m. E.D.T. showed cash subscriptions of $827,099,100 and conversions of $152,118,000.

It is expected to take about four weeks to compile final totals.

The number of subscribers recorded to to-day is 1,506,401.

Returns since Sunday show that 199,885 more employees of factories stores and offices have been added to the total together with 108,148 to the subscriptions arising out of the general canvass, said the committee. The cumulative total of subscriptions under the employee canvass stands at 674,221 for a total of $60,281,350.

OTTAWA, March 11. — (CP) — Lt.-Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton arrived back in Ottawa to-day after a three-day visit in Washington where he talked with United States military leaders and had a meeting with President Roosevelt.

The Canadian Corps commander confined his remarks to reporters on his return here, that his trip had been a pleasant one.

India Hinges Upon Ceylon

Loss Would Isolate Nation, Russia, China

BOSTON, March 11—(AP). — A Boston University professor who lived in Ceylon for 16 years said today that "the usefulness of India in the war effort is predicated on holding the nearby island of Ceylon."

Declaring Ceylon must be held at all costs as the key to vital supply lines to and from the Near and Far East and as a possible starting point for a United Nations counter-offensive, Prof. William A. Beer, said in an interview:—

"Ceylon is only 18 miles across the Bay of Bengal from India, but its strategic naval base at Trincomalee commands the sea routes to India, to Russia, and to the jumping-off place in the new life-line to China from Calcutta.

"If the Japanese should gain control of Ceylon, the industries of India would be immobilized because of lack of transport, it would be increasingly difficult to use her available manpower in any offensive back over the routes that Japan already has travelled."

AUSTRALIANS STRIKE HEAVY BLOWS AT JAP'S SHIPS IN PACIFIC

Aussies Blast 5 Ships Off N. Guinea

Bombers Wreak Havoc On Transports Massing For Attack

CANBERRA, March 11—(CP). — An announcement that at least five Japanese ships, one of them a warship, have been smashed by Australian bombing squadrons in the heaviest blows so far against an enemy invasion armada gathering off New Guinea indicated today that the battle for the approaches to Australia had burst in full fury.

The total score of the Royal Australian air force's violent, repeated smashes yesterday still was not known. An air communique indicated the Japanese might have lost six transports and a cruiser or large destroyer and that other hits whose effect had not yet been determined might raise the toll even higher.

Waves of R.A.A.F. planes made the attacks, principally at Slamaua, which appears to have become a main assembly point for the forces which Australia expects the Japanese to throw at her with the least possible delay.

The Commonwealth's leaders are convinced that Australia has been marked next on Japan's timetable of aggression and that the enemy will rush the onslaught in order to strike before this island continent's defences can be further built up and reinforced from abroad.

Offensive fighting, therefore, has become the watchword not only of Australia's air forces but of her land forces also, in order to smash the enemy's accumulating strength on the stepping stone islands off the continental mainland and delay the invasion thrust.

Shaping Supply Depots

Reconnaissance has shown the Japanese to be working swiftly to transform Salamua and the other occupied New Guinea harbors, Lae and Finschhafen, into supply depots behind what some Australians predict will be a scatter-blow invasion strategy—an attempt to open up many fronts in undeveloped, thinly-populated northern Australia by sending in large forces at several widely-separated points. The R.A.A.F. wave struck at Salamaua yesterday just before noon, the air ministry said, and attacked a Japanese cruiser despite a thick wall of anti-aircraft fire. The effect of that attack has not yet been determined.

A few minutes later, the communique added, another R.A.A.F. wave went over, setting two ships on must show the enemy what sort of people we really are."

Avenge Hong Kong.

"The task is to avenge Hong Kong," the Express said as it called on the people to stand firmly behind their leaders.

"Give them their chance," it exhorted. "Encourage them by our confidence to interpret the public mood, to prepare for a great attack. It can, it will, come if we all do our duty.... Attack, attack, attack in relation to production can soon be translated into attack, attack, attack the enemy."

Mr. Eden's statement, the News Chronicle said editorially, "discloses the perpetration—the organized perpetration — of bestialities hardly paralleled by the worst excesses of the Middle Ages....Let the anguish of Hong Kong spur us to hotter and more desperate resolve that these things must be ended and ended quickly."

"We must use the customary diplomatic channels to ask Germany to say frankly whether she approved her ally's actions," the Daily Sketch said, adding that if it were true that Japan was seeking diplomatic relations with the Vatican "we can put before His Holiness the Pope the evidence we have and ask for a public condemnation in the name of the Roman Catholic Church."

Evening papers yesterday carried Mr. Eden's statement under streamer headlines and editorials were revised to contain comment on the disclosures.

NEW YORK, March 11.—(CP)—The New York Times said editorially today that the report on Japanese atrocities given yesterday to the British House of Commons by Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden "may convince us..." That "this evil thing must be destroyed or it will destroy the world."

"The charges," said the Times, "are shocking. They are not surprising. Like Germany, Japan has started an atrocious war for an atrocious purpose. For Japan, as for Nazi Germany, atrocities are never accidents. They are parts of a design...

"The United Nations must not and cannot retaliate in kind on Japanese soldiers and civilians now within their lines. We cannot degrade ourselves to the barbarian level. But Hong Kong may do for us what the sack of Nanking did for the Chinese. It may convince us that in today's Japan, as in Nazi Germany, there is a spirit so diabolical that no peace can be made with it on any terms short of unconditional surrender. This evil thing must be destroyed or it will destroy the world."

The report observed that the $2,500,000,000 volume of lend-least help was impressive as an abstract figure, but that when it was viewed with relation to need, "what has been done falls far short of what is needed to turn the tide toward victory."

Although many persons have inferred that the quality of military material turned over to other countries has been enormous, the report said, "the hard fact is that in relation to need the volume has been small."

But some of the actual assistance has included such valuable items as planes, plane parts, tanks, ordnance, ammunition, field communications equipment, trucks, petroleum, ships, naval aircraft and ordnance, ship and airplane stores and equipment, repairing and remodelling of British naval vessels, construction of naval bases and airplane supply depots all over the world.

The report spoke also of transportation problems, noting it was 10 times harder to deliver than to produce a tank for the Russian front. United Nations shipping must be increased, it said, to carry the ever-increasing load of lend-lease material. Ships as well as all other United Nations facilities now are in a common pool, the report asserted.

"All the resources of the United Nations are now part of a common pool, out of which arms and men pore as considerations of military strategy dictate. Into this pool flow lend-lease munitions, together with the entire military, air and naval strength of all the United Nations.

"Out of it, air, land and naval units of American forces have gone to the Southwest Pacific; British and Russian troops have moved into Iran; Chinese soldiers have come to the defence of Burma; and quantities of British materials have arrived on the main front in Russia."

management they were getting their "last chance" to deliver the goods.

"Let's be perfectly frank," he said. "Neither management nor labor in plants working on war orders; nor management and labor together in those plants, could survive the public wrath should that wrath be turned against them, nor could we here on the war production board."

The public, he continued, is determined to get production and will not waiver in that determination until it gets production one way or the other.

be sent in to bring the regiment up to its establishment. I hope that this will not be necessary."

The regiment will be known as the First Battalion, Prince of Wales Rangers, and it will be a rifle regiment. Complete war establishment is 34 officers and 773 other ranks. General enlistment of the regiment will continue until the unit is concentrated and brought up to its full wartime establishment, and medical examination of officers will start on Wednesday, for non-commissioned officers on Thursday and for enlistments on Friday. It is unlikely that any enlistments will be taken before Friday but the recruiting office at the Armouries will be open to give information to all prospective recruits.

Category A Men

Any man between the ages of 18½ years and 45 who is in category A is acceptable for service, and a few men in B category will also be accepted. All soldiers now serving in the Rangers which is a reserve unit, for service anywhere in Canada, will have to re-enlist if they wish to volunteer for active service.

At the present time there are 486 men all ranks in the Rangers, but a great many of those are not available for active service, because they are under-age, over-age or else have a low medical category which makes them unfit for active service. All of these men will move back into the Second Battalion, Prince of Wales Rangers, Reserve, and this unit will be commanded by Lt.-Col. Maurice H. Park, who cannot enlist for active service because of his medical category.

Col. Dewart expressed the opinion that sufficient officers would be available from the Rangers and from other sources, and a list of the officers will be available later this week.

Conduct Survey

On Tuesday evening following the announcement, the company commanders began a survey of the ranks to ascertain how many would be available for active service, but naturally enough quite a number could not say at the start whether they were ready to make the jump. Every opportunity will be given recruits to clean up their private affairs before donning the uniform, and before the week is out, recruiting should be in full swing, and it is expected that the medical boards will sit at night when recruiting gets underway.

All prospective recruits from the district who wish to enlist are advised that the recruiting office will be open in the morning, afternoon and evening, every day except Sunday, and recruiting officers will be willing to give all information to prospective soldiers, who wish to sign up with a regiment that is truly representative of this district. It is expected that enlistments in the north country as far as Haliburton will be heavy, and every consideration will be given the strangers to the city to see that they are taken care of.

Already 600 Enlistments

It is interesting to note that already the Prince of Wales Rangers have sent more than 600 men, all ranks to the three branches of the armed services, the Navy, Army and Air Force, and three units have already been recruited in the city, the 4th Anti-Tank R.C.A., the 3rd Field Park Co., R.C.E. and headquarters company of the S. D. and G. Highlanders. Besides this more than 200 men from here joined up with the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment, and practically every regiment mobilized for active service from Ontario had its quota from the city and district.

The first regiment to be mobilized as a Peterborough unit for overseas service in World War I was the 93rd Battalion. War broke out in August 1914 and there was an immediate call for men from the existing militia units. These quotas were sent in short order, and then on November 7, 1915, one year and three months after the start of hostilities, authority was given for the mobilization of the 93rd Battalion. The unit sailed from Canada on the Empress of Britain on July 15, 1916 and arrived in England, ten days later. Its strength was 868 men and 36 officers.

The memory of the 247th Battalion, Canadian Expeditionary Force, the 2nd Battalion, C.E.F. and the 93rd Battalion is perpeuated by the 2nd Reserve Battalion Peterborough Rangers, who share the honor jointly with the Governor General's Foot Guards of Ottawa.

Subs Get Bolder Sink 2 Off U.S. One 4 Miles Out

NEW YORK March 11—(AP).—Bolder and swifter in their attacks, Axis submarines have sunk two ships in nearby waters in as many days.

In the latest and most brazen approach to the east coast since the United States entered the war, an enemy submarine with one well-aimed torpedo split in half the 6,766-ton Gulf oil tanker Gulftrade early yesterday less than four miles off Barnegat, N.J.

Some time earlier, between 7 and 7.30 p.m. E.D.T. Sunday, either the same raider or another with an aim almost as good blew asunder the 5,152-ton Brazilian cargo-passenger vessel Cayru about 130 miles off Ambrose Light, beacon for New York harbor.

"As far as I know fighting is going on in three places in Java: West and East of Bandung, and in Eastern Java," he said. "Similar fighting is going on in almost all the other islands. Most of Sumatra still is unoccupied, even th Central part."

Headed For U.S.

After a conference with Prime Minister John Curtin at Canberra, Van Mook announced that he and other officials who escaped from Java soon will leave for Washington and London, where most of them will join the Netherlands administration.

The Netherlands also will carry on from Australia. The group of officials will meet in Melbourne Saturday to allocate posts for organizing resistance here on a regular footing.

Van Mook declared that "the most outstanding lesson of the war is that there should be a concentration to ensure it would be waged as a single effort, and not by all kinds of separate commands."

In an interview, he said it would be wrong to say the Japanese had over-run all of the Netherlands East Indies, but that the Netherlands possessions "cannot hold out indefinitely."

"What ships and planes were available in Java paid for themselves," he said. "They (the Japanese) lost as many planes as we did. We sank many ships."

He said he was not sure from what base the Netherlands East Indies government would operate after organizing Indies forces.

He said he planned to visit both London and Washington.

troops now are regarded as taking their full share in the Allied defence under Lt.-Gen. Sir Harold Alexander, new Commander on the Burma Front.

It was reported reliably that the Chinese troops will be supported by large numbers of United States planes. Preparations to this end are reported being worked out now by Lt.-Gen. Joseph Stilwell, newly appointed Chief of Staff to General Chiang Kai-Shek.

Overwhelming successes over the Japanese planes by the relative handful of R.A.F. and American Volunteer Group pilots in China and Burma give one of the brightest rays of hope for the future.

Unofficially, the Japanese were reported to have reached the vicinity of a village 16 miles south of Toungoon, more than a third of the way from Rangoon to Mandalay on the eastern branch of the Burma Road.

The Japanese also were said to have made contact with rebellious bands along the Irrawaddy River for an attempt against Prome, a third of the way from Rangoon toward the Indian border.

Although anxious about the Chinese on their right flank the Japanese now apparently are preparing to assault British positions before Toungoon or Prome.

Behind this line, Mandalay obviously must be on the Japanese schedule. For it is the pivot of the Burma defence.

An All Out Assault.

CANBERRA, March 11 —(AP). — The Australian Air Force onslaught was described in to-day communique as "one of the heaviest aerial attacks so far launched in the New Guinea area." It said direct hits were scored upon a warship which was either a cruiser or a large destroyer," and added when the aircraft left the target area one ship was burned out and three others were on fire. Two of them were sinking and one was being beached."

The Sydney Sun reported that at least one of the ships— an 8,000 ton transport— was sunk. Other reports said six direct hits with heavy bombs were scored on another of the vessels.

The Sun reported that R. A. A. F. pilots dived to 400 feet for the machine-gunning, bombing onslaught from which all planes returned safely.

(By DEWITT MACKENZIE.)

WASHINGTON, March 11—(AP). The Australians are meeting the menace of Japanese invasion in their traditional fighting spirit — with offensive strategy.

Instead of waiting for the Nipponese to get neatly set in their recently - acquired bases in the Island of New Guinea for a major bombing assault on the neighboring mainland, the still small, but doughty Australian Air Force has carried the war to the enemy. At least five Japanese transports and one warship were smashed yesterday, and the toll is believed to be bigger.

It took the Russians to crack the myth that Hitler had created a fighting machine which just could not be stopped. Maybe it will be Australia's shores against which the Mikado's galleys will break their noses.

Certainly that represents the Allied determination, for America and Britain are rushing reinforcements to this last remaining and consequently absolutely vital large base remaining to them in the southwest Pacific. Australia must be held at all costs for an offensive base, and the job must be done mainly by the Air Force. Many more planes are needed, and success will depend in large degree on how many the Allies can rush to the scene in the immediate future.

An All-Out Blow?

Of course we still have to learn what the Japs have in mind. It isn't yet clear whether they calculate on assuming a limited liability in merely capturing some northern Australian ports to protect their flank, or whether they envisage a full-dress invasion of this vast continent, which is approximately the size of the United States and has a coastline of 10,000 miles.

Australia quite rightly is assuming the worst and is getting organized to deal with it. The Commonwealth and neighboring New Zealand have agreed upon the establishment of an Anzac zone of mutual defence, which will include both countries. That word Anzac, by the way, is a First Great War abbreviation for "Australian and New Zealand Army Corps" and is synonymous with all that is best in soldiering.

I understand that the Anzacs have decided to ask for an American officer as supreme commander of this great war zone. In this connection Australians are mentioning that Lt.-Gen. George Brett, who has been Deputy Supreme Commander of the unified command under General Wavell, already is in Australia. It appears that the Aussies are impressed by the fact that Brett not only is an all-round soldier but is tops in the air, upon which the brunt of the defence in the Anzac territory must fall.

From Base to Base

Maj.-Gen. Gordon Bennett, of the Australian army, believes the Japanese will follow the strategy of trying to establish air bases along the north coast and then work their way southward, setting up a series of bases which finally will bring them within range of the capital cities and the centres of production. That invalves a hazardous undertaking.

The invaders would have to work across vast open spaces, including great reaches of desert. They couldn't live off the country because there's nothing for them to take. All their supplies would have to be moved through this inhospitable territory over great distances, constantly subjected to Allied bombing.

An all-out invasion would involve the use of a great naval fleet and transports for the landing of troops at southern ports. This would mean the establishment of extremely long and vulnerable lines of communication, not to mention the problem of getting troops and supplies ashore in the face of Allied defence.

Bitter Scrapper Alexander Defending India

LONDON, March 11 (CP) — The last soldier to leave Dunkirk—Lieutenant-General Harold Alexander—defends today the gates of India, commands the new British line in Burma. His motto is, "Attack, attack and reattack."

In the first Great War he went over the top thirty times before he was wounded. At Dunkirk his story is best told in the last paragraph of Commander-in-chief Viscount Gort's official dispatches:

" . . . By midnight on the 2-3 June, all the remaining British troops had been embarked. Major-General Alexander, with the senior naval officer (Captain W. G. Tennant, R.N.) made a tour of the beaches and harbor in a motor boat, and on being satisfied that no British troops were left on shore, they themselves left for England."

Before that, when things were their worst at Dunkirk, General Alexander donned his smartest breeches, shiniest boots and sat at breakfast in a shell-battered house before a table covered with a gleaming tablecloth and embellished with a pot of Dundee marmalade. That was symbolic, for in the last war Scottish troops once made a last-hope charge with the cry: "Marmalade Forever!"

"Sorry," he replied, "I don't understand long words." Then he went out to superintend the evacuation from the beaches and, watching it, sat down to make a sand castle.

During the Battle of the Somme, General Alexander led not only his own Irish Guards but a mixed assemblage of all regiments, and when all the Irish Guard's machine-gunners were killed and their battery overrun, they charged back through the enemy lines with his mixed troops and recaptured the guns.

He is 51 and looks little more than 30, of medium height with a clipped moustache.

Sir Stafford, a member of the war cabinet, had volunteered for the task, Mr. Churchill added, and goes with "the full confidence of the government."

Mr. Churchill plainly indicated that the cabinet had struggled with a thorny problem, with the majority congress party in India demanding unconditional freedom for all India, and leaders of the Moslem minority, from whom Britain draws some of her best Indian fighting men, threatening on the other hand to revolt if they are not granted a special autonomous status.

The cabinet had reached conclusions as to how these clashing views could be reconciled while a new constitution is being set up, he said, but he did not disclose what they were.

The announcement that Sir Stafford would go to India brought cheers from the House. It also choked off impending debate.

Emanuel Shinwell, Labor, asked if Sir Stafford's discussions in India would proceed "on the basis of the Government declaration of 1940 or will the matter be left quite open."

"The discussion will proceed on the basis of the new conclusions at which the War Cabinet has unitedly arrived," Mr. Churchill responded.

It was believed that at least three months would be required for Sir Stafford to complete his conferences in India. He plans to leave immediately.

He said Sir Stafford also would confer with the commander-in-chief of India, Gen. Sir Archibald Wavell.

Sir Stafford's place as leader of the House will be filled during his absence by Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden.

Want Full Indian Rally.

The crisis in the affairs of India as a result of the Japanese advance, he declared, has make Britain wish to rally all the forces of Indian life to free the land from the menace of the invader.

He declared Sir Stafford would "carry with him the full confidence of the Government and strive to secure the necessary measure of assent from the Hindu majority and from the Moslem and other minorities. He will at the same time consult with the comander in chief of the military situation."

He said Britain would assure herself that the proposed scheme would "win a reasonable and practical measure of acceptance and thus prompt the concentration of all Indian thought and energies upon the defence of their native soil."

He added that pending this assurance the government would continue discussions of the Indian question "on the basis of new conclusions at which the war cabinet has unitedly arrived."

He expressed the wish that "no word be spoken and no debate be held either here or in India which would add to Sir Stafford Cripps' burden or lessen the prospects of a good result from his mission."

Attack On Italy

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, March 11 (AP)—Italian newspapers are discussing the possibility of a United States - British offensive against Italy, the Rome correspondent of the Stockholm Tidningen reported today.

The Allied plan, according to the Fascist press, is to gain control of the Mediterranean and pave the way for a direct assault on Germany. The correspondent said Italy is taking precautions against such a move.

All Canada's Wheat To Be Needed

Require Every Bushel Before War Ends So Gardiner States

OTTAWA, March 11 (CP)—Ultimate demand for every bushel of wheat that Canada grows between now and the end of the war was forecast in the House of Commons yesterday by Agriculture Minister Gardiner.

And when that demand arises, he said, if the export has to be financed by the government, the producers will receive parity prices.

"I do not know whether it will come in 1942 or in 1943," Mr. Gardiner said during the wheat policy debate.

"But I am as convinced as I am that I am standing on the floor of this House tonight, that sometime before the end of the war every bushel of wheat that is grown in Canada between now and the end of the war will be required to feed the people in Europe and in some other parts of the world."

"And may we not have to give it to them?" asked Conservative House Leader Hanson.

That was quite possible the Minister said, as it was true of hog products, cheese and to some extent butter.

"Cheese and hogs are being sent to Great Britain in order to feed the people there and they are being financed by the government," he said.

"I do not know when wheat will arrive at that position but I do know that when it does the government will do with wheat what it has done with hogs, cheese and in another way with butter.

"The government will see to it that a parity price is reached in connection with that product just as in connection with other products. And I think the farm population of Canada realize that."

Wheat Up For Debate

Debate on the Government's wheat legislation occupied the House all yesterday and will be the first subject of discussion today.

Measures providing for a 90-cent minimum price per bushel on wheat, continuation of the wheat acreage reduction bonus scheme and amendments to the Prairie Farm Assistance Act were debated together in second reading. Later, they will be referred to a standing committee. No progress was made yesterday.

The particular debate in the House was on amendments to the Wheat Board Act raising the ini-

To Hit S. America

LONDON, March 11 — (CP). — A reliable source declared to-day that, according to information reaching London, former fliers of German and Italian airlines in South America, now are manning some 150 bombing planes in which they are receiving special training in Western France.

He said it was his informant's belief that these crews are being prepared for an eventual attack on South America and on South Atlantic shipping from bases in West Africa.

Retail Grocers Get Warning To Study Wartime Regulations At Cobourg Banquet

COBOURG, March 11—(ENS). — Canada was perhaps seeing the forerunner of a future new economic system in the price ceiling regulations of the present time, declared George Hougham at a banquet of district business men held at the Chateau Hotel here last night. Mr. Hougham is Dominion secretary of the Retail Merchants' Association and secretary-treasurer of the Canadian Retail Federation. The banquet was sponsored by the Cobourg Business Men's Association.

At the head table were A. Haverson, Oshawa, past president Retailers Grocers of Ontario; Mayor John Burnet of Cobourg; Judge L. V. O'Connor, Cobourg; Geo. Hougham, Ottawa; Chairman J. J. Stewart, Cobourg, secretary of the Cobourg Business Men's Association; John Ewart, president of the Cobourg Business Men's Association; Harry Deyman, Crown Attorney, Cobourg; R. Wickett, chairman Port Hope Retail Merchants' Association, and R. Deyman, Oshawa, manager of National Grocers, Limited.

The banquet was attended by about 100 business men from various centres of Northumberland and Durham Counties.

Soloist during the evening was Albert Hircock, who sang "The Trumpeter." He was accompanied by Alf. Mortimer.

"I want you to think of yourself, not as 'John Doe,' grocer, but 'John Doe,' citizen, with a broad national outlook."

Upset Smugness.

"An opulent satisfaction has met a rude challenge through the acts of totalitarian dictators. We have been shaken out of our smugness and warned of our great peril. The dictators have made us realize our too-easily accepted principles of democratic freedom. "This price ceiling law is different and of far-reaching consequences. It has transcended many of our economic standards. We have experienced an inertia that many have tried to convince us was leading to disaster. I see great hope in this new trend towards uprooting many of those established practices which we had come to regard as being unchangeable," the speaker said.

"The Finance Minister was aware of the danger signals such as advance in cost of living. People began to spend freely, raise their standard of living, and within a few months prices started to rise. To meet these and other economic danger signals, the Finance Minister inaugurated this new plan which was a revolutionary change in economics. The increased spending had necessitated increased production where there was a need for factories to meet the demands of war-time productions. Continued further, the country would have seen the spectacle of the government competing with the people for the products of industry. Therefore the price ceiling regulations were brought into being.

Must Act Now.

"There is a danger," he said, "that

Council Decides Action Needed On ARP Program

PORT HOPE, March 11.—(ENS) —The fifth meeting of the municipal council of the town of Port Hope was held in the council chambers with Mayor S. Gifford in the chair.

The H.M.C.S. "Port Hope" minesweeper committee acknowledged the council grant of $300.

A petition was presented bearing four names of ratepayers requesting the council to take action to have the existing eyesore and nuisance of the Peter's property on Bramley street, remedied and this was referred to the fire department.

Mr. A. C. Morse and Mr. W. A. F. Waghorn addressed the council in connection with developing A.R.P. work and forming the necessary committee to contact same.

Mr. A. R. Macdonald addressed the council as representative of the Loyal Order of Moose, asking for the dance hall for April 10 to raise funds toward the purchase of boots for British children and he also made a request for two back rooms for March 31 to raise funds for the minesweeper.

Mr. Earl Jex addressed the council on behalf of the citizens band requesting a grant for the band.

His worship appointed a committee consisting of Councillors William Thompson, W. N. Moore and W. H. Burley to bring in a report at the next meeting of the council in connection with salvage collection in Port Hope, and the Lions' Club request to be appointed sole collectors; also a committee consisting of Councillors Moore, Bird, Martin and Thompson to look into the matter of A.R.P. work and a proper committee set up for this municipality.

The sum of $200 was voted to the public school account and $45.08 was voted to the direct relief fund account.

$12 was refunded to the veterans' home guard on account of their rental charges for the last two dances which they held in the town hall, the money to be used for cigarettes for overseas.

The band was granted the sum of $620 for the current year.

The Loyal Order of Moose was granted the use of town hall rooms, March 31 and April 10, in aid of their minesweeper fund, and also to aid their fund for sending boots to Britain.

Finance report as follows:

IODE Workers Feature Sailor Clothing

PORT HOPE, March 11—(ENS). —A splendid showing of work took place on Tuesday afternoon at the I.O.D.E. work rooms in the Town Hall.

A feature of the display was the H.M.C.S. Port Hope, minesweeper equipment of knitted articles donated by I.O.D.E. headquarters in Hamilton, and included 180 pairs of socks, 60 pairs sea-boot stockings, 60 pairs gloves and mitts, 60 helmets knitted, 60 seamen's scarves. On display also was one of the five battery radio sets which will be supplied by the monies derived from the different organizations of the town.

Also shown were other knitted articles for British war victims including: ten knit baby sets of bonnet, sweater and bootees, about 35 small children's knitted sweater suits, several layettes, and quilts, the most outstanding of which was a crib size quilt with very colorful Donald Duck figures appliqued in field, and these will be drawn for at a later date. These were sold by Mrs. Halford who was at the door. an all-over pattern.

Much credit is due Mrs. D. Wanner, convener of the tea, which was most successful, over $17 being realized. Tea was poured by Mrs. J. L. Westaway and Mrs. E. Barber from a prettily arranged tea table carried out in yellow and green, while members of the chapter assisted in serving.

The conveners of the different committees are as follows: Wool, Mrs. E. Bruce; quilts, Mrs. Barber and Mrs. Stephenson; sewing, Mrs. Fisher and Mrs. Dunn.

Mrs. Bruce reports that the following were shipped in the last month: 7 quilts, 2 knee rugs, 1 afghan, 1 kimona, 4 coats, 3 dresses, 1 skirt, 5 children's knitted outfits 2 pair pants and 2 sweaters, 1 blouse.

Among the donations last month was $50 from the Rotary club, $20 from a ladies' bowling club, who explained that they were giving this donation which would have normally been used as prizes for the highest bowling scores, but this year they preferred it to be used for war work.

Cobourg Audit Shows Deficit

COBOURG, March 11.—(ENS)—Cobourg started the year 1941 with a surplus of $2,275.59 and ended with a small deficit of $242.28, the auditors' report for the year reveals. The assessors roll on which the 1941 taxes were based, was $3,090,178.00. A comparative statement of tax arrears shows a decline in arrears from the total of $76,269.88 in 1936 to $47,795.80 in 1941. There was an increase in the next tax collections in 1941 as compared with 1940, of $12,202.16, the collections in 1940 being $140,130.84 net, and the collections in 1941 being $152,333.90. In regard to the tax collections the auditors commended the tax collector for his work in 1941 but much still remains to be done in regard to liquidating arrears of taxes. The auditors pointed out that they understood that the council was obtaining advice from the town solicitor on the question of a tax sale, and recommended that a sale be proceeded with at the earliest possible moment.

Comparative summary of estimated and actual revenues showed that actual revenue was $1,202.24 short of estimated, the total estimated being $198,639.47 and the actual revenue being $197,437.23. County rates being $1,956.26 higher than estimated, along with slight committee advances over estimates, the actual expenditure was $197,679.51 or $959.96 less than estimated. The actual revenue being $1,202.24 than estimated, this was offset to the extent of $959.96 margin in expenditure, leaving a deficit of $242.28. Chief contributing revenue was $178,672.73 and in 1939, $178,550.55. For the same years the expenditure was $178,627.73 and $178,550.55, with a surplus of $6,719.77 in 1939 and a surplus of $2,275.59 in 1940. Ratio of uncontrolable to controllable expenditures in 1941 were $67.45 and 32.41; 1940, 66.64 and 32.09 and in 1939, 63.46 and 32.79.

In the current and capital balance sheets, reserve for taxes, $16,929.81 showed an increased of $2,092.48 during the year, $3,000 provision less $907.52 written off. Bank loans as at Dec. 31, 1941, amounted to $43,026.48 as compared with $54,071.71 in 1940. The auditors pointed out in this regard that those loans would remain so long as the town's assets were "frozen" in tax arrears and a continuance of aggressive collections and provisions for reserves was urged by the auditors to improve the current financial position of the town. Debentures maturing in 1942 amount to $4,483.20.

In the current balance sheets assets are listed as $45,269.67 and liabilities as $45,511.95. In the capital balance sheet assets totalled $871,229.87 and the libalities plus ratepayers investment of $460,907.60; balanced at $871,229.87. Revenue for 1941 included tax levy of $140,450.36; unemployment relief, $2,273.25; debenture charges recovered, $24,403.50 and other revenue $28,534.53. Expenditures included charity and welfare, $5,081.00; county rates, $20,956.26; debenture debt charges, $62,$177.35; education, $56,782.64; gen-

Why Not a Closed Season

The Rice Lake muskrats have become seriously depleted in recent seasons and it would be a good thing if trapping were suspended entirely for a year. The pelts of these animals are known all over North America for their superior quality and now is the time to take the necessary measures to see that a supply is assured for the future. Labor is scarce and few men will have the time to trap. Clearly this is the time to leave the muskrats alone. Whereas in former years from six to ten muskrats might be found in a colony there are now likely to be three or four; but muskrats are rapid breeders and a season of protection would restore them to their usual numbers.

We strongly recommend that the Department of Game and Fisheries consider this matter of giving the Rice Lake muskrats a free year. A brief season of four or five days might appeal to many as a more moderate solution of the problem, but these brief seasons have a way of being illegally extended by trappers whose acquaintance with the calendar is more general than exact. A closed season for the muskrats now would be less of a deprivation than at any other time, and it is necessary if these creatures are not to become scarce or possibly extinct.

Coming Of Age Party

The Canadian Authors' Association began its career on March 11, 1921, and its coming of age will be celebrated by a dinner at the Windsor Hotel in Montreal this evening. His Excellency the Governor-General who is patron of the Association by virtue of his office, will be present, and Mr. G. H. Lash, the Director of Public Information, will speak on "The Writer and the War."

During the years of its minority the Association has done much to foster literary effort in this country and the task has not been an easy one. Canada's writers are in the main currents of influence flowing both from Britain and from the United States and this circumstance, far from causing a fine gush of native brilliance, appears to have reduced the Canadian Helicon to a brackish trickle. The Association has pumped manfully but its efforts have availed less to increase the flow than to produce a quantity of aerated water. Nevertheless, our gratitude to the Association should be boundless, for there can be little doubt that without it we would have had even less Canadian writing, and that of poorer quality, than has been the case.

It is to be hoped that the years following this war will see the rise of a body of writing sufficiently large and sufficiently good to be worthy of the name of Canadian literature. It will have to find its chief market in Britain and in the States, of course, for no author could sustain life on what he made from selling his books in Canada, but it may have a distinctly Canadian flavor. Australia has recently succeeded in producing excellent native writing for export. Canada may hope to do the same, and when she does we are sure that the Canadian Authors' Association will act as midwife.

The Legend Of Leopold

When, in those bitter days of 1940, King Leopold decided to give up the struggle against the Nazi hordes he became for the space of a fortnight the centre of a storm of controversy. Millions of people, British and French, condemned him bitterly; diplomats "deplored the suddenness with which he had taken this unforeseen step"; simpler men called him a rat who had sacrificed Britons and Frenchmen in the hope that he might carry favor with the conqueror. A minority felt deeply for the young monarch, and excused his fateful decision on many grounds; particular prominence was given to his inconsolable grief at the accidental death of his wife a few years before.

Out of all this talk a legend began to grow. Attempts were made, both in the public prints and in speeches, to relate the story of King Leopold with the mighty dramatic themes of the ancient Greeks. A king, son of a great father and of a great royal house, is faced with a decision: either his people must fight to extermination or he must betray his allies. Whichever course he chooses, tragedy will befall him. And so many people began to think of Leopold as a king marked for tragedy, a figure from the Hellenic theatre, playing out his part in the turmoil of a modern war.

But the Greeks were good dramatists, and life is an incorrigibly slovenly dramatist. In Greek drama the hero grappled with his fate, and in the end he died. He was remembered as he was last seen, engaged in a magnificent struggle against overwhelming odds.

Not so Leopold. He is still a prisoner of Germany, but he appears to be pretty comfortable. The Greek hero is given a number of privileges by his captors and seems to have compromised with his fate very successfully. The inconsolable widower has married the excellent Mlle. Baels, exchanging his classic isolation for the comfort of a bourgeois marriage. The Legend of Leopold is deflated and life has once again shown herself to be an indifferent tragedian. Or is it we who have been mistaken all this time? Can it be, perhaps, that life is really a most accomplished and dextrous comedian? It certainly would seem so.

A.R.P. Organization

Nothing is more futile than calculating the chances of air raids against Peterborough or any other Canadian inland city. Is it ten to one against? A hundred to one? A thousand to one? Who can say? All that is known is that it would under certain circumstances be possible for the enemy to raid this city but that every present military consideration makes it extremely unlikely that he will do so.

Yet even if there is only one chance in a million of an air raid on Peterborough we should be prepared for it. It is too late to leave preparations until after the raid has occurred. The question has already been decided by Peterborough's municipal leaders and preparations are being made through A.R.P. training for reasonable precaution, taking all the relevant factors into consideration.

Four hundred men and women of this city have been attending lectures weekly for the past five weeks and soon will have completed the basic course. They are all busy people but by their regular attendance and keen attention they have shown that they are anxious that Peterborough take necessary measures to be ready should air raids occur. Volunteers have quickly come forward as air raid wardens, volunteer firemen and first aid workers and following the basic course specialized courses are being planned by the A.R.P. leaders in these various branches.

Due to the effort which these citizens are giving Peterborough this city will be moderately well prepared for the remote chance of a raid and yet money is not being wasted or energy which might better be used in Canada's war effort.

Best Defence Is Offence

The rapidity with which the Japanese have overrun the island of Java has brought Australia's critical hour upon her more rapidly than was ever anticipated, and the greatest apprehension is felt in that quarter respecting the next Japanese move. It is likely that Japan may strike at India, hoping to deal with Australia when she has established herself as ruler of the Indian Empire; it is a part of Japanese strategy in the Pacific war to keep her opponents guessing. The Australian guess, however, is that an attack will be made upon their continent soon; they fear that the Japanese may attempt to capture bases in northern Australia, while sea forces cut the line of communication with New Zealand and the U.S. From their northern strongholds the Japs could then bomb the great cities of the south, and perhaps move southward from airfield to airfield in a move to subjugate the whole continent.

Slowly but, we sincerely hope, surely the United Nations are learning that attack is the best defence against the Axis. The blitzkrieg has shown itself to be almost invincible; the obvious thing, therefore, is to reverse it as quickly as possible. Axis strategy of defence is noticeably weaker than its strategy of offence and the best of the Axis fighters —the Germans themselves—have been unable to stand their ground in Russia when they were attacked by methods similar to those which they themselves had used. Dispatches indicate that the United Nations mean to take the offensive in the Pacific, and it is to be hoped that they are able to do so in time.

A recent much discussed dispatch tells of large convoys of American ships headed for Australia bearing American troops, airmen, planes, guns, tanks and "materials to be used to build the foundations for a great offensive.' The Japanese radio has also reported frequent minor engagements at sea with American naval and air forces, from as far south as New Guinea to Wake Island and Marcus Island. For many months before Japan struck at Pearl Harbor a region near Darwin was being prepared as a base for troops in the Pacific war which strategists had anticipated. Perhaps the answer may be found here to be frequently heard question as to the whereabouts of the American Navy.

Major-General Gordon Bennett, one of Australia's greatest soldiers, has declared that the Australians defeated the Japs in Malaya every time they took the offensive. General MacArthur's men have shown what the offensive spirit can do against apparently overwhelming odds. What the Allies hope to see now is a display of this offensive spirit when it is backed up by ample equipment and sufficient numbers of men. It is all very well to talk of dealing with the Japanese after Germany has been defeated, but Australia wants to see offensive action in the Pacific now, and it looks as though she were going to get her wish.

Pathetic Delusion

At present we have no time to waste in pitying the Germans, but if we had we might drop a tear for their pathetic delusion as to the superiority of Aryan blood. A German army physician who has been captured by the Russians reveals that young Nazis are dying in great numbers because they will not accept transfusions of any save the purest Aryan stock, lest they should be tainted. Of course, every Nazi soldier who dies thus is an enemy out of the way, but the spectacle of men dying of stupidity is pathetic wherever it is found.

What rubbish! Doctors tell us that the blood is the deadest and least interesting of all the bodily fluids; there are few blood types, and the stuff can be dehydrated and shipped all over the world like old-fashioned powdered lemonade. Mix it with some sterile water and it is as good as ever. The stuff is really very dull and unromantic, but for hundreds of years we have glorified it, possibly because of its pretty red color. But the Nazis, extremists in everything, have made it the essential point in a racial theory as ridiculous and fanatical as any the world has ever seen. In future years their ideas about blood will rank with the notion that a unicorn's horn will detect poison in wine, or that a rabbit's foot in the pocket will protect the owner from any accident into which his own heedlessness may lead him.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Every morning Hitler receives a digest of the news from an aide. The result, frequently, is indigestion.

Britain's Ministry of Food advises that government marked eggs should not be boiled too quickly. Or too late.

A news commentator says that Germany is now left without a friend in the world. What's Hitler going to do with that stack of blank pacts?

Washington gossip speaks of a firm friendship which has grown up between William S. Knudsen and Chinese Ambassador Wellington Koo. Just Bill and Koo all the time, we suppose.

Here are some wise words from Professor Karl S. Bernhardt, of the Department of Psychology of the University of Toronto: "The loudest critics today of our war effort, our government and many other things are those who have the least to do, and who do least. It is an old custom. When a person is worried, can't do anything and feels inadequate he goes out and criticizes someone." Before using the hammer, look about and see if there isn't a loose nail that you can pound.

LONGING

Let me tread the gentle pulse of the twilight
Just as it lies tonight in the hills,
Pressing against the silent doorways,
Shadowing up to window-sills.

Let me find the calm heart of the twilight,
Dumb with snow and the quieted day
That I may not weep while the little light-stars
Find place in the dusk-filled valley to play.

I shall lay my cheek to the fragrance of twilight,
This moment when longing thunders so near,
And notice the even shapes of the pine trees,
While my heart cries out and the long miles jeer.

Perhaps I shall find some peace in the twilight
(Glib to say but slow to learn),
But shall I find the end of waiting,
Of glimpse the hour where the slow tides turn?

China Speaks Of Indian Freedom

On Feb. 21 Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek, in a message addressed to the Indian people on the eve of his return to China, called for their "utmost exertion" in the cause of freedom and asked Britain to grant India "real political power" immediately. The text of the message, as issued by the Chinese News Service here, follows:

DURING my two weeks' stay in India I had the opportunity of discussing very frankly with the highest civil and military authorities as well as with my Indian friends questions concerning joint plans against aggression and the objective of our common efforts. I was happy to find that there was full sympathy and general understanding between us.

My mission is now drawing to a close. On the eve of my departure I wish to bid farewell to all my friends in India and to thank you for the many kindnesses showered upon Mme. Chiang and myself.

The briefness of my stay has not permitted me to tell the Indian people all that I wished to say. I avail myself to this opportunity to address to them this farewell message. It is an expression of my high and warm regard and of long cherished hopes for India. It comes from the depth of my heart.

Since my arrival in this country I found to my great satisfaction that there exists among the people of India a unanimous determination to oppose aggression.

CHINA and India comprise one-half of the world's population. Their common frontier extends 3,000 kilometers. In the 2,000 years' history of their intercourse, which has been of a purely cultural and commercial character, there has never been any armed conflict. Indeed, nowhere else can one find so long a period of uninterrupted peace between two neighboring countries.

This is irrefutable proof that our two peoples are peace-loving by nature. Today they have not only identical interests but also the same destiny. For this reason they are duty bound to side with anti-aggression countries and to fight shoulder to shoulder in order to secure real peace for the whole world.

Moreover, our two peoples have an outstanding virtue in common—namely, the noble spirit of self-sacrifice for the sake of justice and righteousness. It is this traditional spirit which should move them toward self-negation for the salvation of mankind. It arms against aggression and it is also this spirit which prompted China to be the first to take up the present war to ally herself unhesitatingly with other anti-aggression countries, not merely for the purpose of securing her own freedom but also for the purpose of securing justice and freedom for all.

I venture to suggest to my brethren people of India at this most critical moment in the history of civilization that our two peoples should exert themselves to the utmost in the cause of freedom for all mankind, for only in a free world could the Chinese and Indian peoples obtain their freedom. Furthermore, should freedom be denied to either China or India, there could be no real international peace.

THE present international situation divides the world into two camps, the aggression camp and the anti-aggression camp. All those who opposed aggression by striving for the freedom of their country of other countries should join the anti-aggression camp. There is no middle course and there is no time to wait for developments.

Now is the crucial moment for the whole future of mankind. The issue before us does not concern the dispute of any one man or country, nor does it concern any specific questions now pending between one people and another. Any people therefore which joins the anti-aggression front may be said to be co-operating, not with any particular country, but with the entire front.

This leads us to believe that the Pacific war is the turning point in the history of nationalism. The method, however, by which the peoples of the world could achieve their freedom might be different from what it used to be.

The anti-aggression nations now expect that in this new era the people of India will voluntarily bear their full share of responsibility in the present struggle for the survival of a free world, in which India must play her part. The vast majority of world opinion is in full sympathy with India's aspirations for freedom. This sympathy is so valuable and so difficult to obtain that it cannot be appraised in terms of money or material and should therefore by all means be retained.

The present struggle is one between freedom and slavery, between light and darkness, between good and evil, between resistance and aggression. Should the anti-aggression front lose the war, world civilization would suffer a setback for at least 100 years and there would be no end of human suffering.

SO FAR as Asia is concerned, the cruelties committed by the Japanese militarists are beyond description. The suffering and oppression, which have been the fate of Formosans and Koreans since their subjugation by Japan, should serve as a warning.

As regards barbarities committed by the Japanese Army since our war of resistance, the fall of Nanking in December, 1937, is a case in point. Over 200,000 civilians were massacred within one week.

For the last five years the civilian population of Free China has been subjected almost daily to bombings from the air and bombardments by heavy artillery. In every place invaded by Japanese troops, men, women and children were either assaulted or killed. The young men and the educated people received their special attention with the result that men of intelligence and ideas have been tortured.

Nor is this all. Institutions of culture, objects of historical interest and value and even articles necessary for livelihood, such as cooking utensils, plows, tools and domestic animals have been either forcibly taken away or destroyed. In places under Japanese military occupation rape, rapine, incendiarism, murder are frequent occurrences.

Moreover, they have with official connivance everywhere opened opium dens, gambling houses and houses of ill-fame in order to sap the vitality of the people and destroy their spirit. Such is the disgraceful conduct of the Japanese, the like of which is not found in countries invaded by other aggressor nations. What I have just said is but an inadequate description of the true state of affairs as reported by Chinese and foreign eyewitnesses.

IN THESE horrible times of savagery and brute force, the people of China and their brethren people of India should for the sake of civilization and human freedom give their united support to the principles embodied in the Atlantic Charter and in the joint declaration of twenty-six nations, and ally themselves with the anti-aggression front. I hope they will wholeheartedly join the Allies namely, China, Great Britain, America and the Soviet Union, and participate in the struggle for the survival of a free world until complete victory is achieved and the duties incident upon them in these troubled times have been fully discharged.

Lastly, I sincerely hope and I confidently believe that our Ally Great Britain, without waiting for any demands on the part of the people of India, will as speedily as possible give them real political power so that they may be in a position further to develop their spiritual and material strength and thus realize that their participation in the war is not merely aid to the anti-aggression nations for securing victory but also the turning point in their struggle for India's freedom. From the objective point of view, I am of the opinion this would be the wisest policy which will redound to the credit of the British Empire.

YES, WE ONCE GAVE THIS A HELPING HAND!

• China Sea Coups Shaping

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON

WASHINGTON, March 11 —(AP)— Another step in United Nations preparations to strike a crushing blow eventually at Japan's vital communications lines in the China Sea has been taken, this time in China.

An American Army officer, Lieutenant-General Joseph W. Stillwell, in China as President Roosevelt's personal representative, has been named chief of staff under General Chiang Kai-shek for operations on the Chinese front. And it is in the great eastern bulge of China, south of Shanghai, that some of Japan's most important land bases lie. These bases protect the Nipponese sea traffic that sustains the enormously extended threats to Australia and to India.

The possibility that swarms of American planes may be based in China within close striking range of Japan's Formosa stronghold and of the teeming China Sea war traffic is an alluring one.

Bracketed with widening American naval sorties into the island-studded "hornet's nest" of enemy bases in the North Pacific far west of Hawaii, the pattern of a future Sino-American pincer squeeze on Japan's China Sea conquest lifeline is obvious.

A Japanese claim says that Truk Island, southeast of lost Guam, and 3,000 miles west of Hawaii, was the objective of such an American sortie. That is unconfirmed from any American source, as is the Tokyo claim of a United States plane carrier sunk and a destroyer fired.

STATIONARY PLANE CARRIER

Truk is another of the many "stationary plane carriers" Japan developed in preparation for her wanton attack on the United States.

American naval forces which may be operating in that area of the lower North Pacific are roughly two-thirds of the way from Hawaii to the Philippines. The Japanese claim indicates a task force similar to that which wrought havoc with an enemy air-bombing fleet west of the Gilbert Islands.

Like the Tokyo report of a frustrated bombing attack on Marcus Island, 1,000 miles north of Truk, in the Bonin group, the Nipponese account of the Truk episode is subject to suspicion. Both might be designed to draw out information as to American fleet dispositions.

Even so, there seems every reason to believe that a progressive American advance westward in the Pacific is feeling its way, island by island, toward one or the other China Sea jugular veins of Japanese war traffic. The primary purpose still may be the necessity of safeguarding American communication and supply routes to Australia and New Zealand, even to China through the Tasman Sea and Indian Ocean.

Some route, and a long and difficult one, must be held open if American air power is ultimately to be brought to bear from land bases there against Formosa and Japanese China Sea communications, even against Japan itself. That is necessarily a first concern of Allied strategy in the Pacific.

Nevertheless, sooner or later it is obvious that a pincer squeeze on Japan's China Sea traffic is in the making. Its western jaw would be land based in China. Its eastern cutting edge would be sea based as the Japanese hornets' nest of Pacific islands is progressively mopped up.

UP TO GOVERNMENT

Traffic experts point out that increasing demands will be made on street cars and buses as private automobiles are laid up for lack of tires. It is a development of which the Government will have to take account by permitting construction of public-transport vehicles.—Ottawa Journal.

IMPORTANT VERDICT

BEFORE Mr. Justice MacKay in the Civil Assize Court at Toronto, an important verdict has just been given. A widow sued the trans-Canada Air Lines for the loss of her husband, in a plane crash near Armstrong, Ontario, on February 6, 1941. She was awarded $10,000, a daughter received $2,100 and a son $3,300. Another widow secured $4,000.

The point was established that if the pilot of a passenger plane makes a human error, it is negligence and the company may be sued for death or injury.

The Judge asked the jury three specific questions of fact, if the defendant had satisfied the jury that there was no negligence, if there was negligence and of what did it consist? The answer to the latter question was to the effect that the pilot brought the plane too low in his approach toward his runway and thus hit tree tops and crashed.

The case brought out many expert pilots in testimony for the defendant company, some of whom declared that numerous unpredictable mechanical failures may have caused the tragedy. A sudden gust of wind might have done it.

Thus the onus in a case of the kind is on the plaintiff to establish human error against a whole lot of other things which can happen to a plane in the air. And human error is negligence in the eyes of the law.—St. Catharines Standard.

Rangers O.C. Is Exponent Of Preparedness

Colonel John A. Dewart, M.C., E.D., officer commanding the Prince of Wales Rangers (M.G.) reserve force, is one of the many senior officers in Canada who has always been an exponent of preparedness. For years in this city and in Military District No. 3 he has urged and worked for a highly trained efficient system of militia units, and during the past decade despite opposition, lack of cooperation and a scarcity of funds, his hopes have been realized in the top rating maintained by the Prince of Wales Rangers.

During his tenure of office as O.C. of the machine gun unit, members of a gun crew captured the highest honors possible in peace time, and at the present time, all but one of that crew are on active service.

Born In Dummer

Col. John Alexander Dewart was born in Dummer township of pioneer forbears on July 16, 1892, and like the majority of other successful business men in Canada his youth was spent on the farm, and his early education obtained in the little red school house. In later years he obtained his secondary education at the Norwood High School, and then graduated with a diploma for teaching from the Peterborough Normal School.

When the World War broke out in August, 1914, he was teaching school at Niagara Falls, and enlisted with the rank of lieutenant with the 44th Lincoln and Welland Regiment. He saw action in France in a machine gun company, was wounded at the front and awarded the Military Cross for distinguished service.

When he was discharged following the Armistice he held the rank of Captain and in 1922 he came to Peterborough and has made his home here since that time. He was named officer commanding the "C" Company, 4th Machine Gun Battalion, and a few years later was named O.C. of the 4th Machine Gun battalion obtaining the rank of Lt.-Colonel on July 29, 1931. In 1936 on re-organization Colonel Dewart then commanding the Machine Gun battalion, was handed the command of the Prince of Wales Rangers, from the late Col. C. G. Winterbottom. He relinquished this office to become O.C. of the 9th infantry brigade with the rank of Colonel, while Lt.-Col. R. T. E. Hicks-Lyne took over command of the Rangers.

When Lt.-Col. Hicks-Lyne was ordered to mobilize headquarters, and headquarters company for the Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry Highlanders, and later became O.C. of the active service unit, Col. Dewart was asked to take over command of the Prince of Wales Rangers, and recruit the unit to full war time establishment. He has retained this command since the Glengarrians were mobilized for active service.

Several years back, Col. Dewart was awarded the Efficiency Decoration on completing 12 years continuous service with the Canadian Militia, and has continued his active association with the milita since the last great war.

Col. Dewart is a grain dealer, and is married to Emily Ballard, a native of Madoc. He has two children Murray and Joyce, both attending the Collegiate.

Trench Digging At The 1940 Camp In Exhibition Park

Shortly after the fall of France in 1940 and the mobilization of the Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry Highlanders, the Prince of Wales Rangers re-organized and held their first camp on the Exhibition Ground. The camp was for two weeks and (ABOVE) Major Jim McGrath, M.M., supervises a trench digging detail.

Y Man In Tokyo

TORONTO, March 11 — (CP).—Sir Ernest MacMillan, chairman of the War Prisoners' Aid of the Young Men's Christian Associations of Canada, announced to-day that Russel Durgin, representing the Y.M.C.A., has arrived in Toyko to assist in preliminary arrangements for aiding British and American prisoners of war in Japan. Mr. Durgin is an American Y.M.C.A. secretary.

Monday's Flood Soaks Millbrook

MILLBROOK, March 11.—(ENS).—Some of the aftermath of the gale which tore through the countryside all day Monday could be seen in sheds demolished at the agricultural grounds; trees uprooted in the woods back of John Rowland's home and fronting on Allen's hill; a barn with most of the roof torn off back of Mrs. L. Davis' home at the extreme west end of King street; and a few minor damages in the ways of roofs partially torn away from sheds, fences flattened, or boards missing from stables and garages on private property in the community.

Following the heavy rain during the night, householders wakened on Monday morning to find all local creeks swollen to far beyond their usual boundaries, gardens flooded, garages surrounded by water, anything moveable floated off to a new landing place, and other inconveniences suffered.

However, by noon on Monday things were about normal again, except on Tupper street where the roadway was a foot or more deep in water, and some homes, like that of Mrs. L. H. Morton and others in that area were completely surrounded by water, with cellars filled, and exit impossible unless with the help of high rubber boots. It was on in the afternoon before this state of affairs could be remedied.

A miniature torrent poured down Allen's hill, at the east end of the village, veering aside as it reached lower levels into laneways, and ultimately finding entrance to cellars in some of the homes.

War Costs Mount

LONDON, March 11 — (CP). — Britain's expenditures for war needs are £14,500.000 ($64,000,000) daily, and expenditures will show a further rise in the next few weeks," an official spokesman declared to-day.

The total Governmental expenditure was approximately £88,500,000 weekly from votes of credit, or which the fighting services took £68,000,000 weekly—nearly £9,750,000 each day, he said.

Church Guild Plans Pot Luck Supper

CAMPBELLFORD, March 11.—(ENS).—Plans for a bazaar projected by Christ Church Parish Guild at their meeting a week ago were washed out by the members when they met on Monday evening at Mrs. W. D. Wood's. The majority of those present voiced the opinion that a series of euchres could be made as profitable to the organization in the long run and as a consequence the former plan was abandoned for the present with the idea of re-considering it again in the fall. Taking their cue from various township groups which have found pot-luck suppers such an attraction to their members the Guild has set March 19th at the date for one of these which will be held in conjunction with a quilting. Since there will be a small charge for the supper the meeting will serve a two-fold purpose—raising money and making quilts. Two tops completed during the evening will be quilted at the supper.

Old Boys Brigade To Aid Farmers Half Day A Week

HAMILTON, Ont., March 11.—(CP)—Warning that the day was not far distant when elderly men working in non-esential businesses might have to devote at least half a day each week to farm work, R. H. Graham, Department of Agriculture representative, told the Wentworth County Council yesterday that the lack of labor on the farms of Canada must be offset by any or all means possible.

"It is the height of foolishnes sto see elderly men, who are fit in every way, spending their spare moments waving golf sticks when crops are rotting in the field, when some farmers threaten to cut their production because they can not get aid," Mr. Graham said.

"There are certain farmers who say that they will be forced to cut down production because they can not get help," continued Mr. Graham. "Those men are defeatists. Every farmer in the province who is lucky enough to have sons still with them, or woman who can help, or who have sufficient machinery, must co-operate with less fortunate neighbors. Co-operation is the only answer as there are not enough men to fill the armed services, man the war plants, and still give the farms all the help they ask."

"There are some of our farmers who complain that their prices do not compare with the wages paid in war industries—soldiers can really make that complaint, and in addition they are offering their lives."

Mr. Graham said that farmers might have to turn to the young for help in addition to women's land armies and the old boys' brigade.

"Some of you scoff at the value of obtaining high school boys to help you. I tell you that any help is better than none and I know that many students are doing a great job in this way. I also tell the farmer that they will have to treat those boys as decent individuals, not as slaves."

Turks Raid Nazi Club

ISTABUL, March 9 (Delayed).—(AP).—Neutral quarters reported today that Turkish police raided a German club in Istanbul last night, purportedly searching for information in connection with the bomb explosion February 24 near German Ambassador Franz Von Papen.

An informed source said it was "not unlikely" that the Germans might have engineered the bombing, using young Communistic elements as their tools in an effort to upset Russian-Turkish relations.

Appointed Chairman

J. Edouard Simard, vice-president of Sorel Industries, Limited, has been appointed chairman of the control committee of this company it was announced by the Minister of Munitions and Supply, Hon. C. D. Howe. The plant is steadily increasing its output of 25-pounder gun equipment, and last month surpassed its rated capacity.

French Canada Urged to Vote No

MONTREAL, March 11 — (CP).—Philippe Girard, president of the Catholic Syndicate of Tramway Employees of Montreal, said last night that the Government has all the authority necessary to impose conscription if it so wishes." He was addressing an anti-conscription meeting held under the auspices of La Ligue pour la Defence du Canada by Les Jeunes Laurentiens, a French-Canadian youth organization.

About 500 persons attended the rally.

"Through the plebiscite the Government is seeking to throw the responsibility of the matter on the people," he said, but the Government can impose conscription without asking for public approval."

"To me the question in the plebiscite is clear. We are being consulted as to what is our point of view regarding conscription.

"We can give our answer with a definite 'No'."

After the meeting a group of youths gathered in the street outside the building and sang "A Bas la Conscription," (Down With Conscription)to the tune of the National Anthem.

There was no disturbance.

90-Cent Wheat To Get Few Cheers In West

OTTAWA, March 11 — (CP). — The Federal Government's plan to increase the initial wheat price by 20 cents a bushel to 90 cents, basis No. 1 Northern at Fort William, will not be received with enthusiasm in the West, when $1 a bushel is considered the minimum amount required to maintain reasonable farm conditions, J. H. Wesson, Saskatchewan Wheat Pool president, said in a statement on Tuesday.

"If the price ceiling policy administered by the Wartime and Prices Board is 'the nigger in the woodpile,' the sooner the Government decides on an equitable policy of price ceilings the better it will be for the cause of Canadian unity, which, in our opinion, is the first requisite for a successful and all-out war effort," Mr. Wesson said.

Even if it were necessary to increase the price of bread by ½ cent or even a cent a loaf it was hard to believe this would create the "spiral of inflation," he said.

"We are satisfied that when Canadian consumers of bread are fully acquainted with the whole situation there would be very little objection to paying the small increase necessary to provide a parity price for wheat," Mr. Wesson said, declaring wheat represented only 13.2 per cent in the price of a loaf of bread.

A parity price for wheat, with an initial payment of $1, together with the other government's proposals, would give general satisfaction to Western agriculture.

LanarkRegiment Called Active

PEMBROKE, Ont., March 11—(CP)—Lt.-Col. J. McL. Beatty, officer commanding the Lanark and Renfrew Scottish Regiment, announced last night he received orders earlier in the day to mobilize the unit for active service.

Col. Beatty said recruiting will commence at once. Either the officer commanding or the second in command will be draw from men who who now are overseas, as will either the officer commanding or the second in command of each company.

Col. Beatty is to nominate either the officer commanding or the second in command of each of the five companies, which are located at Pembroke, Renfrew, Arnprior, Smiths Falls, and Perth.

Rangers O.C. Is Exponent Of Preparedness

Colonel John A. Dewart, M.C., E.D., officer commanding the Prince of Wales Rangers (M.G.) reserve force, is one of the many senior officers in Canada who has always been an exponent of preparedness. For years in this city and in Military District No. 3 he has urged and worked for a highly trained efficient system of militia units, and during the past decade despite opposition, lack of cooperation and a scarcity of funds, his hopes have been realized in the top rating maintained by the Prince of Wales Rangers.

During his tenure of office as O.C. of the machine gun unit, members of a gun crew captured the highest honors possible in peace time, and at the present time, all but one of that crew are on active service.

Born In Dummer

Col. John Alexander Dewart was born in Dummer township of pioneer forbears on July 16, 1892, and like the majority of other successful business men in Canada his youth was spent on the farm, and his early education obtained in the little red school house. In later years he obtained his secondary education at the Norwood High School, and then graduated with a diploma for teaching from the Peterborough Normal School.

When the World War broke out in August, 1914, he was teaching school at Niagara Falls, and enlisted with the rank of lieutenant with the 44th Lincoln and Welland Regiment. He saw action in France in a machine gun company, was wounded at the front and awarded the Military Cross for distinguished service.

When he was discharged following the Armistice he held the rank of Captain and in 1922 he came to Peterborough and has made his home here since that time. He was named officer commanding the "C" Company, 4th Machine Gun Battalion, and a few years later was named O.C. of the 4th Machine Gun battalion obtaining the rank of Lt.-Colonel on July 29, 1931. In 1936 on re-organization Colonel Dewart then commanding the Machine Gun battalion, was handed the command of the Prince of Wales Rangers, from the late Col. C. G. Winterbottom. He relinquished this office to become O.C. of the 9th infantry brigade with the rank of Colonel, while Lt.-Col. R. T. E. Hicks-Lyne took over command of the Rangers.

When Lt.-Col. Hicks-Lyne was ordered to mobilize headquarters, and headquarters company for the Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry Highlanders, and later became O.C. of the active service unit, Col. Dewart was asked to take over command of the Prince of Wales Rangers, and recruit the unit to full war time establishment. He has retained this command since the Glengarrians were mobilized for active service.

Several years back, Col. Dewart was awarded the Efficiency Decoration on completing 12 years continuous service with the Canadian Militia, and has continued his active association with the milita since the last great war.

Col. Dewart is a grain dealer, and is married to Emily Ballard, a native of Madoc. He has two children Murray and Joyce, both attending the Collegiate.

Trench Digging At The 1940 Camp In Exhibition Park

Shortly after the fall of France in 1940 and the mobilization of the Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry Highlanders, the Prince of Wales Rangers re-organized and held their first camp on the Exhibition Ground. The camp was for two weeks and (ABOVE) Major Jim McGrath, M.M., supervises a trench digging detail.

Y Man In Tokyo

TORONTO, March 11 — (CP).— Sir Ernest MacMillan, chairman of the War Prisoners' Aid of the Young Men's Christian Associations of Canada, announced to-day that Russel Durgin, representing the Y.M.C.A., has arrived in Toyko to assist in preliminary arrangements for aiding British and American prisoners of war in Japan. Mr. Durgin is an American Y.M.C.A. secretary.

Monday's Flood Soaks Millbrook

MILLBROOK, March 11.—(ENS). —Some of the aftermath of the gale which tore through the countryside all day Monday could be seen in sheds demolished at the agricultural grounds; trees uprooted in the woods back of John Rowland's home and fronting on Allen's hill; a barn with most of the roof torn off back of Mrs. L. Davis' home at the extreme west end of King street; and a few minor damages in the ways of roofs partially torn away from sheds, fences flattened, or boards missing from stables and garages on private property in the community.

Following the heavy rain during the night, householders wakened on Monday morning to find all local creeks swollen to far beyond their usual boundaries, gardens flooded, garages surrounded by water, anything moveable floated off to a new landing place, and other inconveniences suffered.

However, by noon on Monday things were about normal again, except on Tupper street where the roadway was a foot or more deep in water, and some homes, like that of Mrs. L. H. Morton and others in that area were completely surrounded by water, with cellars filled, and exit impossible unless with the help of high rubber boots. It was on in the afternoon before this state of affairs could be remedied.

A miniature torrent poured down Allen's hill, at the east end of the village, veering aside as it reached lower levels into laneways, and ultimately finding entrance to cellars in some of the homes.

BOSTON BRUINS OVERWHELM CHICAGO TO CLINCH THIRD PLACE

Cain Hits 100th As Bruins Swamp Hawks

By SCOTT YOUNG
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

Hockey players like Herbie Cain have been responsible for much of the expansion and continuity of the National Hockey League. They come back, year after year, sometimes changing employers but always well up in the scoring summaries, well down in the penalty lists.

So everyone was pleased last night when Herb Cain got his 100th goal. The Newmarket, Ont., player may be up for a few years yet but his best years are behind him—years with the Montreal Maroons and Canadiens before he joined the Bruins. His 100th goal represents nine years of good service to those clubs.

But the goal didn't mean much otherwise to the Bruins, who swamped Chicago Black Hawks 9-1 in Boston to cinch third place. Boston spotted Chicago one goal by Rookie Bill Mosienko in the first period but tied it up a few minutes later and burst out with three in the second period as a prelude to a deluge of goals in the third.

Flash Hollett and Roy Conacher counted two goals each for Bruins, with Gord Bruce, Desse Smith, Jack Shewchuk, Jack McGill and Cain the other Boston scorers. Cain's goal was Boston's seventh, the 30-year-old winger (165 pounds, five feet, 11 inches) sinking a pass from Art Jackson.

No matter how often the Bruins have been counted out during this season, they always have come back. Bill Cowley's smashed jaw started the string of player-losses, then Dit Clapper's severed achilles tendon and the enlistment of the Kitchener line. Now the Boston threat — particularly after this smashing win over the rugged Hawks—looms almost as potent as ever. The rookies manager Art Ross culled from here and there are developing, and Cowley is expected back in the lineup within a few days.

The starry Ottawa centre, who was injured last Jan. 22 in a collision with Syd Howe in Detroit, has been skating lightly for the last few weeks and may be ready for action against Toronto Maple Leafs Saturday.

Holdouts May Be Traded

Dutch Leonard — Buck Newsom — Rudy York

According to reports, the Washington Nats and the Detroit Tigers may seek a solution to one of their holdout problems by trading players. The Nats, it is reported, would trade Pitcher Dutch Leonard to Detroit for the slugging Rudy York and Pitcher Buck Newsom. All three are holdouts.

Two Longshots In Miami Golf

MIAMI, Fla., March 11 — (AP). —Two long-shot combinations—neither rated better than 50 to 1 — reached the finals of the Miami Biltmore's international four-ball tournament yesterday with a pair of dramatic, almost unbelievable victories.

Jack Grout, Pittston, Pa. professional, supplied the big punch for 1,500 spectators when he sank a 60-foot chip shot on the thirty-sixth hole to give his team a one-up decision.

Herman Keiser of Akron Ohio, managed a hot-putting streak earlier in the afternoon and he and his partner, Chandler Harper of Portsmouth, Va., blasted out the 1941 winners—Ben Hogan and Gene Sarazen, 5 and 4.

Two Down, Four to Go.

With only four holes to go, Grout and Ben Loving the Biltmore pro, were staring defeat in the face. They were two down, after Jimmy Hines of New York and Willie Goggin of San Francisco had fired an amazing 29, six under par, on the first nine of the afternoon round.

Then Grout took command to save the day. He knocked in a four-foot putt on the 563-yard 33rd for the birdie four that won the hole when Goggin's putt slid past.

Grout smacked his second shot on the 400-yard 34th seven feet from the pin. He made a perfect putt.

They halved the 396-yard 35th in par 4's, and the stage was set for Grout's coup de grace. He was short of the green with his second on the 479-yard 36th, while the others all were over.

Hines Almost Did It.

Grout was away and he stroked his chip first. The ball followed the contour of the green, curved and dropped.

With one dying gasp, Hines hit his 50-yard chip to within eight inches of the pin. There was a gasp, when, for a moment, it appeared he had duplicated Grout's feat.

Grout and Loving did the morning 18 in 30-35—65 to go to lunch two up. They turned in a best ball 34-31—65 yesterday afternoon. Hines and Goggin, who carded seven consecutive 3's on the first nine yesterday afternoon had scores of 35-32—67 and 29-35—64.

Perfect teamwork counted again for Keiser and Harper as they knocked the last remaining "name" team out of the tournament.

Each contributed heavily to the 32-31—63 that gave them a one-hole margin on the morning 18. Then Keiser found his touch.

He sank putts of 12, 15, and 20 feet on the 20th, 21st and 22nd to give his team an insurmountable margin.

Y Girls Beaten By Westclox

Westclox, waging an uphill battle, came from beind to defeat Y Gym 13-10 in a hard-fought Ladies' League basketball game at the Y.W.C.A. last night. The Alarm maidens trailed 7-4 at the half, but turned on the heat in the final period and monopolized the play to take the lead near the end and win out. The losers held a slim edge in the first twenty minutes, a big part of their margin resulting from superior shooting. The winners had a good part of the play in that half but missed a lot of scoring chances and found themselves four points down when the half whistle blew. Westclox came back strong after the rest period and began to take advantage of their scoring chances to slowly close the gap and moved into the lead just before the final whistle blew. Both teams checked very hard and play was inclined to be a little ragged with the defenses so tight, but both teams played fairly cleanly, the winners committing nine fouls and 'Y' Gym being called six times. Westclox scored only one of their eight tries and the losers scored four of 12 tries. S. Mortimer F. Bestard and A. Flynn were outstanding for the Westclox and R. Hewitt and I. Young played well for the losers. The teams:

'Y' Gym (10) — I. Young 5, D. Ackford, R. Hewitt 5, R. Sullivan, D. Flynn, D. Bestard, N. Smith, I. Stewart

Westclox (13)— M. Hawthorne 2, A. Flynn 3, F. Bestard 4, S. Mortimer 4, I. Bullock, J. Hair, M. Goldie, M McFadden.

Referee—A. MacDonald.

SPORTS – DAY BY DAY

By FRED D. CRAIG

Unless there is a sudden and severe drop in temperature it looks as if Peterborough fans who want to see the Petes in action against Merritton on Friday night will have to make another trip to Oshawa. Although the weather chilled off a bit yesterday there is little frost in the ice at Brock St. Rink and when the Petes worked out there last night in final preparation for the game in St. Catharines tonight they found that the surface had heaved in several places. As a result it would take several days of cold to build up a proper cushion for Friday night's game, and the Peterborough management is almost afraid to take a chance on the weather. The final decision as to whether the game will be played here or in Oshawa will be made late today. The local club has had little luck in the matter of weather recently and tonight's battle is the fourth in a row away from home. They had to take care of Collingwood in two games on the road and now are facing a similar task in the case of Merritton.

* * * * * *

The Merritton Hayes Steel Redmen who are the Petes opponents in the Garden City Arena at St. Catharines tonight are coached by Scotty Mair, a Toronto boy who went to St. Catharines to play hockey and wound up as the pilot of the Merritton squad. Reports from Merritton say that the Redmen have a Brimsek in the making in the nets in the person of Clements, former Milton goalie and that they have two fast and clever forward lines. Manager Fred Scates and Coach Jimmy Ellis are standing pat on the Petes regular lineup, with Harding in goal, Crowe and Jopling on one defence and Godfrey and Burton the other rearguard combination while up in front there will be the Kingdon-Tompkins-Heal line and the Bennett-Nichols-Blewett trio with Din Reilly, Eddie Starr or Doug Mortimer as the extra forward. All those players along with Johnnie Johnston, sub-goalie, are making the trip. The squad left for the Niagara Peninsula at 1.30 o'clock this afternoon, travelling in five passenger cars with a station wagon for the equipment.

* * * * * *

This, incidentally, is the first time a Merritton team has ever reached the provincial finals in a hockey series. And it will be the first time Merritton and Peterborough have ever clashed in Canada's national winter game. However, the two have met in sport before back in the days when minor league baseball was far more flourishing than it is today. The Peterborough Royals and the Merritton kids clashed in the Ontario midget finals and after splitting even in home and home games played a third game in Toronto which the Peterborough youngsters won to take the title. Months after it was discovered that Peterborough had used a player who was not eligible and the championship was disallowed, with no winner being named.

Not So Hot Here

Two of the Oshawa players who performed for Whitby Palm Billiards against the Petes have carried off the scoring honors in the West Toronto Mercantile League. Right-winger Tom Durling led the loop in scoring with a total of 37 points, made up of 11 goals and 26 assists while centre player Carl Gamble was tops in actual goals scored with 20. If either of these lads played up to their best form against the Peterborough Soldiers then the conclusion is inevitable that the West Toronto circuit is not so hot. Durling in particular did very little in any of his performances against the local gang and looked a very much run-of-the-mine player. Gamble was more effective, although he did not set any rinks on fire either so far as this group was concerned. Perhaps the pair only turned it on in Toronto and coasted in their Whitby dates.

* * * * * *

Frankie Brimsek has the Vezina trophy all sewed up for the second time in his four years in the big show and this time no one will think of begrudging the Boston netguardian the honor. They used to say that Brimsek was lucky and that much of his success was due to the fact that he had a powerful team in front of him. But in recent weeks with the Bruins shot, the Kraut line gone and Dit Clapper, ace defence player out of action, Brimsek has gone right along starring in every performance and showing that he really is a remarkable goalie. In the game at Detroit the other night the Boston defence was wide open and the Red Wings rode through for no fewer than 52 shots at Frankie and yet they were able to beat him only three times. That is goal-minding deluxe and Brimsek has duplicated that performance so often that the hockey public has realized at last that it is not a matter of luck, but of class.

Bruins Cut Loose

That 9 to 1 score that the Boston Bruins ran up at the expense of the Chicago Black Hawks last night not only assured the Rossmen of third place in the race but it must have sent a little quiver of alarm around the circuit. The question that comes up at once is whether the big score was just one of those things or whether it is a sign that the reconstruction of the Bruins is beginning to take form and that the Boston gang may still cause trouble for all and sundry in the playoffs. Running in nine goals against the Black Hawks is not a stunt that is usually done by a weak team and for one night at least the Bruins must have dug into a big reserve of scoring punch to pile up a total like that. On top of that brilliant showing is the announcement that Bill Cowley, play-making centre extraordinary who has been absent from the hockey war since he sustained a broken jaw on January 22 is to return to the game Saturday night at Toronto to pivot Roy Conacher and Eddie Wiseman.

Writes Clayton Browne in the St. Catharines Standard sport column: "St. Catharines puck fans are not going to see Ab Kirby and Don Jeffrey after all. Collingwood went out handily to Peterborough Gunners and in two straight, at 6-4 and 10-2. So it is up to Scotty Mair and his Merritton Hayes Redmen to do their stuff, a la Windsor Spitfires, here tomorrow night in the opening game of the B finals. It is slated as the best-in-five and Hayes need to cop the starter to prevent the title going east again, as it did last year when Kingston Combines were champions. Petes aces are Don Crowe, the noted rugby star of Balmy Beach, on defence, with Honey Tompkins and Nick Nichols up front. Nichols is a former sniper of River Vale Skeeters of the U.S. loop, who was kept home this season by reason of the draft. The Skeeter is apparently potent, as he garnered five points in Collingwood and two goals and two assists on home ice, while Tompkins sniped three registers. Merritton hockey backers have not been doing their Redmen justice with attendance by a wide margin, but claim that every home game has been terrifically bad weather prevailing. What condition will exist tomorrow is not prophesied, but the magnificent effort by Redmen against Windsor surely warrants more than 300, which is the average turnout. If Hayes are to benefit from booster morale, Merritton is overdue in recognition, but there is still time for strong atonement."

Sporting Chili Con Carne: Award of the Lady Byng Trophy to Syl Apps will be applauded everywhere....The Toronto ace has not been penalized this season and has surely earned the honor....Gaye Stewart, drafted by the Leafs from the Toronto Marlboros scored two goals for the Hershey Bears last night while Julian Wade the Peterborough lad with Philadelphia registered one for the Rockets....Jack Adams says the Red Wings have no stars but they are going to be very hard to beat. And he could be right....The Petes have no word as to who will referee tonight's game at St. Catharines....Probably a Hamilton official....Ontario Softball Association has raised $50,000 in various war and charity fund enterprises....Dit Clapper is definitely through for the season....There is no chance of the Hastings boy getting back into action with the Bruins for the playoffs ....Ted Williams has reported to the Boston Red Sox for training, declaring that he expects to take a tough ride from the fans this summer.

Well, It's Started Already

No, you're not in Ebbets Field, Brooklyn, watching a couple of faithful Dodger fans give the enemy the old razzberry. You're in the Dodgers' training camp, though, in Havana, Cuba, and Cuban fans are making the Dodger opponents, the Giants, feel right at home.

Athletics Lose 9 Players To The Draft

ANAHEIM, Calif., March 11 — (AP).—The pity of it all is that Mr. Connie Mack might well have a first division club for the first time since 1933.

It is lamentable to report, then, that the general feeling around the Philadelphia Athletics camp is that the honorable A's will make a determined fight to stay out of the American League cellar for the third consecutive year.

Mr. Mack lost nine men via Uncle Sam's draft. At least three of them, slugging Sam Chapman Benny McCoy and Al Brancato, were figured upon heavily in the Philadelphia plans this year. A fourth, Don Richmond, might have become a sensation.

On the good side of the ledger the venerable Mr. Mack has a fine looking array of rookie pitchers.

"If we can just keep then around for a year I believe we'll have a real club in 1943, and some of these big boys might come through this season."

The Athletics have a good catcher in Frank Hayes. He'll be even better if a knee operation does the trick expected.

The outfield, with Bob Johnson, Dee Miles and Mike Kreevich, rates better than average.

None for Chapman's Shoes

But Sam Chapman, who hit .323, slammed 25 home runs and batted in 105 runs, cannot be replaced.

In reserve behind these three are Eddie Collins, Jr., Elmer Valo and a six-foot rookie named Felix Mackiewicz(who is being tried out at first. Mr. Mack likes this ex-Perdue University boy, up from Wilmington, Del., after one year in pro ball.

Dick Siebert will be back at first, and Crash Davis will replace McCoy at second. Pete Suder probably will handle short, and Louis Blair, a former New York Yankee prospect, will go at third if an injured knee holds up. He was with Newark in 1941.

There are 14 pitchers in camp. Ten, maybe 11, will stay on. The regulars include Jack Knott, Herman Besse, Luman Harris, Les McCrabb, Phil Marchildon and Bill Beckman. It isn't the most impressive hurling corps in the loop.

Two rookies merit marked attention. One if Fred Caligiuri, who won 16 and lost seven with Wilmington. He joined the A's late last year, beating Cleveland and Boston and lost to St. Louis and Washington. The other is Russell Christopher, a righthander who duplicated Caligiuri's 16-7 pitching, but did it with Newark in a far faster league, the International.

Arnovich In Army

Another in the growing list of major league baseball players now serving in the U.S. armed forces is Morrie Arnovich, former outfielder of the Philadelphia Phillies. Owen Leads Pack In Mile Dash Only 5 Finish

(By WHITNEY MARTIN.)

NEW YORK, March 11.—(AP).—Mickey Owen won that 1½ mile race Leo Durocher staged for his Brooklyn Dodgers the other day, which was to be expected as he's had more practice, chasing third strikes and one thing or another,

So that wasn't the surprise. Neither was the time of 9:53.8, as nobody was chasing the players and they couldn't be expected to burn up the course, but particularly as they all had signed their contracts and where they finished would make no difference as to the salary they might receive.

What really was surprising was the fact that only five of these big, robust, he-man athletes could finish the mile and a half. The others dropped along the way like oats from a farm wagon.

We've lots of times wondered just why major league teams went into spring training, aside from a natural desire to get pictures in the papers and to get the fans steamed up so they can hardly wait until the season opens.

The ball players have a pretty easy time of it, everything considered. Their conditioning is a painless process minus the dog-tired fatigue which accompanies training for more strenuous sports.

Not that baseball isn't strenuous. But its not continually strenuous, and doesn't call for extarordinary endurance. A ball players moves by fits and starts, with frenzied momentary activity being followed by long lulls. You don't need to run a mile and a half to be able to sun yourself in the outfield all afternoon, standing first on one leg and then on the other, and occasionally loping in to take a whack at the ball.

So all the stories you read about how hard our heroes are working down south to reach top form you can take with a dash of mustard. They aren't hurting themselves, and if by a gradual process they can arrive at the point where their muscles are firm and they don't pull a tendon when they move abruptly, that's all that is necessary.

GOAL-GETTING, PENALTY-DUCKING APPS WINS LADY BYNG CUP

Gordon Drillon Runs Second Bill Thoms 3rd

(By ROBERT CLARKE.)

MONTREAL, March 11.—(CP).—Syl Apps lets the other fellow take the penalties while he scores goals. And that's one of the reasons why the quiet-spoken centre star of Toronto Maple Leafs holds the National Hockey League's Byng trophy.

The trophy is awarded annually to the player adjudged to combine the best type of sportsmanship with a high standard of playing ability. And it's not difficult to reason out why Apps should be named as the winner. He hasn't been penalized yet this season and he has marked up 40 points through 18 goals and 22 assists.

Apps has established quite a record since he broke into the N.H.L. a half dozen years ago, winning the Calder trophy as the outstanding rookie in the 1936-37 season. He has spent only 34 minutes in the penalty box in all that time and he has been a consistently-brilliant goal getter and playmaker.

The fact that Apps takes few penalties doesn't mean that he's shy of the old moxie. He can handle his fists just as well as the baddest of the bad men in the league. Hockey players, like all athletes, can let loose some pretty choice cuss words on occasion. But the worst that anyone has ever heard Apps come out with is "by hum!" He uses that when he gets really excited.

The announcement that Apps had been named winner of the Byng trophy was made last night by Frank Calder, president of the N.H.L. Calder disclosed the results of a poll of 11 hockey writers in the six N.H.L. cities and the balloting showed that Apps won going away.

The great centre player counted 100 points as the writers named 10 choices, with 10 points being allowed for a first place, nine for a second, an so on down the line. Apps' linemate, Gordon Drillon, took second place with 66 points while Bill Thoms of Chicago Black Hawks, was third with 64. Thirty-one players, in all, were mentioned with Bobby Bauer, winner of the trophy in the last two years while with Boston Bruins but now in the Royal Canadian Air Force, getting only an eighth place vote for three points.

Let Me Through There, Boys

Brants' Protest Disallowed; Shaw Still Out

TORONTO, March 11. — Brantford Lions' protest of an Oshawa victory in the sixth game of the "Big Seven" group final last Saturday at Oshawa was disallowed by the Ontario Hockey Association at a meeting of the O.H.A. sub-committee at the Royal York Hotel last evening.

Oshawa eliminated Brantford in the titular series, but the Brant team contended that Oshawa's 4-3 victory, which had a riotous display in its closing stages last Saturday in the Oshawa Arena, prevented suitable conditions for the concluding minutes of the games.

Coach Tracy Shaw of the home team allegedly parked a right hand punch on the solid chin of Referee "Beef" McKay of Hamilton during the excitement and for this action was automatically suspended. The O.H.A. sub-committee ruled last night that Shaw will stand suspended for an "indefinite" periodand that he can have no part in the coaching of the team, eitrer directly and indirectly. Any evidences of his still doing the serious thinking for the Motor City club will, the committee warned, result in the team's immediate suspension from the playoffs.

Furthermore, the committee ruled if the Oshawa Hockey Club cannot bring about a less belligerent atmosphere to its hockey shows, it stands in danger of losing all future Ontario Hockey Association affiliations.

The O.H.A. censured the Oshawa club in one section of a motion of three parts, with this observation: "Oshawa club be further notfied that the maintenance of order in their rink on March 7 is not as required by the O.H.A., and in the event of a future occurrence of a like nature no future O.H.A. games will be permitted to be played in the Oshawa Arena."

1. On the ground advanced by the Brantford club the O.H.A. subcommittee at its meeting at the Royal York Hotel disallowed their (Brantford) protest of the Junior "A" playoff game in Oshawa Saturday, March 7.

2. The subcommittee ruled that Tracy Shaw, Oshawa club coach, remain indefinitely suspended for striking Referee McKay and refusing to leave the rink on Saturday, March 7. And that the Oshawa club be notified that if Shaw is directing the team, directly or indirectly, in any future games, the Oshawa club will be suspended.

3. Oshawa club be further notfied that maintenance of order in their rink on March 7 is not as required by the O.H.A., and in the event of further occurrence of a like nature no future O.H.A. games will be permitted to be played in the Oshawa Arena.

Cleveland Barons Hold Lead Blanking Springfield Indians 2-0

(By the Canadian Press.)

The battle for leadoff spot in the Western Division of the American Hockey League standing remained as tight as ever to-day with Cleveland Barons still enjoying sole hold on first position, but only by narrow margins over Indianapolis Capitals and Hershey Bears.

Barons retained their lead when they came through with a 2-0 shutout win over Springfield Indians last night to remain three points in front of the Caps, while Hershey set aside Philadelphia 7-2, to keep only two games off the pace.

Although Barons are conceded to be in a favorable spot, Indianapolis also is in a comfortable position in the fact that it has played two less games than Cleveland and should it bat 1.000 in its remaining games it would get the lead, regardless of what Barons do.

The payoff decision will likely come on Saturday when the Caps meet Barons in Cleveland.

In scoring its win over the Indians last night, Cleveland also established two new league marks—their 33rd victory of the season and a total of 70 points.

7th for Beveridge.

It was wide-open affain in which Goalie Bill Beveridge recorded his seventh shutout of the campaign against Springfield, which has all ready clinched first-place honors in the Eastern Division table.

Slim Fred Robertson scored the first Cleveland goal midway through the initial period on a play with Bill Mackenzie. Then halfway througn the closing period the veteran Joffre Desilets tallied on Les Cuningham's relay from Art Bartholome.

Eleven penalties were handed out and in the third period Bob Dill drew a match foul for leaving the penalty box after he had been given a major penalty for roughing Bud Cook. In the first period, Art Simmons and Sandy Milne were given major banishments for fighting.

Hershey had little trouble in setting aside the cellar-placed Rockets in the Eastern Division. After Stewart, rookie recruit, had broken a 1-1 tie with a few seconds of the first period left, the Bears went all out in the middle period to score five goals without reply from Philadelphia. The second Rocket goal came in the final period of fthe stick of Les Burron.

Stewart and Roger Jenkins each picked up two goals for Hershey with the others going to Gordie Pettinger, Bob Kirk and Vic Lofvendahl. Philadelphia's first goal was scored by Wade.

Ontario Mines Hit Record Of $269,400,434

TORONTO, March 11 — (CP).— A new all-time record of $269,400,434 was reached by producing units of Ontario's mining industry in the year 1941, the Ontario Department of Mines announced Monday. This was despite a drop of approximately $3,000,000 in the value of gold output.

The aggregate value of all minerals was 2.38 per cent. greater than the year 1940 ($263,126,713). Metals appraised at $239,411,730, 89 per cent. of the total, showed an approvement of 2.22 per cent. over comparable figures for the year 1940 ($234,209,927). Gold output was down 2.17 per cent. in quantity and 2.18 per cent in value A decrease of 10.45 per cent in quantity and 2.18 per cent. in value. A decrease of 10.45 per cent in quantity and 9.17 per cent. in value was registered by silver. Increase of 1.34 per cent. in value of non-metallic minerals and 5.05 per cent for clay products and structural materials helped to create the new record output value.

"From all standpoints 1941 was the biggest year registered in the comparatively short history of the mining industry of the province," the report states. "The demand of the United Nations upon industry increased as the months passed. The nickel-copper industry of Sudbury took appropriate measures in 1940 to supply Britain, Canada and the United States with nickel by launching a three year development program at Sudbury, the cost of which was estimated at $35,000,000.

"There was no serious lack of labor in the mining camps, although at Kirkland Lake friction between employer and employee over the question of union recognition was a major contributing factor to the drop in the gold output. As the year progressed it was evident that the problem of supplying the mines was becoming more acute."

tial price from 70 cents to 90 cents a bushel. An amendment was moved by Rev. T. C. Douglas (C.C.F. Welburn), which would have the effect of shelving the measure temporarily at least.

This amendment was that the bill be not read a second time but that the House declare that "the disregarding by this parliament of the modest representations made by Western agriculture for a parity price for all agriculture products and an initial payment of at least $1 a bushel for No. 1 Northern basis Fort William is contrary to the peace, order and good government of Canada."

Last month a delegation of Western farmers and citizens representing the wheat-growing interests visited Ottawa 400-strong and asked for parity prices on all farm products—that is prices that would compare with what the farmers had to pay for what they bought—and an initial price of at least $1 a bushel for wheat.

Mr. Gardiner said the Government had arranged parity prices on some farm products, and on most farm products the prices were close to or well above parity prices.

Call For Lights

LONDON, March 11—(CP Cable) —The Daily Express Monday linked its editorial demands for an offensive spirit with a suggestion that the blackout be lifted from the streets of Britains cities.

"The new-born spirit of attack gets a nightly douser from the safety first spirit of the blackout," the paper said.

"It would not take labor from the war effort to light the streets.... We should get the cost of street lights back many times over in the power to fight."

Underwent Bombing

Lee Thomas, two-and-a-half years old, is shown as he arrived at La Guardia airport en route to live with his grandparents in Washington. Lee, whose father is in the Customs service in Honolulu, was at home, near Hickam Field, when the Japanese made their sneak raid on December 7. He wasn't the least bit frightened.

fire, leaving another "large ship" burning, and scoring several direct hits on a warship.

The warship was believed to be either a cruiser or a large destroyer.

Then, it said, still more attacks "recorded further hits and near misses." Except for a transport mentioned specifically as having been seen "listing heavily and on fire," the communique did not make clear whether these new blows were on the same bombed earlier.

It said only:—

"When the aircraft left the target area one ship was burned out and three others were on fire.

"Two of them were sinking and one was being beached."

The burning transport subsequently sank, apparently, since only an oil patch was sighted later where it had been.

Another raid on shipping, of still undetermined effect, was made at Hanisch Harbor, near Finschafen, shortly after the Japanese landed there yesterday.

Australian planes also smashed at Japanese airdromes on New Guinea —only 45 minutes by fighter plane from the mainland—and set fire to a moored four-engined Japanese flying boat off New Britain.

Japanese air blows on Buna, Australian-held port on the New Guinea coast south of Salamaua, were believed to have inflicted only inconsequential damage.

Army Minister Francis Forde announced that offensive action had been made the keynote of instructions to the Australian Army, declaring "there should be no more talk of withdrawals."

Mr. Forde said the services of Maj.-Gen. Henry Gordon Bennett, who commanded the Australian Imperial Force in Malaya and has strongly urged offensive tactics, are being utilized in advising the home defenders how to counter Japanese tactics.

He said Gen. Bennett would be given an important army assignment.

It was announced that part of the Australian Volunteer Defence Corps, made up mostly of veterans of the first Great War, is being trained in guerilla warfare.

The Berlin correspondent of Stockholm's Social Demokraten said the cabinet crisis was due to the fact German negotiations had not yielded the "desired results" regarding Hungary's contribution to the Spring offensive.

Confidential advices to London yesterday indicated fear of the mud of Spring thaws and the possibility a Red Army drive from the Leningrad area might penetrate Russian soil had caused Hitler to seek attacks in every sector as soon as possible—this amending an original plan calling for a continued defensive stand in the north and renewal of the drive toward the Caucasus in the south.

Bigger Allied Fleet Looms To Nip Germans

LONDON, March 11.—(CP)—Assignment of Admiral Harold Stark to London as commanding officer of American warships in European waters caused speculation in naval circles yesterday as to whether the United States might be planning to increase its naval strength across the Atlantic.

These sources said they considered it obvious that an officer of such high rank as Admiral Stark would not be sent to London unless some new development of naval importance were in the offing.

If a squadron of American ships moved to this side of the Atlantic, observers commented, the Germans may have to alter their plans for using their battlefleet to sweep the North Atlantic.

Faced with a joint Anglo-American fleet in European waters, they said, the Germans might have to keep their warships in port even after repairs had been finished on the escaped Gneisenau and Scharnhorst.

It has been reported here that the Germans are basing powerful units, including the 35,000-ton battleship Admiral von Tirpitz, at Trondheim in Norway. These ships, it is believed, would be used in an effort to cut the supply route of the Allied Nations to Russia or to protect an invasion fleet sent against Iceland.

MP Battered Up As Fists Swing

OTTAWA, March 11 — J. Albert Pinard, M.P. for East Ottawa, is recovering at his home today from bruises sustained in a fight with Ernest Dufour, private secretary to Hon. P. J. A. Cardin, Minister of Public Works.

The member of Parliament and civil servant had a verbal argument in the Minister's outer office about patronage. It developed into a fight, during which the East Ottawa M.P. is reported to have suffered a severe beating. He was attended by a physician and taken to his home.

It is reported that Mr. Pinard went into the Minister's office to complain that he was not getting fair treatment in the allotment of departmental jobs. He was told politely that "it was none of his business," and to move along. Harsh words were exchanged, and then punches. Members of the House of Commons protective staff rushed to the scene and separated the two men.

No Rules In War

PHILADELPHIA, March 11 (AP) —Jack Dempsey says America's fighting men ought to be trained to "kick, gouge and knee" their Axis enemies. "There are no rules in this war," said the former heavyweight boxing champion, here to referee a wrestling match, "and there'll be plenty of hand-to-hand fighting before it's over." He recommended boxing, wrestling and fencing "as conditioners."

Herb Lean Injured

APSLEY, March 11 (ENS)—Herb. Lean was badly cut on the left arm on Saturday while cutting ice on Silver Lake, he slipped and came in contact with a motor ice saw. He was taken to Peterborough for treatment.

Reunion In New York

Subs Get Bolder

January 12, apparently resulted in heavy loss of life, with a total of 78 still missing.

Sixteen of the 36-man crew of the Gulftrade were picked up by coastguard boats and landed safely at Tompkinsville, State Island, while 22 of 75 seamen and four of ten passengers were rescued from the Cayru.

The captain of the Gulftrade, Torger Olsen of Port Arthur, Texas said his ship was struck a few minutes after he had ordered the running lights put on "in order to avoid a collision with two ships ahead of us."

Sub Cruises Between Halves.

One of seven survivors who remained aboard the stern half of the split tanker until rescued, Chief Engineer Guy F. Chadwick said that after bisecting the Gulftrade the submarine impudently cruised back and forth between the halves for 30 to 45 minutes before disappearing.

"When she came cruising in between the bow and stern," he related, "the men called her names that you couldn't print."

Naval officials here said it took two torpedoes to sink the Cayru, the first failing to explode. It was the fourth Brazilian ship lost in American waters and the government of non-belligerent Brazil prepared to protest a second time to Germany.

In Rio De Janeiro it was believed the latest sinking would speed action of an expected Brazilian decree calling for confiscation of German property there to gain reparations.

Of the Cayru survivors, who for 16 hours battled high seas, gale winds, hail and thunder and lightning in their lifeboat, Otto Alberto Jaegers, a passenger, said everyone aboard got off in four boats after the first torpedo struck in the bow.

"I could see it (the submarine) plainly," he declared. "Two men seemed to be looking out of the conning tower. They called out in broken English with an unmistakable German accent, asking the name of the ship and its destination.

"The submarine then went over by boat number one, which contained the captain, and asked if everybody was off. After receiving an affirmative answer, they went over by the ship and sent the second torpedo amidships, right by the engine room.

"This blew the ship apart and it sunk rapidly."

Artillery Duel

CAIRO, March 11—(CP).—British and Axis artillery exchanged fire on the Libyan front yesterday in support of patrol activity but "there is nothing else to report," British headquarters announced today.

New Barriefield CWAC Camp Ready March 15

KINGSTON, Ont., March 11. — (CP).—Seven green and grey trimmed buildings at the eastern end of nearby Barriefield Military Camp will soon provide accommodation for 200 officers and other ranks of the Canadian Women's Army Corps.

Barriefield is the first of several C.W.A.C. model barracks under construction and is expected to be ready for occupancy by March 15.

The dormitories offer many of the comforts of home. Mirrors are one of the extra concessions made to the C.W.A.C. members whose routine and training will be as strict and intensive as that of the men soldiers located on the other side of Barriefield Common.

Each sleeping hut built on the "H" design is broken up inside to form cubicles. Each cubicle will accommodate two girls.

The cubicles are provided with spacious cupboards and clothing racks, and adjacent are luggage rooms, cupboards, showers and washrooms.

An isolation hospital is located at one end of the sleeping huts, walled off from the rest of the building.

Messing facilities, a recreation centre, quartermaster stores office staff accommodation and officers' quarters will belocated in a building of the double "H" variety.

Early Lake Traffic

WASHINGTON, March 11—(AP). —Interior Secretary Harold Ickes told the Solid Fuels Advisory War Council to-day he expected Great Lakes coal transportation to get started this year by March 26, three weeks ahead of the usual opening date.

"There is going to be an enormous movement of iron ore from the lakes region," he said.

NOTED VISITOR

The Honorable T. A. Kidd of Kingston, Grand Master of the Grand Orange Lodge of British America will visit this city on March 26, Ernie F. Reid reported today. He will be on hand for the anniversary of L.O.L. No. 50, one of the city lodges, which is observing its 34th birthday.

ARRESTED IN TORONTO.

On a warrant issued here Leonard Natelli was arrested by Toronto police Tuesday night on a charge of the theft of a number of orchestral arrangements, valued at more than $25. Detective Sergt. W. E. Meagher went to Toronto this morning to bring the accused back to Peterborough to face trial

DO WITHOUT THEM.

Druggists report that almost daily correspondence from supply houses indicate that some other product is no longer available. Already vacuum bottles, thermos bottles, hot water bottles, syringes, and practically all glycerin have been cut off, and only existing stocks are available to the public. The storekeepers now have to worry about wrapping twine which is becoming scarce.

LADY ASSISTANTS

With the Prince of Wales placed on active war footing, two lady office assistants have been added to the staff at the armoury to aid in listing the men as they sign over to active service from their reserve standing. The ladies are Mrs. H. Howley and Mrs. H. Dowler, both of Peterborough. The office which has been occupied by the recruiting officer for this district has been moved to the medical board room to make way for the Prince of Wales Orderly room. The medical board will sit every day for the present at least, Major R. J. Bolton said today.

STORE IS ENTERED.

Eighteen dollars in cash was the booty obtained by the person or persons who broke into the store of Percy Harrison at Park Hill Road and Water streets.

MILK FOR BRITAIN

Sponsors of the Milk for Britain Fund in Peterborough announced today receipt of $5.00 from the Hall's Glen Women's Institute and $1.00 from Mrs. Mary Shannon.

PASSES OFFICER'S COURSE

2-Lt. Fred R. Duncan of the 4th Field battery R.C.A. (RF) has been notified by headquarters that he passed the practical examinations in the reserve officers course which he tried recently at Brockville.

A LIGHT SESSION.

Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., held juvenile court this morning, but the regular session of police court was brief. A Havelock man, charged with being drunk, succeeded in securing an adjournment for a week.

RETURNED TO OFFICE

Alex Sollitt, former member of the Board of Education, and president of the Peterborough Auto Club was re-elected vice-president of the Ontario Motor League at the annual meeting in Toronto this week. He has been honored with this office several times in recent years.

MAIL IS LOST

Word has been received that a ship carrying mail to Canada from the Old Country has been lost, and there was 906 bags of mail on board. No doubt some of this mail was intended for Peterborough city and district, and the post office gives notice now of the loss to avoid complaints.

GAMES NOT LICENSED.

City Clerk E. A. Outram reported to-day that the City Council revoked its by-law licensing pin ball games in the city about a year and a half ago, after the courts had indicated in a test judgment that the municipalities had no right to license the games. Thus the games in the city are operating because according to the latest rulings they are not contrary to the Criminal Code unless used as gambling devices.

HAS WIDE INTEREST

All people connected with toolmaking, metal fabricating or metallurgy are invited to attend a meeting of the Engineering Institute of Canada, local branch in the Paragon Hall on Thursday evening. The speaker will be Dr. H. B. Osborn, Jr., research and development engineer of the Ohio Crankshaft Company, Cleveland, Ohio. Dr. Osborn served five years in the Chemical Engineering Dept. of the Lehigh University and his talk should interest everyone connected with the trades mentioned above.

SOMEONE IS HONEST

Mary Elizabeth Rowell, a student at Queen Mary School, lost a book containing $3.00 worth of War Savings Stamps which she had been selling a few days ago. With the stamps were three tickets for a play. The following day the young girl discovered the stamps stuck in a post on the street, where they had been placed by the finder, and the same afternoon she found the tickets, also setting on a post. It is likely that the same person found both, and as no names were attached, chose the post as the best place to leave the articles pending the arrival of the owner.

Men Of Omemee Raise $713 For War Funds

Reflecting one of the finest efforts on behalf of war charities from the surrounding district, the Men of Omemee recently united to raise funds to be equally distributed amongst the Peterborough and District British War Victims' Fund, the Victoria County Red Cross Society, and the Soldiers' Aid Society of Omemee. First of all, they sold tickets for a draw on a registered bull by name of 'Ferdinand" and just how they worked can be shown by the sale of 2,819 tickets to yield $645.75 on this one feature, then to climax it all, a hockey game was played which gave a gross return of $83.40 and a dance to wind up the evening's enjoyment produced another $102.40, which with other receipts from sale of the bull at $1 to Mr. Todd, the winner, who donated a further $5 to the cause in cash, and receipts of $30.71 from the lunch room yielded a gross total of $868.26 from the joint events. Expenses covering the whole of these operations amounted to $154.72, leaving net proceeds of $713.54.

To-day is recorded this fund's share in the handsome amount of $237.86 which with only one exception is the largest single contribution to be recorded for the fund this year so far.

D. T. Deyell was the president; T. B. Chester, the treasurer, and L. W. McKenzie the secretary of this most efficient organization which came into being just for this purpose and was so ably backed by all the men of Omemee. Rev. R. M. Patterson, the fund's representative, played a full share in the splendid results obtained, and to them all, the fund management says "Well done," and credits them with being the means of putting the fund substantially over the $38,000 mark.

Some time ago the employees of the Eastwood Construction Company, Ltd., who are engaged on building war-time houses, made quite a substantial donation to the fund, and in to-day's list they are credited with a further sum of $15 to mark their second contribution to help things along for the people of Britain.

To-Night and Thursday

An opportunity to have a good evening's enjoyment with full value for your money, and at the same time help the people of Britain is possible by attendance at the Collegiate Auditorium at 8.15 p.m., to a show given by Charles Colville, professional entertainer from the Garden Brothers' Entertainment Bureau of Toronto, in conjuction with dancing and singing acts by students from the Marion Perry Laird School of Dancing under the title of Young Canadians on Parade, for which the admission fee is only 35 cents; children 20c or two for one adult ticket.

Originally scheduled for Joseph Dean to appear in master magician acts, unfortunately this part had to be deferred to a later date on account of the sickness of Mr. Dean, and through the kindness of friends at the Canadian General Electric Company, Mr. Colville will supply as a magician, singer and accordionist in his place.

Admission may be either by tickets already procured for the original event or by paying cash at the door, where tickets are available.

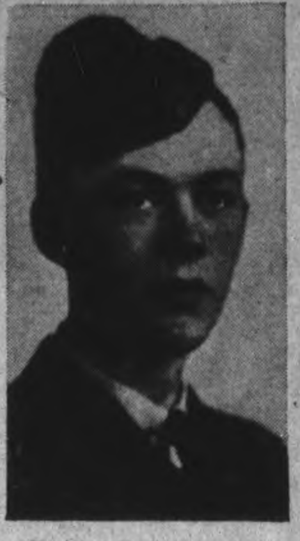
Enlists In R.C.A.F.



The latest Hastings boy to join the R.C.A.F. is L.A.C. Paul Coughlan, son of Mr. and Mrs. T. A. Coughlan. He enlisted January, 1942, and is stationed at Clinton, Ont. Paul attended Separate school in Hastings and later went to Campbellford High School. He was recently employed in his father's drug store.

Cyclist Suffers Facial Injuries

Joseph Kennedy, 421 London street, suffered facial injuries this morning when he was knocked off his bicycle in front of Zeller's store by an automobile and thrown heavily to the pavement.

Kennedy was riding his wheel south on George street and had almost reached the Simcoe street intersection when a southbound automobile, driven by Robert Garvey struck his bicycle and tossed him off.

A medical examination showed that in addition to abraisons on his face and nose the cyclist had suffered a hemmorrhage of an ear.

Church Y.P.U. Club To Sponsor Play

CAMPBELLFORD, March 11.—(ENS—A talk on Korea was given by Mrs. G. N. Maxwell as the principal feature of the weekly meeting of St. John's Y.P.U. on Monday evening. The speaker touched on various aspects of the life and geography of this country which prior ot the war was rated as an important mission field. Vice-president Roy Young was in charge of the meeting and he was assisted with the devotional exercises by Bernice Lisle and Helen Young at the opening, and Mrs. Harold Twigg contributed a vocal solo. Following the meeting members of the executive met and they decided to sponsor a play "That Watkins Girl" which has already been successfully presented by the Ivanhoe Young People's Union which plans to stage it here. March 23rd has been set as the date for this entertainment to take place in the church basement. Glen Maxwell and Jack Bleeker will be in charge of next week's meeting.

4th Brigade Officer On Atlantic Command

Major E. G. Whitaker, adjutant of the 4th Field Brigade, R.C.A. (RF), with headquarters in Peterborough, has been struck off the strength on transfer to Halifax where he will serve with the Atlantic Command. Formerly officer commanding the 45th Field Battery (RF) in Lindsay, Major Whitaker has been attached to the Brigade staff for almost a year, serving under the late Lt.-Col. C. T. Peterson and lately under Lt.-Col. D. J. Lawrie.

Two other ranks of the Brigade staff, R.Q.M.S. James Weyer and Staff Sgt. C. J. Perdue, are reporting to Kingston next Monday for a two weeks' A. and T. staff refresher course.

Department Is Asked For Ruling Nursing Service For Collegiate

The Board of Health is going to seek a ruling through its officer of health, Dr. Douglas Avison, to learn if the Collegiate could be taken in by the health committee of the Board of Education for nursing services. The matter came up Tuesday night at a meeting of the Board of Health when Dr. Avison broached the subject.

"Under a provincial health act ruling in 1937, no more schools were allowed to start their own health services but whether this would apply to the set-up here is not quite clear," said the doctor. "Much better results could be obtained with older students than with children in the grade schools. Every older boy likes to think he's an Adonis and the girl a Venus.

As a result they are more health conscious. They watch their teeth and general health because they are old enough to appreciate what good health means."

Unification of Services

Dr. Avison reported there is a trend toward unification of all public health services in Ontario cities. He said a recent report showed the cities having all health services under the city Board of Health are about half of the total number. "The Board of Education here is doing a good job within its limits but there is a good deal of waste effort since the population is so intermingled and records are distributed in the city. There is a distinct necessity for unified health services.

City clerk E. A. Outram read a letter from the Board of Education offering the services of two of the school nurses to spend one month each with the city Board of Health during summer holidays. The offer was accepted. "To the nurses, this represents a sacrifice because they were hired with the understanding they would have summer holidays between school terms." said the M.O.H.

"But under a unified system, there would be no Christmas and Easter holidays and not more than two or three weeks in the summer time allowed them."

Sanitary Inspector Ronald MacPherson told the board there are three houses on Gilchrist street with no sanitary conveniences. He said when he went to investigate the report, he went to the back door of one of the dwellings and had to climb over a pile of garbage to get into the house. Conditions were very bad inside, he reported. Bed bugs were much in evidence and the place was generally filthy. The board will ask city engineer Roy Parsons to investigate the possibilities of bringing sewerage within reach of the dwellings.

"The dirt outside and filth inside was not the fault of no sewer connections," said Mayor James Hamilton. "No it was not," said Mr. MacPherson. "The other two houses were not in nearly so bad a condition."

Dr. Avison's report showed that Queen Mary Hospital was crowded all last month, the highest number of cases in at one time being 30.

Basic ARP Course Attended By 400 Citizens Will Conclude With Next Sunday's Lecture

Another course in basic training in air raid precaution work will start on March 22 and March 23, and a series of five lectures will be given, for newcomers, and for those who either started late on the present course, or missed a few lectures during the course. The lecture next Sunday in the Lyceum on Simcoe street is the last of the present series. Close to 400 have been attending these lectures weekly.

Sunday's lecture will be given by D. J. Emery, of the engineering staff of the C.G.E. Company, and the program will be under the direction of Ross Robbin, who is air raid warden in charge of public utilities. The subject will be Protection for Supplies and Homes Against Gas, and it will deal with ways and means of preventing the gas from contaminating food supplies.

A call is being sent out to every man in the city to enroll at once in one of the three main services in the city, as there are several vacancies to be filled. Men are needed as first aid workers, and volunteers for this branch can obtain applications from the Medical Officer of Health or from either of Dick Raine's stores.

Male firemen between the ages of 30 and 50 are wanted and these men should be in fair physical condition. Application should be made at the Fire Hall.

City Engineer R. H. Parsons, chief of transportation, needs volunteer truck drivers, who will train in the A.R.P. set-up, and he also needs more light trucks in the program. This means that owners of trucks who would permit them to be used in an emergency should register them with the City Engineer, so that it will be known the number available.

William S. Edgar Named Editor Montreal Paper

His appointment is announced in the Monitor as follows: W. S. Edgar, resident of Monkland avenue, has been appointed editor of the Monitor.

Mr. Edgar who is a native of Scotland, started regular newspaper work on the Evening Examiner of Peterborough, where his father, the late Rev. W. S. Edgar, was minister of the Gilmour Memorial Baptist church. In 1928 he came to Montreal as editorial writer for the Montreal Weekly Witness and chief editorial assistant to the late Dr. J. R. Dougall. In 1932 he was made executive editor of the Witness. He comes to the Monitor from the Montreal Gazette where he was on the telegraph desk for the past three years and a half.

In Montreal Mr. Edgar also acted as correspondent for the Daily and Weekly Star of Toronto, the Peterborough Examiner and the Jewish Telegraphic Agency of New York. He has contributed editorials, general articles, book reviews and short stories to numerous publications in Canada, Great Britain and the United States.

Mr. Edgar holds a B.A. degree from McMaster University and an M.A. from McGill University. At intervals during studies he worked as a harvester in Western Canada and as a lumberman, road maker, bridge worker and gold miner in Northern Ontario and Quebec, and sent articles based on his experiences to newspapers in Glasgow, Scotland.

Elizabeth Parker

The theme of the March meeting of the Elizabeth Parker Auxiliary of Trinity Church was "The Covenant Of Our Faith." The decotional period included the Apostles creed given in unison by the members, the Statement of Faith given by the president, Mrs. O. Smith, and three readings by Mrs. W. Head, Mrs. H. Beatty and Mrs. C. Richardson, which explained the meaning and significnance of the Lord's Supper, and prayer by Mrs. O. Smith.

The chapter of the study book, "The Chinese Church Comes of Age," was interstingly reviewed by Miss Greta Giles. Mrs. H. A. Mitchell sang the lovely song, "Leave It With Him."

During the business session that followed three afghans were displayed that had been completed during the month to be sent to Britain. A social half hour closed the meeting.

LOSES HIS RUBBERS

A well known local banker, making a tour of inspection of Wartime Housing north of Parkhill Road on Tuesday had a mishap. He stepped on an open manhole which was covered with snow, and dropped down to his waist in the snow. His two colleagues, Ross Dobbin and Stan Longhurst, threatened to leave him there until Bill Foley brought the tow truck, but he finally prevailed on them to give him a lift out. When he got back on firm ground, he discovered his rubbers had been left behind. They are still in the manhole.

Illustrated Lecture Is Given On China

CAMPBELLFORD, March 11 — (ENS). — An illustrated talk on China Missions was given by Rev. J. R. Bick as the highlight of the weekly meeting of the Tabernacle Church (English Line) Y.P.U. on Monday evening. The program brought home clearly to the gathering the amount accomplished in this particular field during the past few years. An interesting anecdote told by Mr. Bick in connection with the lecture was in connection with a Chinese girl whose mother spirited her secretly away from home (though she lived in a large West coast Canadian city) for fear that her father would arrange a "child's marriage" for her. According to the story, this girl whose name was Victoria Chung, was educated in Canada and returned to her native country as a doctor and is now at the head of one of the large hospitals in occupied China. The speaker pointed out that this girl's work was now even more important among her own people than that being done by foreigners since she was able to go where they could not and inspire great confidence.

President Alex. Stephens presided for the meeting and he announced that Rev. George A. Williams of the United Church Mission office in Toronto would be guest speaker on March 16. A joint meeting at which Hoards and Zion Young People will be guests of the Tabernacle group at a banquet is being planned for March 23, it was revealed. Presidents of the three groups have already met to arrange program details and the W.A. of Tabernacle Church has agreed to assist the Young People in providing the supper.

10,707 Subscribed To Victory Loan

A few more subscriptions to the Second Victory Loan came in on Tuesday and the total now has jumped up another $4,000 to a grand total of $3,037,650, and it is possible that today and tomorrow may bring in sufficient subscriptions to reach the $40,000 over the $3,000,000.

So far there have been 10,707 individual subscriptions which means that one person out of every 4.1 in the whole county subscribed for bonds. During the successful loan last June, the total number of subscribers was 5,273 or one in 8.4 of the population.

Sinkings Off Scotia

OTTAWA, March 11.— (CP) — Ships have been sunk "not far distant from the Nova Scotia coast," Navy Minister Macdonald told the House of Commons Tusday.

He was replying to a question from Clarence Gillis (C.C.F. Cape Breton South) who asked if it was true there had been recent sinkings "within sight of Nova Scotia," and what steps were being taken to protect the coast and shipping lanes.

Prices Board Names William E. Foley

TORONTO, March 11.—(Special) W. E. Foley, for many years associated with the piano business and more recently partner in the firm of Foley and Wilson, Nash Sales and Service, Peterborough, has been appointed local representative, Peterborough sub-region, Wartime Prices and Trade Board, according to an announcement made today by George H. Rennie, prices and supply representative of the Board in the Central Ontario Region.

The Central Ontario Region will open an office of the Board on Monday at 159 Hunter street, Peterborough. In doing so the Wartime Prices and Trade Board will take over the premises recently occupied by the Victory Loan Committee. The office will handle all problems of the consumer, retailer and manufacturer, in regard to goods and services and so far as they relate to price control in Peterborough and the surounding district.

Mr. Foley who is well known in his home community was born in Peterborough and attended public and high schools there. At an early age he joined th J. M. Greene Music Company as salesman; he was promoted to be local manager of the company in Lindsay where he spent four years, and later was sales manager of the firm in Peterborough.

In 1928 he joined the Heintzman Piano Company and in 1932 left that firm to go into partnership in the motor car business known as Foley and Wilson. He is on loan from that Company to the Wartim Prices and Trade Board for the duration.

Steel Shingles Are Ripped From Barn

LAKEFIELD, March 11— (ENS). —The high winds on Monday stripped nine or ten large steel shingles from the roof of H. J. Abbott's barn. Fortunately although some had been carried for some distance into a nearby field, they were not twisted to such an extent as to be useless for the roof.

On the farm of B. I. Dench a 16-foot door was lifted from the track on which it hung and broken. Both doors were fastened securely, but only one was lifted off the track, the other one flying in and out in the wind.

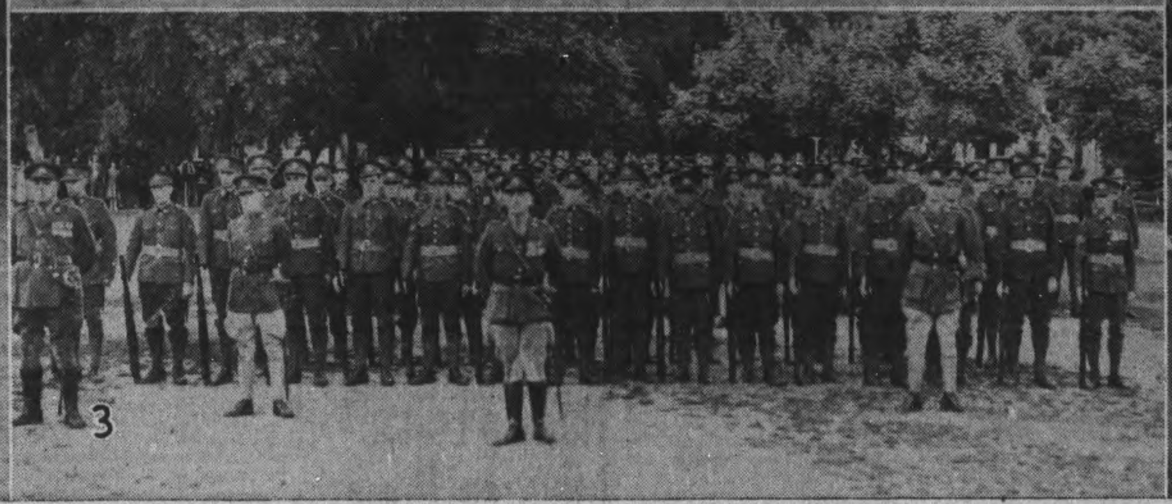
RANGERS HAS FOR YEARS BEEN TOP-RANKING UNIT IN M. D. 3



Answering the call to "battle stations," members of the Prince of Wales Rangers now recruiting for active service have a splendid record to maintain. In the layout of pictures ABOVE, is a typical scene during inspection of this well-known Peterborough county unit, at which the local soldiers won words of high praise from top ranking officers from M.D. 3 headquarters. Officered by men who had the confidence and goodwill of every soldier in the ranks, the regiment has time and again reached a state of efficiency that would do credit to a unit on the field, and this state of affairs should do much to fill the ranks in a short time. In TOP CENTRE is a shot of the Prince of Wales Rangers Band, and directly below the band is a picture of the regiment standing at ease following the general salute. On the right is Lt. Gordon Dobbin with the colors, and on the left Col. J. A. Dewart, M.C., E.D., officer commanding the Rangers, stands with Hon. Lt.-Col. Morrow and the inspecting officer.

Officers Always Sought To Have Highly Efficient Unit Both In Times Of Peace And War

Anonouncement from Ottawa on Tuesday that the Prince of Wales Rangers (Peterborough Regiment) had been ordered to mobilize for active service at once stirred the hearts and minds of active members, former officers, and citizens in general whose hopes and pride have been centred in this determined and strictly local regiment, which has held toegther as a unit down through the years, maintaining itself as a top-ranking Militia unit when public approval and assistance hit its lowest ebb.

The long-awaited news was not exactly a surprise for the great and growing danger of totalitarion ruthlessness have crept close to our shores, until now our very homes and property stand practically under the imminent threat of aerial bombardment or even actual invasion of the Dominion of Canada.

The need for more men and the highly mechanized tools of modern warfare has impressed itself on the hearts and minds of every man, woman and child in Canada, and many young men eager to enlist have been chafing at the bit, hoping that Ottawa would see fit to call out the unit that is as much a part of Peterborough os the men who fill its ranks.

The call has come, and soon specific orders will go out from the Armouries telling prospective recruits just what is required; soon too, the officer personnel of the unit will be named, and mobilization of this reorganized regiment with its colorful, daring, and glorious background of achievement will proceed apace.

Notable Record.

The history of the Rangers is the history of Peterborough, for the unit had its beginning way back when this community was mushrooming from a few scattered homes and industries into a gangling town in long pants. Ever since those far-distant days, the Militia units have preserved a continuity of service symbolic of loyalty to the Motherland, and each time invaders, usurpers, or international gangsters have threatened the ideals of freedom, liberty and honor embodied in the British Lion, men from the Peterborough Militia have been among the first to rally to the colors.

Every war, skirmish, or threat of danger has seen the men of Peterborough County ready to stand against the foe, and the Department of National Defence has every reason to look with pride at the magnificent contribution which this district has made to Canada's war effort in men money, and the tools of war since that dark day back in September, 1939, when the Nazi horde unleashed its reign of terror over panic-stricken Europe.

Young and old are familiar with the history of the regiment, back to the days when it was known as the 57th Regiment, then the Peterborough Rangers and finally the Prince of Wales Rangers (Peterborough Regiment), M.G. This unit has been for years allied with the Middlesex Regiment of the Imperial Army (Duke of Connaught's Own), and in March, 1938, authority was granted for the affiliation of the Peterborough Collegiate Cadet Corps with the Rangers.

Back in 1936, aside from the artillery Peterborough had the following units: the 3rd Prince of Wales Canadian Dragoons, the Peterborough Rangers, and headquarters and C Company, Canadian Machine Gun Corps. About that time rumors became widespread that National Defence Headquarters was contemplating reorganization of the Non-Permanent Active Militia units and soon this became a reality.

The trend of reorganization throughout the British Army became the pattern for the Canadian Militia, and it took the form of abolishing most cavalry units as such, and substituting armored car and tank units, leaving only such cavalry as is required for divisional troops.

The infantry units also underwent changes and emerged greatly reduced in strength, but containing weapons such as were only dreamed of in 1914-18, every man becoming in fact a trained machine gunner, armed for either a light automatic to each section of infantry or a machine gun for each sub-section of a machine gun battalion.

Following many conferences an amalgamation of the units into an infantry machine gun battalion took place, and the order came through on October 24, 1936, advising that the new unit would come into being on December 15, and would be commanded by Lt.-Col. J. A. Dewart, M.C., the officer then commanding the 4th Battalion Canadian Machine Gun Corps.

The new commanding officer immediately conferred with all senior officers of the three units and a tentative slate of officers was forwarded to hearquarters of M.D. 3 for approval. At this time an officer new to Militia units in Peterborough put in an appearance. He was not however, new to the Canadian Militia, as he had served in France and Flanders as a company commander in the 75th Infantry Batalion, and had on demobilization served in a similar capacity with the Toronto Scottish. He was then Major R. T. E. Hicks-Lyne, M.C.

Thirty-eight officers were named on the complete slate for the new unit, and it is interesting to note that at the present time 22 of these men are on active service.

The slate was as follows:

Lt.-Col. J. A. Dewart, M.C., officer commanding; Major R. T. E. Hicks-Lyne, MC (A.S.) second in command; Major G. R. Melton, adjt. (A.S.); 2nd Lt. Graeme Falkner (A.S.) Lieut. Neil Gemmell (A.S.); Major G. Monkman; Capt. Fred Hart; Capt. D. A. Loomis, M.C. (A.S.); Major J. E. R. Munro; Major G. R. Scott, C.A. M.C.; Capt. S. J. Walsh, C.A. M.C.; Hon. Capt. J. D. Paterson, C.C.S.; Lieut. W. Peryer; Company Commanders, Major R. J. Bolton (A.S.), Capt. D. T. Crawford, Major James Turnbull (A.S), Major H. G. Mason (A.S.). Other officers of the four companies were: Lieut. J. G. Armstrong (A.S.), Lieut. L. C. B. Sorby (A.S.), Lieut. A. M. Hamilton (A.S.), Lieut. J. Duncan, Lieut. R. L. Davidson (A.S), Lieut. J. P. McGrath, M.M., Lieut. Gordon L. Dobbin, Lieut. D. F. Wagar, Lieut. Harry Willis (A.S.), Capt. R. C. Honey, Lieut. L. C. Gilders, Lieut. H. J. Morley (A.S.), Lieut. R. S. Allin (A.S.), 2nd Lieut. M. Clarke (A.S.), 2nd Lieut. H. L. P. Johnson, Major A. R. MacNab (A.S.), Capt. E. F. Sheehy (A.S.), Capt. R. H. Stewart (A.S.), 2nd Lieut. Herb. W. Cardwell (A.S.), 2nd Lieut. A. E. Chalmers (A.S.), 2nd. Lieut. R. H. McClennan.

Ranks Retained

During a meeting held on November 19, 1936, the O.C. advised that all officers would retain their rank, irrespecive of their seniority in the unit. The various disbanding units started to wind up their affairs around the beginning of December. Farewell dinners were enjoyed by all, but were the swan song to many with militia service fulfilled in many cases under war disabilities. They had carried on at a time when funds were low, and militia service was doubly arduous.

One of the most heart-tingling incidents in the peacetime annals of the regiment, an incident unrehearsed came at the last dinner held by the Rangers as a unit, when Lt.-Col. G. G. Winterbottom, M.C., D.C.M., E.D., stepped from the head table and asked Lt.-Col. J. Dewart to take over. "The colonel is gone, long live the colonel—Jack you are the colonel." Thus spoke the doughty warrior who has since gone to his eternal rest, leaving behind a record of military achievement that shines like a ruby in jewelled crown, and this record was tied in with a friendly manner that made Col. Winterbottom, a beloved officer, and an honored citizen.

Lt. Col. Dewart lost no time in getting the new units down to training, and in January of 1937 several officers and N. C. O.'s took a special course, graduating with high marks. Regiment parades were well attended and there was a noticeable definite improvement in the efficiency of the unit. During the summer and fall of 1937 training continued, and a highlight of the year was the visit of the Hon. Ian Mackenzie, then Minister of National Defence.

In May 1938, the unit provided a guard of honor for the late Lord Tweedsmuir, Governor-General of Canada, and in July many attended the summer camp at Connaught Ranges near Ottawa. On September 11, Lt. Col. Dewart took over the command of the 9th Infantry Brigade with the rank of Colonel, and he was succeeded as commanding officer of the Rangers, by Lt. Col. R. T. E. Hicks-Lyne, M. C.

A vigorous training program was carried out during the winter and summer of 1939, and on Sunday, May 21, 1939, 270 members all ranks entrained for Kingston for street lining up duty during the visit of the King and Queen.

Training was stepped up when war broke out in September, 1939, and when certain units were given the call to mobilize for the first division, there was disappointment at the Armouries because the Rangers had been passed by. As the war progressed with all its fury, enlistments in the Rangers climbed, and at the same time two officers, Lts. Davidson and Sorby were transferred to the H. and P. E. Regiment. About 100 N. C. O.'s and men went with the two officers. At this time many members of the regiment were enlisting with other active service units across Ontario.

On June 13, 1940, the Commanding Officer instead of being ordered to mobilize the regiment was authorized to mobilize headquarters and headquarters company from this regiment for the Stormont, Dundas Glengarry Highlanders.

Seventy other ranks of the units, including the cream of the highly trained N. C. O.'s were mobilized with this overseas regiment, and it was but a short time until the Highlanders were up to full war strength, while only a mere skeleton of the Rangers was left.

On July 13, 1940, Col. Dewart resigned command of the 9th Infantry Brigade and again assumed command of the regiment, and another slate of officers was recommended to military headquarters. At this time militia units were allowed to mobilize up to full war establishment and for this reason the units were to be allowed a permanent staff to be known as the administrative and training staff. The following staff was then appointed, Col. J. A. Dewart, officer commanding; Major G. R. E. Melton, adjutant; Capt. Doug Loomis, quartermaster; R. S. M. T. Griffin, assistant instructor; R. Q. M. S. Chate, ass't instructor C. S. M. Burrows, ass't instructor. Sgt. Harold Robson was named orderly sergeant and Pte. K. V. Brown was named orderly room clerk.

Recruiting to war establishment was completed on August 16, 1940, which was the date set for voluntary enlistment in to the N. P. A. M. In the meantime, a modified form of conscription had been introduced which entailed compulsory training for 30 days for all men over 21 years of age.

A two week's camp at the Exhibition Ground from August 26 to September 8 and 550 men all ranks attended camp. Since then however inroads on the ranks and the officer personnel has been tremendous and the units has contributed a steady stream of well trained men to active service units. However enlistments in this reserve units has been high, and a new crop of smart, well educated young officers and non-commissioned officers have been training diligently during the winter, summer and autumn of 1941, and during the winter just passing away parades have been held regularly twice a week with rigorous training in all branches of the new curriculum of army drill.

The call to mobilization finds the regiment in a happy position with a top ranking group of officers, N. C. O.'s and many men of military age who anxious to get into it.

Rangers Have Supplied To Army More Than Sixty Officers

Since the outbreak of the war the Prince of Wales Rangers has fed into the active army more than sixty officers and more than four hundred other ranks. A most notable record for a unit which although suffering this loss of personnel is now ready to be mobilized for active service. The first great drain on the unit came when the Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry Highlanders were mobilizing with the Rangers providing the personnel of the headquarters staff, headquarters company and many of the senior officers of the other companies. Lt.-Col R. T. E. Hicks Lyne, then O.C. of the Rangers, shortly after mobilization took over the command of the Highlanders and his second-in-command, Major James Turnbull, became the secon[d] in command of the active unit. Along with them went senior officers, Majors Allan MacNab and Herbert Mason, Captain Gordon Armstrong and a large number of junior officers.

When Col. J. A. Dewart, M.C., retired from his command of the brigade to assume command of the Prince of Wales Rangers many of the city's finest young men joined the unit, and in the year and nine months many of these have also gone forth as officers in other units on active service.

This have been a constant drain on the unit, but in spite of this, Col Dewart has built up an organization which has been regarded as the finest reserve unit in the district.

Commissions In Active Army Are Granted After Period In Ranks

The policy adopted by the Canadian Army in regard to the granting of commissions has changed considerably since the outbreak of war. Commissions are granted solely on the basis of merit and after a period of training in the ranks. Formerly commissions were given to individuals selected by commanding officers providing they fulfilled the requirements laid down in regulations. After the appointment the newly commissioned officer was required to qualify within a period of two years. Now the procedure is reversed. The candidate must first serve for a period of time in the ranks. Then if he has satisfied his company commander that he is officer material, he may be recommanded to become a cadet. This recommenation must be approved by the Commanding Officer of his unit and also by the District Officer Commanding. When this step has been completed after at least one year's training in the ranks, the candidate is ready to take a course to quality as 2nd Lieutentant. This course is divided into three parts. The first two of these are givven by Reserve Force units at their local headquarters and require attendance at evening classes for a period of several months. For the last part of the course the candidates must take a two weeks' course at the Officers' Training Centre at Brockville.

Since the reorganization of the regiment a little over a year ago, the Prince of Wales Rangers has operated two course of instruction for officers and N.C.Os. At the conclusion of the first course in March 11 officers and 47 N.C.O.s tried the examinations. In spite of the fact that the examination was of unusual difficulty, all the candidates were successful. The second course was completed in December and a third one has been commenced.

Girdled Style will slenderize

A famous designer, Marian Martin, gives you a style tip on how to look more slender! Her Pattern, 9993, has a bodice panel that creates a unique girdled effect accented by the sash in back. This makes your waist and bosom more slim and your hips much narrower. This easy-to-make frock may have revers or not, as you please, and choice of two different sleeves. Contrast revers are optional, too.

Pattern 9993 may be ordered only in women's sizes 34, 36, 38, 40, 42, 44, 46 and 48. Sizes 36 requires 3⅝ yards 39 inch fabric.

Range Pals

A wool winding bee took up the first part of the meeting of the Range Pals on Friday evening at the home of the Misses Daisy and Jessie Bell. The wool was then distributed among the members to knit articles for war refugees. During the short business meeting that followed it was decided to have a Games Night at the home of the Misses Betty and Doris and Mr. Arthur Sayer on Friday, March 20. Honorary members and friends are to be invited and the guests will pay according to weight. The rest of the evening was spent in writing a newspaper, this being done by arranging the guests in groups and giving each group a section to write. When put together these were very entertaining. The next meeting will be at the home of Miss Dorthy and Messrs. Fred and Bill Price on Friday, March 13.

St. Andrew's Y.P.U.

St. Andrew's Young People's Union had their missionary meeting on Tuesday night, when the second chapter of the study book, "Serving With the Sons of Shuh," was read and discussed. To lead up to the address, part of a quotation by Mark Twain, "To the person sitting in darkness" was read. This gave some ideas of the people around the year 1901 and fitted in well with the study book chapter, "The Canadians Are Coming."

During the business period the young people were reminded of the St. Patrick's Party to be held March 17, in the Sunday School Hall, when they will be hosts to the older young people of the congregation and their friends.

Arrangements were also made regarding the coming of Jan Chamberlain on March 24, when she will give her character sketches at the church.

New 'Y' Members Meet

A meeting for new members of the Y.M.C.A. was held last night with G. H. Roper, general secretary, presiding. All attending were newcomers to the city and are from such points as Chatham, Woodstock, Ft. Erie, Regina and closer. Many out-of-town members were unable to be present owing to the fact they are employed at night war work. About 25 were present in all.

Activities of the association were outlined by President Bill Scott of the Friday Night club, Newton Hamilton of the physical department, and Gordon Minty for the swimming department.

Community singing was led by Walter Howell with Jack Marshall at the piano. The program was completed with the showing of a colored movie of this district.

KING EDWARD

That a ramble through the woods and a study of nature, whether it be flowers, birds or animals is a good way to find a rest from worry and care was emphasized by Mr. H. A. Graham as he addressed the Father's Night meeting of the King Edward Home and School Association on Monday, March 9. Many varied and interesting incidents were related by Mr. Graham as he spoke of the habits and mode of living of the small wild animals, such as the squirrel, the beaver and bats. Mr. Graham was introduced by the principal, Mr. Crawford.

A picture of the historic meeting of Prime Minister Churchill and President Roosevelt in mid-Atlantic, was presented to Grade 7 for having the highest percentage of membership in the campaign recently conducted by Mrs. C. Chapman, membership convener, assisted by the teaching staff. The picture was donated by Mrs. E. Adderman.

A report of the lact council meeting was read by Mrs. D. Gregson. Two humorous recitations by Helen Dummitt, a pupil of the sixth grade were enjoyed and Miss Thelma Zavitz delighted the audience with two piano solos. A brief review of current events was given by Mr. D. Crawford, followed by pictures of war and peace-time scenes.

The roll-call showed Mr. McKee's room to have the best attendance of parents. Mrs. E. Adderman moved a vote of thanks to all taking part in the program. Mrs. F. J. Blaby, president, was in the chair for the meeting.

SALLY'S SALLIES

THE STARS SAY . . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Thursday, March 12.

Sudden and surprising opportunities, with far-reaching and radical influence on the future and its fortunes are among the excellent auguries operating on this day. The effect may be deep-seated and permanent in its reactions on the various departments of life. There may be travel, adventure, romance, as well as promotion, honors, fulfilled ambitions, with probable inheritance.

Those whose birthday it is may be assured of a year of surprises and adventures, operating in all phases of its life. business. financial, cultural, as well as romantic and domestic. These may be unforeseen as well as logical sequences of prior events, but will be dramatic and far-reaching.

A child born on this day should be able to win high favor with its elders and superiors as well as surprising benefits at the hands of beneficent Fate. It should also attain position and fortune by its sound abilities, ambitions and gracious character.

Mission Circle Holds Meeting

Mrs. A. Wilson, Westcott street, was hostess to the girls of the Jean Wagar Mission Circle, when they gathered last night for their March meeting, which was well attended.

With the president, Dorothy Martin, in the chair, a varied missionary program was enjoyed by the members.

The National Anthem opened the meeting and was followed by the appropriate poem, "A Young Airman Speaks" by Doreen Berwick. Also in keeping was the vocal solo, "The White Cliffs of Dover," with guitar accompaniment by Shirley Watkins. Prayer for our nation and our empire was offered by Connie Wagar.

The worship service was arranged and led by Jessie Martin and was based upon the theme "The Lord's Supper." The hymns chosen emphasized this keynote as did the Scripture lesson, which included the versions of both St. Luke and St. Matthew, concerning the institution of this covenant, and which was read by Lottie Leggett. The Apostles' Creed was repeated in unison and prayer offered by the leader.

The business session included plans for a supper meeting to be held on April 13th, and it was decided that the Circle undertake some definite form of war work.

Temperance was introduced in a brief, interesting reading, by Vera Leggitt, while Mrs. Wesley Rose presented the month's study from "The Sons of Shuh." The highlights of the first three chapters were reviewed noting especially the accomplishments of our missionaries toward raising Chinese standards of living. Interesting facts and incidents from the fourth chapter were related showing that lives are being built in China which will count for Christ.

An unusual "Peace" contest proved a real brain-teaser, with Gladys Langton and Jean Hammond the winners. Assisting the hostess in the service of refreshments were the following committee members, May Rosborough, Vera Leggitt and Gladys Rutherford.

St. John's Sr. W.A. Hears Of Medical Missions

In spite of the stormy weather there was a very good attendance at the devotional and business meeting of St. John's Senior branch of the W.A., Mrs. Cruthers presided at the meeting. After the opening hymn, Canon W. P. Robertson led in the prayers and Litany, and continued with his talks on the Lord's Prayer.

Mrs. Groombridge, Dorcas convener, reported the bale packed and sent away last week and the president expressed her thanks to this department for their work.

The forthcoming visit of Miss Carruthers, Field Secretary of the Girls' Work Board was discussed and plans were made for the meeting to be held on March 29.

The resume of the Monthly meetings of the Diocesan W.A., compiled by a former member of St. John's W.A., Mrs. M. Budd, who now lives in Toronto, were read. Tribute was paid in these oBard notes to another Peterborough woman, Mrs. Gossage, who visits Christie Street Hospital regularly, and has done so for many years. The Diocesan W.A. intends to recognize her work in some tangible form at the approach-annual meeting and St. John's W.A. is proud to have a share in this.

The discussion of the study book chapter for this month, "The Offspring and Outgrowth of Medical Missions," was taken by Mrs. J. Cridland. Mrs. Cridland dealt briefly with this, showing that the medical missionary can and does receive much help from his trained native assistants, who can give the highest service if they have received Christian training.

The variety and appalling prevalence of tropical diseases is great and both money and prayers are needed urgently.

After some discussion the meeting adjourned and tea was served.

Annual Life Member Meeting Of George Street W.M.S.

The annual life member meeting of George Street W.M.S. was held Tuesday afternoon in the board room. While the members were gathering Mrs. W. R. Purdy played sacred music softly on the piano.

Mrs. A. F. Lane read a letter from the Presbyterial president, Mrs. F. W. K. Harris, thanking the members for their loyalty and asking for greater effort in trying to solve the world's difficulties and to remember the Society's motton, "The World for Christ." The reports showed a balance of $59.09 in the bank. The community friendship committee showed a total of 53 calls in homes and six hospital calls and the sick and visiting committee reported 78 calls during the month. The George Street W.M.S. has 40 life members who had charge of the meeting and made a contribution in place of an annual fee.

Mrs. B. Manning, temperance secretary, gave a report of an address by Rev. W. H. Sedgewick of Vancouver on the temperance situation, to the effect that it seems strange that nothing can be done about this great evil that is draining the national strength in so many ways.

Mrs. W. Macmillan read the Bible lesson and Mrs. J. C. Wood led in prayer. Mrs. C. Renaud played a piano selection, "Nearer My God to Thee," and Miss E. Might reviewed the third chapter of the Study book, "Serving with the Sons of Shuh." The president opened and closed the meeting with prayer.

FAULTS ALWAYS STAND OUT SO DON'T BE BLIND TO THEM

There Is Always Ample Evidence as to the Kind of Wives or Husbands Women and Men Will Be.

AMONG the tens of thousands of letters that come annually to my desk in which every phase of the troubles of matrimony is discussed, nothing is so strange as that the faults in their mates of which husbands and wives most frequently complain are blemishes which must have stuck out like a sore thumb during the days of courtship, and how those who were taking on these men and women for life partners failed to observe their peculiarities in time to save themselves, passes all comprehension. We think of marriage as being unhappy as the result of cruelty, of infidelity, of coldness, or laziness and shiftlessness on the part of one or the other of the high contracting parties. But where one marriage fails because of some crime that the husband or wife has committed against the other, a hundred fail because of some disagreeable personal peculiarity of the other that got on a husband's or wife's nerves. Undoubtedly the alibi of these disgruntled husbands and wives is that they were deceived, and that they never

SUNLIGHT'S
"EXTRA-SOAPINESS"
for the extra dirty parts

CLOTHES get badly soiled in the same difficult places week after week. Pillow cases are dirtiest where sleepy heads have rested . . . shirts at the collar bands and cuffs. Almost everything in the wash has extra soiled parts which require an additional soaping to get them really clean.
Any soap—bar, powder or flakes—will remove the general dirtiness. But much of the grime clings tightly, and only the Sunlight method of washing will remove it. Sunlight has a wonderful "extra-soapiness" which enables you to get right at the extra dirty spots at once. Just apply lightly—scarcely more than a mere touch—and you leave a film of soap right in contact with the dirt. And because it is Sunlight Soap this film is sufficient to loosen the last tiny speck of stubborn grime.
In the rich Sunlight lather every particle of dirt is carried away, yet its action is gentle—safe for the finest materials. It is all good pure soap—and that purity means perfect safety for everything in the weekly wash. It's gentle to your hands, too.

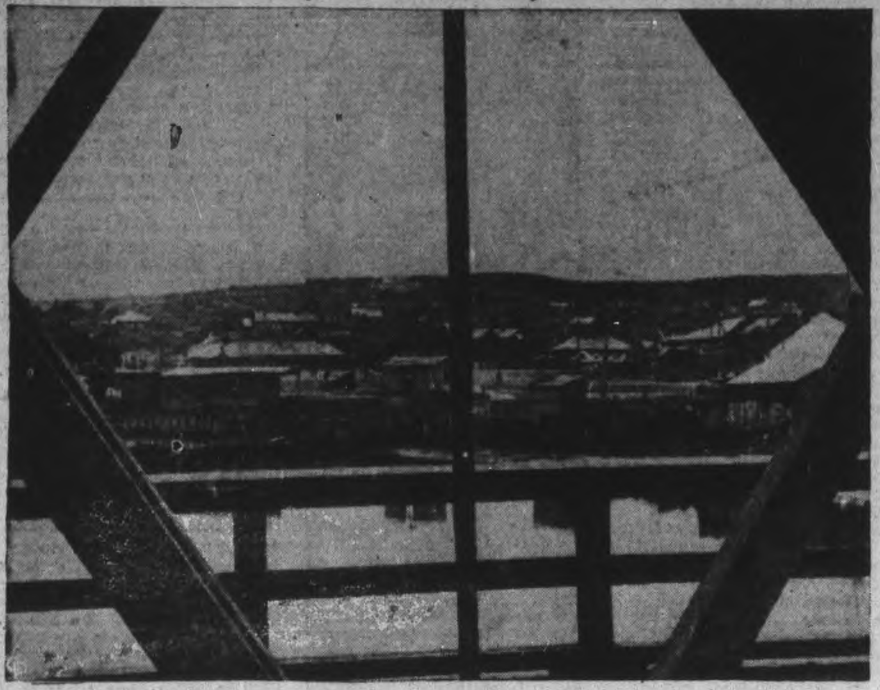
WINTER TAKES ITS TOLL BOTH IN RUSSIA AND ON THE ATLANTIC

Where The Soviet-Jap Blow-Off May Occur



A view of the town of Alexandrovsk on the Russian-held portion of Sakhalin island which, according to broadcasts from Moscow, is becoming the scene of bitter differences between the Soviet and Japan. The island would make an excellent base for operations from the air against Vladivostok, and it is reported that Russia has massed troops along the coast opposite it. The government has also ordered that all Jap holdings there be sequestered and placed under control of a commissar for alien property. It is possible that they hope to tie up oil production, the exploitation of which was ceded to the Japs in 1926.

Learning The Other Side Of War

King Winter's Camouflage For Atlantic Patrol

Sailors with appropriate tools are chopping off the ice that covered an Atlantic patrol ship from stem to stern. This icy covering give a convincing idea of what they are going through on convoy duty in an effort to clear the Atlantic sea lanes of enemy submarines.

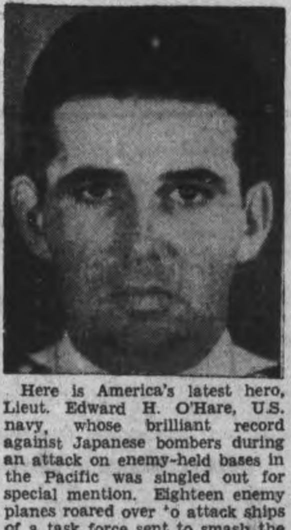
Got Six Planes



Here is America's latest hero, Lieut. Edward H. O'Hare, U.S. navy, whose brilliant record against Japanese bombers during an attack on enemy-held bases in the Pacific was singled out for special mention. Eighteen enemy planes roared over *o attack ships of a task force sent to smash the bases and sixteen of the bombers were shot down. O'Hare accounted for no less than six of the enemy planes single-handed. He is from St. Louis, Mo.

Blames Industry

On trial at Riom, France, with other former leaders accused of responsibility for France's defeat, Guy La Chambre, former air minister, charged that French industrialists openly and bitterly opposed all his efforts to modernize aircraft production, and the French general staff with complete ignorance of the use of aviation in modern war. His evidence was similar to former War Minister Edouard Daladier's who told of opposition and even sabotage by arms manufacturers when speed-up of production was attempted.

Re-union In Chungking For China's Leading Family

China's famed "Soong sisters," all powerful members of a powerful dynasty which has had much to do with growth of the Chinese republic, are pictured in Chungking along with Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek, husband of the most famous of the trio, Mme. Chiang Kai-shek, who is at the LEFT. Next to her is Mme H. H. Kung, wife of China's minister of Finance, and at the right of the generalissimo is Mme. Sun Yat Sen, whose late husband was the founder of modern China. Picture was taken after Mme. Chiang had reached Chungking from Hong Kong, as the British stronghold fell, and just before Gen. Chiang Kai-shek left for his visit to India.

Nazi Wolves In She's Clothing

Result of Goebbels' recent plea for all kinds of warm clothing is this weird sight. Two men of the Nazi forces which have their hands full with the Russians and the Russian winter, are shown clad in a strange assortment of clothing—refugees from a rummage sale. Some hefty hausfraus—now shivering no doubt—furnished those woollen gowns, which are ample enough to fit over the soldiers' overcoats. One of these nifty Nazis even sports a fur tippet. Layers of cloth wound over his shoes protect his feet.

Two Of Eleven Saved From Destroyer

R.C.A.F. Ground Crew Prepares Some More Prize Packets For Germany

This might be a bleak winter scene on any Canadian airport; actually it is "somewhere in Britain" with a big Wellington bomber being prepared for a bombing patrol while winter winds whip sleet and snow across the airfield. Only Canadian touch is lent by the R.C.A.F. crew who are right at home in this kind of weather. They are loading the machine with big bombs to be dropped on Germany or occupied Europe. Big raid made by the R.A.F. on Nazi-operated factories in the Paris area was featured by work of Canadian crews and the raid is expected to be followed with a new aerial offensive against the Hun.

Negroes And Whites Stage Riot

Detroit police are showing wrestling with one of the Negro participants in the riot that flared when a number of Negro families attempted to move into the Sojourner-Truth federal housing project. Five Negroes were injured in the melee, also one white woman and a white policeman. Approximately 450 whites and 250 Negroes lined up in battle array on each side of the street for the battle. Police had to release tear gas bombs to stop it. The housing project has been the centre of dispute for months, problem being whether whites or Negroes should be its occupants. Federal housing authorities recently ruled in favor of the Negroes.

Old Salt Survives Fourth Torpedoing

Thirty-nine survivors who saw an Axis submarine wolf pack sink their ship, the S.S. Marore, were landed safely at Norfolk, Virginia. No one was lost as the three submarines pumped shells into the ill-fated ore carrier—with a torpedo dealing the death blow. Among the survivors was Charles Troisen, 62, shown at the LEFT here. Seeing his ship fall prey to a submarine is an old story to him. He had three vessels shot out from under him by torpedoes in the first world war—the Marore sinking was the fourth such which he survived. Ensign Joseph Sierer, U.S.N.R., of the navy public relations, listens to his story.

ORDERS FROM VIENNA
CHAPTER XXV

The next afternoon Mr. Patterson Lawes at the Burton County Bank carefully polished his glasses and re-read the cablegram that had been handed to him.

Mr. Carter, the assistant cashier, came out of the vault. "What's up?"

"That young Mitchell—trying to be a fool."

"Yes?"

"Cabled orders to turn over that—you know, the Tower estate that was left to him, to Drake McHugh."

"Well, well! Very nice for McHugh."

Mr. Lawes slapped it on the desk. "Well, of all the damned foolishness I ever heard of!"

Randy adjusted the window shade, poked the fire, and made small rustling noises.

Drake spoke finally. "It's no use, Randy, you've got to talk to me sooner or later. Might as well be now."

She came across the room and sat down beside him. "All right. What do you want to say?"

"I still wish you hadn't told Parris."

"How would you like it if something happened to Parris and he didn't let you know?"

Drake hesitated. "I don't know. I hadn't thought of it."

"Well, it's the same thing. Drake, he's your best friend."

"Go on with your wobbly, weak-kneed explanations!"

"That sounds more like you. You see, Drake, from Parris' cablegram how bad he feels that you didn't let him know sooner — about everything."

"Yeh. Maybe that was wrong."

"Well, then."

Drake picked up the message from the counterpane. He had almost worn it out since yesterday reading and rereading it. He looked at it and his mouth quivered a little.

"Gee, he's a great friend, Randy."

"Of course."

"But—"

"But what, now? What?

"This last sentence."

"Yes, I know. What about it?"

"'You and Randy stick together till I get there. We'll work everything out.'"

"I know it by heart," she said softly.

"Of course he doesn't understand."

"Doesn't understand what? What are you driving at, Drake?"

She waited. He did not notice how pale she had become.

"I tell you, Randy, I—I remembered that if you had just a little money there—" His voice faded. "I've heard there was homes you could get into—maybe."

Randy's voice broke harshly against his last word. "Drake McHugh!"

"Why, what?"

"Would you—would you deliberately treat me that way, and Parris, too?"

"I—I don't—"

Drake was looking at Randy with an expression half desperate with his own emotion, and half a puzzled concern for her.

"Then listen carefully. Whatever you say, or however you feel—it's you and me hereafter—together — somehow."

The expression went out of Drake's face. A curious emptiness remained. The look frightened Randy.

"I want you to trust yourself entirely to me for a while until you are well and—" She bit her lip sharply. Almost she had said "up and around again."

Drake half smiled.

"But you see, honey—I can't ever be 'well,' as you say."

"Drake. What has happened is terrible. But you are alive."

Drake turned his face to the wall. It was an old habit from his childhood, but Randy did not know that. She almost held her breath until he turned back again and looked at her.

"Drake, I'm going to tell you something, and I want you to listen until I have finished. It's first of all about what Parris said in that cablegram: 'You and Randy stick together till I get there.' We're going to do that. But I made up my own mind about that long before this—happened. Then after you got hurt I just had to think of how—that was all. Do you remember one time you said something about marrying me? Well, I made fun of the idea because I guess I'd been a little hurt. But later on when you came down here—remember the morning you came to ask Pa to help you get a job? I made up my mind that day that I'd marry you as soon as the right time came around. I knew I wanted to marry you—"

"Oh, for God's sake, Randy—how can you—?"

"Hush. You were to listen. So, now the right time has come."

Drake flung his arms across his face, but Randy went on evenly.

"We'll get married, any time now, and then we'll work out some way what we'll do afterward."

Drake raised his arms and clutched the head of the bed. Then he turned his face to the wall again, but one hand reached out for hers.

Three days later Randy was hurrying about her housekeeping when Mr. Lawes called.

"Good morning, Miss."

"Good morning."

"I am Patterson Lawes. I believe Mr. Drake McHugh is here at present."

"Yes, he is. Won't you sit down?"

"Thank you. I have a little matter of business to talk over with him."

"I think Drake would want me to deal with it—whatever it is."

Mr. Lawes reached for his leather despatch case. "I hardly think so, Miss—er—"

"I am Mrs. Drake McHugh, Mr. Lawes."

"I hadn't been advised of that, Mrs. McHugh." He arose and bowed slightly. "I didn't know Drake was married."

"We were married yesterday."

"But — God bless me, the boy hasn't any legs!"

"I didn't marry Drake because of his legs, Mr. Lawes. Suppose we hear about the business now?"

"Well—I have here, Mrs. McHugh, a communication that should be of great interest to both of you. I suppose it will help solve some problems—if you have any," he added hastily.

"What is it?"

He looked at her sharply.

"Were you expecting a communication from Mr. Parris Mitchell in Vienna?"

"I expect a letter soon. I had a cable from him. Drake had one also."

"Indeed. Did he know of Drake's condition?"

"I cabled him about it Tuesday."

"I see. Now, Mrs. McHugh—" He laid the papers on the table and explained briefly their purport. Randy listened with an increasing dismay.

"I shall leave these with you, er—Mrs. McHugh."

Randy shook her head. "I don't know how Drake is going to take this. I'm so afraid he may think I asked Parris for help."

"You didn't?"

"Certainly not! Drake and I could have managed without help."

Mr. Lawes rubbed the back of his head. He was completely perplexed. He did not understand a single phase of this whole crazy proceeding.

* * *

"I don't know, Randy, I just don't know what to say." Spots of high color stood out on Drake's thin cheeks. Randy was disturbed by his agitation.

"I guess I—oh, I don't know. What do you think about it?"

The discussion of Parris' offer had proved less troublesome than Randy had anticipated. Drake was not violent about it, but he was not easily convinced that he should accept it. She remembered a warning line in a second cablegram she had had from Parris: "As soon as he is well enough make him decide things. Give him full sense of independence."

"I don't know what to say, Drake. We've got to look at it as a loan, not as a gift."

"That's just it. Parris means to give it to me. I can't let him do that. It's too much—well, it's just charity."

"I'm certain Parris thinks too much of you to mean it like that. I'd hate for you to hurt his feelings."

"But what do you think I ought to do?"

"I don't know, Drake. After all, women haven't got much sense about money. You're a man and you know better than I do what's right."

"But how are we ever going to pay it back, Randy?"

"Well, out of whatever we make some day. As soon as you are able we've got to make some plans about what we'll do."

"You think we ought just to take the money, then?"

"You have to say that yourself."

Drake closed his eyes and his chest sank with a sigh of weariness.

"You don't have to think about it now—"

"Yes I do, Randy. We'll take it. When Parris comes home maybe we can give most of it back."

"Maybe so."

"I believe it's the right thing. Like you say, we've got to think some way out." Drake managed a smile. She bit her lip hard to keep back tears.

"Listen, Drake. Don't ever joke like that. You're a man, and above everything else you're my man. I've loved you for a long time, but now I'm going to be proud of you."

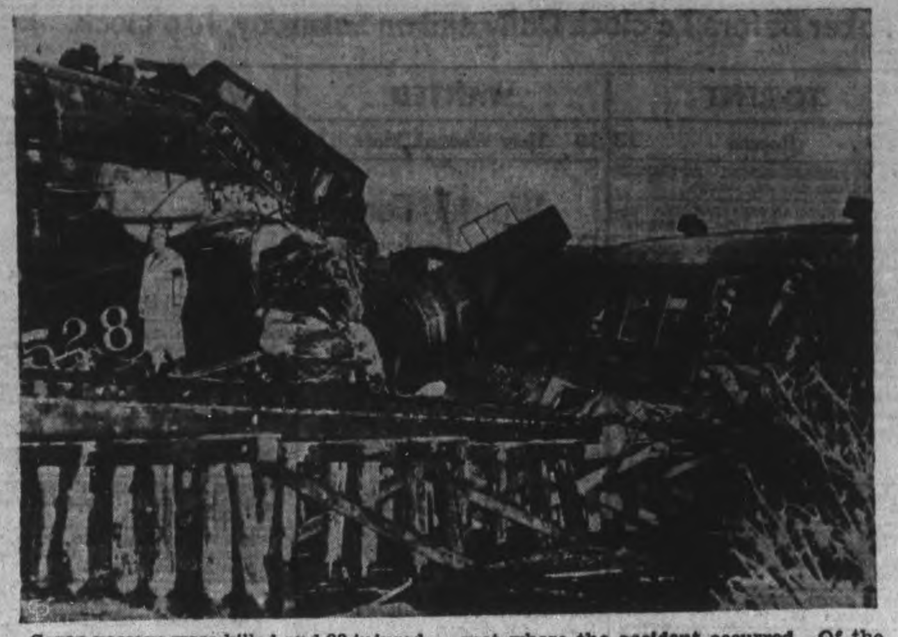
Seven Killed In Train Wreck



Seven persons were killed and 28 injured when two trains, one of which was carrying 230 army recruits from Camp Grant, Ill., collided head on at Granby, Missouri. Twisted steel and battered trestle mark the spot where the accident occurred. Of the seven dead four were soldiers. Rescue crews, some working with acetylene torches labored for about five hours to extricate the dead.

Board Of Health

that any civilians were shut out. The civilians were cases that required individual attention and the individual rooms were occupied by civilians. The large number of patients required that we hire a maid and a very excellent one has been engaged.

In view of the crowded conditions, many patients have had to bring their own beds. To offset this, four new beds at an approximate cost of $28 each, including mattresses, have been ordered.

The Provincial Travelling Chest clinic visited Peterborough February 23 to 27. A volunteer gave her assistance at this clinic for the first time. She is a graduate nurse whose husband is overseas, and she has in the past also assisted at the child hygiene center as a volunteer. Through her assistance it was not necessary to engage an extra nurse at a cost of $6 a day as had been done previously.

In the sanitary inspector's report, it is revealed that in the examination of milk and cream, several specimens indicated past pasteurization contamination by the presence of organisms of the color group.

This was found in one instance to be due to improper sterilization of milk bottles into which the pasteurized product was placed. The other was due to excessive and unnecessary handling of the product after pasteurization. A situation which might have had a serious reflection from a health standpoint and could have been the source of an epidemic. A specimen of cream was grossly under-pasteurized. Immediate steps were taken to prohibit the sale of this product until it was tested to be fit for consumption. A most emphatic warning was given the operator concerned.

A number of dairy farms were visited this month in order to ascertain the conditions prevailing during the winter season when the herds are stabled. The majority of those visited were found satisfactory for this particular season. Several, however, were anything but satisfactory. In these cases, several days were given to improve and revisits found a considerable change for the better. Some of the producers are not using the milk house for storage purposes. I advised these men that the milk house was put there for a specific purpose and must be used for that purpose. The cow stable, or horse stable or granary floor is no place to store milk, as was found in several cases. In order to get into one dairy farm, it was necessary to travel by horse and sleigh several miles over snow-clogged roads, but the trip was well worth it as this particular dairy was found very much in need of a general clean up, the report said.

The shortage of labor on the farm and also the shortage of bedding have created difficulties for the milk producers. Nevertheless, these problems are being surmounted by installation of milking machines and substituting of wood shavings for bedding. In order to aid the producer in caring for these milking machines, I have obtained a supply of Wartime Production pamphlets issued by the Agricultural Supply Board dealing specifically with "The Milking Machine." These are being forwarded to each milk producer.

In two refreshment booths wash basins were found that had not been installed and connected to the sewer according to the plumbing by-law. Notices were served requiring proper installations, and these notices are being complied with. Several soft drink coolers were found in unsanitary condition, the water level in the coolers being allowed to rise over the tops of the half-pint bottles of milk. This should not happen as there is a possibility of water from the cooler seeping into a partially filled bottle and contamination of the milk product contained therein. In one booth a common roller towel was disposed of, in another, a case of spoiled canned goods was condemned and in another a number of chipped and cracked eating and drinking utensils were thrown out.

The majority o investigations in connection with housing this month had to do with unsanitary conditions arising out of carelessness of occupants although several genuine housing defects were revealed and several instances of vermin infestation were attended to. Some of the conditions found are worthy of mention: In one house the tenant permitted the water to freeze and left it thus for several weeks. During this time the closet bowl was being used as a privy and at the time of investigation, was found in a particularly foul and putrid condition. This situation was attended to by retaining a plumber and proceeding according to Section 84 of the Public Health Act whereby costs may be added to the taxes. Another particularly unhealthful condition was found where the occupants of a house were using the woodshed as a privy. A 24-hour notice eliminated this. Another similar situation arose out of a dispute between two tenants occupying a house and using the same privy. Neither one would pay for regular cleaning of the same. Both permitted the contents to accumulate until they flowed over the seat and on to the floor of the building. A 24-hour notice to both tenants cleared this up. As I write this. I cannot help thinking that ehere has been a terrible default in our educational systems whereby adults who are supposed to be civilized can permit such outlandish situaltons to arise and continue In each of these instances small children were being reared and influenced by their surroundings.

Several very pronounced cases of overcrowding were investigated and machinery put in motion to eliminate them. One was where a person rented one room, made up of a sheeted garage, to a family of four. There was neither water supply, sink, sanitary conveniences nor sufficient space for decent living. The tenant simply threw all wastes out the door. Another was where a tenant sublet one room to six adult boarders. There was hardly room to move between the beds in this room.

Retail Grocers

merchants would postpone a study of the price ceiling regulations until it was too late. In the grocery business a net of 1¼ to 2½ per cent. will operate successfully. With the ceiling remaining constant and the basic price moving up, there was little spread for elbow room in the operation of a grocery business."

The speaker went on to cite difficulties which cropped up, such as setting a ceiling on seasonal goods, and of the special covering regulation, drawn up by the price ceiling to meet such difficulties. To meet the vast and intricate ramifications of merchandise distribution special attention has had to be given to the most humble and insignificant items of merchandise, and therefore there have been established boards made up of men who are beyond political influence.

"Who knows but we face the parting of the ways of free enterprise to be replaced by a system of social economic planning. We may have laid the foundations of a new economic order for Canada which of necessity may have to continue after the shooting is over. This price ceiling may be the forerunner of rationing during the war. Within 12 months we may be selling 40 per cent. less merchandise than now. You will have less merchandise to sell and the same number to sell it. It will be a question of who gets what and when. It is possible that large scale merchandising, which the small dealer regards as a threat, will be worse off than the small dealer. I believe that public opinion will see to that being the case," he declared.

"I am in favor of the price ceiling, although when I first encountered it, no one could have been more prejudiced than I. But I have come to realize that the men of the Price Ceiling Board are in favor of the small independent dealer. They are definitely against any move which would throw a large number of people out of business," declared Mr. Hougham.

"Competition among manufacturers in past years had created many unnecessary frills. In retail business one : the ridiculous practice of a store sending out a package of cigarettes and a bottle of ginger ale to somebody having a party in an apartment at 11 o'clock on a Sunday night. These and other ridiculous things were silly in peacetime and criminal in war," he said.

"Is that our Canadian and American way of life which our boys are fighting for? We can't have guns and washing machines, tanks and automobiles, ships and planes and cocktail parties," he declared.

"Removal of frills at the source will serve to produce goods at a price which will operate more successfully with the rulings of the Price Ceiling Board. Many services with which the public have been pampered can be removed to reduce costs here and there, which together can amount to considerable saving.

"There are many things being done in England by way of salvage that we may think will never have to be done here, but I think we will see it here and it will be good for our souls," declared Mr. Hougham.

Mayor Burnet in thanking the speaker, declared that Mr. Hougham had taken a subject as dry as dust and breathed into it, life and a soul.

Dorothy Dix

dreamed that their Marys and Johns had the faults and habits to which they so seriously object concealed about their characters, but this is unbelieveable. For while it is true that a man who is trying to persuade a girl to marry him and a girl who is on the husband hunt do put the best foot foremost, they are incapable of sustaining a long act. Their make-believe is bound to break down and show them as they are. And why this conveys no warning to even the most love-sick boy or girl is one of the mysteries of human conduct.

Some Pertinent Questions

How is it possible, for instance, for a couple who can never be together for half an hour without getting into a bitter argument not to perceive that they are so antagonistic in temperament and taste that they would fight like a cat and dog if they were tied together in marriage?

When a man sees a girl who is boss of her own family, whose parents tremble before her, who makes him go to symphony concerts when he had planned to take in a funny show, why doesn't he figure out that she will make the sort of wife who wears the pants and whose husband says "Yes ma-am" to her?

And why doesn't the man who sees that a girl always sticks to her point and harps upon it until she gets her own way recognize that she has nagger written all over her so that a blind man should be able to read it?

Why doesn't the man who sees a girl is clothes-mad and dresses far beyond her means realize that she will make an extravagant wife who will keep her husband's nose to the grindstone to pay her bills

Case of the Virago

Why doesn't a man see that a high-tempered girl who goes into tantrums and who has to be handled with gloves will turn into a virago whose husband will cower before her as soon as she gets him? Why doesn't he see what kind of slob the lazy, self-indulgent, plump girl is going to be fifteen years later on

And so on and on. For none of these characteristics in a girl is hidden. They are there for all men to see who will take the trouble to look.

And the same way with women. Like men, they also apparently never take a second look at the men they marry until after they have gotten them home from the wedding, so they miss seeing the little peculiarities that get on their nerves and are so hard to live with.

How else can you explain the fact that a woman can be engaged to a man for years and years and never find out that he is so dull and tedious that he bores us to tears? How can she step out with him without observing that he gargles his soup and eats peas with his knife, and his table manners are so atrocious that she has to shut her eyes and pray for grace to endure it when he eats an egg?

Beware the Pinch-Penny

When a man assumes before marriage the right to boss a girl, why doesn't she know that his wife is slated to be a doormat and that he will wipe his feet on her?

Pity we don't take the hints that men and women give us about the kind of husbands and wives they will make. It would save so much grief.

He'll Enjoy Your Fortune-Telling

Tea-Leaf Reading Easy And Fun

My, she's fascinating! She's hit on a sure way of holding his attention—telling his fortune!

People love to learn their chances in love or luck, so if you know tea leaves, card fortunes — any kind—you make a hit.

In tea-leaf fortunes, it's all in the way the leaves group when the cup's drained. Seeing leaves grouped in watch-shape, you say to your beau, "Ah, you have a rival. In love, I wonder?"

And, looking oh! so innocent, you continue: "I see a gun, too, meaning a quarrel, but there's a ring—wedding bells! And a kettle, a happy home!"

There are endless fascinating combinations! In cards, it's the same way—a Seven of Diamonds, money you didn't expect; a Two of Spades, a separation; an Eight of Clubs, the love of a dark man!

Our 32-page booklet gives you meanings of tea-leaf symbols and of every card in the deck; explains secret gypsy ways of dealing cards. Also tells how to read fortunes in dominoes, the "magic crystal," dice; has horoscope for each month.

For your copy of "Fun With Fortune-Telling" send 15 cents in coins or stamps to the Examiner, Home Service, Peterborough. Be sure to write plainly your name, address, and the name of booklet.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

WRITTEN FOR THE EXAMINER

By SHEPARD BARCLAY

"The Authority on Authorities"

RECKON THOROUGHLY

UNEXPECTED developments may occur in the play of any hand, making you stop, look and think. If up to that stage, you had a well-considered plan, which did not take into account what has just occurred, you are likely to see the whole thing differently in a flash and so may promptly decide to change your methods. But before doing so, please do just a bit more reckoning, of the kind you did at the beginning of play. You may find that the originally-intended move is still the best one.

North: ♠ J 9 5 3 ♥ J 10 ♦ 10 5 ♣ K 10 5 4 2

West: ♠ 8 4 ♥ 6 2 ♦ K Q 8 7 2 ♣ Q 9 8 6

East: ♠ Q 10 7 6 ♥ A 9 8 7 5 ♦ J 6 3 ♣ J

South: ♠ A K 2 ♥ K Q 4 3 ♦ A 9 4 ♣ A 7 3

(Dealer: East. Both sides vulnerable.)

East	South	West	North
Pass	2 NT	Pass	3 ♣
Pass	3 ♥	Pass	3 NT

South let the defenders take the first two diamond tricks, then came in with his A on the third, using the hold-up thus with the idea that he would play the clubs so as to keep West out of the lead later, if he could, and would hope the heart A was not held by West.

To the fourth trick, South laid down the club A, and was startled to see the J fall. Expecting a small card on the trick, he had intended to lead the 3 next and, if West did not come in with the J or Q, play the 10 from dummy and let East win it. But, when he saw the J, he decided East probably had the Q-J doubleton. If so, he could take all five club tricks by playing the K on the second round. So that is what he did. He was both chagrined and beaten when this failed. Even though the heart A was where he wanted it, with East, he had no way to get more than eight tricks—two in spades, three in hearts, one in diamonds and two in clubs.

If South had thought a moment longer, he would have realized the 10 was the right play to the second club trick. If East had the Q, West would have had only three clubs, so the rest of the suit could have been run by giving up a trick to it. If, however, West had it, as he did, the contract would still be safe, as the successful finesse of the 10 would have made the vital ninth trick.

Tomorrow's Problem

North: ♠ Q 2 ♥ K 7 3 ♦ 10 7 5 ♣ A 10 9 7 6

West: ♠ K J 9 7 6 ♥ 5 4 ♦ A 8 4 2 ♣ Q 4

East: ♠ A 10 8 4 3 ♥ Q 9 8 ♦ J 6 ♣ 5 2

South: ♠ None ♥ A J 10 6 2 ♦ K Q 9 3 ♣ K J 8 3

(Dealer: East. North-South vulnerable.)

How should North and South bid this deal if West overcalls in spades on his first turn and East supports the suit on his next two turns?

BELGIAN COMMANDS

LONDON—(CP).—A 27-year-old Belgian airman has become the first Allied pilot to command a British fighter squadron. Holder of the D.F.C., he has been promoted to the acting rank of squadron leader of a famous unit.

U.S. Places Navy In Hands Of Admiral King

WASHINGTON, March 11—(AP).—The supreme command of all United States naval operations was concentrated to-day in the hands of Admiral Ernest J. King, a triple-threat specialist in surface, air, and submarine warfare.

King, already commander-in-chief of the United States Fleet, took over the duties previously entrusted to Admiral Harold R. Stark as chief of naval operations.

This consolidation of authority—a possible hint of further streamlining in the Navy's organization—gave him control of the general planning and fleet maintenance, formerly the province of the chief of naval operations.

Navy Secretary Frank Knox announced the change in a formal statement tonight which disclosed the assignment of Admiral Stark to a newly-created post of "Commander, U.S. Naval Forces operating in European waters."

The Navy changes followed closely the Army's reorganization of its general staff into a smaller, younger group.

The Army reorganization effective yesterday, reduced the general staff to one-fifth its former size and gave greater recognition to Air Force men. Excepitng the Chief of Staff, Gen. George C. Marshall, who is 61, the streamlined staff has an average age of 48.

The navy changes ended the division of authority that existed between King and Stark and put King in absolute charge under President Roosevelt and Knox.

Like Sims' Post.

Stark's new post, it is said, will be comparable to that held by Admiral William S. Sims, First Great War commander of U. S. naval forces overseas. For the present, however, Vice-Admiral Royal E. Ingersoll will continue as commander of the Atlantic fleet, King's old command.

In London, Stark will succeed Vice-Admiral Robert L Ghormley, who has been a special naval observer since August, 1940.

A special staff was set up in the Navy Department to administer the duties which King took over from Stark, and this staff, like Gen. Marshall's streamlined counterpart, will share responsibility in mapping offensive operations which both army and navy chiefs have forecast.

A week ago Gen. Marshall told Congress "that the time has now come when we must proceed with the business of carrying the war to the enemy and not permitting the greater portion of our armed forces and valuable material to be immobilized, within continental United United States."

King at the same time reported the navy was busy strengthening communications "with a view to developing an offensive, which slowly but surely, will gain scope and power as we gain strength."

Admiral Ghormley, relieved of his assignment in Britain, will go to sea after a period of temporary duty in Washington, the navy's announcement said.

An outstanding shift in the army re-organization was the selection of Maj.-Gen. J. T. McNarney, 48, as deputy chief of staff, second only to Gen. Marshall. Gen McNarney, an air force officer, was a member of the Roberts Commission which investigated the Pearl Harbor attack

As deputy chief of staff, he replaces two major generals, Richard C. Moore and William Bryden, both 61. Their new assignments were not announced.

GAS PAINS

Tortured Night and Day... Can't Sleep... Afraid to Eat

If you suffer the torture of gas pains... bloat... tormented by lack of sleep... if you must avoid your favourite foods through fear of symptoms of indigestion... here is news you'll gladly welcome. For seventy years, Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery has brought relief to thousands of men and women suffering this distress. It may relieve you, too. For this physician's formula acts on a basic plan... helps stimulate the flow of gastric juices... helps you digest food more thoroughly and when food digestion is complete, gas pains, sourness and indigestion are unlikely. So great are the benefits of this pleasant tonic that over 30,000,000 bottles of it have been used.

Housework To Factory

WASHINGTON, March 11 (AP)—An official war inventory of the United States human resources said today that millions of women would have to be shifted from housework to munitions factories in the expansion of war industries.

The survey contained no specific mention of proposals that American women be drafted into factories but asserted:—

"The maximum movement into the male labor force can hardly exceed 2,000,000 men. A larger expansion of the total labor supply evidently can be achieved only by drawing millions of women into the labor force." There are 15,600,000 housewives between 18 and 44.

Counter Attack

LONDON, March 11 — (CP). — The London press sharply called today for offensive action in the Pacific.

"Only an Allied counter-attack on a gigantic scale can stem the Japanese now," the Daily Sketch said. "In the short space of three months they have established a supremacy which nothing but a superhuman effort will displace."

The Daily Mirror wrote: "Throughout the Allied nations the cry goes up for younger men, for vigorous men, for audacious men.. ..Let us heartily welcome this crusade."

U.S. Fails To Halt Soaring Prices On Hogs

CHICAGO, March 11 — (AP). — Government attempts to control the booming hog market, where prices are at 16-year peaks and rising steadily, have bogged down, United States livestock circles were convinced today.

Traders based their belief on action of the surplus marketing administration, which, packing interests said, announced yesterday it would accept offers of pork and lard at prices in line with the current live hog market.

This was seen by trade circles as an admission the S.M.A.'s move of February 5, had failed to stem the upturn in live hogs. On that date the S.M.A. said it would not accept pork and lard at prices above those of the last week in January.

The S.M.A. buys primarily for shipment to Britain under the Lease Lend Act. Since March 15, 1941, it has purchased more than 425,000,000 pounds of lard, 340,000,000 pounds of canned pork and 280,000,000 pounds of cured pork.

While the S.M.A. refused to pay more for its pork and lard than it did on January 29, pork costs to the retail butcher, and eventually to the housewife, continued upward.

Retail prices in Chicago, according to trade sources, ranged from 12 to 20 per cent. higher than wholesale quotations during the January 29-March 9 period.

During the same period live hogs experienced one of the longest sustained upturns on record, which now is in its eighth week. Top price for live hogs Janua.. 29 was $11.90 a hundredweight and average price $11.70, against a top of $13.75 and an average of about $13.43 yesterday.

The top figure yesterday was equal to that paid August 6, 1937, the peak since 1926. Average price was the highest in 16 years.

Livestock men said yesterday's S.M.A. action raised the only ceiling which exists on the live hog or dressed pork markets, even though this is admittedly not an all-inclusive ceiling.

Havelock Red Cross Plans Card Party

HAVELOCK, March 11—(ENS).—Despite the inclement weather on Monday afternoon, 16 ladies were in attendance at the regular Red Cross meeting, with the president, Mrs. Roche, presiding. The treasurer's report by Mrs. L. Sanderson showed a bank balance of $84.96. In regard to the Spring salvage, it was explained that every scrap of paper, cardboard cartons and cereal boxes flattened out, milk cottle caps, or any sort of metal jam tops were to be safely stored.

The social convener, Mrs. Jones, gave out the tickets to be sold for the card party and dance on March 17, in the Town Hall, with the Belmont Council sponsoring the music. Mr. Lancaster was present and read a communication from the Toronto Branch, stating that no shipments were to be made between March 9 to 14, inclusive, in order that the warehouse staff might pack and ship the accumulated supplies, which gathered during the recent alterations to the warehouse. He also read a letter from Mrs. Andrew McLaughlin, Toronto, the first branch president, extendeing her best wishes to the branch, and congratulations at the enormous amount of work achieved. During the afternoon one quilt was quilted, two quilts bound, ten suits grey flannel suits cut out, also eight nightgowns, and a large quantity of knitted articles made ready for shipment next week.

Gun Victim Sinks

BRANTFORD, Ont., March 11. — (CP).—The condition of Miss Alexandra Poullos, victim of a shooting here Saturday, was described today by one of the attending physicians, Dr. A. J. Craven, as "not quite so good."

Miss Poullos was given a blood transfusion during the night.

AUSSIES BEGIN FEEDING SINGAPORE ON JAP ORDER

CANBERRA, March 12 (CP)—Premier John Curtin announced today that foodstuffs are being sent by Australia to Japanese-occupied Singapore in an effort to ensure the proper feeding of Australian prisoners. "We were asked to send the stuff," the premier said.

"It was put to us very straight that it had to be for everybody, including the native population. It goes into the common pool and the Japanese distribute it."

In London, Australia's action in sending food to Japanese-held Singapore for the benefit of imprisoned Australians there is held without parallel so far as qualified sources could recall today and they were frankly puzzled how it could be accomplished.

"The sending of stuff to prisoners," one informant said, "usually is handled on an individual basis or through the Red Cross, the prisoners' relatives payin- for it.

"I'm quite sure it has never been tried before on what you might call a national or military basis as the Australian effort seems to be.

"Presumably ships carrying supplies bear a conspicuous identification such as a huge red cross. In the absence of anything to the contrary you probably should assume that the ships diverted are Australian ones."

Red Cross officials said they knew of no precedent.

The consensus was that there could be no certainty the Australian prisoners would get the supplies or even that the "pool" would be administered in a fair, humanitarian way. It was assumed, however, that Australian authorities had decided they had no choice but to take a chance.

Jap Wrecks Litter New Guinea

Admit 6 Sunk, 3 Hit; Breather Gives Aussies Time To Rally

CANBERRA, Australia, March 12 (CP). Two days of air attack which littered the Japanese-won beachheads of New Guinea with the wreckage of an invasion armada and battered potential Japanese bases gave direly threatened Australia valuable hours to-day to muster fighting power for a stand on her own shores.

Japan's first spearhead apparently was blunted by the fierce aerial blows yesterday at hangars and runways of Calamaua and Lae, following up the aerial onslaught the day before which sank, burned or beached at least seven ships and brought to at least 13 the number of Japanese transports put out of action off New Guinea and New Britain.

There was, however, no word of new action to-day to indicate the next turn of the fight, nor any further news of a second strong Japanese convoy last reported headed for Port Moresby, capital of New Guinea, 30 miles from the Australian mainland.

The blows by the R.A.A.F. (bolstered by big United States bombers) were believed to have seriously dislocated the Japanese invasion timetable.

One spokesman declared that the Japanese would take an ever harder pounding as they came further into effective range of fighters and bombers based in Northern Australia.

He said that the attacks yesterday and the day before when seven

'Out to End U.K. in India'—Tojo

East Ours, Allied Fleet Done, New Wins Due—Jap Premier

BERLIN, (From German Broadcasts), March 12 —(AP)—Premier Gen. Hideki Tojo, addressing a special session of the diet, declared today that Japan is determined to wipe out the last vestiges of British control in India, and warned Australia to fall in line with the "greater East Asia sphere" or be conquered, dispatches from Tokyo said today.

They gave this summary of the premier's speech:

Gen. Tojo said that if Australia did not "change her attitude she would inevitably follow in the tracks of the Netherlands Indies."

He declared, too, that "I am firmly convinced that the time has now come for establishing an 'India for Indians' just as the establishment of a 'Burma for Burmese' is nearing realization.

"Australians," he continued, "must be aware of the fact that it will be impossible for Australia, with her very scanty and scattered population and great distances separating her from the United States and Great Britain, to defend herself against our invincible forces....

"I hope that Australia, unaffected by her ancient relations and other considerations, will take stock of the situation and resign herself to accepting the decrees of providence."

Tokyo Celebrating

TOKYO, (From Japanese Broadcasts), March 12 —(AP)—Premier Gen. Hideki Tojo, summing up three months of war, told a special session of the Japanese diet today that "all enemy strongholds in the southwest Pacific are in our hands." The special session was called to celebrate the conquest of the Netherlands East Indies.

"The main fleet of the United States and Britain already has disappeared from the surface of the Pacific," he declared.

"The United States and Britain, who under-rated the national strength of Japan and refused to satisfy the claims she was entitled to, forced Japan to open hostilities," he asserted.

"Now these countries are facing the fact that no battle can be fought without being lost and that no position can be successfully defended.

"The United States and British governments have slight hope in the future and boast of their extensive re-armament problems."

Tojo said that Germany and Italy were winning victories "which parallel ours," but he warned the diet the war was not yet won.

"Japan must win further brilliant victories and continue her military operations to smash the United States and Britain and to establish the new order in greater Asia and thereby secure world peace," he said.

—And The Chinese

Referring to China, Tojo declared:—

"Communications with the United States and Britain were cut with the fall of Rangoon and the Chungking regime now is completely isolated. America and Britain can only give Chungking worthless gold, for which the Chinese people will sacrifice their flesh and blood.

"The leaders in Chungking, despite the facts, still do not understand that the United States and Britain deceive other countries to make them sacrifice themselves for their own cause and leave them in the lurch...."

"If the British leaders betray the long-cherished wishes of the Indian people and the Indians throw away this opportunity there will be no salvation for India and she will pass into posterity as a country of slaves. India now faces the decision to liquidate her past and make a resolute stand."

Gen. Tojo told the Diet that Japan has captured more than 210,000 prisoners since start of war in the Pacific.

Gandhi Dubious Of India Plan

WARDHA, India, March 12.—(CP)—Commenting on the British Government's announcement of plans for post-war Dominion status for India, the former leader of Hindu Nationalists, Mohandas K. Gandhi, professed today to see no sign of settlement for the Indian question.

The man who recently renounced formal leadership of the All-India Congress party said in an interview:

"In spite of my love for the British, I think their imperialism has been the greatest crime against India. The immediate thing therefore that the British Government should do is confess the wrong and undo it.

"Of the undoing there is yet no sign visible in the Indian sky. Yet I cannot help thinking that before

Brazil Seizing Axis Funds To Pay Sub Toll

RIO DE JANEIRO, March 12 — (AP). — Brazil to-day confiscated up to 30 per cent of the funds of Axis subjects in this country in a decree which branded Germany, Italy, and Japan as aggressors and strengthened belief that a declaration of war might follow.

The decree by President Getulio Vargas said the confiscations were based on "acts of war practised against the American Continent," and singled out Germany as particularly responsible.

Since Germany, Italy and Japan are allies, they are "united in aggression," the decree stated.

It blamed Germany for failure to pay admitted obligations for damage to a Brazilian ship in the Mediterranean some time ago and for attacks on peaceable unarmed Brazilian merchantmen—at least four of which have been sunk recently off the Atlantic coasts of the United States.

In explanation of holding Axis nationals accountable, Vargas concluded:

"In conditions of modern war civil populations find themselves strictly linked to the face of armed forces, and their activity is, more than in any other epoch of history, a determining element in the result of war operations."

Brazil broke off diplomatic relations with Germany, Italy, and Japan on January 28.

The Vargas decree said "the property and rights of German, Japanese and Italian persons or legal subjects must answer for harm which has resulted or may result from acts of aggression by Germany, Japan and Italy."

Foreign Minister Oswaldo Aranha said Brazil "views the situation with calmness and serenity," but he added grimly:—

"The government will take all necessary steps to safeguard the welfare of the country and observe commitments to hemisphere defence."

MOOSE JAW, Sask., March 12 — (CP). — Two heavily laden United States supply trains passed through Moose Jaw yesterday en route north with men and materials for the Alaska highway.

Hundreds of American troops were aboard the long trains, which included many flat cars loaded with army trucks and other equipment. The troops gave Moose Jaw the 'once over' for souvenirs to send back home.

The trains came up the Soo line from North Portal, Sask., and left again on a northwest route which will take them to Edmonton.

Britain Cuts Off Gasoline July 1

LONDON, March 12—(CP).—All unessential motoring will disappear this summer from Britain's road under a new rationing system which will withhold gasoline from everyone except those proving "genuine need," it was officially disclosed today as the Government clamped down on wartime frivolities with sharp new measures to restrict sports events.

Geoffrey Lloyd, Parliamentary secretary for petroleum, said replacement of the present basic gasoline ration—which allows motorists fuel for 200 miles of driving a month—by more rigorous controls would be gradual. He explained the purpose of the change is "to end pleasure motoring for the present" and ultimately to take "all unessential cars" off the road.

Herbert Morrison, Minister of Home Security, said restrictions on sports events, such as racing and boxing, also would conserve gasoline and, further, reduce the number of hours lost in vital industries.

Great Russ Offensive Smashes Counters Threatens Hun Centre

LONDON, March 12 (CP) — The Red Army was reported tonight to have thrown 1,500,000 men into violent fighting on a broad southern front, attacking primarily in the directions of Kharkov, Stalino and Taganrog.

MOSCOW, March 12 (AP)—The Red Army has broken through strongly-held German lines at several places on the southern front, killing 2,000 Nazis and seizing two large junction points, front-line dispatches reported today.

The Germans rushed up reserves for counter-attacks which failed in two days of violent fighting, the accounts said.

This success in the south followed Red Army reports of hard-hitting Russian offensives which endangered German positions in the whole vast central front area north of Smolensk, and cost the Germans tremendously in lives, munitions and supplies.

Sleds powered with airplane engines, propellers, skimmed through the German positions so quickly that they "caused great panic," said the central front reports.

Mow Hun Down In Thousands.

A special communique listed 49,700 Nazi troops killed in the Kalinin sector alone between February 5 and March 5. But the dispatches from the front asserted the German 16th Army, which already had suffered 12,000 casualties in the Staraya Russa trap, had lost additional thousands in th last few days, while the advancing Russians have captured 11 new settlements, including two distinct centres, in this area.

(Russian sources in London reported two important breakthroughs—one north of Lak Ilmen where Red Army units shattered strong Nazi defence positions, and the other in the German lines guarding the direct approaches to Smolensk, 230 miles west of Moscow).

Even the desperate attempts of the Nazi high command to throw in reserves did not appear to be strengthening the German lines materially. One dispatch quoted a German prisoner from the 10th Army as saying he had been drafted from a Lubeck factory, together with 2,000 other workers, less than two months ago.

Betrayal April 10

MOSCOW, March 12 — (AP)—A Tass dispatch from Cairo reiterated today reports said to have reached there that the Vichy Government had turned over to Germany a number of its warships, including the 35,000-ton battleship Clemenceau and the 26,500-ton battleship Dunkerque.

The dispatch said Grand Admiral Erich Raeder had ordered specially-trained German crews to be ready by April 10.

The dispatch said the seamen were being trained in naval schools at Toulon, Rochefort, Bordeaux and Brest. Some 2,000 seamen were said to be at Toulon, being schooled to man the Dunkerque and a number of other vessels, including two cruisers.

Beaver's Output Mission To US, Cancelled

LONDON, March 12.— (CP). — Prime Minister Churchill disclosed to-day that a projected production co-ordination mission by Lord Beaverbrook in the United States has been cancelled and that it is uncertain whether Lord Beaverbrook wil go to Washington.

In his first official statement on the function of the Ministry of Production since Oliver Lyttelton replaced Lord Beaverbrook as its head, the Prime Minister informed the House of Commons that the production and labor ministries would share responsibility for the allocation of Britain's labor power.

Mr. Churchill said that Lord Beaverbrook, who has been one of the Prime Minister's staunchest supporters and foremost lieutenants, is "understood" to be prepared to undertake the trip to Washington but that he is "not quite sure."

Lord Beaverbrook, a chronic sufferer from asthma, turned down reappointment in the new war cabinet because of his health, but his mission to the United States was to have placed him on virtual cabinet level as Britain's counterpart to Donald M. Nelson, head of the United States' War Production Board.

The Ministry of Labor still will be responsible generally for the supply of labor, the Prime Minister explained, but the Ministry of Production will determine what calls for it demand precedence.

He said the Admiralty would be

Escaped Nazi Caught At Airfield

Donning Flying Suit At Oshawa Drome; Pal Yields To Farmer

OSHAWA, Ont., March 12.—(CP).—A daring attempt by an escaped Nazi prisoner-of-war to steal a plane of the Royal Canadian Force was foiled to-day with the capture of the German airman, one of two who escaped from the nearby Bowmanville officers' camp last night.

Frederick Oeser was caught by an instructor at No. 20 Elementary Flying Training School three miles north-east of here as he was about to take down a flying suit. About an hour earlier, the second of the two prisoners, Bidward Fidieg, surrendered at a farmhouse on the eastern outskirts of the city.

Oeser told his captor, identified only as a link trainer instructor named Bowman, that he intended to steal one of the planes and fly it to an isolated spot in the United States. Bowman came on the German while he was reaching for a flying suit in one of the buildings on the field.

"I made a good try and I lost," Oeser saiad when placed under guard.

Officials of the airport said Oeser apparently crept on to the flying field early to-day and stayed hidden until he believed the field was clear. Then he attempted to get a flying suit before attempting to get away in one of the R.C.A.F. machines.

Fidieg gave himself up to Mr. and Mrs. F. J. Clemos. He asked them to call police.

Frederick Oeser was captured at No. 20 Elementary Flying Training School shortly before noon, about an hour after Bidward Fidieg surrendered and was taken to Oshawa jail cell by Detective Sergeant H. Flintoff and Constable James Sutherland.

Oeser, 23, and Fidieg, 27, both were lieutenants in the German air force.

This was the second short-lived break for freedom by Oeser. Last December 30 he got out of the camp in a laundry truck but was captured in Oshawa less than an hour later.

Camp officials said the means of escape and the exact time it had been made had not been determined yet.

RAF Smash Hard At Moulmein

LONDON, March 12 — (CP). — British bombers operating from their new bases in Central Burma have carried out their second heavy attack within 48 hours on the Japanese-occupied port of Moulmein, an R.A.F. communique relayed by the All-India radio said to-day.

The raid was staged yesterday, the communique said, with 'enemy positions" the chief target.

The apparent lull in the land fighting was borne out by the fact that there has been no new report from Army headquarters. A military commentator in London, however, said fighting "doubtless will follow" in Central Burma, where British and Indian troops have withdrawn from the Irrawaddy River Delta and are consolidating with Chinese forces.

A Chungking dispatch reported that the Japanese are constructing a network of trenches north of the railway junction town of Pegu, which lies 40 miles north of Rangoon. Lt.-Gen. Joseph Stilwell new American Chief of Staff in the China area under Gen. Chiang Kai-Shek, is en route to Burma on a tour of inspection.

The military commentator said the British forces are "in the main intact, though they must have suffered heavy casualties."

Last Minute News

CAIRO, March 12—(AP).—A two-sentence British army communique reported today only patrol activity and fighter-plane operations on the Libyan battle front.

WASHINGTON, March 12—(AP)—A message from John Curtin, Australian Prime Minister, was delivered to President Roosevelt today by Richard G. Casey, Australian Minister of the United States. Mr. Casey did not disclose the nature of the communication.

Station Burns

BROCKVILLE, Ont., March 12—(CP)—Fire early today destroyed the Canadian National Railways' station and warehouse at Athens, 15 miles from here. The building was of frame construction.

Cause of the outbreak has not been determined and A. Watt, the station agent, lost considerable personal property. Some freight packages were burned also.

Tirpitz Misses By 300 Miles

Never Came Close To Convoy, Now In Russian Port

LONDON, March 12—(CP).—The Stockholm correspondent of the News Chronicle reported today that the new German battleship Tirpitz, which put back into a Norwegian port after being attacked Monday by British torpedo-carrying planes, failed to get within 300 miles of "her prospective prey"—a convoy which n. has reached Russia.

Neither his article nor the Admiralty communique yesterday disclosed whether the Tirpitz, sister ship of the sunken Bismarck, suffered any damage in the attack north of Trondheim.

The dispatch from Stockholm however, that the Tirpitz was built "on the German plan for comparatively short sea trips," and that the crew, when in harbor, lived in barracks ashore. This, the dispatch said, allowed more room for watertight compartments which made the ship almost invulnerable to aircraft attack.

The correspondent said he had learned, too, that the 10,000-ton German cruiser Prinz Eugen was "lying in Trondheim harbor badly holed" as a result of the torpedo attack off Norway February 23 by the British submarine Trident.

The Admiralty communique February 26 which announced the attack described the ship only as a "cruiser of the Prinz Eugen class."

The News Chronicle's correspondent said many bodies were found floating in the cruiser's flooded compartments when she managed to reach port.

New War Front Looming In Norway

(By FRED VANDERSCHMIDT.)

NEW YORK, March 12—(AP).—Cumulative military and political evidence indicates the imminence of highly-important operations centering about the area between the desolate North Cape at top of Norway and the cruel 1,000-foot granite cliffs of the Russian Murmansk coast

Major air and naval operations already are under way, involving German capital ships, British torpedo planes undoubtedly operating from an aircraft carrier, other British warships and United Nations convoys.

Free Europe, a review of international affairs published in London, said today an Allied spring offensive in the West should have a good chance of success, for the forces now concentrated in the British Isles presumably are stronger than those the Germans have disposed from Kirkenes, Norway, to Hendaye, France.

This commentary declared that both military and political reasons commended Norway as a spot where the Allies could strike with overwhelming forces. It added that control of Upper Scandinavia would give the United Nations a convenient link with Russia through Finland and would put them in position to strike directly into the heart of Germany.

An offensive at the top of Europe might well be the extra contribution to Russia's cause which the Soviet Union gives every evidence of expecting. There is plenty to win: A successful push could wipe Finland from the war, open and protect the whole Allied-Russian supply line via the excellent port of Murmansk and re-establish the Allies in Norway where they could organize and supply increasing resistance by the population.

A common British-Russian-American fighting front could be thrown quickly across the thin tip of Finland and this front in time might provide just the impetus which the Russians need to turn the whole German northern flank and collapse it upon the Baltic states and East Prussia itself.

There are 1,500 miles of sea from the present United States bases in Northern Ireland to the North Cape, but it is barely 30 miles across the northeastern extremity of Norway to Russian territory, and only 50 miles farther east to Murmansk.

Eight hundred miles straight south of Murmansk, reachable almost directly by railway, is the Staraya Russa front where the Russions have pushed back closer to Germany than anywhere else. Staraya Russa is only 130 miles from Latvia and then it is just 400 miles to East Prussia.

Throughout the winter the world has almost forgotten about the Murmansk front and the Germans and Finns there have huddled somewhere about the city and on the Rybachi peninsula to the northwest, close enough, it appears, to make it necessary for Allied supplies to proceed on east to Archangel. The northern end of the Russian counter offensive has, however, freed captured sections of the railway line running south to Leningrad and beyond.

Something Big Coming

Now, however, there are these significant military and political developments to show that something big is stirring:—

83 Escape In 2 Sinkings

Latest Sub Raid Survivors Reach San Juan

SAN JUAAN, Puerto Rico., March 12.—(AP)—United States naval district headquarters authorized the publication today of the arrival here Monday night of two United States ships bringing 83 survivors of a British tanker and a Swedish freighter torpedoed and sunk in the Caribbean area last Thursday and Friday nights.

The American motorship Idaho landed 49 officers and crew members of the medium sized British tanker, and a few hours later the Waterman liner Ipswich brought in 34 survivors of the small Swedish freighter.

No lives were lost in the sinkings which occurred approximately 20 miles apart.

For both Capt. A. Henney, master of the tanker, and Capt. Sven Cronberg, master of the freighter, it was the second time ships under their command have been sunk in war action.

Under a new navy policy not to disclose the identity of the ships sunk by enemy action, the names and tonnage of the tanker and freigher were withheld.

RUSSIANS BAG 576 NAZIS PLANES DURING THE PAST TWO WEEKS

Nazi Line Breached In North Sector 161 Villages Retaken

MOSCOW, March 12 (AP)—Soviet forces killed 49,700 Germans, destroyed 277 planes and recaptured 161 communities on the Kalinin front northwest of Moscow from Feb. 5 to March 8, a special communique said today.

(A chain of villages beyond Kalinin — heavily garrisoned behind tangled wire, walls of ice and pillboxes—was reported in dispatches to London to have been breached by Red Army troops, neutralizing a line which Hitler had ordered held at all costs. The exact location was not specified.

Destruction of nine warehouses full of German munitions and seizure or demolition of vast stores of war supplies was credited to Kalinin front fighters in addition to slaughter of invaders at a rate of 1,600 daily in the month ended last Sunday.

It is in that combat zone—between Leningrad and Smolensk sectors—that Russian corps are seeking to wipe out the German 16th Army defending Staraya Russa.

Captured material included 76 tanks, 172 field guns, 209 mortars, 1,177 motor vehicles and two locomotives, the Soviet information bureau said. Two locomotives, 104 cars, an armored train, 39 tanks, 142 guns and 2,629 motor vehicles were among the property destroyed.

Wrecked Planes Everywhere

Dispatches from the Staraya Russa sector said Red Air Force attacks had left forests and airdromes from Riga, Latvia, to Lake Ilmen littered with the burned wrecks of transport planes by which Hitler is attempting to ferry reinforcements for the 16th Army.

Tass said suicides were increasing among the beleaguered men, soldiers and officers alike.

The increased violence of aerial warfare was illustrated by a declaration of the army newspaper Red Star that the Germans had lost 576 planes in Russia during the two

The Germans have moved at least four big ships, the battleship Tirpitz, the pocket battleship Admiral Scheer, and the heavy cruisers Admiral Hipper and Prinz Eugen, to the Norwegian coast. They are based on Trondheim and they are there to keep the Allies out of the north. Actually, on the Germans' own authority, these ships or smaller ones of the German fleet have operated this week as far north as Bear Island, between Spitzbergen and the North Cape, where, it was claimed, they sank a Soviet freighter.

British torpedo planes beat at the Tirpitz Monday somewhere north of Trondheim and, the Germans say, the British planes were in the air as far north as Bear Island, which indicates the presence of at least one British aircraft carrier in these northern waters. The Admiralty communique telling of the air attack on the Tirpitz also spoke significantly of "our surface forces" and "our convoy."

The Germans say also Britain has made the Shetland Islands, northeast of the Orkneys, into an important air base against Norway.

Meanwhile Russian troops on the Ladoga front north of Leningrad have increased their pressure on Finns and Germans. This could have been timed to precede new pressure farther north.

Politically, it now is reported reliably that Premier Joseph Stalin, aside from the obvious military advantage of a second front, is anxious to have the field forces of his Allies in the line with Russian troops, from now until the day these armies can enter Germany. He is represented as believing this will do much to make Britain and the United States appreciate both Russia's wartime needs and of the territorial protection she feels will be her post-war necessity.

"Two States Solution"

BOMBAY, India, March 12 (AP)—Mohammed Ali Jinnah, president of the All-India Moslem League, reiterated today his view that the only solution of the Indian problem acceptable to his organization would be "India's division into separate, autonomous Hindu and Moslem states."

Jinnah, leader of India's minority of 77,000,000 Moslems, made no direct reference to the forthcoming visit of Sir Stafford Cripps as special envoy of the British war cabinet to determine whether the cabinet's plan for eventual dominion status for India will work.

But he asserted the British government "must not be stampeded into adopting a settlement which will prejudice or militate in any way against the Moslem demand" for India's division, and added:

"My views are embodied in the resolutions of the Moslem League Working Committee (namely, that the league will without doubt revolt against any decision which recognizes India as being a single national unit, since for all practical purposes this would mean establishing Hindu dominion)."

There are 240,000,000 Hindus in India.

Sir Bijoy Prosad Singh Roy, president of the National Liberal Federation who has urged Indians to join the fighting forces, expressed disappointment over Prime Minister Churchill's statement before the House of Commons yesterday, and said it meant only further deferment of the solution of the political deadlock.

Stolen Car Is Found

An automobile belonging to Charles Young, operator of the Douro township snowplow, was stolen from the side of the road near Warsaw, where the owner had left it, and was recovered in a damaged condition on a side road off Highway No. 2, near Oshawa, yesterday.

Later two youths, Joseph Robinson and Max Stevens, were arrested in Toronto by the city police there and will face a charge in the local police court of stealing the car.

Havelock Youth Found Dead In Store Cellar

William Copp, 17-year-old Havelock youth, employed at DeCarlonis fruit store, 166 Charlotte street, was found dead about 1.45 this afternoon in the basement of the store, where he had been preparing vegetables for display upstairs. His body was submerged in a wooden tank from the waist up in about a foot of water. The tank stands about waist level off the cellar floor.

Coroner Dr. E. P. Snider told The Examiner he was doubtful if the youth came by his death as a result of drowning.

Mrs. Frank Asta said she came to the store from dinner about one o'clock. Copp was in the cellar at the time but she said she did not hear him working. She explained it was quite possible he was still working when she arrived.

About 1.45, she called to him to bring up some vegetables and, getting no reply, she went into the basement. Finding the upper part of the body in the water, she pulled him out and 'phoned the fire station for the inhalator and to the police. Dr. Snider pronounced him dead.

The youth boarded with Mrs. J. J. Cook, 164 Charlotte street since last October when he came to Peterborough. He had worked in other places and came to DeCarlonis store about two months ago. "I never knew him to have any spells or anything like that," she said.

He is a son of Mr. and Mrs. William Copp of Havelock. His father is a railroad man and is believed working in Trenton.

No War Juct Yet

Observers believed that President Getulio Vargas and Foreign Minister Aranha would avoid actual war as long as possible while taking reprisals for attacks upon shipping and the loss of Brazilian lives.

Sailing of Brazilian merchantmen to the United States were suspended yesterday and all vessels en route were ordered to return home or put into the nearest port as a result of the latest announced sinking—the 5,151-ton Cayru.

The newspaper O Globo blamed the sinkings on fifth columnists, who, it said, have "spread along the whole coast and are supplying Hitler's submarines."

A roundup of dangerous elements has been under way since Brazil severed relations with the Axis powers Jan. 28—the last day of the Pan-American conference.

Axis funds have been frozen since then, and it is probable they will be one of the first targets of the confiscation decree.

Most of the Axis diplomatic staff still is in Brazil, but members are being gathered at Rio de Janeiro for expulsion from the country when transportation is available.

Beginning with the April-May period, supplementary gasoline allowances will be reduced and the purchasing power of basic gasoline ration coupons will be cut in half.

On July 1, the basic ration will cease to exist and the only way to get gasoline will be to make a specific application with satisfactory proof that it is necessary.

Good For Some—And Bad.

In sports and entertainment there was good and bad news for Britons:

They were told there will be no further restrictions on theatres, movies, dancing and football.

But they also were told that dog racing will be limited to one day a week at each track, that horse racing will be restricted to a few tracks—also with an eye to economy in transportation—and that professional boxing, already sharply curtailed, will be further reduced.

Just as the restrictions were being announced, the Football Association disclosed that it had decided to extend its season from May 2 to May 30.

The measures together were an answer to an outcry from the public against motorists who spend gasoline to attend sport events while the nation is pleading for more sacrifice and more work and its seamen are risking death to bring it here.

Sir Stafford Cripps told the Hous of Commons last Feb. 25 that a "pleasure as usual" attitude no longer would be tolerated and mentioned dog racing and boxing specifically as "out of accord with the "solid and serious intention of this country to achieve victory."

Dean Of Senate Dandurand Passes At 80

OTTAWA, March 12.—(CP)—Rt. Hon. Raoul Dandurand, government leader and senior member of the Senate and close personal friend of Prime Minister Mackenzie King, died unexpectedly last night in the Ottawa General Hospital.

Raoul Dandurand

Today the body of the 80-year-old veteran parliamentarian was to be taken privately to Montreal where a state funeral was planned for Saturday.

Senator Dandurand spoke in the Senate Tuesday night. Yesterday morning at breakfast he suffered what at first was thought to be an attack of lumbago, and he was moved to hospital for observation. He died at 7:55 p.m. E.D.T.

Mr. King was deeply affected by the loss of his long-time colleague, first cabinet minister to be sworn in when the Prime Minister formed his first administration in 1921 and, besides Mr. King, the only surviving member of that government.

HAMILTON, Ont., March 12 (CP)—Charles Lovie expects to be at work at a plant here this afternoon despite the fact that the car he was driving to work this morning was wrecked when hurled approximately 100 feet by a collison with the engine of a freight train. Lovie escaped injury.

Police were called to the north spur line of the Canadian National Railways Victoria Avenue crossing where they found the remains of the Lovie car had been shunted eastward on the track for a distance of 40 feet.

Something Better

London, March 12 (CP)

A. V. ALEXANDER, First Lord of the Admiralty, told the House of Commons today that "a very much more powerful and faster" torpedo bombing plane now is coming into active production for the fleet air arm, which lost all of the torpedo-carrying Swordfish planes with which it sought to prevent the German battleships Scharnhorst and Gneisenau from running the Straits of Dover.

Mr. Alexander said that the fleet air arm had been furnished with fighter planes and other types from the United States, but that "a good many alterations had to be made to make them successful."

Jap Armada Nearing Pt. Moresby

Both U.S., Australian Bombers Battling Desperately, Sink 7

CANBERRA, March 12.—(CP)—Australia's air defenders, carrying the first phases of the battle for the continent to the Japanese on the wings of hard-hitting bombing squadrons, have pounded the enemy's gathering invasion might in two days of violent attack.

A government spokesman said today the assaults on New Guinea Island, where the Japanese have started accumulating the forces of invasion, were only a start and that further smashing blows would be dealt there.

So far, Australian aerial bombardment is said to have sunk or smashed at least seven enemy ships and to have left runways on airfields of the occupied ports of Salamaua and Lae pitted with bomb craters.

Apparently, however, this also was only the start for the Japanese, since a strong enemy convoy was reported heading for Port Moresby, capital and best harbor of New Guinea, in an area only 300 miles

OPPORTUNITY!

NINETEEN-FORTY-TWO is a year of real poultry opportunity. Huge egg orders for Britain, heavy domestic demand for eggs and poultry, egg prices 10 cents and more above a year ago—these spell profit possibilities!

Plan to make the most of this. Fill your brooder house with Braund's chicks. They come from carefully selected, profit-making flocks, with the right kind of breeding to make YOU a profit, too, if you handle them right. And those flocks have been fed a special Purina hatching ration, designed to build chicks with plenty of vigor, punch, and "go"—chicks with "a 21-day head start." Make sure your chicks are that kind! Come in, or phone us, right away.

For starting baby chicks, we use and recommend Purina Startena. We figure it costs only a cent or so per chick more than the cheapest starters—and where can you spend a cent to better advantage? When you order your chicks from us, order your Startena too, and so take a good long step toward ensuring satisfaction and success.

Statements in this advertisement have received Government Approval only in so far as they refer to Baby Chicks.

United Church W.A. Group Plans War Work

PORT HOPE, March 12—(ENS)—Almost fifty ladies spent a most enjoyable evening at Seaton Hall on Tuesday night, when Group No. 5 of the United Church Women's Association entertained Group No. 9.

Mrs. A. Fulford, group leader for No. 5, opened the gathering with a welcome to the visiting group. At this time the groups went to separate rooms to discuss their usual business, a committee was formed for the collection of money and the filling of the ditty bag for the sailor which each group has adopted to look after for the duration and to keep supplied with necessary articles and a few luxuries.

The principal business was the plans for the W.A. hostess tea, to be held on March 19, from 4 to 6 in the Sunday school room, where each hostess will have four guests. The hostesses from Group No. 9 to be Mrs. Brodie Thompson, Mrs. Jell, Miss D. Batt, Mrs. M. G. Hancock, Miss Florence Campbell, Mrs. Fred O'Niel and some ladies from each of the groups will take a table until between fifty and sixty tables will be set. For program at this tea it is being arranged to have a wedding dress parade of the various years. Also there will be musical numbers, including solos by Mrs. M. C. Bryant.

Songs Enjoyed

Miss Jessie Hawkins then gave two pleasing numbers, "Bless You," and "Ten Little Cute Little Boys."

Mrs. Fred Wells quite delighted her audience when she read a number of poems of her own composing; the first was "The Song in My Heart," followed with "Another Day," "Childhood Days," "The Weaver," "The Old Violin," and "Well, Yes and No."

Mrs. Fulford moved a vote of thanks to those taking part in the program, and to Mrs. Oliver and Miss Stella Wickett for making it possible to have this meeting at Seaton Hall.

An introduction of strangers then took place by the group leaders, and a contest of names of townspeople was much enjoyed by every person.

A delicious lunch was served, and Miss Batt thanked the ladies, on behalf of her group, who had been most gracious hostesses and hoped this kind of get-together could be had more often in the future.

Vichy Assurances

WASHINGTON, March 12 (AP).—Told today of speculation that the Vichy Government conceivably might agree to accept Japanese aid in Madagascar, the acting Secretary of State Sumner Welles, said today that assurances recently reecived from Vichy were diametrically opposed to any such arrangement.

These assurances, he asserted in reply to a question, were received about the same time as Vichy's assurances that the French fleet would not be turned over to the Axis.

Northumberland County Zooms Over Top

COBOURG, March 12 (ENS) — Northumberland County has achieved its objective in the Victory Loan campaign by realizing the sum of $1,131,000, or 101% of its objective of $1,125,000. Final figures for the districts have not been tabulated and will be released later in the week. Cobourg went over the top 112%; Hamilton township, 102.4%; Hastings, 115%; Brighton village, 110%; Alnwick township 108%; Seymour township, 100%; Campbellford, 97%. Figures for the other districts will be released later. The following statement was given yesterday by W. S. Edwards, chairman of the County Victory Loan committee:

"During the last three weeks I have made frank and direct appeals to you to support Northumberland County's part in Canada's Victory Loan. We have have had tough going from first to last, but I now have pleasure in announcing that this County has obtained a little more than its objective of $1,125,000.

"I wish to thank the many patriotic citizens who have subscribed to this Loan, particularly those who are purchasing bonds on instalments. I wish to thank the employers and employees for doing such a magnificent job in going over the top and obtaining an average of over 150% of their objective. I also wish to thank all the members of the various committees who have been associated with me on this loan and who have given me such loyal and hearty co-operation. I have a special word of thanks to the canvassers who have overcome the difficulties of almost impassible roads and stormy weather, and who have served most faithfully in making it possible for this county to live up to its objective.

"This Victory Loan will supply our fighting men with the instruments of war, tanks, guns, the aeroplanes essential to a victorious outcome. This evidence of our full support will give them confidence, and I am happy to be able to say that Northumberland has been able to do its part.—W. S. Edwards, County Chairman, Second Victory Loan.

Port Hope Women Aid Navy League

PORT HOPE, March 12 (ENS)—The following letter was received by Mrs. Halford, convener of the Navy League tag day held last September, when $270.00 was raised by the Port Hope branch.

Dear Mrs. Halford — The Navy League of Canada, Ontario Division, at the annual session on Monday, March 2nd, expressed its very great appreciation because of the co-operation given by yourself and your committee who helped to make our tag day such a success, and the following resolution was unanimously approved as an expression of their thanks.

It was moved by Mr. J. B. Warnock of Windsor, seconded by S. C. Lieut. Commander J. C. Hall, Toronto, and resolved; "The Navy League of Canada, Ontario Division, in annual meeting assembled, place on record its sincere appreciation and thanks for the labors of love that were so generously rendered by the many tag day committees throughout the province, through whose efforts the sum of $30,767.48 (not including the amount raised by Toronto tag day), was raised for the work of the League."

We trust that this resolution will give you some satisfaction and some knowledge of a service well performed and appreciated. With kind regards, I am, Yours truly, E. S. Trimble, general secretary.

Alderville Boy Serving Overseas

ALDERVILLE, March 12 (ENS)—Gnr. Arthur Wheeler, who spent his early childhood in Peterborough, then lived for a few years at Hastings before moving to Alderville, is now serving in Britain with an artillery unit. Gnr. Wheeler received one of the Christmas parcels sent out by the Red Cross at Alderville and the president of the Red Cross has just received a letter from him expressing thanks.

The letter follows:

Dear, Friends—I am writing this letter to express my appreciation and thanks for your box of Christmas delicacies which I received shortly before Christmas.

To say it was enjoyed is putting it mildly, as anything of this sort coming from Canada is quite a luxury in this country, under present conditions. It really does cheer one up and also gives one courage to meet the many difficulties and trials that we in the services have to face, to know that the people back home remember us although we are many miles apart.

We think that you are all doing a wonderful job, which is very much appreciated by all members of His Majesty's Services, both on land, sea, and in the air."

Relief Barred

Toronto, March 12 (CP)

KIRKLAND LAKE miners who engaged in the recently-concluded strike at eight gold mines and have not been rehired by the mines cannot go on relief, Hon. Farquhar Oliver, Ontario Minister of Welfare, said today.

"If they are employable they are not eligible for relief," Mr. Oliver said.

Members of Teck Township Council, governing body for Kirkland Lake, were sent letters yesterday by President William Simpson of Local 240, International Mine, Mill and Smelter Workers asking that relief be granted to miners still not re-employed. The letters said the union could afford no longer to carry on strike benefits.

Unique Display Of Clothing Attracts More Than 300 People

PORT HOPE, March 12.—(ENS)—The teachers and girls of the Port Hope High School held a most outstanding display of knitting and sewing in the gymnasium of the school on Wednesday afternoon from 4-6 o'clock.

A group of twelve boys who call themselves "The Fighting Twelve" greatly surprised the teachers when they made a presentation at 4:00 o'clock to Miss Hammond of $10 to be used toward the buying of materials for the furtherance of war work. This money was saved by the boys out of their club fees collected at each club meeting.

Quints Featured

As one entered the gymnasium five tables were covered with complete layettes and behind each layette was a large poster, 18" by 24" representing one of the quintipulates and telling which one of the art students had painted it. These were well potrayed and each student deserves much credit for her work. Annette was painted by Betty Lou Thompson, Emelie by Brenda Bennett, Marie by Nancy Vivian, Yvonne by Martha Thompson and Cecile by Peggy Suer.

The different sections of the display were under different years and the art students had also made life-size cardboard figures to represent the growth of the quintipulates from 1934 to 1948.

At twelve years the five girls were shown with checked jumper skirts and rose sweaters and rose socks and grey flannelette bloomers.

The five fourteen-year-olds were shown with dark navy blue skirts and bloomers with royal blue sweaters and matching socks.

Next in line came a display of clothing for the extra members of a family, seven sweaters of various sizes for the older girls with matching skirts, panties and socks. The cutting and sewing of these outfits was supervised by Miss Hammond.

Also displayed on an extra table was a variety of layette articles, eleven sweaters with bonnets and bootees to match and panties.

A very attractive poster announced that the following articles were for the Free French and were made by P.H.H.S. French Club, this included eight pair socks, two scarfs, a number of knitted squares for quilts.

Three afghans were also displayed and two wool baby shawls.

A group of sixteen ladies who call themselves "The Merry Workers group" had donated three lovely quilts which were also displayed along with a list of the groups' names, Mrs. Potts, Mrs. Stratton, Mrs. Morrison, Mrs. Lloyd, Mrs. Jamieson, Mrs. Smith, Mrs. Rutter, Mrs. Phillips, Mrs. Bridges, Mrs. McCaw, Mrs. Mackray, Mrs. Watson and the Misss Edwards, Bray and Laycock.

While the display quite covered the four walls of the gymnasium in the centre were twenty attractively-set small tables, at which tea was served by the students.

As one left the gymnasium his eyes were attracted to a poster telling the financial report from November, 1941 till March 1942.

Balance November 1, 1941, $7.29; proceeds fall display, $41.63; receipts, November 1-March 4, 42, $95.08. Total, $144.

Mr. Reid's report: Cigarettes, Mike Lewis, $8.36; wool cloth, etc., $128.18; balance, $7.46. Total, $144. Operetta proceeds, $125. Total, $269.

Despite a very heavy rain over three hundred attended this display and over $40 was realized from the tea with $15 as special donations bringing the total to over $55.

This clothing will now be sent from the school to the Red Cross rooms where it will be packed and sent to the British war victims.

Country Industries All Top Objectives

COBOURG, March 12.—(ENS).—Totals and percentages of the local factories have been announced as follows by the employees committee of the Victory Loan campaign of Northumberland county:

Cooey Metal Products, Brighton, $3,850, 123 p.c.; Dominion Wheel and Foundries, Cobourg, $4,350, 136 p.c.; Douglas-Pectin Co., Cobourg, $6,250, 215 p.c.; Breithaupt Leather Co., Hastings, $3,800, 108 p.c.; Cobourg Matting and Carpet Co., Cobourg, $4,200, 192 p.c.; Campbellford Cloth Co., Ltd., Campbellford, $12,950, 137 p.c.; Cobourg Dyeing Co., Ltd., $4,500, 131 p.c.; Edwards & Edwards Lt., Cobourg, $17,000, 223 p.c.; Cooey Machine and Arms, Cobourg, $5,600, 136 p.c.

Fred (Tucker) Chalf of Cobourg, is not a man who is frightened by superstitions. Associated with the men's wear business for many years as manager of a local store here, he decided some time ago to go into business for himself. Undaunted by superstition, he opens his new store to-morrow, Friday the 13th.

Corporal Dorothy Adcock of Cobourg, describes the "thrill of her life" in a letter to her parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Adcock here. She is a member of the Canadian Women's Army Corps and is serving as a driver for Brigadier F. Logie Armstrong. It was while on duty in that capacity that she had the pleasure of shaking hands with General McNaughton when he was at Brockville, which she described as being her most outstanding experience since she enlisted.

4 More Ship Sunk

BERLIN, (from German broadcasts), March 12—(AP).—The German high command claimed today that Nazi U-boats operating off the west coast of Africa had sunk four more enemy merchant ships, totalling 27,000 tons, including two tankers. (This claim lacks confirmation.

Philosophy And Conduct

When Mr. Eden told the British House of Commons of the Japanese atrocities at Hong Kong the people of Britain and America were horrified, but it is doubtful if many were surprised. It was feared that something of the kind had happened, and the Foreign Secretary's report served merely to dispell any faint hope that the Japanese might show decency and common humanity to the vanquished. Their conduct in the parts of China which they overran was brutal and vicious; it was hardly to be expected that they would change their methods when dealing with Europeans.

The policy of "frightfulness" in dealing with the conquered is a part of the technique of war which the Japanese have borrowed from the Germans. It is designed to impress the conquered, and more particularly those of the enemy who are still unconquered, with the ruthlessness of the conquerors. It is designed to create fear and dread in the hearts of those who feel that, conceivably, their turn may come for such treatment. And in this particular instance it is clearly meant to humiliate the hated white race.

But the concept, dear to the Japanese heart, of a haughty and proud and undeserving white race oppressing and cheating the yellow race will not hold in the modern world. The policy of "frightfulness" was adapted to modern warfare by a white race, the Germans, and was used by the Italians in their war with the Abyssinians, a "have-not" race if ever there was one. The Japanese are allied with two white races, and they had better be careful what they do to white men in the East if they do not want their partners to be offended. Nor have the United Nations shown any antipathy toward the yellow races, as the greatest of that group is now among their number.

The color of a man's skin is of less importance in this war than his philosophy. The Japanese and the Germans and the Italians have a philosophy in common, and a wretched thing it is. It is a philosophy of opportunism and rapacity, and it is quite as likely to split the Axis, if once its members disagree, as it is to hold it together. The philosophy of the United Nations, on the other hand, is a philosophy of humanity, not grounded in force though it has been constrained to resort to force in order to defend itself, and it binds together those who cherish the dignity of man. The struggle, seen in its broadest outlines, is between men who, whatever their shortcomings, are struggling toward a better world for mankind, and men who reject any idea of human progress, believing power to be an end sufficient in itself. The Hong Kong atrocities show what men can do who are moved by a thoroughly base philosophy, and make clearer to us why the Chinese, even in their darkest hour, continued to refer to their enemy as the Dwarf Slave Race.

The Other Side Of The Medal

An increasing number of reports reach us which tell of growing dissatisfaction in Britain with Winston Churchill's leadership. Apparently a considerable body of opinion feels that he has bungled the conduct of the war in the East, that he interferes unwarrantably with his military leaders and that he takes upon himself duties too great for any one man to discharge competently. It is suggested in these quarters that Sir Stafford Cripps might make a better Premier.

Though interesting, we cannot feel that these reports carry a great deal of weight. Any small group, if it is sufficiently vociferous, can give the impression that it speaks for a large part of the population. Everybody knows that Mr. Churchill has faults and that these faults have been responsible, in some measure, for recent reverses. But in what measure, precisely? Who is to estimate the damage which—let us say—his loyalty to mediocre members of his Cabinet has done? Who is to say that his interference with his military leaders has not been an influence for good? The tendency, in wartime, to foster the idea that generals are the possessors of some arcane knowledge, incomprehensible to ordinary mortals, is a dangerous one. Mr. Churchill has been a soldier himself, and he is an historian well versed in military matters; he would be the first to recognize a good scheme if one were presented to him. Sir Stafford Cripps, let it be noted, knows little of war.

A great statesman is as subject to the whims and megrims of ill-informed public opinion as any movie star; a few successes raise him to the stature of a god, and a few failures cast him into the pit. In the Spring of 1940 we all seized upon the grave optimism and resolute courage of Winston Churchill as drowning men seize at a raft; his willingness then to accept responsibility was his greatest virtue in our eyes. The stern confidence of his speeches stilled and steeled our quaking hearts; when he appeared in public women crowded to kiss his hands, men shouted themselves hoarse for "good old Winnie," and his very cigar stubs were sought as relics and talismans. Now we are seeing the other side of the medal.

It is doubtful if many Canadians would like to see Britain change her Prime Minister. And it is doubtful if the voiceless millions of England would like to see it or would let it happen. But a few who may be jealous, or sincerely perturbed with insufficient reason are out to destroy Winston Churchill.

It is not as though the reverses in the East came as a surprise to us. We were warned that they would come, and the warning came from Mr. Churchill. He asked us to endure and to prepare for better days. No one doubts the great abilities of Sir Stafford Cripps and it is a matter for congratulation that a man of his stature is available to help the Prime Minister now. But if anything would give aid and comfort to the enemy at present, it would be the substitution of Cripps for Churchill.

Price Board Representative

The citizens of Peterborough will agree that the War Time Prices and Trade Board have chosen wisely in making William E. Foley their local representative. The position is a highly responsible one and needs an alert and energetic man to fill it; Mr. Foley is such a man.

Mr. Foley was born in Peterborough and received his education here. As a young man he became a salesman for the J. M. Greene Music Company, and later he became local manager of that firm in Lindsay. He returned to Peterborough as sales manager for J. M. Greene and remained in this position until 1928, when he joined the Heintzman Piano Company. In 1932 Mr. Foley relinquished this post in order to become a partner in the motor car firm of Foley and Wilson, and this company has loaned him to the Wartime Prices and Trade Board for the duration.

Congratulations are due to Mr. Foley upon having been selected for this difficult post. Firmness, decision and tact will be needed in its discharge, and he has these qualities in measure which inspires the confidence of his fellow citizens.

Pot And Kettle

A dispatch which came through from Switzerland recently tells of an article written by a Doctor Ahlswede which has appeared in Hitler's favorite newspaper, Voelkischer Beobachter, which is also the official organ of the Nazi Party. It is a criticism of the American people, contained in twelve points. We do not know exactly who the Doctor is; we have been a little suspicious of Nazi scholarship ever since they appointed a horse-doctor as head of the University of Berlin. But whoever Dr. Ahlswede may be, he has considerable ability as a humorist. His analysis of the American people is an amusing piece of writing.

Now the Americans are our friends, our brothers-in-arms, and our very good neighbors, so anything which is said about them is of interest to us. Furthermore, we Canadians are said to be very like Americans ourselves, so perhaps a consideration of Dr. Ahlswede's twelve points may be instructive. Let us look at them.

1. "They believe what they see in print." Well, Doctor, that is certainly a dreadful accusation; we used to say the same thing about the Germans, but we understand that they are getting over it rapidly. How is the circulation of Voelkischer Beobachter standing up, Doc?

2. "They have the same standard phrases and snappy sayings. The muddy sources of their knowledge are Jewish shows on Broadway." Speaking of snappy sayings, Doc, do you hear a lot of 'Heil Hitler' nowadays; and what about "The State is all," as a brilliant repartee; and that pleasantry, "When I hear the word Culture I reach for my gun"—is that as popular as ever? And speaking of entertainment, do they still have those big rallies at the Sports Palace? Those were nice clean sources of knowledge, weren't they?

3. "They grin all day long. Keep smiling, boy." Your information is faulty, Doc; they aren't grinning any more.

4. "They have a pronounced herd instinct, lack an inner reserve, and you frequently hear, 'I don't know what to do with myself'." Very interesting, Doc, but is a country with two political parties more of a herd than a country with only one? Do you really have inner reserve in Germany. We thought you had got rid of all that sort of thing. Americans seem to know what to do with themselves now.

5. "They chew gum and have a special gap somewhere in their teeth where they can store it." Speaking of national habits, Doc, does Germany still specialize in those cigars made of cabbage leaves and molasses? And does the Fuehrer still chew the rug when he is angry and the fat when he is pleased?

6. "They carry dollar watches." That is so that they will know when the hour of victory comes, Doc.

7. "They work by the trial and error method." We all do this sometimes, Doc. Think of the Fuehrer in Russia—first the trial, then the error.

8. "They eat griddle cakes and grapefruit, and the latter causes excess acid in their stomachs." Admittedly, this is distressing. We understand that the Nazis have established an interesting diet in Germany, but frankly Doc, do you find it nourishing?

9. "They drive tin lizzies." This is bad, of course. Not as good as those "People's cars" that you collected so much money for in the Reich. By the way, Doc, whatever became of those cars?

10. "They confuse civilization with culture, not knowing that patent beds and typewriters have nothing to do with it." You must excuse the Americans, Doc; they are a young people and they have not yet discovered the cultural value of militarism and racial persecution. America was the country which was silly enough to free its slaves, do you remember? What kind of culture can you expect from a people like that?

11. "In order to raise the cultural level, they go to parties." Oh, Doc! We are afraid you have us there. Everyone knows what Parties do to the cultural level.

12. "They bluff, trying to make the other fellow believe that they are better off than they really are. They are conceited and consider themselves the crown of creation." And modesty, as we all know, is a characteristic of great peoples. We historians know what happens whenever a people gets the idea that it is a Master Race, don't we, Doc?

And there we have it. In twelve points. Dr. Ahlswede has destroyed, to his own satisfaction, the American Myth. Ah, the sublimity, the profundity, the sheer intellectual magnificence of Nazi scholarship! Keen as the Sword of Truth, invincible as Wotan in his armor, fierce and cleansing as fire! And are the Americans crushed? Well, no. When last heard from they seemed to be bearing us pretty well.

NOTE AND COMMENT

President Roosevelt says that proper recreation helps the war effort. But joy-riding is an improper recreation.

Frank Knox says: "The Germans are still the greatest military machine in the world." Yes, and we won't be happy until we have it running smoothly.

The Dionne quintuplets subscribed $20,000 to the Victory Loan, which seems to prove that, whether they speak French or English, they are good Canadians.

A statistician says that Americans spend $50,000,000 annually on chewing gum. That would buy 1,000,000,000 ordinary sticks, which in turn would attach themselves to 1,000,000,000 shoe soles, thereby annoying 500,000,000 people. The moral is obvious: always stick your gum under a chair, or high up on the wall. Many a picture can be hung with a well-chewed piece of gum.

SILENT BELLS

Like ghosts that breathe at day unheard
Yet pulse and pulse throughout the air,
Those bells that pealed o'er Tunbridge
Wells
Now swing their rhyme in silence there.

As ringers sway in ordered time,
Each note yet seems to find its place;
They hear the lilt like Auld Lang Syne
And weave the same old Sabbath lays.

They hear them o'er the meadows flung,
The tumbling notes of joyous birth;
Along the lanes they hear them rung
As if they're born of Mother Earth.

The tune is played they rest at ease,
And silence beats upon their ear;
But fancy clothes the vagrant breeze
With echoes of the tongueless air.

Mental Hygiene, Army Morale

By SAMUEL MARCHBANKS

SOLDIERS are better looked after in this war than has ever been the case in previous conflicts. They are better housed, better (if less attractively) clothed, better fed, and better care is given to their health. The examination which precedes admission to the active army is a searching one, the government knows well that a man who appears to be in good health may, in the stress of active service, fall ill because of some comparatively slight disability which has been neglected. Also, many a man who is well now carries with him the promise of future illness which will certainly be aggravated by military service; he is likely to become a charge on the state for the rest of his life.

NOT only is the soldier's body well looked after; his mind is cared for as well. Naturally, this is done in an unobstrusive way, for nothing makes a man more irritable and apprehensive than the feeling that he is being treated with special consideration for the state of his mind. Irritation and apprenhension are bad for morale, and morale is precisely what this special care is meant to build up.

WHAT is 'morale,' really? It has been defined as "that state of mind or emotional state, in which soldiers can most effectively perform all their military duties. It is as important as armament and equipment. The experience of good morale includes sensations of well-being, importance, optimism mutual and self-confidence, strength and power, good fellowship with one's companions, lack of anxiety or fear, except as a temporary and appropriate reaction in fearful circumstances. During training, external manifestations include smartness, both on parade and off, cheerfulness, low incidence of crime and misdemeanor, spontaneous joking and singing when marching at ease, lack of 'grousing,' eagerness to play games. In the field, to these are added lack of complaints in letters, reliability and dispatch in carrying out orders, readiness to volunteer for difficult or dangerous work, and absence or very low incidence of hysterical reactions, so called 'shell shock,' anxiety states, nervous indigestion, insomnia, disordered action of the heart, etc., and no cowardice." This definition is quoted from "A Platoon Commander's Responsibility For The Morale of His Men," written by Colonel G. Brock Chisholm, M.C., M.D., and published by the National Committee For Mental Hygiene in Canada.

THIS is intensely interesting. Consider, for instance, the reference to 'hysterical reactions'; it was not so very long ago that hysteria was considered to be a state occurring only in women. It was Charcot, the great French physician of the Salpetriere hospital in Paris, who first exploded this theory by exhibiting a guardman who was hysterical. The army now recognizes that hysteria and cowardice are two different things, and treats them as such. Notice the reference to fear as a 'temporary and appropriate reaction in fearful circumstances.' The recognition that brave men may feel fear, and that such a feeling carries no disgrace with it is an important step forward in army thinking. The admission that fear may exist is an important step toward conquering it.

WHAT does the army consider necessary to maintain good morale. Co-operation, for one thing. Canada's army is a citizen army and its standard of education is fairly high; it is better for officers and men to work together on a reasonable basis rather than upon a system of marionette-like obedience. The officer must be respected and obeyed, but he must inspire respect and obedience in himself, and not by rank alone. Co-operation must also be evident in the work of the men among themselves; they must fight as a group, and not as individuals; platoon drill, rightly handled, is a powerful factor in producing this group feeling. It reasonable training does not produce proper results, Dr. Chisholm suggests that the platoon may need a new officer more than it needs further intensive drill.

CERTAIN matters not usually thought of by the layman as of first importance in army life are stressed by Dr. Chisholm as important adjuncts of morale. One of these is warmth. Soldiers must be prepared to endure hardship, but not unnecessarily. Warm men are usually friendly men, and cold men are cold of heart as well as of body. A desire to show off on the part of the soldier is also normal and should be given an outlet. Regimental badges, parades, bands, battle patches and service stripes all help in this way, and so does a proper respect for the soldier's personal opinion. In this war it is unwise for an officer who may be an indifferent mechanic to disregard the opinion of a private about a machine; the private may be an expert, and proper recognition will boost his morale considerably. Proper attention to the sexual life of his men, and to their religious observances are also among the duties of a good platoon commander.

FINALLY, Dr. Chisholm lays great stress on self-discipline in the officer as a begetter of good morale among his men. An army is not, and cannot be, a democratic institution, and the officer who would succeed must be able to take the place assigned to him and occupy it in a manner suitable to its importance. This does not involve arrogance, but it does not permit of too great intimacy, either. Men like to be commanded by someone whom they genuinely feel to be a superior, and not merely a superior officer.

Churchill Stops His Critics

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON

WASHINGTON, March 12 —(AP)— Whether or not Sir Stafford Cripps succeeds in bringing India's hundreds of millions wholeheartedly into the war against the Axis, his forthcoming journey to India appears to stop the anti-Churchill drive in London in its tracks indefinitely.

By that move (and the No. 2 man in the Churchill War Cabinet volunteered for duty) the only man mentioned in London despatches as a possible successor to Prime Minister Churchill steps of the home front political stage. He removes himself not only physically from the Parliamentary storm centre, but accepts a role calculated to test his statesmanship to the limit.

The result could make or break him as Britain's man of the future. Sir Stafford could not be unaware of that in offering to take the thorny Indian problem off Mr. Churchill's hands for negotiation. In so doing he pointedly reaffirmed his own faith in the Churchill leadership and knocked the props out from under home critics demanding Mr. Churchill's scalp.

There is much to suggest official foreknowledge in Washington of what was to happen in London. President Roosevelt appointed an American commision to help develop India's war resources only a few days before Mr. Churchill's eagerly awaited policy declaration.

MOVE PLEASES WASHINGTON

The implication is inescapable that Washington not only regards Sir Stafford as the logical Briton for the difficult task he undertakes in India, but also welcomes indefinite deferment of a leadership crisis in London. A change in British leadership at this critical time could only impair to some extent the unity of action and strategic purpose sealed by the United Nations pact.

The logic of the Cripps assignment, however, is even more appealing from a purely military standpoint than from its political aspects. He is the vital link between Russia and the rest of the Allies; the prophet of Russian military capacity to beat back any future German onslaught.

What Sir Stafford has to say in India as to Russian war capacities and purposes could go far to induce full Indian co-operation. And India, with Japanese aggressors already approaching her frontiers in Burma, contains one of the greatest manpower pools in the world.

POLICY REVISION SEEN

For stated reasons that were persuasive, Mr. Churchill did not reveal the "conclusions" which have been reached in London and which Sir Stafford carries to India for discussion with all national groups there. It is clear, however, that the way has been paved for prompt and drastic revision of Anglo-Indian relations on a pattern acceptable to Indian aspirations for independence within the shelter of the British Commonwealth. Mr. Churchill's statement leaves an impression that Sir Stafford goes armed with a virtual blank cheque as to details and timing.

The recent visit of the Chinese leader, General Chiang Kai-shek, to India is an integral part of the picture, just as is the timing of Washington's announcement of the commission to India. Concerted United Nations action focusing on the Indian political segment of the battlefront is obvious.

Soldier's First Aid Alphabet

A—Stands for Artery—
Blood is bright red,
Stop it at once or your comrade is is dead
B—Is for Burns—
Give them all your best care,
Use Tannic Acid and exclude the air.
C—Stands for Cuts—
A danger each time,
Cleanse them with water, then use iodine.
D—For the Doctor—
He knows all the tricks,
Send for him at once or you'll be in a fix.
E—For Your Eyes—
That get filled up with dust,
Use Castor Oil, if rub them you must.
F—Stands for Fracture—
A break of a bone,
Splint on the spot or leave it alone.
G—Is for Gassing—
Bring man to fresh air,
Apply respiration with infinite care.
H—Stands for Haemorrhage—
Bleeding, you know,
A pad with tight bandage may stop the flow.
I—Is for Injury—
Crush or bad knock,
Send for a Doctor, keep warm to prevent shock.
J—Stands for Joint—
Dislocation or sprain,
Cold or hot compresses, stops swelling or pain.
K—For the Knee-cap—
Should it go "Flop,"
Back splint the fracture, put ice on the top.
L—Stands for Lint—
A dressing to use,
After cleaning the wound, be sure not to lose.
M—Is for Makeshift—
And here are two hints,
Use great-coats for stretchers, and bayonets for Splints.
N—Is for Nose-bleeds—
Quite common by "Heck"
Raise arms overhead, put ice on the neck.
O—Means Occipital—
Fracture will show,
Bleeding from ear, in case you don't know.
P—Is for Poison—
Act swift if you are wise,
For corrosive that burns, you must neutralize.
Q—Is for Questions—
With tact you may ask,
If patient is conscious to lessen your task.
R—Is for Rupture—
Just bring up your knees,
Then cold applications to give patient ease.
S—Is for Shock—
Keep the patient warm,
Give stimulants carefully, to prevent further harm.
T—Is important—
It means Tourniquet—
Used to stop bleeding,
The pressure point way.
U—Means Unconsciousness—
Place man on his back,
Head to one side and clothing quite slack.
V—Is for Vertebrae—
Spine or backbone—
If fracture is suspected, leave patient alone.
W—Is for Wounds—
May be small or great,
Offset infection before it is too late.
X—Marks the spot where a soldier was laid,
For his comrades knew nothing of simple First Aid.
Y—Is for You—
Who are given these rules,
Will you learn and be wise, or reject and be fools.
Z—Stands for Zeal—
Or may stand for Zest—
In either case give what in you is best,
Your comrade's life may quickly fade
If you lack the knowledge of Simple First Aid.

MOBILE BATHS

ONE of the most unusual gifts received by the Red Cross and St. John War Organization has come from the British War Relief Society of America. This is a mobile bath, designed and equipped for use at rest centres in towns where, after air attack, gas, electricity, and water services may be out of action. The travelling bath operates without any outside aid. It carries its own water, boilers, stove and coal bin, and is able to heat 30 gallons of water at a time. The vehicle is also fitted with laundry apparatus and medical necessities. Twelve baths for children, and ten zinc baths for adults, together with kettles and water cans, soap and towels, are provided by this new and practical mobile unit.—Edinburgh Scotsman.

9 Drift 16 Hours After Torpedoing

An East Coast Canadian Port, March 12 (CP)—Rescued by a British patrol boat in the Western Atlantic after drifting 16 hours in a lifeboat during a storm, nine survivors of a torpedoed ship have reached port.

The survivors said all their shipmates escaped from the vessel after the torpedo struck and that the remainder were in two other lifeboats. The lifeboats kept together for some hours but became separated during the night. The rescued seamen said there was a good chance their companions had been picked up by another ship.

One seaman, who declined to give his name because he feared reprisals against relatives living in his Nazi-occupied homeland, said the torpedo struck the vessel on the starboard side at the forewardhold.

"I saw hatches, ballast stone, huge pieces of iron, blown to the sky by the force of the explosion," he said. "The ship began sinking very fast. Water poured over the deck. The torpedo must have gone right through the ship."

Appeal To Prince

LONDON, March 12—(CP)—The British Red Cross cabled an appeal to the Japanese Red Cross through international headquarters at Geneva today seeking assurances that additional atrocities, such as Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden reported yesterday, will not be committed against prisoners of war at Hong Kong.

The message carried a personal appeal to Prince Shimazu, head of the prisoners of war relief section of the Japanese Red Cross, to "take every possible step" to give the Hong Kong captives Red Cross protection "and to ensure that such treatment does not occur in the future."

Canada's Pacific Ports Big Aid Feeding Alaska

OTTAWA, March 12 — (CP). — Canadian railways and Canadian ports on the Pacific coast will play an important part in rushing United States war supplies to Alaska, according to information available here yesterday.

By using Canadian ports and railways it will be possible to deliver immense shipments to Alaskan ports along sheltered water routes and entail a big saving in shipping, since the Canadian ports are much nearer Alaska than Seattle would be.

The rail-water route will be in operation almost immediately, officials here say.

Meanwhile United States engineers already are on the job making surveys for the new highway.

The plans call for a pioneer road which will be built by United States engineering regiments.

The pioneer road will be narrow and is planned to provide for about 15 per cent of the traffic a full broad surfaced road would make possible. It will be somewhat like the roads the logging companies build for their tractors.

As soon as the pioneer road is completed, contracts will be let for completing the highway, broadening it and building permanent surfaces. As the expense of the road is being borne by United States, the Federal Highway Commission will have the say about these contracts.

The 1,200 odd miles over which the road will stretch will probably be advanced sufficiently by the freeze-up to enable winter roads to connect the gaps so that the road can be used next winter, officials here predicted.

CAMERON HIGHLANDERS CAPTURE OVERSEAS LOOP HOCKEY TITLE

4,000 Soldiers See Medical Corps Beaten 5-4

(By ROSS MUNRO.)

Somewhere in England, March 12 —(CP Cable)—Pte. Scotty Law of Winnipeg fired a last-minute goal last night to give the Cameron Highlanders of his home town the Canadian Overseas Forces hockey championship with a 5-4 victory over the Royal Canadian Army Medical Corps in a best-of-three series. More than 4,000 soldiers saw the game.

Law's goal, his second of the night, climaxed a thrilling game which saw first one team and then the other take the lead. The defences held sway for 2½ periods, but the forwards broke loose in the last 10 minutes to score six goals, Camerons' Pte. H. McGill of Winnipeg getting two of them within 10 seconds. Camerons won the first game 3-2.

Law opened the scoring with the only goal of the first period as the teams played cautious, defensive hockey. The second period also was comparatively slow, Sonny Pratt of Fort William, Ont., getting the Medicos' first goal on an assist from QMS. Bill Hogarth and Sgt. Ozzie Harrison of Winnipeg scored again for Camerons to give them back the lead.

Hogarth battled his way through the whole Cameron team to tie the score midway through the third frame and the fireworks started.

They Couldn't Stop Law.

Pte. Bill Stenbach of Fort William, put the Meds ahead when he butted into the centre of a mix-up around the Camerons' net and banged in a loose puck.

Then McGill jumped into the breach for Camerons with his two rapid-fire goals, Pte. George Waters of Regina, assisting him with the first and Law getting in one the second.

The Meds returned to the attack, playing five men forward in an attempt to break the tie and Pte. Lloyd Styam of Magog, Que., counted three minutes before the end of the game with a long shot from the wing.

But the Doctors could not hold Law, who kept plugging away and finally scored the winning goal from 20 feet out.

Lt.-Gen. H. D. G. Crerar, Canadian Corps Acting Commander, and visional commanders were among the spectators.

The teams:

Camerons — Goal, Pte. George MacDonald; defence, Harrison, Law; centre, McGill; wings, Cpls. Fred Sutherland and A. Smith; alternates, W. Conway, Pte. Cliff Mitchell, Pte. Nick Carter, Pte. W. Morris, Waters. All except Waters are from Winnipeg.

Medicals—Goal, Pte. Ted Russel, Montreal; defence, Hogarth, S.S.M. Kem Goody, Cobourg, Ont.; centre, Pratt; wings, Styam, Cpl. George Nisbet, Fort William; alternates, Tpr. The Sports Round-Up

By HUGH S. FULLERTON, JR.
Associated Press Sport Writer.

NEW YORK, March 12 —(AP)— End of the first wartime hockey season is bringing a lot of rumors about what may happen to the game ....Latest story (from Buffalo) is that Canadian clubs will try to have all the teams shifted to Canada for the duration....Hockey men hereabouts say it ain't so; that they'll either round up enough players to carry on with the present setup or there won't be any hockey....Still, Bill Tobin of the Black Hawks is quoted as saying his club won't even approach the Canadian Government to let boys play on a 24-hour recall basis as they have been doing this year....Anyway, it's a cinch that players will be joining up in wholesale lots as soon as this season is over....And if the military keeps taking figure skaters at the present rate, don't be surprised if Sonja Henie comes out with an all girl ice revue next fall.

When Hobbs Adams called on his Kansas State football candidates this spring after giving the meeting plenty of publicity, only 20 boys showed up instead of the 100 he expected....Jimmy Johnston broadcasts that his boy, Abe Simon, has a swell chance against Joe Louis because Joe will lack confidence if Jack Blackburn isn't in his corner.

When Dave Castilloux of Montreal, New England and Canadian lightweight champion, joined the R.C.A.F., the Maine Boxing Commission decreed he could hold his state title for a year without defending it. Then they began to wonder about his eligibility for the New England crown, since his home is in Canada.

Baseball Training Camp Notes

TAMPA, Fla., March 12—(AP).— Ray Starr, 35-year-old rookie who pitched six inning for Cincinnati Reds in yesterday's exhibition with Boston Red Sox, heard Manager Bill McKechnie complain he might not have a pitcher for Saturday's game. "I'll be ready," said Ray. "All I need is 12 hours' sleep and I'm always ready."

DE LAND, Fla.—The signing of Outfielder Roy Cullenbine, who batted .317 last season, left Rick Ferrell, veteran catcher, and Johnny Lucadello, sophomore second baseman, as the only St. Louis Brown holdouts. Neither has been heard from since contracts were mailed.

AVALON, Calif. — Aside from pitching, says Manager Jimmy Wilson, there are two wide open jobs with the Chicago Cubs—left field and shortstop. Currently Rookie Harry Lowrey has first call in left field, teaming with Charley Gilbert and Bill Nicholson. Bob Sturgeon is the No. 1 shortstop now, but is being pressed by Len Merullo.

SARASOTA, Fla.—Now that the Red Sox have lost their last three exhibition games, chiefly because they aren't hitting, Manager Joe Cronin intends to devote all of today's open date to batting practice. Even Ted Williams can't connect.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. — Joe Gordon apparently lost none of his class during his holdout siege. The Yankee second baseman handled seven chances flawlessy in his second game yesterday, bringing his two-day total to 19. Two of his chances were running catches with his back to the plate.

SPORTS – DAY BY DAY

By FRED D. CRAIG

Hockey fans as well as the players and management of the Petes are hoping that tonight will bring a cold dip to make possible a good cushion for Friday night when Merritton Redmen will be here for the second game in the Senior B final series. The Petes decided yesterday to take a chance on the weather and to go ahead with the arrangements for a game here, instead of at Oshawa. So the present layout calls for the appearance of Merritton at Brock St. Rink tomorrow night. The battle should draw the biggest crowd of the year as a tribute to the Petes who, deprived of a chance to play at home for the past two weeks, have gone ahead winning on outside rinks until now they have got a good grip on the O.H.A. Senior B title. The will-to-win shown by the Ellis-Scates squad rates a crowded rink and there is every indication that they will be packed in like sardines as the two finalists grapple in the second game of the final round for the honors.

* * * * * *

The Petes are in the driver's seat by reason of their clean-cut win on St. Catharines ice last night but they are not out of the woods yet, Merritton showed a lot of latent talent. They have plenty of hustle and are just the kind of squad that is liable to upset the applecart just when most folk are getting ready to hold a postmortem on them. They have some well known performers including "Horse" Deshon, an effective defence player and a squad of lively forwards of whom Saunders and Melville of the starting line and the seventeen-year-old St. Catharines junior star Robinson are the pick. Buffalo Bisons have been after this former Timmins kid with a pro offer and while he has something to learn the youngster turned in a nice card against the Petes. The Redmen look like the kind of a squad that will be back battling here tomorrow night just as hard as if they had won the opening game. The Petes cannot take chances against a hustling team like the Merritton crew and so tomorrow night's tussle should be a lively affair all the way.

The Petes Come Through

The Peterborough squad came through their St. Catharines test like potential champions. They were right at home on the big Garden City cushion and turned in a performance that highly tickled the crowd of Peterborough boys living in the Niagara Peninsula who were on hand to root for the team from their old home town. Red Hollingsworth, Mutt Mowry, Ab Frick, Jerry Whaley, Coyle Downer, Frank Convery and other Peterborough exiles were at the ringside to support the Petes and their only lament was that there was no Merritton money in sight. "We figured on getting enough bets to pay our income tax," one of the gang said. "We sent a wad over to the Hayes Wire plant but instead of being covered it was sent back with no takers." But bets or no bets, the old boys got a thrill out of the showing of the Petes. "Give that bunch about three more men," Mutt Mowry exclaimed, "and they could sail along in Senior A company without difficulty." As for the St. Catharines fans who saw the game their verdict was that the Peterborough gang were too good for the Redmen and more than one came through with the opinion that the Petes looked just as good as this year's Kingston Combines.

* * * * * *

The Peterborough players and the few fans who made the long trip came back full of envy in regard to the splendid Garden City Arena, built partly by public subscription and partly by a grant through the city council endorsed by the ratepayers. It is an ideal hockey plant with a big ice surface, an adequate freezing system, a modern electric clock, a fine public address system, a broadcasting booth, a gondola press box, glassed in and offering plenty of room, and roomy dressing-rooms with ample showers. As for the public, the building will seat 3,200 with standing-room for 1,300 more and every inch of the ice can be seen from any place in the arena. Bright-colored seats and hundreds of flags suspended from the arched ceiling add materially to the appearance of the place. The arena is under the management of the city parks board and is admirably operated. It is a credit to St. Catharines.

Can They Hold The Lead?

Chief interest in basketball circles this week is centred around the question of whether or not Outboard Marines can hold their lead when they tackle Johnny Edwards' Kingston Combinse in Kingston on Saturday night. Total points on the round decide the issue and Outboards have a margin of 13 points as a result of their 47 to 34 win over the Kingston cagers here Saturday night. The Kingston court is much bigger than the local Y.M.C.A. floor and that is a factor that may have considerable bearing on the final result: However the Peterborough team are confident of their ability to come through. They will complete their training for the Kingston trip with a game with Collegiate seniors tonight at the Collegiate gym which is considerably bigger than the Y and it is expected that the battle on the large court will put the local cagers in good shape for their Saturday night test. The winners of the round will meet the winners of the Toronto Earl Greys-St. Catharines series.

* * * * * *

Coach Bamforth's senior Collegiate and Vocational School team who have been without games all season, except for the City League scheduled battles will play their first interscholastic tilt of the season tomorrow when they meet Oshawa Collegiate, the winners to represent this group in the Cossa finals in Toronto. The Peterborough students have a good outfit, as their feat of finishing tied for second place with Dominions in the City League race shows, and they should give an excellent account of themselves in Toronto, if they get by the Oshawa team, which they should do. Albert College of Belleville will be the Quinte district representative in the Cossa competition.

* * * * * *

The playoff season in the Ladies' Basketball League will get away a week from tomorrow night and in the meantime a number of scheduled games remain to be played. Westclox and Normal School will clash tonight. In the Friday night double-header Electrics will meet Quakers in the first game and Y Gym and Generals will tangle in the second. The regular schedule ends Monday with a game between the Generals and St. John's but the teams have a couple of postponed games to pick up early next week.

* * * * * *

Sporting Chili Con Carne: Two officials handled last night's game at St. Catharines....There should have been four on the job for the Collingwood series....The Petes' farm team, the Omemee Black Hawks have been knocked out of the running by Markham....Oshawa Generals got away to a good start in the Junior A final series with Guelph winning at home last night 5 to 1. And apparently nothing was thrown on the ice either.... Trenton R.C.A.F. who are five points down in their senior championship series with Tip Tops have been strengthened by the addition of Phibbs, former No. 6 I.T.S. star, and McLeod and Wansboro, recently transferred from Aylmer to Trenton....The first goal scored by the Petes last night would not have counted last year. The puck went into the net off Jopling's skate....Merritton had the benefit of two minor penalty shots last night and failed to take advantage of either of them....The Rocco brothers who play for Merritton are twins and it is a tough job to tell them apart....The Petes did not spread out their scoring as much as usual last night. Only five of the squad shot goals.

Library Dates Taboo

SALT LAKE CITY, March 12.— (AP)—There'll be no more library dates at the University of Utah. The boys and girls are too noisy when they study (?) together, observed Librarian L. H. Kirkpatrick, assigning men to the west end, women to the east wing of the building.

No Women's Beer Rooms

TORONTO, March 12 — (CP). — Toronto city council last night passed a resolution by a vote of 18 to 2 urging the abolition of women's beverage rooms in the city, removal of tables and chairs from men's beverage rooms and a shortening of the hours of sale. The resolution will be forwarded to Premier Hepburn.

Ted Williams' Case Settled, Red Sox Settle Down

(By GAYLE TALBOT.)

SARASOTA, Fa., March 12 (AP) —Everybody around the Boston Red Sox camp is vastly relieved that Ted Williams' case has reached a temporary breathing spell so that they can get on with the main business of preparing for the American League baseball race.

For a couple of days the hotel lobby looked like a convention of profesional pallbearers, with a whispering group beside every pillar and all eyes glued on the front door, waiting for the remains to be hauled in. Everybody was wondering how the lone, unhappy kid whose draft status was deferred by the President's board would conduct himself. There was little talk of anything else.

Now, happily, the tension has snapped and Manager Joe Cronin is going about the business of training his team with new purpose and pep. Williams, one of the game's greatest batters, has thrown himself into the conditioning program and his teammates are making a point of showing him they are on his side.

Williams, object of a controversy that had been nation-wide for a week, made a dramaticaly good impression upon the crowd of newspapermen that surrounded him and peppered him with questions after he drove in from Minneapolis. Several who frankly had been critical of Ted's apparent reluctance to rush into the army said they had changed their opinion after hearing him give his side of it.

One to Get Around

The one that got them was when Ted said with obvious emotion: "Fellows, do you think if I didn't feel I was being absolutely honest that I would face what I'm going to have to go through? Why, if there's a crowd of 30,000 in the park and one man is riding me, he's the one I always hear."

The chief point Williams stressed was that he did not ask for deferment in the draft. He bogged down somewhat trying to explain the complicated machinations of the Minneapolis board, but was positive of the main point: that he consented to a re-hearing of his case—did not request it.

"All I want to do is play this season," he explained. "Then my mother will be provided for and I'll do anything they say. Right now I haven't a cent except $6,000 tied up in an annuity, and I'll lose that unless I pay it out this year. All I want to do is provide for my mother, and I don't think there's anything wrong with that. Furthermore, I'll pay about $17,000 income tax, so it isn't as though I won't be doing something to help."

Ted found 62 letters waiting for him here. Seven of them were of a business variety. Of the remaining 55, there were 30 giving him fits for his lack of patriotism. There were 25 advising him to stay in there and slug it out. The division did not leave him too downcast.

Majors To Meet Bisons Friday

HAMILTON, Ont., March 12. — (CP).—A best of five series for the right to advance in Canadian senior hockey championship playoffs will begin here to-morrow night between Hamilton Majors, Ontario Hockey Association Senior "A" champions, and Buffalo-Ankerite Bisons, senior titlists of the Northern Ontario Hockey Association.

The second game of the series will be played here Monday night, with the third at Schumacher, Ont., Wednesday and the fourth, if necessary, in Schumacher Thursday. If a fifth game is necessary, it will be played in Toronto Maple Leaf Gardens Saturday, March 21.

SOLDIERS WHIP MERRITTON 9 TO 4 IN FIRST OF O. H. A. FINALS

Two Goals In First Two Minutes Give Petes Edge On Redmen Who Are Outskated and Outplayed

By FRED D. CRAIG

Peterborough Soldiers took a big stride toward the O.H.A. Senior B championship Wednesday night at St. Catharines when they handed the Merritton Hayes Wire Redmen a 9 to 4 lacing in the first of the best three-in-five game series for the Ontario title. It was the fifth playoff win in a row for the Petes and their fourth in succession away from home.

Second game of the series is scheduled for Brock St. Rink on Friday night.

Coach Jim Ellis' squad took Merritton in their stride to get the jump on the series. Outskating the Redmen and showing much more effective stick-handling and passing, they played confident hockey and looked the better team at all stages. They knocked Merritton back on their heels with two goal-getting thrusts inside the first two minutes of play and from then on it was a stern chase for the boys from the wire plant. Redmen tried hard but the Petes were moving too fast for them and the visitors won going away, after having made every post a winning one.

Razzle-Dazzle Line Shine

In the second game against Collingwood it was the Petes' second line who supplied the bulk of the scoring power. Last night the Nichols-Blewett-Bennett-Reilly combination fell off the Collingwood pace a little but the razzle-dazzle line took care of the situation by coming through with a six-goal effort, paced by Honey Tompkins who pegged in four goals during the engagement and Bun Kingdon who set up three perfect scoring plays and registered a counter himself. Art Heal also added a goal to the first line's total while Joe Blewett cashed in with two and Din Reilly potted the other marker.

Ray Harding came through with some great stops at close-range and in front of him the Crowe-Jopling and the Godfrey-Burton defence combinations played smart hockey in handling the Redmen raids.

The Merritton Star

Merritton had a lot of speed and a lot of drive and they stayed in there until the final gong, in spite of the score. Clement, much-touted goalie from St. Boniface, Man., made some nice saves but on other attempts the Petes made him look very ordinary. Joe Desson, former St. Catharines player, was the best guard the Redmen had out there while the pick of the forwards were Melville and Saunders of the starting line and young Robinson of the second line. The latter, a Timmins kid, has been starring all season with the St. Catharines juniors and showed considerable foot and puck-carrying ability.

The Petes outscored the losers 3 goals to 0 in the first period, split four counters with Merritton in the second session and then came on to rattle home four goals as against two for the Redmen in the final twenty minutes. The margin might easily have been larger had the Soldiers cashed in on all their scoring chances. In the final period Merritton had to throw caution to the winds in a desperate effort to pull the game out of the fire and the Petes got a bunch of breakaways. Twice in succession Joe Blewett intercepted a pass and raced in at top speed only to shoot wide as he tried to pull Clement out.

Two Quick Goals

The razzle-dazzle line took command of the game in their first time out, Honey Tompkins rattling in two goals in the first 83 seconds. Right off the reel the Petes went on the attack, Jopling led a rush and passing back to Tompkins dashed in for a forward pass. When Honey shot the rubber forward it struck Jopling as he crossed in front of the net and went into the cage. Just half a minute later Tompkins raced in with Kingdon's perfect long forward pass and rapped another goal past Clement.

The Petes continued to press with the second line in action but failed to click. Harding robbed Merritton on a couple of chances by nice stops but most of the Merritton attacks were stopped by the Petes' good backchecking.

Finally at the 10:25 mark the Petes went three in front when Kingdon broke away and beat the Merritton defence cold with a neat pass to Art Heal who went in close to drive home the rubber.

The Petes cam close half a dozen times more before the end of the period. Merritton lost one chance on a breakaway when they caught the Petes with only Johnny Godfrey back. Desson set Saunders up with a wide pass but Harding made a dazzling stop to rob the Merritton player.

Split Goals In Second

Play was more even in the second period although the Petes continued to have an edge on the play, but the teams split so far as scoring was concerned. Both sides missed opportunities early in the session and it was not until Robinson drew a penalty after five minutes and the Petes staged a ganging attack that got them a goal when Jopling passed to Kingdon who drilled a shot to the corner of the net. Robinson was still off when Merritton finally scored. Joe Desson got in on a breakaway from a Petes' power play. He raced in on Harding and although Ray came out and stopped him the Merritton defenceman scooped the puck into the empty net as he lay on the ice. The Redmen came back with a second goal a little more than a minute later on a pass from Hand to Saunders who went in close and scored.

The Petes got that back a little later when Reilly shoved Nichols' long forward pass past Clement. There was no further scoring in the period. Merritton ganged up a lot but failed to register and the Petes also missed on breakaways.

Two Penalty Shots

The early part of the third period was marked by the calling of two penalty shots against Ray Harding for tripping. Melville took the first one and his drive was high and wide of the net. Shortly after Louie Spancheff tried his luck on a penalty shot but Harding kicked out his hard shot to the corner of the cage. At the 6:40 mark the Petes increased their lead when Bruce Bennett picked up a loose puck in Merritton territory and drilled a hot one at Clement. The Redmen goalie blocked the drive but Blewett closed in fast and back-handed the rebound into the twine.

Merritton got that back in less than a minute when Saunders set Melville up with a smooth forward pass and the wingman scored from the corner of the crease.

Tompkins made it 7 to 3 shortly afterward when he intercepted a Merritton pass at the Petes' blue line and got a clean breakaway outracing the pack and picking a corner when he got in close. Merritton ganged up but had no luck, although they came close several times. With just four seconds over five minutes left until the end of the game Don Crowe and Joe Desson, Merritton defenceman mixed it up and both were chased for five-minute major penalties. A moment after Drake Jopling drew a penalty and when he protested Referee McLean clapped a misconduct penalty on him.

Playing five men against four, with Johnny Godfrey, Bun Kingdon and Honey Tompkins, the only skating members of the Petes in action Merritton tried to put on the pressure but the attempt blew up in their faces when Kingdon put Tompkins in the clear with a perfect pass and the right-winger shook off pursuit and dashed in to fire his fourth goal of the night past Clement. Blewett and Nichols replaced Kingdon and Tompkins and the Petes although short-handed continued on the attack. Twice Blewett intercepted passes and broke into the clear to skate in on top of Clement and both times he failed to score.

With Robinson off for hooking, however, Blewett finally succeeded when he stick-handled out of a corner, cut in across the goal and back-handed one well out of Clement's reach. That made it 9 to 3 and it looked like the final score but with only two seconds to go, Saunders, centre ice player for the Redmen went down alone, pushed the rubber past the defence and went round in time to pick it up and drive a shot just an inch under the top corner of the net for a smart goal.

Friendly Gents, Aren't They

Looks like a football huddle on the ice, but these hockeyists aren't talking over the next play. They're "discussing," with sticks and fists, the last one. Most unusual thing about the picture is that the photographer has caught all 12 players in the picture.

Generals Whip Guelph 5-1 In Final Opener

OSHAWA, March 12 (Special). — Oshawa Generals commenced the fourth straight defense of their O.H.A. junior crown here tonight by handing the Guelph Biltmores a 5-1 reverse. The victory may prove costly though, for the homesters lost the services of Kenny McNaught in the second period when he was crashed into the boards by Mayer, who charged across the ice to spill the Oshawa speedster into the corner. McNaught was carried off and did not return.

Bill Mortimer, with a brilliant solo goal and then a flip lift from a scramble in front of the Guelph net, was the Oshawa hero as he gave the Generals a 2-0 lead in a blistering first period. The Biltmores adopted a more rugged style of play in the middle canto, but the Oshawa kids evaded the majority of the intended bumps and protected their lead, aided greatly by another grand goal-tending performance by Ross Waddell.

Early in the third period Davies and Tommy Depew broke away and with a brilliant piece of criss-cross passing, sifted by Reise, who was back to defend. At the goalmouth they again changed possession to completely fool Little, in the net.

The next score came at the six minute mark when Tilson stole the puck at the Guelph blue line, flung a clean pass across to Curry and the winger beat Little all the way with a screaming shot that caught the far upper corner. Trying to overtake Curry on the play, big blond Reise threw himself across the ice and, in so doing, injured his bad ankle. The defenseman, who is just back after recovering from a broken ankle bone several weeks ago, had to be helped off the ice. He returned later but saw little action. Guelph spoiled Oshawa's shutout at the sixteen minute mark when McDonald fired from Waddell's doorstep during a power play. Tilson and Curry got this one back when they broke away as Guelph were hemming them in and Curry's hot shot beat Little all the way.

Both goalies performed in sensational fashion last night with Little having more work than Waddell and doing it equally well. He was cleanly beaten on the five that got by and Waddell had no chance either on the lone tally that beat him.

Sharing honors with Waddell and Mortimer for Oshawa, were Red Tilson and Floyd Curry, who were responsible for two goals between them, while Tilson also aided Depew in his score. Orlando, Mayer, McDonald and Cressman were to the fore for the Guelph club, which showed up well defensively, but lacked punch inside the Oshawa blue line.

Guelph — Goal, Little; defense, Swales and Reise; centre, Cressman; wings, Orlando and Grasser; subs, A. McDonald, Voll, Martin, Moyer, Olinski, Hilliard and Woolner (sub goal).

Oshawa—Goal, Waddell; defense, Guidolin and Mortimer; centre, McNaught; wings, Wilson and Davies; subs, Tilson, Curry, Smith, Sullivan, Depew, Galbraith, and Schad (sub goal).

Officials—F. W. (Dinty) Moore, Port Colborne, and J. R. (Jock) Bennett of Toronto.

At the Regent—Fri., Sat.

"Pacific Blackout" with Robert Preston, also second hit, "King of Dodge City."

Lone PGA Meet Set May 25 to 31

MIAMA, Fla., March 12 —(AP)— The Professional Golfers Association tournament, the only national championship event to be played this year, will be held May 25-31.

Members of the tournament committee picked the dates during the Miami Biltmore's international four-ball tournament this week, and P.G.A. President Ed Dudley approved them.

Three bids for the event have been received, but the site has not yet been selected. The tournament is awarded for $15,000.

Funds for war charities will be raised during the tournament through some method not yet selected.

The 32 low scorers in the 36-hole qualifying round will take part in match play. Last year 64 were bracketed for match play. This year all matches will be over the 36-hole route.

About 600 of the 2,200 P.G.A. members take part in the sectional qualifying events held to decide the 120 who actually tee off in the main event.

The P.G.A. pays the railroad fare of all competitors in the championship.

Capitols And Bears Both Win As American Loop Race Tightens

By The Canadian Press

Even if Cleveland, Indianapolis or Hershey clubs don't win the American Hockey League crown this season, followers of the minor loop will be able to look back on three top-flight teams who are presently engaged in one of the bitterest stretch-drive battles in the history of the circuit for Western division honors.

For the past few weeks, the right for the leadoff spot in the section has attained more importance than if the clubs were engaged in actual playoff games, and today the difference between the clubs is only paper thin, with the division title still within reach of any one of them.

Cleveland still holds the whip hand, but both Indianapolis Capitals and Hershey's Bears scored victories last night to make the difference between the clubs only one point each way. The Caps scored a 4-2 victory over Buffalo Bisons to move within a point of the Barons, while Hershey took Philadelphia in tow, 5-2, and now stands but two points off the pace.

Two other games were played last night. Washington Lions assured themselves of a playoff spot in the Eastern division by beating New Haven Eagles, 7-4, while Springfield Indians, who have already won first place in the Eastern table, suffered their second straight loss at the hands of Pittsburg, 5-1.

Two Fast Tallies

After being held on even terms in the first period when Clarence Drouillard scored for Buffalo and Les Douglas tied the score, Indianapolis took command in the second period, as Gus Giesebrecht scored two goals. The former Detroit forward tallied both his goals within little more than two minutes of each other.

The veteran Max Bennett relayed Dede Kleinwjs' pass from Jack Toupin to pull Buffalo within a point of the Caps, but with less than five minutes of play remaining, Connie Brown again scored for Caps.

Hershey had little trouble in overcoming Philadelphia as it took a 1-0 lead in the first period, moved ahead 3-1 in the second and outscored the Rockets in the last period for its 5-2 win.

Bob Kirk paced the Hershey attack with two goals, while Gayle Stewart, Bob Gracie and Jack Riley scored the others. Bob Bowman and Les Wade counted for Philadelphia.

New Haven Eagles blew wide open against Washington Lions when they took a 4-0 lead in the first period, only to see the Lions score seven straight goals against Goaler Mike Karakas, on loan from Providence Reds in the absence of injured Phil Stein.

A Whirlwind Start

Eagles started their offensive in whirlwind fashion with Patterson, Norm Burns with two, and Shack scoring. Washington got two of these back in the same period on goals by Stu Smith and Alan Shields.

Stan Rooke and Louis Trudel counted in the middle period to put Washington on even terms. Then in the closing period Lions continued to run rampant with Polly Drouin, Georges Mantha and Connie Tudin, marking up additional goals against New Haven.

Pittsburg Hornets, holders of the cellar position in the Western section, did a workmanlike job in walloping Springfield's champions. Nor Mann, Harry Currie and Cecil Dillon scored before Springfield broke the ice on a goal by Herb Lewis. That tally, however, ended the Indians' scoring, as Al Sherf and Norm Grigg of Pittsburg got the only goals in the third period.

With Good Care Birds Can Live 10 To 15 Years

CAMPBELLFORD, Mar. 12 (ENS) —Jack Wilimink, this town's number one hobbyist, addressed the Christ Church Men's club at their meeting Monday. Speaking on his hobby 'Ornithology' Mr. Wilimink gave some interesting facts concerning some of the thirty-two varieties of birds which inhabit his aviary at the present time and extended an invitation to those in attendance to come and see for themselves. A member of both British and American avicultural societies the speaker told members many interesting facts concerning birds and stressed the difficulty of breeding many varieties in captivity. This was partly compensated for by the fact that birds in captivity live much longer than those in their natural environment. The normal life span of most small birds he said, was from 3 to 4 years but if kept in an aviary and properly cared for they will live for from 10 to 15 years. He told of the still more specialized hobby of 'hand feeding' birds. A permit is required to do this and the young birds must be taken from their parents before their quill feathers begin to come out and as they reach maturity they will develop absolutely fearless of man.

Even the aviculturist is feeling the effect of the war and many breeders have been compelled to dispose of rare specimens for which food has either become unavailable or will soon be impossible to obtain. Mr. Wilimink told the gathering he had been witness to what is considered a rare biological occurrence. A Bengalese bird, a hybrid, native of India, in his aviary had laid two eggs, and from one of these two young had been born. Another fact he revealed was that contrary to popular belief the Macaw was a good talker and his bird of this breed not only talked very clearly but also laughed in either a high or low key. He questioned the theory advanced by medical science that birds of the parrot class spread what is known as "parrot fever." The macaw's bill is so tough he had been unable to get a chain which the bird could carry comfortably, that the bird was unable to bite in two.

Of his more than seventy-five birds, which include African, Indian, Australian and European varieties, the speaker said that none was more interesting than the European Goldfinch, which he claimed was very easy to train. It can be taught to recognize various sounds and get its own food and water by going through a fairly complicated routine of motions.

Following his remarks Joseph Poulton moved a vote of thanks to the speaker and President Sidney Hopping announced that Mr. J. Sokota of the Bata Shoe Company would be guest speaker on March 23rd. The club is planning to hold a dance in place of the regular meeting next Monday evening and Jimmy Jones and his orchestra of Trenton will provide the music.

Hand Out Afghan Wool

Wool that will go into their second afghan was given out to members of the Victory Club at their regular meeting held Monday at the home of Miss Aileen Linton. The Material, purchased partly with proceeds from the bingo staged by the club in the Parish Hall recently, will be worked largely by individual effort and pieced together at a subsequent meeting.

During the evening one large quilt was completed for the Red Cross to whom it was turned over the following day while sufficient blocks for a crib quilt were also readied and will be pieced at the next meeting. The treasurer, Miss Pat Poulton, reported that donations of $15.00 to the Red Cross and $10.00 to the British War Victims' Fund, authorized last week, had been made. Mrs. E. G. Tinney has offered her home for the next meeting.

Free Sick Aid For Pensioners

TORONTO, March 12 (CP)—The Ontario Medical Association yesterday approved the plan whereby recipients of the Old Age Pension and women benefiting from the Mothers' Allowance and their dependents will receive free medical attention, Dr. W. J. McCutcheon, secretary of the association announced.

The plan, which is an extension of the present system of granting medical aid to persons on relief, is scheduled tentatively to go into effect April 1 and will benefit 95,000 persons in the province he said. Nearly all doctors will take part in the plan.

The Ontario Government will pay 50 cents monthly for persons in Southern Ontario benefitting from the project and 65 cents for those in Northern Ontario because of the greater mileage involved for doctors attending them, Dr. McCutcheon said. The grant covers home and office calls only.

Persons requiring hospital treatment and surgery will come under the same regulations governing the existing system for recipients of relief medical aid and will be sent to public wards of hospitals, he said.

Dr. McCutcheon said Ontario doctors, including the 3,000 practitioners working under the relief medical aid plan, have a free choice to take part in the plan if they wish. Accounts will be rendered monthly and will be submitted to taxing authority similar to that which exists in the matter of solicitors' accounts.

Price Advisory Centres Set Up

OTTAWA, March 12 — (CP). — Women's Regional Advisory Committes to help Canadian housewives do their part in maintaining the general price ceiling have been set up in 13 Canadian centres, Byrne Hope Sanders, director of the Consumer representation branch of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board, said today.

Just back from addressing more than 10,000 women in 10 Canadian cities, Miss Sanders said Canadian housewives are eager and anxious to help keep prices down.

"They realize it isn't spectacular or exciting to keep a price list but as controllers of 85 per cent of the nation's income they are going to cooperate with the government and do a good job," she said.

Price ceiling record books, with space for listing the purchase price of articles for comparative purposes, were distributed at the meetings.

Miss Sanders said the women's advisory regional committees were in each case elected by representatives of local organizations.

Centres which already have regional committees established include Brockville, Charlottetown, Edmonton, Halifax, London, Ont. Montreal, North Bay, Ont., Quebec City, Regina, Saint Johns, Nwfd., Toronto, Vancouver and Winnipeg.

Miss Sanders said that, under the regional committees, sub-committees known as "corresponding members" will be set up and through these will be selected liaison officers belonging to every woman's organization who would interpret and spread consumer information.

Shark Albatross Keeps 3 Fliers Alive 34 Days

PEARL HARBOR, HAWAII, March 12—(AP)—Accept the words of three United States navy fliers who were tossed by—and sometimes in—the stormy South Seas during 34 days adrift on a rubber raft. There are times when one is tickled to death to see a shark.

Shark liver....the meat of an albatross which chanced by....a fish caught with a pocket knife....a tern snatched by hand....a floating coconut. These sustained the courageous trio as, naked and baked by the sun, they used shoes for oars to travel 1,000 miles to the safety of an island after their land plane ran low on fuel and they were forced to alight in the ocean January 16.

Today they are recovering in Pearl Harbor—Harold Dixon, 42, of La Mesa, Calif., aviation chief machinist's mate and pilot; Gene Aldrich, 24, of Sikeston ,Mo., radioman; and Anthony J. Pastula, 24, of Youngstown, Ohio, aviation ordnanceman.

Let Dixon describe the day before their sighted land:—

"All our clothes were gone. We had failed rapidly in physical and mental condition. I'd already lost three sets of skin from sunburn, and I was cooked like a Thanksgiving turkey. Our tempers were short. I would get so mad I couldn't see when I would say something, and the boys would sit and appear not to hear.

No Time to Give Up.

"Things looked pretty sour but we agreed this was no time to give up. We tried to sleep in huddles at night, but part of the time we had to bail out the boat with our hands because the clothes used for a scoop had been ripped or washed away. We hadn't slept at all, only dozed."

The next morning Aldrich said to Dixon:

"Chief, I see a field of corn."

Dixon thought he was out of his head. Then the other two also saw the "cornfield"—an island with a cocoanut grove.

A hurricane buffeted the three as they staggered over reefs so rougn that the island natives had left them unguarded, believing them unsuited for any landing parties. That night the trio huddled in a mat shack they had found. Every moment they feared the hurricane would blow it away.

The next day natives found them and fed them. Ultimately a navy craft rescued them.

During their storm-tossed journe they had been so in need of food that Dixon even fought one shark with his bare fists. Aldrich also tried the bare-handed method — and a shark nipped him.

They solved the water problem by waiting for rain, taking off their soaked garments and squeezing the contents into a small container.

Getting Tires

UEFIELD, W.V., March 12 (AP)—Dr. J. J. Davidson of Rockey Gap, Va., found his car jacked up and all four tires gone. On the seat was an envelope containing $50 and the message: "You can buy tires. We can't."

A Scout-Built Bridge

To save a three-mile walk, following an evacuation, Boy Scouts of Telsted School, on the River Nye, near Monmouth, England, built this 167-foot suspension bridge. They did the entire work, felling trees, squaring them, and doing the knotting and lashing.

Cavan-Millbrook Below Objective

MILLBROOK, March 12 (ENS)—The amount subscribed in the current Victory Loan campaign for Millbrook and Cavan, was reported as $67,500. The total allotment for these two municipalities is $105,000, an increase of $30,000 over the objective set in the last loan when $75,000 was the amount asked for, and which was oversubscribed.

The collectors, L. H. Winslow, Kenneth Fallis and Nathani el Belch are continuing their work this week, as a number of calls have yet to be made, the bad condition of the roads; which compelled walking a good deal of the time, making it impossible to complete the canvass by Saturday night. Ivan L. H. Gray is also finishing his round of calls in the village the early part of this week.

The Victory Loan flag, which replaced the "Torch" of the last campaign, and which has been flying from the pole in front of the Town Hall while the present one has been in progress, had to be taken down on Monday owing to the high velocity wind which prevailed all day.

Darlan Wants It

LONDON, March 12 — CP).—A British source declared today there was "no indication at present that the Germans intend to take over the French fleet."

He said French Admiral Jean Darlan was "very proud of the French fleet which he created and I doubt whether he would allow it to fall into the hands of the Germans."

The French battleship Dunkirk was "damaged pretty severely" in the July, 1940, battle of Oran, he said. Temporary repairs enabled her to be transferred to Toulon, he added but "it is not likely that she will be ready for action for a good many months."

Norwood Couple Lose Home In Morning Fire

NORWOOD, March 12—(ENS).—Fire was discovered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Cuthbertson, Ridge street, Wednesday morning at about seven o'clock. It was thought to have been smouldering for some time, and was first seen by Mr. George Wright on his way to work, and he turned in the alarm.

At about the same time, Mrs. Cuthbertson was aroused by the sound of the fire crackling, and hurriedly dressed. Friends and neighbors soon gathered around, but by this time the whole roof was on fire, and it was evident that little could be done to save the building which was a two-storey frame cottage. The contents of the downstairs were carried out, and Mr. Cuthbertson, who has been in ill-health for some time was also assisted to the home of neighbors. Nothing was saved from the upstairs.

There was a small insurance on the building and contents. Much sympathy is felt of this elderly couple, who have lived for many years in this home. They will now reside with their daughter, Mrs. Brookes.

During the height of the fire, the men kept the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Robb well covered with water in order to save it.

Dean Of Senate

King said last night in a spoken tribute to the man who for half a century held a prominent place in Canadian public life.

Second In Two Months

Senator Dandurand was the second Quebec Federal leader to die in recent months. Justice Minister Ernest Lapointe died in Montreal last November.

"The death of Mr. Lapointe and Senator Dandurand so close together was a severe loss to Canada but particularly to the Province of Quebec," the Prime Minister said.

Senator Dandurand, last surviving Senator appointed by Sir Wilfrid Laurier, was the fifth oldest Canadian Privy Councillor, having been sworn in in 1909. Only last July 1 he was appointed to the Imperial Privy Council.

Summoned to the Upper Chamber in 1898 he was Senate Speaker from 1905 to 1909. From 1921, when he was appointed a member of the Cabinet as Minister of State until 1930 he was representative of the Government in the Senate and resumed that post in 1935 when the King Government was restored to power.

But now only in Canada was Senator Dandurand prominently known. A keen student in international and domestic politics, he was Canada's representative at several meetings of the League of Nations in Geneva, and became its president on two occasions.

Well Liked Abroad

"Probably no other Canadian had so many friends outside Canada as had Senator Dandurand," said Mr. King. "He took a lively interest in international affairs and had a great faculty for attracting to him men prominent in other countries who loved to converse with him on world problems."

Senator Dandurand's abundant white hair and white, square-cut beard made him a distinctive member of the Upper House. Through his long career he espoused vigorously the causes he believed to be to the general advantage of Canada and the rest of the world.

His courtesy in debate and his consideration for views opposed to his won won him the esteem of his fellow senators regardless of their political affiliation. Last January members of the Red Chamber presented him with a bust of himself as a mark of their affection. Originally the ceremony was to have been held on his 80th birthday last Nov. 4 but was postponed.

Senator Dandurand's body was to be taken today to the Montreal home of his son-in-law, de Gaspe Beaubein who was at the deathbed. Mr. King spent the morning and afternoon with his old colleague and, especially summoned, reached the hospital again in the evening just as Senator Dandurand died.

Taken Ill At Breakfast

Senator Dandurand arose yesterday morning feeling well, but while at breakfast took suddenly ill and his Ottawa physician, Dr. F. W. McKinnon, had him taken to hospital for observation. Dr. Eugene Gaulin of Ottawa was called for consultation and during the day at the Senator's request his personal physician and nurse, Dr. Oscar Poirier and Miss Germaine Poirier, both of Montreal, came to Ottawa.

Dr. McKinnon said it was believed death was due to a hemorrhage into the cyst of the pancreas.

Since the new session of Parliament began last January 22, Senator Dandurand had been taking an active part of Senate affairs. He personally piloted through the Senate Banking and Commerce committee the Government bill authorizing a manpower plebiscite, and during the hearings demonstrated a broad knowledge of the intricacies of election law.

Last November 4, when Liberal and Conservative members of the Senate praised him on the occasion of his 80th birthday, Senator Dandurand commented it had always been his greatest pleasure that he had found within the walls of the chamber, "friends, and friends only." He said then he felt as well as he had 'five or even ten years ago."

Graduated as Lawyer.

Senator Dandurand was born in Montreal in 1861, the son of Oedipe Dandurand and Marie M. Roy. He graduated in law from Laval University in 1881 and was called to the Quebec Bar the following year. He became a Queen's Counsel in 1898.

A prominent lawyer as a young man and author of several books on legal subjects, Senator Dandurand's principal activities were in the political field and he early became the Liberal organizer in Quebec Province.

He was appointed an arbitrator by the President of the United States under the terms of a treaty of peace with the Republic of Brazil, represented Canada at the unveiling of the monument to Montcalm in France in 1909, and served as a Royal Commissioner on Education in Quebec in 1910.

In 1909 he was made a Knight of the Legion of Honor by the French Government, an Officer in 1907, Commander in 1912, and Grand Officer in 1935. He held other international honors.

Senator Dandurand was prominent in the business life of Montreal and the Dominion, his associates including the presidency of Montreal City and District Savings Bank and the Fire Insurance Company of Canada. He was a director of the Sun Life Assurance Company.

In 1886 Senator Dandurand married Josephine Marchand, daughter of the late Hon. F. G. Marchand, one-time Premier of Quebec. She died in 1925 and their only daughter Mme. De Gaspe Beaubien, died in 1933.

Senator Dandurand's death reduced to 43 the number of Liberal seats in the Upper Chamber and raised to 12 the number of vacancies. The Conservatives hold 41 seats.

from the Australian mainland.

(A United States War Department announcement in Washington yesterday logged the seven Japanese ships to the credit of American planes and military sources predicted American action would focus in heavy bomber attacks on Japanese armadas near the approaches to Australia.

U.S. Bombers In Action

(The announcement said that eight heavy United States bombers smashed at Japanese ships Tuesday in New Guinea harbor of Salamaua, dropping 18 tons of bombs which left two vessels sinking, four burning and another stranded.

(The American forces returned intact.)

Apparently as advance aerial artillery trying to soften up Port Moresby for the ships supposedly approaching it, Japanese bombers again attacked it in daylight yesterday. The raiders were kept high by anti-aircraft fire, and there were no casualties.

In further Royal Australian Air Force raids on Japanese landing areas yesterday, a communique said, airdromes at Lae and Salamaua were the chief targets and buildings were destroyed along with runways plastered with holes.

All R.A.F. planes returned, it said, although Japanese fighters tried to intercept them. One Japanese fighter was shot down.

The pinch of these operations was said to have led to an increased use of Italian Macchi fighters—described by the Russians as inferior aircraft—on the southern front.

The information bureau thus summed up yesterday's operations: "Our troops engaged the enemy in fierce battles on many fronts and recaptured many populated places. The enemy is suffering great losses in men and material."

Nab Strip Artist As Lure In Murder Case

NEW YORK, March 12—(AP).—Her spirit broken, Madeline Webb, 28, a former model and dancer, sobbed "You can't do this—you can't do this," as she was described in homicide court yesterday as "the lure" in the robbery and strangulation of wealthy Mrs. Susan Flora Reich, a Polish refugee.

The Webb woman, who formerly lived in Stillwater, Oklo.; Eli Shonbrun, 33, with whom she was arrested in a Bronx rooming house late Tuesday night; and John D. Cullen, 45, were held without bail for the grand jury on charges of suspicion of homicide.

Mrs. Reich's body, her mouth bound with adhesive tape and her hands and feet bound by wire, was found last Thursday in an East Side hotel apartment, rented by a "Mr. and Mrs. Ted Leopold."

The Webb girl and Shonbrun were the Leopolds, said Assistant District Attorney Jacob Grumet, adding that the girl was "the lure" who invited Mrs. Reich to the apartment, where she was robbed of $2,000 in jewelry and then slain.

Young and attractive, with olive skin, black hair and sparkling dark eyes, Miss Webb worked as a model for a time.

Soon she turned to modelling semi-nude for photographers. Her last form of employment of record, said the police report, was dancing in the nude in cheap, after-hours night clubs.

"I have lived through the toughest week of my life, being on the lam for that week. I have had to live like a rat since that thing happened," she said after her arrest.

Obituaries

JOHN McILVENA

A former resident of Warsaw, John McIlvena, 77, died in hospital in Toronto, where he had resided for the past ten years following illness of about six months. His wife, Frances Ann Darling predeceased him 12 years ago.

The late Mr. McIlvena was born in Warsaw but worked in the northern mining section of Canada for many years before moving to Toronto ten years ago.

Surviving are: one daughter, Mrs. George Holloway, Toronto; one sister, Miss Eliza McIlvena, Lundy Block, Peterborough, and several nieces and nephews in this city.

Funeral will be held Friday at 2 p.m. at the D. Belleghem and Sons funeral home, 190 Hunter street, with the Rev. George Chambers officiating. Interment will be made in St. Mark's Cemetery, Warsaw.

JOHN CRAWFORD.

MARMORA, March 12.—(ENS).—A highly respected and well known resident of Marmora township passed away on Tuesday morning in the person of John Crawford.

In his seventy-fourth year, he was the son of late Mr. and Mrs. William Crawford, of Marmora township. He had spent all his life in the township, where he was a progressive farmer. He was of a very friendly and neighborly disposition and his passing has brought sincere feelings of regret to a large number.

He is survived by his widow, formerly Catherine Goodwin of Picton, three sons, Eugene of Parrysburg, N.Y.; Charles from Marmora; and Joseph at home. He is also survived by one brother, Bert, of Marmora township. The funeral was held on Thursday morning at ten o'clock to Sacred Heart church, where high requiem mass was sung by Rev. H. J. Farrell. Interment took place in Sacred Heart cemetery.

Denies Quebec Has 5th Column

QUEBEC, March 12 (CP)—Hon. Edgar Rochette, Provincial Minister of Mines, Labor and Martime Fisheries, told the legislative assembly last night that "it is not among the workers of Quebec that you will find fifth columnists."

The minister, participating in the debate on the address in reply to the Speech from the Throne, said that Joseph Begin, Union Nationale member for Dorchester, "is absolutely wrong when he claims that workers are sleeping on the job in Quebec arsenals, and that builders of military camps are either sleeping or stealing time."

(Mr. Begin said in the House last Thursday that if Premier Godbout "wants a total war effort why does he not send his representatives into the different factories in Montreal or elsewhere to wake up workers who sleep on the job instead of making tanks.")

Armored Brigade Might Have Saved Malaya

MONTREAL, March 12 —(CP)—Maj.-Gen. F. F. Worthington, recently named commander of the Fourth (Armored) Canadian Division Overseas, expressed the opinion yesterday in an interview that Singapore would not have been lost "if we had had an armored division or even an armored brigade in Malaya."

Just back from England and en route to Ottawa from an East Coast Canadian Port, Gen. Worthington said that an offensive action in a modern battlefield cannot be carried out without tanks and those tanks must be given close air support. He declared that "air and armor are the keynotes of victory but they have got to work together."

Gen. Worthington said it was erroneous to think of the Canadian Army Overseas as the main anti-invasion force in England.

"It is only a drop in the bucket compared with what is ready over there to take the rap or make the attack," he said. "Important as their task is, it is only a part of the great force that is being readied."

STAMPS SALES UP.

Report of War Savings Stamp sales at the Collegiate this week reveals that $485 worth of stamps were sold by the students during the past week, an increase of $15 over the previous week. Total sale of certificates was $68.

FOUR ACCEPTED

Four men were accepted for active service at the recruiting depot. They were J. Hinds and G. Runyons of Campbellford with the R.C.A.; G. Allen of Bowmanville and C. de Seguin of Ottawa were also accepted but not assigned to any particular units.

SOMETHING DIFFERENT

Old time fiddlers from all corners of the county will assemble in the Co-op Hall on March 17 to compete in a competition arranged by the Peterborough Co-operative services. A fine program has been promised, and all proceeds will go to the Kinsmen "Milk for Britain" fund.

TALK ON PRISONERS

Col. Stetham, officer in charge of internment camps, will give a talk to the officers of the Prince of Wales Rangers in the officers' mess at nine o'clock tonight. All associate officers, officers of the training centre and artillery officers are extended an invitation to attend, it was revealed at the armoury today.

GIVEN TEN DAYS

Peter O'Connell, who told the magistrate that he came originally from Ireland and had no fixed address in Canada, pleaded guilty to a charge of vagrancy in police court this morning and was sentenced by Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., to ten days in jail. He was arrested in Asphodel township Wednesday by Provincial Constable Archie Grayling of Havelock.

HAVING POOR LUCK

Men engaged in ice harvesting having been handed a rude jolt by the mild spell and the men realize now that ice cutting started all too late. They are taking advantage of every bit of daylight to fill the ice houses but unless a sharp cold spell comes, it is doubtful if sufficient ice can be tucked away to meet the normal demand.

A NEW LOW.

Frank Greatrix of the Nugent Drug Company reported today that some person had stolen the milk bottle off his counter, which had been used to collect money for the Milk for Britain Fund. The bottle had quite a bit of money in it, and the person who took it has the satisfaction of knowing, he or she stole a few quarts of milk from the undernourished children of Britain.

HOUSES READY APRIL 1

Stanley Longhurst, Wartime Housing administrator announced today that all houses ready for tenants at the section north of Parkhill Road have been filled, but a new section will be ready for the occupants on April 1. There are 72 homes in the new subdivision which is nearing completing rapdily under the direction of Hubert Eastwood of the Eastwood Construction Company.

WANT MORE GIRLS.

Subaltern Phyllis A. Lawrence and Driver Jean Metcalfe of the Canadian Women's Army Corps are in the city until Saturday, and are seeking more recruits for the various jobs in the service. They want stenographers, clerks, typists and either girl may be reached at her home. Subaltern Lawrence lives at 422 Park Street North. Miss Metcalfe lives at 858 Water Street. The two soldierettes will make a survey of the city to get the girls required.

A CORRECTION

In the report of the Board of Health meeting Tuesday night, Sanitary Inspector Ronald MacPherson was misquoted as saying that two houses on Gilchrist street were "not in nearly so bad a condition" from a sanitary viewpoint as a third house on the street which was under discussion by the board. Mr. MacPherson had no intention of casting any reflections on tenants of the other two houses. He said their houses were in good condition.

PLEADED GUILTY

Oddur Olafson, formerly of Winnipeg, who pleaded guilty in police court this morning was fined $5 and costs. A previous charge of vagrancy against him was dismissed after he had been allowed to change his plea. A Toronto woman arrested with him was also charged with vagrancy but the crown offered no evidence.

CHARGED WITH MUSIC THEFT

Arrested in Toronto yesterday on a charge of stealing nine arrangements of music, consisting of three sheets each, from a local orchestra, Leonard Natelli, alias Len Williams, pleaded not guilty to the charge and the case was finally enlarged. Magistrate Langley wanted to know if there was any tangible value to such a thing as an arrangement. "I presume there must be," he added.

Colorful Acts Variety Show

A colorful action-packed variety show in aid of the British War Victims' Fund delighted a large audience in the Collegiate auditorium last night, and a repeat performance will be given again tonight, with the same entertainers. Madame Marion Perry Laird's singand and dancing pupils which have on many occasions given free concerts at the military training centre, were one of the feature attractions, while Charles Colville, one man show, from Toronto, held the other spotlight with his varied and versatile acts.

If you find your child has been attempting to stow away mother's big butcher knife into her little money purse, don't be surprised, for Charles Colville pulled one from a little purse before the audience to their amazement.

"Young Canadians On Parade" was a fitting title for Madame Laird's troupe, for they gave many and varied dancing, tap, singing and comic acts in lavish costumes mainly in the colors of red, white and blue. To mention any one particular act would be justly unfair to the other versatile performers and while the same act will be repeated tonight, you may attend and judge for yourself and aid the Peterborough War Victims' Fund, of fhich Fred Mann is administrator.

Talented little performers ranging from the age of four up to young girlhood appeared in gay choruses, ballet waltzes, novelty waltz clogs, toe ballets, vocals, comic numbers, sailor and soldier numbers and many other acts. If, when you attend tonight's show, you find yourself nearly splitting from laughter, don't be annoyed because the little comic act will be repeated for you—and again.

The versatile Charles Colville produced many acts of slight of hand, among which were tearing up a strip of paper and making it appear untorn a moment later. You will be shown how to cut rope and mend it into one piece again at the blink of an eyelash.

Charlie's dummy, in a ventriloquist act, answers every question Charlie asks him except the right one, and the act winds up with the dummy leading in a community sing sony. Mr. Colville, an accomplished piano accordionist, rendered several numbers and sang, and this act also concluded with a singsong.

Adjutant R. M. Bamsey of the military training centre proved a capable and amusing master of ceremonies and had a few good jokes up his sleeve. Piano accompanist for the dancing and singing numbers was Miss Helen Delahaye. Orchestral selections before the show were given by Mickey Foster's band.

Principal Is Asked To Check Registers

Supervision Committee of the Board of Education put through a resolution to the Board at a meeting held Wednesday afternoon, urging that Dr. H. R. H. Kenner instruct the teachers on the staff regarding monthly reports on attendance.

It seems that there has been complaints because the Board has been tardy in submitting reports on non-resident pupils to the county, and investigation reveals that reports from teachers when checked failed to prove up hence there is considerable extra work and a consequent delay.

The committee recommended that the teachers be advised that attendance ledgers on resident and non-resident pupils be balanced and proven and submitted to the principal not later than the second school day of the succeeding month.

The public school teachers submit a similar report to the inspector every month, and the 75 reports are always in on time and properly balanced.

A request from the Examiner for use of the auditorium was granted under the regular schedule of prices, but a request for the use of the gymnasium was refused, on the grounds that the Board had spent a lot of money resurfacing the floor, following criticism by the Department of Education's inspector, and the only dance held in the gym under existing regulations was the school "At Home." The nurses, who have used the gym every year, were refused permission this year.

East's Farming Sentiment Opposes Bonus

(By C. R. BLACKBURN.)

OTTAWA, March 12.— (CP). — Eastern farm sentiment against bonuses and other financial aid to western wheat growers has cropped up in the House of Commons where the government's program for the 1942 crop has been under debate all this wek.

Yesterday S. Murray Clark (Lib. Essex South) said price ceilings and war conditions had made it almost impossible for Ontario tobacco and sugar beet growers to carry on.

But he said he believed his constituents would perfer that any money aid they might receive from the government be used for munitions to defeat the enemy.

He expressed hope western wheat farmers would similarly prefer that the estimated $56,000,000 it is proposed to give them from the Federal treasury this year be applied to purchase of airplanes and tanks.

Another Ontario voice was heard in yesterday's debate, that of Joseph Harris (Con. Toronto-Danforth), but he confined himself to a subject on which he has spoken in parliament for years—vegetable oils—and did not take sides on the wheat program.

Mr. Harris, who has long advocated a policy that would render Canada independent to a greater degree of foreign sources of vegetable oils by developing animal fat and other production at home, welcomed the proposal to increase flaxseed but warned that it was not the answer to loss by Japanese aggression of Far Eastern sources of oils.

Bill on Second Reading.

Debate was on second reading of the Bill to increase from 70 to 90 cents a bushel the minimum price to be paid for 280,000,000 bushels of wheat which the Canadian Wheat Board will accept of the 1942 crop.

Other measures associated with this extending the wheat acreage reduction bonus and the Prairie Farm Assistance Act for another year, were covered by the debate.

All these measures are to be discussed at length by the House Agriculture Committee, but members have been occupied since Monday in general debate on principle, with many Western representatives of all parties arguing that the Government do more for wheat growers.

Few members listened to the debate yesterday apart from those whose constituencies are predominantly agricultural or who are themselves farmers. Three Western members spoke.

C. R. Evans (Lib. Maple Creek) said the minimum wheat price should be at least $1.00 a bushel, but he said he was confident war developments would create a demand for the surplus wheat and better prices would result.

Percy Wright (C.C.F.-Melfort) said the Government could go much farther and pay a price for wheat that would be on a parity with the 1926-29 average. By so doing those who successfully grew wheat could contribute under the Prairie Farm Assistance Act to an extent that those with crop failures could be compensated more generously without an additional drain on the Federal Treasury.

Robert Fair (N.D., Battle River) refused to accept the suggestion of Agriculture Minister Gardiner that members should go back to their constituencies and tell their electors that the wheat program was adequate under present conditions.

He said he would tell them they were not getting enough assistance and to keep on fighting until they did.

With the Bank of Canada in a position to do for Canada what the chartered banks were doing at enormous profit he said, there was no excuse for the Government failing to guarantee a parity price for wheat.

McNevin To Lead Off.

The debate will be resumed today with Bruce McNevin (Lib., Ontario), a prominent spokesman for Ontario farmers, the first scheduled speaker.

In the Senate yesterday, approval was given to new trade agreements with Chile, Brazil and Argentina, and then the Upper House adjourned to March 17.

Mr. Clark, who spoke in the House late in the afternoon, said Burley tobacco growers in Ontario were receiving less than half the price being received by American tobacco growers and now a ceiling had been placed on raw leaf at a level only six per cent. above the 12½-cents-a-pound average for 1938, 1939 and 1940.

Western Ontario farmers were further handicapped by a 100-per cent. increase in wage costs and the result of all this was that tobacco growers would go out of business and seek work in industry.

Sugar beet factories had operated for 20 years in Western Ontario but under the present price scale only 10 per cent. of the normal contracts had been signed.

"So the prospects are that two factories will lie idle during the coming year," Mr. Clark said.

"Contrast that with the wheat situation. Ve have a large surplus of wheat but we are going to pay the growers another bonus of $56,-000,000.

Hard on Ontario Farmer.

"When you reflect that the price ceilings have put the farmer of Ontario in a position where he cannot operate, and then ask that same farmer to contribute to paying a bonus to the Western wheat growers to the amount of $56,000,000 it is a little difficult for me to go back and ask that farmer to support such a policy."

Sugar and tobacco lands might be diverted to some extent to soya bean raising to advantage, Mr. Clark said, providing a price ceiling were not applied at a level which would make production unprofitable.

There was no price "floor" under Ontario farm products, but there were price ceilings over most of them which were making it virtually impossible for the farmers to carry on.

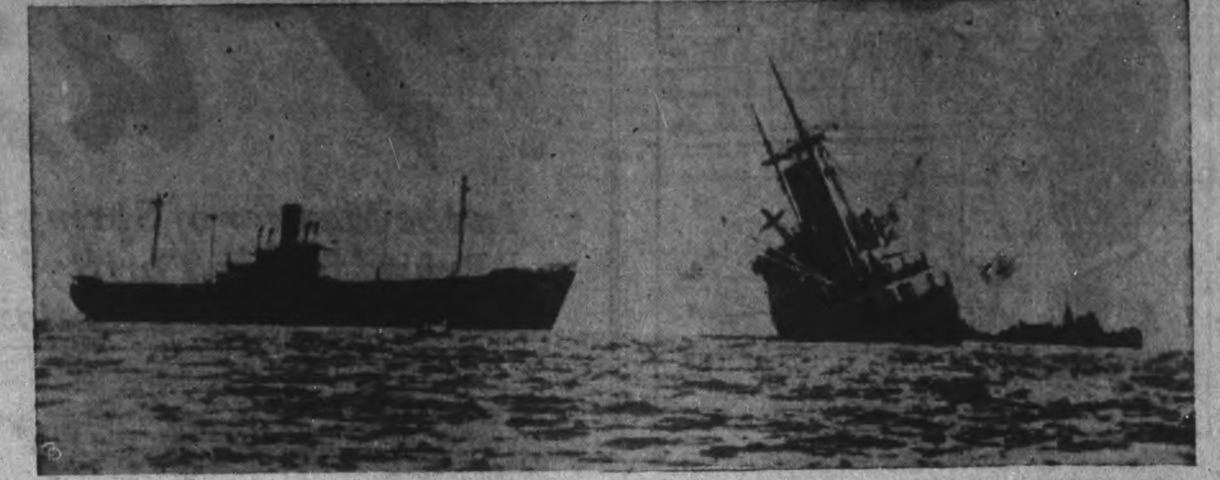
In his district many farmers worked only from five to 15 acres and the average farm was about 50 acres.

The question often "thrown up" to him by these farmers was: "Have we got to contribute to a bonus for men who farm 1,000 acres, or 1,500 or 4,000 acres."

In spite of these conditions, Mr. Clark said, he thought his constituents although they really needed assistance, would be prepared to tell the Government to use the money for bombers, fighter and tanks to defeat the enemy.

He suggested the possibility that after hearing the story revealed on Tuesday of Japanese atrocities in Hong Kong, Western farmers would prefer to have the Government use the proposed $56,000,000 needed for assistance to wheat growers to buy such war equipment.

Nazis Scuttle Ships After Failing To Run Blockade



The German merchant ship Leipzig, with the Monserrate, made a dash from allao, Peru, in an attempt to escape detention by the Peruvian authorities. The ships sneaked out of port with cargoes of cotton, attempting to evade the British blockade, but a Peruvian cruiser soon overtook them. The Germans set fire to their ships and managed to sink the Leipzig, RIGHT. The Monserrate was safely beached.

King Pins Medal On 2 RCAF Men

LONDON, March 12 (CP Cable)— Two Canadian members of the Royal Air Force whose heroism earned them prized decorations received their awards from the King at a recent investiture in Buckingham Palace. Security reasons prevented disclosure of this fact prior to yesterday.

Wing Cmd. Thomas Cameron Weir, Winnipeg, was decorated with the Distinguished Flying Cross while Flying Officer Alexander John Nicholson, 30, Windsor, Ont., whose parents live at Buffalo, N.Y., received the George Medal.

The citation awarding Weir the D.F.C., said Weir "constantly displayed great determination, courage and skill and spared no effort in the endeavor to locate and bomb his objective."

It related how a shell burst near the cockpit of Weir's plane during an attack on Krefeld, Germany. "Despite the shock and with the handicap of being almost blinded by splinters from a broken triplex," Weir flew the aircraft safely back to Britain, it added.

for risking his life to drag an air-

Nicholson was awarded the G.M. man from a burning aircraft which crashed on its take off last August.

Although thrown clear of the wreckage, Nicholson battled his way through exploding ammunition and flaming gasoline to re-enter the machine and pull a helpless wireless operator to the door. An explosion which occurred as Nicholson was dragging his companion to safety blew them 20 yards from the machine. Both were injured.

Safety Discussed By Port Hope Club

PORT HOPE, March 12 (ENS)— The regular weekly meeting of the Safety Club, sponsored by the Lions Club, met on Wednesday night at the Town Hall with Gerald Roberts, vice president, in the chair. Only thirty-six members were present owing to the very heavy rain

Miss Evelyn Margles introduced the speaker of the evening, Mrs. E. G. Britton who centered her talk on what is safety. Mrs. Britton stressed the facts of safety in the home, at school, on the road and at the beach, especially to watch for glass and not to leave glass lying on the beaches and referred to the many dangers which it might cause.

The speaker told the children the great help they could be to their parents, now that the parents are so busy with war work, in the home especially stressing the help the children could give in the collection of salvage. Courtesy and punctuality were also stressed.

Plans were made for a large court to take place in a few weeks time with a judge and two lawyers to represent the offenders.

Rangers Will Be A Unit Of Which Peterboro' Is Proud, So Declares Mayor Hamilton

General approval of the mobilization of the Prince of Wales Rangers was voiced along the main street today by prominent business men and the average factory worker as well, and the feeling was apparent that there would be quite a flood of recruits once recruiting gets underway.

Medical boarding of officers was started on Wednesday and is continuing today and a list of the successful officers should be available for Saturday, and from that time on, reports will be published almost daily as the regiment gains new recruits.

His Worship Mayor James Hamilton voiced his satisfaction at the announcement of mobilization this morning, and his statement is as follows:

"I know that the Peterborough Prince of Wales Rangers under the direction of its officers and N.C.O.'s have reached a high level of training and the battalion has a fine esprit-de-corps. It has been a general feeling among members of the regiment that they would like to stay together and serve as a unit, thus maintaining a permanent record of the battalion's service.

We all know that many former members of the Rangers are on active service with the Glengarry regiment and with a score of other Canadian units, in the Air Force and the Navy.

The call has come now to the regiment and I know that it will be a unit of which Peterborough will be proud."

Food In England Is Plentiful But Variety Is Restricted

In a recent letter to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. R. C. Symonds, of St. Thomas, dated from London, on February 6, LAC. Bruce Symonds, wireless technician, has made a few observations of some conditions that have come under his notice. Incidentally he was then enjoying his first leave since arriving in England early last fall. "Food is quite plentiful wherever I have been. Not a great deal of choice but on the whole quite well balanced. What it is like with the great working classes I wouldn't know. Certainly the eating places are able to maintain good menus. I believe this was a debatable condition during the last war. I do really believe that all-in-all food rationing and supply is more than adequate. No doubt about it, but that supply lines are functioning very well. They must be. I have spent some days sauntering about London. The city took a pasting: don't believe otherwise. It must have been hell. Churches seem to have been targets particularly. Conditions now are singularly normal and it is quite easy to get about."

While visiting with a cousin at Croydon, a London suburb, Mr. Symonds has this to say about the Anderson shelters supplied to many homes. "Croydon, in the past has seen a lot of raiding, but the effects are not so evident as in the City. These Anderson shelters people speak of I had conceived to be some kind of steel outside building. They are not, but are table-like affairs, made of steel, set in the centre of the dining room. Covered over, it is a big table. There is a bed flooring to it, and the idea is that when there is a raid warning you hop in under the table affair, which will take any weight likely to fall on it, and continue your rest (?). Interesting of course, but don't even think there is actually a funny side to these conditions when raids are in progress. It is not at all funny no matter how flippant the attitude may be on the surface."

At the present time Bruce Symonds is on operational duty at a wing on the coast of Wales.

Before enlisting with the Air Force in the summer of 1941, Mr. Symonds was a member of the office staff of the Bell Telephone Company in this city. His wife and young son are at present residing in Brantford.

No New Taxicabs Are Allowed

TORONTO, March 12.—An order that no taxicabs or drive-yourself cars shall, after this date, be used or operated for the transportation of persons unless such vehicle was so used and operated during the year 1941, except by permit in writing from the administrator first obtained, was issued by James Stewart, administrator of services, Wartime Prices and Trade Board, today.

Prime purpose of this order is to conserve rubber and gasoline. A company which has purchased new automobiles since the beginning of the year must, unless they secure special permit from the administrator, take the vehicles out of operation and hold them against the day when one of the present vehicles, due to deterioration, is removed from service.

Brothers Fight Over Hockey Teams

TORONTO, March 12.—(CP)—A family fight about the relative strength of the Peterborough Hockey Team and the Toronto Maple Leafs was reviewed before Magistrate Keith in county police court today when Robert Tompkins, East York, appeared on a charge of common assault laid by his brother, William.

"I said I thought the Peterborough hockey team could give the Toronto Maple Leafs a good brush," brother William told the court. "Then my brother called me a liar and hit me in the eye."

Magistrate Keith bound both brothers over to keep the peace in the sum of $200 each. They have not been on speaking terms for two years, William said.

The scrap took place at the home of a third brother.

Omemee Pupils Help War Fund

On Wednesday this column carried the report of a splendid effort by the men of Omemee on behalf of three war charities, which benefitted the Peterborough and District War Victims' Fund by quite a substantial amount of money, and today this effort is followed with a donation from the younger folk of the same locality as result of a concert by the pupils of the Omemee High and Public schools.

Primarily held in the interests of the Victory Loan campaign, this same event was made the means by which this fund is enriched to the extent of $21.20 per the principal, Mr. R. Moon.

Included in the same report received from Rev. R. M. Patterson, fund's representative at Omemee, was a penny box collection from the Supertest Service Station of which W. Kingsboro is the proprietor, which added a further $2.80 to the help coming to the fund from this district.

Continuing the splendid help already given to the fund, the lady who prefers to help the people of Britain under the name of "In as much," is once again listed today with the 19th donation in an amount of $10, keeping up a record unexcelled in constant concern for others in their time of need.

Cavan Reports

Another of the fund's district representatives, Mervin Kinsmen of Cavan, sends in a report, accompanied by a fine donation of $27.70, which represents the net proceeds of a dance sponsored by the Cavan Community Rink committee, held in that place last Friday, marking a continuance of several previous substantial amounts to reach the fund from the same source.

Show To-night

Many expressions of delight at the show given in the Collegiate Auditorium in aid of the fund were heard at its close, and to-night's repeat performance could well be greeted with a full house, not only for the cause it seeks to assist, but also for the good quality of the performance of all participating artists whose offerings met with genuine all-round approval from those who were in attendance last night. Elsewhere on this page details will be found of the snow itself, and children will be admitted for 20 cents or two children for one adult ticket. Here is an opportunity to have a splendid evening's entertainment at small cost, with the knowledge that your money does double duty in going to help fellow citizens of the Empire who are in need of your help.

Plan To Start Recruiting Rangers Friday

"There has been a fine response among officers and N.C.O.'s in signing over for active service with the Prince of Wales' Rangers," said Captain H. A. Craig to-day. Most of the officers were medically boarded Wednesday and N.C.O.'s were being boarded to-day.

The Rangers, a rifle regiment, was ordered to mobilize on instructions from National Defence Headquarters and the unit is now undergoing the change from status of a reserve regiment to the active army. Col. J. A. Dewart, M.C., E.D., officer commanding the regiment, and Major J. R. Bolton, were in Kingston to-day ironing out details of mobilization.

Recruiting for all ranks below the N.C.O.'s will begin to-morrow. All enlistments will pass through the recruiting office for this district located in the armoury and the medical board of three doctors will sit every day.

A staff of two lady assistants has been added to the administrative staff to handle the added work of that department.

First officer to sign with the Rangers was 2nd. Lt. J. G. Nichols, former acting vice-principal of King Edward school. He joined the Rangers in September of 1940. Lt. Nichols left by train for Martimes to-day to take up a month's course in Canadian Army school administration.

Deserter Given Term In Jail

Gordon Stewart, arrested north of Belleville last week on a charge of uttering a forged document and who pleaded guilty last week was sentenced by Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., in police court this morning to two months in jail.

Provincial Constable Price Morris, called to give evidence, said that the accused had forged his sister's name to a government cheque and had cashed it and used the money.

Stewart said that he had kept the money for his sister for two weeks and after that he had spent it. He admitted that he had taken the pension cheque out of the envelope without his sister's knowledge.

Captain J. Keir of the Military Training Centre informed the court that Stewart had been a deserter from the C.A.M.C. at Kingston since last November.

"I suppose you want me to hit him harder on that account," said the Magistrate.

"No, your worship, but I thought you should be in possession of the facts," replied the officer.

HOMECOMING
CHAPTER XXVI

Randy spread out the sheets of Parris' letter on the kitchen table. The letter had come two days ago, and she had read it a dozen times, but she returned to it again and again for the warmth and comfort, the sense of security and safety that she derived from it.

". . . Of course, Randy, it is a ghastly and terrible tragedy, particularly so to have happened to Drake. It will be harder for him than for most people because he was so free and independent. And now, I want you to note carefully my advices. Drake lived by that same freedom and independence. He will feel —probably already feels—that he has lost both. It will be your problem to restore them to him, that is if you really propose taking care of him as you suggest in your cabled message.

"I am sure that you have already made Drake feel that he is needed and wanted in the world. I am writing him in this same post that he is certainly needed and important in my life. We can't give him legs, but we can keep his mind and personality, and soul, if you wish to call it that, whole and well.

"I recalled last night that a long time ago Drake talked of real estate projects of some kind. I don't remember just what the ideas were. But it occurs to me that in any small town that is growing at all, there must be place for several real estate businesses. The main point is to get his mind and imagination going on something definitely constructive.

". . . Your cablegram has just come telling me that you two are married. My dear Randy, I can't tell you what I feel. Selfishly, for the sake of my friend, I am overwhelmingly happy and grateful. I feel that I don't have to be happy for you—you have more than anyone can wish for you, I know that.

"Drake has been more than a brother to me, and from this moment on you are more than my sister. In you two I feel that I have more than a professional reason for coming back to Kings Row. You know, of course, that I have always hoped for an appointment at the State Hospital for the Insane. I have kept Dr. Nolan informed of my progress. He has promised to recommend my appointment when I have finished my work here in Vienna.

"My best love to both of you. Not so many weeks now, and I shall be able to say directly to you both what I find too difficult to say on paper."

Randy folded the thin sheets of paper carefully. It was strange, she thought, how well she knew Parris Mitchell.

Gradually, as the weeks went by, Randy pressed the suggestions Parris had made in his first letter. She was amazed to see how Drake fell more and more easily into the pattern she so carefully planned.

One day, following her carefully disguised leads, Drake recalled the old project for reclaiming the creek-bottom lands nearby. He alighted upon it with joy. He had begun from that day to move toward a normal life. Sometimes, as Randy studied the sharp-cut profile, it seemed as though this catastrophe had burned Drake clear of every trait that had been a little careless and coarse. Drake spoke differently. He was actually careful of his speech and his accent. Randy recognized something that she associated with Drake's aunt, Mrs. Livingstone, and the life of Union street as she had always imagined it.

What Randy did not notice was the sudden and deep change in herself. The tomboy look was gone. The rounded look of rough-and-ready rowdiness that had always characterized her had slipped away like a mask.

"I'm going to move you downstairs next week, Drake."

He frowned. "Where?"

"The front room. That's going to be our living room, and the little room off to the side that never has been anything but a storeroom will be our bedroom."

He thought a moment. "It scunds pleasant."

"There is just one front window. It looks into the front yard. There's a big cedar tree outside, and across the road you can see around Harper's Hill on out into the country. It's quieter, too. You don't hear the switch engines as you do back here."

Drake's face contracted suddenly. "I'll be glad to get where I don't hear them so plain. Sometimes I dream—I guess I'll always have dreams like that."

"I don't think so, Drake." Randy spoke very calmly, but her chest was tight. "You'll have a lot of other things to think about."

"Randy!"

He reached for her hand and held it with all of his strength.

"I want you to promise me that I'll never have to go out of this house until—until I'm dead."

Randy sat down beside him and held his head against her. "Now, darling, you listen to me."

"All right." Drake's breath came in short, quick gasps. Randy knew all at once where the great injury lay, and by some half-conscious instinct what she must say, and what she must avoid saying.

"Remember this always. You've had a terrible accident and all that, but you're just Drake McHugh. You're no different. You can arrange your life anyway you want to. I'm here to see that it's done the way you want it, but—you are Drake, and I love you. Do I have to tell you that every day?"

"Yes."

"Then I will."

The late-afternoon train clanked and rattled its smoky, grimy way from Camperville towards King's Row.

The passengers sat in the antiquated coach, avoiding, as much as possible, the touch of the gritty, red-plush seats. They wore a look of patient misery—all but one. He was a young man who had stepped from the Chicago express just in time to catch the Kings Row local. He attracted some attention as he attended to the transfer of considerable luggage, all of it tagged and bespotted with foreign labels.

At the station he looked with some surprise at the new brick building. The old one had been of wood, painted a hideous smoke gray. He glanced about him, half expecting to see some familiar faces.

"Hack, sir?"

"Yes, Yes, please."

"Where to?"

"Why—the Central Hotel. There is still a Central Hotel, I suppose?"

"Yes, sirree. Only one, in fact. Dis way, suh."

The rather decrepit hack swung around the corner and clattered along lower Union street.

At the hotel desk, a thin mousy-looking clerk bowed with an imitation of briskness.

"I'd like a suite, please."

"Suite?"

"Yes. Sitting room, bedroom, bath."

"Well—we haven't exactly got that kind of arrangement. I could throw two rooms together for you."

He watched as the newcomer wrote: "Dr. Parris Mitchell, Vienna."

The clerk turned the register around, wrote a number opposite the name. "Here, boy, take Dr. Mitchell's baggage to 217. Going to go into practice here, Doc?"

"At the State Hospital."

"Sure enough! Doctor at the asylum, eh? Well, well."

"Send the baggage up. I'm going out first to—to look around."

Out on the sidewalk Parris stopped and slowly drew on his gloves. Two men sitting in split-bottom rocking chairs just outside the hoter door stared and glanced at each other. When Parris walked away, one of them spoke slowly. "Say, did you see that fellow, putting on gloves?"

"Gloves—in August!"

"Dr. Mitchell. Used to live here. Parris Mitchell."

"What's he wearing gloves for?"

"He's been living over in Europe —in Vienna, for five years. Maybe that's the style over there. Going to be a doctor over at the asylum."

"Well, now! Government job to start off on?"

"Yep."

Parris walked across the square. At the corner he paused and thought a moment. Yes, Cedar street, that was the shortest way to Randy's house. He walked slowly, as if some reluctance stayed his feet.

He had thought so often of coming home. Now he was here. This was Kings Row. He looked east and west on the cross street. This shabby, dingy-looking street, this—village. A strange heaviness settled on his heart, and with it came a quick, keen wave of homesickness for Vienna. Vienna had meant friends, a comfortable something that was almost home—Vienna was—he shook himself free of the thoughts. That was being maudlin, and worse, it was being afraid. He walked quickly down the street.

"Parris!"

"Randy—my dear!"

"Oh, Parris, I'm so glad to see you!"

"Drake?"

"Drake?"

Randy had just started out when she met Parris. She swung the white - painted gate open again. "Come on in. Drake will be crazy, he'll be so glad to see you."

"How is he?" Parris caught her arm and held back as they came to the door. "How is he really?"

Randy looked away, then back again. Her eyes dimmed a little. "I don't really know, Parris. I don't really know. He seems—more like himself lately. But I can't tell."

Randy opened the door.

Drake shank back a little into his pillow, and with an instinctive gesture he pulled the sheet up under his chin.

"Drake!"

Parris held tight to Drake's hand and looked down into the deeply shadowed eyes.

"Drake."

Drake moved his lips, but no word came. His face was like a mask of thin stone. He shifted a little like an embarrassed child and turned his face away.

Parris sat down on the edge of the bed and laid his cheek hard against Drake's.

Randy backed out of the door and closed it behind her. She went to the kitchen and sat down in a low chair behind the stove.

"Mary, blessed Mother of God! Mary, blessed Mother of God! Mary, blessed Mother of God!" She repeated the words over and over again, neither hearing the sound of them, nor thinking of their meaning.

Alsab Tops List As 60 Named For Preakness

BALTIMORE, Md., March 12 — (AP). — Sixty 3-year-olds, including Alsab, the 1941 Juvenile king, and most of the colts that battled him for that honor, are eligible for the $50,000-added Preakness Stakes to be run for the fifty-second time at Pimlico on May 9.

The Maryland Jockey Club, announcing yesterday the nominations for its richest race, said thirty-three interests were represented. Warren Wrights Calumet Farm, whose Whirlaway won the Preakness last year, led the list with five nominations.

Big Nominators.

W. E. Boeing and Colonel E. R. Bradley named four horses each, while William Woodward, Mrs. Isabelle Dodge Sloane, Mrs. Payne Whitney, Louis B. Mayer, Alfred G. Vanderbilt, and William Ziegler, Jr., each nominated three.

Alsab was the lone entry from the Albert Sabath Stable. The little colt, winner of fifteen races and $110,600 last year, hasn't been able to win this season, but his good fifth to older horses in the Widener was heartening to his supporters.

Wright nominated a hard-hitting pair in Some Chance and Sun Again. Between them they won nine races and earned $126,495 in 1941. Others named by the Calumet Farm were Wishbone, Paratheen, and Colonel Teddy.

Mrs. Whitney's Greentree Stable also has a couple of smart colts in Devil Diver and Shut Out. This pair accounted for seven races last year and earned a total of $82,569.

Best known among the Bradley nominees is Bless Me, remembered for his great race in the Walden at Pimlico, when Asab was all out to beat him by a head. The colonel hasn't started a horse in the Preakness since 1940, when his Bimelech won.

Other 1941 stakes winners nominated included William Woodward's Apache and Mrs. Ethel V. Mars' Dogpatch.

Among Missing.

Notable absentees include Requested, winner of the Flamingo; Bright Willie, American Wolf, and Incoming, all conquerors of Alsab in Florida this winter; Contradiction, winner of the Pimlico Futurity; Black Raider Fair Call, and Chuckle.

Their owners may make them supplementary entries, however, by paying a fee of $1,500 by April 15.

Counting the $50,000 added money and subscription fees of $14,310 the Preakness now is worth $64,310. The total will be swelled by the $1,500 supplementary entry fee and $500 starting fee.

R.A.F. Blasts French Factories Working For Nazis

Clouds of smoke pour from the Matford motor truck factory at Poissy, 17 miles northwest of Paris, France, at British Royal Air Force bombers rip it apart in low-level bombing raid in broad daylight. The factory was turning out war equipment for the Nazis. The raid was made without enemy opposition, and was one of the heaviest to date of those staged on occupied France by the R.A.F.

Campbellford Badminton Club Beats Marmora By Close Margin

CAMPBELLFORD, March 12. — (ENS). — In a closely contested exhibition that marked the first of their home and home series Campbellford Badminton Club defeated Marmora by a narrow seven to five margin here on Wednesday evening. On points, the winners, whose poorest effort of the season resulted in a tie game with Hastings early in the schedule, topped the visitors by 159 to 143. They were weakest in the ladies' doubles events where Marmora took two out of three. However, the entire match was judged the keenest of the season, with teams on both sides working hard for every point.

The return game will be played in Marmora at an as yet undecided date, and the winner of the Kawartha Trent Cup will then be named. Scores of the various events were as follows:

Mixed Doubles — Miss Parker and George Ralph, Campbellford, defeated Mrs. Reynolds and C. Brady, 15-11; Miss R. Callaghan and E. Darling defeated Mrs. Hickey and F. Welles of Marmora, 15-7; Mrs. Meyers and D. Meyers, Campbellford, defeated Mrs. Murray and Mr. Merraw, 15-6; Miss Allan and Wib Kingston, Campbellford, lost to Mrs. Linton and Mr. Prentice, Marmora, 13-18; Miss Hendy and A. Crosier, Campbellford, lost to Mrs. Neale and Ralph Neale, 15-17; Miss E. Allan and Glenn Maxwell, Campbellford, lost to Miss Sabine and W. Hilton, 5-15.

Ladies' Doubles — Miss H. Parker and Reta Callaghan, Campbellford, lost to Mrs. Reynolds and Mrs. Hicks 7-15; Miss J. Hendy and Miss Allan, Campbellford, lost to Miss Sabine and Mrs. Linton 12-15; Mrs. Meyers and Miss Callaghan, Campbellford, defeated Miss Sabine and Mrs. Neal 15-12.

Men's Doubles — George Ralph and E. Darling, Campbellford, defeated C. Brady and F. Wells, 15-4; Don Meyers and A. Crosier, Campbellford, defeated G. Murray and W. Hilton, 15-7; Wib Kingston and G. Cummings, Campbellford, defeated R. Neale and B. Prentice, 17-16.

Campbellford Team Eastern Champions

CAMPBELLFORD, March 12. — (ENS). — Campbellford's Bantam O.M.H.A. team has the weather to thank for becoming Eastern Ontario champions. Having won their own group they were slated to tangle with Trenton, but lack of ice caused officials of this town to cancel the performance on Tuesday thus giving the local contingent the game by virtue of a default. They will now go on to meet the Western Ontario champs at a date that is still to be announced.

Racing Days Over For Sky Raider

NEW YORK, March 12—(AP). — From Kentucky came word it has been decided to hang up Sky Raider's racing plates and put the dark bay beauty on a pension on Sonny Whitney's stud farm.

In case you've forgotten Sky Raider's daddy was the one and only Man o' War. His mama was Top Flight, the best mare ever to answer a starter's "come on." Their long-legged bundle arrived in 1938.

He failed to round into racing form all during his two-year-old season. Last year at three, he finally got to the post on June 14 in a maiden race at Aqueduct, but by that time Whirlaway had picked up just about all the marbles. Sky Raider finished second by just a whisker in his first try.

It was more than three weeks before he came back again and this time, at Empire, he won. Weeks later, he paced the field in his only other outing.

Carlton Club Netters Win

TORONTO, March 12.—Out of town players will get their first taste of action tonight as the Ontario Badminton championship tournament at the Strathgowan Club swings into its third day. The visitors are scheduled in all events on a full evening's program that gets under way at 5:30 o'clock.

The feature match of last night's play, confined to Toronto entries, was a mixed double test in which Mrs. E. Elwood and W. Windeyer of the Carlton Club, defeated Mrs. Ann Grady and Jack Moon, Strathgowan, 9-15, 15-11, 15-12. Walter Windeyer pulled through this marathon struggle by clever shots from the back court.

Mrs. David Cassels and W. Torrance of the Badminton and Racquet Club put out another strong Stratgowan team: Miss Barbara Ince and Marshall Smith, by scores of 15-11, 15-7.

In the ladies' singles Joan Hennessy, Strathgowan, eliminated Jane Forsyth, Waterloo. The games both went to nine all, but Miss Hennessey was able to run five straight points in each tilt to win.

Last nights results follow:

Mixed Doubles

Edith Marshall and Roger Banks, Strathgowan, defeated Mrs. Pattison and Frank Hunter, St. Aidan's, 15-10, 15-5.

Mrs. David Cassels and F. Torrance, B. & R., defeated Barb Ince and Marshal Smith, Strathgowan, 15-11, 15-7.

Jill Cavanaugh and J. Muir, Granite, defeated M. Hart and S. Phillips, Toronto Theosophical, 15-3, 15-3.

Mr. and Mrs. Patey, Strathgowan, defeated Jane Forsyth and Jack Williams, 15-11, 15-7.

Mrs. E. Elwood and W. Windeyer, Carlton, defeated Mrs. Ann Grady and Jack Moon, Strathgowan, 9-15, 15-11, 15-12.

Men's Singles

A. McNeil, Stratgowan, defeated A. Eaton, B. & R.

Ladies' Singles

Joan Hennessy, Stratgowan, defeated Jane Forsyth, Waterloo, 14-9, 14-9.

Ladies' Doubles

Mrs. Ann Grady and Joan Hennessy, Stratgowan, defeated W. Meek, Granite, and Maxine Troke, Peterborough, 17-15, 7-15, 15-5.

Sonsolation events will start to-night at midnight.

Quebec Ousts Cornwall 3-1

QUEBEC, March 12.— (CP.) — Quebec Aces came from behind last night for a 3-1 victory over Cornwall Fliers that lifted them into the Quebec Senior Hockey League finals. Aces, who clinched the semi-finals series in the fifth game of the best-of-five series, will meet either Montreal Canadiens or Ottawa Senators in the final round.

Aces, several times on the verge of elimination, were trailing 1-0 at the end of the first period, but slammed home two tallies in the second and added another for insurance in the third. The visitors were held scoreless since the 1:30 mark of the opening period.

Cornwall— Goal, Dion; defense, Ritchie, Drummond; centre, Imlach; wings, Bellinger, Latoski; subs, Thibeault, Ailsby, Maundrell, Kipp, Gardner, Reid, Woodward.

Birdsall Friends Honor Pte. Mortlock

The friends of Pte. Bert Mortlock of the Royal Canadian Ordnance Corps, gathered at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Mortlock of Birdsall's, to wish him good luck and good health.

His many friends at Birdsall give him a fountain pen and pencil set. A very appropriate address was read, which was signed on behalf of his friends by Miss Mary Birdsall, Mrs. William Post, Mrs. Fred Faux and Mr. Jack Barrie. After a dainty lunch was served the very pleasant evening was brought to a close by the singing of God Save the King and Auld Lang Syne.

Down 5 Over Malta

LONDON, March 12 — (CP). — British fighter planes and anti-aircraft batteries have brought down three Axis bombers and two fighters and damage nine bombers and two fighters during day and night attacks on Malta in the last 24 hours, the Air Ministry News Service reported today.

Wardens Mobilized

LOS ANGELES, March 12—(AP) —Air Raid Wardens and emergency units were mobilized shortly before dawn to-day by an alert order. The fourth interceptor command gave an all-clear signal an hour and six minutes later without decreeing a general blackout.

Padlock Gas Station

OTTAWA, March 12 — (CP). — Because of an infraction of the Oil Controllers order affecting hours of sale the gasoline pumps and tanks of the service station operated by J. A. Barnard at London, Ont., have been padlocked, and the station has been ordered to cease all sales of petroleum products until further notice, it was announced to-day by the Department of Munitions and Supply.

Sugar Jim Henry May Be Key To New York Rangers' Hockey Title

By SCOTT YOUNG
(Canadian Press Staff Writer.)

Sugar Jim Henry probably will not win the National Hockey League rookie-of-the-year award, because during his brief tenure as goalkeeper for the New York Rangers his work has not been brilliant. But if there were an award for peculiar physical ailments among big time hockey players, Henry would take it without batting an eye.

The capable young (21) netminder was injured about his eyes during his teens and although his sight was not affected there was a muscular reaction to those early injuries. When he received a blow on or near the eye, it closed almost immediately. He spent several playoff games as a junior with an eye taped open.

His effectiveness was not diminished by this reaction and the method of combatting it, but it was bothersome particularly during a Western Canada Junior championship series three years ago between Brandon and Edmonton. During another season with Brandon and last year with Regina Rangers his eyes escaped injury and there is no record of his trainers resorting again to taping to keep his eyes open.

While his net-minding for New York has not been outstanding, it has been exceptional for a goalie moved directly from senior amateur to the toughest league of them all. And Henry always has been a money player. Last year he was the backbone of Regina's amazing drive from behind to win the Allan Cup after Sydney had won the first two and tied the third of a best of five final series.

That ability in the clutches may be the difference between victory and defeat for New York during the Stanley Cup playoffs. Rangers have first place all but clinched, and a victory over Boston to-night in New York would place the issue beyond reasonable doubt. Boston still has a chance to catch the second place Toronto Maple Leafs. A victory to-night for the Bruins would make Saturday's meeting between Boston and Toronto the decisive contest in the battle for second spot.

Manager Art Ross of the Bruins has changed his mind and will not sent Bill Cowley back into action against Toronto Saturday night, according to present plan. The star centre, injured late in January, probably will see his first action before the playoffs against Brooklyn Americans in the final night of the schedule next Tuesday.

Many Unusual Meat Treats Missed In Some Homes

By MARY MOORE

If I told you the name of the company her husband owns and operates you'd know in a moment who I was talking to, but it is enough to say this lovely lady has plenty of money to spare and yet she urged me to write often about the unusual cuts of meat.

She referred specifically to stuffed calves' hearts and larded baked liver and said the very description of them made her hungry.

In their home, she said, they were missing too many such treats, for like many another easy-money homemaker, she habitually ordered rolled porterhouse roasts, or t-bone steaks or legs of lamb or roasting fowl, because she was sure they would be tender. "No cook that is even average at her job can spoil those cuts" was the way she put it.

Of course I know the idea was popular because so many of you asked for more. I hope everybody who asked has received his copy.

Encouraged by your response I went still further. I visited my friend in the wholesale meat business again, and told him that women who were paring their budgets to rock bottom were always distressed over the high cost of meat. I put the question squarely to him: "What cuts of meat are there an excess of and how cheaply may they be bought by the retail public?"

His first answer was a question: "How did you like the beef sweetbreads?" I told him I had printed the method of serving them crumbed and fried, and had served them to my most epicurean friend who could not tell them from calves' sweetbreads and he was very gratified for they are one of his pets. (Further down I'll tell you how to make a casserole of them fit for a king and a queen.)

Out of half-an-hour's talk the best items he told me were: Neck bones, which sell to the butcher for 4 cents per pound and are good cooked with cabbage, sauerkraut, beans or stewed with dumplings; pigs' feet which he says there is such an excess of we ship them to the British West Indies—they sell for approximately 35 cents per dozen to the butcher, which is an equivalent of about 2½ to 3 cents per pound; his next idea was what we called smoked squares which are similar to bacon but come from the neck of a hog; they are fatter than bacon, and because many butchers abused the privilege of calling them bacon squares and sold some of the leaner portions for bacon, the authorities say they must be called smoked squares; this name is not descriptive enough and limits the sale of them; but the prize idea was pork tails:

I was ready for anything but this idea of cooking pigs' tails even raised my eyebrows. "How do you ever cook them?" He didn't answer me. He picked up his interoffice telephone and told his pork man to send down some pork tails. As he handed me the package he said that he knew certain wealthy and well-educated Europeans who would gladly pay $2 for that parcel of delicacies. I was so curious I couldn't cover ground fast enough to go home and start working on them.

Boiled Pork Tail Dinner

You need 3 tails for each serving.. Wash and scrub tails and put on to boil in water and cover, add salt, about 1½ teaspoons to each quart of water—and simmer very slowly until meat is very soft on bones; it requires from 5 to 6 hours, but burner may be turned as low as possible so fuel is not a consideration. (If the tails are allowed to cool after they are cooked, the liquid forms such a hard jelly it is hard to pick the meat out, hence they would make excellent pressed meat or psuedo headcheese.) Lift tails from liquid and serve as they are or lift from liquid and sprinkle with flour and place on pan and stand under broiler to brown them. Serve with dumplings cooked on the boiling liquid, and quick boiled wedges of new cabbage.

The gravy is so good our family had to come back for a second helping of it on bread. The liquid was thickened with flour, and more salt and pepper were added, and the whole thing was strained into a large gravy bowl.

Dumplings to serve with pigs' tails: 2 cups flour, 5 teaspoons baking powder, 1 teaspoon salt, about 1 cup milk. Sift together salt, baking powder, flour and pour in nearly a cup of milk and mix quickly. If mixture seems too thin add just a little more flour. Immediately drop from spoon into hot stew, cover and do not look for 12 minutes, then test.

The little spiny bones in the tails form a surprisingly small part of them and lift out very easily. The meat of the tails tastes more like sparerib meat than anything else I can compare them to, it is all quite delicious.

Pigs' Feet

These may be cooked and served exactly the same as the tails, but for variety, I used the stock they were boiled in for soup with barley and finely chopped carrot and onion, and fried the feet. Sprinkle the pigs' feet with salt and pepper, dip in crumbs, egg, and crumbs and fry in deep fat.

Broiled Pigs' Feet

Sprinkle feet with salt and pepper, and broil under hot broiler 6 to 8 minutes. Serve with Matire d'-Hotel Butter: ¼ cup butter, ½ teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon pepper, ½ tablespoon finely chopped parsley, ¾ tablespoon lemon juice. Put butter in bowl, and with small wooden spoon work until creamy. Add salt, pepper and parsley and then lemon juice very slowly as you work it in.

The Neck Bones I referred to above can be used in any recipe calling for stewed meat, or where a good rich flavor is desired. They would be good boiled, and then baked with sauerkraut. OR added raw to Boston Beans and baked during the whole bean cooking period.

Casserole of Sweetbreads

This is a good method of making sweetbreads go further, but this time we have the Beef Sweetbreads in mind.

To prepare sweetbreads for any method of cooking they must be trimmed, and washed and soaked in cold water 1 hour, then plunged into boiling salted water and boiled slowly for 20 minutes. They are whiter if 2 tablespoons vinegar or lemon juice are added to the boiling water. Quickly plunge into cold water to chill them and keep them firm.

For this Casserole cut sweetbreads which have been par-boiled into 1-inch cubes. Prepare a sauce as follows. If you have 4 tablespoons chicken fat use it, if not, use 4 tablespoons butter, 2 tablespoons flour, ½ cup evaporated milk or if possible cream, and ¾ cup boiling water, salt and pepper and 1 teaspoon beef extract or 1 meat extract cube. Melt butter, add flour, then stir in boiling water until it thickens, then add remaining ingredients and stir until all are well mixed. Put the sweetbreads and sauce in buttered casserole in alternate layers and cover top with buttered crumbs and bake until heated through and golden. Green peas, asparagus tips, pimiento, mushrooms, celery are all good additions separately or together to a Casserole such as this and will make it go farther.

Try Beef Sweetbreads—you have a treat in store.

Can Homemaker Get Much Time For War Grind?

By ADELAIDE KERR
(Associated Press Staff Writer.)

NEW YORK, March 12—(CP).—Should married women with husbands, children and homes to care for, go outside to do war work? That question is agitating a lot of families.

The answer, of course, is: "Some should and some shouldn't. But most should."

Mrs. Married Woman's first and greatest responsibility for war work lies within the four walls of her home. Her uniform is a kitchen apron, her baton the pencil that checks up on calories, comforts and costs. It is vitally important to the nation's welfare that husband and children be well fed and the house be kept well ordered in an atmosphere of peace so that the family may be in the best possible trim to withstand the hazards of war.

Must Consider Children.

It also is important that the children be carefully informed about the war — told enough to answer their qustions, kept free from jitters and hate. (They are going to be the voters of the future—we hope—help build the peace.)

But although the first line of defence is at home, there are others. Much help is needed for civilian defence. Have you heard of the "latch-key children," who roam the streets with the family doorkey and address tied around their necks, so that strangers can open the home door when they want to go in? (They are found chiefly in defence areas, where their mothers work in factories all day.) There are also "key mothers" who lock their children in at home while they go outside to work. Those children should be "parked' in day nurseries, where help is much needed to replace the trained social workers now busy on other jobs.

Plenty of Tasks.

Somebody has to do civilian wartime jobs. No community has enough available people to cover the field. Busy people have to help. Many business women are doing a war work stunt. So why shouldn't married women wedge some war work into their schedules by doing the same kind of time-budgeting as a career woman does in her life?

A business woman thinks nothing of applying her makeup, drinking her breakfast fruit juice, and planning a day's work—all at the same time, without getting jitters. Why can't Mrs. Married Jones knit while she helps junior with his spelling? Or read aloud something she wants the children to know while they do the dishes?

Recruit the Family.

The children themselves might give mother the "break" she needs to do war work. Many of them are worried and excited about the war. They need a release from anxiety. Chances are that if they know that making beds or wiping dishes is their contribution to defence, they will get a big lift out of doing it.

But suppose they are too young to help at home and are simply a charge instead? Then it might be a case of neighborhood team work to get war work done. Mrs. Jones can keep the neighborhood children on Monday afternoon; Mrs. Brown on Tuesday, while the rest of the mothers in the block roll bandages or take first-aid or nutrition courses.

Except for the class where there are very young babies or illness exists in the servantless homes, it looks as though Mrs. Married Woman could find and do some war-work stint.

Dinners Of The Week . .

By MARY MOORE

SUNDAY

Tomato Cocktail with Lemon Juice
Emem's Sunday Meat Loaf
(see note)
Scalloped Potatoes
Tossed Green Salad: Radishes, Green Cabbage, Lettuce, Parsley
French Dressing
Rhubarb Upside Down Cake Coffee

NOTE: The attractive part of this loaf is the glaze—your efforts will be rewarded if you try it: 1 lb. ground beef, ½ lb. ground pork, ½ lb. ground veal (have the butcher put these through the grinder together, 4 slices bread, ⅓ cup warm water, ½ onion grated, 1 tablespoon salt, ¼ teaspoon black pepper, 2 eggs, ⅓ cup chili sauce, ⅓ cup corn syrup. Mix the bread softened in the warm water with the mixed meats, then add seasonings and beaten eggs, shape into oval leaf or pack in greased loaf pan and cover with chili sauce and corn syrup which have been mixed together. Bake at 375 deg. F. for about 45 minutes. If baked in oval shape it can be basted and is improved by this. If to be served cold make a day ahead and it will slice perfectly.

MONDAY (Vegetarian)

Corn Fritters
Green Beans with Cheese Sauce
Scalloped Tomatoes
Raw Carrot and Celery Sticks
Chocolate Custards Cookies
Coffee

TUESDAY (Slimmer's Dinner)

Tomato Bouillon
Larded Lamb's Liver
Baked Potatoes (taboo for the slimmers
Spinach Souffle
Baked Apples Sweetened with Honey
Coffee

WEDNESDAY

Eggs Benedict (see note)
Succotash Coleslaw
Lemon or Chocolate Meringue Pie
Coffee

NOTE: Eggs Benedict sounds simple and tastes superb, but they require a Hollandaise sauce: Fry either ham or bacon, 1 piece for each serving. Place this on a small round of toast; on the ham or bacon place a well poached egg and over all serve Hollandaise. Sounds easy doesn't it? It is too if you have mastered Hollandaise, and it is fit for your best friend.

THURSDAY (Economical)

Codfish and Potato Cakes
Chopped Beets and Greens
Shredded Carrots in Cream Sauce
Hot Gingerbread with Lemon Sauce
Coffee

FRIDAY

Genuine Welsh Rarebit on Crackers
Corn Pudding
Quick Cooked Wedges of new Cabbage
Pineapple and Prune Salads on Lettuce with Fruit Cream Dressing
Crackers Coffee

SATURDAY (Guests)

Braised Short Ribs of Beef with Tomatoes
Canned Peas
Dried Apple Pie Cheese
Coffee

THE STARS SAY . . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Friday, March 13

Most propitious auguries are found in this day's astrological chart bringing progress, gratification and happiness into all the paths of human experience, ambitions and aspiration. The energies and faculties may be found greatly stimulated to exalted achievements, with powerful interests ready to cooperate in a solid and expansive manner. The element of friendship and social prestige may be utilized to the promotion of all objectives, and tokens of public acclaim and support are assured, but be alert to subtle pitfalls, treacheries and intrigues.

Those whose birthday it is may be at the threshold of a year of exceptional success, good fortune and personal felicity, with all avenues for happiness, achievement and contentment reaching advanced goals in whatever direction ambitions may be concentrated. Promotion, preferment, friendships of the mighty, social and financial prestige as well as public recognition and domestic or affectional felicity should be assured. In all contacts be alert to minor treacheries or subtleties.

A child born on this day should be generously endowed with many abilities, forces and influences and reach a high place in prestige, public gratifications and joys.

Straw Feather Toque

By ALICE ALDEN

HATS ARE more feminine than ever, which means that a flattering becomingly soft and pretty hat isn't difficult to find. In fact, every designer has concentrated on one such group. A tailor-made suit softened with harmonious accessories makes up the general sartorial picture for Spring. Josephi does this pretty toque that looks like ostrich but in reality is of curled Milan straw in red, yellow and green. The simulated feather hat is worn with a forward tilt. It is finished with filmy red veiling.

Save Sugar Menu

Those teasing, hungry Spring days are the days for gingerbread, hot out of the oven, and spicy, honey date loaf. Clip the special recipe from today's save-sugar menu, which is suggested as follows:

BREAKFAST

Spiced Prunes
Cooked Wheat Cereal with Raisins
Bran Muffins
Marmalade Coffee and Milk

LUNCHEON

Clear Tomato Soup
Potatoes au Gratin Carrot Straws
*Hot Gingerbread with Sauce

DINNER

Irish Stew with Dumplings and Vegetables
Baked Apple Honey Date Loaf

*Gingerbread

Temperature: 350° F.
Time: 30 minutes.

1 cup brown sugar
½ cup shortening
½ cup molasses
2/3 cup boiling water
2¼ cups pastry flour
1 tsp. baking powder
1 tsp. baking soda
½ tsp. cinnamon
⅛ tsp. nutmeg
⅛ tsp. ginger
½ tsp. salt.
2 eggs

Method.—Cream shortening gradually add brown sugar and molasses. Add hot water; let stand until lukewarm. Add sifted dry ingredients in 3 additions, beating well after each addition. Add well-beaten eggs; beat with dover beater. (This batter is very thin.) Pour into pan 8" x 12" lined with wax paper and oiled. Bake in moderate oven. Serve hot with Brown Sugar Sauce.

Now, THE WHITEST WASH EVER Guaranteed!

OR DOUBLE YOUR MONEY BACK

—Yet New OXYDOL is Milder on Hands! Safe for Colours! Safe for Rayons, too!

WHITE without bleaching! Are you getting these sparkling washes that everyone says are the whitest ever? If not, join the millions who have changed to the New OXYDOL.

Now With Its New Kind of Suds —"Hustle-Bubble" Suds

There's no bleach in Oxydol—the secret is its new kind of suds—"Hustle-Bubble" suds. They're richer in washing power. Packed with more power to wash clothes white—and they're the kind of suds that keep clothes white without bleaching, wash after wash.

Yet, Oxydol is now milder than before. Actually kinder to hands. And safety itself for lovely washable rayons and coloured washables.

Every cupful now washes more clothes or dishes. You'll find real economy in the New Oxydol. Every ounce of the New Oxydol goes farther than any of 18 leading soaps!

If you don't agree Oxydol gives you the whitest wash ever, simply return the unused portion of the package with your name and address to OXYDOL, Montreal, and twice the purchase price will be refunded. This offer expires December 31, 1942. Procter & Gamble.

MADE IN CANADA

Registered Trade Mark

NEW OXYDOL is Canada's whitest-washing soap! And the Electric Eye proves it.

Now, the whiteness of clothes washed by Canada's leading laundry soaps is scientifically measured and compared! Equal samples of clothes—washed with equal amounts of these soaps for an equal time—then measured by Electric Eye.

And Oxydol wins for whiteness! Clearly out-washes other Canadian soaps—including soaps in wide use and priced the same.

Music Teachers Given Talk On Britain In Wartime

R. S. Lambert, eminent journalist and radio speaker, addressed a gathering of the Peterborough Branch of the Ontario Music Teachers' Association and their friends on Wednesday evening at the Y.W. C.A. His subject was "Daily Life in War-Time Britain."

Mr. Lambert's talk was made up to a great extent of letters from the Old Country which had been sent to him by listeners to "Old Country Mail." He explained that interest in this subject is not the same to-day as it was two years, or even a year ago. Then the story of the lives and adventures of blitzed Londoners, the life of whole people living under blackout conditions would have been simply a story of things that happened very far away. Now it has come close to home. Those things may happen here at any tme, and so they have taken on an added interest.

Mr. Lambert read from the letters of ordinary people, telling of their experiences under war conditions, of the business man, who after not missing a day at the office in 45 years, arrived one morning to find that his office no longer existed and that he was out of a job. And there was the tale of a famous publishing house which was ordered by the Air Ministry to vacate its premises wtihin 24 hours and take over those of a fine art printing firm which had been ordered to close down in 24 hours, its work being considered unessential in war-time.

A great deal of the correspondence centres around food, especially eggs, which have become more precious than rubies. The ration allows one egg per person but unfortunately the source of supply is unable to fulfil even this meagre allowance. Many are the tales of laughter and tragedy concerning broken eggs. Pigs also are a subject for discussion since many people keep one or two pigs, and fatten them for home consumption. One fireman who had charge of his station's pigs grew so fond of them that when one of them was killed for Christmas dinner he was unable to eat it.

A vote of thanks to Mr. Lambert was moved by Mrs. Agnes Logan Green and seconded by Miss Mary Medd. The speaker was introduced by Mrs. R. Williamson.

Girls' Council

The Girls' Council of the Y.W. C.A. held their monthly meeting on Wednesday in the Club supper room, with the president, Mrs. K. Choate, in the chair. The program for membership night was discussed and a committee appointed to look after final details. This committee includes Misses Flora Metcalfe, Billy Robinson, Thelma Dowd, Mrs. F. Dunford and Mrs. K. Choate. The next fireside tea hour will be conducted and arranged by the Girls' Council and a committee composed of Miss Betty Detcher, Miss Judy Clarke, Mrs. James Forbes and Mrs. K. Choate, was appointed to look after details. It was announced that the regional conference had been postponed until the fall.

University Women's Club

The chief item of business at the meeting of the University Women's Club on Monday evening was the sending of clothes to a Belgian refugee student in England through the International Federation of University Women. The clothing already purchased was on display and final arrangements for mailing were made.

Miss Margaret Hamilton gave a report on a conference held by the Wartime Prices and Trade Board in Toronto, which she attended as a representative of the club.

Dr. H. V. Dobson, the speaker of the evening, took as his topic, "Some Highlights in the History of Medicine." His sketches of the outstanding men of medicine and their work were interesting.

After tea had been served several of the speakers from the C.W.V.S. inaugural meeting came over to the club. Mrs. Gordon Conant spoke on the work of the C.W.V.S. and urged the co-operation of the University women.

St. James' W.M.S. March Meeting

St. James' W.M.S. Auxiliary met in Wesley Hall for their March meeting with a splendid attendance in spite of the storm. After singing "The Lord is my Shepherd," The Lord's Prayer was repeated in unison.

A brief business session followed, when arrangements were completed for holding the W.M.S. Sunday service on March 29th, when the pastor, Rev. Mr. Craik, will give a special missionary message, and the choir will prepare music in keeping.

Mrs. McAdams is in charge of details, and Thankoffering envelopes will be distributed.

As usual Easter cards will be sent to shut-in members.

Owing to war conditions it was decided to dispense with the usual Mother and Daughter banquet, and in its place to use the funds for an offering, with Mrs. E. M. Davis in charge.

A letter from the new Presbyterial president, Mrs. F. W. K. Harris, in which she asked for continued cooperation, was read.

Mrs. Wesley Rose, who presided, took up the standard of efficiency and urged that this Auxiliary strive for the 10% increase in each point. Christian Stewardship was presented by the department secretary, Mrs. F. W. Craik, in a beautiful poem, while Mrs. E. Beavis gave an excellent paper on Temperance. The reception of the offering concluded this part of the program.

Mrs. E. K. Woodley and her group members led the worship service, opening with the hymn, "Jesus the very thought of Thee." Isaiah 55 was read as a scripture lesson by Mrs. Ward Deyell and prayer offered by Miss Morton. The study book for the year "Serving with the sons of Shuh," was completed at this meeting by the leader, Mrs. E. M. Davis, and has been both interesting and educational.

"Thoughts of a Missionary in China" was the theme of a most enlightening article read by Mrs. Geary, a guest of the W.M.S. from Owen Sound. A "Quiet Hour" talk by the president brought a note of inspiration to all, and was a fitting prelude to the beautiful solo "Softly and Tenderly," sung in her sweet contralto by Mrs. Ernest Kitney, A.T.C.M., with Mrs. H. F. Doig at the piano. Mrs Woodley closed her fine devotional program with a hymn "Art Thou Weary," and earnest prayer.

This Is Everybody's War

(By Molly Brown)

An evening's listening to the radio prompts the doubtless futile reflection that when louder and lousier patriotic songs are written, Canadians will write 'em....Raisins, currants and other dried fruits, besides being nutritious when added to baking, contribute to sweetness and take the place of sugar....Is it true that if a family is wealthy enough to own two cars it can get a gas ration for each of them?....The brass ends on electric light bulbs are becoming increasingly valuable. Break the glass of your old, burnt out bulbs to prevent accidents, and put the metal ends in a box for the salvage collector....A beautiful appliqued quilt is being raffled by the "Hilltop Neighbors Club." You can see it in the Coleman's window, down town. It was made by the members and the proceeds are for war relief ....Have you seen the blackout kitchen yet? It would be a pleasure to be blacked out in a kitchen like that. It's the answer to a housewife's prayer....Have you enrolled yet in the Women's Voluntary Services? An interesting experience. You'll be surprised at the things you'll remember about yourself and your accomplishments when you fill out that form—and at the importance attached to some of your seemingly frivolous interests....Out of the midst of air-raids comes a letter from a Manchester Cub mistress, who asks her Canadian correspondent to save her American and Canadian stamps, as her Cubs are avid collectors....Another series of programs designed to lure American tourists—and American dollars—to Ontario is about to start, inaugurated by Madeleine Carroll. It is to be hoped it is an improvement over last year's effort. The script of that half-starved program made abundantly clear a fact which is not true at all, that all we want of Americans is their money. We are not as mercenary as that....The Y.W.C.A. is having a membership Night on March 24 when the various "Y" groups will make their contributions to the M.W.C.F. Mrs. A. B. Colerick of Toronto, will speak at the meeting....Clubs and other organizations saving stamps in order to sell them to have the dyes reclaimed should clip them off a quarter of an inch around the edge. The stamps are not worth as much if they are merely torn off.

Chapter Observes This Month 30th Anniversary

The 57th Regiment Chapter, I.O. D.E., held their March meeting yesterday afternoon in the Armouries, with their regent, Mrs. A. W. Turner, presiding.

The guest speaker for the afternoon was Mr. D. B. Lawley who had for his subject, "That which is Britain." His fine address held his audience in rapt attention for a full hour.

Mrs. C. B. Hughes was again appointed to the board of National Institute for the Blind.

Hundreds of books and magazines were donated by the members, to be distributed among the soldiers at various camps.

It was reported that the recent bridge party which the chapter held was very successful.

The usual spring tea is to be held on Saturday, March 28 in the Green Room at the Y.W.C.A., the chapter is this month observing its 30 birthday so the tea is to be in the form of a birthday tea. Mrs. G. A. Cutmore was named convener for the tea table, Mrs. G. M. Stenton in charge of home-made cooking. There is to be a draw on a quilt during the afternoon. Miss M. M. McIntyre is convener of the raffle tickets.

Splendid reports were given by our war convener, Mrs. William Langford and by Mrs. Cottrell, knitting convener. Mrs. William Sharpe and Mrs. E. E. Lord reported over 90 calls at the hospital last month.

A new member, Mrs. A. G. Stock was enrolled.

A brief outline of the work of the Salvage Committee was made by Mrs. G. Melton, who said that the ladies were continually gathering rubber, fat, paper and many other articles.

A number of knitted sweaters, scarfs and socks and other articles were on display, these being the work of a small west-end group of ladies. Numerous articles of warm clothing, bedding etc., are being sent to the Russian and Polish relief monthly, besides quantities of warm clothing and other articles of every description which is sent to the British relief regularly.

St. Peter's C.W.L. Planning March 17th Tea

St. Peter's sub-division of the Catholic Women's League met in St. Peter's School on Wednesday evening with the president, Mrs. F. J. Lynch, in the chair. Reports of conveners of membership, relief and education showed that a great deal of work has been accomplished in the past month. Mrs. A. Monaghan was appointed convener of the tea to be held in the Knights of Columbus Hall on Tuesday, March 17. An afghan donated by Mrs. Foley is to be drawn for at the tea. The sale of tickets has been most encouraging.

A well prepared outline of the work carried on by the school nurse was given in an address by Miss Cunningham whose duties as Separate School and public health nurse carry her into the homes of all classes of citizens. In her discourse she made special note of the great assistance that teachers in classrooms give in the early detection of communicable and other diseases in the children. Early detection of sickness is of great assistance in prevention of spread of child diseases. The appreciation of the C.W.L. was expressed by Mrs. J. Roach and seconded by Miss Mary Clancy.

The president introduced Miss M. Maddaford, V.O.N., in a few words Miss Maddaford spoke of the various duties of the local branch of the V.O.N. and thanked the C.W.L. for all assistance in needy homes which they had given. The assistance of the V.O.N. is given in homes where the service of a graduate nurse is required only once a day or once a week.

An enjoyable musical interlude was provided by Miss Phyllis Cowie, accompanied by Miss L. Hurley, who sang "Danny Boy" and "A Little Bit of Heaven." Mrs. Lynch thanked Miss Cowie on behalf of the C.W.L. for her generosity in making the meeting pleasant.

A nominating committee was named, composed of the chairman, Mrs. Blackburn, assisted by Mrs. W. Lynch, Mrs. F. J. Hickey and Mrs. William O'Donnell.

The anticipated day of prayer and recollection is about to be realized. A committee was formed to make the necessary arrangements.

Home and School Association News

QUEEN ELIZABETH SCHOOL

The March meeting of the Queen Elizabeth Home and School Association was held on Wednesday evening in the school. Mrs. R. J. Kearns was present on behalf of the salvage committee and stressed the urgency of saving every scrap of paper, rubber, grease and metal, adding that munition factories have been obliged to shut down for half a day or a day a week owing to a shortage of waste paper which is required for producing wadding for cartridges and shells.

Mr. Alex Kay gave a lecture on bird life, urging parents and especially children, to protect and conserve our birds, upon which the very existence of the human race depends.

Two delightful solos were sung by Miss Helen Glover, accompanied by Miss Helen Williams, both of the Normal School.

Mrs. E. C. Brumwell, vice-president, was in the chair in the absence of the president, Mrs. O. Deyell. Reports were given by conveners of the standing committees. Mr. Alan Brown thanked the speaker and Mrs. George Simpson was at the piano for the closing number.

KING GEORGE SCHOOL.

"Religious Education in the School" was the subject of Mr. Leo Copp's address to the March meeting of the King George Home and School Association on Wednesday evening. He felt that education along these lines given them in school should be something useful by which a child could be guided and especially to learn to apply their religion to everyday life.

Mr. F. E. Kerr gave a talk on current events. The roll call was tied by Mr. Kerr's and Mr. Northey's classes and it was decided to give a book to each class. Mrs. H. Northrop sang two solos, accompanied by Mrs. DeNure. A paper collection will be held before Easter by the teachers and pupils, proceeds for the Red Cross.

Next month the regular meeting will be Fathers' Night.

HONEY SPICE CAKE.
(A Chatelaine Institute Approved Recipe).

- ½ cupful of shortening
- 1-6 cupful of sugar
- ¾ cupful of strained honey
- 1 egg yolk, beaten
- 1½ cupfuls of flour
- ¾ teaspoonful of cinnamon
- ¼ teaspoonful of cloves
- 2 teaspoonfuls of baking powder
- ¼ teaspoonful of soda
- ¼ teaspoonful of salt
- ½ cupful of sour milk
- ½ teaspoonful of vanilla
- 1 egg white, beaten.

Cream the shortening, add sugar and cream. Beat in the honey. Beat the egg yolk and add to the mixture. Sift the dry ingredients together and add alternately with the sour milk and vanilla. Fold in the beaten egg white. Pour into a well greased loaf pan and bake in a moderate oven (350 degrees F.) for 45 minutes.

APPLE RICE PUDDING.

- 1 1-3 cupfuls of rice washed thoroughly
- 2 tablespoonfuls of sugar
- 6 tablespoonfuls of corn syrup
- 3 apples, sliced.

Wash the rice and cook until tender in salted boiling water. Drain well and add the sugar and the corn syrup. Arrange alternate layers of rice and apples in a covered and greased baking dish, having a layer of apples on the top. Remove the cover and brown. Serve with or without sauce. Eight servings.

MAGPIE FRESH

By PRUNELLA WOOD

THIS is a fine example of the real smartness which our American manufacturers can put into a readymade dress with a modest price tag. It's no pin money proposition, but an inexpensive "best dress" for church parade, afternoon parties, luncheons and platform appearances, and it should have considerably more than one spring and summer season's wear in it.

Since its trim is white cotton pique, this model is a natural for the cotton accessories which becomes more and more important and easy to get as priorities nibble away other accessory materials.

A rayon crepe with a close surface which resembles wool, this sophisticated dress, in black or navy. White pique band and bowknot, and sleeve edging.

SPRING DINNER DRESS

By ALICE ALDEN

THE SLIM dinner dress of jersey made with graceful draping, high neck and long sleeves appears again for spring wear. Gene Tierney wears such a frock with her usual graceful effect. It is of very light blue jersey and is cut with a draped harem skirt and deep raglan sleeves. The wide, shaped midriff section is marked by a sapphire ornament, and the deep sleeves are outlined by two folds of the jersey.

THE ENQUIRY COLUMN

By MARY MOORE

Question. — Would you kindly print the recipe for fish batter. I presume it would be for fillet fish. To be more exact it is what the fish and chip restaurants use.—Mrs. D. Williamson.

Answer.—Most of the fish and chip shops do not use egg in their batters, but for household cooking an egg in the batter is advisable.

Fritter Batter

(This may be used for many purposes, such as dipping fish for frying OR chopped fruits or vegetables may be added to it for frying.) 1¼ cups flour, 2 teaspoon baking powder, ¼ teaspoon salt, 1 egg beaten, 2/3 cup milk. Mix and sift dry ingredients. Add beaten egg to milk. Combine mixtures and beat until smooth.

Note.—Yolk may be omitted and white may be beaten until stiff then folded into batter to make a lighter and more delicate crust.

Question.—Would you kindly give me recipes for canned fowl,—chicken, duck, squab, and rabbit?

We are going into the hotel business. It will come in handy to have this canned fowl on hand.—Mrs. A. E.

Answer. — There is one major precaution that all canners of meat and fowl must be willing to observe. After meat is sealed in jars it must be sterilized for prescribed time (see below) and seal must never be broken until jar is opened to use.

Canned Fowl

(Meat or fowl should never be canned by amateurs—only experienced canners should use this recipe.)

The fowl mentioned and the rabbit may be prepared as you wish to serve them. They could be baked, or fried, but are easiest to handle if boiled. Since you are in the hotel business you would doubtless like to do them the fastest way, and boiled fowl can be dressed up after it is taken out of jar. It can be creamed, crumbed and dried to make into deep pies, or sliced for hot sandwiches. Clever cooks will doubtless think of many other way to adapt it.

Since chicken is most commonly used I will refer to it specifically—all other products will be based on this method:

Wash boiling fowl well in warm water, using baking soda to clean the skin. Boil in water to cover; a 6-lb. chicken requires nearly 2 quarts boiling water and 1 tablespoon salt. Boil covered 3 hours, or until meat will fall from bones easily. Take meat from bones and lay back in a small amount of the boiling liquid to keep it hot. When all meat is picked from bones, with sterile fork and spoon place chicken meat insterilized jars, but do no pack it down hard, leave enough room for the boiling hot liquid to run through to bottom of jar,. Cover with boiling hot chicken broth, put on sterile rubbers, glasses and rings and tighten to within one-quarter turn of tight, and place in hot water bath, having water come to within 1 inch of top edge of jars and boil 4 hours. When done, tighten seal as soon as possible—never loosen seal. For safety, boil all canned meats 5 minutes before tasting.

If canning is done in steam pressure cooker the processing time is 1½ hours, at 240 deg. Fahr.

Question: I would like to know a recipe for making good chocolate and how to use carrots, that the vitamins are not destroyed as by cooking. Thanking you, H. Oesterreich.

Answer:

Hot Chocolate (to serve 6)

One and one-half squares cooking chocolate, ⅛ cup sugar, (less sugar than this is enough for many folks), 3 cups milk, few grains salt, 1 cup boiling water, ½ teaspoon vanilla. Scald milk. Melt chocolate in small saucepan over hot water. Add sugar and salt. Add very gradually boiling water that mixture may be of uniform color. Stir until smooth. Boil 5 minutes. Add to scalded milk, beat until very foamy, and add vanilla. Serve in chocolate cups. It is often served with a topping of whipped cream or marshmallow. If the marshmallow is used the sugar must be reduced.

Carrots

Carrots are at their best when raw. While cooking does not completely destroy the vitamins, it does decrease them.

A good habit to form is to use carrots as salads. Cut them in lengthwise strips and serve them very cold (iced if possible). Many people serve them on the same dish as celery. They are delicious in a salad, shredded with cabbage and parsley, and moistened with genuine mayonnaise.

All the minerals in carrots are retained if they must be cooked, if you will shred them into a casserole and cover them with milk, dot with butter, and season with salt and pepper and bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for about 1 hour. These are done almost the same as scalloped potatoes, and are a good way to conserve all the good in carrots if you find you want to cook them.

However Carrots are such a good vegetable, for vitamins, minerals and tooth health(they are so hard to chew they exercise the gums), that it is best to form the habit of always eating them raw.

BABY'S UPSET STOMACH QUICKLY CORRECTED

BABY'S little "Tummy" is often easily upset. It is easily righted again, too, if you know just how to do it. Let Mrs. M. S. Alway, of London, Ont., tell you: "Baby's Own Tablets are a great help at the first sign of upset stomach, during teething time or when a cold is coming on. They work quickly yet gently to carry away poisons and promote quiet sleep. Walking floors at night is unknown in our home."

And Mrs. W. R. Sharp says: "I nursed my baby shortly after being alarmed over a motor accident and that upset her almost to the point of convulsions. I gave her Baby's Own Tablets and she soon stopped crying—went to sleep and when she awakened was her own good self again."

Equally effective for diarrhoea, colic, teething troubles, simple croup, constipation and simple fever. Sweet-tasting, easy to take, prompt in their action yet harmless. Analyst's certificate in every box. Buy a box today for sickness so often strikes in the night. 25 cents. Money back if not satisfied.

DOROTHY DIX

YOU MUST EXPECT TROUBLE IF YOU MARRY MAMA'S PET

He Will Be a Fault-Finder and Nothing You Do Will Please Him

DEAR DOROTHY DIX — My husband has left me because he loves his home too much and I cannot run it to please him. His mother is a perfectly wonderful housekeeper, the natural-born kind whose house always looks as if she had just finished housecleaning, and my husband expected me to be the same kind. Heaven knows I tried, but no matter how hard I worked to please him I never did anything quite so well as his mother, though sometimes I would spend a half hour ironing a shirt just because he liked it a particular way. He was always running his fingers over the furniture for dust and if one thing was out of place he would get mad, and when he couldn't stand it any longer he went back to his mother. After six weeks of being away he wrote me that he was miserable without me and the baby and couldn't we try it again, so we got a new place, but it was the same thing all over again. And three weeks ago he again went back to his mother. I did my best to be the kind of wife he wanted, for I love him with all my heart and I am very unhappy because it is an awful feeling to think that I have failed my husband. Do you think that I am wasting time and tears, hoping and praying he will come back. Can a man still love a woman who has failed to live up to his ideal of a wife?—

MISERABLE.

P.S.—He is an only son and the apple of his mother's eye.

Wife Has Hard Role to Fulfill

ANSWER—No wife ever came up to her husband's ideal, because a man's dream wife is a combination of every imaginary charm and virtue. She is a glamorous creature who never grows old no rloses her beauty, no matter how old she gets; who never grows old nor loses her and nurse a sick child and still be gay and peppy and ready to step out to a night club; who can run a house without spending money and conjure good meals out of the air; who can look like a million dollars who can do a hard day's washing in hand-me-downs; who has no relatives who ever come to visit her, and who is always bright and smiling even when her husband gets a grouch and passes into the silence.

That is the perfect wife that every man would like to have, but fortunately most men have intelligence enough to know that there isn't any such animal extant, and that they wouldn't know what to do with one if they had her. So they content themselves with the poor, blundering, imperfect mates the Lord sends them and who are in their own class and with whom they have a lot more in common than they would with a superwoman.

No Excuse for Abandonment

For your husband to forget his marriage vows and abandon you and his child for no better reason than that you are not as expert a housekeeper as his mother is shows that he is nothing but a spoiled kid. He has never grown up.

If your husband thinks he got the wrong wife, you certainly got the wrong husband. Every girl does who marries Mama's pet. For he expects her to take on Mama's job of pampering him, of waiting on him hand and foot, and for her to be as good a cook and housekeeper is after 40 years of experience.

But why any woman wants a man around the house who criticizes her cooking and runs his fingers over the furniture to see if she has dusted, is something I cannot comprehend. I should think she would be glad to return him to his mother.

Children and Divorce

DEAR DOROTHY DIX—A husband and wife, who are friends of mine, agreed to disagree and have not lived together for the past three years. He resides with his parents and she with hers. They have a little girl of seven who stays with the mother and the father provides very generously for both mother and child. On account of this child they have refrained from getting a divorce, yet both of them have affairs with other women and men. They don't seem to realize that when the child gets a little older and finds out that both of her parents have been leading loose lives she will have less respect for them than she would have if they had gotten a divorce. What do you think?—

ANSWER — I think they have taken a strange way of meeting their moral obligation to their little girl, for the tragedy of the divorce of a mismated couple to the child is in the fact that it deprives it of the companionship and guidance of both parents and takes away from it the security of a peaceful home in which it can grow up. This couple have made their little girl the victim of all the direst consequences of a broken marriage.

Bad as a divorce is, there are things that are far worse, even for the children who are always the ones who are hurt in the fight between their parents. It is better for a child to have one parent than two who are always at odds.

It is better for a child to grow up in a peaceful home with only a mother or a father than to be reared in one in which the parents are continually quarreling and abusing each other and calling upon the children to take sides in their disputes. And it is a million times better for a child to have divorced parents than a father and mother who are leading immoral lives.

The "Secretary" Question

Dear Miss Dix.—It is possible for a wife to heckle her husband into falling in love with his secretary? Or is it a predestined fact that two people working together automatically fall in love with each other? In working for a concern for many years and helping to work up its business a secretary is bound to have an interest in it and like to talk shop, whereas a man's wife is often bored by her husband trying to tell her about his work, and says: "Oh, forget it!" So wouldn't it seem natural that in time a man would come to feel that he has more in common with his secretary than he has with his wife? Nor is there any surer way of a wife throwing her husband to his secretary than by her always being jealous of her and accusing him of doing things he never thought of doing.—Wondering Winnie.

Answer.—Of course, the men who pick out their secretaries for their figures and not for their efficiency will always philander, no matter whether their wives are naggers or Patient Griseldas. But undoubtedly there are a vast number of unromantic, unsentimental, domestic men, who get all the adventure they crave in making money, who would never think of their secretaries as anything but cogs in their business if their jealous wives did not put the idea into their heads.

But wife's suspicions that they are gay Lotharios whose charms are irresistible to girls 20 or 30 years younger than themselves, and that they spend their time going out to lunches sort of wakes the middle-aged man, who thought he was done with sentimental affairs, and makes him think that he will see if he is the devil among the ladies that his wife believes him to be. It is a foolish wife who doesn't let well enough alone and not call her husband's attention to how good-looking Miss Pothooks is.

When a wife nags and when she refuses to take an interest in her husband's affairs, she opens the door with her own hands for the Other Woman. For every man has to have some woman to whom he can pour out his soul and say the things he could not say to any other man.—Dorothy Dix.

This Week's Wartime Recipe

FRUIT CAKE.
(Without eggs or butter).
(Contributed by Mrs. Chas. Regis).

One cup brown sugar, ½ cup molasses, 1 cup sour cream, 1 tablespoon soda (put in cream when dissolved in), 1 tablespoon boiling water, 3½ cups flour, 2 teaspoons baking powder, 2 lbs. of seedless raisins, ½ lb. currants, ¼ lb. mixed peel, ½ lb. dates or figs (I prefer dates cut up), 1 cup preserves, nuts and spices as preferred, pinch of salt, almond flavoring. It takes about 2 hours to bake in slow oven. I use coal oil stove as it is just one heat and just turn wicks to show a faint blue flame. If made 1 month before using this will be found a very moist cake and may be kept any length of time. I have used this recipe for 25 years and always had a good cake. It requires no icing.

Thank you, Mrs. Regis, for this fine cake recipe.

LEMON PIE.

(This recipe by Miss Alice Bradley of the Miss Farmer School of Cookery, Boston).

It dates from the last war and is contributed by Mrs. Graham, of Edmonton.

One and one-half cups soft bread crumbs, 3 tablespoons butter substitute, 1 cup boiling water, 1 cup sugar, 1½ teaspoons cornstarch, 2 egg yolks, ⅛ teaspoon salt, 3 tablespoons lemon juice and grated rind. Add substitute to bread crumbs, then boiling water and let stand until soft. Mix sugar, cornstarch, egg yolks well beaten, lemon juice and lemon rind. Combine mixtures and bake in one crust and cover with meringue. I vary this recipe by using dry crumbs or using the whole egg and omitting the meringue.

Canada War Cake (also from last War.—Contributed by Mrs. Graham).

Two cups sugar, 2 cups hot water, 3 tablespoons lard, 1 teaspoon salt, ½ teaspoon each of cloves and cinnamon, 1 package seedless raisins. Boil this together for 5 minutes and let cool. Then add 4 cups flour with 1 teaspoon soda dissolved (in 1 tablespoon water). I add also 1 teaspoon baking powder.

Thank you for this unusual version of lemon pie,—it was a great success with our family when I tried it.

Readers, I think you have been grand to respond to this appeal for wartime recipes as you have, but I feel that the resources of the majority of our cooks have not even been tapped. You know it is up to us to make this war effort count, and unless we try to the utmost (as our enemies are doing) there are dark days ahead. Send us your recipes that have been tried and that you know are economical, and that will conserve Canadian food,

Shorthand's Easy to Study at Home

Here's a girl with foresight!

By studying shorthand at home she was able to step into more interesting and profitable work when the chance came.

There are such opportunities for nearly everybody, and anyone can learn the fundamentals of Pitman shorthand at home.

The symbols, each standing for a spoken sound in English, are easy to write and recognize. A tiny curve is the "F" sound, a dot is "A", a downstroke is "D".

You don't worry about the real spelling, just the sound. So "fade" is just the curve, the downstroke, the dot!

Next you learn the useful little "short forms," symbols for common words, to save time in dictation—a short straight downstroke for "but", a slanting downstroke for "which".

And for top speed, you learn phrasing, combining two symbols in one continuous stroke. "But which" your straight stroke and slant stroke connected, is written in a split second.

Easy to learn and so well worth it! Our 32-page booklet gives you the fundamentals of Pitman shorthand in 18 lessons, each with symbols, rules, short forms, exercises. Lists additional short forms for speed. Can serve as a foundation for a business college course.

For your copy of "Self-Instruction in Shorthand" send 15 cents in coins or stamps to the Examiner, Home Service, Peterborough. Be sure to write plainly your name, address, and the name of booklet.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

WRITTEN FOR THE EXAMINER

By SHEPARD BARCLAY

"The Authority on Authorities"

SEEK THE BEST SCORE

RUBBER players who don't like duplicate would help themselves by giving that game an occasional whirl. Perhaps the greatest thing duplicate can do for your rubber bridge is to teach you the value of seeking the most profitable contract on each deal, instead of merely the first good contract you see in sight. In the long run, a player who gains the extra points for heart and spade games and slams will have quite an advantage over the fellow who would just as soon make them in minor suits.

North: ♠ Q 2 ♥ K 7 3 ♦ 10 7 5 ♣ A 10 9 7 6

West: ♠ K J 9 7 6 ♥ 5 4 ♦ A 8 4 2 ♣ Q 4

East: ♠ A 10 8 5 4 3 ♥ Q 9 8 ♦ J 6 ♣ 5 2

South: ♠ None ♥ A J 10 6 2 ♦ K Q 9 3 ♣ K J 8 3

(Dealer: East. North-South vulnerable.)

East	South	West	North
Pass	1 ♥	1 ♠	2 ♣
2 ♠	3 ♦	Pass	3 ♥
3 ♠	4 ♠	Pass	5 ♣
Pass	6 ♥	Pass	Pass
Dbl

That hand was originally dealt in a game of four good rubber players. The bidding was as given, up to East's 2-Spades, but then South, who had learned his partner had a club suit, shown in a hand good enough for a free bid, hopped at once to 5-Clubs. It was made, plus an extra trick.

Notice the greater artistry of the bidding tabulated above, done by a pair of fine duplicate players when the deal was copied and put in duplicate boards. See especially South's second call of 3-Diamonds. That put North in position for a No Trump game call if he had spades stopped. When North, however, merely showed a heart preference, it advertised lack of safe spade stoppers, also exactly three hearts, as with four he would have raised hearts the first time instead of bidding clubs.

South, having five of his suit, considered North's three enough to make a mild slam try then by cue-bidding the hostile spades. Note that, though the pair was using the Blackwood convention, he did not employ it this time, as the number of aces held by North was not so important as whether he held an ace in one of the minors. North would not have cue-bid his club A except with some other honor strength in hearts or diamonds. The heart K was just enough. Let's not comment on East's bad double. It merely made sure South would play the hand the way he should anyway. As the cards lay, the diamond A was the only loser after West led the spade 7 to the A, South ruffing.

Tomorrow's Problem

North: ♠ A Q 8 5 ♥ 9 6 2 ♦ Q ♣ Q 9 8 5 3

West: ♠ K ♥ A K J 5 3 ♦ J 10 8 5 2 ♣ J 6

East: ♠ 9 6 ♥ 10 7 ♦ 9 7 4 ♣ A K 10 7 4 2

South: ♠ J 10 7 4 3 2 ♥ Q 8 4 ♦ A K 6 3 ♣ None

(Dealer: South. North-South vulnerable.)

After South bids 1-Spade to open this deal, West 2-Hearts, North 2-Spades and East 3-Clubs, what should South bid, and why?

Newest Convoy Contingent Of Mixed Units

AN EAST COAST CANADIAN PORT, March 12—(CP)—More Canadian fighting men have left this Dominion for the bastion of Britain, their hundreds intended as reinforcement for Canuck troops already there. Safe arrival of the convoy at a British port was announced yesterday.

Sailing with the soldiers, sailors and airmen were nursing sisters, women of the Mechanical Transport Corps, Polish soldiers and airmen and Norwegian airmen. Others included fiery Yugoslavs, Belgians, a sprinkling of Greeks and Americans enlisted under the banner of the Maple Leaf.

Travelling with the movement was Allan Nickleson of The Canadian Press. He has been transferred to the London bureau of the news-gathering organization. Joining The Canadian Press as an office boy 12 years ago, Nickleson served on news desks and beats in Toronto, New York, Ottawa and Windsor, Ont., before he was moved to London.

Other civilians in the group were girls of the Mechanical Transport Corps eight in all.

Women Joining Husbands

Included in the group was Mrs. I. C. Campbell, Kingston, Ont. All were travelling at their own expense and several were looking forward to rejoining husbands and fiances.

Mrs. W. L. Scandret of Toronto acted as the spokesman for the women. "Our going over is partly patriotism and partly personal," she said. "Over there we will be closer to our loved ones and we will also be doing something to help out in this mess."

"We're all pretty good 'men'," she added, telling of the driving tests and physical examinations they had to pass to qualify for the jobs. "Some of us will do secretarial work but most of us will be driving—but not tanks or jeeps, though we would tackle those if he had to."

Forty-seven nursing sisters helped make these girls feel more at home among the swarms of uniformed males. All provinces in the Dominion but Prince Edward Island, Nova Scotia and Saskatchewan were represented in the group, with six from British Columbia, three from Alberta, six from New Brunswick, 24 from Ontario, two from Quebec and four from Manitoba.

Zionist Leader Protests Sea Tragedy

OTTAWA, March 12—(CP).—A. J. Freiman, president of the Zionist organization of Canada, said today he had cabled on behalf of the organization to Viscount Cranborne, British Colonial Secretary, expressing "profoundest grief at a tragedy which need never have taken place," the drowning of 769 Jewish passengers of the steamship Strume, which sank in the Black Sea after hitting a mine.

The cable said the passengers, "fleeing to Palestine from the Nazi terror in Rumania, were refused admission to their national homeland by local government officials."

"This deplorable act of the Palestine administration is not consistent with the high principles animating the empire in its present struggle against international outlawry, nor with a fair and just policy of immigration in regard to Jewish rights in Palestine," it said.

"Poles, Czechs Greeks and nother non-Jewish victims of the Nazis are admitted to Palestine in the thousands; shall this privilege be denied to Jewish victims of the same persecution who, besides their ancient Biblical claim to the Holy Land, have in the past 25 years, built it up with the toil and sweat of their brethren who are already there and thousands of whom, enrolled in the armies of the Middle East, are laying down their lives in defence of these outposts of empire?"

Final Check-Up

Important among light weapons of the army are trench mortars, which are now being turned out in quantity by Canadian plants. Here a worker in a Hamilton factory gives a row of 2-inch mortars a final check-up before shipment. Canada is also producing 3-inch mortars.

French Wreck Desert Posts

LOS ANGELES, March 12 (AP)—Free Fench forces raiding Italian positions in southwest Libya have destroyed important munitions depots and inflicted serious damage on the Fascist outposts, the Free French radio at Brazzaville, French equatorial Africa, said today.

The Brazzaville report said the operations, first announced in Cairo, last Saturday, have entered the final stage. The Free French forces drove 1,200 miles from the Lake Chad region across the sands of the great Fezzan desert.

Particularly heavy damage was done to the outposts of Wei-El-Gibia, the radio said.

Dominion Facing Greatest Farm Production Call

(By R. K. CARNEGIE.)

OTTAWA, March 12—(CP)—With legislation now before parliament implementing the Dominion Government's agricultural policy, the combined forces of the Federal and Provincial Agricultural Departments' move into a drive to assure the greatest farm production in Canada's history.

Meetings already have been held by Federal officers with the various provincial authorities. The latter have returned to their provincial headquarters prepared to carry their campaigns for production to the farmers by advertising, radio and other media.

The major appeal is for all-out production of live hogs to meet the agreement with the United Kingdom to provide 600,000,000 pounds of bacon and hams. The agreement, which started last autumn, reaches the half-way mark in two weeks and Canada by that time will have supplied 300,000,000 pounds in addition to providing the domestic requirements for pork products.

However, this half-year covers the periods when the run of hogs to the markets is always heavy so it will take a great effort to keep up this tremendous, unprecedented flow of bacon overseas during the last half.

And More Cheese.

Agriculture Minister Gardiner announced in the House Monday that Canada had undertaken to supply Britain with 125,000,000 pounds of cheese in the 1" months beginning April 1, as compared with last year's agreement for 112,000,000 pounds which will be somewhat exceeded. Despite the drought in 1941 Canada produced 148,913,000 pounds of cheese as compared with 144,500,000 in 1940, but to meet the domestic needs and the requirements for Britain it must be stepped up this year.

The production of cheese this winter had been of unparalleled proportions. From December 1 to last week 168,793 boxes were inspected as compared with 44,896 in the corresponding period a year ago.

"This goes to show," a Departmental official said, "that if the price is right the production will follow despite the shortage of farm labor."

The price of cheese now is 25 cents at shipping points. The principal production comes from Ontario and Quebec.

More Vegetables Too.

A call has gone out to all provinces to increase certain lines of vegetables by 25 per cent. The canners will be asked to pack 25 per cent more than last year of tomatoes, peas, corn and green beans.

For use as fresh and dehydrated products the gardeners will be asked to produce 25 per cent more turnips, onions, beets and cabbage.

This increase is urged more to look after domestic consumption than the export, but Canada wants to be ready to send both canned and dethydrated products to the United Kingdom as required.

A campaign has been going on for weeks to increase egg production with remarkable results and Canada is preparing to dry 30,000,000 dozen eggs for shipment to Britain this year. This is a new job for Canada.

In the past only the poorest quality eggs were dried in Canada, but now the best eggs will be dried. It will provide a quality of dried product never before approached in this country, officials say, and may get Canadians in the way of using it in place of fresh eggs.

Canada's growing demand for butter will take care of the steadily-increasing production in the Prairies, much of which will come to Eastern Canada to supply the lack where Eastern dairymen have shifted to cheese and evaporated milk.

Canada produced 200,190,723 lbs. of evaporated milk last year, of which 81,000,000 pounds was sent to all parts of the Empire. Still greater production is being asked for this year.

This year great quantities of sunflower seeds are being raised at the experimental farms so that next year sunflower raising may take an important place in the farm economy and help to supplement the supplies of vegetable oils.

Brazil Shapes To Declare War

RIO DE JANEIRO, Brazil March 12 (AP)—President Getulio Vargas issued a decree today giving him self the authority to declare a state of war or a state of emergency throughout the country in case of foreign menace, imminence of internal disturbance or existence of a plan of conspiracy.

Promptly answering the torpedoing of the fourth Brazilian ship off the United States coast in three weeks, the decree cleared the way for imprisonment of Axis subjects and seizure of Axis property.

Orders for seizuzre of Axis property were expected within 48 hours.

The decree, issued as Brazil was experiencing increasing shipping losses as a result of Axis submarine actixity off the United States Atlantic coast, declared that "from the time the use of the armed forces for the defence of the state becomes necessary, the President will declare a state of war in all national territory or in part of it."

An endangering of the country's institutions or the safety of its citizens or territory is sufficient cause for the President to declare a state of emergency in the whole country or any part of it, the decree provided.

At the same time the Government shipping line, Lloyd Brasileiro, announced that suspension of all sailings of Brazilian ships to the United States had been ordered by the Government and all such ships enroute to United States ports ordered recalled home.

This followed upon the loss of four Brazilian ships totalling 22,231 tons of submarine attacks off the North American coast.

(Brazil's shipping losses in the First Grat War led her to declare war against Germany).

Relief From Severe Pains In Back, Hips and Limbs

Suffered Day and Night, Had to Quit Work, Says Hamilton Man; Tells How the Syntona Gave Him Splendid Relief.

Hundreds of grateful men and women who have taken Syntona for stomach disorders, sluggish kidneys, lazy liver nervousness, and rheumatic aches and pains that come from acids and impurities in the system tell how this grand herb and root compound has given them relief beyond anything they ever expected of it.

After taking Syntona only a few weeks, here is what Mr. S. E. Brandt 373 MacNab Street, Hamilton, has to say about what it did for him:

"I was suffering so badly from pain in the lower part of my back that I couldn't work. The pain covered an area across the small of my back and all through my hips. At times it even extended down my legs and made me feel nervous and tired. I was also troubled a lot with pimples and dizzy spells.

"A friend advised me to try Syntona some time ago, but I had taken so many things without success that I had no faith in anything. However, I was getting pretty tired of the pain and loss of working time, so I went to the drug store and decided I would try this medicine. That was certainly a lucky day, for it proved to be just what I needed The pains have all gone away, I don't have any dizziness any more and that annoying skin rash has cleared up. Not only that, but I sleep better, feel better, and am back to work again, so naturally I am very happy I tried Syntona and recommend it highly to others."

Come to Elliott's Drug Store, Peterborough, to-day, and get yourself a treatment of Syntona Herbal Tonic. The chances are that you, too, will say it is the best medicine you ever had the good fortune to use.—(Advt.)

Ilmen Function Falls To Reds

MOSCOW, March 12—(AP)—Red Army troops were reported today to have captured an important junction in the Lake Ilmen sector, where the German 16th army is under assault.

A dispatch from the Lake Ilmen front said German bombers, striking in groups of 30 or 40, were dispersed by Soviet fighter craft and some were forced to drop their loads on the lake ice.

Supply transport planes are shot down regularly by Russian airmen and anti-aircraft gunners, and diaries and documents found on prisoners disclose that the Germans are suffering from a shortage of munitions as well as food and clothing, the dispatch said.

The Soviet Information Bureau announced the capture of three villages on the central front, where German garrisons of Rzhev and Vyazma are reported virtually pocketed.

"Units operating on the south-western front destroyed a number of enemy firing positions and blew up a large German ammunition dump," the information bureau said. "A large number of casualties were inflicted on the enemy."

TIMOSHENKO BEATS HUN TO PUNCH IN THE DONETS

LONDON, March 13 — (CP) — Marshal Semeon Timoshenko's terrific southern front onslaught with perhaps 90 Red Army divisions was reported today to have beaten the Germans to the punch in a pre-spring offensive for control of the Donets Basin and the road to the Caucasus.

From Stockholm came word that the Germans had been forced to dip anew into reserves trained for their own Spring push and still were unable to stem the new power drive by the Soviet forces estimated at 1,250,000 to 1,500,000 strong.

The Germans in their communique acknowledged their troops were on the defensive in the Donets Basin, counter - attacking against "strong enemy forces."

London observers said the objective of the hard-hitting Red army marshal was the Dnieper Bend, natural defence line in the heart of the Ukraine.

His forward forces have been reported within 30 to 40 miles of the bend in sectors northeast of Dnieperopetrovsk.

A military commentator said that although spring, by the calendar, is only a week away, the snows still are so deep on the Staraya Russa front below Leningrad where the German 16th Army is trapped that ski troops bear the brunt of perations.

He said the Russians still held superiority in such operations.

Transportation, he said, still is difficult along the whole northern half of the battlefront, and trucks are able tc get through only over newly cleared roads.

Russian dispatches said the Germans were attempting repeated counter attacks but said these had failed, particularly in the Staraya Russa area.

Nazis Wearing Down

MOSCOW, March 13 (AP) —Red Star, voice of the Soviet army, declared today that the offensive this Spring would be Russian, not German, and described the Nazi military machine as worn out from its costly fall drive and the battering it has received this winter.

Dispatches from the front said that the Germans were trying desperately to hold on, counter-attacking repeatedly at heavy cost, but that the Red Army still pushed steadily, if slowly, to the west.

Reports from the Southern front said Marshal Semeon Timoshenko's Donets Basin offensive, instead of being halted by the counter attacks, had wiped out two strong points and swept on into an unidentified town where German bodies littered the streets after a fierce fight.

Elsewhere on the southern front Russian artillery fire said to have broken up a Rumanian counter attack.

The German counter blows were described as hardest in the Staraya Russa area where the German 16th army is trapped and desperate, but that these, too, were said to have failed.

On the central front, where the Red army is driving past Vyazma and Rzhev toward Smolensk, three companies of the 365th regiment of the German 211th infantry division were killed attempting a counter-attack and a reserve battalion of the same division was wiped out, the Russians said.

They also reported a German ski battalion destroyed.

On the Kalinin front—a term now used to denote a large area northwest of Moscow—the Nazis were said to be using tanks and planes in their counter-blows. But the Russians were reported hammering the enemy flanks in thrusts that took a toll of 2,000 additional soldiers.

RCAF To Run Canada's Air Cadets

Now 12,000 Strong; Held Valuable To Training Scheme

OTTAWA, March 13.—(CP)—Air Minister Power announced today that direct administration of air cadets in Canada—now 12,000 strong —has been assumed by the Royal Canadian Air Force. He was joined in the announcement by George B. Foster, D.F.C., president of the Air Cadet League of Canada.

"This new policy which recognizes the ever-increasing importance of air cadet squadrons to the air force, is to attain maximum uniformity and efficiency in training," said the minister.

"In assuming this control, the R.C.A.F. appreciates the widespread desire of young men to obtain the most valuable training possible in this field, so many of whom look forward to the day when they will join their big brothers in the ranks of Canada's fighting airmen."

At the same time Maj. Power welcomed the air cadets to closer affiliation with the air force.

Mr. Power added:

"Our great British Commonwealth Air Training Plan is in full operation. It is capable of the greatest acceleration. And so, in the months of struggle still ahead of us, the problem of manpower will become increasingly critical. The air cadets of Canada make a major contribution to solution of that problem, and, at the same time, equip them-

Deserters Shoot Detectives, Kill 1

ABINGDON, Va., March 13 (AP) —An agent of the Federal Bureau of Investigation was slain and another seriously wounded today in a gun battle in a restaurant where they had gone to arrest a pair of army deserters.

Agent Hubert J. Treacy, 28, was shot to death and Charles L. Tignor, 29, was wounded five times. They were attempting to arrest two soldiers from Fort Oglethorpe, Ga., Charles J. Lovett, 21, and James Evans Testerman, 22.

The soldier pair, who blazed away as soon as the agents identified themselves in the cafe, had been sought since Thursday when, according to the Richmond F.B.I. office, they stole a supply of pistols and ammunition from the fort, kidnapped a taxi driver and escaped. The men drove to Abingdon, where Treacy and Tignor were on the lookout.

Wallace Ford, another agent, said Treacy was killed instantly and Tignor was wounded in the arm in the cafe, as the men, still in army uniforms, ran out. Tignor, giving chase, fell on the street with four bullet wounds in his chest.

The soldiers then ran off and were the objects of an intensive search throughout southwest Virginia.

Paris Gets Fresh Scare as R.A.F. Scouts

45-Minute Alarm Halts Racing Program While Fliers Look Over Indutsrial Areas

VICHY, March 13—(AP).—Paris had a 45-minute air raid alert today as an R.A.F. scouting force cruised over the unoccupied capital, forced suspension of horse racing at the Vincennes track and surveyed the manufacturing area in the southwestern workers' district. No bombs were dropped.

The planes were sighted over the Champs Elysees and Passy sections of Western Paris on the right bank of the Seine and then passed over the 15th Arrondissement, an industrial quarter in southern Paris.

The first alarm—one of the few which Paris has had since the occupation in 1940 because German authorities ruled they disturbed civilian life more than raids themselves—sounded at 2:40 p.m. Paris time (8:40 a.m. E.D.T.).

Another alarm in Vincennes, on the eastern outskirts, eight minutes later delayed the start of the week-end racing program. The All-clear sounded throughout the city at 3:25 p.m. (9.25 a.m., E.D.T.).

The R.A.F. apparently returned to the attack on German-held territory this afternoon. Residents of south-east coast towns heard the roar of a great number of planes heading in the direction of Calais and Boulogne, on the French coast.

Shortly afterwards bursts of cannon fire and the boom of heavy anti-aircraft guns on the French coast were heard. It appeared to be the biggest operation of a busy day. Earlier many squadrons of planes had been heard going and returning over the Channel.

British, Chinese Join Lines On Burma Front

LONDON, March 13. — (CP).—British and Chinese troops attempting to consolidate a front along the Toungoo highway, 80 miles north of Rangoon, have joined forces for the first time in the Battle of Burma, a military commentator said to-day.

Contact between the armies was made half-way between Pegu and Yaunglebin, 45 miles apart on the Ragoon-Mandalay railroad, he said.

British troops continuing to withdraw from South Burma were reported to have established a front on the Prome road near Tharrawaddy about 60 miles north of Rangoon where the situation was described as "stabilized."

The commentator said he was not able to estimate the number of Chinese who effected a liaison with the British. Details of the operation may be available to-morrow, he said.

The Chinese fighting beside the British were described as "very good troops" and equipped with "plenty of small arms." The commentator said, however, that they lacked heavier types of equipment such as artillery.

Gen. Sir Archibald Wavell, commander in chief in India, told a press conference at New Delhi that the government had ordered that defence work, particularly construction of airdromes, be carried out on a 24-hour-a-day basis.

(The BBC, heard in New York by CBS, reported hurried defence preparations on Ceylon, the island off Indian's southern tip, and said "more troops are being brought in and Ceylon is being put into the fullest form of defence." It added that "all non-war workers"—presumably meaning British residents —had been ordered to leave the island.

EXTRA!

ABINGDON, Va.— (AP) — Two army deserters who shot and killed one United States Federal Bureau of Investigation agent and wounded another seriously were captured in an abandoned house on the outskirts of Abingdon this afternoon. More than 100 federal, state and local officers surrounded the house and a number of shots were exchanged before tear gas forced the soldiers out.

STOCKHOLM.—(AP)—The Swedish Army, amid great secrecy, is conducting practice in street fighting in Uddevalla, west coast town in an area which has been declared a special defence zone. Rifle shots were heard in streets and backyards of the town throughout yesterday and the practice is continuing today.

'Shanks Mare' For Canadians Shelving Cars With Bicycles Out; Plants On War Work

OTTAWA, March 13—(CP).—Canadians who have to abandon their automobiles because of war conditions will have to walk, said Munition and Supply Department officials today, predicting there would be no swing over to bicycles such as is anticipated in the United States.

Under an order issued in Washington last night production of children's bicycles in United States is sharply curtailed and manufacturers are expected to turn out more bicycles for adults who, because of gasoline and rubber restrictions, may have to stop using their cars.

In Canada manufacture of tricycles and small novelty bicycles for children has already been halted. While there is no direct order prohibiting the manufacture of ordinary type bicycle, plants which usually produce these now are largely engaged on war orders, officials say.

Difficulty in obtaining steel and rubber also results in an automatic curtailment of their output, it was explained.

Gneisenau Given "Bomb-Dusting" Kiel Bases Fired In R.A.F. Swoop

LONDON, March 13—(CP).—The Royal Air Force bombed the 26,000-ton German battleship Gneisenau and set naval installations on fire at the Kiel base in continuation last night of the "great spring air offensive" started last week-end.

The Air Ministry said today that improved flying conditions, after bad weather Wednesday, enabled a medium force of four and two-engined bombers to strike at northwestern Germany and mine German waters.

The Air Ministry said many fires were left burning in the Kiel shipyards after a big attack on the German naval base dur'ng t' night.

Eight bombers were lost in the night's operations, which also included attacks on other objectives in northwest Germany and mining of enemy waters, a communique said.

The raid on Kiel was the 65th and the fourth since the Nazi battleship Gneisenau was berthed at the naval base for repair; after running Dover Straits.

BERLIN (From German broadcasts), March 13 — (AP). — British bombers attacked a place on the north coast of Germany last night, D.N.B. sai' today.

The German radio also reported the Royal Air Force was over a city in northwest France during the night.

Higher Freight Rates Spiked

NEW YORK, March 13—(AP). — The office of Price Administration asked railroads of the United States today to suspend approved freight rate increases on 10 large groups of commodities, including petroleum, lumber and pig iron, and gave notice it contemplated seeking cancellation of the entire rate increase.

The Assistant Price Administrator, Dexter M. Keezer, who said he was "authorized to speak" for the O.P.A., made the request in a speech prepared for a meeting of the railroad committee here.

He said the increase would "completely disrupt" the scrap iron price ceiling and several other price control efforts of O.P.A

117 Years Prison For Seven German Spies

NEW YORK March 13 — (AP). —Federal Judge Henry W. Goddard to-day sentenced seven persons — defendants in the first spy trial since the United States entered the war—to a total of 117 years in prison for espionage conspiracy.

Three were given 20 years' imprisonment each; three others, including a woman, 15 years each; and one 12 years.

Judge Goddard, in passing sentence, told the defendants he was "not only punishing you for your treachery," but "warning others like you that such acts will not be tolerated."

The illegal activities occurred before the United States entered the war — otherwise the defendants would have been subject to death penalty.

Those sentenced to 20 years—the maximum possible penalty—were:

Kurt Frederick Ludwig, 36, native of Fremont, O., called by the government the "brains of the ring."

Rene C. Froelich, 30, former draft soldier stationed at Governors Island here, accused of observing the names of departing ships and transmitting them to German submarines.

Paul T. Borchardt, 56, former German army major.

Those given 15 years:

Mrs. Helen Pauline Mayer, 26, American-born housewife, accused of mailing letters in secret writing to German agents transmitting military information.

Karl Victor Mueller, 36, German-born naturalized American, a former machinist in a defence plant.

Hans Helmut Pagel, 20, machinist, who pleaded guilty to the indictment while the trial was in progress.

The defendant drawing a 12-year sentence was Frederick Edward Schlosser 19, former leader of a Brooklyn German-American youth movement.

Naval Forces Spotted In Solomons

British Pay Corps Escapes Singapore With $1,550,000 Cash

MELBOURNE, March 13—(CP). —Japan's most advanced invasion spearhead, apparently blunted momentarily on the north-east New Guinea coast, was reported officially to-day to have stabbed off at a tangent into the Solomon Islands in a new threat to the supply line from the United States and to the island bridge toward New Zealand.

The move was disclosed in an Australian Air Force communique which said a Japanese naval force was seen three days ago off Kessa, in tiny Buka Island, stepping stone from New Britain to the Solomons.

Smashing at the bases the Japanese would need either for a thrust against Australia or south-east along the island chain, the R.A.A.F. Bombed the Japanese-used airfield at Gasmata, on New Britain's south coast, yesterday.

A communique said "all our bombs fell in the target area and columns of smoke rose from the ground." It added that Japanese fighter planes were beaten off, one was damaged and the raiders returned safely with their ammunition almost exhausted.

There was no definite indication whether the Japanese landed at Buka, but it was recalled that several times earlier Japanese planes have scouted and bombed Bougainville and other Solomon Islands stretching south-east toward the New Hebrides and New Zealand.

Aussies Lose 17,031 in Malaya.

The British Army Pay Corps, with £350,000 ($1,550,000) in cash and its pay records intact, has reached Australia from Singapore, it was announced today.

The paymasters' ship was attacked by dive bombers and barely avoided running afoul of a Japanese invasion fleet which was bound for Sumatra.

Australian casualties in the Malayan campaign, including the defence of Singapore, totalled 17,031, it was reported today.

This figure included 287 officers and men killed and 16,744 missing.

Australian casualties in the Middle East were put at 13,335, including prisoners of war.

NoSabotageSign In Crash That Killed 20

WASHINGTON, March 13 (AP)—The Civil Aeronautics Board reported today that it had been unable to determine what caused an American Airlines transport plane to crash last Oct. 30 near St. Thomas, Ont., killing all 20 persons aboard.

"The investigation will be continued in the event of the discovery of further evidence which would enable the board to ascertain the probable cause of the accident, and and appropriate supplemental report will then be issued," the board said.

The board said the possibility of sabotage had been "considered and explored, but thus far no evidence pointing with any degree of probability to sabotage has been discovered." It added that investigation of this possibility, as well as others, would be continued.

The plane, which carried a crew of three and 17 passengers, was en route from Buffalo to Detroit. It had sufficient fuel to reach its destination at normal cruising power, and weather conditions were satisfactory, the board said.

In the vicinity of the crash, the board said, the plane commenced to descend, circling to the right, and apparently banked normally.

Pulled Out of Spin Once.

"After completing approximately four circles," the report continued, "the airplane recovered from the spiral in close proximity to the ground, zoomed to an altitude of about 200 to 500 feet and probably stalled. It then dived to the ground, striking in a nose-down attitude at an angle of approximately 70 degrees with the horizontal and immediately burst into flames. During its descent the airplane apparently was partially but not completely out

Plays Man 2 Yrs. Girl Weds Girl

MONTREAL, March 13.—(CP). — A two year masquerade as a male came to an end to-day for a 22-year-old girl munitions worker as provincial police revealed the story of her "marriage" to another girl worker and her detention on a charge of holding a false national registration card.

Provincial police, holding Antoinette Arsenault, of Ottawa, for arposed as "Andre Arsenault" and posed as "Andre Arsenault" and had obtained employment two years ago at a war plant at nearby St. Therese, Que., as a checking clerk. Police said she climaxed the male impersonation by a whirlwind courtship and marriage recently to another girl.

Aussie Hopes Pivoting on U S Warplanes

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst.

The Mikado's invasion fleet which is massing in New Guinea waters for an attack on Australia has suffered a nasty knock from Allied bombers—at least 13 ships having been destroyed — emphasizing that the Japs are in a fair way to lose their shirts if they try to carry out the threat made yesterday by Premier Tojo to conquer all Australia unless it falls in line with the "Greater East Asia sphere."

United States warplanes are playing a large part in this counter-offensive, and more of them are on their way to Australia. Indeed, the defence of this great continent will depend heavily on the United States for while Australia has the courage and magnificent fighting men, she lacks the equipment and especially the air power upon which the conflict must turn.

In view of the world-wide commitments of the United States—in India, from which Tojo says the last vestige of British power is to be struck, in Eritrea where the United States Army is establishing a great base for co-operation with Britain, and in the British Isles themselves—this seems a good spot to answer an inquiry from some of my readers in the United States.

They have written to demand, with more vigor than logic, why it is that Uncle Sam is helping defend the British Empire. Why doesn't Washington look after its own interests and let Britain look after hers? In short "Am I my brother's keeper?"

In the first place that query has a faulty premise. The United States isn't expending an ounce of war effort which isn't needed to safeguard its own homes. Looking at it from the standpoint of pure self-interest, the American people are busy saving their own skins. Uncle Sam and John Bull are two men in a boat on a stormy sea, and if one goes under, so does the other.

Of course, apart from the fact that the United States has to make war the way it is doing, whether it wishes it or not, a good many Americans like to feel that they are fighting for Britain and Holland and Greece and all their other friends who have been caught in this mess. The good neighbor policy is a much happier outlook on life, especially since the world has shrunk to the size of an apple, where there is no place in which people can isolate themselves.

The front lines for United States home defence lie overseas. Hitler's minions made that plain yesterday when Berlin bragged that the Axis has sunk 823,200 tons of shipping in American and Central American waters since the United States entered the war. And the Japs have pointed the thing up plainly enough by bombing the California coast from a submarine.

When the United States helps the Anzacs it is creating a base which will help defeat the Japanese, and thereby not only protect the Pacific coast and island possessions, but compel the Nipponese to keep the door of the Orient open to trade. Washington is sending technical aid to India, and the reason for that is to bolster the British and Russians by increasing India's war production, and at the same time to create a barrier which will prevent Hitler and the Mikado from consolidating their forces to over-run the whole world.

Student Robber Shot Dead

Officer Watches Doctor's Son Get $13 At Gunpoint

MALDEN, Mass., March 13—(AP) —An 18-year-old college student, son of a prominent physician, died this Friday, the 13th, of a bullet wound inflicted by police, as he emerged from a drug store that had been robbed of $13.

The youth, Louis B. Grandison, was identified at a hospital by his father, Dr. Louis J. Grandison.

Police Sergeant John J. Buckley said Special Officer William J. Butler fired the shot after watching the boy rob Joseph Epstein, proprietor of the Elmwood Pharmacy, at gun point.

The youth, a freshman at Boston College and a graduate of Somerville high school, had been home during the evening, playing a piano.

Dr. Grandison returned from a medical meeting at about 11:30 p.m. and his son borrowed his automobile, saying he was going out for a sandwich before going to bed.

FDR Studies Wage Control

Admits Control Of Inflation Only Partial

WASHINGTON, March 13—(AP) —The question of wage control in the United States as a war measure is under study, President Roosevelt said today.

Mr. Roosevelt was asked at a press conference whether he had arrived at any opinion on how the Canadian system of wage control might work in this country. He said he did not know and had no news on the matter. This is only one factor of the situation which is under study, he said.

He declined to go into the question of putting a ceiling on wages as an anti-inflation step, but he did disclose that the whole problem was under consideration.

To another question, whether any progress was being made on controlling inflation, Mr. Roosevelt said, in some way, yes, and in some ways, no. He placed the action of the House of Representatives in voting to ban sales of government owned surplus farm products at below parity prices in the category of those thing on what he termed the "no" side

GERMAN LINES SOFTENING AS RED ARMY TROOPS CONTINUE PUSH

MOSCOW, March 13 (AP)—Soviet authorities declared broadly today that Red Army troops are "breaking the resistance of the German Fascists" in their winter offensive operations, merging now with aggressive preparations for spring campaigns.

"The enemy is sustaining heavy losses in war equipment and manpower," the Soviet Information Bureau reiterated.

Engagements in which more than 1,400 German officers and men were killed northwest of Moscow were reported by the bureau in its mid-day communique.

Red Army forces on the Leningrad front, it said, killed more than 1,000 Germans in one day's fighting.

Between there and Moscow, in the Kalinin area, it added, 420 German officer and men were killed in a day and a transport column of 38 vehicles was smashed.

(Spring is a week away by the calendar, but its advent across the steppes, marshes and forests of Russia is normally a chilly occasion. The last days of frost are experienced for the most part in April. They come in May, however, above the 55th parallel — which cuts through the Smolensk-Vyazma zone —and progressively later northward to Arctic Murmansk).

Red Army forces continued to advance yesterday and in certain sectors reoccupied several more communities, a communique announced. Neither the sectors nor the communities were identified.

(Dispatches to London indicated that vast Soviet forces were in action from Lake men to the Sea of Azov. Berlin authorities announced waves of dive-bombers and fighters had attacked Russian concentrations on the central front and in the Staraya Russa sector southeast of Lake Ilmen.

Going Since June

Air Cadet League which founded the Air Cadet organization last June will continue to perform important functions including the promotion, through provincial and local committees of formation of new units, the publication of the magazine, "Canadian Air Cadet," the raising of financial assistance through its local and district committees for units, and by providing trophies for competition between Air Cadet units to encourage efficiency.

Air Cadet training closely follows the pattern of initial training in the Air Force. In addition to the existing annual capitation grant of $1 per qualified Senior Cadet, from the Government, provision has also been made for the payment of a uniform maintenance allowance of $1.25 a year and a band grant of $2 per instrument.

Uniforms will be supplied directly to units by the Royal Canadian Air Force on a re-payment basis.

Provision is also being made to provide all necessary equipment including rifles and ammunition; signalling, training equipment; aircraft recognition charts and silhouettes; instructional charts of engines and airframes and stretchers and blankets for first aid work. Some of the most useful equipment that it is planned to issue will be such items as aero engines, airframe and components which have become unserviceable for flying training but yet have great value for classroom instructional purposes.

Air Cadet units during the summer holidays will be given familiarization courses of one week's duration at the nearest suitable R.C.A.F. station.

One hundred and ten squadrons have already been formed and new units are being organized at the rate of three a week. These squadrons are representative of every province.

and the United States before attempting invasion of the Australian continent;

2. The move was a feint undertaken only to mask a developing onslaught, probably from New Guinea or Timor, directly against the long bleak reaches of the north or northwest coasts of Australia.

However, indications the invaders were making ready to use the mounain-split, jungle-covered island of New Guinea as a big battle base were seen from R.A.A.F. reconnaissance reports that the Japanese were working at top speed to establish fighter-plane stations along the northeast coast where they won footholds at Lae and Salamaua.

Whatever plans the Japanese might have had for quickly-won broader control of the island coast were declared, however, to have been disrupted by the hard aerial blows of Australian and American bombers.

The lack of communications on the island and its virtually-impassable stretches of escarpments and jungle-tangled valleys also will play a part in disrupting the Japanese timetable. No single road connects the Japanese-won beachheads with the bases of Australian forces in key stations on the island.

Aussie Guerillas Active.

(The Australian radio, heard by CBS, said a war correspondent of the Melbourne Argus reported that Australian guerilla forces still are in action against the Japanese on the north-east coast and are carrying out "valuable operations.")

Obeservers said that even though the Japanese forces were campaign-toughened and jungle-trained, they would find overland travel from the north-east coast to the Papuan coast at the south, across Torres Strait from Cape York, a harder task than any they faced in Malaya.

These sources pointed to the success of the air attack which wrecked at least seven Japanese ships at Salamaua as an indication of what Japanese would encounter if they tried to move invasion forces to the southern coast of the island by sea.

An air force spokesman said that so far the only Japanese fleet known to be within striking distance of Port Moresby on the south coast was the one at Salamaua.

An Irish Concert

COBOURG, March 13.—(ENS).—Final rehearsals are in progress for the St. Patrick's Variety concert which will be presented in the Opera House next Tuesday and Wednesday under the auspices of the Catholic Young Organization of St. Michael's parish. Proceeds go to the auxiliaries of the 4th Field Regiment and the 47th L.A.A. The program will begin with a one act farce entitled "Marriage Inc.", and will finish with a pretty Irish comedy entitled, "Merry Molly Malone." Between the presentation of the two plays will be drills presented by the girls and boys of the Separate school, Irish songs and ballads, a campfire sing-song by the Third Troop of Girl Guides and other numbers.

ago. They said that the case first was drawn to their attention by plant guards, who reported they had discovered that a worker posing as a man actually was a woman.

Dr. Jean-Marie Roussel, provincial medico-legal expert, declared after an examination last night that "Andre Arsenault" definitely was a woman. When the girl walked into provincial police headquarters she was puffing calmly at a cigarette and was wearing a dark suit, overcoat and grey felt hat.

Deputy-Director Louis Jargaille, chief of provincial detectives, said that the girl would be arraigned at St. Jerome, Que., about 13 miles from St. Therese. Jargaille said it had not yet been decided when arraignment would take place. He said he had been in touch with the Attorney-General's Department in Quebec about the case.

"There was no power plant failure prior to the accident and the engines were functioning normally at the time the airplane struck the ground," the report said. "Nothing was found to indicate that there had been any structural failure or failure of the control system of the airplane."

The report noted a conflict of testimony as to whether the ground was lighted up just before the plane struck. Some witnesses said they did not notice any light other than the navigation lights and illumination from the windows of the plane, but others testified they saw a yellow glow preceding the crash. The board added that it was unlikely a flare was dropped, because two flares, the normal supply, were found in the wreckage.

Westclockers Win From Normals

Westclox strengthened their place in the upper bracket of the Ladies' City Basketball League standing by winning a well-played battle over Normal School, 28-22 at the Y.W.C.A., last night. The winners led by a slim, single point at the half way mark, 16-17 but increased the slight edge they held on the first half, after that point and ran their winning margin to six points. It was a fast, open tussle with both teams coming up with some nice passing plays and good shooting to make it interesting all the way. The winners held just about the margin in the play that the score would indicate. They passed well and took advantage of their scoring chances fairly well to earn the verdict. The Normalites who have been improving steadily lately made it a battle all the way but missed a lot of scoring chances to nullify the fact that they had a fair share of the play.

It was an unusually clean game with only six fouls being called in the entire game, three against each team. The winners passed up all their free throw chances while Normal scored two of their three tries. F. Bestard with 14 and T. Bullock with eight led the winners and E. Van Allen and R. Roblin were best for the Normalites. The teams:

Westclox, 28—M. Hawthorne, J. Hair, F. Bestard 14, T. Bullock 8, M. Goldie, S. Mortimer 2, M. McFadden, A. Flynn 4.

Normal School, 22—R. Roblin 9, E. Van Allen 9, Y. Rowan, E. Pitney 4, R. Ainsworth, M. McInnes, K. McMullen, C. McKelvie, I. McGregor.

Freshly Killed Poultry Light

TORONTO, March 13—(CP).—The fresh dressed poultry market has not shown any great change during the current week, the Dominion Department of Agriculture reports. Receipts have been very light, although a few more fowl arrived, but not sufficient to take care of requirements. Enquiries for all kinds and grades of poultry continue to be filled from storage holdings.

Some fresh turkeys arrived for which 27½ cents lb. was paid. There has been very little local demand for turkeys.

Generally, demand has been fairly good both locally and out-of-town. Several l.c.l. (less than carlot) loads of frozen poultry moved to Montreal, British West Indies and Newfoundland.

One car of fowl arrived from the West Thursday, and another was due to arrive next week, this last car to be carrying Grades A, B, and C; costing, Grade A, over 5 lbs. 23½ cents lb., Grade B, 21½, and Grade C 19½.

Dealers are quoting producers and country dealers (nominal):—

Chickens. — Grade A, milk-fed, over 5 lbs. 24 to 25c; 4 to 5 lbs. 23 B milk-fed, over 5 lbs, 22 to 23c; 4 to 24c; 3 to 4 lbs. 21 to 22c; Grade to 5 lbs. 21 to 22c; 3 to 4 lbs. 19 to 20c; Grade A, over 5 lbs. 22 to 23c; 4 to 5 lbs. 21 to 22c; 3 to 4 lbs. 19 to 20c; Grade B, over 5 lbs. 20 to 21c; 4 to 5 lbs. 19 to 20c; 3 to 4 lbs. 17 to 18c.

Fowl.—Grade A, over 5 lbs. 20 to 23c; 4 to 5 lbs., 19 to 22c; 3 to 4 lbs. 18 to 20c. Grade B, over 5 lbs., 18 to 21c; 4 to 5 lbs. 17 to 20c; 3 to 4 lbs., 16 to 18c.

Mad Dog Killers Go To Chair, Mum To The Last

By HARRY CROCKETT
Associated Press Staff Writer

OSSINING, N.Y., March 13 (AP)—William Esposito, 30, played dead on the cold pavement of a midtown New York street just off Fifth Avenue 14 months ago and then arose to shoot and kill Patrolman Edward F. Maher, 53, but today he was really dead—killed in Sing Sing Prison's electric chair just five minutes after his brother Anthony, 37.

The brothers, who looked totally unlike in normal life, could hardly have been told apart as they were brought into the death chamber last night in wheel chairs.

Virtually 10 months of lying in bed, abstaining from all food except that which was fed them forcibly, had reduced the "mad dog killers" to skin and bone.

The brothers ran wild, blazing away with guns at mid-day on Jan. 14, 1941.

In an attempt to rob Alfred Klausman, 55, of a $349 payroll of the linen firm of which he was manager, they shot and killed him in the elevator of a midtown building. The brothers then separated. William commandeered a taxi cab, wounded the driver, dashed across crowded Fifth Avenue into a side street and was wounded by Patrolman Maher.

Shoots Officer Over Him

His leg wound was superficial, and while his brother was being arrested, he waited for Maher to lean over him then raised on one elbow and shot the officer.

Last night neither of the brothers accepted Rev. Bernard Martin's offer of spiritual solace before he died. The Roman Catholic chaplain, however, carrying a prayer book, walked into the death chamber ahead of Anthony—the first ever to be wheeled or carried to the prison's execution chamber.

From the start, the brothers, their family and their lawyer contended they were insane. Through-

Washington, March 13 (AP)

THE state department disclosed last night it has made representations to the Vatican objecting to the establishment of relations between Japan and the Holy See, asked by Japan.

A spokesman said the department's communication was to inform the Vatican the attitude of the United States to such relations would be unfavorable and that they would be regarded with suspicion because Japan had no interest in Catholicism and state department believes that such a move was made solely to stir up trouble.

Golf Course Closed

QUEBEC, March 13.—(CP)—The well known Kent Golf Club at nearby Montmorency Falls now is a thing of the past as the Quebec Power Company, owners of the links where the Duke of Kent trophy was contested annually, have decided to close the course.

Too Many Women

SALINAS, Calif., March 13 (AP)—Novelist John Steinbeck's 12-year marriage has ended in divorce, with Mrs. Carol Henning Steinbeck blaming "too many women—one in Hollywood, particularly." Steinbeck's poetess-wife obtained an inter-locutory decree here yesterday, charging mental cruelty. Steinbeck agreed to pay his wife $111,992.10 in cash and more than $100,000 in various bonds and shares. They separated last year.

Lady M.P. Urges Allies Open Second Front

By C. R. BLACKBURN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, March 13 (CP) — An allied attack on the "bread-basket" of the Axis powers in Nazi-dominated Europe is the recommendation of Mrs. Dorise Nielsen (Unity North Battleford).

In the House of Commons yesterday she expressed belief such action might bring the turning point toward Allied victory this year.

Invasion of the continent would not only divert large numbers of German troops from the Russian front but would offer an opportunity of destroying wide areas of seeded acreage in France and other European countries where the attacks might be launched, said Mrs. Nielsen, one of a long list of speakers participating in debate on the government's program for the 1942 wheat crop.

An English schoolgirl refugee from Belgium during the First Great War and a pioneer of Northern Saskatchewan where she suffered hardships during the depths of the depression, Mrs. Nielsen made a plea for big wheat reserves and opposed acreage reduction areas where wheat can best be grown.

Three government measures to deal with the 1942 crop have been before parliament all week for second reading, one extending the the wheat acreage bonus plan, another amending the Prairie Farm Assistance Act, and a third increas-

Yanks Get 5 Planes

WASHINGTON, March 13—(AP)—The United States War Department reported today that five American army heavy bombers destroyed five enemy planes in a raid two days ago on Japanese-held airdromes at Salamaua and Lae in New Guinea.

A communique said all buildings were destroyed, heavy damage inflicted on runways and a direct hit made on a pier in the harbor of Lae.

All the American bombers escaped damage in the fight with a formation of Japanese pursuit planes, which suffered the loss of five craft.

Altar Society Plans Tea and Euchre

PORT HOPE, March 13—(ENS).—Plans for the annual St. Patrick's tea and euchre are completed by the Altar Society of St. Mary's Catholic Church for Tuesday afternoon, March 17, in the Town Hall.

Mrs. Jack Hozack is convener of this society's one big venture of the year, which is always on or around March 17.

The tea-room committee is Mrs. B. V. Coleman, Mrs. Quinlan, Miss Emily Foy and Mrs. Fitzgerald. A talent table will be in charge of Mrs. Marshall and Mrs. Finnegan, while the white elephant table will be supervised by Mrs. John Horrigan.

At eight o'clock the men are arranging the euchre at which seven prizes will be given and the committee in charge of this is Mr. Larry Scully, Mr. McCillis and Mr. Chas. McMahon.

Call To Production

London, March 13 (CP Cable). "REMEMBER Hong Kong!" is becoming a war production slogan.

Telegrams proclaiming the phrase and urging workers to redouble their efforts will be dispatched tomorrow from a little Surrey factory to other war plants.

A young Surrey welder, angered at the disclosure of the Hong Kong atrocities, suggested the telegram idea to the management and fellow workers, who agreed to subscribe to the costs.

Now there are reports that plants in other parts of the country plan to pass on the telegrams chain letter style.

Narrow Escape For Clergyman

COBOURG, March 13—(ENS).—Rev. G. Maher of St. Michael's Roman Catholic Church, Cobourg, had a narrow escape last night when a car struck a Hydro pole and then ran into a tree which Father Maher was passing on foot. When the car struck the pole it snapped it off, bringing down the electric wires which sparkled and crackled as the current made an arc to the ground. Father Maher had a narrow escape from both the car and the high tension current.

The car was driven, police said, by a 12-year-old boy who had taken it out without his father's knowledge.

The youngster was going at too great a speed to make the turn at William and King streets, and ran onto the sidewalk near where the clergyman was walking. Father Maher saw the car coming and stopped beside a tree. The youngster escaped harm but later, it is believed he was given some posterior treatment by his Dad.

Afternoon Tea Aids War Work

PORT HOPE, March 13—(ENS).—Some twelve members of the Thursday afternoon Sunshine Club, held an afternoon tea and display of work at the home of Mrs Croll, Cavan Street, on Thursday, March 12.

The decorations were carried out in green and White, as St. Patrick's Day is getting close. From a daintily arranged table Mrs. Jones poured tea, while various members of the club assisted.

Four complete layettes were displayed, and one large patchwork quilt which was made by Mrs. Will Garnett.

A draw on an angel cake realized $4.80, and was won by Mrs. Bob Sainsburry. The door proceeds amounted to $13.50, making a total of $18, which will be used to further war work. The I.O.D.E., the Red Cross, the Home and School and the Salvation Army will benefit from this display.

Juniors Provide Program For Music Club

PORT HOPE, March 13—(ENS).—The monthly meeting of the Music Study Club was held on Wednesday night, at Seaton Hall, with a goodly crowd present. Mrs. Bryant, president of the club, was in the chair.

The resignation of Miss Doris Chesher as secretary was read and accepted, and Miss Dorothy Dodd was appointed to take over the duties for the remainder of the year.

The treasurer's report given by Miss Lulu Beatty, reported a balance of $9.87. A donation to the music festival was discussed, and it was decided that the funds did not permit this year.

The matter of a music club concert was also iscussed, but nothing was decided.

The meeting was then turned over to Mrs. F. Douglas, who explained that owing to the Music Club meeting for February being cancelled, the first part of the program would be the Junior Musicians. Mrs. Douglas, in her opening remarks, said, "One of the most delightful activities of the club has been the interest we have taken in the young students of music and every year the club devotes one evening to their earnest endeavors and become more and more thrilled with their cleverness.

The Junior program was as follows:

Helen June Inch, a small six-year-old, played The Dormouse's Dream. Mary Mae Taylor, The Merry Go Round, by B. Berlin. Edna Louise Howell, May Zephyrs, by Mae A. Erb, Op. 17, No. 1. Jimmy Watson, Adagio from Sonatina, Op. 20, No. 2, by F. Kuhlan. Ferne Gaynor, Premiere Valse, by Durand. Jean and Muriel Bickell, duet, Poet and Peasant Overture. These were the pupils of Miss France Johnson.

Frances Croft, Ballade, by Burgmueller. Op. 100, No. 5, Sonatina by Kohlu. Miss Joan Giddy, Artist's Waltz, by Strauss. Pupils of Miss J. Hawkins.

Miss Marion Dickenson, Etude, by S. Heller, and Minuet by Gottfried Heinrich Stolzel. A pupil of Mr. Bill Wickett.

Miss Evelyn McBride, a solo, My Dear Soul. A pupil of Mr. T. Stanley.

Mr. Geen of Oshawa, the vice-president of the Federation of Music Teachers' Association, was introduced, and in his address stressed the necessity for the Canadian musicians to get together. He read the code of the Federation of Music Teachers' Association, explained the steps to be taken to organize a O.M.T.A.

A very high tribute was paid by Mr. Geen to the very distinguished local boy, Bill Wickett, who was the only one of a number of applicants chosen to play at Eaton Auditorium on Saturday next and who has just been awarded his A.T.C.M. with the highest marks awarded any associate member in many years.

Mrs. Willis gave a most interesting and clever paper on "Traditional Irish Music," which was most apprciated by the audience.

Mrs. M. C. Bryant sang from one of the old Madrigals the air, "The Cobbler of Tasseberry," arranged by Charles Valleur Stanford.

Mervin Lawson gave a delightful violin solo "Come Back to Erin," and Mrs. Willis sang a very old Irish song from the air "Over There," which is known as one of the famine songs where the Irish as usual put their heartbreak into it.

The war song of the O'Driscolls (an old Irish clan) "The Alarm" was sung by M. C. Bryant, accompanied by Bill Wickett. A lovely song, "Killarney' was sung by Miss Vivian Jennings.

Dancing, it was explained, in its earliest forms was a mode of expressing strong emotion and so the Irish jig expressed fun and gaiety, and was suitably demonstrated by Miss Mary MacMillan in the traditional costume of Ireland.

The program continued with "The Lullaby," sung by Mrs. Willis, and "The Last Rose of Summer" by Miss Jennings.

Miss Douglas remarked that there is an old adage which says 'Always leave them laughing when you say good-bye," and with this in mind Mrs. Bryant arranged an amusing number to end the program, called "The Kerry Cow," a comic duet-dialogue which was given with many gestures by Mrs. Willis and Mr. Bryant accompanied by Mr. Wickett.

A vote of thanks was moved by Mrs. Bryant for the splendid program of which she was in charge.

Tea and cookies were served, during which time John Wickett, who was delayed, gave a most delightful violin solo, accompanied by his brother, Bill Wickett.

L.O.L. Card Party

LAKEFIELD, March 13—(ENS).—Due to condition of the roads, there was not as large attendance at the L.O.L. card party in the Orange Hall on Tuesday evening, as there may have been had the day not been so stormy.

Five tables of euchre were played. First and second prizes given for ladies, and gent's high score, with the first prizes each being war savings stamps and the second a box of chocolates and a four-pound pail of honey. Winners were Mrs. Bruce Preston and Mrs. Roy Bullock for ladies, and Aubrey Blakely and Albert Bullock for the gents.

Following the games refreshments were served.

Car Is Flagged Then Overturns

PORT HOPE, March 13—(ENS).—On the return trip from Markham on Wednesday night, after the Port Hope juvenile hockey team had scored a 4-1 victory over the Markham team, a car driven by Mr. Record and carrying members of the team turned over several times near Bowmanville.

The Mounties who were on the highway on the lookout for the two escaped German prisoners stopped Mr. Record's car, which hit the soft shoulder and thus caused the accident. The car is quite badly damaged but the occupants escaped injury, except for a bad shaking up and minor bruises.

Loan Subscriptions Still Coming In

COBOURG, March 13.—(ENS.)—Final tabulation of the district totals of the Northumberland County Victory Loan drive will be available by the end of the week. Headquarters of the campaign in Cobourg have announced the total of the county as 101 p.c., or $1,131,000. While the various factories in Cobourg and district turned in excellent totals, all of them going far beyond their quotas, the men of car ferry Ontario No. 2, also made a good showing by subscribing $1,950.

OBITUARIES

MRS. EMMA EDITH SILLS

TWEED, March 13—(ENS).—Following an illness of approximately one year's duration, Mrs. Emma Edith Sills, widow of the late Nelson Sills, passed away at her resident in the 1st Concession of Huntingdon Township early Wednesday morning. She was in her 72nd year.

The late Mrs. Sills was a lifelong resident of the district, having been born on the adjoining farm to where she died. She was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. John Anderson, and was a member of St. Paul's Anglican Church at Roslin. Her husband predeceased her some 29 years ago.

She is survived by three sons, Chauncey Sills and Harry Sills of Roslin, and John Sills of Bashaw, Alberta.

MRS. ELLEN WHALEN

TWEED, March 13 (ENS)—The funeral of Mrs. Ellen Whalen, widow of Michael Whalen, who died at Stoco on Thursday last, took place on Monday morning from the residence of her daughter, Mrs. Thomas Cassidy of Stoco, to St. Edmund's Church, where requiem mass was celebrated by the Rev. Father Meagher, who also said the committal prayers at the graveside in Stoco cemetery.

The bearers were the following grandsons: Messrs. Michael Cassidy, Michael Vincent Cassidy, Malachi Cassidy, John Edmund Cassidy, Gerald Whalen and Ambrose Whalen.

The late Mrs. Whalen had reached the advanced age of ninety years. She was born in Ireland and was a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs John Mullins. At an early age, she came to Canada and as a young girl she lived in Belleville for a time. The greater part of her life was spent in Stoco village and Hungerford township. She was a member of St. Edmund's Church.

Surviving are one son, Daniel Whalen, and one daughter, Mrs. Thomas Cassidy.

U.S. Sub Bags 4 In Jap Waters

WASHINGTON, March 13 (AP)—Three more enemy freighters and one passenger-cargo ship have been sunk in Japanese waters by a United States submarine, the Navy announced last night.

This brings to eight the total of enemy ships sunk near Japan, and to 149 the number of vessels of all types damaged or destroyed by United States forces in the Western Pacific.

The Navy also announced that on Tuesday two large Japanese four-engined seaplanes were intercepted by four fighters based on Midway Island. One of the enemy planes was shot down in the air fight west of Midway and the other escaped. One United States fighter was damaged and the pilot wounded, but he succeeded in returning to the base.

This was the first word of enemy activity near Midway since Jan. 29, when the Navy reported two Japanese submarines had been driven off by artillery fire.

The Navy disclosed last night that a medium-sized U.S. tanker had been torpedoed in the Caribbean.

Grade Holsteins Bring $100 Each

CAMPBELLFORD, March 13. — Close to three thousand dollars was realized in the second auction sale of farm stock and machinery to be held in this district within a week. The sale was conducted by Auctioneers Battisby and Williams on the G. J. McCubbin farm in Percy Township, seven miles west of here on Wednesday afternoon. Grade Holstein cattle averaged $100 and horses from five to seven years bringing from $60 to $70 featured the cattle section, while shoats proved attractive to bidders who took them up at $20 apiece. Machinery classified as nearly new, went high, with a corn binder bringing $200 and a 8-foot grain binder going at the same figure. Seed oats sold at 60 cents a bushel; mixed hay at $14 a ton, and potatoes brought a top price of $1 a bag.

The Rangers Mobilize

Peterborough's own particular regiment the Prince of Wales' Rangers, has been called upon to mobilize for active service and although this order has been expected for some time its actual arrival brings a thrill of excitement and elation. The Rangers have the highest regard of the people of Peterborough and the surrounding district, and it is considered by headquarters to be the finest reserve unit in this part of the country. The call has come, the Rangers are well prepared, and they should be ready to move shortly.

A vigorous recruiting drive will be necessary to bring the unit up to strength, for the Rangers have already contributed more than sixty officers and more than six hundred other ranks to the Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry Highlanders and to other regiments and services. No one imagines that it will be easy to find the necessary number of recruits of the right type, but the Rangers are not on the lookout for easy tasks, either here or abroad, and they are confident that the men will be found and that they will soon conform to the high standard of the regiment.

On behalf of this city and district we are happy to assure Colonel Dewart, his officers and his men of the high esteem in which they are held and of the certainty we feel that they will bring new glory to a regiment which has been glorious in the past.

Cripps Goes To India

It is good news to hear that Sir Stafford Cripps will set out at once for India, bearing to the disaffected parties in that country a palm branch and a further offer of dominion status after the war. If any man can succeed in such a task surely it is this deeply sincere and humane champion of the under dog.

The prominence which has been given to reports of unrest in India, however, might lead the unwary to think that the whole of that vast country was ready to revolt against British rule. There is no reason to take such an extreme view. India has done well in this war, and gives ample proof that she will do better in the future. Since the outbreak of war the Indian Army has tripled its strength by voluntary recruits. A part of this army served in Europe before the fall of France, and Indian troops did wonders in Libya and East Africa. The Indian Navy has tripled itself too, and the Indian Air Force has increased itself four times over, since war began. Taxation in India has been substantially increased, and voluntary gifts have been made on a very generous scale. We have no later figures at hand, but in February of 1941 the Viceroy's Fund stood at two and one-quarter millions of pounds sterling, of which a great part was used to relieve those who were left homeless by the bombing of British cities. Although her industrial organization is still in the making India is able to supply nine-tenth of what she needs for her own fighting forces, and to send vital supplies to Imperial forces in Africa and the Middle East. These are things which we must keep in mind when we are tempted to be impatient with India's desire for self-government.

The situation is admittedly complex, but India on the whole is well aware in what direction her best interests lie; she knows that the light yoke of Britain, though irksome, is a feather compared with that which she would bear under the Axis. Extremists are always a nuisance, and the Indian variety are rather more pestilent than most, but there is hope that the more moderate and far-seeing Indian leaders may be willing to accept the British pledge. The difficulties will crop up among the Indians themselves rather than between India and Britain.

People far away from India are apt to have sharply-colored mental pictures of it which cannot be reconciled with fact. They are apt to see India either in the Kipling tradition of the British Raj and the White Man's Burden, or as a treacherous land where every Hindu and Moslem is capable of treachery to the Empire. Neither picture is correct. Like most great countries, India embraces within herself all shades of opinion and has many grievances, some of which are imaginary and other of which are desperate and real. It is doubtful if the majority of Indians hate the British and wish to see them destroyed or even cleared out of their country. Their conduct in this war shows that. They know that the British have made foolish mistakes in dealing with them, but they see also that British rule has been, upon the whole, benevolent. As Burke said, "Plain good intention is of no mean force in the government of mankind," and there has been much plain good intention in the British handling of India, a fact which the Indians recognize.

The offer of self-government, so long sought, has come at last, not in the nebulous form which it took in 1940, but in a definite plan. It is a better offer, we venture to suggest, than the Axis would make, and the Indians know it. We may hope for a reasonable reception of Sir Stafford Cripps by the nationalists and by India as a whole.

A Great Canadian Passes

The sudden death of the Right Honorable Raoul Dandurand, government leader in the Senate, takes from Canada one of ther most brilliant and accomplished public men, and from the Province of Quebec the most widely honored of French-Canadians. His passing will be sincerely mourned by men and women of all parties and creeds in this country.

The details of Senator Dandurand's public life are widely known but few people are aware of the many honors which this remarkable man wore lightly and without ostentation. He was given degrees by four great Canadian universities, he was an Officer of the French Legion of Honor, he was a member of l'Institut de France a l'Academic des Sciences Morales et Politiques, and rose to the rank of Grand Officer in this organization; he was given the Belgian order, Pour La Couronne in recognition of his work for Belgian relief during the First Great War, and he had the Gold Medal of La Reconnaissance Francaise; he was a Gold Cordon member of the order of Polonia Restituta, and of the order of Saint-Sava of Yugoslavia; he was a Commander of the Royal Order of Rumania. Wherever Roaul Dandurand received a distinction he brought honor to the Dominion of Canada.

In Parliament he had the fine oratorical style traditionally associated with the best type of French-Canadian statesman; his speeches were pithy, finely organized, often brilliant, often witty. In public and private life he bore himself with a grace and distinction which have almost disappeared from our public life. He was a great servant and a wise counsellor to the land which he loved with all the fervor of his heart.

We Must Have Wheat

Apparently it is not yet thoroughly understood that the ceilings which have been fixed on the prices of commodities in Canada lay responsibilities upon initial producers, as well as upon retailers. The normal economic procedure is that when a staple commodity becomes scarce, its price rises; but when the price is not permitted to rise and the commodity becomes scarce there is bound to be an economic short circuit somewhere and a great deal of valuable time will have to be wasted in making the proper adjustment.

In the news columns of the present issue readers will find details of the decrease in the acreage of spring grain in this district. When wheat is scarce the price of bread rises in normal times, but it cannot rise this year or for some time to come. The implication is clear; spring grain must be produced in the necessary quantity if we are not to waste time over an economic tangle. Our price ceiling system will not work unless the responsibility which it imposes is borne by everyone concerned in production.

We are sure that when this is made clear to the grain producers they will do everything possible to meet the wishes of the Department of Agriculture in this matter. They have their own difficulties; men who would normally be on the farms are in the army or in war industry and the burden falls heavily upon the shoulders of the few. But the farm is as much a part of the production front of this country as the factory, and activity there must not be permitted to slacken for any reason whatever. We must have grain, butter, cheese and other farm products.

Foolishness At Callander

We cannot join in the indignation which has been aroused by the recent goings-on at Callander. Dr. Joyal has been chosen by Papa Dionne to attend upon the quintuplets because Dr. Joyal speaks French; Dr. Dafoe has been ousted because he cannot speak French and the quintuplets are, apparently not permitted to learn English. We are sorry for Dr. Dafoe, but we are much sorrier for the quints; their parents are putting them under a grave disadvantage.

It is law in this province that all children should learn to speak English, but it is doubtful if anything can be done to force the quints to learn the language of the land without an immoderate amount of fuss. They occupy a rather special position. The real question is: How long can they continue to be interesting as quintuplets? In a few more years they will be young ladies, anxious to do the best they can for themselves in a world which loses its interest in twins, quintuplets, and other biological oddities as soon as they grow up. If they speak nothing but French they will presumably have to settle down in Quebec, and their lives will be much more limited than if they were bilingual.

No evidence has ever been presented to show that the quintuplets are more than quite normal, charming children. Presumably they will never lack for money, but can they afford the cultural handicap of speaking French only on a continent which has English as its predominating language? We fear that Papa Dionne's desire to exert his paternal authority is causing him to do an injustice to his children.

Suggestion For Morale

A remarkable experiment is reported in the current issue of the American Medical Association's journal. It was carried out upon a group of inmates of the Lorton, Virginia, reformatory; the men were both white and black and all were football players. They were divided into two groups, and set to work peddling bicycles; they were kept at this for 13 days, and their powers of endurance were carefully recorded.

Then the men were set to work to peddle for another thirteen days, but this time they were given pills which they were told contained gelatin, which would raise their power of endurance; apparently it did so, for the endurance of both groups was reported to have increased 200 per cent. The interesting part of the experiment is that, although the first group were given gelatin pills, the second group was given pills which contained nothing which could increase endurance, and yet both groups responded in exactly the same way.

Clearly it was the suggestion that they were being given pills to increase their endurance which did the trick; the fact that they did, or did not, absorb gelatin was a minor matter. It must be remembered that these were all young men in excellent physical condition, but even at that, the evidence shown of the power of suggestion is astonishing.

Germany has used the power of suggestion to bolster the morale of her army and civil population for years, with striking success. We have not done so, for to us such methods savour of trickery. But the ethical quality of suggestion is determined by the men who use it and by the way they use it. Certainly we could respond to suggestions of aggressiveness and sane optimism now, if they were to come from the right sources and if they were phrased in a moderate and sensible way. Our reverses in the Pacific have been bad, we know, and may be worse before they are better, but they have given rise to an altogether immoderate amount of pessimism and grousing both on this continent and in Britain. Obviously the best medicine for our confidence would be a few victories, but if we cannot have that let us have suggestions of success to tide us over until the victories may be achieved.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Milestone in the Grand March of Human Progress: Shirley Temple is to be kissed in her next film.

March is making the mistake of trying to please everybody, and like all appeasers she is making a mess of it.

The Germans are still trying to find out who threw a bomb at von Papen. The number of people who have reason to do so is positively embarrassing to the authorities.

The London Free Press expresses a sad truth when it says: "If you say what is on your mind these days some people say you are an alarmist. If you say what you think the other fellow wants to hear about the war, you are a defeatist."

WILL GOD REACH FORTH?

Will He, when the snowy bough is clear
And the icy stream unsheathed—
Will He clothe again the naked tree
And bring fresh beauty here?

Will He, when the Sun sets free the earth
And the pristine hour begins—
Remember to mould the flowered cup,
And give new hope its birth?

Will He, when the last white flurries bring
News of calm skys drifting—
Will God reach forth with pitying hand
And create another Spring?

Views Expressed By Britain's Press

If there is one tradesman for whom the housewife has more sympathy than another at this time, it is the grocer. How the poor man ever comes up from under the hail of ration books at all is a wonder, let alone the smile with which he usually contrives to greet us.

Small wonder that he has, in his wisdom, decided that Edinburgh households must make do just now with a weekly delivery. Women who live in rural districts will assure their urban sisters that this is all a matter of planning on the housewife's part, and no doubt the townswoman will quickly learn to accommodate herself to conditions to which the countrywoman has in many cases always been accustomed.

The hardship, if any, will lie in the provision that parcels under seven pounds in weight shall not be delivered at all. This is where brawn and muscle is going to tell!—Edinburgh Scotsman.

The current sight of newborn lambs on Midland farms conjures up visions of the coming of spring. Flock masters and shepherds from now on will have a busy time, for the lambing season means constant watch on the flocks, and long dark hours away from the fireside. The shepherd has no definite starting or "knocking-off" time; for him it is night and day work seven days a week. But shepherds are tough, cast-iron men, and it is the older men who do best in trying weather.

Some of them on big Midland farms are septuagenarians who know the idiosyncrasies of every ewe in the flock, and whose pride it is not to lost a lamb, whatever the hazards of the season.

In the farmhouse you may occasionally see one or two orphan or weakly lambs lying before the kitchen fire in cold weather. These "cade" lambs, as the countryfolk call them, are reared by hand-feeding with a bottle, and are the especial pets of the children.—Birmingham Mail.

Swiss movie fans have just seen "London Can Take It," the picture of Londoners defying the Nazi raiders. How it got to Switzerland will be told when the war is over.

Britain has developed a highly efficient secret film service. Today, by bombing plane, air mail and surface craft she is sending out a regular stream of films at the rate of 300 a week. In one week 309 reels went off to 59 territories ranging from Arabia and Australia to Russia and The Netherlands East Indies.

Many were ordinary comedies like Ginger Rogers, in "Tom, Dick and Harry," or the technicolor "Down Argentine Way" with Carmen Miranda. These are given special facilities by Britain's Ministry of Information out of sympathy for audiences who might otherwise be compelled in certain territories to look at something sent by Dr. Goebbels.—Industries Bulletin.

The Nazis want more from the States who are to make up Hitler's Europe (than Napoleon did). For they are to be brought into his general plan for the future government of Europe and the future economy of Europe. That plan involves sacrifices far beyond the sacrifices Napoleon demanded when he tried to extend his Continental system. The State that accepts the "new order" has to accept a Nazi tyranny over the whole of its life. It has to assimilate all the Nazi dislikes and prejudices and to use the Nazi methods for consolidating and maintaining Nazi power. Hitler made his way in Germany by bringing back from the depths of the German forests and the shadows of German history the myth of a race of supermen, the dream of an heroic and omnipotent stock whose destiny it was to rule Europe. This was the secret of success among the German people at home. But it is a less seductive idea for people of Slav or Latin blood or for peoples whose racial affinities with the Germans do not make them any more tolerant of the Nazi pretensions. All these peoples have to surrender much more than the economic interests that a State had to surrender when complying with Napoleon's demand that they should boycott British goods. They have to surrender their political and moral independence.—Manchester Guardian.

WAR VICTIM

My head is swathed in dressings,
There's a bandage on my chin,
Adhesive binds my diaphragm
And splints surround my shin;
I cannot turn my head about
Nor can I move my jaws,
My neck is packed in cotton wool
That's held in place by gauze,
My foot's suspended ceilingward
In strap-supported ring.
One arm is fastened to my side,
The other's in a sling.
Big salty tears are coursing down
My pallid, hollow cheeks—
I've been a helpless invalid
For weeks and weeks and weeks;
Nor is there any hope that I'll Recover, I'm afraid,
While Jane Elizabeth is taking
Lessons in first aid.

Russ Race Against Mud

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON

WASHINGTON, March 13 (AP)—Lunging Russian stabs at Nazi defense lines north of the Smolensk area represent another race against time — the time when spring thaws inevitably immobilize both armies on most of the front.

Mud and overflowing streams make a vast quagmire of the Russian steppes for weeks as the winter breaks up. They impose greater obstacles to major military operations than did the terrible Russian winter which wrecked Hitler's eastern "crusade."

The record books are full of Russian weather data, indicating that not before late April or May at the earliest can a major German offensive be renewed. Nazi attack technique relies upon heavy mechanization.

Snow and cold that bogged down tank warfare as well as amazing Russian resilience and inexhaustible Russian manpower saved Leningrad, Moscow and vital Caucasus oil resources from the invader. But the weather did not equally immobilize Red armies inured a Russian winters.

LENINGRAD TAKES OFFENSIVE

Once winter stalled the Nazi tank attack, the advantage in mobility passed to Russian horse and foot troops, giving their numerical superiority full effect. Nor will it pass back to their Nazi foes until the ground hardens sufficiently for renewal of mechanized warfare.

Over the wide and confused front from south of the Smolensk pivot northward to the Leningrad area, where the Russians are striking their most effective blows, it seems unlikely that the Nazi High Command can count upon favorable ground and weather conditions before June.

Hitler's forces are trying to cling to their present positions, but new breakthroughs at various points are reported from Moscow and London, unofficially. There are also indications that with the Leningrad siege line cracked, the garrison of that city has been strongly reinforced and has joined in a Russian offensive both along the coast of the Gulf of Finland and southwestward down the Leningrad-Pskov rail and road system.

On the Volkhov River front north of Lake Ilmen and north of Novgorod, another Russian thrust westward is indicated. It seems aimed at Luga junction on the Leningrad-Pskov system, far in rear of Nazi lines southwest of Leningrad.

Still further south a critical junction in the Lake Ilmen sector is claimed by the Russians, further closing the trap about Nazi armies surrounded in the vicinity of Staraya Russa just south of the lake. Rupture of German communication lines at the vital Pskov crossroads appears to be the main Red objective on all the front north of the Valdai Hills. If that can be done before winter breaks, the whole northern flank of the German line would be undermined and perhaps driven out of Russia proper.

South of the Valdai Plateau the German hold on Rzhev and Vyazma junctions is threatened. Heavy Nazi forces occupying those advance bastions seem to be completely encircled. The Russians are reported astride the Rzhev-Vyazma railroad at many points and also across the Vyazma-Smolensk railroad at an undisclosed point, possibly in the Dorogobuj vicinity. They also have cracked the Urga River line to menace Vyazma from the south as well as from the west, north and east.

Official reports from Russia do little to help map the battle front accurately. Their general tenor clearly indicates, however, that the Red High Command expects smashing victories which could disrupt Hitler's offensive program.

Russia Has Much to Offer

The new relationship between Russia and the English-speaking world is a political arrangement made by peoples that are indispensable to each other. History has in some respects repeated itself. The new allies have been brought together by the German danger. Everybody can see now that if Britain and Russia had been able to agree cordially on a common policy in the League of Nations and if the United States had not stood aloof there would be no Hitler today to trouble Europe.

The terrible experience of the war will help to bind the Allies together, and it is difficult to believe that they could act as the Allies acted after the last war or imagine, as they did, that victory had extinguished the common danger. Mr. Eden asserted, and all will agree, that we and Russia are determined "not to lose this war or the peace that will follow it." Russia, he tells us, is completely united and in good spirits for the part that she is playing and is about to play, and there is no reason why we should not work firmly together.

But of course, more is demanded from this combination than was demanded by France and Russia in the nineties. The Atlantic Charter has outlined a series of aims, all or which show that the Allies do not seek merely to conserve national interests or to protect themselves from a formidable danger. They want to secure freedom and to secure it by enlarging it. They look for a Europe very different from the Europe whose life has been stinted, impoverished, and embittered by perpetual friction and intrigue.

In the constructing such a Europe they will above all need energy, courage, inmagination, and ideas. Western people have much to contribute to a new world; they have a vast experience and a long tradition of toleration and respect for the rights and dignity of man.

Soviet Russia also has much to contribute to that world. She has lived closer to the bleak realities of life, she has less regard for convention, she has discovered a great power of organization, and she commands the sympathies of races that understand her better than they understand the West.—Manchester Guardian.

Jones: "Yes, but I notice that right after dinner you wear an apron over them."

Thrift EQUIPS MEN

For the men of Canada's army, only the best will do. From tin hats to service boots their equipment must be the finest Canada can produce.

Good equipment costs money... large sums of money. And that money must be provided by the men and women of Canada out of current income.

How? By honouring pledges to invest in war savings certificates every month. By saving now, to pay war taxes when due. By saving now, to invest in Victory Loans should further loans be necessary.

This means that every Canadian must learn to do without some of the things he normally enjoys. Watch your spending. Stern duty demands that we Save for Victory now.

Income Tax Returns Inspector Tells How to File Your Report

By ORMA McNAUGHTON.

OTTAWA, March 12. — March 31 is the deadline.

If you're still lacking the intestinal fortitude to tackle those income tax returns, take courage. You have the word of George E. Carson, inspector of income tax, for encouragement.

"There's nothing to it," he swears.

In an effort to throw some light on the subject which is stumping the experts these days, this reporter threw caution to the winds and plunged pencil-first into the maze of taxes and surtaxes, exemptions, figures and percentages with the able guidance of the quizmaster, Mr. Carson himself.

The following facts, gathered after consultation with Mr. Carson, are intended as a simplified guide to Peterborough tax-payers, now grappling with the war-inspired problem. If they throw a blind-slit of light into the mental blackout, they will have made some constructive contribution to the business blitz.

First question to be faced in the tax dilemma is: "Do I pay income tax?"

Your income tax is divided into two parts, general income tax and national defence tax.

If you are a single person, a widow or widower, without dependents, with income for 1941 exceeding $750, then you are required to make out an income tax return.

If a married person, or a person maintaining a home with a dependent relative, with income in excess of $1,500, then you are liable to income tax. A married person is granted a $400 allowance for each child.

While national defence tax is deducted from a worker's salary by his employer it still must be included in the taxable total income report. Such figures are available to employees from the pay office of the firm for which they work.

A single person and a widow or widower, without dependents, with income in excess of $660 in 1941 is liable to national defence tax.

A married person, or a person maintaining a home with a dependent relative, with income in excess of $1,200, is liable to national defence tax.

The income tax return must show income earned during 1941 and national defence tax deducted.

If national defence tax has been deducted in full and you are not liable to general income tax, you are not obliged to file a return, unless you are asked to do so.

For taxation purposes, a husband and wife with separate incomes are regarded as single persons. If there are children, the allowance may be granted to either one.

How To Begin.

When you heave reached the conclusion that you are liable to income tax and national defence tax, sit down calmly with pencil and paper and write down your total income for the past year.

This may entail obtaining the figures from your employer — or even employers, if you changed postions during the year. Just write down all monies received by you, through salaries, bonuses, investments.

When they are totalled you have your gross income.

Now for exemptions.

Once you have decided that you are in the married class and do not pay unless your income exceeds $1,500, then don't look for an exemption for your wife. It's been done.

National defence tax is not deductible. Although you have had the amount of the tax deducted from your salary before you received it, you still have to include the amount you never got as part of your taxable income.

For each dependent child under 21 years of age, an allowance of $400 is granted. That means simply to substract that sum from your income before taking the percentage of your income. A child under 21 years and a tax-payer is not a dependent.

A dependent may be a child, brother or sister, parent or grandparent, but no exemption is allowed for an in-law.

That is, a man may claim exemption for his mother if she is dependent upon him, but not for his wife's mother in the same circumstances.

A Technicality.

A technicality is involved also in the matter of British war guests. If they were brought to this country under an organized Government plan, then they are deemed dependents. However, children privately evacuated to Canada are not cause for exemptions.

Donations — outright contributions to educational, religious or charitable institutions, not individuals—are allowed in the lower brackets up to 10 per cent. of the taxable income. Gifts of charity to individuals — whether relatives or not — are not deductible. The other donations must be certified by the presence of receipts covering their amount.

Dependents' allowance and assigned pay from a member of the force is not taxable unless that serviceman is of officer's rank. Then he is required to pay income tax on his salary amount.

A bequest is not taxable but any portion of income accruing from it is liable to tax.

No exemption is allowed for doctor's bills or other expenses of a private nature.

As an example, take a man with an income of $2,000 for 1941. Consider him married with one dependent child. He is allowed $1900 exemption (that is the $1,500 that puts him in the married class and $400 for the child). He is then liable for tax on the remaining $100. He pays 15 per cent of $100, or $15, as general income tax.

A single man earning $1,250, with no exemptions, is required to pay $75 general incomes tax, which is 15 per cent. of $500—the amount over $750.

Other Examples.

If the net taxable income is under $1,000, the rate of tax is 15 per cent. The graduated scale is fixed so that between $1000 and $2,000, tax is $150 plus 20 per cent. on excess over $1,000; between $2,000 and $3,000, tax is $350 plus 25 per cent. on excess over $2,000; between $3,000 and $4,000, tax is $600 plus 30 per cent. on excess over $3000; between $4,000 and $5,000 tax is $900 plus 33 per cent. on excess over $4,000.

In one section of the income tax blank the phrase "rank of foreman or comparable rank" appears. According to the wartime salary order, a person earning $250 a month or more is deemed of "comparable rank" to foreman.

Where a single person maintains a home with two bedrooms or more and has in it a person related to him by blood, marriage or adoption and dependent on him for support, he is regarded in the same category as a married man for purposes of taxation.

Although Mr. Carson admits it's a rare case to come his way, a man who made a million dollars during the past year would pay $358,580 on his income up to $500,000 plus 85 per cent. on the remaining $500,000. That makes a total of $782,580 as general income tax. On top of this he must pay defence tax, and a surtax on any portion which is derived from investment or interest. A surtax of four per cent. on money in excess of $15,000. Defence tax would be at the rate of 3½ per cent., or another $35,000.

The million-dollar man would be required to pay a minimum of approximately $817,000.

In the case of a wife taking roomers or boarders, a statement must show the gross income together with receipts for actual expenses incurred by the business. If the profit for the year exceeds $750 then she is regarded as a single woman. In such a case, her husband's exemption also would be cut to the single man's standard.

National Defence Tax

As for national defence tax, the rate was changed during 1941. Any difference in the defence tax calculations at the end of the year will be taken care of in income tax. A credit will decrease the income tax and an underpayment increase it.

From Jan. 1 to June 30, the rate was two per cent for single persons salaried between $600 and $1,200; and three per cent for single persons earning over $1,200. This was changed to three and a half per cent July 1.

In many cases, Mr. Carson revealed that in the returned statements, many persons list dividends in the amounts as received, which is incorrect.

They must show the gross amount and keep a record of the defence tax which has been deducted. It is not deductible from general income tax, however.

The income tax office frowns upon the sending in of a statement accompanied by a signed blank cheque. All possible help will be given those who ask for it, but the office has not the time to figure out each application out without even the assistance of the taxpayer.

During the year all returns are investigated and business reports audited.

Instalment Payments

If you are paying your income tax by instalments, it is still necessary to file a return by March 31, 1942.

No. 1 plan: One-third of the tax may be paid on the due date and the balance within four months thereafter with interest at five per cent per annum. Any tax not so paid bears three per cent additional interest.

No. 2 plan: One twelfth of the 1940 estimated tax in each of the four months September to December, 1941 and one-eighth of the 1941 estimated tax (reduced by the sum of the one-twelfth payments already made) in each of the eight months, January to August, 1942.

Interest is not payable if the taxpayer adopts and makes regular payments under Option 2 except on any amount of tax under-estimated. Upon one default in option 2 then option 1 operates. Pay by postal notes, postal money orders or marked cheques with revenue stamps affixed. Send no cash in envelopes. If prepayment of 1942 tax is to be made under option 2 then payment must commence in September, 1942.

Claims for charitable donations are limited to 10 per cent of the net income. Donations to the Canadian War Services Fund are allowable to the extent of 40 per cent of the net income if (1) the amount was subscribed on or before April 7, 1941, and (2) the amount was paid on or before Dec. 31, 1941. If charitable donations are to be distributed abroad then the Canadian organization must be approved by the minister of national war services, otherwise the donation is not allowed.

Penalty for failure to file return by March 31, 1942, five per cent of the net tax payable is charged. The maximum penalty for giving false information is $10,000 or six months' imprisonment or both fine and imprisonment.

Yawkey Gold Sox Passing Out All In A Bunch

By GAYLE TALBOT
Associated Press Sports Writer

SARASOTA, Fla., March 13—(AP)—The line-up that takes the field for the Boston Red Sox on opening day of the 1942 baseball season probably will not include a single one of that fabulous lot of stars for whom Tom Yawkey spent a fortune six years ago in a vain effort to buy a championship.

They are passing out all in a bunch here at the end, grudgingly yielding to the years. The great Lefty Grove announced his retirement during the winter. Joe Cronin, for whom Yawkey sent $150,000 and a player to Washington, says he will not play shortstop this season unless absolutely forced to. That leaves only Jimmy Foxx of the original "Gold Sox" and Jimmy is limping around with a broken toe, while a youngster named Ulysses Lupien from Louisville tries to win his first base job from him.

If both Cronin and Foxx remain on the bench, it means the Sox have lost a great part of the terrific batting punch that enabled them to finish second to the Yankees in the American League last year. Between them they knocked in exactly 200 runs, and no team can lose that without feeling it. But Cronin reasons, logically, that if the Yanks ever are to be licked it will have to be by fresh, young blood, and this is as good a time as any to give it a try.

Some Promising New Blood

At the moment Cronin is playing a little at third base in training games, but will give that up happily when ailing Jim Tabor is ready to take it over. Frisking around shortstop and looking very good, too, is dark Jim Pesky, a 22-year-old who hit a robust .325 for Louisville last year. He and Bobby Doerr are teaming well on double plays, and every one seems to think that Cronin can safely pick himself out a spot on the bench.

"Our chance of course depend on how well the new boys hit," Cronin said. "We figure to have better pitching. In fact we might have real good pitching."

The clubs has an embarassing catcher shortage. Little Frank Pytlak, last year's first string receiver, is due to enter the army so soon that he didn't ever bother to report. That leaves only John Peacock and a boy named Bill Conroy from Oakland neither evactly the answer to a manager's prayer.

The backbone of the club is, of course, the .406 hitting average of Ted Williams. As long as "the Kid" is in left field and hitting like he can, the Sox are dangerous to the last out in any ball game.

Ball Training Camp

SARASOTA, Fla.—Mace Brown, regarded as the most advanced of the Red Sox pitching corps, will make his debut as a Bostonian today, when he shares the chores against the Senators with Joe Dobson. Manager Joe Cronin has decided to let Ted Williams have one more batting practice session before starting him against the Indians in Clearwater tomorrow.

$42,000 Salary Sees Dimaggio In Yankee Fold

By JUDSON BAILEY
Associated Press Sports Writer

ST. PETERSBURG, March 13.—(AP).—Joe DiMaggio, beaming brightly from sunburn and happiness, was safely in the fold of the New York Yankees to-day with the second biggest contract ever given a member of the club.

The great centrefielder, who hit in 56 consecutive games last season and was voted the most valuable player in the American League, came to an agreement with President Edward G Barrow last night on a salary estimated at $42,000, an increase of $5,000 over his 1941 stipend.

This was a higher salary than the Yankes ever gave any player except Babe Ruth.

Barrow arrived home from New York yesterday and telephoned DiMaggio at nearby Lido Beach, where he has been vacationing with his wife and baby. A conference was arranged at Barrow's hotel room last night and after an hour-long huddle the pair smilingly announced that they had reached a satisfactory compromise with little difficulty.

Barrow admitted that he had gone above the $40,000 offer which he had termed "final" last week, but added, "not very much above."

It was considered unlikely that DiMaggio, whose legs are as fragile as they are valuable, would take his place in the lineup before next week in order that he should be amply conditioned.

With DiMaggio in camp, the only Yankee still at large was third baseman Red Rolfe.

Northern Squads Records Shade Majors

HAMILTON, Ont., March 13—(CP).—Hockey championships are not won on past performances, which may be a good thing for Hamilton Majors.

Although Majors' record in winning the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A title this season was good, it fell a few decimal points short of that compiled by Buffalo-Ankerite Bisons of Schumacher, Ont., in their march to the Northern Ontario Hockey Association senior crown.

When the teams meet here tonight in the first game of a best-of-five series for the right to move into the next round of Canadian senior hockey championship eliminations leading to the Allan Cup, Bisons hold the edge in the statistics department while Hamilton's sole advantage lies in the possibility that the O.H.A. senior group supplied tougher competition than the Bisons had to face this season.

Hamilton won out in a six-team league Buffalo-Ankerite in a four-team circuit. Majors stopped St. Catharines in four games of a best-of-five final series and Bisons had a similar record against McIntyre Miners.

But during the season Bisons held statistical superiority, thusly:

	P.	W.	L.	T.	F.	A.
Buff.-Ankerite	24	15	6	3	105	70
Hamilton	20	16	8	5	119	89

Over Four Goals a Game

A breakdown of figures shows the Bisons averaged 4.38 goals a game; Hamilton 4.10; Bisons averaged 2.92 goals-against each game, Hamilton 3.07.

Because fans in general place little faith in figures, Hamilton probably will enter the series favored to win. The second game will be played here Monday night, the third in Schumacher Wednesday night, and the fourth, if necessary, in Schumacher Thursday night. If a fifth game is needed, it will be played in Toronto Maple Leafs Gardens Saturday, March 21.

The Bisons are believed to have the only Negro forward line in organized hockey—Herbie and Ossie Carnegie and Manny McIntyre. Herbie formerly played with Toronto Northern Vocational Juniors and Ossie performed with St. Catharines Seniors in the O.H.A. McIntyre is a native of Amherst, N.S., and played all his previous hockey in the Maritimes.

Oscar Clouthier, formerly of Sudbury, centres the second line. Bill Lahti, former Washington Eagle, and Hughie Allen are his wingmen. Allen previously played for New Liskeard. Eighteen-year-old Jockie Ladds of Noranda alternates with McIntyre on the first line. Jack Young, formerly of Sudbury, and Mush Moorehouse are utility men.

Barney Morris and Nels Dixon form a strong defence. Dixon played formerly with Atlantic City Seagulls. Mickey McCann, Bob Young and Harold Johnston are other defencemen. Johnston played last season with Yorkton Terriers in the Saskatchewan Senior Hockey League

Alex Brownlee guards the nets. He is a former Port Colborne player, and Hobe Esseltine, a former goalkeeper with Niagara Falls Cataracts, is the coach.

Hamilton has Jack Eley in goal, with one of his better seasons behind the Brandon, Man., netminder. Coach George Redding is fortunate in having Clarence Shillington and Dillon Brady, front line stars who missed much of recent action because of illness and injury, back in action. Doug. Runions, Johnny Conick, Bobby Laurent, Smack Allan and Polly Miocinovich are other standouts.

Bisons left Timmins by rail yesterday with a large delegation of fans, and dozens of other Northern hockey enthusiasts left by automobile for Hamilton to watch the series. Arrangements have not been completed, but it is believed the Bisons may stay in Toronto between games.

SPORTS – DAY BY DAY

By FRED D. CRAIG

Back home for the first time in over two weeks, after four playoff victories in Oshawa, Collingwood and St. Catharines, the Peterborough Soldiers will get a royal welcome from a packed rink when they skate out at Brock St. Arena tonight to meet Merritton Hayes Steel Redmen in the second game of the final series for the O.H.A. Senior championship. That the place will be packed with the biggest crowd of the year goes without saying. The Petes have earned that kind of a reception by their consistently fine hockey on foreign cushions. Without a chance to perform on their own rink they have swept along over all opposition on the road and now that they have broken out in front in the final round for the O.H.A. title, they have the hockey fans of Peterborough and the district solidly behind them in their battle for the championship. The ice conditions, while not perfect are better than any one would have dared to hope two days ago and the teams should be able to dish out a battle that will have the fans on their toes all the way through. The game is scheduled to get under way at 8.30 o'clock sharp.

* * * * * *

It is not expected there will be any great change in either lineup from the battle array presented by the two clubs in the opening game of the series at St. Catharines Wednesday night. Merritton will have Clement, the St. Boniface, Man., lad between the posts and Joe Desson former St. Kitts Saints defence player and Morgan, from the Toronto Mercantile League as the main pair. Up in front much of the offensive burden will be carried by the first string line of Saunders, Melville and Hand, with young Robinson, the Rocco twins, Spooner, former Collingwood junior, Brant and Louis Spancheff taking a hand in the proceedings. Coach Jimmy Ellis has not announced his definite lineup but it will be about same as usual, with the only points in doubt being who will start at centre on the second line and which player will be the extra forward dressed. The Petes came through the game at St. Catharines in good shape and are ready for tonight's battle, confident that by the time the final whistle sounds they will have picked off their second straight win in the final series.

* * * * * *

The third game in the Merritton-Peterborough round for the O.H.A. Senior B championship will be played at St. Catharines on Monday night. After the Petes' win over the Redmen Wednesday night the advisability of Merritton remaining over in Peterborough until Saturday night and staging the third game at Brock St. Rink on that night had been discussed but when the Merritton executive got together Thursday they arrived at the decision to let the original schedule stand and so the Petes will have to make another long trek to the fruit belt on Monday. The Peterborough players are not enraptured with the second pilgrimage to St. Catharines, although they enjoy playing on the big sheet in the Garden City Arena, but it is just one of the breaks of the game. The main thing with the Peterborough squad right now is to clean up that championship round as soon as possible, and they hope to do it in three straight.

* * * * * *

Redmen Will Battle

However they are not selling the Redmen short. The Merritton players and management claim that the two quick goals scored by the Petes Wednesday night, especially the lucky first one, threw their team off their stride and left them in a position where they had to gang up and open up the play in an effort to get back on even terms and as a result the Petes were presented with repeated opportunities for breakaways. That, according to the Merritton viewpoint is the reason why the Redmen were beaten by five goals. They say that tonight is another night and that they will look like a different team, pointing out in support of that contention the fact that although Windsor Spitfires downed them by five goals in the first game of their home-and-home playoff series, the Merritton team came back with a bang in the second battle to outscore the Spitfires 11 to 4 and take the round by two goals in what was undoubtedly one of the biggest upsets of the year. At all events the Redmen declare that they will supply the Petes with plenty of opposition in tonight's battle and for the remainder of the round.

* * * * * *

So far this season the Peterborough team has played 19 O.H.A. games, winning 15 and losing four. Three of the quartette of defeats were lost by one goal, one of them in overtime and the fourth was dropped by two points so that no club this season has had much of a margin of victory over the Ellis gang in any of the nineteen games. An unusual feature is that 11 of the battles have been played away from home as against only eight staged at the Brock St. cushion. The Petes won eight out of 11 on the road and seven out of eight at home, the only local loss being a 6 to 5 defeat at the hands of Belleville Reliance in the first home game of the season. In the 19 games the Soldiers piled up a total of 121 goals as against 59 scored by the opposition—a fine record for consistent playing throughout the three-month campaign.

* * * * * *

Gunning For Goals

St. Catharines Standard says of Wednesday's game: "Merritton Hayes Redmen surrendered the opening game of the O.H.A. senior finals here last night, when Peterborough Gunners, one of the smartest teams to show their wares on Garden City arena ice, took down the verdict 9-4 in the best-of-five for the Ontario title of that class. Gunners iced the fastest squad that Hayes have met so far in the puck playoffs, the ace line of Kingdom-Tompkins-Heal being not only fast but smart stickers and accurate passers. It was Hayes' ill-luck to be caught in the opener with disastrous starting tallies that sapped a lot of team morale and Redmen did not fully recover from those setbacks during the first period. Nor were Hayes usual finish plays standing up and the upshot of the entire first half of the game was that Redmen really failed to get going. In sheer contrast to former games, Clement seemed to be off-color in the rigging and his wizardry of the Hamilton-Windsor series was considerably lacking. On the other hand, Petes presented two well-balanced lines, a hard-hitting and fast-breaking four-man defence and Coach Jimmy Ellis had them gunning for goals. Midway in the game and from then on, Hayes started to function and during most of the last period were all over Gunners, but could only snipe two goals out of it, while Petes picked up three in a row on breakaways."

* * * * * *

The Boston Bruins have lost a lot of strength but evidently have still gobs of fighting spirit left and are insisting in making a photo finish of the National League race. The Rossmen went into New York last night and with the help of two smart goals by Roy Conacher sank the Rangers 2 to 1 and as a result are now only a point behind the second place Leafs, who in turn are still three points behind the Patrick crew but have three games to go while Rangers have but one. Interestingly enough, in spite of their losses in manpower the Bruins have scored more goals this season and have had fewer scored against them than the Leafs and the manner in which the Boston gang have hung on indicates that they would have hung up another N.H.L. championship if it had not been for the loss of Cowley, Clapper, Dumart, Schmidt and Bauer. Boston tangle with Leafs in Toronto Saturday night and it promises to be a lively tussle.

Ask More Police At Quebec Games

MONTREAL, March 13—(CP).—George Slater, president of the Quebec Senior Hockey League, said last night that additional police protection had been promised for all Q.S.H.L. games to be played at Quebec City.

Need for additional police at the Quebec Arena had been urged by Cornwall, Ottawa and Montreal Canadiens as a result of a fight between spectators and players at a Canadiens-Quebec game last February 20.

Mr. Slater said that he did not anticipate any further trouble. If any such trouble arose, however, steps would then be taken to notify referees to halt future games when disturbances started and award the game to the visiting team.

CURLING NEWS

By HERB MARTIN

Believe us or not we are back in circulation, for how long we do not know—and we refuse to do any more guessing.

Running into a streak of mild weather, that has broken all records, as far as curling is concerned, our club faces the possibility of not completing most of their games as laid out by the schedule committee.

After hoping and hoping for a snap of cold weather, the committee was forced to order some of the games last evening. Playing on ice that was somewhat on the heavy side, the boys responded to the wish of the committee and this co-operation is not being overlooked by the officials.

To say that it is unfortunate that such important games had to be played on heavy ice is putting it very mildly, but as no one can control the weather, we have to take what we get.

We notice that the annual excursion of mixed rinks to the Granite club, Toronto, is shaping up rapidly and already seven rinks have entered. The skips are B. Scott, R. Best, N. Hamley, T. McArthur, R. Downey, J. H. Sedgwick and H R. Martin.

And since we have been "off the press" one rink from our ladies section took a trip down to Kingston the other day and came within two points of bringing home the bacon. Mrs. H. Dulmage was skip and she was ably assisted by Miss M. Patterson, Mrs. O. M. Steer and Mrs. G. Leach.

The boys sure do miss the popular secretary. Jim has gone away up north and will not be back for six weeks. Scores:

Freeman's Taken For 4 Points By Royal Yorks

'Bud' Weese and Bill Martin piled up 923 and 881 scores as Jay's team went to work on Jack Wade's Outlaws in the Men's City League at Duffus Alleys last night. The Outlaws turned in a good team count of 3476 pins but it went for nothing against the 3810 score of the leading Jay's outfit. It was a night of heavy pin-spilling for a number of the boys. In addition to the Weese and Martin efforts Bill Harris of the Capitols wheeled off 822 and Doug Abraham counted an even 800 for the Outlaws. Nine big singles topped by Bill Martin's 369 were as follows: Bud Weese 355 and 303, Bill Milliken 341, Fred Martin 320, Doug Abraham 331, Bill Harris 312, Holly Mowry 309 and Eddie Johnston 305.

In the seven-way fgiht for second place Capitols and Royal Yorks gained ground, the former team defeating Old Timers 3 to 1 and the Yorkers taking an easy 4 to 0 verdict from Freeman's. Big Five and Dunn's deadlocked with 2 points each. Huffman's and Quakers hard-hitting tilt ending 3 to 1 in favor of Huffman's.

Ottawa Flyers Capture Title

OTTAWA, March 13.—(CP)—Royal Canadian Air Force Flyers qualified for the Ottawa and District Amateur Hockey Association finals last night by defeating Hull Volants, 9-5 to win the Ottawa Senior City League's best-of-seven playoff series with four straight victories.

Flyers, first service team in history to win the Ottawa senior championship, will meet either Cornwall Colts or Perth Crescents in a best-of-three playoff for the district championship. The winner will advance into the Dominion playdowns.

Giving their most impressive performance of the playoffs, Flyers ran down Volants in the first two periods with the score 3-1 at the end of the first and 6-2 at the end of the second.

The former Boston Kraut line of Milt Schmidt, Bobby Bauer and Woody Dumart, each came through with one goal for Flyers. Campbell got two and Miller, Snell, Pickles MacNichol and Buddy Hellyer one each.

Myre, Guzzo, Roach, Mentzel and Blondin scored for Hull.

BRUINS SHADE RANGERS CLOSING RACE TO POINT OFF TORONTO

Conacher Scores Both Goals In 2-1 Battle

By The Canadian Press.

A month ago when newsmen were sympathizing with Art Ross because of the sudden loss of five star players the dour manager of Boston Bruins growled: "Don't worry about us. We'll fight to the end and we'll have a lot to say about who wins the Stanley Cup."

Two weeks ago the National Hockey League directors met at Toronto and issued dates for the first-second place cup playoffs—between New York Rangers and Toronto Maple Leafs.

But today Ross' prediction is beginning to come true. The Ranger-Toronto series may never be held. For the battling Bruins, who added a 2-1 victory over the Rangers last night to Tuesday's 9-1 trimming of Chicago Black Hawks, are crowding on Toronto's heels and may displace the Leafs.

True, the chances are against the Bruins crashing into the top spots. But the odds are not overwhelming. They rest in third place, a single point back of Toronto, and their next game is at the Maple Leaf Garden tomorrow night. After that the Bruins have a game against Brooklyn, while Toronto will play both Brooklyn and Canadiens.

In that set-up, anything may happen, including another possibility—that Toronto may displace the Rangers from first place by wiping out the three-point margin the New Yorkers now hold. The Rangers' only remaining game is at Chicago, on ice where the visiting teams do not take many victories.

The Bruins are not the team that last year won the league championship and the Stanley Cup. They couldn't be. No club can lose five players such as Dit Clapper, Bill Cowley, Milt Schmidt, Bobby Bauer and Woody Dumart and not feel it.

Conacher Lends Cheer.

Ross and his new bench manager, Clapper, were encouraged by the return to form of Roy Conacher, hard-shooting left winger who went into a long slump when Cowley broke his jaw at Detroit last January 22. Conacher scored both goals last night, one on a long, low shot across the goalie and the other in a carom off the legs of Defenceman Ott Heller, who was flat on the ice. Bryan Hextall, the league-leading marksman, got the Rangers' only goal, the goal that extended their non-shutout streak to 100 games, 13 seconds after Conacher's first goal.

Cowley had been expected to return to action last night but he did not do so and the prospects now are that he will appear only once, against Brooklyn, next Tuesday, before the playoffs. Clapper, of course, will not play again this season.

The Bruins in rep lacing these players and the Kitchener line who joined the R.C.A.F. called heavily upon Boston Olympics of the Eastern United States Amateur League and their Hershey professional farm. The players they brought up are making the grade. There is Clare Martin, the rookie defenceman who know how to hand out a bodycheck and can handle himself; Lloyd Gronsdal, a smooth-skating right winger with a neat shift; Centre Jack McGill who is making a fair job of filling Cowley's shoes; and Defenceman Johnny Shewchuk and Centre Gordie Bruce who have played with Bruins for parts of other years.

Added to that, Veteran Harvey Jackson is playing his best hockey in several years; Bill Hollett is flitting from centre to defence and doing both jobs capably.

All in all, as Ross put it, "We'll have a lot to say about who wins the Stanley Cup."

Sutton Wallops Midland By 7-2

MIDLAND, March 13. — Showing marked superiority throughout Sutton scored a convincing 7-2 triumph over Midland here last night to capture their O.H.A. Intermediate A Group final series in two straight games. Sutton won Tuesday night in Sutton 8-7.

The line of McComb, Shepstone and Harris was outstanding for the winners. McComb got three goals and two assists, Shepstone had two of each, and Harris scored twice while earning three assists. No other Sutton player figured in the scoring.

Before the game started, with 1,500 in attendance, Midland players Jack Toole, who leaves in the morning for Newmarket Training Camp, and Jimmy O'Hearn, who left after the game for North Bay Training Centre, were presented with leather cases, with military brush and comb sets.

The teams:

Sutton — Goal, Hall; defence, Pringle and Culverwell centre, McComb; wings, Shepstone and Harris; alternates Diplock, Gibney, Gilbey, Burkholder, Brandon.

Midland — Goal, White; defence, Scott and Sager; centre, Stewart; wings, Antonio and Toole; alternates, Finkbeiner, O'Hearn, Wilcox, Brodeur.

Reefree—Ken Holmshaw, Toronto.

London Players Upset Toronto Badminton Aces

TORONTO, March 13.— (CP).— Play in the Ontario badminton championship tournament entered a more important phase to-day after vigorous campaigning in all competitions last night, when out-of-town contestants were drawn for the first time. The tournament opened Tuesday night but until last night was confined to Toronto players.

A surprise doubles combination swung into the spotlight last night —Stuart Lawson of the Toronto Strathgowans and Leo LaFontaine of London, Ont. Lawson-LaFontaine's first show of strength came in defeating the favored duo of Jack Storey, Toronto Granites, and Glen Thompson, Toronto Carltons. Thompson is seeded first in the men's singles. Lawson-LaFontaine also defeated the Toronto Strathgowans pair of M. Smith and A. McNeill.

Evelyn Effnert, champion in all events open to women last year, again seemed favored for most of the women's honors. Paired with Jill Cavanagh of Toronto Granites in the women's doubles, the Toronto Boulevard Club player was in her best form. Effnert-Cavanagh defeated Jess Hutchison and Mrs. Pattison, Toronto St. Aidan's, in a women's doubles game.

Miss Effnert was paiared with R. Smith of Woodstock in the mixed doubles and won two last night. Miss J. Warren and J. W. Turner of Toronto Carltons were the first to fall, with Miss Cassels and Fred Torrance of Toronto Badminton and Racquets Club losing to Effnert-Smith in a later draw.

NEW WARRIOR - - By Jack Sords

Vaulter Aiming To Top 16 Feet

SAN FRANCISCO, March 13 — (AP). — Pole Vault King Cornelius Warmerdam, trained and tested for the greatest leap of his life will try to clear the unprecedented height of 16 feet to-night.

The 26-year-old Piedmont High School teacher, only one ever to vault 15 feet or more, will be the featured attraction of an all-star ahtletic cast in the Olympic Club indoor track and field meet.

Warmedram first explored the 15-foot stratum in April, 1940. In all he has ridden his bamboo pole to that or greater height sixteen times. Last month, in the East, on two consecutive week-ends, he raised the world indoor record three times, the last to the amazing height of 15 feet 7¼ inches. His outdoor record of 15 feet 5¾ inches was set last year.

The 16-foot vault, ridiculed by many not so long ago as a physical impossibility, actually is within Warmerdam's capabilities. He has been over at the height, only to brush off the bar on the down plunge.

To facilitate the record attempts, his coach Charley Hunter of the Olympic Club, has provided a 140-foot runway in the civic auditorium. Warmerdam's competiton will come from Bill Schaefer of the University of Southern Califarnia, and Guinn Smith of California. Last year outdoors they reached heights of 14 feet 6 inches.

News From Training Camps

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 13—(AP).—The Cardinals' five left-handed pitchers might form the strongest southpaw staff in the majors. Last year, the quintet won 71 and lost 31. Thirty-five victories were in the National league and 36 in the minors. The five are Ernie White, Howard Pollet, Max Lanier, Clyde Shoun, and Harry Brecheen.

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla.—Manager Leo Durocher of the Dodgers has a neat method of making his infielders run during workouts by hitting slow rollers, first to one side and then the other. But First Baseman Les Burge has his own system of combatting Durocher's game. Fielding each ball, he stuffs it into his shirt instead of throwing it back.

SAN BERNARDINO, Calif.—Lee Handley, Pittsburg third baseman, arrived back in camp with the word that treatments he received in Los Angeles were relieving the soreness of his right shoulder, injured in an automobile accident last November. Frankie Frisch is counting on Handley to back up Bob Elliott, transplanted outfielder, at the hot corner.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla.—Charley Keller, whose skin is naturally dark, turned up at the New York Yankee training camp looking like a paleface among the tanned athletes. Keller said he felt fine after a winter of idling, placed his weight at around 180, and added that the left ankle which bothered him last year had completely healed.

SANFORD, Fla. — When Casey Stengel of the Braves needed an outfielder to complete his rookie team Wednesday, Pitcher Frank Lamanna drew the assignment and lashed out a homer. Yesterday, when hurling for the rookies, he got another four-bagger. "I've been looking for a guy like you for a long time," said Stengel, "and if you keep hitting homers, I'm going to keep you in the lineup."

ANAHEIM, Calif.—Hal Wagner probably will do a lot of catching for the Athletics this season. Last year he spent the major part of the time sitting on the bench beside Connie Mack as the veteran manager pointed out the fine points of the game.

LOS ANGELES.—After getting 13 hits in 30 times at bat during intra-squad games on Catalina Island, Leonard Merullo may get a chance to replace Bob Sturgeon at shortstop for the Cubs. Merullo hit .239 for Toronto last season, while Sturgeon batted .246 for the Cubs.

Capitols Blank Bisons 2-0 To Snatch Lead

By The Canadian Press

The American Hockey League schedule is just about completed—each team has only two games left to play—and although the order of playoff positions in the Eastern division are settled, the situation in the Western section is different.

The first three teams in the division—Indianapolis Capitols, Cleveland Barons and Hershey Bears—are still in the midst of a battle for top honors.

Until last night the Barons were slight favorites to take the honors but today the situation was changed in favor of the Capitols.

The Capitols moved into first place, one point ahead of the Barons, as they shut out Buffalo Bisons, who are already out of the running, 2-0, at Buffalo last night. The idle Bears remained in third place, two points behind the Barons.

Smart netminding by Joe Turner, who was struck in the face by a flying puck in the second period but later returned to play a bang-up game, was the keynote of the Indianapolis victory.

Dick Behling's tally at 14.46 of the middle period was enough for the Capitols' victory but Joe Sawyer put the game on ice early in the final frame as he banged in the puck from a faceoff.

Providence Reds, who are already eliminated from a playoff berth in the Eastern section, edged out Washington Lions 6-5 in the only other game scheduled. The Lions are in third spot in the Eastern division. It was the Reds first victory in the last 14 starts. Calladine scored once in the third.

Hockey's Big Seven

By The Canadian Press

The Ranger trio of Bryan Hextall, Lynn Patrick and Phil Watson, added a point apiece last night, working together on New York's only goal in their 2-1 defeat against Boston, to remain at the top of the N.H.L. individual scoring race.

Hextall's tally raised his total to 54 points, 23 goals and 31 assists, while Patrick and Watson made their total 52 points each by assisting in Hextall's goal.

Girl Of 13 Leads Officer Long Bush Chase

BANCROFT, March 13.—(ENS). —Elizabeth Brethour, 13 year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Phelty Brethour of the Town Line in Faraday township, who was made a ward of the Department of Welfare in Belleville February 24 and escaped from that instiution Saturday, March 7, was apprehended Wednesday afternoon by Provincial Officer S. W. Palmateer of Bancroft.

Elizabeth on escaping from the institution in Belleville, came directly to Bancroft and then walked to her home on the Town Line, a distance of eight miles from Bancroft village.

The provincial officer set out Wednesday by horse and sleigh, driving to the girl's home, but on approaching a neighbour of the Brethour's saw Elizabeth and her mother running towards the bush from the home of an uncle, Hedley Brethour. When the pair were about a quarter of a mile from the house they broke through the crust and landed waist deep into a running creek, and as they clampered out the constable demanded them to halt but they proceeded into the swamp.

The officer, being of heavy build and having no snowshoes was at a disadvantage in trying to overtake his adversaries. However, after a chase which lasted for more than three and a half hours, he apprehended the girl, taking her into custody, the mother making another break for the bush.

At one point in the chase the two took refuge under a large root of an upturned tree in the swamp but on being discovered set out again and hid this time in an old log barn belonging to Hedley Brethour. When the officer was nearly up to them they again struck out in swamp toward Baptiste lake this time and into the house of August Brethour, an uncle of Elizabeth.

Despite the girl being only thirteen years of age and weighing but eighty pounds, she donned clothes belonging to her uncle and set for the bush again.

When she was finally apprehended it was revealed that the girl had started out originally on her flight clad only in a slip, coat, stockings and shoes, staying in the open country during a heavy snowfall for such a length of time seemingly none the worse for the exposure.

Elizabeth was brought to Bancroft and placed in the Red Cross hospital and will be taken to Belleville Thursday and turned over to Captain T. Tuston, superintendent of the Children's Aid Society and placed once more in the welfare institution.

Charges pending against the mother for obstructing the administration of justice will be laid as the girl on several occasions was willing to give up the chase but was urged to continue by her mother.

Lady M.P.

ing the minimum fixed price to be paid by the wheat board on 280,000,000 bushels of the 1942 crop from 70 cents to 90 cents a bushel, basis No. 1 Northern at Fort William and Vancouver.

All these bills have been debated as one although technically the debate is on the last wheat price measure to which Rev. T. C. Douglas (C.C.F. Weyburn) has moved an amendment substituting for second reading a declaration that the House considers failure of parliament to provide parity prices on farm products and an initial wheat price of $1 a bushel to be "contrary to peace, order and good government in Canada."

Readings Minus Debate

Late last night, in order to provide work for the House committee to which all farm measures are to be submitted, it was agreed that all but the price bill be given second reading without debate. The price measure was to be again under debate today.

Several members spoke yesterday against interfering with normal production of wheat, arguing that the time may come quickly when all that is available and more will be needed.

The included Mrs. Nielsen, Gilbert Weir (Lib. Macdonald), a farmer himself, and T. L. Church (Con. Toronto-Broadview).

No other important food could be so easily accumulated and so safely stored as wheat, Mr. Weir said. Although he contended there should not be undue curtailment of production, in the main he approved the government's policy.

Mr. Church suggested that in later years wheat is urgently needed there may be less labor and facilities to produce it and reserves should be built up now.

McNevin Favors 90 Cent Wheat

Bruce McNevin (Lib., Muskoka-Ontario) voiced approval of the new guaranteed price of 90 cents a bushel for Western wheat. He said everyone realized the former price of 70 cents was too low.

Labor is becoming scarcer both for farms and for lumbering operation because of the wages paid in manufacturing industries, he said. Even where industrial wages had not increased they were high enough to draw men from the farms.

Mr. McNevin discussed the several Government measure dealing with the 1942 Western wheat crop in the motion for second reading of the bill increasing the Wheat Board's minimum price from 70 cents to 90 cents a bushel.

As an Ontario farmer, Mr. McNevin said he was of the opinion that the Western wheat growers had been fairly dealt with in the Government's 1942 program.

He quoted exhaustive figures as support of his claim that gross incomes of Western province farmers were not much less than incomes in other parts of the Dominion.

Mr. McNevin paid tribute to the Agriculture Minister, Hon. J. G. Gardiner, who, he said, had been criticized severely in Western Canada.

"What about Eastern Canada?" asked Karl Homuth (Con., Waterloo South).

"Yes, in Eastern Canada, too, no doubt," Mr. McNevin agreed.

The bulk of these criticisms was because of the fact that Mr. Gardiner had been called to deal with agriculture problems when they were more difficult than at any other time.

Farmer and the Worker

W. J. Ward (Lib.-Prog. Dauphin) suggested that a "racket" was growing up among industrial workers, quoting figures to support his contention that where an average farmer with an investment of $8,800, a hired man and family and all taxes and other costs to pay has an average annual gross income of $1,139, men without any investment, even in education, and without expenses or responsibilities except personal costs, received annual wages from $1,500 to $2,000 in industrial plants.

Mrs. Nielsen expressed opinion that constant talk of the war lasting a long time made for complacency and indifference.

Every effort should be made to bring the war to an early conclusion and one way would be to strike at the "nerve and brain centre" of the Axis powers—Germany.

"If it is possible, we of the Allies have to make 1942 the crucial year and strike before the enemy strikes, to create diversion of the enemy and his troops throughout the length and breadth of Europe," Mrs. Nielsen said.

"We must do what we can to encroach upon the breadbasket of the Axis. In that way we shall take the offensive in 1942 and 1942 will bring victory nearer for us.

"If we could, by invasion of the continent, destroy some of the seeded acreage which Hitler this year is counting on for the feeding of his armies and those civilians whom he has under control, then it seems to me we bring the conclusion of the war so much closer."

Wipe Out Half Nazi Wheat

Destruction by the Allies this year of half the German wheat reserves would leave the Axis powers in Europe short by 1,000,000,000 bushels of their needed wheat requirements, said Mrs. Nielsen.

With Australia unlikely to supply India and China as she has in the past the reserves on this continent were likely to become a most valuable asset, she said.

If the Allied powers could make serious inroads into German wheat reserves and thus make hunger an ally, victory might come quickly.

"If that did happen, the surplus of wheat we now have here in Canada would melt away like snow in the spring sunshine," she said.

There should be no more than the normal summer fallow in western wheat lands, and there should be no bonus for extra summer fallowing. The land should grow wheat in anticipation of a demand "which may come upon us far more quickly than some of us are apt to think."

Spring Grain Acreage Decrease Is Forecast By County Farmers

A disturbing situation has been discovered in the survey of county farms and conditions by the seven-man committee appointed to study the reports turned in by farmers in all the townships, and a few of their observations and conclusions were voiced by Frank Paterson, Department of Agriculture, to-day.

The part thas is bothering the committee is the written forecast that there will be a substantial decrease in the spring grain acreage during the next few months, and this is probably due to shortage of help reduction in acreage being cultivated because farmers are working in factories, and to some extent because farmers do not realize the great need for these particular grains. Mr. Paterson said this condition should be corrected if at all possible, and every farmer should try to plant as much grain as possible. They should use good seed, fertilizer and properly cultivate the fields in preparation for planting.

More Fall Wheat.

There is a splendid increase in the amount of fall wheat in Peterborough County and only good spring weather is needed to produce a bumper yield in the district. In North Monaghan alone, there is a 39 per cent increase in fall wheat acreage, in Smith the increase is 32.7, and in Otonabee 19 per cent.

The committee was handed tabulated data by the office staff on Wednesday which includes almost complete reports on the three townships named above. Several other townships are doing well, but none are actually 100 per cent complete, and it is a patriotic duty for every farmer to co-operate in this regard by completing the survey report and mailing it at once.

The general information contained in the reports reviewed so far shows that there are fewer horses in the county than were here a year ago, and in Smith Township alone the drop amounts to 8 per cent.

More Cows.

There is a good increase in the cow population and the trend indicates a general increase of 6 or 7 per cent in some townships. There is an increase of 5 per cent in the number of sows in the county, and while this is a step in the right direction the increase is far from being satisfactory, according to the committee. The sheep have shown an increase of four per cent, and this, too, is a wise move on the part of the breeders, as there is every sign that wool will be scarce. If at all possible the sheep herds should be increased to meet the national need.

There is a considerable increase in the hen population and the number varies from 18 to 44 per cent in the different areas. Plans for chick purchasing this spring point to the farmers buying from 12 to 23 per cent more than they did in 1941. Most farmers buy baby chicks, one or two days old, and raise them in brooders and hen houses.

Mr. Paterson said that while the reports tabulated to date are far from being complete, nevertheless sufficient have been received to show certain trends, and certain disturbing and actually dangerous conditions which have a material bearing on Canada's war effort, and the committee feels that if these conditions are pointed out, the farmers themselves will do everything in their power to arrange corrective measures.

out their trial they feigned insanity, but a psychiatric commission appointed by Governor Herbert Lehman ruled they were "hysterical with fear," but legally sane.

Anthony seemed relaxed as he entered the death chamber, seemingly unaware of his fate, but his jaw dropped as the guards strapped him in the chair.

William's eyes were wide open as he was wheeled along the hall toward the death chamber, but as he reached its threshold, he shut them quickly and clenched his fists.

In the chair, he gave further evidence that he knew what was about to happen. He drew his lips tight and clenched his fists so that his kunckles stood out like ashen bones.

Harvey Council Passes Accounts

BUCKHORN, March 13.—Harvey Council met in True Blue Hall, Buckhorn with members all present. The following accounts were ordered paid:

Mrs. Brown, groceries, $20.00; M. B. Hall, salary, $15.00; Municipal World supplies, $19.78; Wordle Finnie, wood, $9.50.

The rates of Lloyds Workmen's Compensation Insurance were quoted by Mr. Payne, Lakefield, and the Council decided to carry on with the said company. By-law 556 was given its final reading to increase the wages of the road superintendent, and ordered sent to the Department for approval.

The meeting adjourned to meet again at Buckhorn on Saturday, April 4.

Cattle Gain 25, Hogs Drop 20 On Toronto Mart

TORONTO, March 13.—(CP). —Cattle prices were from 25 to 50 cents higher on the livestock market here this week, with a good clean-up at the close. Hogs dropped 20 to 35 cents cwt., veal calves, lambs and sheep were steady.

A light opening run of cattle was swelled by truck deliveries to a fairly liberal offering by the close. The trade was brisk with weighty steers making a new top of $11.10 for one load with several lots at $11. Other steers sold downward to $9.75. Butcher steers were $9 to $10.75 and heifers $9 to $10.25. Fed calves sold at $10.50 to $11.50 with some at $11.75. Butcher cows sold at $6.50 to $9.50 with heiferish cows at $9. Bulls were $8 to $9.25 with most sales above $8.75 A few light stockers sold at $8 to $9.25 cwt. Good milkers and springers brought $100 to $115 each.

Veal calves were unchanged at $14 to $16 for choice. Common lights sold downward to $8 and the bulk of the vealers moved between $13 and $14.50.

The hog market was unsettled most of the week with packers offering a flat bid of $15.25. Most sales off the market were made to small buyers at $14.50 up to Wednesday with the closing bulk price at $15.35. Sows were steady at $10.75 dressed.

OBITUARIES

ETHEL MAY ANDERSON.

TWEED, March 13.— (ENS). —Succumbing to a stroke suffered on Sunday, Mrs. Ethel May Anderson, wife of John Henry Anderson, 3rd concession of the township of Thurlow, passed away at the Belleville General Hospital on Tuesday. She was in her 56th year.

The late Mr. Anderson was born in Deloro, the daughter of Mrs. Jane Andrews and the late John Andrews; and had lived in Point Anne for some time before moving to the 3rd concession of Thurlow about nine years ago. She was affiliated with the United church.

Surviving to mourn her passing besides her husband are two sons, William A. Anderson of Thurlow and Earl Anderson of Point Anne; one sister, Mrs. Mary Holland of Timmins, and three brothers, John Andrews, Belleville, and William and Thomas Andrews of Rawdon township.

JOHN CRAWFORD

MARMORA, March 13.—(ENS)—The funeral of the late John Crawford was held from his late residence on Thursday morning to Sacred Heart Church, Marmora, and was largely attended. High requiem mass was sung by Rev. H. J. Farrell.

The pall-bearers were John A. Bell, James Jones, George Forestell, Donald Shannon, Laughlin Hughes and John Finnegan.

Interment took place in Sacred Heart cemetery.

MRS. ANNIE TRYON

TWEED, March 13 — (ENS) —Mrs. Annie Tryon, wife of Mr. Nelson Tryon, Kaladar, died in the Belleville General Hospital on Thursday morning. She was sixty-six years of age and had been in ill health for some time.

GEORGE MIGHT

MILLBROOK, March 13 (ENS)—George Might, a resident of New Toronto for the past 29 years, died on Tuesday in the East General Hospital, following a car accident at Birchcliffe, and was buried with semi-military honors on Thursday in Park Lawn cemetery. A detachment from Camp "M" sounded the Last Post at the graveside.

Deceased was born at Millbrook 65 years ago, the Might family connection having taken an important part in local history from pioneer days. He lived for some years in Peterborough, and almost thirty years ago moved to New Toronto, where his home had been ever since. He retired from his position as an engineer on the C.N.R. last Stepember, and was on his way to report for duty in a new job in the munition factory at Pickering, because, according to his personal statement he "wanted to do his bit to help the war effort," when the accident which proved fatal occurred. The car, which he was driving, accompanied by John Lawson, 59, of Allandale, Ontario, went into a spin on the slippery road, causing collision between two cars following including a crash against the guard rail, while the Might car continued to skid, and slid backward across the road, bringing it into the path of a truck. The latter hit the left side of Mr. Might's car, with serious injury to both driver and passenger, the former's death occurring just one hour after being admitted to the East General Hospital, Toronto.

The immediate surviving relatives include the bereaved widow, Nora Buckley Might; there daughters, Eunice, Wilma and Nora, all at home; two sisters, Mrs. (Rev.) C. E. Cragg of Toronto, and Miss E. L. Might of Peterborough; also one brother, Percy G., of Toronto.

Mr. Might's military record dates back to the Spanish-American War; and in the First World War, when he was with the 15th Battery. The funeral service was held in St. Margaret's Anglican Church, which was filled to overflowing with friends and comrades, and was conducted by Rev. M. G. B. Williams, M.A., formerly of Millbrook, assisted by Rev. C. E. Cragg, brother-in-law of the deceased.

A unit of Branch 3, Canadian Legion, accompanied the funeral procession, to the place to interment at Park Lawn Cemetery. Those attending the funeral from this locality were Miss Estelle Hetherington and Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Might, cousins of the deceased.

MANCHESTER KETCHESON.

TWEED, March 13 — (ENS). —The funeral of Manchester Ketcheson, who died at his home on the 2nd Concession of Sidney Township, on Sunday, took place on Wednesday afternoon, and many friends were present. The service at the home and the graveside in White's Cemetery was conducted by the Rev. W. E. Mercer pastor of White's United Church.

The pall-bearers were Benson Bonisteel, Ernest Curtis, Bleecker Myers, William Yateman, William Jeffrey, and Richard Ketcheson.

The late Mr. Ketcheson was born 79 years ago, in the Township of Thurlow, and was a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. John V. Ketcheson. For some years he farmed in Thurlow Township and about 55 years ago he moved to Sidney Township where continued farming.

Surviving him are his wife, who prior to her marriage 53 years ago, was Miss Inez Westfall; one son, Casey Ketcheson, Sidney Township; two daughters Mrs. E. L. Cameron of Cleveland, Ohio, and Mrs. L. Bell of Toronto.

MAIN STREET TOPICS

IN THE AIR FORCE

Cliff Cruikshanks, former manager of the Scarfe Paint Store in this city has received his call to the air force. He leaves this week to go into training at Manning Pool, Toronto, and will probably qualify to take a course as a fighter pilot. He is a member of the Kinsmen Club.

CASE DISMISSED

"It looks like a case where the court has been used as a collection agency," commented Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., in Police Court this morning after it was stated that the private prosecutor in a charge against Leonard Natelli of stealing a number of orchestral arrangements wished to drop the charge. Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry stated that he had no objection to the dismissal of the charge.

NO CHANGES MADE

There has been no changes in the foreign exchange control board regulations, and all persons receiving American silver or bills are required to sell it to the Bank of Canada through the bank nearest them. A premium of ten per cent will be paid on both silver and banknotes. There is quite a bit of American money in circulation now because of new employees at the C.G.E. who have come from the States, and the government needs any money they may have put in circulation. In brief it is illegal to hoard this money, to send it out of the country, or to take it out of the country.

WEARING THE UNIFORM

Jack Nicholls, acting vice principal of the King Edward School was granted leave of absence for the duration by the Board of Education at the meeting last night. Lieut. Nicholls is reported to be slated for the post of adjutant in the Prince of Wales Rangers, and is now on active service having passed his medical. He leaves at once for St. Johns, Quebec, to take an advanced training course before assuming his new duties. Inspector Wightman spoke highly of this man's record as a teacher, and urged that every consideration be given him. Leave of absence was granted and he will be paid until the end of the month.

A STIRLING RECRUIT.

A story from Guelph Wireless School to-day indicates that F. H. Barnard of Stirling is among the graduates. He received his wings as a wireless air-gunner and moves along with the others now to a new school to complete the specialized training.

A FINE RESPONSE

Subaltern Phyllis Lawrence reported this morning that quite a number of girls had telephoned seeking enlistment in the Canadian Women's Army Corps. Subaltern Lawrence and Volunteer Jean Metcalfe will be in the city until Saturday night or Sunday morning.

FINED ONE DOLLAR

Pilot Officer Jack Cowling, former tennis champion of the city reported today that there is a standing rule in the air force, that every time a commissioned officer gets his picture in the paper he must contribute one dollar to the officers mess.

SPRING HAS ARRIVED.

Tiny crocuses, hardy harbingers of spring, are reported to be blooming in a flower bed at the south side of Dr. G. R. Penhall's house at 560 Bolivar street. The warm sun of the past two days has brought them along fast, and it is interesting to note that there is a hockey match slated for to-night and flowers are blooming at the same time.

ARRIVES OVERSEAS

Lieut. Sam Patte, 24-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Patte, 813 Water street, has arrived safely in Britain with the last convoy to dock. He was instructing at the local training centre for some time, then was transferred to a similar post at Petawawa. Prior to that he trained with the Prince of Wales Rangers.

RECEIPTS CLIMBING

Ken Smylie, chairman of the Kinsmen Milk for Britain Fund reported to the Club on Thursday evening that during the past four months the sum of $3,287.00 had been raised for the fund, and added to this the Kinnettes have raised $250. The most recent donation was $50 from a resident of Cleveland who spends the summer in this district.

SEES BROTHER'S PICTURE

Provincial Constable Archie Grayling of Havelock got a surprise when he glanced at a picture in the Examiner, showing a recent ceremony at the Beaver Club in London, in which the Duchess of Kent took part, and saw that the soldier who appeared prominently in the photograph was his brother, Corp. Louis Grayling, who is in England with a Canadian tank unit, and is leader of a band which performs at and is broadcast from the Beaver Club.

A VITAL QUESTION

Proof that parents are neglecting to instruct their children in the care of the teeth, and are failing to see that proper care is taken of the teeth is indicated in the percentage of cases needing treatment in local schools. The report tendered the Board of Education on Thursday evening by Dr. S. J. Graham indicates that in the Prince of Wales School, 77 per cent of the children require treatment. At King George it is 80.6 per cent and at King Edward, 73.2 per cent.

IN THE NAVY

Enlistments in the navy by Peterborough boys continue at a fast rate and the latest news reveals that ten more from this city have chosen the blue uniforms of the Navy: Robert Jackson, 177 Dublin street; Michael O'Donoghue, 449 Rogers street; Gordon Fee, 586 Harvey street; B. Johnston, Lakefield; D. Vance, 610 Bethune street; William Sage, 536 Edison avenue; J. Stewart Gardiner, 62 Sophia street; E. Dorrington, 16 Victoria avenue; Don Craig, 424 Rogers street; Frank Adam, 114 Dufferin street; and Gordon Courneya, 63 Olive avenue.

FANCY PACKAGING

Peterborough Business Men's Association went on record Thursday night as not favoring fancy packaging of parcels for such seasons as Christmas, Easter, and weddings and Mother's Day and so forth. It was felt by members at the meeting that business men could not afford to use fancy boxes, in view of the present emergency. Under an order, fancy wrapping had to be curtailed. It was pointed out that fancy packaging for Easter goods has already been requisitioned in many stores for this year.

HAS THE SAME NAME

Pte. Robert Garvey, of Hazlitt street, now serving in the local Training Centre is not the Robert Garvey who was named as being in a car accident a few days ago.

MILK FOR BRITAIN

J. A. MacDonald of the Royal Bank announces the following donations received for the Milk for Britain Fund: $25 from the Peter Robinson I.O.D.E. Chapter, $50 in American funds from a friend in the United States and $50 from the Fortnightly Club.

STUDENT JOINS AIR FORCE

Robert Kay, popular fifth form student at the Collegiate has been accepted as a radio-mechanic in the R.C.A.F. He was active in the Camera Club and before this year was on the rugby and basketball teams. He is one of the first students to enlist this year.

THREE SIGN FOR R.C.O.C.

Three men were accepted for service with the Royal Canadian Ordnance Corps Thursday and were sent to headquarters of that unit. They are Eldon Harrison of 617 Rubidge street, Peterborough; C. Trollope, Birdsall Station and Roy G. Wood of 248 Munro avenue, Peterborough.

GRADUATES AT GUELPH

Sgt. Air-Gunner F. Arnold O'Heron, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. H. O'Heron, 478 Mark street is listed in the airmen who received wireless-air-gunner insignia at Guelph Wireless School today. He was stationed at the local training centre with the rank of sergeant on the A and T staff until last June. His father served in the last war with distinction as Sgt.-Major Herbert O'Heron, D.C.M., M.M., enlisting with the 93rd Battalion.

Red Patch Club Makes $80.85 For War Victims

The Red Patch Club, a group of veterans from the First Division of Canadian Army who served their country so well in the last Great War, in making a stand against an enemy who then, just as now, was seeking to conquer and destroy that heritage of freedom, is again serving but in a different way.

In the same spirit which governed their actions then, this same group sponsored Bingo games in the Canadian Legion Hall on Friday, March 6, to help the distress of air raid victims in Britain, through the City and district fund which functions for that purpose, and in this they were very successful, for the splendid amount of $80.85 was realized which is credited to them in this day's list of receipts for the fund, bringing the amount now required to send the 16th donation of £500 to England down below the $200 mark.

This marks the second time this year that the Club has given help to this fund, and there is no doubt that just as they persisted in good work for the Empire cause 25 years ago, so they will keep on in the same spirit now until the day of victory dawns. H. G. Kelsey is the president of this Club, E. Mesley the treasurer, and Robert Hendry the secretary, while Art Nokes was chairman of the committee which so successfully carried out this effort on behalf of the fund.

One personal donation is listed today, this also being a repeat of former assitance given to help the people of Britain through this fund.

St. Patrick's Dance and Draw

The employees of the Canadian Department Stores who have on three previous occasions substantially assisted in the work of the fund, are now sponsoring a Dance to be held in the Kawartha Golf and Country Club on Tuesday next to celebrate the patron Saint's Day of Ireland, to which the admission fee is $1.50 per couple, with all the net proceeds coming to fund. Music will be supplied by Jimmie Duffus and his orchestra, and this will also be made the occasion for the draw to be made for a mantel set model five tube mantel radio which they have been selling tickets for at 10c each or three for 25 cents, from which all the net proceeds will also come to the fund.

Previously acknowledged	$38,247.39

Major George Melton Arrives In Britain

Cabled advice received on Thursday by Mrs. G. R. E. Melton, 620 Charlotte street, indicates that her husband, Major George Melton, has arrived safely in Britain.

Major Melton spent four years with the C.E.F. in World War 1 and served in France with the 21st Battalion. He will be remembered here for his long association with the Prince of Wales Rangers. Last year he was appointed to the directional staff of the Royal Military College at Kingston, and he has now been posted to special duties overseas.

In civilian life, George Melton is an accountant and he was formerly employed at J. K. Hughes' garage.

First To Sign With Rangers

First officer to enlist with the Prince of Wales Rangers since they were ordered this week to mobilize for active service was 2-Lt. J. G. Nichols. He left Thursday for St. Johns, Quebec, where he will take a month's course in Canadian Army School administration. Lt. Nichols was vice-principal of King Edward School and has been with the Rangers since September, 1940.

Harran Case Decision Is Reserved

Judgment was reserved by Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., Thursday afternoon after the hearing of a charge against Reginald Harran of abducting a fifteen-year-old girl without the consent of her father.

The proceedings required morning and afternoon sessions of the police court and considerable evidence was heard.

It was shown that the girl in question had been placed as a boarder in a home near Lasswade. Dr. J. C. Smith of Apsley called as a crown witness said that Harran and a woman who had been introduced to him as the girl's mother, had called on him and the woman had asked him to look after the girl.

In his evidence Harran stated that he had loaned the girl's mother some money with which to pay for her board and other expenses.

Douro Youths Steal Auto

Seventeen-year-old Joseph Robinson, Douro township, pleaded guilty before Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., in police court this morning to a charge of stealing an automobile from Charles Young, in Douro township.

Robinson was the older of two boys arrested Wednesday by Toronto police, a few hours after the theft of the automobile had been reported here.

The other boy, a juvenile, appeared later in juvenile court and his case was adjourned until Monday.

Robinson, at the request of Crown Attorney McElderry, K.C., was remanded until next Thursday.

The stolen automobile was found in a damaged condition near Oshawa.

Soviet Mogul Killed

MOSCOW, March 12 (AP)—Mikhail Kartushev, 38, vice president of the Soviet Commercial air fleet, was killed today in a plane crash at Uzbekstan, east of the Caspian Sea.

Backing Auto Onto Highway Costs Man $97.50

When Franklin G. Curtis, a Norwood weaver, who is employed in Campbellford, backed his automobile out from a private laneway on to Highway 45, just as a truck came along, he was performing a much more expensive operation than he at the time imagined.

In the first place there was a collision between his automobile and the truck, resulting in $75 damage to his car and $10 to the other machine.

On top of that Curtis had to face two charges before Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., in police court this morning.

He pleaded guilty first to careless driving and Provincial Constable Archie Grayling who laid the charge gave evidence as to how the accident happened.

"That is particularly dangerous," commented Magistrate Langley. "I don't think this is a case for the minimum." Robinson was fined $7.50 and $2.50 costs and after he had also pleaded guilty to a second charge of driving without a license, he was fined $10 and $2.50 costs.

No Inquest Be Held Into Copp Drowning

No inquest will be held into the death of William Copp, 17-year-old Havelock youth who was found dead Thursday in the basement of De Carlonis fruit store on Charlotte street, Dr. E. P. Snider, coroner, said today.

Copp's body was discovered half submerged in a square wooden tank containing about a foot of water where he had been washing vegetables. Mrs. Frank Asta made the discovery about 1.45 Thursday afternoon when she failed to get an answer after she called him.

Dr. Snider said he believes the youth suffered a weak spell and was probably unconscious when he slumped over the tub, although immediate cause of death may have been drowning. The youth has been living in Peterborough six months and was employed at De Carlonis' store about two months.

Obituaries

MRS. E. J. ALLEN.

Funeral serivce was held Thursday morning at 9 o'clock for Mrs. Margaret Allen, widow of Edmond J. Allen, at St. Joseph's Church, Douro, where, Requiem High Mass was sung by the Rev. J. J. McCarthy. He delivered an appropriate sermon on death and extended his sympathy to the bereaved family and relatives.

Mrs. Allen was a lifelong resident of Douro Township. She was possessed of a quiet and kindly disposition which made her a friend of everyone. This was evidenced by the many people who attended the funeral services to pay tribute and called at the home of her niece, Mrs. Victor Kennedy, from where the funeral took place to extend their sympathy to her bereaved family.

The many spiritual tokens presented gave further evidence of the goodwill and esteem enjoyed by the deceased.

She leaves to mourn her loss two sons, Hubert and Norman at home and two brothers, Frank and George Whibbs of Douro.

Interment was made at St. Joseph's Cemetery, where Rev. J. J. McCarthy conducted the services.

Pall-bearers were John Torpey, Jerry Dwyer, Bart Allen, Augustus Whibbs, Joseph O'Connor and P. J. Towns.

MISS JENNIE GIBSON.

The death occurred today at her residence of Miss Jennie Gibson, 463 Parnell street, following an illness of five weeks. She was born in Devonshire, England, a daughter of Mrs. Betsy Ann Gibson and the late John Gibson. She had resided in Peterborough about 50 years and was a member of the Salvation Army.

Surviving are her mother, two sisters, Mrs. Joseph Mackness, Peterborough; Miss Amelia Mae Gibson, Kingston; five brothers, John William and Ernest of Peterborough; Bert of Toronto, and Lawrence of Camp Borden.

The funeral will be held Saturday afternoon from 463 Parnell street, at 2.30 p.m. with Adjutant Norman Buckley of the Salvation Army officiating. Interment will be made in Little Lake cemetery.

Four Officers Fail To Pass Medical Board

Four officers whose names are bywords in the annals of local militia history are today trying bravely to conceal their disappointment at having failed to pass the medical board for service with the active battalion of the Prince of Wales Rangers. Their disappointment is tempered by the knowledge that it is fully shared by Lieut.-Colonel J. A. Dewart, M.C., E.D., officer commanding the newly organized active unit here, and under whom each of the four served for a considerable period.

Three of the officers concerned saw active service in the Great War, while the fourth who was not old enough has a proud record of service with the Canadian Active Militia. They are: Lieut.-Colonel M. H. Park, V.D., who will take command of the 2nd Battalion of the Rangers; Major V. M. Eastwood, M.C.; Major J. P. McGrath, M.M., and Capt. L. C. Gilders.

Paying tribute to these officers, Colonel Dewart stated, "I deeply regret that they are unable to serve with the Active Force unit. Since the reorganization of the Regiment in July, 1940, they have given invaluable service and have made a very important contribution to the success of the Regiment. My regrets at their inability to go on active service will be shared by their brother officers and by the men who served in the companies they commanded."

Joined Up With 59th.

Lieut.-Colonel Park enlisted in the 59th Battalion C.E.F. in World War 1 and was later transferred to the Royal Flying Corps in which he saw service as a flying instructor in Texas. On recovering from injuries received in a flying accident there he continued to serve with the 39th Battalion C.E.F. until his demobilization in 1919. Since his return to civil life he has been continuously associated with the local militia here as indeed have all the other officers mentioned.

Major V. M. Eastwood, barred from active service now on account of wounds received in World War 1 originally enlisted in 1912 with the old 57th Regiment. He received his commission with the 93rd Battalion prior to going overseas, and saw active service in France and Belgium with the 18th Battalion Western Ontario Regiment to which he was drafted.

In April, 1917, he was awarded the Military Cross for conspicuous gallantry in action at Vimy Ridge and in November of the same year was severely wounded at Paschaendaele.

On demobilization he resumed his militia service with the Peterborough Rangers and in 1926 went to the Reserve of Officers.

At the outbreak of the present war he came back on the active list of officers and since reorganization of the Prince of Wales Rangers in July, 1940, has been officer commanding "C" Company of the unit.

Went Over With 39th.

Major J. P. McGrath another native son of Peterborough, has service with the 57th Regiment ante-dating the last war. He went overseas with the 39th Battalion and saw considerable service in France and Belgium with the 2nd Battalion ("The Iron Seconds"). He was wounded in action and was awarded the Military Medal for bravery in the field. Like most of the senior officers of the unit he provided the backbone of the Canadian Militia through lean and discouraging years and did so at personal sacrifice. He has had a continuous association with the Regiment since his return from overseas, and ever since reorganization of the Regiment in July, 1940, has commanded "D" Company.

Lieut. L. C. Gilders, who was too young for service in the last war, enjoys an enviable record of service with the militia, first with the 4th Machine Gun Battalion, and with the Peterborough Rangers and Prince of Wales Rangers. Since reorganization of the latter unit in July, 1940, he has been second-in-command of "A" Company until his recent transfer as second-in-command of Headquarters Company under Lieut.-Colonel Park. He has been highly regarded as one of the most efficient machine gun officers of the Regiment.

First Program Over CHEX On March 30

Permission was granted the Peterborough Examiner to use the Collegiate auditorium on Monday, March 30, for the opening broadcast of the radio station CHEX. The application was made by Harold L. Garner, manager of the Examiner, at the regular Board meeting held Thursday evening.

He explained that the Examiner would run a permanent wire to the auditorium, and hoped to use the auditorium as a studio for the opening broadcast. This was deemed advisable because so many people had asked for tickets to see the first broadcast that no other place could be found which would accommodate them. The wire, he said, would then be available at any future date, should it be desirable to broadcast from that building.

He also asked for permission to use the gymnasium for a dance the same evening, pointing out that the orchestra which would be here for the opening program was a top-ranking band, and many would want to hear it and dance to its music. Anticipating objections from the Board, Mr. Garner gave them his assurance that the floor would be put in as good condition after the dance as it would be prior to using the premises.

After some discussion, it was decided, on motion of D. V. Canning and Dr. Moir, that permission be granted to use the gymnasium on the understanding that the floor would be reconditioned and on the assurance that the renter would be responsible for the proper supervision during the time the gym was being used.

New Routes To China

WASHINGTON, March 12 (AP)—Dr. T. V. Soong, Chinese Foreign Minister, said after a call on President Roosevelt today that an ambitious plan for new routes to China to surpass the traffic volume of the Burma Road should be realized "in a few months."

He said that soon the new supply lanes should be bringing China as much assistance as the Burma Line that has been severed by the Japanese.

Two Teachers Ask Leave To Join Army

Two members of the teaching staff in city schools applied on Thursday night to the Board of Education for leave of absence for the duration in order to serve with the Prince of Wales Rangers.

Jack Nicholls, acting vice-principal of the King Edward School, who is reported to be slated for the position of adjutant in the Rangers, was given leave of absence for the duration. This man has passed his medical and leaves at once for St. Johns, Quebec, to take an advanced training course, before assuming his new duties. He holds the rank of lieutenant at present. Inspector Wightman, in speaking on the application, paid high tribute to this man's work as a teacher, and he urged that every consideration be given to him. Leave of absence was granted and his pay will continue to the end of the month.

Captain H. A. Craig of the Collegiate teaching staff, who has also passed his medical in the same unit, also applied for leave of absence. This was granted on the same plan. Dr. Kenner, when asked if he could obtain a supply teacher, said Captain Craig's wife was a duly qualified teacher, and a specialist in mathematics, and that she had volunteered to teach until Easter, when other plans would be made.

D. G. H. Melton, H. G. Walker and Secretary-Treasurer Jack Huggins were given authority to select windbreakers for the rugby players in the Collegiate who played on the winning team during fall competition. This bit of work has been kicked back and forth for several months, and already several of the players have left school.

A suggestion from the chairman that the Board seek to have the Urban School Trustees' convention in this city in 1943 was turned down. It would mean bringing upwards of 300 people here for three-day session.

Dr. A. Moir suggested the Board should start to practice economy in the use of paper, and he wanted the Board to discontinue supplying each member with a copy of the minutes. Mr. Huggins said it would be possible to use both sides of the paper, and the Board approved this suggestion for once to see if it is practical.

On motion of G. W. Craw and Dr. Moir, the property committee was given authority to have one room at the Queen Alexandra fitted with special blackout blinds so that the projector could be used. The Property Committee was also given authority to call for tenders for fuel and to proceed with the work authorized in the estimates making certain repairs to the various schools.

Camps Needed To Punish Nazi Prisoners

Failure of the Canadian authorities to provide punishment camps for German prisoners of war who escape was suggested by Col. Hubert Stethem, former officer in charge of internment operations as the main reason so many prisoners attempt a get-away. Speaking before the Kinsmen Club at the Empress Hotel on Thursday evening, Col. Stethem delivered a talk that sparkled with highlights of his work, and brought to the guests a picture of the many problems which face the men controlling and guarding the hundreds of prisoners of war and internees of war in Canada.

"If guards are alert and on the job there is no excuse for an escape, but at Bowmanville the German officers have nothing to lose by trying it, because we have no punishment camp, and they are returned to the same camp. Germany herself approves of punishment camps, and if a man tries to escape he is sent to one of these in some distant spot where privileges are few. You cannot give collective punishment to any group because one attempts to escape, but as a matter of security the compound may be made smaller, or certain privileges which might make escape easy may be withdrawn. The only other solution as I see it would be to put the boy scouts in charge," the Colonel said.

Peculiar Set-up

Internment operations in Canada have a rather peculiar set-up in that one organization is responsible for the maintenance, feeding, hospitalization, transportation, etc., of prisoners while the Dept. of National Defence is responsible for the guarding of prisoners and if there is an escape, the internment operations branch cannot even have the guard reprimanded who is responsible.

That is the job for the commanding officer of the military guard, from the inferences in Col. Stethem's remarks it would appear that one supreme group to look after both jobs is highly desirable.

Col. Stethem, who had been in charge of internment operations until an accident several months ago, which forced him into retirement was introduced by Lorne Bateman, past president of the Kinsmen Club. The speaker, who saw service on many fronts in the Empire as an Imperial soldier, traced the advances made in the treatment of prisoners of war since early days.

Early Treatment of Prisoners

"In the earliest times treatment of prisoners was left to the discretion of the individual commander and as warfare was particularly cruel at that time, prisoners were either killed or enslaved. Later in the Middle Ages, Christianity and the spirit of chivalry brought about certain customs of war, and it was realized the prisoners of war were the property of the State and not of the individual captor.

In 1874 the first conference was held at Brussels, and while it was never put in treaty form, nevertheless the articles discussed there form the basis of existing rules of warfare, and treatment of prisoners. In 1906, the International Red Cross came into existence following a conference in Switzerland at Geneva, and the following year at the Hague Conference about 40 nations ratified the treaty dealing with the use of poison gas, bombing of open cities and so on, and Japan was a signator of these terms. The war of 1914 was fought under these rules, but only 17 articles dealt with the prisoners of war, and the rule did not include the privilege of Red Cross inspection of internment camps. This rule was brought into existence in 1929 and about that time Japan dropped out of the League of Nations, and although her representatives sat in on the conference they did not ratify the terms as laid down, hence today they will not permit Red Cross officials or a neutral power to inspect camps holding combatant prisoners of war.

Treated Same as Soldiers

Col. Stethem said that at the start of this war, a convention was held which set forth exact prisoner treatment, type of food, clothing, accommodation, hospitalization, and this must be the same as the depot troops. In brief it means that German prisoners of war should get the same army food as British soldiers, because they are British prisoners, but actually they get the Canadian standard which is better. A copy of the convention rules must be posted in each camp in the language of the prisoners, and the prisoners must have access to it. Actually Germany is anxious to see that her soldiers are well treated in prison camps, and her interests in Canada are looked after by the Swiss government. This referee has wide privileges, he may inspect camps at any time, may talk with prisoners alone, and the prisoners have the right to communicate freely with him.

Canadian officials and British officials have the assurance that British prisoners of war are getting good treatment in Germany and the prisoners in Canada get everything they are entitled to under the Convention rules.

Building Roads

The speaker told of the quick action which Canada took in rounding up enemy aliens in September, 1939, and many potential saboteurs were taken out of circulation, less than 10 hours after Italy had declared war. These men are now building roads, doing bush work and other equally valuable work at 20 cents a day and their board.

"The airmen of Germany are the hardest to handle," said the Colonel. They are arrogant, and sarcastic and their average age is 22. They are supermen and regard the army soldiers as riff-raff. Hitler youth training is very evident. Their idea of war is that nothing must interfere with the attainment of a war objective. Sentiment must not interfere and the theory is best illustrated by one statement from a submarine commander now in a camp. "If I looked through a periscope at an enemy ship, and saw my wife and children standing at the rail, I would still order the men to fire the torpedoes," nothing must interfere with the war. Actually these men in their own way are carrying on a total war behind the bars, and they believe in causing as much trouble as they can."

Telling of the extreme cunning of these men, Col Stethem showed saws, compasses, candles, knives and even a full size wood carving of a man's head which the prisoners had made unknown to the guards. "The guards count the table knives after every meal, yet the prisoners were able to steal 28 knives before the mass break some time ago" he said.

He added too that the shadow of the Gestapo hangs over every camp, for many of the older officers and particularly the Navy men would undoubtedly co-operate more in better behaviour if it were not for the presence of gestapo agents and rabid young Nazi officers and men who would see to it that punishment would be meted out when they return to Germany.

The thanks of the Club was voiced by Dr. Ralph Honey, who expressed the belief that Canadian prisoners of war would be equally ingenious, and during the course of his remarks he called on those present to do their bit in the teamwork to overcome the enemies facing us today.

A pleasant little ceremony took place at the meeting, when Norm Elliott, president of the Club, called on A. L. Elliott, M.P.P., first president of the Club to present honorary memberships to His Worship Mayor Hamilton and His Honor Judge Sheldon Smoke.

As Red Army Began Offensive To Drive Nazis From Russian Soil

Wartime censorship and wartime transportation being what they are, it has taken all this time for this possibly historic picture to reach Canada, via Moscow and London. It shows infantrymen of the Soviet Red army making their first attack of the counter offensive that has smashed the legend of Nazi invincibility. These men recaptured Rostov-on-Don, key city to the Caucasus oil fields. They haven't taken a backward step since.

Better Service Is Sought From Railroad

Peterborough Business Men's Associated is going to aid Peterborough Bus Lines with its congestion of traffic during peak hours when factory workers are coming off shifts and shoppers are going home. Laurie Mitchell, manager, Thursday night told the association meeting that because factory workers and shoppers were trying to get home at the same time, the company was finding it difficult to handle them.

"I would suggest that shoppers use the hours between 9 and 11.30 in the morning, and 1.30 to 4.30 in the afternoon. I am asking you to assist us by placing in your ads, reminders that shoppers co-operate with us in this matter. A government official could step in and tell us what we are to do with regard to serving war workers going to and from work. He might also say what hours stores would remain open," said Mr. Mitchell.

He reported that a new bus is expected here next week and three more by next November. "We may be able to give a ten-minute service then. Chris. Hughes asked Mr. Mitchell if he did not think that a cheaper rate during the hours mentioned would not entice more people to shop at off peak hours. Mr. Mitchell said he was not prepared to say whether the company would make such a reduction.

The association went on record as favoring the suggestions of Mr. Fitchell, and to recommend to merchants that they include reminders in their store ads for people to shop at off peak hours.

Two members of Lindsay Chamber of Commenrce addressed the meeting with a view toward getting better train service through Lindsay by the added help of the association. G. O. T. Gamble said the coaches furnished by the C.N.R. were not of the best. "We have no Sunday train service at all," he said. J. G. Baldwin said it has been "intimated by the C.N.R. that they could offer better service and we want them to know we want it."

Fred Overend reminded the meeting that the C.N.R. is scheduled to tear up tracks on the Peterborough-Port Hope run. "If they do, it will be suicide," he said. "It would be a good idea for Peterborough and Lindsay to get together for a united effort in an attempt to hold that line for Eastern travel.

"A year from now, if you want to go to Port Hope you will have to walk. Gas is being rationed and rubber tires are becoming scarce," said Mr. Overend. "You could use a horse and buggy," said one of the members. "You can't even buy a buggy now," he replied.

J. J. Doris, secretary, was instructed to get figures on travel over the Peterborough-Port Hope line before another protest is made to the C.N.R. over the abandonment of the line. On a motion of Charles Kingan and Chris. Hughes, the association will cause a letter to be written the C.N.R. asking for a better coach service over the line passing through Lindsay and Peterborough. Lindsay delegates promised to aid Peterborough in its plea for continuance of the Peterborough-Port Hope line, which is of mutual interest.

Part Of Barn's Roof Taken Off In Storm

Ottawa May Give Students More Assistance

OTTAWA, March 13 — (CP). — Active government consideration is being given to the possibility of extending increased financial assistance to deserving university students, it was learned Tuesday.

The Defence Department is working on the broad details of the new program following a recent conference here between representatives of the Labor Department, the Defence Departmnt and daans of university medical faculties.

"We're working hard on this problem," one official at defence headquarters said, "and we hope to have a concrete announcement before very long."

Pending a formal announcement, little information was available on the proposed new policy beyond the understanding that the Defence Department is working along the general lines of a government assistance scheme which has been operating since the spring of 1939.

Under the Youth Training Plan, the Labor Department and the Provincial Governments co-operated in a plan whereby each advanced equal sums of not more than $100 to deserving students of good academic standing.

The money was forwarded as a straight gift and all students proceeding to a degree except theologians were eligible. But only Prince Edward Island, Quebec and the four western provinces participted in the scheme.

Up to $300 a Year.

Last year the Department offered to increase the assistance to a maximum of $300 a year to students in science engineering and medicine courses who would sign an undertaking to assist the war effort after graduation in a manner deemed fitting by the Government.

Only Quebec and British Columbia took advantage of the new offer but their participation represents a Dominion-Provincial investment of approximately $50,000 undertaken on behalf of some 300 students.

Problems facing the medical student received publicity early in January when the Medical Society of the University of Toronto proposed to the Government that medical students in the last three years of their courses "be permitted to enlist at once, as trainees, in medical units of the Navy, Army or Air Force," completing their course at Government expense before going immediately into the armed services as doctors.

Had Perilous Flight Over Germany

Pilot-Officer W. B. Brown, Victoria, B.C., LEFT, was the pilot and Pilot-Officer Thomas Dench of Kingston, Ont., RIGHT, was the observer of a Hampden bomber in a recent raid over Germany. On reaching their target they found their bomb doors had jammed. Twice, in the face of intense flak, they made runs over the target, but the doors refused to budge. On the third run the doors opened and the load was dropped. But their troubles were not over. Another barrage of anti-aircraft fire left one engine unserviceable and a petrol tank was pierced. They made the return trip of 300 miles on one engine and landed at their airdrome with petrol tanks virtually empty.

Friends Honor Norwood Couple

NORWOOD, March 13—(ENS).—On the occasion of their 49th wedding anniversary, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Robb were at home to their friends during the afternoon and evening on Saturday, March 7. The many gift bouquets lent a spring-like atmosphere throughout the house. As well as the numerous friends who called to extend their good wishes, many from a distance sent greetings.

Assisting in welcoming the guests were Mr. and Mrs. Robb's two daughters, Mrs. J. M. Thomson of Owen Sound and Mrs. Reta Pakenham of town, also Mrs. J. Humphries, Miss Pauline Weir, Mrs. H. G. Carleton and Mrs. F. Webster. The tea table with its lace cloth was attractive with yellow roses and yellow tapers. Tea was poured by Mesdames J. G. Keefer, R. G. Lawlor, William Robb, and W. E. Pakenham, and those serving refreshments were Miss Ruth Pakenham, Mrs. R. K. Tedford, and the two granddaughters of the home, Dorothy and Frances Pakenham.

From among the guests who were present on this occasion, five were in attendance at the wedding forty-nine years ago, including William Robb, who was his brother's groomsman. Mrs. W. G. Scott, who was her sister's bridesmaid, was unable to be present on account of ill-health.

Miss Young Is Hostess To Havelock W.M.S.

HAVELOCK, March 13—(ENS)—The monthly meeting of the Women's Missionary Service was held Thursday afternoon at the home of Miss Annie Young, with a good attendance. The worship service was conducted by the president, Mrs. George Chiles, taking the theme "The Lord's Supper—the Covenant of Our Faith." The meditation was given by Mrs. Charles Spencer, "The Meaning of the Lord's Supper in My Christian Experience." Mrs. J. W. Wilkinson sang a solo, "O Holy Father, Who In Tender Love," accompanied by Mrs. Harry Watson at the piano.

The Supply secretary, Mrs. Anderson, read a letter regarding the articles required for the bale, which is to be ready for June 1. On motion, it was decided to hold the Easter thank-offering on Sunday evening, April 12. The Temperance secretary, Miss Young, mentioned in her report, that everything in food lines was rationed, except beer, in England. The study book chapter, "The Chinese People Rise," was given by Miss Mary Seeney, which dealt with the crisis in the history of China, 1922-27, when the revolution reached its climax, and all but six of the church's missionaries were evacuated. The Chinese Christians were severely tested, but they met the test gloriously and became the stronger for their sufferings. Mrs. J. Kinnaird led in prayer for the missionaries and the Church of Christ in China.

Women Set Pace In War Plants With Great Skill

(By RUSSEL LANDSTROM.)

LONDON, March 13—(AP).—At a time when most octogenarians are spared as much of the rigor of war as possible, some half-dozen women—the oldest of them 86—are working in a Midlands factory helping make small parts for airplanes.

They're known to their fellow employees as "the grannies."

Their grit and stamina are a quiet inspiration to all.

They work eight-hour shifts, six days a week, and not infrequently put in a half-day extra.

Special privileges? None would affront these women now by suggesting favors merely because of their age. Their performance has been described as altogether acceptable and at times distinguished considering their years.

Excellent sources say it has been established that women could do 80 per cent of work in aircraft factories. The Ministry of Aircraft Production has said women actually are doing 50 per cent of the work in many engine plants.

It is a common sight these days to see one woman operating a half-dozen or more semi-automatic machines, and factory visitors see girls virtually assemble engines.

They seem to have inexhaustible reserves of cheerfulness, forebearance and ruggedness under their femininity. They'll bore holes for hours or apply themselves to riveting with no loss of lilt.

In Many Roles

But the actual mechanics of manufacture are only a part of this story of what many women—their numbers cannot be given, for security reasons—are doing in this province of aviation.

Research, design, testing, inspection and repair—these are facets reflecting some of the finest technical skill in Britain.

At a north Midlands factory, all-women crews under women supervisors repair crashed service planes.

They dismantle a plane, fit new parts, and reassemble the machine, preparing it for the test pilot.

Originally the crews were mixed, but the policy was unsuccessful, as men felt they were superior workers. With separation of the sexes, the work leaped ahead.

Mrs. Aubrey Brueke, 32-year-old granddaughter of First Lord Aberconway, and mother of two small daughters, is manufacturing plane parts requiring extraordinary accuracy. She is an engineer with unusual qualifications.

Two Boys Drown

KINGSTON, Ont., March 13. — (CP).—Two 10-year-old boys of Cole Lake, 30 miles north of here in Frontenac County, were drowned late Wednesday, it was learned this morning.

The two boys, Floyd Peters, son of Mr. and Mrs. George Peters, and Lorne Kehoe, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Kehoe, were playing on the ice of a pond near their home.

When the boys failed to return home from school a search was started. Their dinner pails and mitts were found on the ice near the open water.

Men of the neighborhood continued the search and the bodies were found in a few feet of water.

BOOST RABBIT PIE

LONDON—(CP). — British food experts advocate breeding of rabbits for rabbit pies as another means of taking up waste vegetation in fields, gardens, parks, and helping the nation's wartime food supply.

They Just Keep Rolling Along

Motorcyclists of the Soviet Red army are shown leading a column of armored cars on the far-flung front where the Red army set the Nazi war machine in reverse and has kept it operating that way through the winter. The armored cars are painted white to blend in with the snow-covered terrain.

Municipalities To Pay 25 p.c. More On Relief

TORONTO, March 13—(CP).—Commencing April 1, all municipalities will pay on a 50-50 basis with the Ontarno government for relief costs, Hon. Farquhard Oliver, Minister of Welfare, said yesterday in clarifying his previous announcement. Heretofore, the province has paid 75 per cent. and the municipalities 25 per cent. of costs.

Municipalities will continue to pay administrative costs which have been considered a responsibility.

The province agrees, however, to pay 50 per cent. for increased food costs and also 50 per cent. of cost of non-admittable items. Heretofore, municipalities have been paying 100 per cent. of these costs. Subsequently, the municipalities will gain in these, although it is agreed their total relief costs share will rise. Many municipalities have been allowing increased food allowances which they have totally paid for, heretofore, including special diets, medical care, etc.

Where the cities will gain, it is pointed out, is in the government's provision for medical attention for those receiving old age pension and mother's allowances. Under an agreement with the Ontario Medical Association, those receiving medical attention will be able to call their own physician, and the cost to the province for this is placed at $750,000 to $1,000,000. Under the previous system it was found that when a doctor was called the patient was removed to hospital because they had no means to pay, and while in hospital the cost was paid by the municipalities.

DID YOU TAKE A LAXATIVE TODAY?

Do you really know why constipation is so harmful?

You probably know that constipation sets up poisons in the large intestine or colon. But do you know that these poisons seep through the walls of the colon and infect the bloodstream? They set up toxic accumulations in kidneys and liver and are contributing causes of rheumatic pains, sciatica and backache.

Most laxatives only act in the colon. Kruschen does more. It is the laxative with a double action. Besides ridding the colon of stagnating waste matter, Kruschen's mineral salts have a diuretic action. They flush the kidneys, help to clear the bloodstream of all poisonous matter, and so protect your whole system from that form of infection.

You can get special value now in Kruschen. Ask your druggist for

A Boon To U.S.?

WASHINGTON, March 13.—(AP)—Edwin C. Banninger, president of the Steel and Scrap Iron Institute, said today that large scale shipments of American metal to Japan "may work out to the benefit of the United States in the present war."

He told a United States House of Representatives military sub-committee that the ready supply of United States scrap metal available to Japan prior to the embargo of 1940 may have prevented large scale development of Japanese blast furnace facilities for exploiting the iron deposits of Manchukuo and other Far East areas.

KINGS ROW

By HENRY BELLAMANN

A LONELY LIFE

CHAPTER XXVII

Parris slipped quietly into the work of the hospital. The place seemed at once familiar and a refuge. Kings Row had terrified him at first. Through the years of his absence he had remembered it with a short of filial affection. It had been a shock, a most unsettling shock to come without any preparation whatever upon the actual truth. He felt that his most treasured memories had betrayed him.

Inside the great asylum all of this feeling left him. This was rather known territory. He was rather astonished at first to see how superior all American equipment was. The scrupulous hygiene, the smooth efficiency in all mechanical and material phases of adminstration, were a professional delight after the poverty and sometimes almost impossible working conditions of comparable institutions he had seen abroad.

Dr. Nolan welcomed him so warmly that he had almost a sense of homecoming. Dr. Nolan, he found, was intelligent and progressive. The general staff was not well enough trained. Parris saw at once the evil hand of politics. But he thought little of this at the time. He found himself happier than he could have believed possible.

Outside the "asylum," as Kings Row continued to call the State Hospital, he was less happy. He had no points of contact with old acquaintances. Drake had been his real concern. Parris saw him three or four times a week. Without Drake suspecting it in the least, he had begun the application of all that he knew to a restoration of personality. So far everything went well. Drake was at times almost like the impudent, half-jeering lad who had said goodby to him at the station more than five years ago.

Drake was now definitely started in business. Randy's own project for the reclaiming of the old neglected creeek bottoms had been put into effect. Randy was to do the actual work. Drake was made to feel that the entire administration of the undertaking was his own.

Snow was flying over the hard-frozen earth before Parris began to feel that he was really settling into his own place. Yet with most of the townsfolk he felt uneasy. They were impressed with his charming manners as they had always been; newly impressed with his deep seriousness; a little bewildered by his foreign ways. They did not know that he was shy, in Kings Row, as he had never been before.

In Herr Berdorff, his old music teacher and pastor at the little German parsonage, he found a friend. But visits there, evenings with Drake and Randy, and self-losing work at the hospital and with Dr. Nolan, were not enough to dispel the uneasiness he felt—the fear of returning to old haunts. Too sharp were his remembrances of his old home; of Renee, and the "secret lake"; of Dr. Tower; of Cassie and that evening before her death.

Too disturbing, too, were events like the argument he had with the Reverend Cole of Presbyterian Church—his old church, services attended with his grandmother so well remembered. Cole was a bigot, he decided, and no man to be leading idle minds. They met in the office of banker Patterson Lawes, and before many moments their words were sharp, with Cole quoting Scripture and Parris retaliating.

"I've read the Bible—in four languages. I suspect it has its place as much in my work, sir, as on your own."

That winter Dr. Henry Gordon died, and Parris was surprised to find himself one of the honorary pallbearers.

It was the largest funeral Kings Row had ever seen, with the Presbyterian church crowded to the last seat of the high gallery. Parris endured the penance, for his belligerence, of hearing the Reverend Cole preach a lengthy service on "a great physician who was also a humble man of God."

Parris, certain that most of it was directed at his own head, let his attention wander. He noticed that Louise was not present. Perhaps she was ill. He remembered that she had never cared vry deply for her father probably had never forgiven him for separating her from Drake. Still, it was strange that she wasn't there, although Mrs. Gordon's grief seemed to compensate for the absence.

After the funeral Parris left the cemetery on foot. It was a stony-cold day, and the afternoon was darkening rapidly.

He stopped bfore the little German parsonage. He could see the warm, steady lamplight and the flicker of firelight, too, through the stiff lace curtains. He rang, and Herr Berdorff himself answered.

'Ach, I am glad to see you today. "What are you doing out in such weather?"

"Funeral."

"Ach, yes. Dr. Gordon. Let me hang your coat here. Come into my study now and have a cup of hot coffee. I always read how people die catching cold at other people's funerals."

"You're a cheerful prophet, Professor. But I'd love the coffee."

Parris sank gratefully into the deep chair before the open fire. It was peaceful, and quiet, and comfortable here — oddly withdrawn and Old World here in this little town far from all of the traditions and ideas which made the life of this scholarly, obscure German preacher.

"Tell me, you like this asylum work?"

"Very much."

"You do not regret the music?"

"I practised all the time I was in Vienna."

Herr Berdorff sat up. His eyes were shining.

"You don't say so? You did not tell me this. You practice now, too?"

"I bought a Bechstein in Germany."

"Ach, so?"

"I'll be coming around for you to heard me, and help me again."

"Maybe you do not need me now."

"Just as always."

Professor Berdorff was immensely pleased.

"I miss you, you and the little Lichinsky."

"You know I saw Vera several times."

"You wrote me in your letters. And her concerts were good?"

"Very good. In fact she's pretty well known everywhere now, but—"

"Yes? What?"

"A rather peculiar thing happened shortly before I left."

"To Vera? I have heard nothing."

"Well, she was slated for an appearance at the Mannheim festival during the summer. She came to see me and seemed to be very much upset about something. She canceled her date there, and one or two others. I thought she was on the very edge of a breakdown—she's been playing a lot—and I sent her to a doctor. She looked a little wild-eyed, and talked about not playing this year."

"And you have not heard more?"

"I went to see her father. He said she was having a rest."

WARNING!

AVOID DOSING CONSTIPATION!

TRY ALL-BRAN'S "BETTER WAY" TO CORRECT THE CAUSE!

This delicious cereal helps give more than temporary relief!

Don't let common constipation "get you down"! Get at the cause of the trouble. If yours is the common type due to lack of the right kind of "bulk" in the diet, try correcting it by enjoying a crisp, delicious cereal regularly . . . KELLOGG'S ALL-BRAN.

ALL-BRAN supplies your intestines with the "bulk" you should have to keep regular. Eat it every day . . . as a cereal with sugar and cream or in delicious muffins . . . drink plenty of water, and see if your "troubles" don't vanish! But, remember, ALL-BRAN doesn't work like purgatives . . . it takes time. ALL-BRAN comes in two convenient sizes at your grocer's. Or you can get it in individual serving packages at restaurants. Made by Kellogg's in London, Canada.

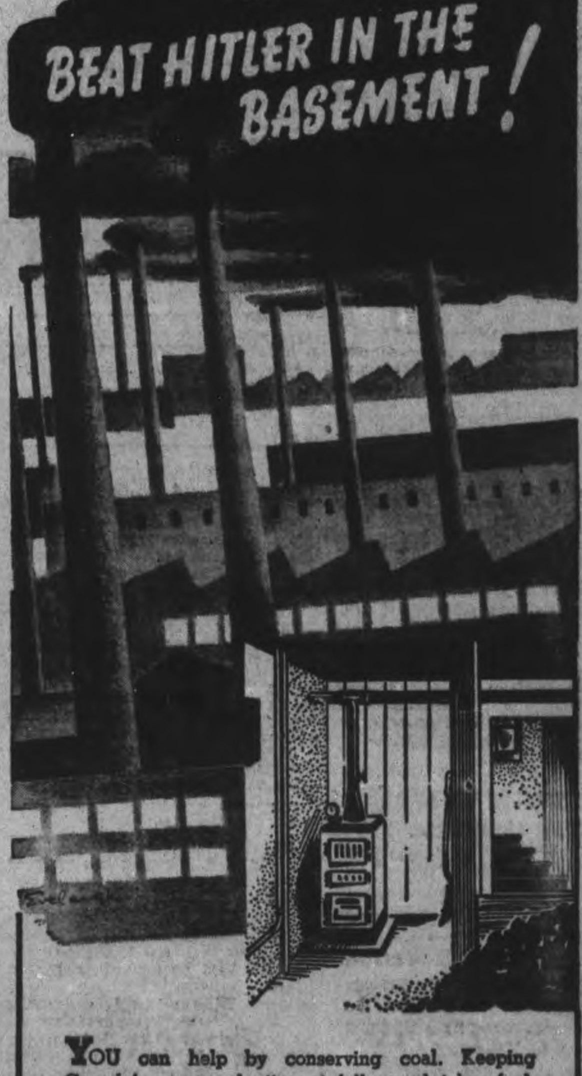
"Serve by Saving! Buy War Savings Certificates"



YOU can help by conserving coal. Keeping Canada's war production at full speed takes fuel, and plenty of it!

Everything you do to conserve fuel is another blow for victory. Find out how you can cut down your heating bills—in your own interest, and in the national defence!

TEN/TEST Rigid Board Insulation is one way to conserve fuel, and a very economical way too! Not only does it insulate against the loss of costly heat through walls and roof, but it stands as a rigid barrier between the cold wintry weather and your home comfort.

If you plan to build or remodel, make sure to choose the insulation that gives the maximum service on all counts . . . It should be strong and brace the building against strains and stresses . . . It should seal the walls and ceiling against winds and drafts . . . It should stay "put" and not settle or seep and leave uninsulated spaces within the walls.

TEN/TEST meets all these requirements—and more. That's why it is often referred to as the "Balanced Insulation". It has all the important insulation requirements combined in one product, and in proper balance. Moreover, TEN/TEST is a lifetime insulation—not just this year—but for the life of the building. Keen Interest Is Being Taken Nursing, First Aid Classes

Up to the reorganization of the Ladies' Division of the Peterborough branch of the St. John's Ambulance Corps last September, there were only ten fully qualified members in the city. These girls had earned their certificates by studying by themselves and receiving what instruction and assistance they could from the men.

Since September ten more girls have become fully qualified members, making a total of 20. As the St. John's Ambulance is a peace-time as well as a war-time organization, these girls, in order to maintain their membership, will be obliged to take a course of 12 lectures and a re-examination every year.

Since the reorganization 23 girls have passed in First Aid and 45 are now in training; 16 girls have passed the Home Nursing examinations and 25 are now taking the course. It is hoped that by early summer a large group of fully fledged members will be ready. If any girls not already enrolled would care to take the home nursing course, there will be extra classes given in order that they may catch up on the past lectures.

The classes are progressing rapidly and the girls are interested and enthusiastic and apply themselves eagerly to the work.

Anyone who is interested and wishes to make further inquiries should telephone one of the following people: after 6.00 p.m. only, Miss Mary Greer, 6868; and Miss Ivy Watkins, 8393; at any time during the day, Mrs. Max Sloan, 3978; Mrs. M. Pringle, 6569.

Ladies Organize Auxiliary To The Air Force

Mrs. E. Wand presided at a meeting of wives, mothers and other relations of Air men in the green room on Thursday afternoon, when they met to discuss the possibility of forming in Peterborough an Auxiliary to the Air Force, similar to the Women's Auxiliary, R.C.N.V.R.

Mrs. J. Carr explained that several wives and mothers of Air men had wondered why there was no auxiliary to the Air Force boys, and if there was any possibility of one being formed. It was suggested that, if such an organization were formed, it would remain a social, rather than a service organization, and would assume no heavy financial responsibilities. It would be a common meeting ground for those women who had men in the Air Force, and its members would send parcels and comforts to the boys from Peterborough who had enlisted in the R.C.A.F. or the R.A.F.

It was decided to organize, with relations of Air Force as members, and others who are interested as associate members. The following slate of officers was elected: President, Mrs. George Graham; vice-president, Mrs. G. H. Roper; recording secretary, Mrs. C. McWilliams; corresponding secretary, Mrs. H. Connolly; treasurer, Mrs. S. C. Lang, Jr.

Mayor James Hamilton, who said a few words of encouragement to the ladies, was elected an honorary member of the Auxiliary. Mr. F. G. Mann was also present, and said a few words of encouragement.

SUGARLESS PUDDING
(From England)
¾ cup of stoned raisins
1 cup suet
1 cup of flour
Salt
1 egg
½ cup milk

Cut the raisins in half, chop the suet finely, sift the flour and salt and stir in the egg well beaten, and then add the milk and raisins and suet and stir. Grease a mould and fill it not more than three-quarters full with the mixture. Cover with greased paper and steam for three hours, then turn out and serve.

Like most steamed puddings this needs a sauce, but it's no good saving sugar in making the pudding, and then using a whole lot in the sauce. Try heating the extra juice. There usually is some from a bottle of your own preserves, peaches or raspberries or the beautiful red juice of damson plums. You can thicken it with corn starch if you prefer it that way, though personally I like it thin.

CREAMED BAKED APPLES

Peel and core some medium sized apples and put them in a baking dish with a lump of butter and a little sugar in each one. Bake in a medium oven for twenty to twenty-five minutes. Mix together 1 tablespoonful of flour, the yolks of two eggs, 1 cup of milk, 2 tablespoons of sugar and half a teaspoonful of vanilla. When you have stirred this till it is quite smooth, heat and let boil for five minutes, stirring all the time, then fill each apple with this cream, and serve. These apples should be cooked long enough to be soft but not falling apart. For this reason the length of time in baking depends on the sort and size of the apples used.

Pupils Present Three-Act Play

LAKEFIELD, March 13 (ENS)—"Engaged by Wednesday" the three-act play presented by the pupils of the Lakefield High School in the Memorial Hall on Monday evening drew a capacity audience. All parts were well taken and the characters had been happily chosen. The stage was a garden scene, with lawn chairs and shrubbery and was the same for the three acts.

The play opened on the lawn between the Persons and the Watson homes. Miss Abigail Persons (Helen Kelly) had just received a letter from her niece Lucille (Jean Millar) saying she is coming home and bringing some friends with her. The plot of the play lay in the scheming of Miss Persons and her neighbor, Mrs. Watson (Maryalyce Renwick) to have the former's niece and the later's son Arthur (Stafford Hill) engaged and married before they leave for Europe the first Saturday in September. It is seven years since Arthur and Lucille have seen each other and as a means of identification at a dance planned for that evening Lucille's aunt says she shall wear a blue dress with black bows.

Arthur, when informed of the arrangement by his mother, does not believe Lucille will have him, and so with the help of his friends Jack (Fred Binnington), Ted (Paul Butcher), and Dick (David Spence) plans to entertain and keep her guessing as to whom she is really with. Meantime, the boys, of course, did not know that the girls have similar plans, and a general mixup results as four girls with blue dresses and black bows meet four similar-clad boys at various times, and firstly attempt to find out who is who.

Much excitement is caused by the appearance of two gypsy women (Betty Lake and Lillian Calberry), who craftily steal dresses, which Mary (Doreen Northey), the Persons' maid, is pressing.

The part of Martin Henry, known as the laziest man in the county, was ably taken by Ralph Millage. He it was who returned the gypsies and the dresses, also his prize pullet from Miss Persons' flock of hens.

However, the final scene saw a happy ending for all, with Lucille and Arthur finally recognizing each other. The friends of Lucille who aided her, although unwillingly, when they thought they knew the real Arthur Watson, were Marie (Joan Kelly), Jane (Mabel Hopkins), and Mabel (Muereta Hull).

One important character who took his part remarkably well and with no signs of stage fright, was Nappie, the small dog owned by Betty Lake, and which took the part of Jeremiah, Mrs. Watson's pet dog.

The program opened with the High School chorus, "You Can Fight for Canada," with Pauline Butcher as accompanist. Between acts a reading "An Irish Philosopher," was given by Barbara Brown, and a piano duet, "Bright as a Button," played by the Graham sisters, Shirley and Jean.

Much of the credit for the evening's success is due to the untiring efforts of the staff, Principal J. F. Harvey, Mrs. H. Stabler, L. Minshall and J. Aymer.

Red Cross Class In War Emergency Ends First Series

A very satisfactory and enlightening series of lectures and demonstrations came to a close last night. For eight weeks the Red Cross has been giving to a class of 40 instruction in the do's and don'ts of in case of any emergency. Certificates proving attendance of 90% of the lectures were given to 85% of the class.

The keen interest and concern of serious minded women who realize fully the possibilities of enemy attacks on Canada by air raids was shown by the regular attendance at these lectures. This class was limited to 40 so as to enable personal supervision and individual instruction to be given to everyone.

The appreciation of the Red Cross home nursing committe and the class was voiced by Dr. R. K. Magee at the conclusion. Mrs. W. Perks and Mrs. F. J. Lynch, conveners of this committee, were assisted by Miss G. Connolly, Miss J. Deyell and Mrs. Hubert Eastwood.

Dr Magee spared no time or effort in preparing and giving a series of instructive and constructive lectures. Too much cannot be said in appreciation of this.

A quizz was held after each class and everyone present was given an opportunity of practice. The splendid accommodation afforded the class by the Y.W.C.A. was greatly appreciated. A second series is commencing on Thursday, March 19 under simlar supervision. Dr. Magee has kindly consented to give his services again.

THE STARS SAY . . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Saturday, March 14

The affairs of this day may move at a lively pace, and much may be gained by cleverness, keenness, quick judgment despite sudden and upheaving predicaments as well as surprising and baffling reversals or setbacks. While astute and shrewd management may avert real disaster or defeat, yet the mind seems attuned to rashness; it would be well to consult with elders or superiors.

Those whose birthday it is may find themselves in a lively and active year, with much stirring of interest and promise, but suddenly there may arise frustrating irregular and surprising situations that might spell downfall and definite defeat. This calls for keen insight and intuitions logical and sound judgments and tactics and may be hopelessly jeopardized by emotional, impulsive, eccentric and reckless methods or extremes.

A child born on this day while having much talent and versatility promising success and prestige yet may have eccentric or irregular points of view militating against ultimate progress.

Jan Chamberlain to Visit City

JAN CHAMBERLAIN

Jan Chamberlain, the noted Canadian character sketch actress, is coming to St. Andrew's church on Tuesday, March 24th, to present a "one woman show" under the sponsorship of the Young People's Union.

Tucked away in her suitcase will be half a dozen characters she will portray on the platform. Among numerous characters she will present a sketch of an English char who bravely faces peril in a London underground shelter during an air raid. Then she becomes in turn a sophisticated actress of the Gertrude Lawrence type, a fussy, old school teacher who appears in "The School Concert," and a gum-chewing sales-girl in a department store.

Jan Chamberlain doesn't use any scenery for her character sketches. Nor does she rely on music or stage hands or props. Alone, and using only bits of costume—a handkerchief thrown over her head, a shawl, an old overcoat, an apron—these suddenly transform the actress from one character to another. She prefers the solo dramatic work because he says she never has to worry about anyone letting her down. When she appears in a new city, people often ask, "Do you mean to say you put on the whole show yourself?" And Jan Chamberlain, who weighs less than 100 pounds, and is very blonde, smiles and says, "all alone."

Of Interest to Women

SPRING'S GOOD EARTH

By PRUNELLA WOOD

AMONG the fabrics of the old Paris which American women especially liked were the wools of Rodier. Remarkably soft both in texture and coloring, distinctive thread by thread, as it were, a Rodier fabric manipulated by an excellent designer became a model which one wore to the last fray.

There is considerable Rodier stuff still in this country and sketched today is a spring trotteur made from a wool Rodier tweed in a subtle brown and beige plaid combination.

Brown is a high style spring color . logical, too, if you remember how beautiful the rain-washed brown furrows look in April, after the snow-bound season just gone. Smartest accent color for it is invariably deep black.

Shirt and lining of this brown-toned plaid wool suit are of black silk crepe. Flange details on jacket and skirt attached by one edge only.

Marmora

Under auspices of St. Paul's Sunday school, the lantern lecture, "A Trip to Loon Lake" was given in Deloro Hall on Wednesday evening.

Mr. Sam Vhescko, who has been in Belleville Hospital for the past two weeks, returned to Deloro on Tuesday.

Mrs. S. McWilliams, who spent the past few months in Hamilton is visiting her sisters, the Misses Sullivan.

Mrs. Arthur Eggleton visited relatives in Toronto over the week-end.

A bingo was held in the town hall on Wedneday evening by the "Army-ettes."

SAVE THE PLASTER

DOROTHY DIX

DEMAND TO BE 'BOSS' RUINS MANY MARRIAGES

Wives and Husbands Who Give in to Each Other Are Rewarded With Happiness.

POETS and novelists have taught us that the perfect marriage is one in which the husband and wife are fused into one personality. "Two souls with but a single thought, two hearts that beat as one." That sort of thing, you know. It is an ideal impossible of realization, because men are men and women are women, and even love cannot work the miracle of making them think alike, or see things from the same point of view. Their sex, training, desires and purposes in life have made every man and woman a separate entity long before they meet those who become their mates, and the theory that marriage is going to change them into rubber stamps of each other is absurd. Yet, I doubt if anything is more responsible for what we call the "disappointment" in marriage than the widespread belief that the ideal union is one in which husbands and wives are duplicates who have the same thoughts and tastes in everything from politics to pie. Every bridegroom expects his bride to be just the echo of himself. Every bride never suspicions but what her bridegroom will be just a mirror in which she will see all her prejudices and opinions reflected. And when the young husband discovers that the gentle creature he married has ways of her own that he can no more change to match his own than he could the shape of her nose or the size of her mouth, he feels that he has been gypped and that he has missed getting his affinity.

The Rude Awakening

Likewise, when the young wife finds out that her husband's opinions are set in solid concrete and that they are not all her views on the subject, she wails out that she has been deceived, taken in, bamboozled; that she is married to a man who isn't what she thought he was, and that marriage doesn't come up to what she expected of it.

Worse still, another catch in this husband - and - wife- should-be-one theory is that both of them want to be THE ONE. The husband thinks that because he is the titular head of the house that his wife should have no ideas of her own whatever, no individual tastes or thoughts or desires. The wife is equally certain that her husband should enjoy the things she enjoys, want to go wherever she wants to go, and share all of her pet peeves and prejudices. When each tries to make the other over nearer to their heart's desire trouble begins, and the divorce court rings up another customer.

As a matter of fact, real love does not demand that a husband and wife shall be one. It is big enough and honest enough to recognize that they are two and to grant to each the individual right to be himself or herself, without molestation or going through the painful process of being made over to fit another's pattern of life, than which nothing is more humiliating or wearing on the nerves.

Each Wants to be Boss

It is obvious to the meanest intelligence that the continual arguments and spats and fights that make so many homes places of torment are the result of nothing but the determination of husband and wives to force their opinions on each other and to make the party of the other part do their way. There is no principle at stake. Neither one wants to do anything that is wrong, or that will endanger the stability of the family. It is just that the husband has determined to be THE ONE, and the wife is equally determined that she will be THE ONE who must be obeyed.

Why a man can't let his wife belong to clubs if she enjoys them; why he can't let her wear a do-funny hat if she thinks she looks ravishing in one; why he can't let her go to beauty shops and come home dripping with red paint if it makes her feel young and glamorous; why he can't let her make her dinner of a gooey salad and a chocolate eclair if she yearns for them, why if conceding her these privileges would make her happy and contented, nobody knows.

The Break For Freedom

Nor does anybody know why a wife risks the chance of sending her husband off to the Other Woman by always raising a row about his playing golf or going fishing, or listening to the radio at night, or having his horrid friends, who smoke vile pipes and scatter ashes on the floor, come and sit up half the night talking with him.

But they do. And the ironic thing about it is that in trying to be one they so often become two, because about the time a wife thinks she has gotten her non-musical husband inured to symphony concerts and a husband assumes the right to buy his wife's clothes, the poor victims of oneness rise up and chuck their marriage certificates in the fire and make a break for freedom.

The moral of all of which is: It can't be done. Husbands and wives are separate individuals and we have to take them that way, or leave them.

KINGS ROW

"It is too bad. She has really no brains, the little Lichinsky."

"Oh, now—".

"No. Not really. Musical she is, yes, very—talented. And a kind of blind genius for work, but I never found that she could think. I have had fears of her career, always."

"Why?"

"I do not know."

"She's already made a place in the best concert ranks."

"It is interesting. I must go by the jewelry shop to see her father. He has maybe late news."

Somehow the harshness of mood that had possessed Parris for weeks melted and fell away. He relaxed and rested his head on his hand. The Professor played for him several little tunes, with such simplicity and such artlessness that Parris had to make some effort to keep back tears.

Drake and Randy prospered during the next year. Parris watched over Drake with an anxiety that was not apparent to anyone except Randy. One thing she noticed particularly: Parris always led Drake away from reminiscence by appearing uninterested. More and more she saw Drake live in the present, and look with something like eagerness and faith to the future.

One evening as he was leaving he stopped at the door and looked quizzically at Randy.

"Do you suppose you could give me a cup of coffee? It's pretty cold."

In the kitchen Parris laid his hand on her arm. "Don't bother to make it. I just wanted to talk to you for a minute, anyhow."

Her eyes darkened a little "What's the matter, Parris? Is Drake—"

"He's all right. I just wanted to say that I think we've won in a very ticklish fight. I didn't know a year ago whether we could bring Drake back or not. I think we have."

"Bring him back? I don't understand, quite, Parris. Was he—?"

"Drake was more shattered in—not in his mind exactly—I guess I have to say in his soul than he was in body. Our job has been to bring him back to himself. You've done the biggest share of it yourself."

"I did just what you told me—as nearly as I could."

"You've been pretty wonderful, Randy. He's all right. He's just Drake, now. As normal as anybody can be expected to be. We can go on from here now treating him pretty much like anyone."

Randy began to cry, softly.

"Parris, you—"

"Drake was and is my best friend, Randy. Drake was just as necessary to me when I came back, as, maybe, I have been to him."

"You— I can't tell you—I can't say it!"

Spring Draperies to Make Yourself

Ribbons Dress Up the Valance

Charming are these gay chintz draperies—their graceful valance looped up with bright ribbons. And they're as easy to make as they're inexpensive!

For the side draperies, choose a figured chintz—for the valance, plain chintz. Stunning is an ivory pattern on a soft green ground combined with plain ivory chintz. Use ribbons of a darker green for valance and tie-backs.

How to make the smartly draped valance? Cut the fabric about twice as deep as you want the finished valance to be. Slant at each end and shape the lower edge in shallow scallops as in diagram A. Stitch up in soft folds, loop ribbons over stitches, according to diagram B. Top each ribbon loop with a perky bow.

Now tack the valance to a valance board—and it'll look trim as can be. Side curtains hang gracefully, too, if you make pinch pleats at the top, know such tricks as running a weighted tape through the bottom hem.

Other "professional" details? Our 32-page booklet gives step-by-step instructions, diagrams for many lovely drapery styles, valances, glass curtains. Suggests smart trimmings, fabrics, color schemes. Tips on cornices.

For your copy of "New Ideas in Making Curtains and Draperies" send 15 cents in coins or stamps to the Examiner, Home Service, Peterborough. Be sure to write plainly your name, address, and the name of booklet.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

WRITTEN FOR THE EXAMINER

By SHEPARD BARCLAY

"The Authority on Authorities"

JUMP ALL THE WAY UP

WHEN YOU have learned from your partner that he has good support for your suit, including enough general strength to make a free bid after an intervening overcall, and then the other opponent injects a bid of still another suit, your further action depends upon the type of hand you possess. If your strength is mainly in good high card holdings, there is no hurry. Then it usually will pay to go slow and give the opponents plenty of chance to bid some more, so you may score a profitable double. But if you have great distribution with minimum defensive values, you should shut them out of further bidding by jumping immediately as high as you can.

North: ♠ A Q 8 5 ♥ 9 6 2 ♦ Q ♣ Q 9 8 5 3

West: ♠ K ♥ A K J 5 3 ♦ J 10 8 5 2 ♣ J 6

East: ♠ 9 6 ♥ 10 7 ♦ 9 7 4 ♣ A K 10 7 4 2

South: ♠ J 10 7 4 3 2 ♥ Q 8 4 ♦ A K 6 3 ♣ None

(Dealer: South. North-South vulnerable.)

	South	West	North	East
1.	1♠	2♥	2♠	3♣
	3♠	4♦	4♠	5♦
	Dbl
2.	1♠	2♥	2♠	3♣
	4♠

Notice how South cut out further conversation at table 2 by jumping to 4-Spades, a very sound bid. Also notice what happened at the other table where South made a minimum bid of only 3-Spades on his second turn. That gave West a chance to bid his diamonds at a none too dangerous height. East could feel pretty sure, from the course of the auction, that his partner had at least five of them, so made his sound sacrifice bid with only three cards of the suit.

The 5-Diamonds sacrifice was set only two tricks, giving North-South a mere 300 points. The spade A was led for one trick, and later the defenders got three tricks with their high trumps, but that was all.

Where South jumped to 4-Spades over East's 3-Clubs, West didn't dare try to show his diamonds at the level of five. So North-South scored a vulnerable game, worth 620 points, losing only the first three tricks, to the heart K, heart A and a heart ruff.

98.2 Percent Of Cheese Made In Government's Premium Class

CAMPBELLFORD, March 13.—(ENS)—A seven per cent increase in production and an additional $1,300 in premium on high scoring cheese was revealed in a review of 1941 operations for the Cedar Creek Cheese and Butter Company. Built thirty-two years ago by the late Horace Way, who himself made cheese there for 35 years, the plant has now been sold for a reported $4,500 to Sam Hobbs. Mr. Hobbs, a maker for fourteen years, came to Cedar Creek from Brae factory in 1940, and the seventy-two patrons are all so pleased with the good job he did in making quality cheese last year that they are expecting an even bigger 1942 production.

An increased flow of milk contributed as much as the extra two weeks of production, to their total of 239,661 pounds of cheese. The factory handled 2,749,578 pounds of milk and made a pound of cheese for each eleven pounds of it. Fat yielded an average of 39 cents per pound and cheese (exclusive of bonus) brought 16.24 cents or a total of $38,778.97. Average price per cwt. of milk was $1.22.

Maker Hobbs production sheet showed only 20 undergrades for the season and an average score of 93.396 or 99.2 per cent first grade or over and 98.2 per cent in the premium class. The Dominion quality premium brought the patrons $3,264.21 and the two cents a pound Ontario bonus brought the total governmnt contribution to $8,353.25. From the total factory income which included the sale of cheese and cream and amounted to $47,094.67 they paid out $1,724 for drawing milk plus two cents a pound and one-half the whey cream to the maker as well as other expenses. Auditor Howard H. Ames was given $15 for going over the books kept by the secretary, Mrs. Fred Thorne who had an additional $25 attached to her annual salary that last year amounted to $103. Under his new contract Cheesemaker Hobbs will get 2½ cents a pound for the cheese, a quarter of the whey cream and furnish everything. He presided for the election of officers which resulted in Harry Sauva being named president and salesman at $60 and Harry Hodges, Clayton Taylor, Roy Brown, Morris Herrington, Arthur Chattan, Harry Reddom, Art Moran and Howard Oliver named directors.

Just A Few Of The Nazis' 1,500,000 Casualties On Russian Front

These German soldiers, taken prisoner at the south end of the far-flung Russo-German battle line, found that the Russian winter was one enemy against whom precision training in the art of killing was useless. All of them are suffering from frostbite, having been inadequately prepared for winter campaigning. Just how many of the 1,500,000 casualties admitted by the Germans on the Russian front were put out of action by General Winter is not revealed.

Production Up 14 Percent

In addressing patrons District Agriculture Representative Ian McLeod of Brighton said he was very pleased with the cheese production in Northumberland County this year which is up 14 per cent above 1940, and this was assomplished despite the fact the number of factories decreased from 21 to 20. He said increased production was not the result of diverting milk from the creamery but rather came instead from improved feeding that gave more milk per cow. In the 1940 season Northumberland cows yielded an average of 4,385 pounds of milk each while in 1941 the average was upped to 5,500 pounds. Another interesting fact he gave was that the county produced 60,000 pounds of cheese in January of the current year compared to the complete shut down of factories in 1941, and grading in both Ontario and Quebec for the week ending March 7 showed an increase of 433 per cent above that of a year ago. Of still more significance were his figures for the period December 1, 1941 to March 7, 1942 which was up 275 per cent over the corresponding period in 1940-41. Prospects for the remainder of 1942 look even brighter since a ten per cent increase in the total number of dairy cattle kept is indicated. Mr. MacLeod based this report on returns from a farm survey completed of four townships in Northumberland.

General Yamashita, of Japan, conqueror of Singapore, studied military tactics in Germany.

Irish Joke In Answer To Roll Call At Norwood Institute Meeting

NODWOOD, March 13—(ENS).—The March meeting of the Norwood Women's Institute was held in the Orange Hall.

The roll was called and responded to with the giving of an Irish joke, fourteen members being present. The secretary and treasurer's report was given, bills were ordered paid, and arrangements made regarding the purchase of needed supplies for carrying on the work of the Institute.

Mrs Oltment was named sewing convener.

Mrs. Innis had charge of the program, with Mrs. Golloher giving a reading, "An Appeal to Mothers." Two contests were conducted by Mrs. Oltment, and were won by Mrs. Morrison and Mrs. Earl spencer. Community singing was enjoyed and the meeting closed with the singing of the National Anthem after which lunch was served, and a social time enjoyed.

St. Andrew's Y. W. A.

The March meeting of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Young Women's Auxiliary was held at the home of Mrs. Godin.

The program was in charge of the president, Miss Ruth Wildman. The World's Day of Prayer for Youth was followed, and consisted of the hymns, prayers, and responsive readings. Several of the members took part in this.

The business meeting then followed, during which it was moved and seconded that $5.00 be sent to the Presbyterial.

Mrs. Morgan offered her home for the next meeting, and consented to prepare the topic.

Meeting was brought to a close, with the singing of the National Anthem and the benediction, after which the hostess served a dainty lunch.

A Riled City

RIO DE JANEIRO, March 13 —(AP)—An angry crowd of several hundred persons, some shouting "kill them!" broke the show window of a blacklisted German firm Thursday on Rio de Janeiro's main street, Avenida Rio Branca.

The outburst, directed chiefly at the German store, Casa Lohner, came just after noon and followed upon Anti-Axis measures taken by the Brazilian government.

REDS CUT RZHEV ESCAPE TO 15-MILE CORRIDOR

LONDON, March 14—(CP)—The neck of the sack the Russians are drawing around the Germans in the Rzhev-Vyazma area on the central front between Moscow and Smolensk is growing steadily narrower, a military commentator said today.

An unofficial report from Stockholm declared that the German areaway of reinforcement or retreat had been cut to 20 miles.

The commentator said Russian attacks in the South probably are being made by larger forces than in the North where heavy snow confined movement of the troops, except ski patrols, to highways.

The Germans are holding the front by fortifying virtually every village and using houses as pillboxes, he added.

"The Germans have large stores in the villages so they do not require daily maintenance," he said. "They hang on to these places and fight even when they may be cut off. They have an enormous number of anti-tank mines which they put out in the snow. Their positions are extremely difficult to attack."

Slaying 1,000 a Day.

MOSCOW, March 14— (AP). — Red Army troops have killed 14,000 Germans on the North-west Front alone in 15 days of general offensive operations and sporadic Nazi counter-attacks yesterday were costly and vain, the Russians said today.

"During March 13 our troops continued offensive operations against the German Fascist invaders, and advanced," the Soviet Information Bureau said. 'On some sectors the enemy made counter-attacks, which were repulsed with heavy losses to him.'

The Russians on the North-west Front have captured six more populated points, the Soviet Bureau of Information reported, while the Red Army in some sectors of the South-western Front inflicted severe losses on the enemy. Ski troops were said to have killed 1,500 Germans in one sector.

(A separate Finnish-Russian peace was hinted again in Helsinki. Vaino Tanner, Finnish Trade Minister, said there was reason to hope his nation's part in the war "will end very soon." He did not elaborate. Factors to be considered, however, include the possibility of an Allied drive into Finland from the Arctic Sea and the reported growth of a Finnish peace movement. Fighting on the 700-mile Lapland-Karelian front has been generally limited to aerial and patrol actions recently).

11 More Centres Freed

"One of our units on the central (Smolensk) front during the last few days liberated 11 populated places from the Germans," a Russian communique said. "The enemy suffered heavy losses."

Almost 1,000 Germans were declared to have died daily under Russian fire in the snows of the north-west front—roughly the area north of strategic Lake Ilmen—from Feb. 22 to March 10, boosting a total of more than 6,000,000 casualties previously reported.

The information bureau said 84 northwestern communities had been newly reoccupied by Soviet forces and that loot of the 15-day campaign included two railway locomotives and 14 cars laden with equipment, 157 field guns, 20 tanks, 617 trucks and five supply dumps.

Among 91 planes declared destroyed were 60 three-motored transports.

Enemy Sub Shells Two Ships In W. Indies Port

WASHINGTON, March 14—(AP)—Two, possibly three, more merchant ships have been torpedoed, and marine underwriters have raised war risk insurance rates for Atlantic coastal cargoes "as a direct result of the continued submarine menace in these waters."

The United States Navy announced yesterday the torpedoing of a small Norwegian merchant ship off the Delaware-Maryland coast, and a small U.S. merchant ship in the Caribbean area. The captain of the Norwegian vessel was killed and five men are missing. Fourteen survivors reached shore.

Torpedoing of the 7,005-ton U.S. freighter Texan was announced at Havana. Nine of the Texan's crew of 47 are missing. It was not known whether the Texan was the small U.S. merchant ship referred to by the navy as torpedoed in the Caribbean area.

An enemy submarine attacked Castries harbor on St. Lucia, British West Indies, on Monday night, damaging two ships and causing slight casualties, British authorities announced. The harbor is a considerable distance from the U.S. outpost on the island.

War risk rates on shipments between the West Indies and the north coast of South America and east coasts of Mexico, Central America and the United States were raised from $2.50 per $100 to $4.00 for tankers and from $2 to $3.50 on other vessels.

Underwriters made comparable increases in rates on shipments between the Gulf and West Indies and north coast South American ports and on other routes involving Atlantic Coast courses. The rate on tanker cargoes in the Pacific was moved up from 50 cents to $1 per $100.

Daily Surprise Raids Keep Axis Garrisons In Uproar

BERNE, Switzerland, March 14—(AP)—Despite recent official declarations that various parts of Axis-occupied Yugoslavia have been cleared of Yugoslav army units, Belgrade and Zagreb newspapers indicate increased activity as spring approaches.

Hardly a day passes that these newspapers do not carry news of surprise attacks on Axis or pro-Axis forces, raids on villages, sniping at trains and other disorders.

(Gen. Draja Mihailovic, who has resisted Germans, Italians and the Axis-sponsored government alike since Yugoslavia was invaded last April, was reported Feb. 9 to be recruiting additional men for his army of 20,000.)

The Belgrade press said 440 Yugoslav soldiers and 33 policemen were killed in a recent seven-day engagement near Toplica, about 15 miles east of Valjevo. Toplica is known as the birthplace of the unsuccessful 1917 revolution.

DNB, Germans news and propaganda agency, reported another important battle at Kursumlija, in southern Serbia. It said a unit which had hidden in the mountains during the winter attacked the town, overpowered police and killed residents, but was overwhelmed by a force of police and farmers several days later.

Slain By The Farmers?

Seventy soldiers were reported killed and 130 captured. Sentenced to death, the prisoners were seized and slain by farmers while they were being led to a place of execution, DNB claimed.

The Belgrade newspaper Obnova described another series of engagements in which 250 men were killed in a triangular area formed by Valjevo, Cacak and Uzice.

The paper said 75 more were killed near Lebane and 80 captured near Alesinac.

The Wienertagblatt said Sarajevo police captured 30 men, workers by day and soldiers by night, who had been attacking trains and ambushing officers. Wienertagblatt's editor made an appeal for "peace, order and work."

He said in a broadcast that paid agents of London and Moscow are "trying to drive Serbia into a blood bath by inciting civil war."

"Dark powers are beginning to agitate," he said. "I fear they could dig a grave for the Serbian people. The Serbian fate lies only in Serbian hands."

A Flanking Move

LONDON, March 14—(CP)—Japanese forces pressing the British defenders of Burma were reported today sending patrols northward in the Taikkyi area although the main body of the Japanese invaders was well south of that Burmese town.

A British communique issued in Burma said operations in the Nyaunglebin-Shwegyin area were proceeding satisfactorily. Nyaunglebin is on the Rangoon - Mandalay highway about 80 miles north of Rangoon and Shwegyin is about 10 miles southeast of that point.

Dutch Sacrifice Leaves Japs Little In Indies

LONDON, Feb. 27—(Delayed) — (CP).—The unprecedented thoroughness of the scorched-earth policy in the rich oil fields of the Netherlands East Indies turned them into a costly shambles and made it unlikely they would be of any value to the Japanese for some time, a Netherlands authority declared today.

J. B. Aug. Kessler, managing director of the Royal Netherlands Petroleum Company, which owns the greater part of the oil wells in the Netherlands East Indies, told of the extent of the destruction in an interview given to Henry Van Dam, staff correspondent of Aneta, Netherlands Indies news agency.

Kessler said that whole settlements were destroyed, that families sacrificed their homes and all they had in the world as their share in the effort to beat Japan.

"Each area was turned into an ocean of flame which gradually changed into a dismal desert of ruin," the oil official said, telling how oil tanks, pumping stations, power plants, pipe lines, storehouses, the conveniences of swimming pools, canteens, playing fields and theatres were destroyed.

88 P.C. of Oil In 3 Centres.

By wiping out the oil centres of Tarakan, Balikpapan and Pelambang, the Indies cut off 88 per cent. of the total oil available in the East Indies, it was said.

Kessler smiled grimly when asked whether there was any hope of the Japanese patching up these wells and getting at least a small quantity of oil within a short time.

"I don't think so," he said. "At Tarakan, of course, where the oil is such that it need not be refined, they might within a few months be

British Squadrons Sweep France, Year's Biggest Raid

LONDON, March 14 — (CP). — Royal Air Force bombers dropped "a great weight" of high explosives on the Rhineland city of Cologne last night in a continuation of the new pre-spring aerial offensive, the Air Ministry announced today.

Many large fires were left burning in Cologne, the centre of a maze of water, highway and rail transportation lines, the Air Ministry said, by this attack in force. Other raids upon Germany were implied in the statement that Cologne was "the main objective."

Four bombers are missing.

"Airdromes in occupied territory also were attacked during the night and mines were laid in enemy waters," the Air Ministry said.

Cologne drew attention after Royal Air Force squadrons had blasted the naval base of Kiel and pounded the German - occupied French coast in night and daylight raids.

Squadron after squadron of the R.A.F. swarmed over Northern France yesterday in the biggest daylight raids of the year and eight German fighters were destroyed in one fight alone, at the industrial centre of Hazebrouck.

The Air Ministry announced loss of five fighters during the attack in force.

A.A. Runs Wild Shells N. York

NEW YORK, March 14 (AP) — The first shell of the war fell on Manhattan yesterday, chipped a corner of a Wall street skyscraper and caused excitement in the financial district before officials learned the shot was fired accidentally from an American anti-aircraft gun.

Seven other shells were believed to have landed in the East River.

The hit on the 40-storey Equitable building at 120 Broadway knocked pieces of brick from a ledge between the 37th and 38th floors of the $28,750,000 structure, raining debris and shell fragments to the busy street below. No one was injured.

Fire Panic Kills 3 Women; 6 Hurt In Leaps

MONTREAL, March 14 (CP) — A death toll of three, with six in hospital was recorded today as the result of a short but devastating panic that accompanied a third-storey fire in a Cap manufacturing plant here yesterday.

Three women died and five were injured seriously when several of the 30 women workers in the plant rushed to a front window and attempted to reach safety that way, while others filed unharmed out of a back exit. One man was taken to hospital with burns.

The outbreak started in stacks of clothing material in the third floor piece workers' room of the Manhattan Cap Manufacturing Company on St. Lawrence Boulevard a short distance above Sherbrooke street.

The dead were tentatively identified as Mrs. Roger Hally, 25, Mrs. Alexina Lachance, 34, and Miss Marie Christine Joly, 35. Miss Joly was one of several women who fell to an icy pavement as she sought to crawl from the third-storey windows. The other two women were found in the building later, after having been trapped by the flames.

The injured women were among those who fell from the upper window. They were Mrs. Gaston Desfonds, who suffered fractures of both legs and wrists; Miss Delphine Rose, 50, fractured leg; Miss Lucienne Beland, 22, internal injuries; Miss Simone Pichette, 20, broken leg; and Miss Yolande Livernoche, burns and bruises about the face and body.

Hitler Plan Sees Japs In Africa

LONDON, March 14.—(CP).— A responsible foreign diplomatic source said to-day he had information that Hitler has proposed a grandiose scheme of world conquest to Japan involving an attack on Russia and a joint German-Japanese campaign in Africa.

The information was said to have come from diplomatic listening posts and agents in Europe and the Far East.

This source said he had "absolute verification" of reports that a Japanese military mission had been sent to Vichy-governed Madagascar off the African east coast.

Hitler's proposal to Tokyo, this source said, apparently involved these moves:

1. Japan would push on into India from Burma an at the same time attack South and East Africa to cut the British and American supply lines around the Cape.
2. Japan would attack Russia from Manchoukuo "when the time is ripe" in an effort to help Hitler

Fats Gone, New Nazi Requisition Reduces Norway To Famine Level

SAN FRANCISCO, March 14—(AP).—Radio Moscow quoted a Swedish newspaper in saying that Norway was on the verge of famine in a broadcast recorded here last night by the Columbia Broadcasting System's shortwave listening station.

"Norwegian soldiers have not received a single ounce of butter for many months nor have they seen eggs or milk," the broadcast said.

"White flour can be had only by a doctor's prescription.

"Northern Norway is in particularly hard straits, because of the absence of fuel and because stretches of coast water have been declared 'verboten' and fishing has practically stopped.

"In Southern Norway the situation is no better. There are reports that wild speculation in food products is flourishing throughout the area. The speculators cater to the Quislingites who receive official sums for their so-called activities.

"Fats have completely disappeared from the home market, for the Germans have requisitioned large quantities. The Norwegian population is denied even the food products of harsh necessity.

"There is not even herring margarine to be bought, all the remaining reserves of herring having been shipped to Germany.

"Now a new requisition of food products for the needs of the German army of occupation has been announced.

"It also has been reported that a few days ago Quisling issued orders for the confiscation of all articles made of nonferrous metals for the war needs of the German troops. Copper door handles, faucets, metal rails, etc., have been taken from offices, theatres and private homes."

Rear End Crash Kills Driver

OWEN SOUND, Ont., March 14—(CP). — Arthur Scott, 25, of Owen Sound was killed two miles north of Tara early this morning when the car which he was driving crashed into one driven by Russell McDonald of this city.

The occupants of the two cars were returning home from a dance at Tara. McDonald was forced to slow down by large quantities of water on the highway. Scott was unable to stop his car on the icy surface of the road and crashed into the rear of his friend's automobile. He died two hours later as the result of what is believed to have been a broken neck.

Only one other occupant of the two cars, Miss Irene Goodfellow, was hurt, and her injuries were not serious.

Claim The Queen Mary Hit

Had 10,000 American Troops Aboard Says Rome

ROME (From Italian Broadcasts), March 14 — (AP). — The Italian radio quoted "Argentine maritime circles" to-day as claiming the great British liner Queen Mary had been torpedoed and badly damaged several days ago shortly after leaving Rio de Janeiro with 10,000 "North American" soldiers aboard.

The radio claimed the Queen Mary was "attempting to reach the British base in the Falkland Islands."

(The United States Navy Department in Washington said it had no informaiton or comment with respect to the Italian broadcast.

(Axis nations fresuently broadcast claims of this nature in efforts to obtain information concerning movements of ships or troops.)

New Hopes Glimmer On Far East Front

Written for The Canadian Press by Maj.-Gen. Sir Charles Gwynn.

LONDON, March 14.—(CP Cable.)—Safe arrival of American convoys in Austraia and successes achieved by American submarines and Australian aircraft against Japanese shipping are good auguries even if with occupation of Java and Rangoon and landings on New Guinea the outlook in the Far East remains anxious.

Arrival of these convoys holds out hope of eventual counter-offensive and emphasizes the fact that through their long lines of sea communications and their limited, if still considerable, shipping resources, the Achilles heel of the Japanese may be found.

In my view the Japanese aim at present is to secure every base in the Southwest Pacific and the Indian ocean which might serve for that Allied counter-ffensive.

Australian Outlook.

The Japanese retain the initiative. India, Ceylon and Australia are all threatened and Madagascar cannot be excluded in spite of Vichy's reassurances.

It seems hardly conceivable that a major attack on Australia can be contemplated for the American navy would have operational bases there and American reinforcements of aircraft and ground troops are already arriving.

There would be little chance of the Japanese establishing air superiority to anything like the extent they have achieved elsewhere and their sea communications would be very vulnerable. On the other hand attacks with the limited objective of securing Port Darwin and more northern ports of Queensland and West Australia might certainly be attempted in order to increase the difficulties the Allies will experience in staging an ultimate counter-offensive.

Attacks on Northern Australia could be made under an air umbrella based at New Guinea, New Britain and Timor as well as with what could be provided from carriers. It is certain, however, that any Japanese landing in Australia would be subjected to counter-attacks far more formidable than have been possible elsewhere.

Facing Burma Dangers

Our eyes are fixed even more immediately on Burma and it may be that Generals Wavell and Alexander, no longer handicapped by the necessity of protecting Rangoon, will have greater freedom of action and will be able to concentrate their forces and co-operate still more closely with their Chinese allies.

The situation is evidently one of great difficulty but no two generals of their experience and characteristics could be more capable of dealing with it. It is reassuring to know that armored troops have made their appearance and that the air component of the force continues to operate with outstanding success. Obviously, however, loss of the Irrawaddy Delta must increase the difficulty of reinforcements both owing to lack of ports and the increased danger of Japanese naval action in the Bay of Bengal.

There is no change in the Libyan situation and it seems increasingly probable that Rommel may not attempt another drive until the Ger-

2-Inch Shell Fizzes On Red

Unique Operation Removes It, Soldier Lives

MOSCOW, March 14 — (AP). — An unexploded shell two inches in diameter was removed from the side of a Red Army soldier in a delicate operation unique in the history of surgery, the Tass News Agency reported to-day.

The soldier, Nikolai Bystrikov, is recovering.

He was hit in February by a German mortar projectile which penetrated his right shoulder and buried itself in his side.

Bystrikov realizing an explosion might occur at any moment, warned stretcher bearers away and tried twice to kill himself with a hand grenade, but was too weak to do so, Tass said.

The stretcher bearers carried him back to a field hospital, where Dr. M. M. Pakhman decided to operate.

The doctor ordered the staff to leave, but all insisted on staying to assist, and the shell was removed without incident.

NETHERLAND TROOPS CARRY ON LARGE-SCALE FIGHTING IN JAVA

Guerillas Carry Fight To Japs Over The Indies

By VERN HAUGLAND
Associated Press Staff Writer

MELBOURNE, March 14.—(AP). —Netherlands troops still are carrying on a large scale fight against the Japanese in Java, Sumatra and the Celebes, Lieutenant-Governor Hubertus J. Van Mook of the Netherlands East Indies declared here to-day.

"We are still in radio contact with Sumatra and hope to establish additional communication with Java," he said in an interview.

The Netherlands resistance might continue indefinitely, the Lieutenant-Governor said.

Van Mook said he had learned from a flier who escaped as the Japanese arrived in Bandung that the invaders had been delayed an entire day by the unexpectedly-successful delaying tactics of troops.

Without air protection, these troops had been expected to surrender quickly, he pointed out.

"Their valiant day-long struggle gave our force in Bandung many additional hours in which to escape.

"Japanese claims of capturing the entire forces are false and our men are fighting in the hills now.

Living Off the Land

"They are fighting a guerilla warfare which does not require huge munitions and supplies and can live mostly off the land.

"Though Java is not as large as Sumatra and Celebes, where our troops might be expected to fight indefinitely, I am sure they will prove a major source of trouble for the Japanese for a long time."

Bandung, former military headquarters of the N.E.I., was bombed last Saturday, it was said. Previously the airports and military objectives were the principal targets but the Japanese, roused by the staunch ground defence, finally turned loose a heavy attack upon the partly-deserted city itself.

Van Mook, who left Bandung last Saturday on the last available runway strip, came here from Can-

Drunk Driver Gets Seven Days

COBOURG, Marc. 14 (ENS) — J. Blaker of Alderville was found guilty on three counts when he appeared in police court yesterday. Convicted of drunk driving he was sentenced to seven days in jail; for not returning to the scene of an accident he received a fine of $25 and costs and for damaging his cell he was fined $2 and costs. He appeared before Magistrate R. B. Baxter. Blaker was arrested by Constable J. Elliston on March 10th after he had collided with a car owned by Thomas Kirk which was parked on Division street.

Everett Pypus, no address, convicted on two charges by Magistrase Baxter. He was found guilty on a drunk charge and fined $12.50 and costs, and was also fined $12.50 and costs for having liquor in an illegal place.

War Course Starts

COBOURG, March 14.—(ENS)— About 80 attended the opening lecture of the series being given at the Ontario Hospital on war emergency work, the initial lecture last night being given by Dr. W. E. Wilkins on "Fear in War Time." The lecture will be given weekly for eight weeks and will be given by the doctors of the town. Local nurses are demonstrating first aid in connection with the course. Miss Irene Shaw, nursing superintendent of the Ontario Hospital, Miss Edna Covert, assistant superintendent, and Miss D. Phillips of the Ontario Hospital gave a demonstration last spring on bandaging.

Telephone Vital In War Work

COBOURG, March 14—(ENS).— Some of the marvels of telephonic communication of the past and present were shown to Cobourg Rotary Club yesterday, when George Long, historian of the Bell Telephone Company, addressed the weekly luncheon of the club. Mr. Long had a considerable quantity of apparatus, some of it gathered from the company's museum. His subject was "War-time Communications," and during his discussion he went back over the history of the development of the telephone. Research work constituted a great part of the Bell Telephone Company's work. However, 92 years out of every hundred in the past 1,500 years had been spent by nations at war and for this reason scientific research had been continually interrupted.

Nevertheless in time of war, the telephone company had much to do..

In 1917, Professor J. McGlennon of the University of Toronto was summoned by Lloyd George to find a way to break the submarine blockade. With only six months' food supply, England was in grave danger of going under at that time. Professor McGlennon, related the speaker, got his colleagues from Canada, and soon the submarine menace was conquered. The method employed by Professor McGlennon was by use of a cable of wires across the Channel with detectors placed at periodic points. Whenever a detector registered the presence of a submarine, mines were exploded by remote control, and it was the end of the submarine.

Mr. Long exhibited the first telephone and demonstrated how an accident had revealed to Dr. Graham Bell that his apparatus really worked. The first telephone contract in the British Empire was signed in Canada in 187. The telephone was first used for war-time communication in the Russo-Japanese War in 1904. It was used in subsequent wars as a vital means of communication and in the present war, the telephone research workers were busily engaged in research for improvements.

Other telephonic research developments were the electric ear, the terrain recorder which gave aeroplane pilots their altitude based on distance from the land beneath instead of the useless sea level reading, the flight ray which enabled planes to land safely on their airport field no matter how thick the fog, and many other safety devices. In the present war everything that the telephone researchers had to offer was at the disposal of the United Nations in their battle against the Axis, the speaker said.

I.O.D.E. Groups Jammed With War Work

CAMPBELLFORD, March 14. — (ENS).—Threes of the five groups which make up the Bemersyde Chapter of the I.O.D.E., have arranged activities that are intended to raaise their contributions to the branch funds it was announced at the regular meeting held Thursday. Their schedule covering the next three weeks begins with a bingo party in the Parish Hall on March 14th sponsored by Group 3, headed by Eleanor Ferris. Group 2, (Mrs. J. Clark) is selling tickets for the theatre on March 22 when the picture "Penny Serenade" will head the bill; group 5 (Mrs. V. Rutherford) is sponsoring a draw on a rug with the winner to be named at the March 27th meeting.

During the evening a donation of $10 to the Hurricane Fighter Fund for Australia and $5 to the China Relief Fund were made on vote of the members. Mrs. S. Hopping gave the war convener's report and in her quilt report Mrs. Geo Hawthorne expressed thanks to Mrs. T. Patrick, Mrs. McNaughton, Zion W. A., English Lien Ladies (3), Mrs. Harold Shaw for quilts.

As their Empire theme for the evening Mrs. J. Clark gave a talk on Australia, revealing many interesting features of the land 'down under.' Winners of the draw on three quilts being raffled by the branch were announced as Mrs. E. A. Stuart, Mrs. E. Denike and Mrs. Harry Cook. The Regent, Mrs. G. A Ironside, made the draw and total receipts from this were over $47 In a report of the salvage campaign special mention was made of the work done by pupils of Connelly's school headed by Mrs. MacMillan. The thirty pupils collected two loads of salvage, incuding such items as rubbers, tinfoil, paper, grease, etc., setting an example which other rural schools might well emulate. Not only did they collect this 'junk' from their school district which extends over an area of from 4 to 7 miles west of Campbellford, but they also sorted and baled it. Saiad Mrs. Rutherford who directs the township salvage work, "This is a splendid record and demonstrates how much can be done when an organized effort is made."

Red Cross Forms War Classes

PORT HOPE, March 14.—ENS).— Emergency war classes are being formed in Port Hope. These classes are sponsored by the Red Cross and will be in charge of Mrs. E. G. Britton, convener, assisted by the local doctors and nurses.

These classes will start next week in the library hall on March 19 and will consist of eight lectures and demonstrations. These lectures will come under the folowing heads: 1, Psychology of Emergencies; 2, Surgical Shock; 3, Wounds; 4, Hemorrhage; 5, Burns; 6, Fractures; 7, Respiration from Drowning, Gas Poisoning and Electric Shock; 8, Air Raid Precautions.

Personals.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Oliver, John street, are the proud parents of a baby girl, in the Port Hope hospital.

Mrs. George Ward, Ellen street, is visiting in Toronto for the weekend.

A few of those attending the skating carnival in Toronto this week were Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Thompson, Betty and Murray, Mr. and Mrs. Jim Thompson of Canton and the Misses Claire and Martha, Mr. Jack Bongard, Roy Phillips, Miss Gloria Roach, Miss A. Wilson, Miss Jean Sargent.

A.C. 2 Snelgrove, H. B. R146950, of Fengal Bombing and Gunnery School, is home on leave.

GORE'S LANDING

W.M.S. Delegates To Attend Presbyterial

GORE'S LANDING, March 14.— (ENS)—The regular monthly meeting of the W.M.S. was held at the home of Mrs. Pratt on Wednesday. Mrs. Fisher read the message the Queen gave in the fall of 1939.

The treasurer reported that one quarter of the allocation was already on hand which was encouraging. The roll call was responded to by 12 ladies.

Delegates who were appointed to attend Presbyterial in two weeks time on March 24, are Miss Waldon, Mrs. George Harris and Mrs. Hastings. Mrs. George Harris as program convener proceeded with the service as outlined for all W.M.S. groups.

A social half-hour followed the close of the afternoon.

Church Entertained

Mr. and Mrs. Miles MacDonald entertained members of the United Church on Wednesday evening. These social evenings have been held every two weeks during the winter and have been quite popular with every one who has had the opportunity of attending them. 25 were present on Wednesday evening and contests and various games were played. Among those present were: Mrs. Fisher, Mrs. Hastings, Sydney Pomeroy, Mr. and Mrs. and Mrs. J. D. Fowlie, Mr. and Mrs. Milne, Mr and Mrs. Ames, Mrs. Washburn, Mrs. Pratt, Miss Emily Pratt, Mr. and Mrs. Jack MacKenzie, Norman Waldon, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Chyne, Mrs. Joe Harris, Miss Ella Waldon, Miss Jennie Fowlie, Thomas Fowlie, Mr. Finlay, John Milne.

Too Much Talk Little Action Kiwanis Told

Reviewing many of the services which Kiwanis Club give and might give to their communities, District Governor of Kiwanis, Charles Hulse of Ottawa yesterday said in the Canadian Army, Air Force and Navy 44 per cent of all applicants were turned down as medically unfit. "This brings to mind the cause. It starts with you and me in our homes and schools. I believe that is where we will have to start to make the cure," he said.

"Even educational authorities admit that the present educational system is not of the best from a democratic point of view. It has not taught us to accept responsibility nor how to appreciate what we have. It has not instilled into the children the heritage our forefathers fought for and which we now enjoy.

We take too much for granted and have the attitude that the world owes us a living. Why is this war? Is it your fault or mine. I can't answer that question, but what we can do is to see that our children are prepared to assume the responsibility of the world in which they will live. We must prepare the way for them now.

The speaker said he recenty attended a meeting in Toronto at which 1200 delegates were present. "When someone mentioned that compulsory selective service should go into effect, cheers upon cheers went up but I wonder if on the next day someone went to each one of them and told them what job they were to do what the reaction would be. We talk too much about what we should do but we do not take it upon ourselves to act.

He said that in the O.Q.M. district of Ontario, Quebec and the Maritimes, there are 55 Kiwanis clubs doing a good service.

It is the duty of each of us to make up our minds there are sacrifices to be made, he pointed out. He congratulated the Belleville club on its blood donor clinic which is soon to open. A Quebec club has given over 100 concerts at Valcartier camp. He pointed out the need for better co-ordination of services between such well known war services as Red Cross, Y.M.C.A., Salvation Army, Knights of Columbus and others. Kiwanis, said Mr. Hulse, might take a hand in this co-ordinating effort.

In a short while, Kiwanis clubs will be asked to furnish to the government pictures of bridges in their areas. Mr. Hulse did not explain the reason for this but is was presumed to be for purposes of National Defence. Other Kiwanis clubs, he said, have organized between 15 and 20 air cadet corps."

The meeting was attended by Lt. Governor Clifford Barranger of Belleville club. Other visitors from both Belleville and Ottawa clubs were in attendance. Mr. Barranger outlined the blood donor's project.

Soldiers' Tiff Ends With Fine

CAMPBELLFORD, Mar. 14 (ENS) —Two soldiers, members of the 1st Midland Regiment, appeared before Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., on drunk charges here Friday afternoon and both boys: Pte. Jack Donald, 19, Pte. F. E. Oliver, 22, were assessed the minimum fine of $10.00 and $1.00 costs or one week. The Magistrate took a lenient view when their counsel, N. A. MacColl described the altercation they got into at the local arena on February 14th as "merely a scuffle." Chief Constable George Hardy confirmed this and Col. A. H. Bounsall representing the military authority paid their fines so they could proceed on their way. Two domestic relations cases under the Deserted Wives and Children's Maintenance Act were also heard but judgment was reserved for one week.

BewdleyWarWorkers Hold Weekly Euchre

BEWDLEY, March 14.—(ENS)— The War Workers Club of Bewdley held their weekly euchre party on Tuesday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Cliff Manley. Ten tables of progressive euchre were played and later lunch of doughnuts and coffee was served. Ladies' first and second high scores were held by Mrs. W. W. Kennedy and Mrs. Merwyn Benson with Mrs. Jeff Morton holding the consolation. Messrs. Jack Hibbard and Keith Halstead were first and second gent and Ralph Benson the consolation. Suitable prizes were given each winner. The evening proved quite successful.

Mrs. Harry Goss is spending a few days in Toronto visiting friends.

Friends of Mrs. Steve Perrin are sorry to hear of her illness in St. Joseph's Hospital, Peterborough, and wish her a speedy recovery.

Mrs. Charles Coulson has spent the past two weeks in Toronto with friends.

Bridge And Euchre Party

CAMPBELLFORD, Marh 14. — (ENS). — The Rebekah Lodge here added $25.00 to their war work fund as the result of a bridge and euchre party staged last night. Twenty-four tables were filled by card players, and following refreshments prizes were awarded by Mrs. Harold Petherick and A. E. Burgiss. Mrs. Murphy won the door prize. C. W. Palliser and Mrs. Florence Stephens were high for euchre, and R. J. Belshaw and Mrs. J. D. McEachearn won at bridge.

Obituaries

MRS. BENJAMIN C. YELLAND.

A life-long resident of Peterborough, Mary Eleanor Johnston, wife of the late Benjamin C. Yelland, 618 Rubidge Street, died in hospital to-day following an illness since December. She was born in Dummer Township and was a member of Murray Street Baptist Church.

Surviving are two sons, Dr. H. M. Yelland, Peterborough, Dr. W. E. Yelland New York, and one daughter, Mrs. H. J. Webber, 618 Rubidge Street.

The funeral will be held on Monday afternoon at 2 p.m. from the home of her daughter, 618 Rubidge Street, with the Rev. J. H. Sutcliffe of Murray Street Baptist Church, officiating. Interment will be made in Little Lake Cemetery.

WILLIAM LEWIS LADLEY.

The death occurred in hospital today of William Lewis Ladley, 79, of 121 Hilliard street. He was born in Reaboro and except for a few years spent in Alberta has resided in Peterborough practically all his life. He was a carpenter by trade and a member of the Pentecostal church.

He is survived by his wife, formerly Lillam Ostrum; two daughters, Mrs. G. B. Ranger, Saskatchewan; Mrs. Edgar Simmons, Peterborough; two sons, Max of Peterborough and Kenneth of Stoney Creek; three brothers and two sisters, Mrs. H. Rowland, London, Ont.; Mrs. F. Millbrook Boy Leads Field In War Stamps

Proof that the smaller centres are equally enthusiastic about the selling of War Savings Stamps by newspaper carriers comes from the results of the young representative of The Examiner in Millbrook. Just about on month ago Roy Dawson, who succeeded his brother Brenton as Examiner carrier, began carrying War Savings Stamps along with his papers. Since then he has sold no less than $44 worth. His enthusiasm is increased by the fact that his father, Capt. Bruce Dawson, is now serving his country as quartermaster of the Midland Regiment. Percy Hamilton, who succeeded Capt. Dawson as principal of the Millbrook Public School, is helping along the campaign with a scheme which produces results. The boys and girls buying stamps have their names entered in a lucky draw each week. The winner gets the War Saving Stamp bought by Mr. Hamilton for the prize award. The junior room, under Mrs. Lloyd J. Stuart, is encouraged to bring the coppers which ordinarily go for candy. These pennies are credited to each individual child until 25 cents is raised when they are turned into a War Savings Stamp. Millbrook is heartily appreciative of the energetic efforts of these youngsters in promoting war savings.

Cut Lights In Fall

TORONTO, March 14.—(CP)— Mayor Fred Conboy said Thursday Toronto probably would be forced to cut off a large number of its street and park lights starting in October to make electric power available for war purposes.

Westerner Raps Crerar's Wheat Policy

By JAMES McCOOK
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

OTTAWA, March 14 — (CP). — Criticism of the attitude of Resources Minister Crerar on wheat policies was expressed in the House of Commons yesterday by a supporter of the Government, Harry Leader (Lib.-Prog., Portage la Prairie).

Taking part in debate on a Government bill to raise the initial wheat price from 70 cents to 90 cents a bushel basis No. 1 Northern at Fort William, in the crop year 1942-43, Mr. Leader said:

"The difficulty with regard to Manitoba is that our leader (Mr. Crerar, senior Manitoba Cabinet Minister) is apparently more interested in the grain trade than in the welfare of our farmers."

Mr. Leader was one of five speakers in the wheat debate yesterday afternoon.

W. A. Tucker (Lib., Rosthern) supported the Government policy but J. G. Defenbaker (Con., Lake Centre) urged the initial price be $7 a bushel and urged Government steps to organize a land army to ensure continued food producton. Mr. Defenbaker suggested no province could afford to hold an election during the present critical phase of the war. He had mentioned earlier the likelihood of a Saskatchewan vote this year.

2 Ministers, Too Much.

A Western Ontario member, Hugh MacKenzie (Lib.-Prog., Lambton-Kent) told Western members they should "thank their lucky stars" that Hon. J. G. Gardiner was Minister of Agriculture and from the West. He said he did not think the two Ministers dealing with farm problems, Mr. Gardiner and the Trade Minister, Hon. J. A. Mac-

WARSAW

Wm. Davis Marks His 80th Birthday

WARSAW, March 14.—(ENS)—A very pleasant evening was spent at the home of William Davis on Tuesday evening where his family and a few friends gathered to honor him on the occasion of his 80th birthday. Mr. Davis has lived the greater part of his life on the Second Line and is still active in spite of his advanced years.

Those present included: Mr. and Mrs. George Davis, Peterborough; Mr. and Mrs. Fred Clifford and family, Springville; Mrs. Mae Hamblin, Lakefield, and Mr. and Mrs. Donald Davis, Warsaw.

The evening was spent in cards and Chinese checkers, followed by a supper planned with the huge birthday cake with traditional decorations as centre of attraction.

Bale Completed

The packing committee of the Warsaw War Service completed the bale on Wednesday afternoon. It contained six pairs boys' pants, nine pairs children's felt slippers (made from felt hats), 4 boys' shirts, 17 pairs bloomers, three pairs pyjamas, 13 slips and 12 quilts. This represents work done up to March 1.

The shower in the town hall on Thursday night in honor of Mr. and Mrs. Reid Crowe was very well attended and many beautiful and useful gifts were received, for which Mr. Crowe most graciously thanked all those present. Music for dancing was supplied by Wright's orchestra.

HEALTH CHATS

R. M. MacPHERSON, B.A., C.S.I. (C), Sanitary Inspector

When Dr. Avison asked me to write an article for this column it seemed a very simple request to which I had acceded. However, as I sit down to comply with his request, it does not seem so elementary. There are so many subjects that one could talk about in the field of environmental control of disease, for that is what sanitation is, that I am at a loss to know which one to approach. Immediately I see such topics as food control, milk and milk products, water treatment and purification, dairy farm sanitation, sewage disposal, disposal of refuse, vermin control and extermination, environmental sanitation, housing, industrial hygiene, plumbing and drainage, the legal aspect and administration of sanitary laws and regulations. All these things come within the scope of the control of disease through control of environment. At a later date I may be given the opportunity to say a few words on some of the above subjects but today I think a few words on the Housing problem here in Peterborough would not be amiss.

The oft-repeated phrase that "one half of the world does not know how the other half lives" is just as applicable to Peterborough as it is to Central Africa. The sanitary officers know how true this is for they are daily in and out of good homes, indifferent homes, bad homes and those places to which by no stretch of the imagination could the word "home" be applied. As you stand on Armour Hill on a clear, bright, sunny afternoon, you might well say "What a lovely city down there! What a picture! Nestled in the hills and engulfing the beautiful Otonabee valley." True, it is beautiful, especially in summer when all the trees are in full verdure and the flowers in full bloom. But do you ever doubt the perfection of the scene? Do you ever realize that down there are hovels, too? There may be found people living in filth and dirt, people housed liked cattle. If you never thought of this before, think of it now.

A few days ago I was called to a certain house to investigate the living conditions. What I found will perhaps amaze you. Here was a family of four housed in a sheeted garage, with absolutely no sanitary conveniences. The kitchen refuse and wastes were simply thrown out the door to run down through the fence and into the cellar of the adjacent house. In front of this was a house with one bedroom containing three double beds where five or six adults were supposed to sleep. You could hardly move between the beds. What an ideal situation for the spread of communicable diseases with one person coughing into the face of the other! A call to another part of the city revealed a shed which had been used to deposit garbage and kitchen wastes for months. This was a real feast for rats and had it been in the warmer season would have been an excellent breeding place for flies. Rats and flies are both a definite menace to health.

I am sorry if I have spoiled such a pleasant view of our city as that which meets the eye on first glance but really what I have said are only a few examples of what is altogether too common and they will serve to show that "all is not gold that glitters." You have here in Peterborough a Sanitary Officer. He cannot be everyplace at once and needs your help. When you see things that you think should not exist, when you know of housing conditions that are bad, simply call the Department of Health, dial 5424, and leave a message for the inspector. Don't feel that you are complaining or causing trouble for your neighbor. Remember if you are instrumental in clearing up an unsanitary condition, no matter where it is, you are helping to prevent the spread of disease, helping not only to protect yourself but your neighbour as well. Please call.

He pointed out it took years for the Netherlands to import the complicated and massive machinery for oil production and expressed doubt the Japanese could transport such machinery and erect it—even if it were available—without the Allied fleets or air forces "stopping their little game."

Some wells were plugged, he said, and Japan "will have to do a mighty lot of drilling before she can hope to get even small quantities of oil."

"Even if Japan could get the men and even if she obtained the help of German technicians, I very much doubt whether she could get the chance to restore these wells as long as there is an Allied air force," Kessler said.

proprietor of the establishment suffered burns on his face and hands. Three city fire-fighters suffered slight injuries from broken glass.

Screams and the sound of breaking glass first attracted the attention of passers-by on busy St. Lawrence Boulevard to the fire. When the alarm was given in the plant, some of the women rushed to the front of the building, and then found their way to safety via the rear exit barred by the flames.

Dense smoke from the burning cloth added to the panic, and the women began crawling through the front windows and hanging on to the ledge outside. One by one they were forced to release their hold, and plunged downward to the street.

At least one of the women had her fall broken by four firemen who caught her in an overcoat extended net-fashion below. She was not seriously injured. Another let go after those below had placed a large cardboard box under her in an effort to break her fall, but she hit the box a glancing blow and smashed her leg on the pavement.

A few of the women who rushed to the front of the building heeded the shouted instructions of those below and remained inside the building until firemen raised a ladder to the spot. They were rescued with only minor burns.

man spring offensive in Russia opens. A diversionary attack then, even if it had little prospect of achieving much success, would serve a purpose.

Meanwhile Vichy is reported continuing to assist in the transport of supplies to Rommel and with this the French Navy is concentrating at Toulon.

Russians Press On

The Russian counter - offensive appears to be increasing rather than diminishing in intensity. Progress remains slow but the Germans are being compelled to throw more and more of their reserve divisions into the struggle and employ aircraft to an increasing extent in order to supply isolated or sem-isolated key points.

The Russian air force evidently is taking full advantage of targets offered and unless Germany, in the coming summer, can produce aircraft of a new standard of performance they will find it difficult to recover their former air superiority.

It would not be unduly optimistic to expect the Russians to liquidate all German isolated hedgehog key points before the general renewal of the German offensive.

To reduce the stubbornly-held strongly fortified locality which can be supplied by air or other means is a slow and costly business.

The power of defence so often displayed in the last war has not been lost to anything like the extent which earlier events in this war appeared to indicate, although offensive has recovered its ancient preeminence wherever it can exploit its modern ability.

Struggle of the Salients.

If the German hedgehogs — advanced strong points—can hold out it must be expected the Russians may be compelled, eventually, to withdraw from some salients they have driven into the German front, for it is clear that the Germans during the winter have been able to husband their Panzer formations and these especially can endanger the exposed salients. The front of contact has taken on a strangely irregular form. The Germans have a certain advantage through being well dug in at their salients. It remains to be seen what the effect of spring mud will have.

Russian cavalry masses and their guerilla forces may find that the muddy conditions present them with fresh opportunities.

That was the picture this week.

U.S. 'Wide Open' If We Fall Curtin Warns

CANBERRA, March 14—(CP).—A grave warning that the Americas would be "wide open" if Japan conquers Australia and a plea for the closest co-operation with Australia were broadcast directly to the people of the United States today by Prime Minister John Curtin.

"Australia is the last bastion between the west coast of America and the Japanese—if Australia goes, the Americas are wide open," he declared.

Lashing at speculation that the Japanese might pass up Australia and that they could be met and routed in India, he declared:

"I say to you that saving Australia is saving America's west coast. If you believe anything to the contrary you delude yourselves."

Before speaking to his "comrades in this war" in the United States, the Prime Minister announced that Australia presumably had suffered loss of the 6,980-ton cruiser Perth and the 1,060-ton sloop Yarra, with their 833 men.

The ships fought successfully and without damage in the battles of the Java Sea, Mr. Curtin said, but they have not been reported since leaving Java for home and they are presumed to have been sunk.

It is possible that some of the 682 men on the Perth and 151 on the Yarra had reached land, navy sources said.

Loss of the Perth and the Yarra would bring Australia's naval losses since the start of the war to two cruisers, two sloops and one destroyer.

Japan, meanwhile, continued her invasion moves toward Australia. Japanese Zero (navy) fighters attacked Port Moresby, New Guinea, with machine guns while other Japanese planes attacked a point 60 miles to the west of the port, near the Yule Island Mission, it was announced.

The Australians, for their part, announced their planes heavily damaged Japanese planes on the ground in a raid Thursday on a Japanese airdrome at Rabaul, New Britain.

Mr. Curtin in his broadcast said Australians had looked to America for "counsel and advice."

No Contact After 95 Days.

"It is a matter of some regret to us," he continued, "that even now, after 95 days of Japan's staggering advance south and ever south, we have not obtained first-hand contact with America."

"Therefore, we propose sending to you our Minister of External Affairs, Dr. H. V. Evatt, who is no stranger to your country, so we may benefit from his discussions with your authorities.

New Normandie Fire

NEW YORK, March 14 (AP).— A fire apparently originating in rubbish aboard the flame-ravaged $60,000,000 liner Normandie was quickly extinguished today

The liner, seized by the government was December and converted into the naval auxiliary Lafayette, was damaged by a blaze February 9. She capsized after this fire was extinguished.

Routing Turkish forces on the River Tigris in Mesopotamia, British and Indian troops under Gen. Sir Stanley Maude entered Bagdad March 11, 1917 to restore British prestige in the Middle East after the disastrous campaign less than a year earlier. During the same week events in Russia took a grave turn. Workers revolted in the streets of St. Petersburg and the autocratic government of Czar Nicholas II was overthrown. A provisional government was set up March 12 by a committee of the Duma with Prince Lvov at its head.

Tonic for Fainting Souls Is Found In Psalm 27

REV. E. R. JAMES

The Lord is my light and my salvation; whom then shall I fear; the Lord is the strength of my life, of whom then shall I be afraid?—Ps. 27: 1.

Frequently looking backward is a tonic for drooping spirits. "O God, we have heard with our ears, and our fathers have declared unto us, the noble works that Thou didnt in their days, and in the old time before them." This does not mean that we are to sit back with folded hands and expect God to help us. It means that we are to do our part and then in humble faith expect God's help. Moses lifted up his hands in prayer to Jehovah, but at the same time the Israelites were fighting against their enemies. God does not help lazy people.

This Psalm is based on the truth that God is with us. "If God be for us who can be against us?" Men in past ages read this Psalm and it inspired them to face their enemies and to be very courageous in the hour of danger and conflict.

Savonarola on the eve of his martyrdom, May 22, 1498, meditated upon this Psalm and wrote these words: "Bowed at the feet of the Lord, my eyes bathed with tears, I cried: The Lord is the light of my light and my salvation, whom then shall I fear; the Lord is the strength of my life, of whom then shall I be afraid?" Such peace and strength entered into his heart that he slept like a child with a smile on his face. Next morning he faced the fiery tortures and died calmy.

Two hundred years later we come to the siege of Londonderry. The Rev. Dr. George Walker preached from this Psalm on July 28, 1689, and exhorted his hearers to be strong and very courageous. He strengthened their hearts and confirmed the feeble knees of many.

Again two centuries later we find Bishop Hannington in Africa strengthening his soul with the words of this Psalm: "I was greatly comforted by this Psalm," he writes from his filthy prison and two days later, October 28, 1885, he died the martyr's death.

This Psalm has been a marvellous tonic for fainting souls in every generation. "Patience" is its watchword. "Wait on the Lord" is the challenge. Dr. A. B. Davidson, the great Old Testament scholar, reminds us that hardly any word was so often used in the Scriptures as "wait." Think upon these:—"The Lord is good to them that wait for Him." "They that wait on the Lord shall renew their strength." "They shall not be ashamed that wait for Me, said the Lord." "I waited patiently for the Lord, and He inclined His ear unto me."

The Lord Christ Himself taught us the lesson of patience. He refused the short cuts to power in His temptations in the wilderness. Patience means the determination to edure. We must ask God to give us the strength of the Lord Christ to endure. We are passing through dark days. Quietly and prayerfully read this Psalm of sixteen verses. Remember that our fathers in the dark days of our national life were strengthened and comforted by this ancient hymn. Apply the words to yourself.

Ponder upon the three-fold place of refuge. "For in the time of trouble He shall hide me in His tabernacle; yea, in the secret place of His dwelling shall He hide me, and set me up upon a rock of stone." Then strive to echo the words of the Psalmist: "My heart hath talked of Thee, seek ye My Face; Thy Face, Lord, will I seek."

BE NOT AFRAID. NEITHER BE THOU DISMAYED, FOR THE LORD THY GOD IS WITH THEE WITHERSOEVER THOU GOEST.

Many Mighty Works Done By Jesus When On Earth

(By NEWMAN CAMPBELL.)

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for March 15 is Matt. 8:23-34; Mark 4:35-41; Luke 8:26-56. the Golden Text being Matt. 8:27, "What manner of man is this, that even the winds and the sea obey Him?")

First of the "mighty works of Jesus" was the stilling of the waves which threatened to wreck the boat on the Sea of Gallilee. Jesus and His apostles entered the boat after a hard day of healing and preaching. He was very weary and laid down in the stern of the boat and went to sleep on a pillow.

It is explained that on the eastern shore of the Sea of Galilee were deep raviness triking down from the hills, and when the wind blew from the east, it would come roaring down these precipitous hills and strike the water, beating it up into a sudden and violent storm. This is what must have happened, for soon the boat appeared about to sink. The waves broke over it, and the apostles, fishermen though many of them were, feared for their lives. They rushed to Jesus and called upon Him to save them. Waking from sleep, the Lord said calmly, "Why are ye fearful, O ye of little faith?" Then he rebuked the wind and waves and instantly they subsided and "there was a great calm."

It strikes us as peculiar that after going to Him instinctively to save them from death they should then have wondered and said to each other: "What manner of man is this, that even the winds and the sea obey Him?" They must surely have felt that He had this power or they would not have appealed to Him as they did. Faith is a wonderful thing. If we have it we are enabled to go through any ordeal. Things are bad now, we say, but they will be better, and in the meantime, we can pray and we can look about us to see what we can do to make them better. That is the kind of faith that helps the world as well as ourselves.

Men Possessed of Demons

When they landed from the boat it was on the eastern shore at a place called Gadara. There met Him two men possessed with devils so fierce that they had caused the men to break the chains with which they had been bound and driven them to live in tombs and caves in the hills surrounding that part of the sea. Everyone was afraid of them. The demons in these men called to our Lord, "What have we to do with Thee, Thou Son of God? Art Thou come hither to torment us before the time?"

They then asked that they might be turned into some pigs that were feeding on the hillside whose sides sloped down into the sea. Jesus ordered them into swine, which immediately rushed down the hill into the water and were drowned. The men, restored to their right minds, asked the Lord if they might go with Him, but He told them to go to their homes and tell what marvel had befallen them. Matthew speaks of two men but Mark and Luke spoke of one only.

When the company came back across the sea to Capernaum, the people met Him gladly, welcoming Him and crowding around Him. One man, Jarius, ruler of the synagogue, asked Him to come home with him at once, as his 12-year-old daughter was ill and near to death. One woman in the crowd surrounding the Master had been sick for years. Physicians had failed her, but she had evidently heard of Christ and had faith in Him. She could just manage to get near enough to touch the edge of His argment, but it healed her. Jesus felt the touch. Possibly He knew all the time that she was there and consciously cured her. At any rate, He asked who touched Him, as He felt virtue go out of Him. The woman was brought to face Him, and He in compassion, said to her: "Daughter, be of good comfort; thy faith hath made thee whole; go in peace."

The Maid Is Dead.

Servants from Jairus' house came then and said the maid was dead, so the Master need not be bothered. Jesus, however, said: "Fear not; believe only, and she shall be made whole." He went straightway to Jairus' house, and taking with Him into the child's room only Peter, James and John and her parents, who wept and wailed. He said: "Weep not; she is not dead, but sleepeth." Even in that tragic time they could hardly refrain from laughing at such a remark. Isn't it odd how blind people can be? Why, do you suppose, they had no faith, even after all they had seen done?

Jesus put them all out of the room, and, taking the child by the hand, He called to her, "Maid, arise."

"And her spirit came again, and she arose straightway; and He commanded them to give her meat." St. Luke concludes the chapter with, "And her parents were astonished." Even these people, so close to the Master and so quick to go to Him for help, seemed not to know "what manner of Man He was."

Christians Should Always Be In the Front Line

One of the phrases of the present war that has attracted much attention in countries which are actively engaged is: "This time we are all in the front line." It has come as a challenge not only to the fighting forces, but to the civilian population as well. Everybody has heard the trumpet call and has marshalled to the fray in Britain, Russia, China, Greece, Australia, old men, women and even children have been assigned duties, and have taken an active part in the conflict.

It is the hope that this phrase will last after the war is over. It has a significance for Christian people. The Chrisitan church is engaged in a conflict with the powers of evil. Jesus Christ is the leader in the fight, and He calls His followers to heroic effort.

There is the tendency for some people to adopt an attitude of smug complacency, and to disavow personal responsibility. Many offer excuses about lack of fitness. But there is something which everyone can do to help God to make the the world better.

Jesus calls all his followers to lives of action and conflict. This challenging sentence will be the subject of the address in St. Andrew's Church on Sunday night.

Missionaries Prayed For

BRIDGENORTH, March 14. — (ENS).—Mrs. W. A. Sidey was hostess to the Women's Missionary Society on Wednesday afternoon. President Mrs. J. R. Trumpour opened the meeting. Mrs. E. Connors gave the Scripture reading. Everyone was asked to pray for the following missionaries: Miss Turnbull of India, Mrs. Dr. Best of China, and Mrs. Ralph Hayward of China.

Mrs. C. Telford and Miss Olive Sidey favored everyone with a piano duet. The meeting closed with prayer.

The hostess served a dainty lunch and a social half-hour was spent. The next meeting will be at Mrs. Trumpour's.

Prize-winners at the weekly euchre party were Mrs. Carl Mann and Mr. Harry Long of Peterborough.

Singer Held

NEW YORK, March 14 (AP).—Ezio Pinza, Italian-born Metropolitan Opera Basso, was detained today by the Federal Bureau of Investigation and taken to Ellis Island.

Although the F.B.I declined to comment regarding the singer's detention, it was reported that he had been under surveillance since the United States entered the war.

Pinza's wife is an American, the former Doris Neal Leak of Larchmont. He is understood to have taken out his first citizenship papers.

The Mighty Works of Jesus — ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON — By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Matt. 8:23-34; Mark 4:35-41; Luke 8:26-56

Jesus landed from a ship in the country of the Gadarenes, and two men possessed of devils came out of the tombs where they lived in the mountainside. They were unclothed, having broken their fetters, and were very fierce.

The devils possessing the men cried out to the Lord to let them enter into some swine that were feeding on the hillside, and Jesus commanded them to do so; whereupon the pigs rushed into the sea and were drowned.

Coming back to Capernaum later Jesus was welcomed, and people pressed about Him to be healed. A woman who had been ill for years came behind Him and touched the hem of His garment, and was straightway healed.

A young girl, daughter of the ruler of the synagogue, was very ill and seemed to die, but Jesus said, "She is not dead, but sleepeth," and He took her by the hand and she arose.

Living Dangerously Is Healthy

Although the air attack on London which went on during the last four months of 1940 has been over for so long as to be almost ancient history in this swift-moving war, the report of the medical department of the London County Council for that period has only recently become available to us. It reveals the impressive information that the raids left no serious mark upon the health of the city's children. Of course, there were many children among the casualties, but the raids appear to have had no deleterious effect upon the spirits or the physical fitness of the younger population of London.

Here is an extract from the report which provides us with food for thought: "All children leaving school were examined to find any medical reason why certain employment would not be suitable, and the report—the first one ever made—showed that of 7,935 boys examined 90 per cent. were fit for any work, and of 7,751 girls 89 per cent. were able to do all kinds of labor." This is hardly what we are used to in a report on public health, and in a country which had, at the time, just fought off the most vicious air attack in history it is little short of miraculous.

Or is it? A few months ago this country was visited by Dr. B. D. Gillespie, head of the mental health clinic at Guy's Hospital in London and one of Britain's foremost psychiatrists; Dr. Gillespie was of opinion that the blitz on London had actually improved the health of that city, excepting the obvious cases in which there was either a clear injury or in which health had ceased to be a consideration altogether. Dread vague fears and all those petty ailments which may be summed up as "jitters" had disappeared entirely in the face of danger. It was the opinion of Dr. Gillespie that the increased danger of living suited the London populace; they thrived on it and were strangely happy because of it.

For one thing, the constant possibility of air attack means that it is out of the question to take a long view of anything. Life must be lived from day to day, and often from hour to hour. Everyone works with a will, while he can, but he is not conscious of an unlimited stretch of working days ahead of him. For another thing, social duties are reduced to a bare minimum. The elaborate code of manners by which we all live (for we all have these codes, though they differ from one group to another) can be discarded and simple kindness and helpfulness put in its place. Finally, everyone can work with a good heart, because he knows that he is working not for himself alone, or for his family, but for a great national purpose—to beat the enemy.

It is paradoxical that three requisites for a happy life should be found only in the imminent danger of death. Freedom from fear about the future, freedom from irksome and artificial codes of behavior, and a sense of devotion to a great purpose; what would we not be able to accomplish if we might enjoy them in time of peace? No wonder the health of London is good. The Londoners, having accepted the possibility of death or injury, and breathing deep draughts of the salty air of danger, are in fine fettle. It is not the great, heroic dangers, but the petty and avoidable (at a price) worries of everyday which whiten the locks and steal the roses from the cheek.

Japan The Octopus

During the days of the sitzkrieg Japan was considered—when she was considered at all — as a country attempting to carry on a war with insufficient supplies. Articles appeared in popular and learned magazines alike showing that Japan could not continue her "incident" with China for very much longer, as she was desperately short of necessary materials.

It may have been so then; it is so no longer. Hugh Dalton, President of the British Board of Trade, has recently made it clear that Japan, by her conquest of the Pacific islands, has assured herself of war supplies in such quantity that any attempt to blockade her must prove futile. Japan can only be overcome by superior force of arms and superior strategy combined.

At present Japan resembles an octopus with a small body and extremely long tentacles, which stretch out to grasp the Pacific islands. If the tentacles can be lopped from the body in time the creature will wither and die; but if they are allowed to suck nourishment from the spoils which they hold the creature will become a source of danger to the whole world. If the creature is to be destroyed the battle cannot be defered for long.

No Soap

The announcement that British housewives are being asked to try washing their clothes with wood ash and water, in order to conserve soap, suggests real hardship, but things could be worse. The British still wash themselves with soap, and good soap, whereas the Germans are using something which is little removed from clay. The British are now using fifteen pounds of soap a year each, and their soap contains 60 per cent. fat; the Germans get only six pounds a year each, and this contains between 15 and 20 per cent. of fat. The rest is clay.

These interesting facts were recently made available by the British Ministry of Economic Warfare, which exhibited a piece of German soap, a piece of German underclothing, and a bowl of water at a press conference. Pressmen were given a chance to play with the German soap and try its effect on the German fabric; their report was unfavorable.

Before the war Germany had an elaborate scheme for making soap out of synthetic fats derived from coal; this plan fell through, however, as they had to use these synthetic fats in order to manufacture synthetic gasoline and synthetic rubber. Soap experts say that the soapy clay is injurious to the skin, and as German maidenhood is forbidden to beautify itself by any means less Nordic than a good scrub the outlook for German complexions is definitely bad.

The Mind Of Colonel Blimp

We all know who Colonel Blimp is. We have seen his picture scores of times in the brilliant political cartoons of David Low. The cranberry complexion, the dwelling paunch, the solar topee and the bath towel grit about his middle all stamp Colonel Blimp as a British colonial administrator of the old school, a gross caricature of the type which Kipling celebrated in a hundred stories. Colonel Blimp represents everything that is smug, intolerant and intolerable in the British mind and, however much we may admire the British people we must know in our hearts that there are traces of Blimpism in all but the very best of them.

We knew that the Blimps had lost Singapore because they never really believed that it could be attacked; but it is difficult for us who are so far away to realize quite how this lack of comprehension appeared on the spot. Now, little by little, details are reaching us. When the first Japanese raids came over, most of the lights in the city were burning brightly; the cynical enemy flyers did not even bother to turn off their own navigation lights. It was not until after the first raid that certain elementary precautions for civilian defence were taken. What was the result? Who needs to ask? Mr. Churchill has told us that we lost a fully equipped army at Singapore, and all because Colonel Blimp, and Lady Augusta Blimp, and young Lieutenant Blimp would not see the danger which was clear to anyone else with a map and an ounce of imagination.

No issue in life is ever absolutely clear; there are always complicating factors. If the Blimps were simply conceited asses we should abandon them to their fate without a qualm. But they are not. When the bombs begin to fall, the Blimps are simply frightened people, like ourselves, and the bonds of humanity are stronger than the antipathy which we feel for their stupid political and military notions. When death falls from the air recriminations and internecine vengeances are out of place. If we hope to destroy the enemy we can waste no time in destroying one another. But the problem of the Blimps, who are only human when they are in mortal danger, remains.

When Low draws the Colonel in a topee we know that he is the Eastern Blimp; when we see him in a top hat we know that he is an English Blimp, perhaps a Civil Servant. Are there, we wonder, any Canadian Blimps? We think that we have seen a few, from time to time, in Canadian cities. Their moustaches were not quite so luxuriant, perhaps, as those to be found on the British variety, but they undoubtedly thought and talked like Blimps, and that is the dangerous thing. The Blimp, secure in his belief that, come what may, nothing can really happen to him, is more remote from the world of reality than any poet in his ivory tower. The Blimps are the great begetters of apathy, and apathy is more deadly, and works for longer hours, than the most determined Fifth Column. A task for everybody on the home front is the destruction of the sort of thinking (or the woeful stagnation of thought) which emanates from the mind of Colonel Blimp.

Paper For British Writers

The shortage of paper in Britain, and the conservation of existing supplies, has given rise to an interesting problem. The British people, who are deprived of many of their accustomed pastimes, and who need relaxation in their few spare moments as they never needed it before, are buying every kind of reading matter with avidity. The volumes contained in such staid collections of classical reprints as Everyman's Library and the World's Classics are selling like hot cakes and shortly the demand will exceed the supply; such new books as the publishers are able to bring out are assured of an enthusiastic reception and whole editions are sold out in a few days. For the first time since literacy became general in Britain there are too few books for the voracious army of readers.

Recently a group of eighteen influential British writers, headed by Bernard Shaw and H. G. Wells and including such figures of national importance as the poets Walter de la Mare and T. S. Eliot, petitioned the government to increase the supplies of paper available to publishers, saying that if this were not done the condition of letters in that country would be quickly past prayer. Their petition is an understandable one and we hope that the authorities will be able to do something about it. Possibly the better conditions on the Atlantic will make it possible for Britain to receive paper from this side of the water, in small quantities at least. Freedom of expression for all men, and particularly for our men of genius, is not the least thing that we are struggling for, and it must be recognized that without paper they are unable to do their best for us at the present time. The bard of old could shout his counsel, his prophecy and his battle-song in the market place, but his modern counterpart must address himself to the eyes, rather than the ears, of his countrymen.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Authorities at a New York Zoo are surprised because one of their jackals is losing its hair. Why? Hasn't Mussolini been bald for years?

The Americanization of Europe is well on its way. Even Germans have begun grumbling about "that fellow in the White House."

General Graziani, we hear, suffers from insomnia. He can only get to sleep by counting Australians jumping through Italian defences.

Ghandi has said that he does not wish to embarrass the British in any way. And the British, in turn, have abandoned their attempts to get his goat.

It may be impossible to be in two places at once, but now that Mussolini has been asked to find another million troops it looks as though Berlin were at both ends of the Axis.

A report says that there will be no shortage of cosmetics on this continent for the duration. So whatever happens, we should be able to put a bold face on it.

"To remove lipstick from handkerchiefs, rub the stain with a cloth soaked in alcohol," says a handy note in a contemporary. Or just dip it in your glass right away.

Some of our contemporaries are so insistent that the day of the horse and buggy and the wooden bathtub has come again that we begin to wonder if they are not really pleased about it.

It is reported from Woodstock that the light has been turned off for the duration of the war which formerly flooded the bronze effigy of Springbank Snow Countess, the world champion butterfat producing cow, who passed to her long home on August 9, 1936. As a contribution to our war effort this is slight, but we hope it may lead to the extinguishing of the light which bathes other sacred cows in Canada.

WISDOM

So many make of love
  A prison to enclose
  The ruby-petalled rose,
The silver dove.

Many and most would hold
  What will not live with bars—
  They would hoard the stars
Like guinea-gold.

You only will not store,
  Will not grasp or take;
  You and you only make
Love an open door.

Prize Winning Movie of 1941

By SAMUEL MARCHBANKS

EVERYONE who is interested in the movies (and people who are not interested in them are missing the most important phase of popular art today, as well as an excellent index to the trend of the times and some first-rate entertainment) knows by this time that the film which won the Academy Award for the best picture of 1941 was "How Green Was My Valley," made from the novel of that name by Richard Llewellyn. Not many Canadians, as yet, yet have seen the film, but the whole purpose of this column today is to urge you to see it as soon as it comes to your city. It is a very fine film, and it deserves any prizes and any public acclaim which it gets.

MANY keen movie-goers thought that the Academy Award would certainly go to Orson Welles remarkable "Citizen Kane," but when they have seen "How Green Was My Valley" they will not be likely to dispute the judges' decision. "Citizen Kane" was a powerful, original film, made with great artistry by a young man of undoubted brilliance. It did almost everything to its audience that a film can do, but it never touched them deeply. It awoke pity, scorn and admiration for its chief character, but, although it was intensely gripping, it was never profoundly moving. That is the secret of "How Green Was My Valley"; it strikes deep into the hearts of its audience, and that is something which happens rarely, in the movies or elsewhere.

A LARGE number of those who go to see this film will already be acquainted with its story, for the novel was unusually popular in the spring of 1939. Possibly that fact had something to do with its great success, for at that time, when so much of the world was anxious and worried about the approaching war, this tender and gentle tale of a valley in South Wales which had, in course of time, become an ugly waste had just the right nostalgic note to catch the public taste. Many people felt that they, too, had known better times than these, and that filth and ugliness had crept over the whole world, just as they crept over that green and lovely Rhondda so lovingly described in the book. The novel had also the advantage of being exceedingly well written, which, however little some authors are prepared to recognize the fact, is always attractive to the public. The writing, as well as being good, was novel, for Mr Llewellyn chose to write in a sort of Anglicised Welsh or Welshfield English—you may call it what you please; the book is written in the sort of English that Welsh people speak, that is, English arranged according to the Cymric rules of form and construction. Welsh is a more effusive language than English; exaggeration and violence of expression are perfectly normal in Welsh conversation which would amaze and shock an English listener; it is necessary to know about it and to know how much of it to discount before such talk begins to mean anything. The Welsh are fond of rhetoric, too, and their daily speech has a more oratorical and poetic ring than is common in the more discreet English language. Understatement, so dear to the hearts of the English, has no friends in Wales. It is in this rich and somewhat foreign English that "How Green Was My Valley" is written, and it is one of the book's principal charms.

THE story is simple enough. It is told by Huw Morgan, the youngest of a large family of miners in a beautiful, green valley in South Wales. He tells the story of his family's fortunes as they appeared through a child's eyes; he tells of his father, a noble and patriarchial figure, rearing his sons in the fear of God to be good workmen; he tells of his sister Angharad, and of her hopeless love for Mr. Gruffydd, the chapel preacher, and of her loveless marriage to a rich man; he tells the story of Bronwen, his brother's widow, a character that Hardy might have been proud to draw; and in the book there are a score of remarkable creations like Parry, the hypocritical deacon, Jonas, the cruel schoolmaster and Dai Bando the boxer and his crony, the bibulous Gyfartha. An unusual and remarkable book.

LIKE all films, this one tends to tidy up its story and its setting rather more than is compatible with strict verisimilitude; the chapel in the film, for instance, is an imposing edifice, plain but with dignity; anyone who has ever seen a real Welsh chapel will find it amusing. The Morgan's house is quite a capacious affair, far larger than most that can be rented for a tidy sum today. The Welsh are great singers, but they do not sing quite as much as do the Welshmen in this film, who rarely stop. But art has nothing at all to do with strict realism, and the effect of this film is magnificient, and that is what counts.

THE director of "How Green Was My Valley" was John Ford, who made "The Grapes of Wrath" among other fine films. There is some unusually good acting in it, and particular mention should be made of Donald Crisp, who plays the part of Gwilym Morgan, the father, and of Sarah Allgood, the Irish actress, who plays his wife. This is not a film to be missed; it will be a long time before you have an opportunity to see such a good one again.

• Japan Now Must Choose

By KIRKE L. SIMPSON

WASHINGTON, March 14 —(AP)— Aside from the furious aerial fighting in New Guinea, there is a lull on all fronts in the Pacific war zone, and the next major action is hard to predict.

The initiative rests with Tokyo. The rest of the world can only speculate as to whether the blow will be aimed at India, Australia, Luzon, Ceylon or some other area.

That Japan has either the man, air or sea power for simultaneous major blows over so vast a front is not only debatable but fantastic. Her war lords must make a choice—have already made it, no doubt.

Every past dream of conquest in history was wrecked ultimately by overexpansion. Japan has overrun an empire; yet a cautious note intruded itself into the "victory" celebration in Tokyo. Nipponese spokesmen pointed out that what had been achieved so far was only the establishment by force of the bases of conquest.

FOLLOW NAZI PATTERN

Except in French Indo-China and Siam, and for the help that lawless Dacoits bent on pillage have given in Burma, the invader is everywhere surrounded by hostile millions. His sway does not extend beyond the range of his guns and bombs.

The Tokyo bid to Australia to desert the Allied cause and accept a slice of the Japanese co-prosperity melon (yet to be cut) reflects that situation pointedly. It is a Tokyo version of Hitler's patented "collaboration" idea, still unsold to conquered France or to the people of Norway, Holland, Belgium or the Balkans.

The initial Japanese thrust to plant new bases in New Guinea and seize the Port Moresby bridgehead across Torres Strait from the Australian mainland has been slowed up definitely by counter air attack. It may prove significant, however, that the Nipponese landings on the big island, second only to Borneo in size, are all down in the southeastern corner.

The bases pre-empted at Salamaua and Lae do not afford a secure footing from which to launch an invasion drive at Australia. The success of Allied bombers in repeated raids demonstrated that.

Those footholds do imperil Australian communication lines across the Pacific, however. And there now is evidence that Tokyo is increasingly nervous over the flow of American help for Australia, which Japanese island bases far out in the Pacific have proved ineffective to stop.

Extension of that chain of outlying island bases in the South Pacific is indicated in the appearance of a Japanese naval task force in the Solomons. Those islands lie just south of the Bismarck Archipelago, where bases had already been obtained. They also are on the sea road to the big French-mandated island of New Caledonia, now recognized by the United States as under Free French control and therefore available for anti-Axis use. Other French islands similarly controlled reach far eastward into the Pacific. They form a potential new stepping-stone route to Australia and New Zealand for American use.

There is another factor that cannot be overlooked in Japanese planning. With fall of Java the Netherlands-American naval force that dealt stinging blows in defense of that island has faded from the war news. Whatever its losses, much of it is still intact. And those long Japanese supply lines to sustain the New Guinea operation offer a prime target.

• Annie Does Her Bit

I'VE been putting balloons up and down, down and up, and up and down, since October, 1939, but it wasn't until a few days ago that a real live Jerry went smack into my cable.

It was just about getting dark when we got orders to fly our balloon and in a few minutes she was off the bed and aloft. We were rather pleased with ourselves, the boys and I, for I'd put it up in extra quick time. I remember saying to one of the blokes, "If we don't get Annie up soon we shall probably be too late." I was only joking really because we had put her up scores of times without even hearing a plane.

Well, when she was up we trooped off back to our hut, after leaving the duty picquet on guard. We'd just got started to listen to the radio when we heard the 'plane coming very low—very low, it was, much too low for my liking—so we decided to get outside and get a bit of cover. We'd no sooner got outside when the noise of the 'plane changed to a whine. It seemed just as if it were diving right down on top of us. "Jeanny Macke," says one of the airmen—an Irishman who says things like that when he's roused—"Jeanny Macke, he's going to machine-gun us." "He isn't," I said, "he's going to hit the cable."

And he did. He went smack into it. There was a crash and the winch jumped as it took the strain. The cable sawed through the wing just like a grocer's wire cuts through cheese. That fixed him. Off came the best part of a wing and we knew then that we had got the 'plane. After a few seconds, about a thousand yards away from us, we saw a big red glow. We couldn't go and have a dekko, however, for it's against orders to leave the site when on duty, but we heard from our flight commander that the 'plane had crashed and was burning. Flames lit the whole sky and fairy lights were popping off every minute.

Well, we celebrated our first Jerry with a nice cup of tea. Then we realised we'd got to put up another balloon in place of Annie, because of course, Annie didn't live here any more. She'd done her job, pretty well we thought, and we were sorry to see her go, but mind you, we aren't complaining. We had had our bit of excitement and after two years of waiting had been well rewarded.—The Listener, London.

A Bible Message For Today . . .

The Lord knoweth the days of the upright: and their inheritance shall be for ever....

The steps of a good man are ordered by the Lord: and he delighteth in his way....The law of his God is in his heart; none of his steps shall slide.

Mark the perfect man, and behold the upright: for the end of that man is peace.—Ps. xxxvii, 18, 23, 31, 37.

There is therefore now no condemnation to them which are in Christ Jesus, who walk not after the flesh, but after the Spirit. For the law of the Spirit of life in Christ Jesus hath made me free from the law of sin and death....

For as many as are led by the Spirit of God, they are the sons of God. For ye have not received the spirit of bondage again to fear; but ye have received the Spirit of adoption, whereby we cry, Abba, Father. The Spirit itself beareth witness with our spirit, that we are the children of God.—Rom. viii, 1, 2, 14-16.

KINGS ROW

By HENRY BELLAMANN

OUT OF DANGER.
CHAPTER XXVIII.

Parris shoved a chair toward the kitchen table and sat down. Randy stood for a moment looking at him.

"What's the matter, Randy?"

"You said just now that you considered Drake all right—just as he always was. What about you?"

Parris looked puzzled.

Randy finished the preparations for coffee. "Yes, Parris, you. I've known ever since you got back here to King's Row that you're not happy. I don't mean to meddle with your business in any way, but— I just wondered if there is anything I can do for you."

"You're a sweet kid to think about me, but it's just a mater of readjustment. I—I didn't like King's Row when I came back."

"I knew that. I could see it."

"Well—Drake kept me here."

"I guessed that, too.'

"He was not only my good friend in trouble, but he was a sort of professional job."

"And now you want to go away?"

"You were never more mistaken in your life. I've got my job—it's work I like and want to do."

"I'm glad, Parris. I'd hate to see you go away."

"I never expect to. It's a little hard to explain but in some way that lies considerably beyond the ordinary meaning of the word, this is home. I was pretty suddenly and violently uprooted, and when I came back there didn't seem to be anything here that I thought was here. My friendship with Drake was about all that was left of parent soil—do you understand what I mean?"

"I think so."

"Drake, and old Professor Berdorff. Well—it took me a while to put down roots again. The hospital is new ground, of course."

Randy nodded. She was afraid to speak.

"Randy, do you know what mysticism is?"

"No—yes."

"Well, which? No? Yes?"

"I kind of know, I guess. Belief in something that is behind something else that isn't there."

Parris laughed, and Randy set cups on the table. For the first time Parris say in her face the impish look she used to have as a little girl.

"Well, that'll do as a starting point. I hate mysticism, as I hate everything that isn't clear. And that's ridiculous, too, because just about all of my work is concerned with chasing spooks that aren't there. I have to try to keep myself and my ideas realistic, but hallucinations—I'm getting off the track. I started out to say something else. I'm not exactly in love with Kings Row, nor with the town, or the way it looks, nor any places in the town, nor the people that live here. But I'm attracted to all of the stages of being I went through right here. Maybe I like the place where the town is—because I honestly think the town itself is pretty awful—and the place happens to be the scene of all my memories. I guess I'm not being very explicit."

"I understand something of what you mean. Go on.'

Randy poured the coffee and sat down on the opposite side of the table.

"I thought and felt certain things here. Now a lot of people carry their spiritual homes around with them — either inside of them, or, well, maybe the way a snail carries his shell on his back: I can't do that. I have to have a place. And, strangely enough, this is my place. I know in some sort of way that I've got to be here. I used to love to walk about the country and—just look at it. I have to learn to do that again."

He stirred his coffee vigorously, and drank rather absently.

"Are you homesick for Europe?"

"I guess I was for a while, but—it's curious, Randy. I'm in some ways more European than American, but I don't much like Europeans—not deeply. They're older and more cynical, and that very cynicism—no, it's more like fatalism—acts like a frost. We don't know as much as the Europeans, but—oh, and Kings Row is downright backwoods, really — but we've got something that can grow into something else. The Europeans don't seem to me to have that. They are already what they are—a finished product."

Parris laughed. "I'm talking too much."

"It's your own medicine, Doctor."

"What?"

"You know—talking it out. You've explained it to me—"

'Maybe. How did this get started, anyway?"

"You needed to talk to someone, that's all."

"Well I know I'm going home—that's the first time I've said 'home' since I landed here."

"Maybe you ought to get married, Parris."

He looked at her thoughtfully.

"No, Randy, I don't think so. There doesn't seem to be any room anywhere for that kind of an—arrangement."

There was a special-delivery letter lying under the lamp on his table when he reached his apartment. It was postmarked Kings Row. He opened it and read:

Dear Dr. Mitchell:

I haven't had the pleasure of meeting you since your return from abroad, and I regret that my first communication with you is somewhat professional rather than social.

I shall be grateful if you will call as soon as convenient. I should like, also, to have you keep this in strict confidence.

Very truly,
Harriet Gordon.

P. S. It would be more convenient if you could call some evening after supper, instead of during the day. H.G.

Parris frowned. Mrs. Henry Gordon! Strange. . . .

He shrugged, tore the letter into small pieces, and dropped the shreds on the dying coals in the fireplace.

He turned and looked around the apartment. The door stood open into his study. Beyond he could see a dim light burning in the bedroom. He had called this "home." Without thinking.

It was a small apartment on the fifth floor of the central administrative building of the hospital, identical with those assigned to all bachelor staff members.

Randy's suggestion that he marry found no response in him, nor did it disturb him in any way. There was no one. . . . But something else did disturb him. Just two words she had spoken in her friendly fashion: "And you?"

He had said Drake was "all right," and then she had asked that disconcerting question. He wondered why she had asked it at all. He was "all right." He was well, and busy, and—yes, he was happy enough. He supposed he had always been serious, more or less. He wasn't a kid any more to go hopping about. Once more there was an almost imperceptible flick of his eyebrows and the beginning of a gesture that might have moved into his characteristic, French-looking shrug of dismissal.

* * *

"And you?"

Oh, drat Randy's teasing question!

Parris threw a towel over an enameled bench and sat down to wait for the bath to fill. Something about the patterns in the water made him think of the little pools and shallows of the creek where he used to play with Renee.

Renee . . . and Cassie . . . moving through the drift of recollections. Events stood out with flaming clarity against the half haze of the surrounding time. Events, distinct and painful.

He had little enough in the recollections of his boyhood life in Kings Row to be happy about. The nature of his bereavements and his griefs had been too dark, and too severe for a boy. And now that he was living again in the scene of their happening there must be at time some unconscious associations; some spectral presences. . . .

* * *

A week passed before Parris was free to call on Mrs. Gordon. She answered his ring herself and greeted him in a restrained half-voice which gave him an uncomfortable feeling at once.

"It's been a long time since I've seen you," she said. "Of course I've heard—Louise was always speaking of Parris Mitchell."

"How is Louise? I haven't seen her since I came back."

"No. I fancy not. First tell me about yourself. Could I offer you a cup of hot chocolate? They tell me it's very cold out."

Mrs. Gordon sat, very stiff and straight, in an incongruous Roman chair. Her hair, a surprisingly even dark chestnut was fastened high with a comb. The comb reminded him of his grandmother. He wandered a little. . . .

Mrs. Gordon looked sharply at him. "I said, that I have been going through a very trying experience since my husband passed away."

"Oh, I'm sorry to hear that."

"Dr. Mitchell, I'm sure you were surprised to hear from me. Somehow I felt that I could trust your discretion since you used to be a friend of Louise."

Mrs. Gordon moved forward in her chair. "I have called you to speak about Louise."

"Is Louise ill?"

"I don't know."

Mrs. Gordon twisted the ends of her black-lace scarf. "Dr. Mitchell, I've been afraid Louise's mind has been affected. You may remember that some time ago Louise had a most unfortunate attachment for one of the most undesirable boys in this town."

"You are speaking of Drake McHugh."

"Yes—a very sad case. I suppose I was lax in my care of Louise, but before I could guess what might happen she imagined she was in love with him."

"Yes, Mrs. Gordon. You might just tell me what happened later."

"Dr. Mitchell, Louise hated her father!"

"Really? Why?"

"I could never guess. Dr. Gordon was a saint." The woman's face was suddenly transformed. A look that was curiously still and white gave her an appearance of—Parris almost said "exaltation." It might have been nearly such an appearance if it had not been at the same time so hard, and so—yes, it was a cruel look. Every line of Mrs. Gordon's expression was fanatic. Parris felt a little creepy. He decidedly did not like this interview.

COLLEGIATE SENIORS GAIN 21-POINT LEAD OVER OSHAWA SQUAD

Cards Baffled On Cutting Pitching Staff

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 14.—(AP).—Manager Billy Southworth of St. Louis Cardinals probably will be walking the floor all night when the time arrives to cut down the Redbird squad to mid-season proportions.

He has more pitching talent than he can carry, but the surprisingly fine showing of several ambitious rookies promises to make this year's weeding out job tougher than usual.

The present spring training staff includes seventeen moundsmen, ten of whom are starting their first season with the Cards, and Southworth has given all of them to understand they have a chance to be among the nine or ten chosen to stick through the season.

"There's some real competition here," Southworth said, "but it's obviously much better to have too much than too little."

Among the new chuckers who have been impressive are Matt Surkont from Rochester and Johnny Beazley and Al Jurisich, both from New Orleans. Jurisich gave up only one hit in three innings against Cincinnati Reds yesterday.

The Cardinal pitching situation is further complicated by the presence of an unusually strong staff of left-handed candidates.

Southworth has five lefties, who together won seventy-one games last year, and if he should decide to break precedent and retain all of them it would give the Birds one of the stoutest southpaw corps ever assembled by a major league club.

Here are the left-handers and their 1941 records: Howard Pollet, 25-5; Ernie White, 17-7; Max Lanier, 10-8; Clyde Shoun, 3-5; Harry Brecheen, 16-6.

The records of White and Lanier wre compiled with the Cardinals, while Pollet, whom some of the experts have termed another Hubbell, won twenty games for Houston before finishing off a brilliant season in a Cardinal uniform. Brecheen came up from Columbus.

Sports Spice

By HUGH S. FULLERTON, JR., Associated Press Sport Writer

NEW YORK, March 14—(AP).—Adding a new twist to the series of delays and postponements, that have followed that Ray Robinson-Marty Servo fight, Norman Rubio, who'll sub for Servo next Friday, was due to fight Robinson last summer. Ray withdrew, claiming an injured hand, but the commission suspended him for 60 days for running out....Dunc Rigney of Chicago White Sox says President Roosevelt lost plenty of votes by granting Ted Williams that deferment...."Count the pitchers on every American League club but Boston," he says.

Reaching Cleveland on a breezy day before the Lesnevich-Bivins fight, Joe Vella remarked: "Never heard such a wind—and I've seen the time when I had to listen to as many as 25 fight managers talkin' at once."

To-day's guest star.

Charles P. Ward, Detroit Free Press: "Lou Novikoff once confessed to a fellow-player that he was 'tired' of making base hits. But that was in the minors. Lou would have paid money for a couple of base hits while he was trying to win a job with the Cubs last spring."

In honor of Hermon Phillips, who originated the Butler relays back in 1933, the principal trophies at to-night's meet will be full-sized gold replicas of one of the track shoes Phillips wore when he was a quarter-miler on the 1928 Olympic team ....Seems Hermon must have been footloose in those days.

Grade XI C Academic also set a new record in the second group with a $14.74 average and a total of $575. Good work! IX C Academic copped the flag among the Lower School and the average was $1.45 per student.

These are very encouraging results—keep 'em selling!

The Sequel

The fate of three rested in the hands of three last Thursday. Alden Gourley, Bob Crocker, and John Frank contested for first place honors in the Public Speaking contest and the final decision was weighed in the balance by Ralph Standish, barrister, Miss L. M. Park, and R. L. Hale. After a lengthy discussion Mr. tSandish announced the winner—John Frank. John's winning speech was on "All Out War Effort," and was supplemented by an impromptu speech on "Thrills and Spillsof Ice-Boating." Variety is the SPICE of life but in our opinion there should be no spills in ice-boating with the proper ballast. Opinions may differ though. Alden treated with "A Fighting Peace" in detail and his impromptu was a survey of the Dramatic Club. Bob fascinated his audience with an intriguing talk on the "Theory of Life on Other Planets." His excellent impromptu was a humourous though educational talk on the "Operation of a Machine Gun."

As Mr. tSandish mentioned, all the speeches were delivered in a fluent, easy and natural manner accounted for by the boys being born orators. Pretty good from a lawyer. Ed Geraghty was the chairman of the contest and Thelma Zavitz shortened the wait by several piano selections. The winner receives a $25 award, donated by the C.G.E. We might also mention here that John won a five dollar prize last week for selling the most tickets to the recent Y.M.C.A. Friday Night Supper Club formal. Congratulations again, John!

Thus ends the first senior public speaking contest ever held at P.C.V.S. A Junior contest was held in the grades nine last year and it also was a most decided success. Congratulations are due to the five pioneering students — Rod Reed, Connie Nicholson, John Frank, Bob Crocker, and Alden Gourley, for their praiseworthy efforts.

Boiling Point—$1175

Please note that our headline isn't "The Thermometer Blew Up". Only when the fund reaches the total of $1200 will there be an explosion However, even with the $25 increase in the price of a mobile kitchen the original objective has been reached and surpassed by the sum of 14c. Donations will be received until the middle of next week to cover incidental expenses—don't forget to hand yours in.

Total donations this week amounted to $110.54 and added to the previous week's total of $1,064.60 the grand total is $1,175.14—the price of a mobile kitchen! Now for the acknowledgements.

X B Commercial led off with a donation of $9.00 presented by Beryl Read. This is the form's second contribution. Congratulations!

June Wallis on behalf of XII Household Arts donated $8.66 to the fund—there are only nine pupils in the form.

The second largest donation of the week came from Grade XIII A Academic as the sum of $20 was presented by Roger Barrie to the treasurer.

XIII B won the ticket selling campaign for the play and George Richardson added this $10 to the $17.60 previously donated. XII B was the runner-up in the contest. Good work!

The French classes of Grades X A & B, IX D&G Academic were represented by John Lewis who turned over $2.25—collected by a series of nickel fines for the forgetting of books. Not bad!

R. G. Cornell was responsible for 28c—collected by the "Gummers" fines. V. R. Henry's has not been received as yet.

Don Ferguson on behalf of Grade IX D presetned $6.00 to the fund. This is the second donation.

IX B was represented by Bill Browne who donated $9.25 on Wednesday morning.

The highest donation yet received from a single form was recorded on Thursday morning. Beverley Pringle on behalf of Grade X C Academic gave $31.60.

To Household Arts XI went the honor of putting the fund over the original objective of $1,175. Virginia Clarke donated $13.50—an average of 75 cents per pupil. Take a bow!

Forty-two donations in all have been acknowledged before the objective was reached. From 28c to $187.09—were equally responsible for this magnificent. showing. More will be made next week and will more than cover increases from fluctuating conditions, etc. Next Saturday we'll bring you the dramatic climax to the school's War Effort.

Teasettes

The University of Toronto's newspaper "Varsity" is the sole adornment in the showcase this week. Curious on-lookers soon understood its presence. One of the headlines reported that the university darkrooms were being closed because of their untidy condition. A sarcastic comment was written at the top of the sheet drawing a parallel situation in the Collegiate darkrooms. Aside from the point; this paper was brought back by Bob Kay who has been accepted as a Radio mechanic in the R.C.A.F. Good luck to you, Bob.

Thought for the week—"A good deed is never lost; he who sows courtesy reaps friendship, and he who plants kindness gathers love."

The Senior Basketeers played Oshawa collegiate in the school gym last night. Return game will be next Friday at the motor city. The team also assisted in the training of one (if not the ONE) of Ontario's best basketball teams — the Outboard Marines—by a game in the gym Thursday at five thirty. The Marines tripled the Collegians score—that's all we'll reveal.

As this goes to press approximately one thousand copies of "The Echoes" will have been ordered. Monday is the last day for additional orders so get busy and canvass ex-students. "The Echoes" is depending on you.

School pins and rings may be ordered next week—how many please.

Ten P.C.I. stalwarts were responsible for the 39-18 victory over Oshawa Collegiate in the gym last night. The Collegians go into their second game next Friday with a twenty-one point lead. Here's luck to you! Over one hundred students saw the game and helped immeasureably by their cheering. The team was never in danger from the opening whistle and should clear up the Lakeshore championship without any difficulty.

Eric Taylor, George Richardson, and Jim Ferguson were the sharpshooters with a total of thirty points between them and the other nine were collected by Gord Burns, Don MacTavish, and Bill Gardner. The losers kept fresh teams pouring onto the floor at frequent intervals but they were outlasted by the valuable help of Saunders, Smith, and Dinsdale.

Why not plan to attend the game in Oshawa next Friday. It promises to be a thriller and P.C.I.'s basketball future depends upon the successful outcome of this tussle. See you in Oshawa (we hope).

Quakers Pull Into Tie With Generals

Quakers pulled into a tie for first place in the Ladies' Basketball League standings by defeating C.G.E. Electrics 27-24 in a well-played game at the Y.W.C.A. last night.

C.G.E. Generals, who had been one full game ahead of them, were forced to yield half of their position on top of the ladder because they had to default their scheduled game with Y Gym last night. The standing to date:

	Won	Lost
C.G.E. Generals	9	2
Quakers	9	2
Westclox	8	4
Y Gym	5	6
C.G.E. Electrics	4	7
St. John's	4	7
Normal	0	9

Quakers were forced all the way by the battling Electrics, who have been going great guns lately, but they built up a margin up a meagre 4-point lead in the first half and then held on till the finish, despite the losers' last half rally. The winners led 15-11 at the half-way mark and although Electrics outscored them in the last half by a single point, Quakers had enough left to hold them off until the final whistle blew. It was a fast, hard-fought game all the way with both teams coming up with some good passing and sensational shooting while on the other hand both missed a lot of easy scoring chances with poor marksmanship. The winners counted three points on their eight free throws and Electrics scored but two of 12 chances. P. Ayres with 11 points and P. Lawless with 9 led the Quakers and E. Craig who was top scorer for the night with 14 points, B. Dobbin and J. Castle played well for the losers. 8he teams:

Electrics 24—E. Craig (14), B. Stalter, M. Hodson (2), F. Merritt, M. McCarthy, B. Dobbin (4), J. Castle (4).

Quakers 27—P. Lawless (9), G. Allen, H. White (1), J. Metcafe, P. Ayres (11), M. Duncan (4), D. Weese (2), D. Smith, M. Yondell.

Referees—H. Smith and J. Cooper.

Large Entry Named In Derby

LOUISVILLE, Ky., March 14 — (AP). — One hundred and fifty thoroughbreds, headed by Alsab and Requested, were nominated today for the 68th running of the $75,000 Kentucky Derby at Churchill Downs on May 2.

Included in the list of nominees for the mile and a quarter classic are 15 imported horses.

Of the 150 nominated this year, probably not more than to 15 will parade to the post on Derby Day.

Col. Matt J. Winn, president of Churchill Downs, reviewing the list of subscribers said, "There is no outstanding candidate, but there are more than a score of top class three-year-olds from which the winner probably will come."

Mrs. Albert Sabath's Alsab, 1941 juvenile champion, presents by far the most impressive record of any of the nominees on the basis of last year's performance. But the $700 bargain horse has been anything but successful this season in his Florida campaign.

The Sabath colt started 22 times as a two-year-old, won 15, was second twice and third once to win a total of $110.600.

Second only to Alsab among 1941 juveniles, Requested, owned by B. F. Whitaker and winner of the Flamingo this winter, also is in the list and probably will become the winter book favorite.

Warren Wright's Calumet Farm stable nominated eight thoroughbreds to lead all subscribers in the hope of repeating his 1941 triumph by Whirlaway. Trainer Ben Jones, however is believed staking his hopes on either Sun Again or Some Chance. Sun Again won $45,455 last year, while Some Chance won $81,265. Some Chance lost his only time out this year at Agua Caliente.

Col. E. R. Bradley, whose Idle Hour silks have triumphed in four Derbies, is back again with Bless Me after a year's absence.

City Carpetball

The games for next week are as follows:

P.F.D. No. 8 vs Moose No. 10

B.E.S.L. No. 6 vs St. George's No. 9.

B.E.S.L. No. No. 5 vs Brintons No. 11.

On Wednesday night Auto Tops No. 12 will meet L.O.L. No. 4 at the fire hall.

There will be a meeting of all the skips on Wednesday night at the fire hall at 7;15 o'clock.

Too Much Pressure

HONOLULU, March 14 (AP) — Miss Miriam Moore of Ann Arbor, Mich., halted a Red Cross first aid training class yesterday. She shrieked while the class was in the midst of its fourth session—artificial respiration—and with good reason. An overzealous classmate using her as a subject pressed too hard and broke two of her ribs.

SPORTS – DAY BY DAY

By FRED D. CRAIG

After the Petes had pulled a Frank Merriwell finish in the last minute of last night's O.H.A. Senior B final game with Merritton Hayes Steel Wire team to score a goal with Goalie Harding taken out to make way for a sixth attacker and even the count at 5-5 it was disappointing to the big crowd of fans that the battle was not fought out in overtime. Our own opinion is that under the rules of competition a ten minute overtime period is supposed to be played in such cases. But it was not the fault of the Petes. They were willing to go on and settle the argument. Referee Armstrong took the position that in the absence of definite instructions as to what was to be done in the event of a tie he would not order play to continue if either team objected. Merritton promptly objected and it was no soap. You can hardly blame them for their decision. They had more than the Petes. A loss for them would have left them two games down whereas a defeat for the Soldiers would have merely tied up the series.

* * * * * *

Failure of the Petes to come through with a win after outscoring the Redmen 9 to 4 at St. Catharines made the result one of the season's surprises. The heavy ice, of course, was the chief explanation. Another was the fact that Goalie Clement who did not shine at St. Catharines came up with a four-star exhibition in the nets. The Manitoba lad stopped a lot of rubber as the Petes stormed around his citadel for minutes at a time, some of his saves earning the applause of a hostile crowd. And still another factor was the manner in which the Redmen cashed in on their comparatively few opportunities. They were real opportunists. In the first period they made only two or three menacing moves while the Petes had one scoring chance after another but when the session ended the teams had scored one goal each.

* * * * * *

This Merritton gang, however, deserve credit for the battle they put up. Made to look bad on their home ice in the first game of the series, they came down here last night and were dismayed to find a wet, heavy cushion to greet them. But they went out and fought it out all along the line and while they had a win snatched out of their hands in the last few seconds they had the satisfaction of knowing that they were never worse than tied with a team that had outplayed them before their home fans two nights previously. Clement was the hero but the young line of Robinson, Brant and Spooner also figured largely, clicking for three goals and showing plenty of fight. On the territorial play the Redmen were perhaps a bit fortunate in averting defeat but they still pay off in goals and Merritton had as many as the Petes when the referee decided to call it a night.

* * * * * *

Next Game At St. Kitts

The next game in the series will be played in the Garden City Arena at St. Catharines Monday night and it should be a hummer. The comeback of the Redmen will give them confidence and the Petes will have to play back to their Wednesday night form to get a decision. And after Monday night it is expected that the next battle will be staged either here or in Oshawa but it will not be here unless there is a genuine cold wave to produce proper ice. The Petes have decided, after last night, that they want no more games in the kind of going they had to contend with then. They would prefer to play at home if decent ice were available but unless the thermometer takes a real dive toward the bottom another game is out, and Oshawa will be the scene of hostilities. It is expected it will be played on Wednesday night and no matter what happens in St. Kitts Monday the Wednesday tussle should be one of the features of the season.

* * * * * *

Writes Bill Walshe in the Kingston Whig-Standard: "Kingston's hockey present may be poor with two teams squeezed out of important playoff rounds but the future looks good considering the play of the young lads in the minor leagues. Failure to sponsor good minor sports will ruin the seniors as Kingston found out in baseball and hockey but well directed midget, juvenile and junior baseball returned senior ball last season and at the present rate young hockey players are being developed there should soon be plenty of home-grown talent for top teams. Belleville has been blanked out of practically all sports through failure to pay attention to the boys, in fact, practically the complete Senior B team in the Quinte City this winter had to be imported. Kingston's hockey futures were in action last night at the Jock Harty Arena with finals in the city leagues while a midget team was in Marmora for Ontario playoffs and the juveniles go to Oshawa tonight for the provincial eliminations. The courage that keeps men interested in minor sports is evident in Max Jackson, who had the heart-breaking loss with his junior team in Oshawa this week when a five-goal lead was wasted, although had his instructions been followed Kingston would be in the Ontario round robin tournament today instead of Oshawa. Max Jackson continued his work of rebuilding for next year by officiating in the games at the Jock Harty Arena last night while he will direct the juveniles in Oshawa tonight, in the same rink where his junior B hockey hopes were shattered last Monday. There are many after game coaches who get the second guess to complain about coaching after losses but they are not around when the boys are being developed or teams organized."

Churchills Lose Close One

Manager G. Harris's Churchills will be seen in action here Monday night when they clash with Port Hope in the second game of a home-and-home game series in the third round of the Ontario Juvenile series. Churchills were nosed out at Port Hope last night by one goal to nothing after a gruelling battle on very soft ice. There was no score in the first and second periods and fifteen minutes of the final sesion had gone before the Ontarios finally slipped in a counter to take the battle by the smallest possible score. The Churchills lined up as follows: Goal, Leether; defence, Ainslie, White, Lawson; forwards, Close, Anderson, Carpenter, Harris, Garvey, Millen, Dorrell. It is hoped that there will be a sufficient drop in the temperature to give the teams a good cushion for Monday night. The Peterborough kids are confident of their ability to come through and go on into the next round and the game will be a good exhibition. Scores of the senior game in St. Catharines will be given out.

* * * * * *

Outboard Marines journey to Kingston today where tonight they will meet Johnny Edwards' Kingston Combines in the Queen's University Gymnasium in the second game of their intermediate O.A.B.A. series. The Peterborough team have a lead of 13 points and will have a battle on their hands to hold it on the big university floor. However the Outboards showed themselves right at home on a large court in their exhibition game with Collegiate the other day and if they hit the form they have been showing all winter should give the Kingston team a real argument from whistle to whistle. The Outboards will have the following players in action tonight: Doug McPherson, Jimmy Thorburn, Joe Stewart, Pete McArthur, Joe Jakafby, Gordie McIntyre, Mike Rogow and Jack Craig.

* * * * * *

Sporting Chili Con Carne: Last night's draw was the first tie game of the season on local ice....Merritton have had three penalty shots, two minors and a major, against Ray Harding in the series so far and have failed to cash in on any of them....Guelph Biltmores evened up the Junior A series by defeating Oshawa Generals 3 to 2 at Guelph....That probably comes under the head of an upset, too....Peterborough Collegiate picked up a nice lead in their cage game with Oshawa Friday....It should be enough to carry them through and give them a trip to Toronto for the Cossa finals....Tommy Sturch, Toronto boxer, who appeared here several times years ago is dead. He was 52....Referee Armstrong wasted a lot of time last night letting the teams argue. On that last goal there was nothing to argue about. He told the Merritton team that his whistle did not blow until the puck was in the net and that should have ended the controversy. "Army" probably realised that it was Friday the 13th before the game was over....It was just one of those night for everybody.

Crown Warwick Champ Rookie, O'Connor Second

By SYDNEY GRUSON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO, March 14 — (CP). — Chunky Grant Warwick of New York Rangers was named today as the outstanding rookie of the National Hockey League for the 1941-42 season, and the margin by which he was voted the honor was proof enough of the value of his first-year exploits.

Voting in the annual Canadian Press poll, by which the Calder Trophy is awarded piled up 70 points for the 20-year-old right-winger on the ballots of thirty hockey writers in the N.H.L. cities. Buddy O'Connor of Montreal Canadiens was second, with 27 points; Bob Goldham of Toronto Maple Leafs third with 16, and Alex Kaleta of Chicago Black Hawks fourth with 15.

Only two of the writers participating in the poll failed to place Warwick, product of New York's Allan Cup amateur team, Regina Rangers, last season, either first, second or third He got 17 first-place votes, eight seconds and three thirds. Points were awarded on a 3-2-1 basis and the vote was "weighted" to give equal voting power to each N.H.L. city.

Succeeding Canadiens' Johnny Quilty, the Ranger winger had a terrific rookie year and was in no small measure responsible for the team's success. He has shot 16 goals and gained credit for 17 assists on a line that has only one experienced big-leaguer, centre Clint Smith.

Headed for the Navy

This probably will be Warwick's last season, as well as having been his first, of N.H.L. play for the duration. His dad is in the Canadian Army, a brother is in the Navy and Grant plans to join his brother in navy blue as soon as the playoffs are finished.

Although the vote was nearly as unanimous as is possible with 30 balloting, five others besides Warwick were given at least one first-place vote and O'Connor, 26-year-old centre-ice product of Montreal's outdoor rinks, got six. Buddy joined Canadiens early in the season along with his amateur line-mates, Pete Morin and Gerry Heffernan.

Taken intact from Montreal Royals with whom they played for four years, the three immediately made good in the N.H.L., making up in speed and passing what the lack in size. O'Connor has been the best of the three, scoring nine goals as well as setting up the majority of the line's plays.

Fifth in the voting was Johnny McCreedy, the much-travelled amateur who wound up with Toronto Maple Leafs this season. Johnny got 18 points.

Collegiate Takes First Game By Score 39-18

Oshawa Collegiate bowed to the local P.C.V.S. squad Friday night in the school gym, on the low end of a 39-18 count. This was the first in a two-game series with Oshawa for the Lakeshore championship and points count in the round. Coach Bamforth's fast young team got off to a fine start and the half time tally was 20-9 for the Collegians. It was a wide open game with the losers missing too many chances on the basket.

Twenty fouls were handed out—each team getting ten free throws. Oshawa cashed in four out of ten tries, while the Collegiate got seven in ten.

Skinner, with seven points, and Sledziewski and Seeley with five and four respectively, were good for the losers. Eric Taylor marked up 14 P.C.I. points and Ferguson and Richardson followed closely with nine and seven each. The winners after next Friday's game in the Motor City will go to Toronto for the C.O.S.S.A. play-offs. The teams:

Oshawa—L. Chute 2, D. Scott, J. Skinner 7, W. Simons, J. Sledziewski 1, N. Reed 1, B. Seeley 4, G. Meuser, W. Shultz, P. McKenzie.

P.C.I.—J. Ferguson 9, E. Taylor 14, S. Saunders, G. Burns 6, G. Richardson 7, D. MacTavish 1, B. Gardner 2, W. Smith, J. Dinsdale, M. Graham.

Referee—Doug. McPherson.

Oshawa's Bees Lose To U.T.S. 3-2

OSHAWA, March 14. — In the first game of their home-and-home, goals-to-count series played here last night, University of Toronto Schools upset Oshawa Junior Bees 3-2. U.T.S., last Toronto team left in O.H.A. competition, won on their dogged backchecking.

A lone third-period goal by Geoffrey Gordon, scored on a breakaway gave the visitors their winning margin. A two-goal scoring outburst in the second frame had previously enabled the Bees to tie up the game after U.T.S. had obtained a commanding lead. Furey at centre and Burkart in goal looked best for the locals who were playing without their star centre, White, injured in the series, which resulted in the elimination of Kingston Lions.

The teams:

University Toronto Schools—Goal, Ball; defence, Brown, C. Bark; centre, Gordon; wings, Lawler, D. Bark; subs., Houston, Firstbrook Fox, Ratcliffe, Pugh, Robson (sub goal).

Oshawa Bees — Goal, Burkart; defence, Batten, McGill; centre, McIntyre; wings, Reid, Barker; subs., Furey, Sawyer, McMullen, Bouckley, Bowen, McArthur.

This Week In Radio

Many of you no doubt have been stirred by the thrilling articles written by Collier's Quentin Reynolds and will be pleased to hear that he will address Canadian listeners Sunday from Toronto over CBL at 9.00 p.m.—Lieut. James Stewart, former screen star and now an army flier, will be starred in "A Letter at Midnight," a dramatic story inspired by the U.S. Army Air Corps, WEAF, Sunday, at 4.30.—Cecil B. De Mille, who is celebrating his 30th anniversary as a movie director, will be Charlie McCarthy's guest on Sunday at 8.00 over CBL. Abbott and Costello will vie with Charlie in an effort to catch the director's eye.—A radio adaptation of Shakespeare's play, "King John," will be presented over CBL Sunday from 10.00 to 11.00 p.m. The special performance of "King John" follows a season of British Ballad Opera. John Carradine, the New York born Shakespearean actor who has become one of the most sought-after character players in Hollywood, is coming to Canada to appear in the radio version.—One of the most famous of contemporary Irishmen will have his musical portrait "painted" in honor of St. Patrick's Day during the Contented program Monday, WEAF, at 10.00 p.m. The subject will be Dramatist George Bernard Shaw.—The Guiding Light, popular dramatic serial, story of Dr. John Rutledge, the Good Samaritan Pastor, will return Tuesday, March the 17th, and will thereafter be heard every day over WEAF at 2.30.—Friday, March 20, at 7.00 p.m., WJZ will premiere the "Ontario Show." This was heard last year on Sundays with sour-faced Ned Sparks in the M.C. role until the episode of the Dionne Quintuplets, when genial Col. Lemuel Q. Stoopnagle (as he calls himself) took over and did such a good job that he returns this year in the same capacity. Lovely Madeleine Carroll will be guest star on the first program.—More messages from Canadians serving overseas will now be heard on Saturdays, 7.00 to 8.00 p.m., CBL.

Charles Laughton, whose first screen success was as a butler in "Ruggles of Red Gap," will be put to work as a butler on the Vallee-Barrymore program Thursday at 10.00 p.m., WEAF.

MERRITTON HOLDS SOLDIERS TO TIE IN SECOND GAME OF SERIES

Petes Put Six Forwards On Ice In Last Minute of Play; 'Honey' Tompkins Sews Up Game

By FRED CRAIG

Merritton Hayes Wire team pulled one of the season's biggest surprises when they held Peterborough Soldiers to a 5 to 5 tie in the second game of the O.H.A. senior B final series at Brock Street Rink last night.

The upset would have been even greater if Coach Jim Ellis had not adopted the desperate expedient of pulling Goalie Ray Harding out of the net with 40 seconds left to play and sending six attackers out. The last-minute strategy worked for ten seconds later Honey Tompkins had pushed in a goal to sew up a game that the Redmen had apparently had in the bag with a 5 to 4 score.

No overtime was played. At the end of the regulation time which came 30 seconds after Tompkins' goal, Referee A. W. Armstrong of Oshawa called the two coaches and two captains together and asked if either club had received any special instructions as to what was to be done in the case of a tie. Neither had got any orders whereupon Armstrong announced that in view of the condition of the ice if either team objected to going on he would call the game with the score tied. The Petes wanted to continue but Merritton declined and that meant it was all over so far as last night was concerned.

The biggest crowd of the season saw an exciting game on heavy, slushy ice. The conditions were bad for a final contest but the teams managed to work in a lot of good hockey in spite of the tough going.

Brilliant Goaltending

Thanks to a brilliant display of goaltending by Aime Clement, the French-Canadian lad from St. Boniface, Man. in the Merritton nets the Redmen were never worse than tied throughout the game. The Petes outshot them 3 or 4 to 1 and at times had Merritton hemmed in behind their blue line for minutes but Clement flopped in front of nearly everything they threw at him. The result was that although the Soldiers had 90 per cent of the territorial play during the first twenty minutes, the teams were tied at one goal each at the end of the period. the Petes sewing it up after the Redmen had punched in the first goal.

Merritton again took the lead twice in the second session and twice more the Petes tied it up to leave the score 3-3 at the close of the stanza.

Once again the visitors went out in front in the final twenty minutes, this time drawing two goals in the van with eight minutes to go. Blewett got one of those back a minute later but the equalizer did not come until 30 seconds before the end of the period.

Tension was high throughout the battle, alhough the game was not rough. Arguments over goals caused several long delays. Merritton protested the Petes' first goal, claiming that the puck had been kicked into the net and they argued long and strenuously over the last one, contending that Referee Armstrong had blown his whistle before the puck entered the cage. They lost both those arguments and the Petes did not fare any better when they claimed a goal on a shot by Honey Tompkins that hit the goal post.

Better Than At Home

Merritton put up a much stouter argument than they did in their home game and they were helped in that showing by the bad ice conditions. Clement was a tower of strength in the net, Desson played a lot of defence in front of him and the pony line of Robinson, Brant and Spooner who failed to click in the first game were carrying a lot of the play last night. But at that the Petes had opportunities enough to have salted the game away. In the first period, especially, and to a lesser degree in the latter stages they had a big share of the territorial play and did everything but score time after time. All the homesters had tehir moments but there were no particular stars on the night's play. Honey Tompkins who rattled in four goals in the first game came back with two more last night, while the Petes' other counters were registered by Les. Burton, Joe Blewett and Art Heal. Eddie Starr was the extra forward and had a hand in two of the homesters' counters.

Clement was called on early and often in the first few minutes of the game. Tompkins, Kingdon and Heal were in on top of him on several dangerous raids but they could not beat him. Merritton who had not a dangerous move up to that stage suddenly got an opening on a breakaway when Hand put Saunders into the clear with a long pass and the centre man shot as soon as the disc was on his stick, drilling a beauty from outside the penalty shot line into the top corner of the net.

The Bennett-Nichols-Blewett line stormed in and hemmed the Redmen behind their blue line but the puck would not go into the net. Clement continued to hold the fort and nearly half the period was gone before he was finally beaten, Les Burton jabbing the rubber into the cage after the goalie had stoped a shot from the side by Starr. It was the last score of the period, despite frequent opportunities for the Petes.

A Flock Of Penalties

A flock of penalties featured the early stages of the second period. First Saunders drew one for slashing but Merritton held the Petes while he was off. Then Drake Jopling was chased and when Art Heal tore into Armstrong to protest he was given a ten-minute misconduct penalty. A few seconds later Johnny Godfrey was sent away for slashing and the Petes had to play four men to six for nearly two minutes. Tompkins and Kingdon did the forechecking to hold the opposition at bay until the sides were even again. Soon after Merritton went in front again when Spooner broke inside on a nice play. Harding went out and stopped his shot but Brant closed in fast and lifted the rubber into the open cage before the goalie could get to his feet. A neat passing play started by Starr who passed to Kingdon at the blue line wound up in a smart goal when Kingdon relayed the pass to Tompkins who went in close and gave Clement no chance on a low hard shot to the corner. That made it 2-2.

Three minutes later the Redmen's second linec licked for another goal when Spooner scored at close range on a passing play with Robinson and Brant.

Waste Penalty Shot

The Redmen lost a good chance to increase their margin when Tompkins hooked D. Rocco after the latter had broken through the Petes' defence. Tompkins got the gate and Referee Armstrong awarded a major penalty shot. Rocco carried the rubber in on top of Harding and then shot right at him at point blank range. Merritton maintained their lead until ten second before the end of the period when the Petes tied it up again. Kingdon passed from the side to Don Crowe and although Clement blocked the defence man's drive Art Heal slid the rebound into the net.

The ice was very heavy when the last period started and both teams cut loose to try to get a lead. The Petes missed a couple of chances and it was finally Merritton who scored on a breakaway. Spooner dashed out over his own blue line and set Robinson up with a long pass. The former St. Catharines junior wasted on time in driving a hard shot into the top corner of the net.

The Petes fought back trying to get the equalizer but Clement kept kicking out the shots and when another breakaway gave the Redmen a two-goal lead it looked to be all over. Saunders carried the rubber down after breaking from a Petes' ganging attack and although Harding stopped his shot the rebound went straight out to Melville who had been trailing and he back-handed the disc high against the mesh.

The Soldiers got that back a minute later when Burton carried the rubber down, and fought his way through the Merritton defence for a shot. Clement made the save but Joe Blewett was on hand to sink rebound.

Then with the minutes rapidly passing the Petes kept ganging up but Clement was unbeatable until with only 40 seconds left Coach Ellis pulled Harding out of the net and with six attackers in action the Petes stormed in. They got their reward when Tompkins shoved in the tieing goal after Clement had stopped Nichols' shot. That made it 5 to 5 and nothing happened in the remaining 30 seconds.

KOREA HERMITS

Korea was one known as "the Hermit Kingdom."

Duck Brother Nicholson

George Nicholson, with back to camera, ducks just in time as Private Joe Louis shoots a left that probably would have knocked Mr. Nicholson off his feet had he been on the receiving end of it. The champ boxed four rounds with a quartet of sparmates in preparation for his forthcoming bout with Abe Simon at Madison Square Garden on March 27. The soldiers from the camp watched in admiration as their hero went through his paces by doing a little roadwork and skipping the rope before sparring.

Theatre Highlights In N. Y.

By LEON EDEL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

NEW YORK, March 14—(CP)—The theatrical season of 1941-42 is running to a close. A few plays are due to straggle in before the hot weather comes to Manhattan, but they are not likely to change the general aspect of the season which can be summed up as one of the emptiest Broadway has experienced in years.

Curiously enough the war has not deadened the desire for the theatre; there have been as many playgoers as ever and the box office take is reported to have been greater this season than last. There has been, too, a consistent search for plays that will bring relief to war-weary minds and provide a snatched hour of escape.

But looking back one can see the season only as a wide graveyard of flops—comedies that missed fire, problem plays that didn't face the problem, serious plays that were phony, phony plays that masqueraded as great theatre. They were given short shrift by public and critics alike. One or two inoffensive little plays drifted in, minor notes along the gaudry white way, but critics, who have never shown a nice sense of proportion as between major and minor plays, murdered them off without a murmur.

Close for Angel Street

Top hit is the play that arrived unheralded two nights before Pearl Harbor and nearly collapsed under the international strain. This was "Angel Street," the deft little Victoria thriller by Patrick Hamilton which brought stardom to Judith Morris of Moose Jaw, Sask., better known here by her stage name of Judith Evelyn. The play rapidly took hold and its tightly-written scenes are entertaining absorbed audiences nightly.

The season had four new comedy successes—Max Gordon's pleasant "Junior Miss," the genteel folk-comedy "Cafe Crown," Noel Coward's "Blithe Spirit" and the minor little farce-comedy "Spring Again," notable mostly because it is a vehicle for such tried troupers as Grace George and C. Aubrey Smith. Comedy hold-overs from previous seasons are the unquenchable "Life With Father," "Arsenic and Old Lace," and "My Sister Eileen."

The best the season has been able to do in the way of comedy of ideas has been Sampson Raphaelson's "Jason," about a drama critic, which is literate, light and diverting. There has been one good war play, Brennan's "The Wookey." The only really serious play was "Watch On the Rhine" a hold-over from last season now on the road, which probably will qualify for the Pulitzer prize.

In the realm of musicals "Porgy and Bess" in a brilliant revival is outstanding. Then there are the bright and entertaining "Banjo Eyes," with Eddie Cantor, "Let's Face It" with Danny Kaye, "Best Foot Forward" which introduces a flock of cheerful juveniles and the last season hold-over "Lady In the Dark," the Gertrude Lawrence play with music which is, as ever, one of the finest attractions on Broadway.

"Mr. Sycamore," the whimsical short story by Robert Ayre, Montreal journalist, author and art critic, which appeared in 1937 in Story Magazine has been dramatized by Ketti Frings and the theatrical Guild is said to be interested in it for next season. The story dealt with a postman who, weary of walking his daily rounds, decides to become a tree.

Leafs Still Have Chance To Snatch Lead

By The Canadian Press

The National Hockey League swings into the last week-end of its schedule tonight with interest which lagged a few weeks ago revived in the second-place battle between Toronto Maple Leafs and Boston Bruins.

Boston pulled up to within one point of the Leafs by beating Rangers in New York Thursday night and could take over second place with a victory over Leafs in Toronto tonight. Conflicting reports have been issued regarding the possibility of Bill Cowley returning to action in this game tonight, but the last authentic information said he wouldn't. The Boston centre star was injured January 22, and hasn't played since.

The Boston-Toronto struggle for second spot may not be decided decisively by tonight's game because Toronto has a total of three games left to play, Boston two (including tonight in both cases). Should Boston hoist the Leafs out of second spot tonight, the battling might continue until the final night of the schedule, next Thursday.

A victory over Boston tonight would place Toronto in a position threatening New York Rangers, the first-place club. Rangers have a three-point margin on Leafs but have only one game left to play. The difference between finishing first and second mainly is about $150 a player, and the right to choose the date (between March 21 and 22) and the locals for the opening game of the Stanley Cup semi-final series.

In other games on the week-end Canadiens and Detroit meet twice, in Montreal tonight and Detroit Sunday night, Toronto travels to New York for a joust with Americans tomorrow night, while Rangers meet Chicago Black Hawks in Chicago.

Quebec Defies On Its Playoffs

MONTREAL, March 14 — (CP).—President Norman Dawe of the Quebec Amateur Hockey Association said last night that teams now competing in Provincial playoffs would continue their present playoff plans that provide for declaration of a Senior champion by March 31, regardless of a Canadian Amateur Hockey Association ruling that the Quebec champion must be ready to play in the Maritimes March 25.

Will Confer Sunday

Unless the C.A.H.A. extends the time limit, Dawe said, the Q.A.H.A. would be unable to declare a champion in the time stated, and would be unable to have a representative ready for Allan Cup playdowns.

President Dawe said that the extension the Q.A.H.A. had requested for completion of its Provincial playoffs was the first time such a request had been made in the twenty-year history of the association.

George Dudley, president of the C.A.H.A., said in Midland Friday that the two-day extension he had granted the Q.A.H.A. was his "final decision." Dudley said he would be in Montreal Sunday to discuss the matter with Q.A.H.A. officials, but said "I don't expect to change my mind."

Their Fourth Request

The Q.A.H.A. had asked the C.A.H.A. for an extension to March 31 after a meeting here this week. Previously they had made two requests for an extension of fifteen days and one of seven days. They had originally been asked to have a winner ready to play in the Maritimes March 23.

In stating his case last night, Dawe said that he knew of cases in other years when other branches had been granted extensions of up to a week, and saw no reason why the Quebec branch couldn't be granted the same privilege.

"The Q.S.H.L. playoffs and the series against the Senior "B" winners is the only chance the clubs have of making any money," Dawe said. "Once a team goes into the Allan Cup playdowns, the C.A.H.A. takes everything except bare travelling expenses for the clubs involved."

Besides, said Dawe, the Allan Cup playoffs wouldn't be much of an affair if Quebec were not represented. "If the C.A.H.A. wants to pass up a $25,000 series gate, which games in Montreal would bring, it is their own business."

News From Training Camps

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 14—(AP).—The baseball season is a month away, but the world champion New York Yankees have started a few "streaks." The Yanks have won three exhibition games in a row, the last two by shutouts, and haven't been scored on in 18 innings.

CLEARWATER, Fla.—The Indians will send veterans Al Smith, Joe Krakauskas and Clint Brown against the Red Sox today in an efforts to get the Tribe back in the winning column after dropping three straight. Shortstop-Manager Lou Boudreau went to bed with a sore throat yesterday.

TAMPA, Fla.—A bright spot in Cincinnati's inability to improve its hitting is Shortstop Eddie Joost, lead-off man, who cracked three singles yesterday to bring to nine his total of safeties in five Grapefruit games.

MIAMI, Fla.—"No, the screwball isn't what it used to be," says Carl Hubbel, veteran New York Giants' southpaw, of the pitch that made him one of the game's greatest. "It just couldn't because I no longer can put the snap on it that I used to. And of course, I can't throw as hard, either. But the curve still seems to be working all right."

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla.— Billy Sullivan, catcher purchased from Detroit by Brooklyn yesterday, can play first or third base and may get a chance at an infield post with the Dodgers. President Larry MacPhail, who says Rookie Cliff Dapper also will be kept on the catching staff, says that if anything happens to Pee Wee Reese, Arky Vaughan could be moved to his old shortstop position and Sullivan to third base.

3 Major Rallies Edge Bisons In 3-2 Opener

HAMILTON, Ont., March 14. — (CP).—Hamilton Majors and Buffalo-Ankerite Bisons of Schumacher, Ont., rested today after the strenuous opening contest last night in a best-of-five Canadian senior hockey championship elimination series which looms as one of the stiffest in the history of north-south Allan Cup skirmishing in Ontario.

Hamilton won the game 3-2 on the outstanding performance of Doug Runions, centre on Hamilton's first line. Runions scored all three goals for the Ontario Hockey Association senior "A" champs, bringing them twice from behind before he sank the winner.

Second game of the series will be played here Monday night with the third in Schumacher, Ont., next Wednesday and a fourth, if necessary, in Schumacher Thursday. If a fifth game is needed, it will be played in Toronto next Saturday.

Alex Brownlee, the Buffalo-Ankerite goalkeeper, suffered a cut over the right eye when hit by a flying puck in the first period and Vezina, the sub-goalie, took over for the last two minutes fo the first period and the first five of the second. Brownlee came back then with seven stitches closing the wound, and played an outstanding game.

Carnegie Opens

First goal of the game was scored by Ossie Carnegie while his club was one man short. Defenceman Nels Dixon was serving a penalty when Carnegie slipped in alone and lifted a high one past Goalie Jack Eley. Runions got it back less than three minutes later with his linemates, Johnny Conick and Dillon Brady, drawing assists.

The second period was featured by outstanding play of Bison's Negro line, Ossie and Herbie Carnegie and Manny McIntyre. The line back-checked Majors into the ice and led several dangerous thrusts on the Hamilton goal. In the third Barney Morris scored while Smack Allen was serving a penalty. Runions took a goalmouth pass from Conick to tie the score and won the game on a three-way play a few minutes later.

Favor Thompson And Effnert In Shuttle Tilts

TORONTO, March 14 — (CP). — Ontario badminton champions for 1942 will be decided today with completion of semi-finals and finals of the provincial championship tournament at the Toronto Strathgowan Club.

Favored for men's and women's singles crowns respectively, Glen Thompson of Toronto Carltons and Evelyn Effnert of Toronto Boulevards came through yesterday's draws safely and Miss Effnert also entered semi-finals in the women's and mixed doubles events.

Three Western Ontario players joined Thompson in the semi-finals of the men's singles event—Don McLean of Stratford, Keith Butler of Kitchener, and Bob Williams of Niagara Falls.

With Miss Effnert in the women's singles semi-finals are Jill Cavanagh of Toronto Granites and Barbara Templton and Pat Donovan of Niagara Falls.

Miss Effnert is teamed with Roy Smith of Woodstock in the mixed doubles play. Others to reach semi-finals were Barbara Templeton and Bob Williams, Niagara Falls; Jill Cavanagh and J. Muir, Toronto Granites, and E Marshall and R. Banks, Toronto Strathgowans.

Two Western Ontario pairs are favored to reach the men's doubles finals, the Niagara Falls team of Bob Reichert and Roy Young and another pair, Jack Nash, London, and Roy Smith, Woodstock. Al Phillips and Rogers Banks, Toronto Strathgowans, and R. Little and A. Billesdon, of the same club also reached semi-finals.

Miss Effnert and Miss Cavanagh are teamed in the women's doubles. Others to reach the semi-final round were Audrey Upton and B. Allen, Toronto Strathgowans, Barbara Templeton and Pat Donovan, Niagara Falls, and Dorothy Renwick and J. Caldwell, Ottawa.

Remember When—

(By the Canadian Press.)

Hamilton Tigers went on strike after winning the National Hockey League championship 17 years ago to-day. The club executive refused a bonus to players to meet Victoria Cougars in the Stanley Cup series. Montreal Canadiens defeated Toronto St. Pats in a playoff, only to lose to the Cougars in the finals.

DON'T BEMOAN THE FACT YOU CAN'T FIND HUSBAND

Marriage Doesn't Have to Be the Goal of Girls in These Interesting Times.

Dear Dorothy Dix—My father is a widower and is thinking of marrying again, so I feel that I had better be looking for a chance to make a home for myself by finding a good husband. But where can I go to meet some eligible bachelors? Men don't go to church any more so you can't meet them there, and in the business world most of the men I am thrown in contact with are married. Really single men are almost a scarce as hen's teeth. I have always longed to marry and have a home of my own and a couple of children, but it seems as if I will not get out of life just what I want. I fear I am doomed to work all my life in the business world. Why is it some people have all the luck? BROWN EYES.

Answer: Well, Brown Eyes, luck is good or bad as things turn out in life. There are plenty of women who would think that they were the favorite daughter of Lady Luck if they had a good steady job, as you have, that made them independent. Also, there are hundreds of thousands of wives married to men who are drunkards or gamblers or roues or ne'er-do-wells, who have dragged them down into dire poverty and who have hungry little children crying to them for the bread they cannot give them, who think that the luckiest women in the world are the free, independent, snappy, well-dressed business women who have nobody to support but themselves.

So there you are, and there is literally nothing more true than the old proverb that says that we do not know our luck when we have it.

One of the strangest things in the whole feminine psychology is that when women think of marriage it never seems to cross their minds that it would be possible for them to miss drawing the capital prize in the matrimonial lottery. They are always sure that the men THEY married would be moral and upright, and tender and kind, and moneymakers who would provide them with beautiful and comfortable homes and all the luxuries in life, though Heaven knows that all about them they see their sister women whose marriage are veritable hells on earth.

Life Could Be Worse

Look about you in your own office and see what luck the girls who worked with you have had in marriage. There is Sally who used to be before her marriage so gay and laughing and full of fun. The last time you saw her she was broken and aged by childbearing and cooking and washing and baby-tending and there wasn't a smile left in her.

There was Gladys who used to look like a Daily Hint from Paris. She is shabby and bedrabbled now, for she has no money to spend on clothes, with the price of meat gone so high and the children always needing shoes. And there was Florence who was the office fascinator, with all the men in love with her, but she is broken-hearted now because her husband has run off with another woman.

Every girl thinks THAT couldn't happen to her, but it can. So when you are bewailing your luck in not being married, just give a thought or two to the ill luck you have escaped in still being single.

I am afraid I cannot tell you where the husband-hunting is good. Most of the old streams where the suckers were reputed to swim in schools are fished out; if indeed there ever were such places. The church used to be a promising field filled with widowers in need of consolation and eligible bachelors upon which it paid a woman in search of a hubsand to cast her eyes. But now, alas, most of the able-bodied males take to the golf links on Sundays and a woman follows a man there and interferes with his game at her peril.

Game Getting Scarce

Co-educational colleges also for a time offered pleasing prospects for enterprising maidens in search of mates, who thought that it would be a cinch to catch 'em while they were young and before they had gotten wise to the traps that would be set for them. But disappointed girls who have gone to these preserves, all armed and fixed to kill with the latest thing in lip sticks and sports clothes and even with their own cars, write me that the ground is overworked, that there are more huntresses than there is game and that the boys have taken to the tall timber.

For a long time the business office was the husband-hunter's best bet, but that also has been married out, and nowadays the picking is poor. In some parts of the West it is reported that husbands are still plentiful and easy to get, but that does not hold true of California, where one of the most mournful sights that ever meets the human eyes is the spectacle of the rows and rows of beautifully dressed women and girls that you behold in every hotel and boarding house waiting and watching with anxious eyes for the unattached man who never comes.

So really, Brown Eyes, taking it all in all, I cannot advise you to give up your job and start out on a husband hunt. Better stick to the good thing you have and thank Heaven your luck is no worse.

Knox Church W.A.

In the absence of the president, Mrs. K. Fairbairn, the March meeting of the Knox W.A. was held on Thursday afternoon and presided over by Mrs. R. Laing, vice-president. Mrs. Laing opened the meeting with a brief devotional period, choosing "Prayer" as her theme for meditation, and reading a part of "The Sermon on the Mount" as the scripture lesson. Mrs. V. E. R. Zufelt reported on the February meeting of the local council of women. In answer to the roll call a suitable quotation about Ireland was given. The rest of the meeting was given over to the discussion of undertakings for March and April.

Dorothy Curle Wed To Robert Miles

HAVELOCK, March 14.—(ENS)—A quiet, pretty wedding took place on Thursday evening at the United Church parsonage when Dorothy, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Marquis Curle of Campbellford, was united in marriage to Robert Gordon, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Miles of Havelock, with the Rev. J. W. Wilkinson officiating.

The bride looked charming in a wedding dress of Queen's blue sheer, with hat and veil to match, and a corsage of rose buds and fern. She was attended by Mrs. Clarence Wellman, sister of the groom, who wore a rose sheer dress, with hat and veil to match and a corsage of carnations and fern. Mrs. Clarence Wellman attended the groom. Mr. and Mrs. Miles will reside in Havelock and their many friends extend congratulations.

Millbrook Society Completes Quilts

MILLBROOK, March 14 (ENS). Continuing the work at the Red Cross rooms Tuesday, two quilts were completed and another set up for the next day's gathering. Ten pretty quilts, all complete, were received from the Bailieboro unit, two from St. John's, Ida, and three tops, one each from Miss Mabel Meadows, Mrs. Fred McMahon, and Mrs. M Hawthorne. A donation of four pairs of bootees, and four bonnets, was received from Mrs. A. B. Lefroy, Toronto, with the promise of more to follow. This contribution goes toward the fifty jackets, bonnets, and pairs of bootees, asked for from headquarters in Toronto. There is still sewing to do on the skirts and blouses for an eight-year-old girl, and workers are urged to take these for completion at home.

Mrs. W. R. Howard, wool convener, is in Toronto this week representing the local branch at the annual Red Cross convention being held on Thursday and Friday, in the Royal York Hotel.

Post-War World And Its Problems

CAMPBELFORD, March 14. — (ENS).—Problems of post-war reconstruction were envisioned by Rev. R. W. Young of Springbrook in an address before an open meeting arranged by the Rylstone W.A. on Monday. Rev. Young spoke to a gathering of more than sixty assembled at the home of the W.A. president, Mrs. Sanford Meiklejohn. He touched on many questions conceded to vitally effect the post-war world but felt that problems of housing, hospitalization and medical service, health and education ranked in first place. Dealing with the educational system the speaker pointed out there were nine provinces in Canada each with their own standard and with nearly every change of government comes a revision of text books resulting in added expense to thousands of parents. Recreation was something else he thought should be looked into and advocated people should take better advantage of their leisure time. He saw the natural resources of Canada as the answer to many of this country's problems in the future.

Of the final settlement he said: "We must not look for a vindictive peace," and added that some form of international organization or brotherhood would have to be formed to ensure protection for all, an organization that will be supported by every country in stopping the aggressive action of any of its members.

SALLY'S SALLIES

Doris Thompson Married To Fred. Houghton

HAVELOCK, March 14.—(ENS).—A very pretty spring wedding took place on Saturday, March 14 at 4.30 p.m., at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Thompson, when their elder daughter, Doris Marguerite was united in marriage to Mr. Frederick Francis Houghton, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Houghton, Belmont, the Rev. R. E. Lemon officiating, in the presence of about 40 guests.

The bride entered the living room on the arm of her father, to the strains of Lohengrin's wedding march, played by her aunt, Mrs. Bert Brown of Mountain Grove. The ceremony was performed beneath an arch of pink and white streamers and white wedding bells She was beautifully attired in a floor length gown of shell pink sheer chiffon over taffeta, with a finger tip silk net veil, caught with gardenias and seed pearls. She carried an arm bouquet of briarcliffe roses, tied with tulle and wore silver slippers and an onyx locket. She was attended by her sister, Miss Norman Thompson and Miss Vivian Gordon, each wearing floor length dresses of opal tone blue chiffon with draped bodice and sweetheart neckline, and they wore embroidered shoulder veils, silver slippers and carried arm bouquets of daffodils.

The groom was supported by his brother-in-law, Mr. John Aulthouse. After the ceremony the bride's mother received guests, wearing a floor length gown of sapphire blue sheer chiffon, with a corsage of briarcliffe roses.

A delicious buffet luncheon was served by Miss Annie Logan, Smith Falls and Miss Hildred Akins, from the dining room table, which was centred by the bride's cake and pink candles in silver holders.

The bride's gift to her attendants were glamour pins of lily of the valley set wtih brilliants.

For going-away the bride wore a blue sport suit, over pink blouse, with blue accessories and best wishes follow Mr. and Mrs. Houghton to their new home in Oshawa. Out of town guests were present from Mountain Grove, Battersea, Smith Falls, Toronto, Oshawa and Peterborough.

Knox C.G.I.T. Girls Present Concert

Members of the Knox Church, C.G.I.T. presented a concert in the lecture hall of the church on Friday evening, under the direction of their leader, Mrs. Huffman. Rev. J. H. Mahoney was chairman and introduced the numbers.

The concert opened with a three part chorus singing "O Canada," "The Maple Leaf Forever," "Land of our Birth" and the National Anthem. Velma Stewart was at the piano for these selections. This was followed by a duet with guitar accompaniment by Audrey and Marjorie Clarke.

Then a one act play, "A Scene in a Photography Studio," was presented, featuring Jean McIntyre, Velma Stewart and Helen Ward and directed by Grace Stewart.

Next came a folk dance by some of the younger girls in the organization, followed by a piano solo by Gordon Thexton. The second of the three one-act plays "Advertising for a Companion," featured Ellen Thexton, Maxine McDonald, Vera Buchanan, Elaine Green, and was directed by Ellen Thexton.

A pretty flag drill by eight girls was followed by another duet by Audrey and Marjorie Clarke. The third play, "Aunt Virginia's Ear-Trumpet," featured Rosalin Lasenby, Mary Pitchford, Marjorie Clarke, Audrey Clarke and Thelma Julian and was directed by Eunice Thexton. A tableau, "Peace," was followed by a duet by Velma Stewart and Helen Ward.

St. Patrick's Tea Held By W.A. Of St. Andrew's

A large crowd attended the St. Andrew's W.A. hostess tea on Friday afternoon in the Sunday school hall. The hall was decorated appropriately to the season, in green and white, with attractive Irish calendars on the walls. On display was an exquisite Limerick lace collar, fine and delicate as a spiderweb, which had been loaned by Mrs. E. W. Young. Mrs. J. H. Johnson, Mrs. H. Paige Rowell, president, and Mrs. E. W. Young received the guests.

The guests were seated at small tables, each one waited on by a member of the association. Several beautiful Irish cloths, belonging to Mrs. E. W. Young, were on the tables, which were decorated with green and white candles and appropriate table napkins. A delicious tea of jellied salad, bread and butter, tea and tarts was served, thus conserving sugar. The ladies in charge of tables were Mrs. V. Hamilton, Mrs. R. S. Cotton, Mrs. L. M. Brooks, Mrs. T. G. Detcher, Mrs. H. Watson, Mrs. W. Henry, Mrs. Ray Morrow, Mrs. Lillico, Mrs. Fowler, Miss E. McCormack, Mrs. A. Pilling, Mrs. Mulligan.

The tea table was covered with a lace cloth and centred with a graceful ornament of crystal grapes on a reflector and having a British bulldog in one corner and a lion in another. Tiny silk flags in silver vases added another patriotic note, and the whole was finished off with green candles in silver candelabra. Mrs. A. Moir, Mrs. R. Hartstone, Mrs. A. Porteous and Miss J. Ferguson poured tea.

The general conveners were Mrs. Arthur Belleghem, Mrs. J. K. Hughes and Mrs. H. Tremain. Miss E. Preston, Mrs. H. Davis, Miss K. Ross and Mrs. E. Manning were in charge of a home-cooking table.

THE STARS SAY . . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Sunday, March 15

Sunday's horoscope is a rather contradictory one, with much promise of a solidifying and crystallizing of the more serious aspirations and objectives, with chances of putting these on a firm and enduring basis for security, yet a definite tendency to be rash, reckless, ungoverned, and carried to excesses by impulses or passions, would be disastrous. Self restraint and a reasonable state of mind are enjoined.

Those whose birthday it is may enjoy a successful and stable year if they will but put the brakes upon a proclivity to let the temper, tongue and emotions run away with them, to unreasonable and regrettable crises. The emotions are tempestuous and the mind under peculiar and disturbing tensions which may prove ominous. Be firm in self control.

A child born on this day will probably have a peculiarly temperamental quality, leading it to extremes and excesses, although it may have many excellent possibilities for success and achievement. Its training will be vital to its career.

For Monday, March 16

Monday's astrological forecast shows a probable stabilization of the fortunes and affairs by application of sound judgment, logic, industry and tried and practical methods, while at the same time seeking to placate the opposition or ill will of those in authority, employers or others. A peculiarly clever use of imagination, intuition or other subtle force may avert a crisis.

Those whose birthday it is may have to bring to bear a subtle force of mind or emotions to circumvent menacing conditions brought about by the antagonism of superiors or employers or closer ties. Sustain this by reason, good judgment, practical methods and hard work and all may flourish. Keep alert to all forms of impositions and subterfuges.

A child born on this day while having sound and practical qualities also may have subtle, intuitive or highly emotional faculties.

Cottesloe Couple 50 Years Wed

COTTESLOE, March 14 (ENS)—Fifty years ago, March 9, James Blakley and Eliza Stinson were married at the home of the bride's parents, the late Mr. and Mrs. Richard Stinson of South Dummer, by Rev. William Buchanan of the Norwood circuit. They went to live on the groom's farm on the same line (6th), three miles south in Asphodel, where they resided until sixteen years ago, when they moved to Cottesloe. On Monday they celebrated their golden wedding anniversary at the home of their eldest son, Johnston Blakley, and thirty-six guests sat down at noon to a sumptuous wedding dinner. The dining room was lovely with streamers and large white bell. A three-storey wedding cake, trimmed with gold, centred the table, and was flanked by vases of yellow and red roses. Of the nine children seven were present: Mr. and Mrs. Johnston Blakley and family; Mr. and Mrs. Harold Spencer (Edith) and family of Brighton; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Leonard (Beatrice) of Marmora; Mr. and Mrs. Milton Blakley and family of Campbellford; Mr. and Mrs. Cecil Jenkins (Gertrude) and family of Havelock; Mr. and Mrs. George Blakley of Peterborough; Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Gallagher (Patricia) and family of Cottesloe; Mrs. Hilda Holm (Leta) of British Columbia and Mrs. William Cochabsent.

Others present were Messrs. Fred Gardner and D'Arcy McGee of Norwood and Mrs. Blakley's sister, Mrs. Sam. McGee, who was bridesmaid at their wedding. Mr. John Blakley of Sintaluta, Sask., who was groomsman is living but was unable to be present. The family presented their parents with a radio and many lovely gifts were received. Cottesloe friends wish for them many more happy years.

Social Evening Plans Complete

CAMPBELLFORD, March 14. — (ENS).—Members of St. Andrew's Ladies' Aid held their regular meeting on Thursday afternoon when the main item of business was concerned with plans for the social evening and program the West Side group will hold on March 26th. The president, Mrs. J. C. Anderson, presided for the meeting and she expressed the hope that proceeds from the affair would add at least fifty dollars to the general fund. Mrs. Albert Hazel, Mrs. Chas. Milne and Mrs. Ben Frederick were named to the program committee and Mrs. Anderson and Mrs. T. Patrick are on the refreshment committee. Group reports for the month were given by Mrs. R. J. Belshaw, Mrs. I. B. Hutcheon and Mrs Oscar Rannie each of whom reported on activities during February The visiting committee reported 31 calls for the same month.

Millbrook Ladies To Help Red Cross

MILLBROOK, March 14—(ENS).—Mrs. H. A. Kerr entertained the Ladies' Aid Society of Grace Presbyterian Church for its March meeting at her home, Centre Street, on Tuesday, the president, Mrs. Suttle Pritchard was in the chair. The gatheing was in the nature of a work meeting, members carrying on with quilt patches after the business had been discussed.

Details in connection with the annual Irish supper for March 17 were arranged, and $100 was voted to the church Board of Managers. It was also decided to hold a home baking sale and tea in the waiting-room on Saturday, April 4, and to give half the proceeds from the Irish supper to the Red Cross. Last year half was donated to the Navy League of Canada.

Following the closing hymn and prayer the hostess served tea, the proceeds going to her group funds.

Hold Tea.

Mrs. P. I. Bentley and Mrs. F. L. Edworthy were joint hostesses for the first of the diminishing teas which are sponsored by the Woman's Association of St. Andrew's Church, and which, it is hoped, will be concluded before Holy Week. The pleasant social event was held at Mrs. Bentley's home, Cavan Street, on Tuesday evening, with four tables in use for bingo, and afterward for euchre. Prices for the bingo winners were really of a fun-making character, and in keeping with the approaching St. Patrick's Day. They were parcelled in white and tied with green ribbons.

The hostesses served a dainty but substantial supper at the close of play, the guests including Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Might, Rev. A. L. and Mrs. Sisco, Mrs. H. W. Gray Cecil and Miss Josie Sutton, Mrs. H. Ross Edmunds, Reeve W. E. and Mrs. Ball, Mrs. J. McKnight, Mrs. M. Perrin, John and Miss Maud Finnimore.

Needlecraft Pattern

Colorfully embroidered and lace edged, these pretty sheets and pillow cases (scarfs may be made, too) make handiwork you'll love doing and keeping house with. Pattern 2803 contains a transfer pattern of a motif 6 x 17½ inches; 2 motifs 4½ x 15½ inches; crochet directions, material required.

Send 20 cents in coins or stamps for this pattern to Examiner, Needlecraft Department, Peterborough. Write plainly Pattern Number, your Name and Address.

Every afternoon during the week excepting Saturday, the large airy sewing room of the Red Cross is occupied by groups of women making clothing to be sent to England. Visitors not familiar with the work will be surprised and delighted by the type and quality of these garments.

Coats, flannel slacks and blouses are made for women, windbreakers, suits and shirts for boys. These are all tailored in a manner that would do credit to a professional. Then there are dresses for little girls that must delight those small feminine hearts who have lost their clothes in successive bombing raids. At present the civilian needs are being attended to as the necessity is greater than for hospital supplies.

No one need feel unable to help with this work. There are two permanent supervisors, one of whom is always on hand to help encourage and explain the method of procedure. There are jobs for the inexperienced as well as the expert.

The groups as at present arranged are:

Monday afternoon—George Street United Church.

Tuesday afternoon—The Catholic Women's League, St. Paul's Church and the Hadassahs.

Tuesday evening—University Women's Club, Teacher's Guild, Miscellanous group.

Wednesday afternoon—St. Andrew's, Murray Street Church.

Thursday afternoon — I.O.D.E. Group, Home and School Association.

Thursday evening—Business and Professional Women's Club, All Saints' Scout Mothers, Home and School Associations and Junior Hadassahs.

Friday afternoon — St. John's Scout Mothers, Conservative Association, Ashburnham League.

These groups do not fill the rooms and many more workers could be accommodated and would be warmly welcomed. It is surely not necessary to add that a woman not belonging to any particular group need only come and offer her services—there is so much work to be done.

The following is a list of articles made in the rooms, shipped out during January and February:

85 women's nightgowns, 60 pairs of girls' pyjamas, 85 pairs of boys' pyjamas, 13 girls' skirts and sweaters, 30 pair of bloomers.

20 complete outfits for boys of 12 years of age, each consisting of 1 pair long flannel trousers, 1 blazer, 2 shirts, 1 tie.

Five outfits for boys of 14 years of age, each consisting of: 1 windbreaker, 1 pair long flannel trousers, 1 shirt, 1 sweater, 1 blazer, 1 tie.

Five girls outfits consisting of 1 skirt, 1 light weight blouse, 1 woollen blouse.

15 women's outfits consisting of 1 knee-length coat, 2 blouses, 1 pair of slacks.

BAN ON STRIKES

CANBERRA, Australia, Mar. 14 —(CP).—In a ruling expected to ban all strikes for the duration of the war, the Australian War Cabinet decided today to enforce a National Security Statute requiring workers to stay on the job under normal wage rates and working conditions.

Choir Honors Havelock Girl

HAVELOCK, March 14.—(ENS)—At the weekly choir practice which was held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Charles on Friday evening, Miss Edna Haig was the guest of honor. Miss Haig has been a faithful member for 15 years.

Community singing was enjoyed after which Mrs. Ray Moir read an address and Miss Lucy Wing presented the bride-elect with a beautiful silver cheese-and-cracker dish and a bon-bon dish in the grape pattern.

Dainty and delicious refreshments were served by the hostess and girl friends, which ended this happy event.

SOLDIER DIES

W. W. Bailey who came to this city as a boy of 15 from England and enlisted with the 93rd in World War I is dead in Toronto. He passed away in Christie Street Hospital on Thursday. Bailey was wounded at Paschendaele in 1917. His brother, E. W. Bailey lives on Third Avenue.

PERFECT ATTENDANCE

Stanley Higman, of Ottawa Kiwanis, is unique and in a class by himself. A guest at the noonday luncheon of Peterborough Kiwanis Friday, Stan. has not missed a single weekly meeting in 20 years, it was announced.

FINED FIFTY DOLLARS

There was only one case on the docket at police court this morning when a farm laborer was charged as a second offender with being drunk. He pleaded not guilty but Constables C. J. McGillen and John Morrow testified that the man was drunk when they saw him on Aylmer street Friday afternoon. He was fined $50 and costs.

ROTARY'S SPEAKER

George Long, historian of the Bell Telephone Company will be the speaker at Monday's luncheon of the Peterborough Rotary Club. His subject will be "Your Voice as Others Hear It" and it will be featured by demonstrations of the use of the mirrophone and the vokidder.

TAPPING STARTS

Sap is running in the maples according to some farmers and it is expected that tapping operations will be well underway next week. The shortage of help may reduce the extent of the work on some farms, but all should remember that with sugar being rationed, every bit of maple syrup and maple sugar that can be made should be made.

GETS OVERSEAS EARLY

Lt. Rae Borland, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert E. Borland, 744 George street, has arrived overseas. He is just 19 yeas of age and is one of the youngest Canadians in the commissioned ranks to reach the British Isles. His father served with the Scotch Fusiliers in World War 1. Both Lt. Borland and Lt. Sam Patte are reinforcements to a holding unit of the Royal Canadian Artillery.

Survey Reveals Much Duplication In Farm Trucking Services

The county war committee, examining survey reports from the farmers has expressed concern over the needless duplication of services throughout the rural district, and it is their opinion that the farmers themselves should take steps at once to reduce the gasoline and tire waste by working out with city buyers an arrangement that would curtail unnecessary driving.

One outstanding example of this duplication is indicated in a report which shows that eight farmers living on the same stretch of road send milk to the city in eight different trucks, and to complete the picture, the general survey reveals that an average of 2.5 cream trucks pass every farm daily. "They are chasing each other around the country in a wasteful manner that the farmer is paying for. It is a national issue now to save gasoline and rubber, and the committee is suggesting the farmers put their heads together on this problem," Frank Paterson said.

One other condition that merits the earnest consideration of every farmer is the question of making plans now to assure that spring planting will not be curtailed in any way. To do this every farmer who wishes to have custom tractor work done should get in touch with his tractor owner, so that the latter can lay out a program, and avoid long trips, and needless delays.

The township committee has a list of the names of farmers and dealers owning tractors, and they are willing to co-operate with the farmer in every way.

Must Operate 24 Hours Daily

By way of comparison in the Old Country, if a man has a tractor and is not operating it 24 hours a day, the war committee takes it away from him and puts a man on it who will keep it going. England has been on this basis for the past two years, and while conditions here have not reached that point of efficiency or need, nevertheless it reflects the trend of the times.

Canada is organizing fast on a voluntary basis, and every piece of mechanical farming equipment must be used to the umost to compensate for the shortage of labor.

Brazil Anti-Nazi

Rio de Janeiro, March 14 (AP)

SHOTS fired into the air by police and riot squads dispersed a crowd of about 500 persons gathering today in front of German stores, apparently intent on resuming yesterday's anti-Nazi disorders.

Newspapers and radio stations told nothing of yesterday's riots except the official announcement that "special measures were taken to maintain order."

At noontime a crowd again halted traffic in one of the main avenues, Rio Branco, until police dispersed it with riot clubs and more shots in the air. Many persons were injured slightly.

A police official said that all available riot squads and special police were on emergency duty and that the situation was under control.

Limberlost Fire Destroys Lodge

HUNTSVILLE March 14. — The main building at Limberlost Lodge, well-known resort 17 miles from here, was destroyed by fire yesterday afternoon. The manager, R. J. Gordon Hill, estimated that damage was in the neighborhood of $50,000.

The building contained the kitchens, dining hall, recreation rooms and offices of the lodge. In addition it contained ten guest rooms and accommodation for some of the staff. All the cottages and the two buildings known as The Chalet and The Trading Post escaped damage.

Mr. Hill and his staff set to work immediately to look after the scores of guests who ski at Limberlost on the week-ends. Before the embers of the building had stopped smoking, Mr. Hill and his workers were improvising a kitchen and dining-room in large tents.

More than 100 members of the Cedar Springs Ski Club were due to arrive from Hamilton last night, and the manager said that many of them would be accommodated at Limberlost, while the rest would be quartered in Huntsville.

The fire started in the kitchen at 2:20 p.m. and spread rapidly, but all guests and employees were able to escape unhurt. The office files were saved but much of the equipment, such as linen and table service, was destroyed.

WHY DID JESUS CHRIST DIE ON CALVARY'S CROSS?

—TO TAKE THE PUNISHMENT FOR YOUR SIN—

HOW CAN YOU BE SAVED?

1. REPENT—Luke 13:5.
2. BELIEVE—I. Corinthians 15:3 and 4
   (a) That Jesus Christ died on Calvary to take the punishment for your sin.
   (b) That He rose from the dead.
3. SIMPLY say "THANK YOU" to the Lord for shedding His precious BLOOD on Calvary to take the punishment for your sin. Matthew 26:28; I. John 1:7-10.
4. Confess Christ Before Men. Matt. 10:32 and 33. Romans 10:9 and 10.

HOW DO YOU KNOW YOU ARE SAVED?

JOHN 1:12 "But as many as received Him to them gave He power to become the sons of God, even to them that believe on His name."

YOUR PART — "Whosoever BELIEVETH IN Him."

GOD'S WORD — "SHALL NOT PERISH but have everlasting life." John 3:16.

Note: There is only one way into heaven — through the shed blood of Jesus Christ.—Matt. 26:28.

There is no other WAY.—John 14:6.

Ready Monday For Enlistment Of All Comers

If early indications are correctly interpreted, it would appear that The Prince of Wales Rangers (AF) when completely mobilized, will be fully representative of Peterborough City and District.

Since recruiting opened applications are coming in daily from officers and other ranks now serving with other units, who are anxious to serve in the Rangers under local officers, Lieut.-Colonel J. A. Dewart, M.C., E.D., officer commanding, revealed today.

Colonel Dewart is well pleased with the response to date from officers and N.C.O.'s and said that his staff would be in the position by Monday to take on all comers for enlistment. So far the Medical Board has been chiefly examining officers and N.C.O.'s.

In addition to the four officers previously mentioned, Colonel Dewart regrets the fact that Lieuts. J. M. Turner and E. F. Borbridge also failed to pass the stiff medical tests imposed for active service. "Both officers," he declared, "have rendered valuable service to The Prince of Wales Rangers since its reorganization in July, 1940, and I regret that they will not be continuing to serve in the active battalion."

Two N.C.O.'s Fail

The first two N.C.O.'s to be turned down by the medical board are CSM. N. C. Gell and CQMS. C. H. Chapman. Another casualty is RQMS. H. Chate. The latter volunteered for active service but was not acceptable due to the fact that he is over the age limit.

Veteran of the Great War, CSM. Gell enlisted at Simcoe in December, 1925, with the 133rd Battalion C.E.F. After proceeding overseas he was drafted to the 4th Battalion and saw active service in France and Belgium. He was twice wounded in action.

Since coming into the Rangers in May, 1940, both he and CQMS Chapman have rendered valuable service aiding materially in establishing the proud record of efficiency which the Rangers held in Military District No. 3.

RQMS. Chate, who has been in permanent service with the Administartive and Training Staff of the unit since the staff was created in July, 1940, enjoys an unbroken period of military service, going back to his original enlistment with the King's (Liverpool) Reigment in 1908. During the Great War of 1914-18 he served on the Northwest Frontier in India, coming to Canada after the Armistice. He new wears the ribbon and clasp of the Canadian Efficiency Medal, denoting 18 years' service in the Canadian Militia.

One source of satisfaction to this Warrant Officer is the fact that his son, Sergeant Major Instructor Norman Chate of the Instructional Cadre, M.D. 3, is to be commissioned for active service with the Prince of Wales Rangers.

Delegates Are Named Red Cross Annual

LAKEFIELD, March 14—(ENS). —Among those who attended the annual meeting of the Ontorio Division of the Red Cross Society in Toronto this week, are Mrs. S. A. Politics Out

Washington, March 14 (AP).

PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT told a press conference today that this is a war and politics is out.

He said his remarks applied to the United States Congress as well as the press. We read too much politics in the papers these days and these articles talk in terms of the past, he commented.

Mr. Roosevelt made the remark when asked whether he thought there could be a greater concentration on the war effort by political groups, newspapers and others.

To a question as to whether his remarks were "also true of the cabinet," the president said that he found little political implication in any action taken by cabinet members.

Norwood Flier Bruce Baker Hurt In England

NORWOOD, March 14—(ENS).—Word has just been received by Mr. and Mrs. Robert Baker of this village, of the seriously wounding of their youngest son, Pilot Officer Bruce Baker, in a flying accident somewhere in England. The accident occurred when Pilot-Officer Baker was struck by an in-coming bomber plane.

P.O. BRUCE BAKER

Bruce arrived in England November 12, after a very successful training career in Montreal and Mountainview, where upon graduation he headed the class of over 200 students, and upon this showing was granted his commission. He was a great athlete, and well-known in Peterborough and district for his work on the local hockey team.

His many friends will wish him a speedy recovery.

19 Industries Went Over Top

Nineteen of the twenty-two industries in the group employing more than 30 employees received honor certificates indicating they topped the objective set in the Second Victory Loan which has just closed.

The fine showing of the local industries has attracted the attention of all Ontario as new releases from the Victory Loan headquarters in Toronto, pointed out the fine work done by the factory workers in this city.

Separate stories in the Examiner during the Loan campaign period described the work done in several of the larger factories but a few were missed and the following summary will show that even the factories with small numbers of workers came through well.

The 34 employees at the Colonial Weaving Company, the staff of which is more than 75 per cent female subscribed $7,100, more than three times the objective of $2,700 set by Loan Headquarters. Down at A. Wander Ltd., better known as the Ovaltine, 85 employees topped their objective by subscribing $3,850. 190 of the 314 people working at the Brinton Carpet Company purchased bonds amounting to $15,250 to top the objective by $250,000, and a great many of these employees are girls. Ackerman's also hit the top rung of the ladder contributing $10,500, and the big majority of the 53 workers had a hand in this venture. At the Nashua Paper and Canadian Sealright Company, there are 109 employees and they too boosted their purchases of bonds over the objective of $10,500 set by the loan organizers.

In the local Bell Telephone Company plant 74.3 per cent of the employees purchased bonds. That is 52 of the 70 on the payroll, the big majority chose the payroll deduction plan, which has been boosted and encouraged to a high degree by officials of the organization.

Officers Named For Rangers In Acting Capacity

The first battalion orders to be issued by the Prince of Wales Rangers since the unit became an active service regiment were at hand this morning in the Rangers orderly room.

Appointments in the unit to date have so far been made in the capacity of "acting" and must be approved by the Department of National Defence.

Lt.-Col. J. A. Dewart, M.C., E.D., is acting officer commanding the unit; Major J. R. Bolton is second-in-command, Captain H. A. Craig, D.C.M., is acting adjutant. Acting quartermaster is 2-Lt. H. Borland; acting regimental sergeant major is Andrew Jackson, and the acting regimental quartermaster sergeant is J. Field.

Other officers, also passed by the medical board and whose names do not appear on the orders and who will be taken on strength when approved by the Department of National Defence are:

Major R. C. Honey, Lieut. J. C. C. Dawson, 2-Lt. J. G. Nichols, 2-Lt. L. C. Bateman, 2-Lieut. J. J. Urie, 2-Lt. A. H. Heideman, 2-Lieut. A. L. Elliott, 2-Lieut. R. O. Standish, 2-Lieut. R. H. Ingram and 2-Lieut. J. M. Kirkwood.

Practically all N.C.O.'s have been medically boarded and medical officers of the unit have begun boarding the privates. Those men below the rank of officer who have been accepted will not be known until the first of the week because results of their medical exams have not been revealed.

Community Club At Bridgenorth Helps War Fund

At Bridgenorth a group of citizens has banded together in a Social Club, under the name of "The Bridgenorth Community Group" for the purpose of spending one night a week in a social way to raise funds to help worthy war charities. This work is under the leadership of Frank Moore, and they meet every Tuesday night to play euchre for which small prizes are given, and in today's list of receipts for the Peterborough and district British War Victims' Fund, their first contribution in the nice sum of $31.25 is acknowledged as a result of their worth-while effort.

Much credit goes to Wallace Nichols for the success that has been attained, in giving of his barber shop premises for the meetings, and in other ways promoting things in general to make the whole a success. A number of residents from the city have been regularly supporting this effort, and from Harry Long of the Goodwin Machine Tool Co. comes an offer to assist other groups who might wish to do the same for war charities, to supply the cards needed to carry on in a similar way.

Fortnightly Club

A group of citizens known as "The Fortnightly Club" has for a number of years usually wound up their season's activities with a ladies night and banquet. Last year they sacrificed this pleasure in order that the needs of others in need of help might benefit, and the money that would thus have been spent on their own pleasure was given to this fund. Following out the same principle this year, today a donation of $25.00 in their name, representing half of the money thus diverted to such channels of usefulness, is recorded, all of which went to help the needs of others suffering through the war.

With today's deposits, the fund is drawing close to the point where another £500 can be forwarded to the Lord Mayor of London for the National Air Raid Victims' Fund, only another $125 geing needed to complete the amount required to make that an actual fact.

Woman Torturer Gets 2 Years, Tongue-Pincher

BELLEVILLE, March 14. — Mrs. Madeline Morgan, 29, of Roslin, the 300-pound woman who clipped a piece off her stepdaughter's tongue, was sentenced Thursday. Apearing before Magistrate J. L. Lloyd of Northbrook, in the Hastings County Court, Mrs. Morgan pleaded guilty to two charges, one of maiming her stepdaughter and the other of assault occasioning actual bodily harm. On the first charge she received two years less a day determinate and three months indeterminate, while on the second she received six months in the reformatory, to run concurrently with the other sentence.

Thomas Delbert Morgan, husband of Mrs. Morgan, who also appeared in court, pleaded guilty to a charge of cruelty to animals and was fined $5 and costs amounting to $13.80.

Crown Attorney B. C. Donnan urged the magistrate to send Mrs. Morgan to the penitentiary. "This is the most inhuman case of cruelty that I have ever run across in my eighteen years as crown attorney," he said. "It is undoubtedly a case for the penitentiary."

"You are an inhuman sort of a woman and should have known b e t t e r," commented Magistrate Lloyd.

Nerves, Says Accused

"Yes, but my nerves got the best of me," replied the accused woman. "I am sorry for what I did and ask for the mercy of the court."

Edna Morgan, the stepdaughter, who was only released from the Belleville General Hospital an hour before the court opened, was a witness. Not fully recovered, she was allowed to sit down while giving her evidence.

"My stepmother got cross at me one day, and made me take off my shoes and run around in the snow and ice outside," she said. "My feet were frozen on that day. On another occasion I was sent out to get the clothes from the line and my hands were frozen.

"When I was hungry I took a piece of bread, and she would pinch my tongue with a pair of pliers," she stated. "The last time she pinched me so hard she took a piece off the end of my tongue."

As punishment on other occasions, the girl told the court that her stepmother forced her to place her hand on a chair while she struck it with a stick. Other times, Mrs. Morgan struck her over the head and the ear, or banged her head against the wall and pulled her hair, Edna said.

Tongue Indentation

Dr. J. W. Empson, who attended the girl, testified that there was a small indentation on the end of the girl's tongue where a piece had been taken off.

An X-ray of her left hand produced by the doctor, showed that two bones in the hand had at some previous time been broken. "These fractures had knitted together in an uneven manner so that callouses had formed," stated the doctor. "The girl had not had medical attention. She suffered a partial loss of sensation in her hands because of the fractures and frost bites."

"The girl told lies," said Mrs. Morgan, when she was given an opportunity to speak on her own behalf. "She stole things from my purse and would lie about it. I corrected her as I thought right. My mother corrected me for stealing."

"Did she pinch your tongue and hit you with sticks?" questioned Crown Attorney B. C. Donnan.

"Stole Everything"

"No, because I never lied," she replid. "It was not bread she stole from the cupboard, it was anything she could find. She wanted to live on the choice of the land and the rest of us could starve."

"She certainly didn't get the choice of the land," remarked the magistrate before passing sentence.

Constable C. Hayes of Tweed, told of the conditions in the home, which he visited with Constable J. Mackenzie, of Belleville, T. Ruston, superintendent of the Hastings County Children's Aid, and T. Thorne, humane inspector.

Hun Bolster Norway

LONDON, March 14—(CP). — Exchange Telegraph, in a dispatch from Stockholm, quoted the Swedish newspaper Svenska Dagbladet Friday as saying that considerable German reinforcements had arrived recently in the Stavanger region of Norway and that schools had been requisitioned to house them.

The arrival of the troops coincided with imposition of a fine of 6,000,000 kronor (nominally about $1,500,000) on Stavanger — the fourth such fine levied on the city by the Germans, the dispatch said.

Flyer Clipped Branch Off Tree In France Part Of Wood Finds Its Way To Peterboro'

A low flying fighter plane, zooming across France with a Canadian fighter pilot at the stick, clipped the top of a tree, and carried bits of wood back to England. A small chip of that tree found its way to Peterborough today in a letter to Oscar F. Smith, 271 Brock street, new branch manager of the Canada Life.

The letter is from Flight Lieut. Alvin E. Harley of London, Ontario, who is a brother of Mrs. Smith, and he described one of his trips over France. He says in part: "You probably heard by now that Wing Commander Tuck is a prisoner of war in Germany. The two of us were over France on a low flying attack shooting up military targets. We ran into a lot of heavy anti-aircraft fire, and he was shot down. I still don't know how I managed to escape for I was right beside him. However I managed to get back home O.K. and I even brought some branches off a French tree which I must have clipped on the dive. I am enclosing a small chip."

The chip is off a small gad as the heart of the wood is noticeable and it is quite possible for the high speed planes to clip off branches as the pilot brought the plane out of the dive or when he was zooming low to strafe the ground with his machine guns.

Mr. and Mrs. Smith have been in this city about two months.

Arrives In Britain

Lt. Sam Patte, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Patte, 814 Water Street, arrived in Britain this week. He is a former member of the Rangers, served on the staff of the local Training Centre and later on the staff at Petawawa He is a graduate of the Petererough Collegiate and well-known in the city. 3 U-Boats Sunk Crews Taken, Bag Only 2 Ships

LONDON, March 14 — (CP). — The Admiralty said that three German submarines announced sunk on January 3 in a "sustained and determined' attack on a British convoy were the U-131, U-434 and U-574, all commissioned in 1941.

The announcement said the U-574 was destroyed during the morning of December 18, 1941, by the British escort vessel Stork, after the raider had attacked the convoy and sunk the former United States destroyer Stanley.

The Stanley had taken part the previous day in the destruction of the U-434.

The Admiralty said it was "worthy of note that each of these three U-boats had been in commission nearly six months, but the aggregate success achieved by all three consisted in sinking H.M.S. Stanley and one merchant ship."

The U-574 was rammed by the Stork, the Admiralty said, after her motors had been put out of action by depth charges.

"Her commander was reluctant to bring the ship to the surface, and it is reported that a heated altercation broke out between the officers before the commanding officer was forced to give the order to blow the tanks," the statement said.

Two officers, including the commander and 25 men of a total of 43 aboard the U-574, were saved, and now are prisoners of war, the Admiralty said.

The U-131 had a complement of 48 officers and men, all of whom were saved, the Admiralty said.

All but two of those aboard the U-434 were reported saved and taken prisoner, including the commander.

W.A. Of St. Aidan's Honors Mrs. Moore

YOUNG'E POINT, March 14. — (ENS). — The blustery weather didn't have any effect on the quilting bee of St. Aidan's W.A. held in their Parish Hall on Tuesday. Eleven ladies were out and quilted a beautiful tulip patterned quilt. At tea-time Mrs. A. MacNaughton, in a few humorous words, presented Mrs. E. O. Moore, president of St. Aidan's W.A. for the past twelve years, with a Parker pen from the W.A. together with their best wishes for the future.

After the pot-luck supper had been served the second highlight of the day was who was to be the winner of the quilt, tickets being sold among the W.A. members and friends. Little Ann Wilson drew the ticket the lucky ticket being held by Mrs. William Bland of Toronto.

Force Collector To Cover Garbage Wagon

The property committee will recommend to city council that clauses be added to the by-law for garbage collection providing for a penalty for failure to provide and use tarpaulins on garbage wagons and for the removal of cans twice weekly from the incinerator, on a motion of Mayor James Hamilton and Ald. Herb Bradburn.

"Another thing," said chairman Max Swanston, "his men should not in any way say things to anyone making a complaint. The persons making complaints should refer them to the sanitary inspector." Ald. Swanston admitted that he was among those who had made a complaint and was "told off" in a sense by men on the collection wagons.

The committee received tenders on heating of the market hall from three firms. W. R. Turner's tender of $1,362 was lowest and on motion of Mayor Hamilton and Ald. Adam Sands, his tender will be forwarded to the city trust for its consideration. It was intimated that the heating question might be shelved in view of the present emergency.

Ald. Swanston was empowered to interview a Peterborough man who operates a scrubbing machine and, if he should so decide, to hire him to clean the market hall floor. A disinfectant would be used under supervision of the sanitary inspector.

City engineer Roy Parsons submitted plans for the new incinerator but no action was taken by the committee until more information is obtained with regard to the furnace, lavatory conveniences, brick and a break-down of prices.

It was revealed that Roy Taylor, acting for the Taylor estate, sought to sell a house on Hilliard street but when it was surveyed, it was found to be out a considerable distance on the street. Several other dwellings and a store were also found to be on the street.

City solicitor Wilfred Huycke said Mr. Taylor asked for a clear title to the land because the house stood for a long period of years on the property. Ald. Bradburn suggested the people owning the houses in question on the south side of the street purchase the vacant land on the north side and give it to the city, which would in turn give the property owners a clear title. However it was decided to place the matter in the hands of the city solicitor and the assessor to go into the matter and report at the next meeting.

IN MEMORIAM

HANDLEY.—In loving memory of a dear wife and mother, Annie M. Handley, who passed away March 16, 1941.
Still hear her voice and vacant her chair,
Sweet are the memories that linger there;
We miss her and mourn her in silence unseen
And live in the memory of joys that have been."
—Sadly missed by Husband and Daughter.

HEATHER.—In loving memory of our dear daughter, Eva Jane Nisbett Heather, who passed away March 14, 1936.
Some day we hope to meet again,
Some day, we know not when,
To clasp her hand in the Better Land,
Never to part again.
—Ever remembered by Father, Mother, Sisters and Brothers.

HEATHER. — In everlasting memory of my dear mother, Eva Jane Nisbett Heather, who passed away March 14, 1936.
Loving and kind in all her ways,
Upright and just to the end of her days;
Sincere and true in her heart and mind,
Beautiful memories she left behind.
—Sadly missed by her daughter, Myrtle.

Jolly Games for Your Next Party

"Racing Sheet" Fun For All

What is Bill up to—balancing so dizzily on one foot? He's playing the lively game "Racing Sheet". Everybody loves it!

Line up two teams to "run" relay fashions. Give the first two contestants — one from each side — two newspapers each. Fire a popgun and away they go!

Each player lays down a paper, steps on it with one foot, lays down the second paper, steps on that and so on to the finish line. There the next player on his team waits to grab the Racing Sheets and do his bit.

To keep the fun at fever heat, stage a "Bronco Busting" stunt. One guest plays the cowboy. Another five line up to make the Bronco—everyone except the leader clasps the waist of the player ahead.

All set? Each Bronce "bucks"—plunges wildly while the cowboy tries to mount by clasping the last player around the waist.

A sure way to make your party hum is to have lots of games and stunts! You'll find dozens of good ones in our 32-page booklet—Blindman's Boxing Match, Blarney, My Husband Doesn't like Peas, many others. Clever ice-breakers, action games, fortune stunts.

For your copy of "Party Games for All Occasions" send 15 cents in coins or stamps to the Examiner, Home Service, Peterborough. Be sure to write plainly your name, address, and the name of booklet.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

WRITTEN FOR THE EXAMINER

By SHEPARD BARCLAY

"The Authority on Authorities"

A MESS OF POTTAGE

IN ALMOST every session of rubber bridge you can see somebody exemplify the old saw about selling your birthright for a mess of pottage. One of the most painful errors to watch is a player's refusal to lay lown the setting trick against his opponent's game contract because he expects to set it an extra trick or two by doing something else. That is, it is painful to both the kibitzer and the player if the opponent then goes ahead and makes his contract

North: ♠ K ♥ K Q 8 4 3 ♦ A Q 10 4 3 ♣ A 9

West: ♠ A J 4 2 ♥ A 7 6 5 2 ♦ 7 5 ♣ 7 3

East: ♠ Q 10 7 5 ♥ J 9 ♦ J 9 8 6 ♣ K 6 4

South: ♠ 9 8 6 3 ♥ 10 ♦ K 2 ♣ Q J 10 8 5 2

(Dealer: East. Neither side vulnerable.)

East	South	West	North
Pass	Pass	Pass	1 ♥
Pass	2 ♣	Pass	2 ♦
Pass	2 NT	Pass	3 NT

South probably had plenty of eggs for breakfast, or he would not have squeezed those two bids out of his hand. He had no license to make that contract, but did it by the grace of good luck and a defender's sad error.

The singleton spade K was good for a trick—as so often happens in No Trump contracts—because a small card of the suit was led by West. The only hopeful chance to make the contract, even after that good fortune, was to bring in the club suit by setting it up before the diamond K was knocked out as a re-entry. So South called the club A from dummy and then led the 9, prepared to overtake if it was not covered. East came in with the K, however, and three spade tricks followed quickly, giving the defenders their "book."

There sat West with the lead, and the heart A which he could lay down for the setting trick. But did he lead it? He did not. He reckoned that South would need one or more heart tricks for his game, also probably would lose a diamond trick to East with the K or J if he led the suit. So he fired back the diamond 7, whereupon four more tricks in clubs and three in diamonds gave South his contract.

For the sake of setting the contract an additional one or two tricks, worth 50 or 100 points, West not only gave up the 50 to be had by a one-trick set, but a game worth 400 points. In other words, he was betting about 450 to 50 or 100, very bad gambling.

Your Week-End Lesson

If you fail to support your partner's major suit bid on your first chance to do so, and then bid it on your next turn after he has not rebid it, but has called another suit or No Trumps, how many cards of his suit should he consider you are showing him?

New Minister Inducted At Roseneath

ROSENEATH, March 14 (ENS). —Induction services for Rev. T. H. Unstead were held in Roseneath Unted Church on Wednesday night. Mr. Unstead is the new pastor on the Roseneath charge, and somes here from Adolphustown, Belleville Presbytery.

Rev. M. E. Fisher of Gore's Landing was in charge of the induction.

Rev. T. M. Wesley of Camborne addressed Mr Unstead and welcomed him to Cobourg Presbytery.

Dr. D. M. Smith of Baltimore addressed the congregation and spoke from Ephesians 2, 10: "For we are His workmanship, created in Christ Jesus unto good works which God hath before ordained that we should walk in them." Outlining the duties of a church member, Dr. Smith named and enlarged on the following points: One, attend well to your spiritual life; two form a high standard of Christian life and conduct; three, be a church member seven days of the week; four, practise private and personal devotion; five, be careful of your fellowship; six, regular and reverent religious attendance at church; seven, be a working Christian; eight, be a giving Christian; nine, be a peacemaker; ten, encourage your minister, keep on praying, and hold fast.

At the conclusion of the service, Mr. Unstead installed in his pulpit, thanked ministers and laity for the warm welcome.

After the benediction the congregation met Mr. and Mrs. Unstead in a social half-hour.

W.M.S. Meets.

At the meeting of the W.M.S. on Wednesday afternoon delegates were appointed to the Presbyterial meeting at Campbellford on March 24. A committee appointed to arrange details for the home cooking sale on March 28, and arrangements made regarding articles for Supply Department.

The meeting was held in Mrs. A. Nills' home, and Mrs. D. Brisbin, first vice-president, was in the chair. The committee named to arrange for the cooking sale includes Mrs. R. Crego, Mrs. D. Brisbin, and Mrs. C. W. Varcoe. Mrs. M. Davey, Mrs. Andrew Brown, and Mrs. Varcoe volunteered to make and place advertising posters.

Mrs. G. Mouncey, supply secretary announced the articles requested for supply, and was instructed to purchase and forward articles. Mrs. A. Halstead introduced a study on China by reading an appreciation of Madame Chiang Kai-Shek by Peter Bryce wherein he named her the woman of the age.

Marmora Girl 6 Killed On Road

MARMORA, March 14 — (ENS). —A distressing accident with fatal results occurred on No. 7 Highway, near St. Andrew's United Church, Marmora, about 4:15 p.m. on Friday. Little Jean Rennie, six-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. A. H. Rennie, was returning home from school, and after chatting with some schoolmates on the sidewalks near the church, dashed across the road and was struck by a car travelling west, driven by Clarence McCoy of Marmora Township.

She was picked up practically unconscious by a young lad, William Pack, and carried into the nearby residence of R. G. Winters, where she passed away. Dr. H. Crawford was called and Constable William Lavender soon arrived.

Traffic Officer J. H. Hatch of Belleville, with the local constable, investigated. Dr. F. J. Nickle of Madoc, coroner, was notified, and decided an inquest was necessary.

The following were appointed as jury: William R. Linn, Charles Cronkright, William Shannon, Michael O'Connor, and Edward Dunlay. A preliminary hearing was held in F. N. Marrett & Company's undertaking parlors and adjourned until 3 p.m. on Monday, March 23, the inquest to be then held in the Council Chambers.

Jeannie, as she was the oftener called was a winsome little girl, and her death caused a profound shock in the community. She atended the kindergarten of Marmora Public School, and was also a junior scholar of St. Paul's Sunday School.

Besides her parents, she is survived by one sister Shirley. The sympathy of the whole district is extended her parents in their bereavement.

Perkins Fights Move To Cut Overtime Pay

WASHINGTON, March 14 (AP)—Efforts to limit overtime pay in United States war industries were passed in Senate circles today despite opposition from Labor Secretary Frances Perkins.

Senator Lee (Dem., Oklahoma) asked Chairman Donald Nelson of the War Production Board to recommend legislation on overtime and ways of putting more shifts on the job, while Senator Reed (Rep., Kans.) urged early action on a measure to increase the work week from 40 to 48 hours before extra pay is allowed. The law now provides for time-and-a-half for work over 40 hours.

Lee wrote Nelson after quoting him as saying that time-and-a-half and double time and reluctance by manufacturers to increase the number of shifts were two problems involved in increasing production.

Secretary Perkins, heard in closed session by the Senate Labor committee yesterday, was requested to furnish the committee, in writing, her views on the Reed Bill and the general strike situation.

Three Perkins Reasons

Senators said she gave three reasons for opposing any change in the wage-hour law:—

1. That the existing law does not prevent anyone from working longer than 40 hours.

2. That any change would not affect organized industries with union contracts calling for overtime, but would affect only unorganized workers who already are working longer hours without bonuses.

3. That overtime pay now amounts to only three per cent of war production payrolls and production might be lowered and morale broken by making workers toil longer hours for the same pay.

She said, one member reported, that with between 7,000,000 and 8,000,000 employed on war jobs in January, 1941, less than 7,000 man-days were lost, compared with 147,000 man-days lost with only 1,600,000 employed on war production in January, 1940.

Mrs. Johnston Hostess Millbrook W.M.S

MILLBROOK, March 14 (ENS). —Mrs. H. W. Johnston was hostess for the March meeting of the W. M.S. of St. Andrew's Church, held at her home on Wednesday, the theme for study being "The Lord's Supper—a Covenant of our Faith." and the talk being on the meaning of the Communion, and preparation of heart and life for the Easter Sacrament.

The president, Mrs. A. L. Sisco, was in the chair for the business period, which included the report of $6.65 in fees and donations for the February meeting; the distribution of the Easter thankoffering envelopes; the decision to have the new Presbyterial president, Mrs. Harris of Peterborough for speaker in April or May when this offering is received; and the giving out of circulars received from the Government asking each member to consider herself responsible for the price ceiling as it applies to the consumer. Copies of the radio address of Ronald Gordon, chairman of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board, were also provided.

Mrs. Johnston took up the chapter from the study book, and also displayed a handsome quilt top, in the Dresden plate pattern, donted by Miss S. Thornton, which will be for sale when the quilt is completed. Mrs. F. J. Smith gave the Christian Stewardship message, "Our Auxiliary Needs To-day."

Young People's Union.

Mrs. Henry W. Gray was guest speaker at the meeting of the Young People's Union this week. Her thought-provoking address was on: "How the Church Began," with the declaration of Peter, "Thou art the Christ, the Son of God," as the corner-stone of the structure.

Jean Burnham was in charge of the gathering. Her introductory talk was connected with the foundation of the Christian church. Attendance was lessened owing to the roads and weather, but interest is weekly increasing in the young people's work, and fine training for future usefulness in the Kingdom is constantly being given, as the members are held responsible, in turn, for program and worship period.

Quartet Of Saskatchewan Fliers Arrive In Britain

This quartet from Saskatchewan were recent arrivals at a Royal Canadian Air Force bomber squadron "somewhere-in-Britain." LEFT to RIGHT they are Sergeant J. T. F. Craig, Abbey; Sergeant R. W. Dreyer, Yorkton; Sergeant W. J. Marshall, Harris; and Sergeant R. J. Fern, Christopher Lake.

Badges Presented To Trail Rangers

HAVELOCK, March 13—(ENS). —The Trail Ranger group held its regular meeting on Wednesday evening, with the usual Ranger opening ceremony.

The handicraft artists' and electricians' badges were presented to Allan Goheen and Clarence Price.

Roll call answered by 12 members. A general fund was started with which to buy necessary supplies. Tying of various knots, necessary to earn the Pioneer degree, was demonstrated by James Watson. Douglas Grayling qualified for his handicraft badge and Bob Jack for his Safety-First badge.

Girls' Class Meets.

The regular meeting of Knox Presbyterian Girls' Class was held on Monday evening with a fair attendance. In the absence of the president, the vice-president Miss Violet Scott, presided. The roll call was answered by a verse beginning with the letter 'K.' During the business period, it was decided, owing to the sugar rationing, that only sandwiches and tea be served at the meeting for the duration.

Dainty refreshments were served by Mrs. Grenville Rutherford and Miss Beryl Rice.

MORE ABOUT—

Westerner Raps

Kinnon, should both be Westerners. (Mr. Gardiner represents the Saskatchewan constituency of Melville, and Mr. MacKinnon is member for Edmonton West).

He said one Western member had said it was the "squeaky wheel that got the grease." His own opinion was that if the wheel kept on squeaking it was time to take the grease away from it. He chided Western members with failure to express any appreciation for what the Government was doing for Western farmers.

Plenty Of Ontario Debt

Agriculture in Ontario was not prosperous and last census showed $200,000,000 of debt on Ontario farms. Western Ontario had an agricultural problem due to the loss of the bean market to the British Empire. If the bean producers were getting the same treatment as wheat producers they would be pretty well satisfied.

"How then can I go back, as representative of a riding like that, and ask the bean producers to be taxed to pay a bonus or subsidy to western wheat, when they cannot sell their own product?" he said.

Mr. Mackenzie said he felt the House was "spending far too much time fighting about our wheat problem and the economics of our country, at a time when the Empire is confronted with the greatest crisis in its history."

J. A. Marshall (N.D. Camrose) said agricultural policies were framed "by the real rulers of this country, the bureaucrats," and blamed these "bureaucrats" for the fact the government's wheat program did not come up to the expectations of western farmers.

Mr. Leader, when he began to speak about Mr. Crerar, said he was sorry the resources minister was not in his seat, and Trade Minister MacKinnon said he was ill.

Mr. Leader said his remarks might be "painful," but he was actuatd by desire to serve his people "and when I look over the years during which the minister has sat in this House and review the attitude he has taken on the grain question, I believe that what I have to say today should have been said before."

When the Grain Act was being revised 1925, Mr. Crerar was "certainly behind the practice of mixing our wheat."

"Again, he was mainly responsible for the taking away of the right of the farmer to choose and name his terminal. I do not want to go at length into that, but he was the one man who took that right away from the farmer.

"They decared at that time, when we got down to it, that technically it was not a right, but it was the system which we worked under, it as an actual right we enjoyed, whether we had the legal right or not.

"He made it absolutely sure that we could not designate our own terminal elevator unless we released country elevator fro mthe loss which might be sustained if they shipped the carload of wheat to any other terminal.

"He had his eye at that very time on the pool elevators, especially the one at the head of the lakes.

"In recent legislation he has invariably spoken in defence of the grain trade."

Mr. Crerar had opposed advances for wheat on farms, Mr. Leader said, and was responsible for the decision reached at a Winnipeg meeting to stop paying farmers storage on wheat held on farms.

Still Thinks He Is Right.

Agriculture Minister Gardiner at this point said he himself was largely responsible for that decision and still thought he was right.

Mr. Tucker said that if payments to assist the western farmer were made on an acreage basis it would be certain everyone would get something, and the person with a poor crop or no crop would receive as much as the man with a good crops.

"I believe that if the money which this Parliament is ready to vote for the assistance of Western Canada were placed on an acreage basis, rather than used in an attempt to run up the price without regard to helping the man with no crop or a low crop, there would be far more support for that proposal in this House than there is for a high price for wheat," he said.

Mr. Tucker said he favored continuation of the Prairie farm assistsistance Act for the protection of farmers who have low yields.

Mr. Diefenbaker said the Western farmer did not seek "charity" but "parity," and equality with the or the Canadian industries producing the needs of war. Increasing the wheat price to 90 cents was a step in the right direction, but the legislation before the House made no provision for continuation of Prairie farm income payments and reduced the payments under the Prairie Farm Assistance Act which had "meant much to Western Canada.'

There had been a change in the Government's attitude since last fall when Agriculture Minister Gardiner took the stand that the Government had decided it would not raise the initial payment of 70 cents a bushel.

"We are going to have an election in Saskatchewan," said Mr. Diefenbaker. "And there has been considerable change in the attitude of the Government during the last few weeks."

Marmora W.I. Given Address On Child Health

MARMORA, March 14—(ENS).—The regular monthly meeting of the Marmora Women's Institute was held on Wednesday evening at the home of the president, Mrs. F. Grant, and although the attendance was smaller than usual through weather conditions and counter attractions, fifteen members and six visitors enjoyed a profitable evening. After opening exercises, the roll call, "First Aid in the Home," met with a good response. It was decided to purchase material for the making of a layette and other clothing for those in bomber-out areas in Britain. Mrs. James Gordenier, as district director, gave a report of the executive meeting held in Madoc on March 9.

It was mentioned that the election of officers for the coming year would be held at the April meeting, a month earlie rthan in previous years The district meeting will be held in Ivanhoe on May 19. A demonstration of canned peaches canned with a pill known as Fruit Kepe was then given by Mrs. D. Sanderson. A trio, comprising Lois Grant, Jean Wannamaker and Wilda Hannah sang "You Can Fight for Canada," and a duet, "We're Proud of Canada" was rendered by Mesdames F. R Wells and L. R. Rundle. An address was given by Dr. H. Crawford on "Health and Child Welfare." The program concluded with two pianoforte selections by Miss Steer of the High School staff. After the singing of the National Anthem, refreshments were served by the committee in charge. The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Frank Sweet.

Victory Concert

Circle No. 1 of St. Andrew's Women's Association held a Victory party in the church Hall on Tuesday evening The decorations were carried out in red, white and blue colors and patriotic designs. George Woodhouse led in community singing, after which a number of contests and stunts were enjoyed. A Victory apron was on exhibition and several orders were taken. Lunch was served.

10,500 Blocks Of Ice Harvested At Hastings

HASTINGS, March 14 — (ENS). With the season practically over, 10,500 blocks of 18-inch ice have been cut in Noonan's lake during the past month.

Earl Clark, who was in charge of the ice cutting, told the Examiner the season was average, actually 150 blocks below last year's average.

"It was the best ice I have ever seen or cut,' said Mr. Clarke. The ice is stored in district ice houses and is used mainly to supply the large tourist colony during the summer.

Y.P.S. Meets.

Feature of the Trinity United church Y.P.S. meeting held Monday night was a talk on trade unions delivered by the secretary, Muriel Oliver.

Miss Oliver traced the growth of trade unions from ancient times to these powerful labor organizations as are known to-day. She also pointed out the relationship of trade unions with regard to the church.

A short discussion of the Scripture lesson was read by Helen Fleming.

Other items on the program were Scripture readings, hymns, and prayer led by Rev. J. E. Glover. The meeting closed with the pronouncing of the Benediction by Rev. Glover.

To Those Convalescing After Severe Illness

● Right here in Ontario, thousands of young patriots from every continent are in training to win Victory for the democracies—from the Air!

Amazing! Some of our training camps are like good sized towns. They make new demands upon Hydro. They need electricity for lighting, maintenance, airfields, pumps, mechanisms, radio, in workshops, rooms, kitchens. Never before has so great a Cause called upon electrical energy to do so much.

Today, your Hydro is supplying six times as much power as at the close of the last war and a large and growing part of this is necessary for war time production. Ontario's great aircraft industries are powered by Hydro, also factories and foundries making all manner of military equipment. This war is not only mechanized but electrified!

You are, of course, proud that your Hydro System is playing so great a part in the victory program. Of course, you will economize in your use of electric energy for all peace-time pursuits—and forego for a while further extensions of electric service. With all of us, war needs must come first!

Electrical Thrift Hints

Always use the heating element best suited to the work in hand. That saves current, prevents boil-overs. Use automatic controls as directed. Don't leave elements on 'high' a moment longer than necessary. Have your dealer or local 'Hydro' put your appliances in good order.

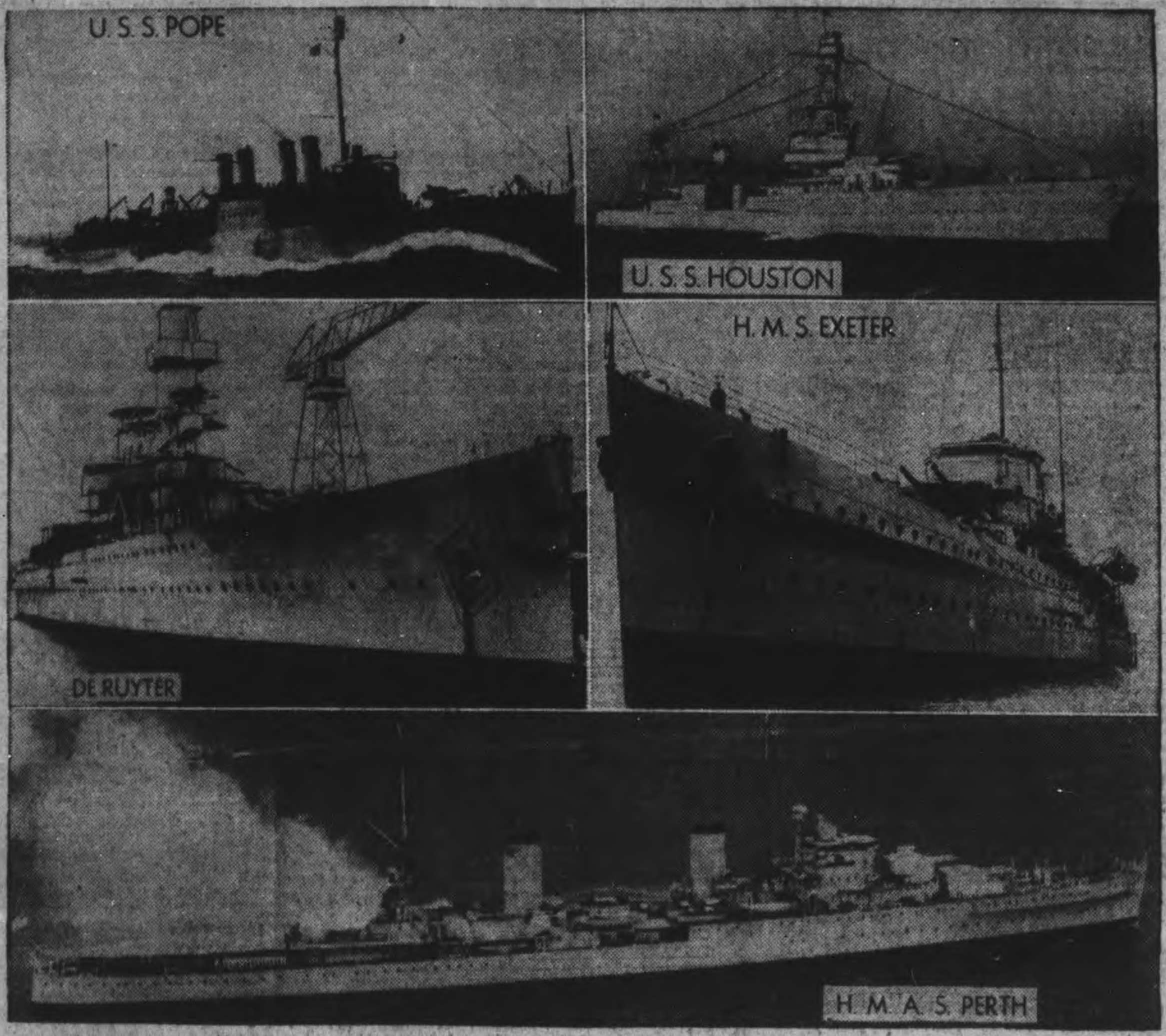
14 BOMBERS HIT DARWIN



These Ships Lost By United Nations In Java Sea Battle

These ships and eight others were lost by the United Nations' forces in the sea battle with the Japanese off the coast of Java. Japan's loss was put at eight ships. The U.S.S. Houston carried President Roosevelt on his trip to Hawaii in 1934. H.M.S. Exeter gained fame for the part she played in the victorious British cruiser fight with the German pocket battleship Graf Spee off the coast of South America in 1939. H.M.A.S. Perth was an Australian cruiser and the U.S.R. Pope an American destroyer. The Dutch ship, De Ruyter, was a cruiser. The Allies also lost another cruiser, five other destroyers and a sloop.

Parachutists Behind Smolensk Capture Fortified Positions Nazis Fail To Stop Advance

STOCKHOLM, March 16.—(AP)—The Moscow correspondent of the newspaper Dagens Nyheter said today Russian parachutists have captured fortified positions behind the German lines on the Smolensk front and additional Soviet forces have taken two towns in the Vyazma sector.

The captured places were reported as Kogdanova, 35 miles North of the Smolensk-Vyazzma road, and Serebusje, midway betwen Dorogobuzh and Vyazma.

German attempts to clean out the parachute troops from behind their postions failed, the Swedish correspondent said

The Russians were also said to have pierced storng German fortifications on the Smolenk highway.

MOSCOW, March 16. —(AP) — Russian soldiers applying great pressure on the Germans in the Ukraine and the Donets Basin were reported to-day to be standing upon the approaches to the important city of Kharkov, whose "hour of liberation" was declared near Soviet dispatches also said the Red Army had smashed through German positions on the Kharkov-Kursk-Orel line south of Moscow while drawing ever tighter the ring of fire and steel around the German 15th Army trapped at Staraya Russa, south of Leningrad.

On various sectors of the Leningrad front, the Soviet Information Bureau said in its mid-way communique to-day, more than 1,800 Germans were killed in two days of fighting.

Hundreds of Germans were said to have been killed and many others captured in flaming battles in the Ukraine and the Donets Basin.

Front-line dispatches indicating that the recapture of Kharkov, important industrial centre, might be imminent also charged that the city, held by the Germans since last October 24, had been turned into a "nightmare of atrocities."

14,000 Russians Murdered

It was charged that about 14,000 Russians have been killed under the German occupation; that about 1,200 are imprisoned in the cellar of the Internationale Hotel; that another 25,000 Russians have been driven toward the German rear; and that 5,000 skilled workers have been taken from the city for German home industry.

Announcing October 30 that Kharkov had fallen, the Russians declared 120,000 German officers and men were killed or wounded by the Red Army while most of the important factories and huge stocks of raw materials were moved to the East.

Kharkov is 260 miles east of Kiev, 200 miles north of the Sea of Azov and little more than 400 miles south of Moscow.

Russian tanks were thrown into the battle in the Southwest, while the army of Marshal Semeon Timoshenko pushed on toward the Sea of Azov and the German base at Dnieperopetrovsk.

The Germans caught in the Soviet grip at Staraya Russa were said to be suffering tremendous losses but were holding on fiercely.

British Lines Stiffen In Burma

Troops Strike Across Sittang River To Grab 2 Villages

CANBERRA, Australia, March 16 (CP)—Fourteen Japanese bombers smashed at Darwin today, subjecting that north coast port to its fourth air attack since war swept to the Southwest Pacific.

Early reports of the raid said that some damage resulted and that there were casualties, but details were lacking.

Darwin, a potential naval base for the Allied Nations, was raided by more than 100 Japanese bombing and fighting planes for the first time Feb. 19. Many casualties and some military damage resulted and a civilian evacuation was ordered.

The Japanese carried out lesser raids the following day and on March 4.

Australian and American airmen struck return blows today at Japanese invasion bases, including Dili in Portuguese Timor, a possible springboard for the attacks on Darwin.

Burma Front Stiffens.

MANDALAY, Burma, March 15 —(Delayed)—(CP).— British and Indian forces, stiffening their resistance after a long retreat, were unofficially reported to-day to have recrossed to the east bank of the Sittang River and captured Shwegyin, 80 miles north of Rangoon.

(A later communique from New Delhi said two additional villages were captured, but explained that the attack was intended only as a diversion and that the attacking forces had since returned to their original positions "according to plan.")

The British and Indian troops were forced to draw back over the Sittang River a few days ago in a retreat which opened the way to the Japanese occupation of Rangoon, the capital and chief port.

Shwegyin was recaptured in a fierce house-to-house fight in which Indian troops used bayonets and kris (short curved sword) after meeting a force of about 500 Japanese, supported by traitorous Burmese, outside the town and forcing them back.

Crossing the river on rafts north of the town, the British and Indian troops attempted a surprise attack.

War Debris Swept From Singapore's Streets Rail Traffic Open to Bangkok — Says Tokyo

TOKYO (From Japanese Broadcasts), March 16—(AP).—The debris of war has been swept from the streets of Singapore, a Domei report said today, and overland traffic to Bangkok, capital of Thailand, has been restored.

Starting April 4, the report said, through trains will start running, making the trip in four days.

Theatres and other places of amusement still are closed, it added.

Japanese occupation forces were said now to have disarmed and interned 93,000 prisoners of war taken in the Malayan campaign and the battle of Singapore.

Speech Reveals Hitler Sees Handwriting

WASHINGTON, March 16 (AP)—The new importance of Hitler's speeches, Sumner Welles told a press conference today, lies in the fact that "there is implied in every word and phrase Hitler's own recognition of his impending downfall."

The Acting United States Secretary of State added it was only natural that Hitler in his latest speech should have referred to the kind of world in which President Roosevelt and the American people wish to live as a "new, detestable, alien world."

The kind of a world for which the American people and their government stand, Welles said, is a world of International decency, a world in which men and women have freedom of worship, freedom of thought and speech, and freedom from fear.

Welles added:

"The technique of the 'monstrous lie' which Hitler has made his own, unfortunately deluded many peoples during the earlier years of Hitlerism. Today, however, throughout the world Hitler's declarations and promises are recognized everywhere as being but a tissue of lies offered solely for purposes of deceit.

"There is increasing evidence at hand that the German people themselves, like the people of Italy, fully recognize this fact."

The magnificent resistance of the Russian armies and the defeats which they have inflicted upon the forces of Hitlerism have in great part been responsible for Hitler's position, Welles said.

Red Recognition

London, March 16 (CP Cable)

THE Daily Sketch said today in its column "inside information" that Premier Joseph Stalin of Russia is preparing to recognize the Free French national committee in London as the true government of France.

This development, the Sketch said, is expected to follow the current visit to Moscow of a mission representing Gen. Charles de Gaulle. It predicted an exchange of diplomatic representatives would be made.

The newspaper added the main reason for such a move was that the Vichy regime of Marshal Petain had given its "official blessing to a French Legion now preparing to take part in the German spring offensive against Russia.

Australia Ready To 'Scorch Earth'

WASHINGTON, March 16.—(CP).—The United Nations must attack, "meet and hit the enemy wherever he is to be found," Richard G. Casey, Australian Minister to the United States, declared in a broadcast to-day.

"For the word 'defence' we substitute the word 'offence.' We will attack the enemy before he lands on the soil of the mainland of Australia and we wil continue to attack him if by evil chance he succeeds in landing," the Australian Minister said during his speech delivered for the opening of the Salvation Army Maintenance Fund campaign in Philadelphia.

Mr. Casey said Australia believes that only by offensive action can Australia, last bastion of the United Nations in the Pacific, be held.

He went on:

"Australians, who have never before known war on their own soil, who have spent a century and a half in building a nation out of an empty continent, will destroy all that it may be necessary to destroy in order to preserve the rest of whta we have built. If it should be necessary—and we pray that it may not be — we will destroy our homes, our crops, our herds, lay waste our towns, cripple the railways that are the arteries of our vast country, so that nothing may remain that might be of value to the enemy.

Roads, Repairing To Be Curtailed

OTTAWA, March 16. —(CP) — Both road construction and repair and upkeep of all private and public roads in Canada, except those made of concrete, will have to undergo "drastic curtailment" this summer, the Munitions and Supply Department said to-day.

"New construction will be possible only for roads regarded as essential defence arteries, and for links between existing roads and new military camps or war plants," the announcement said.

"One defence artery considered necessary will be the highway to Alaska."

The Department said "Canada's home front slogan, "make the old one do," will extend this summer even to the repair and upkeep" of all roads but those made of concrete.

Spring Looms Bloodiest In All History

By The Associated Press

Violent offensives dwarfing anything the world has ever known—millions of men locked in battle along thousands of miles of battleground—are foreseen with the arrival of Spring.

That is the major point of agreement reached independently by the correspondents and war experts of The Associated Press in many key points who foresee a desperate, all-out drive by Hitler to knock Russia out of the war.

But there is another view—that the time has arrived when the United Nations will take the offensive, with Russia refusing to let Germany regain the initiative on the Nazi-Soviet front, and the United States turning from defence to attack, upon Japan especially.

Some believe the Nazis may strike through the Middle East: A possibility is held out that Japan may try to push through India in an effort to join forces with the Germans in the Middle East. And there is some speculation, too, that an Allied invasion of Europe, perhaps through Norway, may be attempted to force Germany to fight on a second front.

JOHN EVANS, Chief of The Associated Press Foreign Service, New York:—

"Joseph Stalin agrees with Adolf Hitler that there will be a massive drive on the Russian battlefield. Stalin, however, says the drive will be by the Soviet armies with the Germans defending themselves instead of starting again toward the Caucasus and the dream of floods of oil.

"The United States....without saying when or where or how, has talked offensive action as the next step and as necessarily inevitable. Reinforcements have been moving to Australia.

"One thing is certain and that is that the present disposition of the United States and of Australia is to use whatever forces there are for attack upon the Japanese rather than defence.

"The ultimate goal is to bomb Japan heavily and steadily."

DREW MIDDLETON, London—

"Hell-bent for victory in 1942, Germany and Japan will direct a giant Spring offensive aimed at girdling the great European and Asiatic land masses by the Axis armies.

Airliner Shot Up Lady, Babe Die

PERTH, Australia, March 16 — (CP). — A veteran Netherlands pilot told a harrowing account yesterday of bringing his flaming Douglas airliner safely down on an Australian beach after he had been wounded in both arms and a leg, only to see his Japanese attackers ground-strafe and fatally wound a woman passenger, her baby and a mechanic.

Commander W. Smirnoff, oldest pilot in the service of the Royal Dutch Airlines, said the Japanese fighters set upon his unarmed plane on March 3 north of Broome, port on Australia's north-west coast which was attacked the same day.

Although the first spray of bullets pierced his arms and leg and set the plane afire, Smirnoff said that somehow he managed a safe landing. There were 12 persons aboard the plane.

"The Japanese fiends came again and again," he said. "Then after six or seven attacks they went away and left us to die.

Squaring The Balance

Berne, March 16 (AP)

UNDER a new trade agreement made public today Italy will "considerably increase" the 200,000 workers she sent to Germany last year.

A Berlin report to the Neue Zuercher Zeitung today said that present German deliveries to Italy exceeded Italian imports by 10 to 15 per cent due to Italian shortages of raw materials, and that Italy had agreed to square the balance with the laborers.

Find 2 Girls 10 Asleep In Ditch

WINDSOR, Ont., March 16—(CP)—Sleeping soundly in a ditch on Howard Avenue, two 10-year-old girls, Donna and Alice, were found early today and returned to anxious parents to whom they related their intentions to run away.

Snuggled up close to each other in the ditch under blankets they had brought along, they were awakened by Charles Cheshire, who took them into his home and then to police headquarters.

Donna and Alice had all the equipment that was needed—except a can opener to open two tins of canned corn on which they apparently intended to live until they reached the end of their journey.

Police smilingly listed the following commissary equipment of the two ' ave little runaways:

Donna: Granite plate, fork, knife and spoon, candle and matches, one tin of corn, blankets and tidy little sum of 15 cents

Alice: Scissors, no can opener, no funds, but lots of pluck, a warm blanket, and likewise a tin of corn and a plate, knife, fork and spoon.

Police hinted that the girls might have been on their way to visit Alice's grandmother in Wallaceburg.

Battle Of Java Worst Sea Loss

By LOUIS V. HUNTER, Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, March 16—(CP Cable)—The Allied naval defeat in the East Indies was "bound to come," The Manchester Guardian said today in an editorial analysis of the Battle of the Java Sea, which The Glasgow Herald called "the most serious naval defeat in which British ships have been involve since Coronel at the beginning of the last war."

"Sooner or later—we can see now as we realize how weak was the air cover of Java and how great were the Japanese advantages in position—our defeat at sea in this quarter was bound to come," The Guardian said.

"Our very victories had given the enemy knowledge of our strength; they had only to draw more deeply on their much larger naval reserves in this area to overwhelm us in the end. No matter how many ships we had sent....the Japanese would have defeated us here, for they had a battle fleet as a last resort and no one can suppose at this stage of the war that the Allies could have have one too in the Java Sea.

"In the last days they held Southern Sumatra and Bali, places that gave them exact knowledge of any naval forces sent to the defence of the island. They had then only to arrange to outnumber what we sent...."

Couldn't Take Cream

Toronto, March 16 (CP)

A RATIONING reaction that prevents Canadians just returned from Britain from enjoying cream on their cereal or a rich, full-course meal was reported last night by Harold Fair, former Canadian Press parliamentary correspondent in London, in a broadcast over the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation's national network.

Fair, noted among Canadian newspapermen as a 200-pound gourmet, has just returned to Canada after two and a half years in Britain.

Admitting that one of the first things he did in Toronto was buy a half dozen bananas, Fair said two years of rationing had so conditioned his appetite that he was at his home in Arthur, Ont., several days before he could enjoy a good, full-course Canadian meal. The richness of cream on cereal was still too much for him.

Series Opens Mar. 22

NEW YORK, March 16 —(CP)— The New York management today announced that the four-of-seven series "A" Stanley Cup playoff will open at Madison Square Garden Sunday, March 22 between Rangers, first place finishers, and the second-place Toronto Maple Leafs.

The second game will be played here March 24 and the third and fourth at Toronto March 26 and 28.

Mayors Protest Cut In Relief

TORONTO, March 16 — (CP) — Representatives of 20 Ontario municipalities meeting here today decided to approach the Ontario government late this afternoon to protest the government's recent announced intention of cutting relief-allowances to municipalities from 75 per cent to 50 per cent.

A three-man committee, with Mayor Fred J. Conboy of Toronto as chairman and with Mayor C. W. MacOdrum of Brockville and Mayor Garfield Case of Owen Sound as members, was appointed to draw up a submission for presentation at the conference with Ontario government officials.

It also was suggested that if the government refuses to withdraw its intention of reducing its allowances to municipalities April 1 that the committee include in its submission a request that the government postpone any relief grant changes for nine months or a year because municipalities already had struck their 1942 tax rates and budgets had been approved for the year.

No Reincarnation Miracles

Chinese Fail On Idea Wreck Left Them Canadian

By FRANK LOWE, Canadian Press Staff Writer.

AN EAST COAST CANADIAN PORT, March 16 — (CP) — Hard-headed realists, immigration officials here have just ruled that no foreigner can become a citizen of Canada through the miracle of reincarnation.

Reason for this legislation for the occult are 54 Chinese seamen, rescued from their ship when it was torpedoed two months ago off this coast, who now wish to remain in the Dominion.
